Orientation begins...

...for Notre Dame freshmen

by Joseph Abell

An extensive testing program, counseling service and social events highlight the 1973-74 Freshman Orientation program, according to Dr. Emil T. Hofman, Dean of Freshman Studies.

Tests ranging from credit to freshman orientation programs were given to students who had already taken the tests in July, and the results of the rest of the students taking the tests in July are already in. Students, Hofman said, are encouraged to take the tests by bringing the freshmen together and giving them an opportunity to meet friends and meet professors attending the orientation program.

During the first part of the orientation program, freshmen will be advised by other students—undergrads who have gone through a similar experience. They will be guided by a counselor or an upperclass counselor from each academic department. A complete schedule of orientation events was also made available at any time in areas such as the senior center, on campus Saturday for a four-day orientation program.

Stepan Center and will include: a special breakfast and lunch and a special lunch at the Senior Center in September. The events will be free for the asking, he said, and will be available the week of the orientation event.

Tickets for the South Bend tours should be picked up before Sept. 11. All tickets will be available in the Freshman Year of Studies office in Brownson Hall.

Finally, Hofman said his office has planned an open house for freshman parents Nov. 3. Set for the morning of the Notre Dame-Navy football game, the event will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. in Stadium Center and will include a breakfast and meetings with professors.

Special notices of the event including details will be sent to all freshman parents in October. Looking ahead to the second semester, Hofman said nothing definite has been planned, but he was many ideas in the works.

Early Results

The advantage to this planning is to get test results in as early as possible. The results of students taking the tests in July are already in. Hofman added, and the results of the rest will be ready by Sept. 3, hardly three days after the tests are given. The reason for this need of results quickly is so that these results can be used to help counselors guide freshmen, who are given at special centers in 11 cities in July in addition to the campus itself.

"Freshmen were given three options," Hofman said. "House for freshmen parents Nov. 3. Set for the morning of the Notre Dame-Navy football game, the event will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. in Stadium Center and will include a breakfast and meetings with professors.

Special notices of the event including details will be sent to all freshman parents in October. Looking ahead to the second semester, Hofman said nothing definite has been planned, but he was many ideas in the works.

Chicago Trip?

He said he would like to take a number of freshmen on tours of Chicago, similar to a program he ran last year. These tours would include tours of the various Chicago museums and downtown areas.

Hofman also said he hoped to set up a winter carnival on the South Bend near the beginning of the second semester. Special lecturers and lecture series are also on his list of activities.

Dunes Trip

A third major event set for freshmen will be two dunes picnic trips in October. Scheduled for Oct. 18 and 21, students will board buses at 11 a.m. each Sunday and return at 6 p.m. Activities will include: swimming, games and cookout lunches and dinners.

Tickets will be necessary to the cookouts, the tours and the dunes trips. Hofman said, merely to facilitate parking and supplies. All tickets will be free for the asking, he said, and will be available the week of the cookout or dunes trip. Tickets for the South Bend tours should be picked up before Sept. 11. Four hundred thirty-five freshmen and a record 92 transfer students arrive on Saint Mary's campus Saturday for a four day orientation program. Total fall enrollment is 1,504.

A welcoming address by College President Edward Henry will open the program at 8:30 Saturday evening in O'Laughlin Auditorium, followed by a reception for students and their families. Sunday includes a special Mass, academic seminars, open house, a picnic, "Backstage" presented by the ND-SMC Theatre and informal activities with Notre Dame. A complete schedule of orientation events is listed below.

Orientation committee head Kathy Weber and Melissa Bryan have arranged a wide variety of activities to help transfers and freshmen get acquainted with the campus. Some significant differences of this year's orientation, however, is that the students will have more free time and the option to attend several social activities rather than just a few.

"We're leaving the girls more on their own this year," reported Patty Lurel, social chairman of orientation. "We're not showing them over to Notre Dame as we did in the past." Lurel said that this year's schedule will be basically the same as last year's with the addition of the concert at Saint Mary's Lake and a carnival stated for Wednesday, which will feature games, booths, refreshments, and a band.

Lurel emphasized that expanded co-education at Notre Dame would not effect mixed social activities between ND and SMC and added that "in a few weeks" same event would be arranged to bring the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's women together.

"We wanted to schedule something in the beginning, but there just wasn't enough time," said Lurel.

Orientation will not be extended into the first semester, as last year's was, according to Mrs. Rosemary Doherty, head of the Freshman Office. Last year's expanded program of films and seminars was largely unsucessful.

"But we will try to keep in close touch with freshmen to see if they want us to plan some activities for them," said Lurel.

Freshman enrollment is up 100 students from last year, according to Joan Organ, a spokesman for the admissions office. She attributed the increase to the addition of the business administration, special education, and nursing programs.

The class draws from seven foreign countries, and an unofficial estimate of 5 Black students was reported.

Illinois has contributed the highest number of students (109), followed by Indiana (52).
Pool, golf, saunas at SMC

The lack of recreational facilities at Saint Mary's has been filled this summer with the installation of a pool, driving range and putting green, refurbished tennis courts and a new fully-equipped exercise room in the student center.

The 11-foot deep pool, built by the Holy Cross sisters, is located in the Regina South courtyard which will eventually be enclosed by a roof. Temporary dressing rooms are available, but permanent facilities are planned.

Pool hours will be Monday-Friday from 1 to 4 and 5 to 7 p.m. for St. Mary's women, faculty and staff, and Saturday and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. for all. A fee of 50 cents per guest or $1.00 per family will be charged. "A guest" is defined as any person not directly connected with SMC.

Pool parties may be reserved through the student center at a cost of $15 for the hours of 8 to 10 p.m. Monday-Friday and 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Each group must provide its own lifeguard, but the student center will furnish a list of available lifeguards.

The roof will be installed during a 10-day period in September. Contractors have assured the college that the work will be completed as quickly as possible. The golf range and putting green will not be ready until October, weather permitting, they will be available from Monday through Friday from 11 to 2 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m. Cost is 50 cents per bucket of balls.

Saunas in the Regina exercise room may be booked through the student center. They are open only to women.

Increased enrollment cramps 100 freshmen

by Butch Ward
Editorial Editor

As a result of Notre Dame's mystery increasing trend, nearly 100 freshmen have been placed this fall into reading line, forming a large overload problem. Because of the overload, plans are in the works to start a renovation on the oldFileDialog content

The renovation, drawn up by Eilkera Architects, is in its final stages as workers complete the final touches. The renovation completely alters the flow of traffic within the dining hall. All students are to enter the cafeteria from their front doors. Directly in front of them as they enter are the new doors which lead into the pay cafeteria, divided into the kitchen. A new, expanded and completely air-conditioned South Dining Hall, traditionally accepted twice the number of students who actually agreed to attend, 39 per cent of the applicants confirmed this year.

Although the admissions department accepted a number relatively equal to that of previous years, Goldrick said "the confirmation ratio increased significantly."

Numbers game

The summer has been a series of completely unexpected developments for the admissions people, according to Goldrick. The overall enrollment was 16 per cent higher this year. Following the unusually high number of confirmed acceptances, Goldrick looked to a traditional cancellation ratio of 7 per cent as a measure of reducing the class size.

Cancellations

Cancellations occur when an applicant is accepted and has confirmed his intention to attend, pays the enrollment fee and later reconsiders his decision. As of August 9, when the number of cancellations historically exceeded 100, only 45 confirmed applicants had decided against Notre Dame. But hopefully the overcrowded conditions for freshmen will only be temporary.

McEary, director of on-campus housing, said that an effort to "uncrowd" the freshmen will be made as space becomes available.

Their decision

But upperclassmen, who agreed last spring to overcrowd their rooms in an effort to prevent large numbers of students from being kicked off campus, will not be overcrowded.

McEary, who stressed that no freshmen were forced into upperclass rooms, said that the older students must become convinced that the decision to overcrowd was the right one, and that overcrowding for the fall will continue.

Goldrick was unable to project whether or not the current room in enrollment would continue next year. He cited the fact that coordination last year as a possible reason for the increase.

McEary said that it still must be decided whether the present increase should be used as a guide in determining policy for accepting applicants next year, or whether the same system should be again used. He said that this year's increase was unique.

Women were not affected by the overcrowding, as the quota was reached in August and transfer applications were immediately cut off. All of the overcrowding occurred in the men's dorms, and all forced rooms were determined with the cooperation of the individual hall rector.

Notre Dame graduates fare well

Starting salaries offered to members of the Notre Dame's class of '73 generally were above the national average, according to Richard D. Willemin, director of the University's Placement Bureau.

Notre Dame civil engineering graduates received salary offers four per cent higher than the national average reported in the College Placement Council's (CPC) 1973 salary survey. The civil engineering graduates were followed by graduates in accounting, mechanical engineering, and metallurgy, who received offers three per cent above the national average.

Salaries offered to this year's Notre Dame class were six per cent higher than last year. Nationally, salaries increased four per cent.

SMC offers three new programs

A business administration major and a joint special education program with Indiana University at South Bend have been added to Saint Mary's full curriculum. In addition, the nursing program will begin its first year.

The business major was added upon approval of the Board of Regents to answer the increased demand for such a program, and a random questionnaire distributed last fall indicated 90 per cent of students polled favored it. The department curriculum has been enlarged, and it has been reitled the Department of Business Administration.

Majors may earn a Bachelor of Business Administration or Bachelor of Arts in Business and Economics degree.

McGill's

The special education program, recently approved by the Indiana State Teacher Training and Licensing Commission, will give students state certification. It provides for an exchange of professors between the two institutions, and will be honored by NCATE, the national accrediting agency for teacher education programs.

The nursing program has filled its quota of 76 students, according to Dr. Mary Martucci, chairman of the department of nursing. The majority of them are from outside the South Bend area, she added.

The major is structured so that the first two years consist of liberal arts core requirements for a baccalaureate degree, with nursing training beginning in the third year. This enables a student who wishes to change her major after the first or second year to do so without being penalized academically. Graduates in the department will receive both the R.N. and B.S. degree in nursing.

Nursing training will be supplemented with volunteer work in the community.

The Saint Mary's department of nursing is the only Catholic baccalaureate nursing program in the state.

Administrative changes made at St. Mary’s

by Marla Gallagher
St. Mary’s Editor

In the wake of the summer administrative shuffle, three posts have changed hands, three new posts have been created, and two remain unfilled. In addition, five terms have expired on the Board of Regents, the status of two more is uncertain.

Replacing Don Rosenthal as registrar is Sr. Mary Francesca, C.S.C., who held that post at Dunbarton College in Washington until it closed last June.

She holds a bachelor’s degree from Dunbarton College, and a master’s from Catholic University. Information on her major fields was not immediately available. She also holds an Ed.D from Columbia University, and was assistant professor of education at Dunbarton.

Sister Anna Mae Golden, C.S.C., takes over as director of admissions, succeeding Sister Raphelita Whalen, C.S.C.

Sister Anna Mae joined Saint Mary’s in 1972 as assistant director of admissions. She holds a B.A. in mathematics from Dunbarton, and an M.A. in mathematics from the University of Notre Dame. She taught mathematics for eighteen years at Cardinal Cushing College in Boston, and served as its academic dean during the 1971-72 school year.

Sr. Ellen Dolores Lynch, C.S.C., will succeed Sr. Basil Anthony O’Flynn, C.S.C., as vice-president for development and public relations. She holds M.S. and Ph.D degrees in chemistry from the University of Notre Dame, and has published several articles in professional journals relating to her field. For the last twenty years she has taught at Dunbarton College where she also served as secretary for the planning committee and as a member of the advisory committee for the college. Prior to that, she taught at Saint Mary’s College, and did research for the Department of the Interior and the American Petroleum Institute. Currently she is a member of the Saint Mary’s Board of Regents and chairman of the student life committee.

Sister Basil Anthony will assume responsibilities as vice-president for campus affairs, newly created position.

Sister Basil Anthony has served Saint Mary’s in several administrative capacities. She was vice-president for fiscal affairs, and, prior to that, dean of students. She holds a master’s degree in theology from the College and a master’s degree in education from the University of Notre Dame.

Recently she was elected to the Board of Directors of the American Association of University Administrators (AAUA) for a three year term. She was also the general secretary of the Congregation of the Sisters of the Holy Cross for twelve years.

Other New Positions

Another new position, that of institutional researcher, will be filled by Sr. Jeanette Lester.

New faculty

Dacca, East Pakistan, and at Dunbarton College.

Two lecturers will join the speech and drama department. Warren Baxter, B.A. DePaul University, and M.A. University of New York (now Brooklyn College), was an instructor at Notre Dame. Cheryl Hughes, B.A. Miami University and M.A. Northwestern University was a research assistant at Northwestern University.

In addition to intradepartmental changes, Brother Bernard Donahoe will be acting chairman of the history department for the 1973-74 school year and Dr. Mary Martucci will head the new nursing department.

This post is distinguished from the archivist’s who provides over the college records, in that it will include data analysis and make projections from available data.

Former assistant to the president John J. Hof has been appointed director of development and recruitment for the Tucson program, which is being offered for the first time this semester. In his new position Hof will also direct Picture Rocks Retreat House, headquarters of the Saint Mary’s Tucson campus.

The assistant to the president post which he leaves vacant has not yet been filled, but Dr. Henry expressed the hope that it would be by late fall.

Hof came to Saint Mary’s from Tucson in July, 1972. He is a co-founder of the Thomas More Institute in Tucson, and still serves as executive director of the Institute, which is a secular educational organization that seeks to promote Christian humanism.

Acting Financial Chief

The other vacancy, director of business and financial affairs is temporarily being filled by Leslie Hitchcock, who takes interim charge of the office formerly headed by Jason Lindow, Jr.

Hitchcock serves full-time as chief accountant of a farm coop in Benton Harbor, Michigan. A permanent appointee will be selected by late fall.

The five expired terms on the Board of Regents are those of Jordan Hamel, Franklin Schurz, Sr. Leonella Mule, faculty representative Dr. Bruno Schlesinger and student representative Sue Welle. Although their terms are not expired, Sr. Gerald Hartney and Mother Olivette Whalen will be included on the board.

Provisions for faculty and student representation will be made as soon as possible, said Dr. Henry.
Faccenda defines educational purpose

With the start of a new academic year and a large number of personnel changes in the Office of Student Affairs, Faccenda seeks to define the type of Christian atmosphere it hopes to pursue, revise the current Student Manual and outline some internal procedures.

In an attempt to make a short statement of our educational purpose, it's a value statement of what we believe and are willing to do with regard to our educational program. It's also a statement of our educational mission. I believe that the educational mission is free. It is ours together with the students and staff to define the Student Affairs function.

Revision of Manual

Student Affairs has prepared a draft of their ideas for revision of the Student Manual. This draft will be presented to the Student Life Council (SLC), the committee composed of administrators, faculty, and students, responsible for review of the student rules. "We have submitted a working document of suggestions," states Faccenda, "which we hope will lead to redrafting of the university rules."

This is our ideas, what we think it ought to be," says Ackerman. "We are not trying to pressure anyone to accept them.

Student Affairs have also prepared a draft for revising hearing procedures and other appeals methods concerning university discipline. These suggestions will also go to the SLC for their consideration.

Additionally, the office has outlined procedures for recto-orientation and staff education. This will be Ackerman's primary responsibility.

Staff skills

I will hopefully spend the year trying to help the professional staff develop skills to do a good job," says Ackerman. "There are concerns the rectors have, such as counselling and understanding the personal growth of students that I can help with."

Faccenda hopes to have a free flow of information from his office to the students this year.

You are probably one of the 1800 freshmen on campus. You are probably a little shy and a little shy. You're brushy and cocky. Maybe you're quiet and intellectual. You might even be in the mold of the famous Notre Domes or possibly the great party-going types that have long existed in the shadow of the Dome.

In most ways, you're not terribly different than your predecessors except that a great many more of you are female. The greatest difference between you and past classes is that there are far more of you.

It's unfortunate, but for many of you, you're filled with a sense of dread. You are actually one of history and part of an apparent trend. You have suffered and there are those that you are jammed into some tiny, dingy room with an inordinate number of other people. And I am sure that you are jampacked to the point that you are jampacked for the point that you are jampacked to be here, but it's really no one's fault. You are actually part of history and part of an apparent trend.

For the past three years, Notre Dame has been an upsurge in the number of accepted applicants who decide to come to Notre Dame. The admissions office has a formula in which they accept a certain percentage of them will decide not to attend. Generally 50 percent of the accepted applicants who decide to come to Notre Dame. The admissions office has 10 percent of the accepted applicants who decide to come to Notre Dame. The admissions office has a formula in which they accept a certain percentage of them will decide not to attend. Generally 50 percent of the accepted applicants who decide to come to Notre Dame.

You're here, and you're happy. You've come here. And everything goes rosy. But the longer you stay here, you'll see it happening more often. You'll see your friends so drunk they can't stand up. You'll see people walking in the streets. On Sunday night out on the quad, you'll see a lot of loneliness here. But the only way that the loneliness that so easily sinks in here can be eliminated is by reaching out. Don't be afraid to touch someone while you're here. Don't be afraid to probe and search their conscience and their ego. Don't be afraid to talk, but likewise accept the silence that sometimes spreads over two people after they have traveled through the different sectors of their minds. Don't be afraid to be human. Don't be afraid to be a person.

Many are here before you who have suffered and there are those that have come away better people. In a lot of these cases, the people who have come away better, have done so because they reached out to those around them. Believe us when we say that we're happy you're here. Aiso, know that when we sometimes laugh at your antics, it's only because we're remembering the silly things we did when we were freshmen. Be happy, be friendly. Question what you doubt, and look for the truth. Trust those around you in the belief that they care for you. Do what you can to make Notre Dame better for all of us. Welcome and Shalom.

THE OBSERVER

Notre Dame, so what are you gonna do about it. You've got many roads open to you because believe it or not, Notre Dame is a place where you can expand and be your own person and develop as you see fit. Look around you and realize that you are surrounded by dozens and hundreds of people, all different, a lot of new faces to the campus, all of whom probably have their own reason for coming to the home of the Dome.

Each of them can have an effect on you, if you let them. Or none of them can affect you. The choice is up to you. Just as you are different, just as you have your own reason for coming here, you have the choice of whether you are going to make your four years here worthwhile. And that choice is yours. There is very little way around it—if you let the people around you affect your life, then your four years should be worthwhile. There are no guarantees to this, of course. But, please excuse the repetition, people are what Notre Dame is all about.

It's very easy at Notre Dame to not let people affect you. It's very easy to close yourself off, too. Be afraid, to be depressed, to be lonely and to stop reaching out altogether to those people around you. Now, you're happy. You've come here and everything seems rosy. But the longer you stay here, you'll see it happening more often. You'll see your friends so drunk they can't stand up. You'll see people walking in the streets. On Sunday night out on the quad, you'll see a lot of loneliness here. But the only way that the loneliness that so easily sinks in here can be eliminated is by reaching out. Don't be afraid to touch someone while you're here. Don't be afraid to probe and search their conscience and their ego. Don't be afraid to talk, but likewise accept the silence that sometimes spreads over two people after they have traveled through the different sectors of their minds. Don't be afraid to be human. Don't be afraid to be a person.

Many are here before you who have suffered and there are those that have come away better people. In a lot of these cases, the people who have come away better, have done so because they reached out to those around them. Believe us when we say that we're happy you're here. Aiso, know that when we sometimes laugh at your antics, it's only because we're remembering the silly things we did when we were freshmen. Be happy, be friendly. Question what you doubt, and look for the truth. Trust those around you in the belief that they care for you. Do what you can to make Notre Dame better for all of us. Welcome and Shalom.

THE OBSERVER

THE OBSERVER
There is, as most writers know, nothing better to be had than a glass of wine, a classic Smith Corona (several keys stack, of course), and a good idea at the end of a day. It's the feeling a jock gets when he beats his hell out of one of his opponents, or a musician weaving something magical out of air. It's a peace flowing out of unrest with oneself, of having been enormous odds and created (remember in grade school, the nun told you only God could do that?) something new in an ancient and overwhelmingly predictable world.

Writers are a funny bunch. A lot of them don't want to be, but they are. They have to be. It's almost an idiosyncrasy in some cases. And while for many of them it serves as merely a free bottle of wine from Father Burichall, you could be missing out on you chance. All the aforementioned have happened to Observer staffers, and so has a lot more we can't mention.

Ah! But you didn't think this was going to be a "join your friendly campus newspaper column." But quite frankly, that's exactly what it is. What could be so special about a profession that entices David Eisenhower, Lynda Bird Johnson, and Pierre Salinger to join the ranks of those alcoholic hawks with their obscene language in their cancerous newrooms? I've seen corporation executives get their pay slashed in half, quit their Murak-tailed nicks and pound away in their shirelesses if a typewriter. I've seen professors lured away from the secure breast of tenure. I've seen frustrated jocks find peace in the press box.

As for myself, I worked for a newspaper this summer, and I didn't see a steak for three months (still haven't, never had a lunch over $1.30 [of those that didn't come in a brown bag], never saw a Cadillac parked in the company lot or a reporter whose shoes didn't need rehoozing. But I had the time of my life.

Campus journalism is even more dirtball: about the least pretentious thing you'll find anywhere. The people are great and that's what it’s all about. Take a trip up to the Observer office (second floor, LaFortune) and who knows, maybe you’ll get hooked by the word-pushers.

Current TV and movie happenings

Art Ferranti

Introduction

This column concerns itself with current TV and movie happenings and will appear weekly. This will be the second year of its existence, both years being under my direction. I point out the good and the bad of television shows and movies for the upcoming week so the student who might have an hour to spend on something other than study or sports will have a guide to the best bets on the tube. I will also review movies in South Bend on occasion (when I get a press pass) and inform you of all the little trivial tidbits concerning movies and television since I am one of the trivia experts on the campus.

TV Listings

Every week an insect will appear with The Observer which will contain all the TV listings for the upcoming week so I will no longer have to list times. I will also try to have more skills and photos published with the column. My sources are my own knowledge and viewing, wire service releases, and a number of film books and advance schedules from WSBT, WSJV and WNDU.

I will not bother reviewing what is on the screen in South Bend this week but will list the best shows in South Bend. However, we do have a few good things coming up on the tube worth mentioning.

A Man For All Seasons

Fred Zinneman's A Man for All Seasons premieres on NBC (WNDU) this Wednesday marking the beginning of the new season in movies (and what a new season it will be). With Tom Courtenay as Sir Thomas More, this six Oscar-copping film centers on the conflict between More and Henry VIII which finally erupts over Henry's affair with Anne Boleyn (played by Vanessa Redgrave). Despite the pleading of his wife and daughter (Wendy Hiller and Susannah York), More remains adamant in his interpretation of church law and is sent to prison. Leo McKern plays Cromwell, Henry's chief lackey, yet a powerful figure.

Godfather

The always imposing Orson Welles appears as Cardinal Wolsey and Robert Shaw depicts Henry admirably. Truly an excellent film, some of the best scenes come from More's retrospection in his cell at the lesson pass and the final judgement scene before the beheadings. The film is taken from the play of the same name by Robert Bolt. It will be repeated early Sunday afternoon so early sleepers can also view it.

The remaining films present a few thrills but not much else. My son John, a spawn of the McCarthy era of the fifties, features Helen Hayes, Robert Walker and Van Heflin in a terrible film about a mother who fears her son is a Communist. ABC had a lot of fall returning this bit of noisy garbage on its Sunday Night Movie. Sailor Beware is a Martin and Lewis hit of slapstick which should be sunk and put out of its misery on Monday night.

The Beguiled is a movie for sadistic blood lovers and Clint Eastwood fans (I refund sentenced action for this). This one has Eastwood all but dismembered for the delight of Elizabeth Hartman and Geraldine Page during the Civil War days. Obviously this NBC replay is The Vietnam Affair on CBS, its first (and hopefully last) TV airing. Walter PIDGEON heads a all foreign cast in a caper to rob St. Peter's. Spend Friday night away from the set.

TV Pilots

Three TV pilots are also on this week. Mandock's Gang features newscaster Alex Drez as a disbarred lawyer who hires ex-cons as members of his detective agency. It rightfully did not make its way on the fall schedule. The Six Million Dollar Man is good for the first 60 of its 90 minutes. Lee Majors plays a test pilot who loses his right arm, left eye, and both legs in a plane crash. Put together again at a cost of you-know-what. Mr. Majors becomes a cyborg--half man, half machine--to become an agent for Dr. Brian McCallan, Chief of Strategic Operations. Barbara Anderson, the ex-Frisbee detective, plays his nurse and the love interest. The mock heroes of the last half hour borders on the old Superman days of bubble-gum pilots. It will air once a month as a ninety-minute mini-series on ABC this season. Majors will also retain his weekly role in Owen Marshall, Toma, to be a weekly ABC series, stars Tyrone Power as make-up artist-fame cop Dave Toma, patterned after the real life exploits of the N ward detective. Toma, like Eddie Egan in The French Connection, has a bit role. Both Munson and Susan Strasberg as his wife are excellent and will continue their roles in the fall series. These air on Monday and Wednesday nights.

Sports-wise, the Lions play the Browns tonight at 7 p.m. on The CBS try to scuttle The Pirates tomorrow at 12:30 p.m. on 28 while the White Sox try to bedevil the Angels at 1:30 p.m. on 16.

New Recapative

The Documentary-Specials Dept. has CBS News Recapative probing the facts behind the fiction of "The Grapes of Wrath" and "Babbitt" in a reprisal of a 1968 program at 5 p.m. tomorrow on 22. NBC examines the energy crisis in a "3-hour white paper" Tuesday at 7 p.m. Frank McGee is the anchor. Sailboats skidding over desert sand highlight the National Geographic special at 7 p.m. Thursday on 28.

Last but not least, ABC at 7 p.m. will premiere clips of its Saturday morning series and this will do the same, including the new Star Trek series at 7:30 p.m. The new series will have all the old series actors doing their respective voices, some of the original writers and will maintain Star Trek creator Gene Roddenbury as its overseer.

The Notre Dame Social Commission is presenting the epic and classic blockbuster Gone With The Wind Registration night (that's Tuesday, for all you new Domers). In Washington Hall at 6 and 10 p.m. for 5.50 a person. Rhet, Scarlett, and the Civil War are worth the seeing and reseeing.

Miscellaneous: Renews for many shows like "Kung Fu" will continue into October and many new shows like "Kojak" will not premiere until that time also due to the writers ninety-day strike this past summer. This means that premiere week for the new shows which officially begins Sept. 9 will be a real life exploit of the N ward detective. Toma, like Eddie Egan in The French Connection, has a bit role. Both Munson and Susan Strasberg as his wife are excellent and will continue their roles in the fall series. These air on Monday and Wednesday nights.

Prize instability and shortages of nearly all kinds are now being felt by most people. Crawford Caswell, director of food services at St. Mary's, believes that the shortage is severe enough to require action by the school to maintain a quality food service.

"The reason we are switching to substitutions is to maintain our quality standard," Caswell said.

"We will continue to supply only Grade A, government inspected products."

Caswell refuses to buy black market beef, although there is "lots of it around." He added that the school is considering purchasing cheaper frozen and canned food to maintain a quality product.

"We will still serve eggs every morning," although not necessarily fresh eggs if the frozen, pasteurized variety proves cheaper and more readily available. He foresees no shortages in seafood, fresh fruits and vegetables, juices and pies. He further emphasized that no matter how severe the shortage,Saga will not purchase any "foul-smelling" meat.

"Other than that, we'll use whatever meat is available," he said.

SMC faculty forum

The faculty and administration of St. Mary's College held a forum last Thursday for a day-long Faculty Forum. The forum was followed by the introduction of new faculty members by Dr. Charles W. Hickey, vice-president for Faculty Affairs, and Dr. Edward Henry, president of SMC.

The forum was held in the Alumni Hall and included a luncheon for the new faculty members.

A faculty assembly meeting was also held, with departmental meetings and a picnic for the faculty and administration.

Not enough bull at Notre Dame

Notre Dame has not gone unaffected by the recent beef shortage and food price increases that are plaguing the country. According to Food Services Director, Edmund T. Price, menus drawn up months ago have already had to be altered.

Bro. Kieran Ryan, Asst. Vice President for Business Affairs, said that the budget for the dining halls has been upped by 25 per cent over the original figures by 25 per cent of the jump going for meal costs.

The only contract that the food services officials have been able to acquire for food supplies is for eggs. Last school year, the egg contract cost the university 27 cents a pound. This year the contract calls for 52 cents a pound.

The two big problems that face food services are the cost of food and its availability, said Ryan. Price emphasized that the menus had to be altered because certain items are just not available in large quantities.

"We are not compromising." Price said, "but it may be interpreted that way by those who don't know the situation."

He pointed out that at one point this summer, food services ordered 5000 pounds of beef and received 900 pounds.

"We've got all the beef that we can get out and on," he continued. "For the first weeks, we're in extremely good shape compared to other institutions."

Ryan pointed out that a big problem and a big solution to the problem at hand is the control of waste. "If waste continues, then our prices are just going to go up."

"We are not eliminating seconds or anything like that," Ryan said.

He noted that students should take only what they can eat and then come back for seconds if they want more.

Ryan said that there was a $35 increase in board rates to help cover rising expenses, but noted that it hardly covers the increases.

"25 of the new board rates will go for food. It won't even be able to come close to the increase. We'll have to bite the bullet somewhere along the way," Ryan said.

A busy summer at Notre Dame

25,000 men, women and children from all over the world flocked to Notre Dame for the Charismatic Conference. "The Pentecostals," spent a weekend in June at the campus and met in prayer sessions at the Stadium where football athletes generally exhibit their talents. In addition to the huge prayer sessions, the people met in groupings, lectures and workshops.

The beach on St. Joseph Lake (right) is another center of summer activity, as this faculty, their families, students and those people involved with Notre Dame. The action was taken by the university to preserve the area for the relaxation and enjoyment of its people.

Rev. Forrestal dies at 84

who served the Spanish-speaking community in the South Bend area as spiritual director for several years, died Sunday evening in Holy Cross House at the University of Notre Dame at the age of 84. He had been in ill health since 1966.

Following his ordination on June 25, 1935, at Notre Dame Father Forrestal taught at St. Edwards until 1955 when he became professor of Spanish and Spanish Literature at Notre Dame. He served as counselor to Chicanos until his retirement from teaching in 1962 and as a member of the migrant worker apostolate until 1966. Several articles he authored on the history of the southwest and Mexico have been printed in state and national publications.

Father Forrestal is survived by his two sisters, Mrs. Mary Doyle and Mrs. Bridg Carroll, Country Wexford, Ireland.

ND men lose at GPA game

AP—The University of Notre Dame's first full-time girl students, outnumbered 17 to 1 by males, didn't let the social situation distract their minds from classes.

The university has reported that the 365 coeds had an over-all grade point average of 3.12 in the first term compared with the university average of 2.94. Notre Dame expects to increase its feminine enrollment to 775 next fall in a total student body of 6,700.

ND installs super computer

There's a new light show on campus and it's playing at the computer center.

For the third time in two years, Notre Dame is installing an improved computer system. The new machine is an IBM model 370-158.

The light show is the TV console that monitors the computers operations whenever human input is needed. The console replaces a printer that used to serve the same purpose.

The computer and most of its accompanying devices have been moved behind the glass viewing area that was occupied by the old UNIVAC computer until last year. IBM and computer center personnel spent over a week installing the new equipment and testing parts of the system before the outgoing IBM 370-156 was turned off for good Thursday morning. Regular service is scheduled to resume Tuesday morning at 8:00.

For now, at least, anyone can watch the 34-hour IBM light show by just walking in the main door at the computer center.

The memory space in the new computer's Central Processing Unit (CPU) is fifty percent larger than in the 370-156's CP1.

(IBM is the portion of the computer that actually executes the instructions in a given program.)

Like its predecessor the 370-156 has "virtual memory." This feature can be used to increase the capacity of the CPU up to 1000 percent.

Computer center personnel are not certain of the exact improvement in efficiency and capacity that the virtual memory will give the new system. Plans are underway to begin testing its effect after most of the problems in the system have been eliminated.

OPEN TO ALL ND-SMC STUDENTS
Frankie’s changes owner, name

by Maria Gallagher
St. Mary’s Editer

Our Dame students have long been noted for their prowess with the hew, but few have ever brought more than a dog at a time, much less 10 kegs, 250 cases of beer, 50 cases of wine and 150 cases of liquor at one time.

Of course, a restaurant came with that purchase.

Notre Dame graduate Rick Kanzer (’73) recently purchased Frankie’s restaurant on Notre Dame Ave., and expects lots of help from his fellow Domers to keep his business going. So far he has invested over $8,000 in a new fast food restaurant, and various other renovations.

“The Library,” as it has been renamed, will offer students “a clean place where they will be treated with respect and not subjected to ridiculous prices,” according to the new proprietor.

Appointed 67 times, Kanzer has really had a good student bar, and students have ripped off all over town,” Kanzer commented from personal experience. “They deserve better because they are potentially good business.”

The restaurant’s image is Kanzer’s foremost concern. “Business has gone downhill here the past two years,” he said. “I’d like to change that right away.”

For starters, Kanzer has redecorated and installed game machines, and expects on all female crew of hardnosed in the fall. The Library will continue to serve the same heavy punch par of old will be replaced by a type of thick-cut, stuffed Italian pizza or breaded Chicago. The restaurant will open daily at 11 for lunches and will still sponsor “dinner specials.” Live bands will be featured on weekends.

This is Kanzer’s first business venture. Just barely over Indiana’s legal drinking age himself, he gained previous experience as a bartender at the Senior Bar. He plans to expand his staff in the fall to 30 Notre Dame students and graduates.

Summer business has packed the establishment on weekends, and an even greater volume is expected when the students return, but Kanzer said plans to further expansion.

“At this point, I can’t afford it, but I’d also like to keep the place clean,” he said. “It feels like the plans of business will have a ‘friendlier’ than the larger bars in town.

Kanzer also feels that the mark of a good business is a concerned owner. He speculated that the previous owner had sacked off in several places around town was that the owners were never obviously did not keep close tabs on their places and persons.

“Customers notice these things,” he said. “If an owner doesn’t really care, his place reflects it. Just being there the effects of the federal government. Kanzer will literally be ‘living’ there—on the second floor.

In the meantime, Kanzer has come up and the distance will have come and the distance will have come. Fr. Hesburgh’s 15 August, 1965, to become general manager of the Civil Rights Commission issued its first order to么 notices and comments in the expanded Notre Dame Commission on Civil Rights created in the expanded Notre Dame Commission on Civil Rights.

Howard A. Glickstein, a Ford Foundation graduate with a wide background in civil rights, was appointed the center’s director in 1969 by President Nixon and will house the papers of Hesburgh to be used by members of the commission and the committee. Glickstein, is an attorney with a wide background in civil rights law, a member of the bar, and has worked on appointments to the federal government.

The center’s director, Glickstein, is an attorney with a wide background in civil rights. A Dartmouth College graduate who was involved in the drafting of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965, Glickstein was named by President Nixon as assistant director in June 1965.

He left the Justice Dept. in August, 1971, to become general counsel of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights. He served as acting staff director of the commission during the director’s resignation in September, 1968, and was nominated by President Nixon as permanent staff director in June 1969. He was during its term that the commission presented its first comprehensive report evaluating the efforts of the federal government in enforcing civil rights laws. He resigned as staff director in August, 1971, and subsequently joined the Heritage Foundation to work on the issue of school desegregation and housing.
Pre-fall litany: 'How good is ND?'

By Vic Derr

Sports Editor

A summer passes. An autumn takes its place. And somewhere in between, just as surely as the seasons mesh into another, college football's pre-season litany begins. And contained in that litany is always the question: "What about Notre Dame? How good will they be this season?" It's always a legitimate question, and often a question with as many answers as it has askers.

1973's pre-season litany is treating the Fighting Irish in just that fashion.

Ara Parseghian's tenth Notre Dame football team may well be considered the pre-season favorite, as Parseghian's squad always are-but always there lurks the suspicions beyond that is virtually impossible.

The last two games of the 1972 season were losses, 21-13 to Notre Dame, in the Rose Bowl. Layden who doubled as a defensive back, scored downs, galloping 78 and 70 yard for scores.

As a coach for seven seasons, beginning in 1933, Layden compiled a 47-16-1 record. But that record, though impressive, could not compare with the one established by his successor just over a decade later. Indeed, I am saddened by the passing of my friend and legend, Ara Parseghian. His team's won too often, and even the most emotional contest. At most, ARA would say, "I would suggest that we would want to prove that we're a better football team than we showed today."

And in three weeks, with basically the same team he fielded against the Cornhuskers, Ara Parseghian-and the Notre Dame football program-will get their opportunity to "come back."
