Compliments of South Bend Tribune

Mishawaka Police and FBI agents Wednesday were investigating the apparent abduction of a 23-year-old Notre Dame graduate student from his Mishawaka home during a burglary there Tuesday morning.

Police identified the victim as Thomas J. Barnard, 23 of 3663 W. Mishawaka Ave. They said Barnard did not return to his apartment after his wife, Nancy, reported a burglary of their home at 2:40 p.m. Tuesday. They reported that police at the O'Hare Airport in Chicago had found a note in a mailbox there Tuesday night allegedly written by Barnard, saying he had been abducted.

Police quoted the note as saying that Barnard had been forced to rent a car from the Budget Rent-a-Car Firm, 40 N. Michigan St. and had driven to the Chicago airport with his abductor. Police added that Barnard described his abductor as "an escapee, six-foot tall, dark and slender with short dark hair."

Found Late Tuesday

Police said the note was found during regular collection of the mail at the airport late Tuesday night and was turned over to airport police.

Police in Chicago reportedly traced the letters to Continental Airlines for a flight to Orlando, Florida, Sept. 24. The biggest change made was in the guideline regarding the location of larger group gatherings. "Bigger than a private room and smooth flow out of our program." This academic year's philosophy of an educational philosophy of an educational program.

The guidelines now incorporate the final draft presented to the Council on Sept. 20, and the revisions presented by Dr. Ackerman on Sept. 24. The biggest change made was in the guideline regarding the location of larger group gatherings. These were defined by Dr. Faccenda as gatherings, bigger than a private room or smaller than in the hall section."

The discussion before the approval centered on what input the staff and the students are both taking a tremendous risk. The need to reevaluate the look at the situation will be constant there."

The next topic was the approval of the actual rule on alcohol to be used in the student manual. The rule allows alcohol in private rooms in resident halls and in other rooms in the hall, providing the guidelines established are followed. Large parties in private rooms, and larger parties in living areas of the halls without proper planning are prohibited. Students cannot possess or consume alcohol anywhere else on Campus without the permission of the Dean of Students.

The issue was raised as to how a student could transport alcohol to his room, where he is allowed to drink, over campus grounds, where he is not allowed to have it. The Student Life Council approved the final revision of guidelines yesterday.

Dr. Faccenda concluded the discussion, "the students will have to realize that, if this is approved, the staff and the students are both taking a tremendous risk. The need to reevaluate the look at the situation will be constant there."

The question of student use of facilities on campus outside of resident halls is not covered in the proposed approval approved yesterday. Dr. Ackerman told the Council that this will be dealt with separately as it is not an immediate need and there was no draft presently prepared to be submitted to the Council.

The Council then turned to other rules in the student manual that need revision. They began the discussion by giving the members of the Council an idea of what the Student Affairs office had in mind when he wrote up the original draft of the rules. "We have attempted to set a new tone to the rules section," he said. "The present rules do not seem to smoothly flow out of our philosophy of an educational program."

Most of the changes in the rules are eliminations of things that we feel aren't important, or don't reflect major problems in the community," Dr. Faccenda continued.

Dr. Faccenda explained, "the rules on drugs are separated into three sections, which represent the delineations we have made on the kind of drugs there are and the differences between them.

Fr. Schlaver, who added Dr. Faccenda in compiling the draft, added that the "Rules and Regulations are broken down into two categories. Regulations are generally things we live with everyday, like car registration."

The Council moved to adjourn so that all the members could take a close look at the rules and, if need be, provide alternatives for them before the meeting next Monday.

The Student Life Council has changed its regular meeting place to the basement of Planner hall. It will meet next Monday at 4:15.

Compliments of South Bend Tribune

Mishawaka Police and FBI agents Wednesday were investigating the apparent abduction of a 23-year-old Notre Dame graduate student from his Mishawaka home during a burglary there Tuesday morning.

Police identified the victim as Thomas J. Barnard, 23 of 3663 W. Mishawaka Ave. They said Barnard did not return to his apartment after his wife, Nancy, reported a burglary of their home at 2:40 p.m. Tuesday. They reported that police at the O'Hare Airport in Chicago had found a note in a mailbox there Tuesday night allegedly written by Barnard, saying he had been abducted.

Police quoted the note as saying that Barnard had been forced to rent a car from the Budget Rent-a-Car Firm, 40 N. Michigan St. and had driven to the Chicago airport with his abductor. Police added that Barnard described his abductor as "an escapee, six-foot tall, dark and slender with short dark hair."

Found Late Tuesday

Police said the note was found during regular collection of the mail at the airport late Tuesday night and was turned over to airport police.

Police in Chicago reportedly traced the letters to Continental Airlines for a flight to Orlando, Florida, Sept. 24. The biggest change made was in the guideline regarding the location of larger group gatherings. "Bigger than a private room and smooth flow out of our program." This academic year's philosophy of an educational philosophy of an educational program.

The guidelines now incorporate the final draft presented to the Council on Sept. 20, and the revisions presented by Dr. Ackerman on Sept. 24. The biggest change made was in the guideline regarding the location of larger group gatherings. These were defined by Dr. Faccenda as gatherings, bigger than a private room or smaller than in the hall section."

The discussion before the approval centered on what input the staff and the students are both taking a tremendous risk. The need to reevaluate the look at the situation will be constant there."

The next topic was the approval of the actual rule on alcohol to be used in the student manual. The rule allows alcohol in private rooms in resident halls and in other rooms in the hall, providing the guidelines established are followed. Large parties in private rooms, and larger parties in living areas of the halls without proper planning are prohibited. Students cannot possess or consume alcohol anywhere else on Campus without the permission of the Dean of Students.

The issue was raised as to how a student could transport alcohol to his room, where he is allowed to drink, over campus grounds, where he is not allowed to have it. The Student Life Council approved the final revision of guidelines yesterday.

Dr. Faccenda concluded the discussion, "the students will have to realize that, if this is approved, the staff and the students are both taking a tremendous risk. The need to reevaluate the look at the situation will be constant there."

The question of student use of facilities on campus outside of resident halls is not covered in the proposed approval approved yesterday. Dr. Ackerman told the Council that this will be dealt with separately as it is not an immediate need and there was no draft presently prepared to be submitted to the Council.

The Council then turned to other rules in the student manual that need revision. They began the discussion by giving the members of the Council an idea of what the Student Affairs office had in mind when he wrote up the original draft of the rules. "We have attempted to set a new tone to the rules section," he said. "The present rules do not seem to smoothly flow out of our philosophy of an educational program."

Most of the changes in the rules are eliminations of things that we feel aren't important, or don't reflect major problems in the community," Dr. Faccenda continued.

Dr. Faccenda explained, "the rules on drugs are separated into three sections, which represent the delineations we have made on the kind of drugs there are and the differences between them.

Fr. Schlaver, who added Dr. Faccenda in compiling the draft, added that the "Rules and Regulations are broken down into two categories. Regulations are generally things we live with everyday, like car registration."

The Council moved to adjourn so that all the members could take a close look at the rules and, if need be, provide alternatives for them before the meeting next Monday.

The Student Life Council has changed its regular meeting place to the basement of Planner hall. It will meet next Monday at 4:15.

On The Inside
Party bus a success ...page 3
Chess tourney ...page 7

THE OBSERVER
serving the notre dame - st. mary's community

Thursday, September 27, 1973

Volume VIII, No. 17

ND grad abducted

Dr. Scott returns from Nigeria

by John McEadlin
Staff Reporter

Dr. Joseph Scott, director of the Black Studies Program at Notre Dame, has recently returned from a one year visit to Nigeria and has brought with him a deeper understanding of African culture which he hopes to share with the university community.

Scott, whose stay was sponsored by the Rockefeller Foundation Program, is a Fulbright Scholar and has spent eight months in Puerto Rico, whose people are of European descent. Even in Puerto Rico, whose people are mostly of African origin, he was aware of being a foreigner. But Scott finds much more at home in Nigeria than in the other two countries. "Many African-Americans think that a country wherever a black goes he is recognized as a 'soul brother', regardless of whether he is from..." (continued on page 7)
Frosh learning center opens

by Al Rutherford

The Freshman Learning Resource Center, located in the east wing of Bronson Hall, has reopened, said the Dean of the Freshman Year Office Emil T. Hofman. The center, which originally opened last semester, is expected to be in full operation.

The center is located in the east wing of Bronson Hall. The hours for the center are 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday.

The Observer is published daily during the college semester except vacations by the students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $11 per semester ($14 per year) from The University of Notre Dame, 44556.

TRAVEL BUREAU

"ON CAMPUS" - BADIN HALL

- Airline Reservations
- Complete Domestic and Foreign Services
- Representative for all Airlines
- No Additional Cost

Specializing in Group Travel

FIRST BANK & TRUST TRAVEL

Phone: 283-7080

SCHEDULE OF MASSES IN RESIDENCE HALLS

HALL | SUNDAY MASS | DAILY MASS
--- | --- | ---
ALUMNI | 10:30 pm Mon-Fri | Saturday midnight
BADIN | 10:00 pm Tues & Thurs | 11:00 pm Sunday
BRENN-PHILLIPS | 10:30 pm Mon-Wed & Fri | 5:00 pm Tues & Thurs
CARROLL | 5:00 pm Mon-Fri | Saturday midnight
CAVANAUGH | 10:00 pm Mon-Fri | 11:00 am Sunday
DILLON | 8:00 am Mon-Fri | 11:00 am Saturday midnight
FARLEY | 9:30 am Mon-Thurs | 11:00 am Saturday midnight
FISHER | 10:00 pm Mon-Thurs | 11:00 am Sunday
FLANNEN | 10:00 pm Mon-Thurs | 11:00 am Saturday midnight
GRACE | 10:00 pm Mon-Fri | 11:00 am Saturday midnight
HOLY CROSS | 11:15 pm Mon-Fri | 11:00 am Monday
HOLY CROSS | 11:00 pm Mon-Fri | 11:00 am Tuesday
HOWARD | 10:30 pm Mon-Fri | 11:00 pm Mon-Thu
KEENAN | 5:00 pm Tues & Thurs | 11:00 pm Saturday midnight
LEWIS | 9:30 am Mon-Sat | 11:00 pm Monday
LYONS | 11:00 pm Tuesday | 11:00 pm Tuesday
MORRISSEY | 11:00 pm Confessions 10:30-11:00 pm | 11:00 pm Tuesday
PANGBORN | 10:00 pm Mon-Fri | 11:00 pm Tuesday
ST. EDWARDS | 10:30 pm Mon & Wed | 11:00 pm Wednesday
SOFIA | 5:00 pm Tues & Thurs | 10:30 pm Monday
ST JOHNS | See hall bulletin board | Same as Keenan
WALSH | Same as Keenan | Same as Keenan
ZAHM | 10:30 pm Tues & Thurs | 10:30 pm Monday

Episcopalian Services

Holy Cross Hall
6:30 pm Thursday
The Academic Affairs Commission at St. Mary's has decided that St. Mary's academic year before Labor Day, if at all possible. In starting after Labor Day, classes between the two schools, compromise in scheduling their academic calendar. Tess Lehman, Academic Affairs Commissioner, SMC would ignore a proposed and begin before Labor Day, then to compromise with Notre Dame classes on Holy Days in order to October break, and would attend their five-month old daughter, Notre Dame couple from Disturbing or blocking the view of and sitting on laps and possibly ticket. because Maurica did not have a "This rule is necessary to "Every person REGARDLESS OF AGE must have a ticket for ad­ "E very person REGARDLESS OF married students. The Moores think there should be some exceptions to the rule. They feel that a five-month old girl is not in the stadium to see the game nor is she occupying a $9 seat. Because she is so young Maurica would have been held during the break on Holy Days or not she had a ticket. The Moores are puzzled as to why there are no exceptions to special cases.

Bouffard responded to this appeal, "There is just no certain point where one can draw a line on age or size that permits or prohibits a young child from sitting on their parent's lap. And even if there was a certain point, there would be great difficulty and inconvenience in applying these standards."

This rule is not new or unique or applicable only to Notre Dame. Bouffard pointed out that most standards and areas state that tickets that every person must have a ticket for admission. "Although we can't promise that it will run every day," said its runs.

"Party bus'-the only way to ride by David Lee Staff Reporter There's something strange going on in the N.D. St. Mary's shuttle bus. The inter-campus shuttle has been turned into the 'Party Bus.' The usual humdrum ride between St. Mary's and Notre Dame has turned into something special. Free cakes, chips and noise makers await each guest of the shuttle bus ride and to encourage students to interact. Juan sees the "Party Bus" as one way in which students were enjoying themselves and most wanted the "Party Bus" to continue making its runs. "Although we can't promise that it will run every day," said Manigault, "we can have it as often as financially possible...and if, of course, the students want it."

Applications are now being accepted for the position of Observer features editor. Please submit resume and applicable portfolios to Jerry Lutkus

The Observer Box Q or come to the office by Friday afternoon.
Dame, which has been living in a state of limbo since the start of this school year, will soon be informed of their rights and the Central Staff two weeks ago.

A dm inistration attempted to gain body on campus has been watching as the worked the entire summer—guidelines that are not found just as importantly, the direction that the third time in four years. The Administration, maybe never in question, was awaited. It's a plea for direction. Since ND

And finally, September, 1973. The Central Staff has publically announced that the pre­president rules would only be in effect until new, more “concern­oriented” guidelines could be implemented. And since his arrival, an open battle has raged because of misunderstandings about present regulations and the intentions of those designing those new guidelines.

Now, senior, where do you stand?

These problems of direction have not always existed at ND. The last generation of Domers knew exactly where they stood, because the Administration made it very clear where those students stood. The rules were clear, there were no questions asked.

This is not a plea for a return to medieval standards. It is obvious that these conditions exist because Notre Dame is desperately trying to preserve a tradition or moral direction while dealing with the needs of the student body. And that is a truly educational process.

It is becoming increasingly obvious what the problem is here at Notre Dame prepares to define its position with regard to residence living for the third time in four years. The Administration, and in turn, the students, are directionless.

If that seems rash, consider the four years spent here by a present senior. His freshman year was spent in an atmosphere of utter and benign neglect, as parties ran wild and rules seemed non­existent.

The infamous Step­an­Letter greeted him the fall of 1971, and suddenly his drinking was done behind closed doors.

During his junior year, he experienced the return of benign neglect to a degree that depended almost completely upon the hall in which he lived.

Partly Confused Today Through Tomorrow

To the tune of Bob Dylan’s Rainy Day Women 12 and 35

Well they’ll put you in a classroom so clean
They’ll show you how to work the machine
Then they’ll tell you “why don’t you try the world there”
They’ll say it play it straight and play fair
But they’ll never say it’s a crime
Cuz even Kings get lose some of the time

Well they’ll bless you with their thoughts and their crosses
They’ll tell you how to keep from getting lost
They’ll say, God bless and good luck to you
But they’ll never really show you what to do
And I would not think that it’s a crime
Cuz even Kings get lose some of the time

Well they’ll talk of the straight and narrow road
They’ll exclaim there ain’t nothin’ you can’t hold
Then they’ll decree you a much better person
They’ll tell you each year that you’re a certain
And I would not think that it’s a crime
Cuz even Kings get lose some of the time

Well they’ll tell you there’s a girl, go have fun
They’ll set you some rules and you’ll just ignore them
Then they’ll open up their book of Golden Rules
And you wonder what’s it’s like out in the world
But I would not think that it’s a crime
Cuz even Kings get lose some of the time...

The Staff expresses some concern over the

The final decision of the SLC, while

The Administration made it very clear where those students stood. The rules were clear, there were no questions asked.

This is not a plea for a return to medieval standards. It is obvious that these conditions exist because Notre Dame is desperately trying to preserve a tradition or moral direction while dealing with the needs of the student body. And that is a truly educational process.

That demands an Administration united in cause and agreed upon procedure. That demands hall staffs that are aware of their roles and the purposes behind those roles. That demands a large group of individuals united behind a cause—the total education of the student body.

Perhaps the new guidelines will take Notre Dame towards the realization of that direction. Perhaps they are the result of a newfound direction. But a confused student body continues to see one thing above all else—the very group who presented the guidelines, and now must implement them, is not united.

And now, Notre Dame, just where are we going?

Buck Ward

THE OBSERVER
AN INDEPENDENT STUDENT NEWSPAPER

NEWS: 283-1715
EDITORIALS: 283-4661
BUSINESS: 283-7471

Thursday, September 27, 1973

Where To, ND?

The Student Life Council met Wednesday afternoon and ratified the Student Manual guidelines presented to them by the Central Staff two weeks ago.

And now, the student body of Notre Dame, which has been living in a state of limbo since the start of this school year, will soon be informed of their rights and limitations as defined by the University.

For the last three weeks, the student body on campus has been watching as the Administration attempted to gain approval for the guidelines on which they worked the entire summer—guidelines which were presented as the work of the entire Central Staff.

The final decision of the SLC, while maybe never in question, was awaited impatiently so that all doubt could be erased concerning student behavior, and just as importantly, the direction that the reshaped Office of Student Affairs planned to take in the future would become evident.

Yet now, even with the passing of guidelines, one member of that Central Staff expresses some concern over the ability of a number of rectors to operate within the guidelines.

And that's a fine predicament—things are settled, but they're not.

Just what good is a set of guidelines designed for implementation in our residence halls that are not found workable by the men assigned to implement them?

It is becoming increasingly obvious what the problem is here at Notre Dame prepares to define its position with regard to residence living for the third time in four years. The Administration, and in turn, the students, are directionless.

If that seems rash, consider the four years spent here by a present senior. His freshman year was spent in an atmosphere of utter and benign neglect, as parties ran wild and rules seemed non-existent.

The infamous Step­an­Letter greeted him the fall of 1971, and suddenly his drinking was done behind closed doors.

During his junior year, he experienced the return of benign neglect to a degree that depended almost completely upon the hall in which he lived.

And finally, September, 1973. The Central Staff has publically announced that the pre­president rules would only be in effect until new, more “concern­oriented” guidelines could be implemented. And since his arrival, an open battle has raged because of misunderstandings about present regulations and the intentions of those designing those new guidelines.

Now, senior, where do you stand?

These problems of direction have not always existed at ND. The last generation of Domers knew exactly where they stood, because the Administration made it very clear where those students stood. The rules were clear, there were no questions asked.

This is not a plea for a return to medieval standards. It is obvious that these conditions exist because Notre Dame is desperately trying to preserve a tradition or moral direction while dealing with the needs of the student body. And that is a truly educational process.

That demands an Administration united in cause and agreed upon procedure. That demands hall staffs that are aware of their roles and the purposes behind those roles. That demands a large group of individuals united behind a cause—the total education of the student body.

Perhaps the new guidelines will take Notre Dame towards the realization of that direction. Perhaps they are the result of a newfound direction. But a confused student body continues to see one thing above all else—the very group who presented the guidelines, and now must implement them, is not united.

And now, Notre Dame, just where are we going?

Buck Ward

A Reply

Editor:
No, Ms. Pocus, you are not alone. Most people dislike authority. I quite agree that parties can be superficial and dates taken for the sake of a date can seem epically ridiculous. However, just as a complaint without a correction is only hollow bitching, so is social dissatisfaction minus an alternative.

Special-interest clubs, rap sessions between intimate dinners are fine alternatives which should be used more frequently. Many facets of the personal life can be discovered at such times. Yet then it strikes an irresistible urge to “get your ya­ya’s out.” How is such dirtballism to be justified when it faces the current line of “games people play?”

I think the problem is one of premises versus promises. Take this situation: In one corner we have five males bearing Corby’s T­shirts and 16 oz. paper cups. In the other corner stand five females, dressed to­kill­and­stopping­wastafilia.

Q. Which group will offer the most intellectual stimulation? A. Neither.

Q. Is such a gathering, therefore, superficial? A. Not necessarily. Trying to out­psych a party is an im­possible thing, you see. It is, nothing more. That’s just as much as the elite need to let their hair down. If we do not generalize partying behavior to be the essence of another’s personality, the dissolutions of the “nine out­of­ten­times­double­cross­at­the­corner” will be lessened.

Janet Krier

No Smoking

Editor:
If you’ve observed no less than ten students, men and women, smoking in Washington Hall last week and you were sure you had a bird’s eye view.

Knowing the age and wood construction of this venerable old building, I was alarmed at the seeming indifference of these students to the danger involved, not only to the building but to their very lives should a fire start from a carelessly discarded cigarette.

These students are playing a form of Russian roulette with their own lives and those of their colleagues by ignoring the fire regulations. This regard, to say nothing of risking the loss of an historic and convenient auditorium.

In the interest of fire safety on the campus, Sincerely, Brother Kieran Ryan, C.S.C. the observer
The advisory council (ALSAC) has been interviewing students to fill five positions on the council. One student will be selected for the advisory council and one for the Academic Council, chief legislative body of the College of Arts and Letters that includes faculty, Student Government, and department heads as all students.

The first set of interviews were held last weekend and the second set on Wednesday night. A number of students who are members of ALSAC President Roy Randles and two members from last year will make the decision. There are presently 14 members on the advisory council.

Randles explained that the criteria for selection to the advisory council are the original theoretical and practical ideas the student has to contribute to the council. They must be able to articulate these ideas in a reasonable and persuasive manner. This "clarity of thought" is important because members must be able to present these ideas to Department heads and other faculty for acceptance. They must be able to convince the Academic Council of the merit of their ideas.

The advisory council functions as a means for students to review programs and rules in the college. The council gathers information from the students and faculty, as well as other universities to use in formulating proposals suggesting new or revised programs. These proposals are then presented to the Academic Council and Arts and Letters Dean Frederick Crosson.

One proposal pending from last year is the pass-fail grading option written under President Neil Rosini. This proposal was accepted by the AL Academic Council and is pending before the University Senate Academic Council.

The advisory council functions as the representative body for students in the College of Arts and Letters. The general philosophy of the council, according to Randles, is to "liberalize the approach to a liberal education." He wants to give the students more options and alternatives. He emphasizes the students' personal educational objectives. "The days are past when the student can be treated as a child." Randles said.

Overseas winter jobs made available by SOS

Temporary fall and winter jobs are being made available to American students in European factories, restaurants, and ski-resorts, through Student Overseas Services (SOS), an non-profit student organization. SOS aims to provide the job working primitis, room and board, and travel arrangements, for the student taking advantage of this program. Plans offered for their "earn-as-you-go" trip include a $30-455 package which consists of "all accommodations, meals, briefings, final job placement, basic language instruction, and 600 miles of trips through Luxembourg, France, Germany, and Belgium", plus a round-trip Youth Fare ticket. Also available for $169.00 is all of the above minus the air-ticket to and from Europe. Working at standard wages, probably will not pay as much as on state-side rates, but SOS promises that "a few weeks work earns the lion's share of the trips cost, and a few more weeks earnings money for traveling around Europe."

Two specific programs they are promoting are "summer jobs", and "the 'urgency job'," which is a means to help students fill it may be possible for an extra showing at midnight. He hopes that students would help out by attending a later showing if it becomes necessary to turn them away from an earlier one.

The Taming of the Shrews with Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor is selected for the October program. Rathburn hoped students would arrive early to a show so the problem would not happen again. He said that if the auditorium was filled it may be possible for an extra showing at midnight. He wished that students would help out by attending a later showing if it becomes necessary to turn them away from an earlier one.

WHAT'S GOD DOING TODAY?

The Catholic Charismatic Renewal

Special Explanation Session - This Thursday, Sept. 27, 7:30 pm, Butler Bldg - behind Holy Cross Hall (ND)

Mass - Zahm Hall Chapel, Tuesday through Friday - 5:15 pm

Prayer Meetings - Holy Cross Hall (ND), Every Thursday 8:30 - 10:00 pm

All Are Welcome!

When your parents are in town, have them stay in South Bend's NEWEST Hotel

Royal Inn

310 S. St. Joseph

Reservations: (219) 282-5511

WEEKEND SPECIALS AVAILABLE

For dining, visit our JOLLY KING RESTAURANT and afterwards hit the "in spot" in town - THE PURPLE JESTER DISCOTHEQUE LOUNGE.

Dancing under psychedelic lights

Open 11a.m.-2a.m. Mon.-Sat.
WASHINGTON, UPI - Presidential aide Patrick J. Buchanan, refusing to produce President Nixon's secret political memoranda, testified Wednesday that the Watergate-bugging was a "grievous error" but not typical of Nixon's 1972 campaign.

The stocky 35-year-old Nixon speech writer conceded during day-long testimony before the Senate Watergate committee that political "dirty tricks" had been played on the President's behalf last year—but said he had nothing to do with them and that Watergate was not among them.

"I did not consider Watergate a problem," Buchanan said. "It's a crime. Electronic surveillance for political purposes is wrong and should be outlawed."

The committee, which resumed its hearings into alleged wrongdoing in the 1972 campaign this week after a seven-week recess, adjourned until Tuesday, following Buchanan's testimony.

Buchanan, who described the Nixon re-election effort as "one of the most effective, one of the most enjoyable operations I have been involved with," defended it as a clear campaign primarily devoid of illegal or unethical acts.

He bristled when Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, Jr., R-Conn., asked whether "perjury, subornation of perjury to obstruct justice"--acts alleged in the Watergate cover-up--should be part of a political campaign.

"This is the famous Weicker litany of wrongdoing in the campaign, with contributing to the delinquency of a minor."

Buchanan answered. "People in our campaign make a grievous error and then they went and compounded the error and made mistakes and in the process of this thing, conceivably they committed wrongdoings amounting to crimes and illegitimates."

But, Buchanan said, "by and large the sins were of the head and not of the heart" to assure Nixon's re-election.

"I think they've got a right to a fair trial and I don't think I'm in a position to sit up and moralize or pontificate upon their ethics or their morality," he said of those involved.

Buchanan had been subpoenaed to bring along a number of White House political strategy memos.

High school principal coach cleared of sex encounter charges

FRANKLIN, Tenn. UPI - The principal and the football coach of Fairview High School were acquitted Wednesday of charges that they set up sex encounters for high school football players.

A circuit court jury took about two hours to find Coach James Parker innocent. Earlier, Judge John W. Herndon directed a verdict of innocent for the principal, W. W. Wallace.

The prosecution accused the two men of arranging for four members of the Fairview High football team to have sex with a married student—since graduated—who once worked in Wallace's office.

The 18-year-old girl was summoned by the defense but never testified. The prosecution offered no motive for the actions it charged other than to claim the men were "jack." "This state would be satisfied if you could sentence them to a psychiatrist's office," said Attorney General Elmer Davis in his closing arguments.

However, the judge told the jury, "The evidence against Mr. Wallace was not sufficient on which to base a conviction.""Wallace and Parker had been suspended from the school at full pay pending the outcome of the trial. There was no indication whether they would return to their jobs. Wallace and Parker said the charges were politically motivated.

Wallace, 60, principal at Fairview for the past 17 years, and the 33-year-old Parker were charged with failure to perform the duties of a public official, and added that no study is currently being undertaken to determine the possibility of having more bicycle racks on campus.
Today last chance to register for chess tournament

Today is the last day to register for the second annual Observer Chess Tournament. All students, faculty and staff are invited to participate. The registration fees are $4 per person. All fees must be paid to the Observer office from 1 to 4 p.m. A $2 registration fee is charged.

The tournament will begin Friday night at 7 p.m. The Observer will carry a pairings for the students.

by Ken Bradford
Staff Reporter

The Black Cultural Arts room, located on the second floor of the LaFortune Student Center, has opened for student use. On display is a book, slides, fact sheets, and other articles relating to minority cultures.

Carol H. L. Jones, director of the Black Cultural Arts program, called the facility a valuable resource of research material and stressed its availability to all students.

Lawson pointed out other uses of the Black Cultural room. He said the room is used for meetings of minority student groups and "allows students to drop in to socialize, to meet each other."

Lawson added that the program hopes to bring about a "greater awareness of the black community" at Notre Dame. The program is sponsoring a series of seven movies starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerta, student forums, and discussions.

"Hopefully we can expand the facility sometime in the near future," said Lawson, as a means of presenting the black experience on stage. Lawson added.

Square dance this Friday

Notre Dame's first 25-cent square dance this Friday night also marks the first time the art department will relax its control of the field house since its takeover several years ago.

Boris Jelercic, president of Zahm, Colette Miller, president of Fashion, and the registrar of the Colorado Club collaborated with the Student Affairs office in

Scott to return to Africa

Chicago, New York, or San Francisco.

For Scott and his three children who travelled with him, the adventure to life in the University town of Badan was not too difficult. The university itself assisted the international students by providing a valuable source of research material and stressed its availability to all students.

Lawson pointed out other uses of the Black Cultural Arts room. He said the room is used for meetings of minority student groups and "allows students to drop in to socialize, to meet each other."

Lawson added that the program hopes to bring about a "greater awareness of the black community" at Notre Dame. The program is sponsoring a series of seven movies starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerts, student forums, and discussions.

"Hopefully we can expand the facility sometime in the near future," said Lawson, as a means of presenting the black experience on stage. Lawson added.

Square dance this Friday

Notre Dame's first 25-cent square dance this Friday night also marks the first time the art department will relax its control of the field house since its takeover several years ago.

Boris Jelercic, president of Zahm, Colette Miller, president of Fashion, and the registrar of the Colorado Club collaborated with the Student Affairs office in

Scott to return to Africa

Chicago, New York, or San Francisco.

For Scott and his three children who travelled with him, the adventure to life in the University town of Badan was not too difficult. The university itself assisted the international students by providing a valuable source of research material and stressed its availability to all students.

Lawson pointed out other uses of the Black Cultural Arts room. He said the room is used for meetings of minority student groups and "allows students to drop in to socialize, to meet each other."

Lawson added that the program hopes to bring about a "greater awareness of the black community" at Notre Dame. The program is sponsoring a series of seven movies starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerts, student forums, and discussions.

"Hopefully we can expand the facility sometime in the near future," said Lawson, as a means of presenting the black experience on stage. Lawson added.

Square dance this Friday

Notre Dame's first 25-cent square dance this Friday night also marks the first time the art department will relax its control of the field house since its takeover several years ago.

Boris Jelercic, president of Zahm, Colette Miller, president of Fashion, and the registrar of the Colorado Club collaborated with the Student Affairs office in

Scott to return to Africa

Chicago, New York, or San Francisco.

For Scott and his three children who travelled with him, the adventure to life in the University town of Badan was not too difficult. The university itself assisted the international students by providing a valuable source of research material and stressed its availability to all students.

Lawson pointed out other uses of the Black Cultural Arts room. He said the room is used for meetings of minority student groups and "allows students to drop in to socialize, to meet each other."

Lawson added that the program hopes to bring about a "greater awareness of the black community" at Notre Dame. The program is sponsoring a series of seven movies starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerts, student forums, and discussions.

"Hopefully we can expand the facility sometime in the near future," said Lawson, as a means of presenting the black experience on stage. Lawson added.

Square dance this Friday

Notre Dame's first 25-cent square dance this Friday night also marks the first time the art department will relax its control of the field house since its takeover several years ago.

Boris Jelercic, president of Zahm, Colette Miller, president of Fashion, and the registrar of the Colorado Club collaborated with the Student Affairs office in

Scott to return to Africa

Chicago, New York, or San Francisco.

For Scott and his three children who travelled with him, the adventure to life in the University town of Badan was not too difficult. The university itself assisted the international students by providing a valuable source of research material and stressed its availability to all students.

Lawson pointed out other uses of the Black Cultural Arts room. He said the room is used for meetings of minority student groups and "allows students to drop in to socialize, to meet each other."

Lawson added that the program hopes to bring about a "greater awareness of the black community" at Notre Dame. The program is sponsoring a series of seven movies starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerts, student forums, and discussions.

"Hopefully we can expand the facility sometime in the near future," said Lawson, as a means of presenting the black experience on stage. Lawson added.

Square dance this Friday

Notre Dame's first 25-cent square dance this Friday night also marks the first time the art department will relax its control of the field house since its takeover several years ago.

Boris Jelercic, president of Zahm, Colette Miller, president of Fashion, and the registrar of the Colorado Club collaborated with the Student Affairs office in

Scott to return to Africa

Chicago, New York, or San Francisco.

For Scott and his three children who travelled with him, the adventure to life in the University town of Badan was not too difficult. The university itself assisted the international students by providing a valuable source of research material and stressed its availability to all students.

Lawson pointed out other uses of the Black Cultural Arts room. He said the room is used for meetings of minority student groups and "allows students to drop in to socialize, to meet each other."

Lawson added that the program hopes to bring about a "greater awareness of the black community" at Notre Dame. The program is sponsoring a series of seven movies starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerts, student forums, and discussions.

"Hopefully we can expand the facility sometime in the near future," said Lawson, as a means of presenting the black experience on stage. Lawson added.

Square dance this Friday

Notre Dame's first 25-cent square dance this Friday night also marks the first time the art department will relax its control of the field house since its takeover several years ago.

Boris Jelercic, president of Zahm, Colette Miller, president of Fashion, and the registrar of the Colorado Club collaborated with the Student Affairs office in

Scott to return to Africa

Chicago, New York, or San Francisco.

For Scott and his three children who travelled with him, the adventure to life in the University town of Badan was not too difficult. The university itself assisted the international students by providing a valuable source of research material and stressed its availability to all students.

Lawson pointed out other uses of the Black Cultural Arts room. He said the room is used for meetings of minority student groups and "allows students to drop in to socialize, to meet each other."

Lawson added that the program hopes to bring about a "greater awareness of the black community" at Notre Dame. The program is sponsoring a series of seven movies starting October 3. Also included in the plans are exhibitions, concerts, student forums, and discussions.

"Hopefully we can expand the facility sometime in the near future," said Lawson, as a means of presenting the black experience on stage. Lawson added.
Two of the linebackers who drew considerable praise from their coach were junior Greg Collins (6-3, 228) and senior Gary Potempa (6-4, 230). "Greg had an exceptional game," Kelly said of the Troy, Michigan native. "He made 18 tackles, by far the most on the squad, in addition to dropping enemy runners three times for 12 minus-yards.

"Potempa's performance warranted the game ball," Kelly went on. "Tyliss, Ill. native made eight tackles, including one for a nine-yard loss.

"Together with Sherri Smith (6-2, 210) and Drew Mahalic (6-4, 254), the pair gives the Irish linebacking unit a great deal of speed and flexibility, more than it has enjoyed in the last couple of seasons. "There is no question about it, we've got a greater amount of quickness and more flexibility," Kelly said. "All four can play other linebacking positions as well.

"I always thought that having toughness didn't always mean one could play the position," Kelly continued. "Reaction is far more important, and when coupled with aggressiveness, you have the ideal linebacker, the kind people talk about." Kelly certainly has this combination in his four-some of backers this year. In fact, where one does not have a certain quality, it is always complemented by another.

"Gary's big asset is his physicalness," Kelly said. "He has the reputation on the practice field of being the hard-hitter. The backs look out for him. He's a solid-type player and very reliable.

"Greg's greatest asset is his willingness to throw his body at all times," Kelly went on. "Greg compensates his speed with his knowledge of the game and this willingness to become involved. There were a couple of situations the other day that looked hopeless. Yet, Greg came out of them and made great plays.

"Sherri is the opposite of Collins. He is more the finesse-type than the physical. He is able to slip blocks, has that good quickness and an above-average knowledge of the game.

"Gary's greatest asset is his physicalness," Kelly said. "He has the reputation on the practice field of being the hard-hitter. The backs look out for him. He's a solid-type player and very reliable.

"Greg's greatest asset is his willingness to throw his body at all times," Kelly went on. "Greg compensates his speed with his knowledge of the game and this willingness to become involved. There were a couple of situations the other day that looked hopeless. Yet, Greg came out of them and made great plays.

"Sherri is the opposite of Collins. He is more the finesse-type than the physical. He is able to slip blocks, has that good quickness and an above-average knowledge of the game.

Two Irish linebackers, Jim Musuraca (47) and Drew Mahalic (45) engull a Michigan State ballcarrier in last year's 14-6 victory. Musuraca has graduated, but Mahalic and a cluster of others are back for the '73 campaign.

"Drew is a combination of the two He can be physical. He also possesses the feel quickness (being a quarterback in high school, Mahalic is the fastest runner in the group) to be a finesse-type backer.

"And because he has the greatest amount of amount of playing time, Drew is more knowledgeable," Kelly said.

"The toughest thing for all of them is that they must learn the pass responsibility," Kelly said. "They are expected to play run first, then pass. In the secondary, it is just the opposite.

"They are in the no-man's land between the forcing unit (the defensive line) and the deep secondary. The linebackers have a great deal of real estate to cover.

"I am hopeful that all the people will improve as the season progresses," Kelly said of the four. "However, I still think we need two other people to work with them. Tony Novakov (a 5-11, 200 lb. sophomore) has been doing a good job.

"I am also anxious for Tim Sullivan (a 6-3, 227 lb. senior) to regain what he has shown us in the past seasons."

"If Saturday's performance was any indication of things to come in 1973, Notre Dame's defense appears to have made great strides since last year. And if the Irish win a national championship, a group of linebackers, who shortly might gain the nickname "Kelly's Heroes," will play an important part.