Astronauts to help launch open house

by Jack D'Aurora
Staff Reporter

Commemorating 100 years of Notre Dame engineering, the College of Engineering will sponsor a symposium this Friday, to be moderated by five U.S. astronauts.

The symposium is part of a two-day celebration, the beginning of which is a departamental open house for the alumni, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:35 a.m. on Friday. According to College of Engineering Dean Joseph Hogan, "All Engineering students will be excused from their Engineering classes on that day, and will also be excused from all other classes after 11:00." A student luncheon will be held at 11:30, according to Hogan. According to Hogan, "All Engineering students who have received awards throughout the year." Approximately 150 students will attend the luncheon in the ACC Monogram Room. The symposium will begin at 2:00 with an eight-minute film to give the audience "a sense of what it is to be in outer space," said Hogan. "Afterwards, the guest panelists, astronauts William A. Anders, Col. Frank Borman, Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, and James A. McDivitt, will each make an opening statement. Fr. Hesburgh will follow with a number of thought-provoking questions." Anders and Borman were members of the Apollo 8 crew, which made the first lunar flight. Currently, Anders is a commissioner of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, and Borman is senior vice president of operations for Eastern Airlines.

Conrad, who commanded Apollo 12 and piloted the Gemini 5 and 11 missions, and Dr. Kerwin were members of the Skylab 2 crew. Conrad now is vice president-operations for American Television and Communications Corporation, Denver, Colo. A medical doctor, Kerwin recently was named chief of physician astronauts for NASA. McDivitt, who is senior vice president of Consumers Power Company, Jackson, Mich., commanded the Apollo 9 ten-day earth orbital mission and was com­mand pilot of Gemini 4, a 6-orbit mission. Hogan said that the symposium will be a philosophical discussion rather than a technological one. Topics such as the implications of traveling in a tiny spacecraft and the future of mankind will be ad­dressed. Though originally scheduled to take place in the Center for Continuing Education, due to large public interest, the event will be conducted in the ACC arena. Engineering students are given ticket preference, noted Hogan.

A Centennial Mass will be celebrated in Sacred Heart Church at 5:06. Rev. Theodore Hesburgh will be the principal celebrant, and Associate Provost, Rev. Ferdinand Brown, will act as homilist. At a banquet to be held the night, twelve individuals and one philanthropic foundation will receive Honor Awards from the College of Engineering. The newly instituted award, to be bestowed annually, acknowledges a significant contribution to the advancement of engineering or architecture, or the meritorious achievement in other fields by an engineer or architect. The award is a Steuben glass bowl with the University's seal on it. Honor Award recipients include Dr. Thomas P. Carney, a University trustee and senior vice president of research and development of G.D. Searle and Co., Chicago, Ill.; J. Allan MacLean, former president of Reliance Electric Co., Mishawaka, Ind.; William D. Mansy, vice-president of Engineered Products Group, Cabot Corporation, Kokomo, Ind.; Martin A. Match, executive vice president of the Match Corp., Colton, Calif.; Raymond Schubmehl, professor emeritus, University of Notre Dame College of Engineering; Frederic C. Shadle, vice president of AVCO Precision Products Division, Cincinnati, Ohio; the five astronauts and the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation.

The speaker for the banquet is Dr. Dwight Nesmith, director of cooperative education, College of Engineering, Kansas State University. The following day at 10:00 a.m., eleven distinguished engineers will be awarded honorary doctor of engineering degrees by the University during a special convocation.

Dr. Jerome Wiesner, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will be the principal speaker at the convocation and "will discuss the relationship of technology to society," said Hogan. Those receiving honorary doctorates are: Dr. Jay W. Forrester, R. Buckminster Fuller, William P. Lear, Sr., David Packard, and Admiral Hyman Rickover.

Also, Dr. Robert C. Seams, Jr., Dr. H. Guyford Stever, Dr. Werner Von Braun, Leo Vogel, Thomas Watson, Jr., and Dr. Wiesner.

Notre Dame, which was the first American Catholic university to offer engineering courses, provides undergraduate and graduate degree programs in aerospace, chemical, civil, electrical and mechanical engineering, metallurgy and materials science, engineering science and architecture. The College of Engineering, under Dr. Joseph C. Hogan, dean, includes six departments with 85 faculty members and 1,009 students including freshman intents.
DENPASAR, Bali (UPI)—A Pan American World Airways 707 jetliner crashed in flames in mountainous country as it was approaching the airport here Monday, police reported. Search crews had to travel through jungle to reach the crash site and there was no immediate word on casualties.

BANGKOK (UPI)—The withdrawal of about one-third of the 13,500 American troops in Thailand began Monday with the redeployment of an A-7 fighter squadron to the United States, a U.S. military spokesman said.

CINCINNATI (UPI)—More than 700 Cincinnati school teachers call off a Monday in a long-anticipated personnel cutback caused by money problems.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon Monday nominated Roger P. Davies, deputy assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs since 1966, to be new U.S. ambassador to Cyprus.

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—Vice President Gerald Ford and Sen. Edward Kennedy D-Mass., are the leading contenders for the Republican and Democratic nominations for President, according to a poll in Monday's edition of the Des Moines Register.

Evening showers threatened to spoil the night's activities, but after a quick call to the weather bureau An Tostal organizers decided to weather the storm, rather than move to Stepan Center. Several events were forced from the schedule due to rain, but the ones that went Monday more than made up for the loss.

For example, the perennially successful jail record more than 400 convictions as the An Tostal posse rounded up dozens of "the guilty" and nearly every pretty girl they saw. An Tostal's Chief Architect, Mike "Hush" Braunwalder, an Accounting major, is credited with building the "most escape-proof jail" ever constructed for the festival, as no more than ten escaped through a small break in the North Wall's unelectricified snow fence.

An Tostal '74 — "the best one yet" — is all but at an end, except for one or two special traditions. And one of these is putting all the winners' names in the paper so they can prove what they did back home, and one supposes, have some yellowed news clippings to pull out and chuckle over at future class reunions. So grab your scissors — the following is the 1974 An Tostal Roll of Honor.

Gentle Thursday

First of all, a pair of real winners, Kathy Keyes and Patty Lurel, deserve special mention for arranging the greatest show of affection An Tostal has ever seen. Through their efforts, more than 300 ladies of Notre Dame and St. Mary's were able to send daisies to their favorite fellas. That's amour.

Lurel, deserve special mention for arranging the greatest show of affection An Tostal has ever seen. Through their efforts, more than 300 ladies of Notre Dame and St. Mary's were able to send daisies to their favorite fellas. That's amour.

In a hard-fought battle of the brains, Notre Dame maintained its six year unbeaten record against St. Mary's College in the An Tostal Trivia Bowl. Emcee, Art Ferranti, Valuable Player Hawk Stevens (in blue negligee) and teammates. That's amour.

Mary Jane Bolinske, coordinator of the tournament, said, "The girls really were great and I think all 12 teams which entered the tourney had a great time."

BEER Farley and the Hops proved to be more than the Notre Dame varsity basketball players could handle as Most Valuable Player Mary Clemency led the Hops to a thrilling 41-40 victory over Least Valuable Player Hawk Stevens (in blue negligee) and teammates. Mary Jane Bolinske, coordinator of the girls' tournament which decided the varsity's opponent, hinted that the boxing gloves the men were required to wear may have had a hand in the loss, but said, "The girls really were great and I think all 12 teams which entered the tourney had a great time."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, facing a Thursday deadline, spent much time Monday in consultation with his lawyers and aides to decide on a response to the unprecedented congressional subpoena for his Watergate tapes.

Meanwhile, the senior Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee, Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, disclosed the impeachment inquiry panel has prepared another request for White House material in addition to that already demanded in the subpoena.

Hutchinson did not say whether the new request had been delivered to the White House, what it contained or what aspect of the impeachment process it related to.

Discussing Nixon's strategy session with his counsel, White House spokesmen said it was the second consecutive day of meetings in which Nixon had shared his thoughts but made no final decision about the subpoena.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren pictured Nixon as having alternated over the past few days between cruises in solitude on the Potomac and a flurry of Watergate meetings.

Nixon spent the weekend alone at Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland, then returned earlier than expected Sunday to consult with his chief lawyers, James D. St. Clair and J. Fred Buzhardt.

"It is fair to say he has given a great deal of time to this matter," Warren said, adding, "The President told me no decisions have been made in terms of the content or form of the reply."

Warren turned aside questions as to whether Nixon would offer White House-prepared transcripts in lieu of the tapes themselves, how and when the decision would be announced, and whether the President would issue a public statement at the time.

The House committee ordered Nixon April 11 to turn over recordings of 42 conversations he had with five top aides. The talks occurred between Feb. 20 and April 11 last year, when the Watergate cover-up began to unravel. Nixon maintains it was during that period he learned for the first time of the extent of involvement of administration officials.

Special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, in a separate action, has subpoenaed 64 Nixon conversations for use in the cover-up conspiracy trial of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and six former officials at the White House and the Nixon re-election committee.

Nixon has until May 2 to respond to this demand. Warren refused to discuss published reports which quoted White House aides as saying Nixon planned to offer the House committee transcripts of the subpoenaed tapes, with deletions of information which Nixon considered classified for national security reasons or irrelevant to the impeachment inquiry.

Warren said Nixon planned to fly to Tucson, Ariz., Thursday to address the 25th annual meeting of the Mississippi Economic Council, and to Phoenix, Ariz., May 3 to address a group of Arizona Republicans.

Fr. Hesburgh visits An Tostal

Fr. Hesburgh made a surprise visit to the impersonation contest stage to wish An Tostal revelers well and welcome springtime to Notre Dame. After his departure, Kevin O'Neill and Jim Corgel, a first-year MBA student, earned a share of the Impersonation Contest championship.

"The President told me no decisions have been made in terms of the content or form of the reply."

Harrington (cplt.), Roosevelt Thomas, Terry McGann, and Ron Hein carried home their two baby ducklings, a lot of pride, and the 1974 Bookstore Basketball championship.

Vince Mecoli, who deserves boundless praise of arranging the whittling of a 138-team field down to one champion said of the tournament once it was over, "I had a lot of fun and I hope everyone else did, too."

Eddie Elam, from Off-Campus, shaved balloons better than anyone else at Notre Dame and he proved it Friday.

Remember the "ring around the collar" commercial where the guy trying to pass the orange to the pretty blonde never gets the chance? That turned out to be the basis for the surprise event, only in this instance water balloons were substituted for the oranges. Observers report the event made quite a splash. So did the extra water balloons when they were thrown into the audience.

The Amateur Hour ended in a standing ovation for "Grease," a Glee Club group comprised of Tom Rooney, Jay Angeluzzi, Greg O'Toole, Rob Foster, Jeff Brunner, Paul Shay, Mike Savion, and Craig Spengel. Performing several ShanaNaNa songs brilliantly, "Grease" ran away with the Amateur Hour — not even Herschel co-wrote the Magnificent Horse, who performed a feel never before seen on stage (and indescribable here) came close in the balloting.

The audience then departed Stepan Center for a half hour to witness a "tremendous fireworks display" (More at the end of this article). Once inside again, free-concert-goers enjoyed a three-hour event once it was over, "I had a lot of fun and I hope everyone else did, too."

Fragile Inconsistency

Well, we’re back where we started.

Reconvening yesterday, after having suspended the University guidelines on alcohol last Friday, the Student Life Council confirmed that suspension. There were no other alternatives, due to the recent ruling on legal liability by the Indiana Court of Appeals.

The responsibility for parties now goes back to the individual halls. The University must once again assume the posture of hypocrisy as the rectors prepare to accept the delicate responsi­bility for drinking and party rules. The progress and hopes that Student Affairs, particularly the Dean of Students’ office, had sought, are destroyed.

What now remains is a fragile inconsistency among du lac’s twenty-one rectors in legislating and enforcing party and drinking guidelines in each of their respective halls.

In other words, a difference of enforcement between Hall A and Hall B could very well end up in Office D—The University guidelines on drinking and partying in each of their halls and their staffs, then the fuse to the explosive consequences will be felt by all the halls suffering the consequences of such a conflict.

The rectors must now be the main link. Unless some informal but consistent understanding develops between the halls and their staffs, then the fuse to a quite a bombshell will have been lit. The risk is too high that conflicts will arise—only to end in forced action by the University as a result of the inane Indiana court decision.

Let the rectors unite in form and purpose in enforcing party rules. If not, the explosive consequences will be felt by student and staff alike.

—Tom Drape

Death of a Senior

Spring fever is a dangerous disease. If detected early, perhaps it is easier to come to terms with. In many cases, it slowly slips like water through clutching fingers, lost. Twenty-one is a fearful period in time, that bitterness is a futile weapon in The Waste Land. Whether or not the rectors still have the ability to unite in form and purpose in enforcing party rules, the University as a result of the inane Indiana court decision.

What are the roots that clutch, what branches grow Out of this stybious rubbish? Sun of man, You cannot say, or guess, for you know only A heap of broken images, where the sun beats...
Another's Dignity
by Fr. J. Shilts

If we are hopeful that an education at Notre Dame will also be a growth in honor, we have to first agree that honesty cannot be assumed to be present. It can be encouraged, taught by example and properly recognized and rewarded but it cannot be imposed. A student can grow in honor (as can any person in the University community) to the extent that he chooses to make his personal dignity and the need to be honorable if it is to enjoy dignity. It is a valuable but fragile gift we have, our sense of dignity. With it we find the courage and the will to live according to convictions we consider valuable. Without it we will under the pressure of criticism or derision. Any dignity we enjoy or possess as a student is open to damage by an excessive dose of such criticism or derision. We begin to wonder if we are worthy anything at all after a heavy barrage of insults.

Therefore, our approach to honor at the University should be along the lines of respecting the dignity of each individual in our community. We may be created short or tall, dark or fair but we have all been created good. What we do with that innate goodness is the responsibility of each individual who must see to his own growth. But it is the responsibility of the community, too. For students who inhibit growth by our way of interacting, by our shown respect for each other's personal dignity. The games are still being played. We may just as well have called it student decapitation. The words were the same for an artful deceiver as they were for an honorable student.

Dr. Pat McLaughlin is the newly-elected Student President.

What does honor bring to mind? "Honor" brings to mind the security guard who tells you that you can't get your car on campus; not because it's after six o'clock, but because "students are trying to sneak cars on overnight..." And then he lets someone on campus who is over 35, driving a cadillac-without a parking sticker, a license, or a reason. "Honor" brings to mind the teacher who tells his students not to worry about grades, then decides on a curve where a 95 is a "B-" and wonders why the hell there is cut throat competition for grades. It's a place where students are penalized because they all did their work.

"Honor" brings to mind the student who plagiarizes a paper, as well as a faculty member who uses a student's work in his own book or research.

"Honor" brings to mind the black student who is asked for his ID wherever he goes; not because he's a student but because he's black.

"Honor" brings to mind the student who cheats on an exam for a better grade and then tells the teacher they cheated and the class is informed. But no one has the nerve to tell the teacher they cheated. "Honor" brings to mind the girl who is singled out in class...not because she's a student but because she's a girl.

"Honor" brings to mind the approval of procedures not because they are good but because "a lot of work was put into these proposals."

"Honor" brings to mind a discussion of honor where we create a double standard in which "students," "staff," and "administration," rather than just talking about "people" or "Christians" where the rules and sanctions will apply to everyone. That's what honor is all about. You can't change the attitude of people in their "university" roles. You must change it in their real life roles.

We talk an awful lot about things like "honor" and "university community." Who and what are they? Are they just buzz words thrown around the campus, change their state of mind to fit the convenience of the moment? Do they mean anything at all? At night only to change once more? Does a statement on "honor" bring about changes? Let's look at it in a different way. One of the SLC observed that each major group on the campus felt they were honorable while the other groups didn't think so. The students see the faculty and administration as dishonest. The faculty sees the students and administration as dishonest. If someone is dishonest, the SLC ministration sees the faculty and students as foolish. Each group sees their own group as honorable. Each group must fend for itself.

Well, then, we must assume that each group is honorable. Why, then, shouldn't we investigate dishonesty? Someone on the SLC suggested that we should investigate dishonesty through an ombudsman rather than try to set about and define honor. The discussion, however, was sent to a subcommittee.

The students are one step ahead of the game. Three weeks ago, student government's ombudsman service decided to expand operations to include inves­ tigations into reports of dishonesty. It wouldn't be a witch hunt and it wouldn't cause anyone to have to monopolize headlines in the paper. It will help solve practical problems without dragging the student onto the firing line. Most of all, however, it will attempt to eliminate the defensive stances positions before they make themselves known, dishonorable actions. Finally, if didn't take too long to realize that students feel the "school" is dishonest, it will be a (double or triple) standard. We don't need a code to tell us about honor, especially when it is based on a survey to determine what "honor" is. We want to find out at Notre Dame to find out that there was an honor problem. Why wait another couple of months?

Direct Approach
by James P. Danehy

Our cooperative work. Most of you are studying organic chemistry because it is one of the essential prerequisites for admission to dental and medical school. It is my pleasant responsibility to guide you individually as well as collectively, to achieve some understanding of the rational principles which govern it.

But we do now know that there are some among us who prefer another route. Rather, they believe in the "stove" and pretimedated dishonesty they are trying to obtain for their own book or research.

Cheating is a social sin, not just a violation of an individual's personal integrity. The cheater can get what he wants at the expense of every decent member of the class. The cheater's behavior is an intentional assault on every other member of his group. The cheater gambles on the cynical assumption which he is safe because accusations of a cheater is not socially acceptable behavior, although cheating itself is acceptable (albeit grudgingly).

Undoubtedly, in this complex web of fact assumptions which underlie every coherent group (including Notre Dame), when some few of you reported to me that cheating had occurred in November 12, you suggested that I do something about it. I provide corps of proctors to patrol the examination room, use multiple key examination with controlled sealing.

This letter has a two-fold purpose: to explain why I firmly reject any attempt solution to the problem based on unilateral action on my part; to suggest a solution which is simpler, more reasonable, and more Christian.

There are two quite different reasons why I refuse to accept any responsibility for attacking this problem. First, it is not my problem. It is our problem. A major group each of us has the responsibility of protecting his own personal, (and cooperatively the entire group) from any criminally dishonest behavior. If I were to assume sole responsibility, as some of you have suggested, I would be acquiescing in your decision, conscious or unconscious, not to fulfill your responsibility to yourself and to your community.

My second reason is perhaps the more important of the first one. It is no means insignificant to me. For more than three months now I have worked as closely and personally with you as it is possible for one person to work with more than three hundred people. I have tried to help each of you whomever you are to be your best, and I have taken for granted the personal integrity of each one I have met. It is simply repugnant to me to exchange roles on the occasion of an examination.

How can we discharge our responsibility jointly? On the evening of December 17 I will be present; of course, as I was on October 8 and November 12, and I will have personally placed the examination papers as far apart as possible in the North Dining Hall. In order to minimize the embarrassment consequent to crowding, I will, as on the previous occasions, respond to your request for clarification if you raise your hand. I believe it is almost impossible for any person, much less two or three persons working together, to attempt cheating without it becoming either visible or audible to someone in the immediate vicinity. I simply asking you this: If you are aware of dishonesty behavior, report it firmly and loudly on the table-top three or four times, and continue with your work. This signal will serve two purposes: it will alert the entire class that a brazen outlaw has once more challenged us but for once, not with impunity; it will reassert our desire to come clean to the area concerned. Hopefully this will be enough to discourage continuation of the activity. Remember, our purpose is not to catch the cheater, but to put an end to cheating.

Please do not be dissuaded from this simple, direct effective action by the immoral attitude which you long ago absorbed in elementary or secondary school: that if it is "wrong" to turn in a cheater. Reread what I have written in the second and third paragraphs of this letter. The cheater does not have a right to your protection while he lies to you. And no one has the right to ostracize you for doing an honest and courageous thing.

SMC confers two honorary degrees

Members of the Church hierarchy and American and Italian dignitaries joined Dr. Edward L. Henry, president of Saint Mary's College, when the College conferred honorary degrees upon two leading Italian citizens. This event took place at the College's Rome, Italy campus on Saturday, April 20, 1974. Those honored included the Honorable Oscar Luigi Scalfaro and Dr. Licio Pallotta.

Participating in the degree ceremonies with Dr. Henry were His Eminence Cardinal John Wright, Prefect of the Congregation of the Religious at the Vatican, His Eminence Cardinal Ugo Pletti, Vicar General of Rome, and the Honorable John Volpe, United States Ambassador to Rome.

Oscar Scalfaro has long been a servant to his people. Graduated from the Catholic University of the Sacred Heart, Milan, as a young man, he took up the cause of the imprisoned anti-fascists and brought aid to their families during the Fascist-Nazi occupation of Italy. This concerned involvement led him to be elected in 1946 by the Catholics of Piedmont to the Constituent Assembly. He has been re-elected for six consecutive legislatures.

Oscar Scalfaro has participated actively in his country's government. He has held the positions of Secretary and Vice-President of the Christian Democrats in the Chamber of Deputies. He was appointed Undersecretary of State in 1964 and has served in that capacity in various ministries: labor and welfare, justice, internal affairs, and the President's council.

Dr. Scalfaro recently served as Minister of Education for Italy. He made vital sweeping changes in administrative and scholastic organization, affecting personnel status, management of schools, modernization of curriculum in both secondary schools and universities.

Dr. Scalfaro continues to be a servant of his fellow Italians. Always active in the Christian Democratic Party, he is currently chairman of the Legislative Office for foreign students of Rome.

Currently, Dr. and Mrs. Pallotta assist his sister, the Superior General of the Missionaries della Famiglia, in providing loving homes for needy and abandoned children in many Italian cities.

Since 1976, Dr. Pallotta has collaborated with the administration of Saint Mary's College, lending his expertise to help make the College's Rome program more meaningful and culturally enriching.

The degree ceremony was held in the Church of Santa Susanna, with a reception following at the Hotel Titian. This hotel is the "home" of Saint Mary's College students, while participating in the Rome program. Among the guests were Giuseppe Lazzati, president, Catholic University of Milan, Giulio Andreotti, former prime minister of Italy, Franco Malfini, minister of public instruction, and numerous religious, senators, deputies, and professors from Milan, Turin and Navara.

Ericksen announces opening of Senior Bar for '75 seniors

by Tom Rauso

Greg Ericksen, President of next year's Senior Class, announced the final arrangements for Junior Bar Night at the Senior Bar. The special opening of the Bar will take place tonight, from 11:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Beers will cost 25 cents a pint. Junior Bar Night will only be open to those twenty-one or over.

"Our purpose is to get Juniors involved in frequenting the Senior Bar next year," explained Ericksen. "We want everyone to have a good time and start thinking about Senior Year and all that will encompass." Ericksen also revealed plans for next Fall's Senior trip to the USC game, which takes place November 30.

"The trip will cost an economical $225, and that includes the round trip charter flight, four days and nights in a motel directly across from Disneyland, and admission to the game as well as several pre-game social events in Los Angeles. The exact price, however, is dependent on exactly how many people we have for the trip," explained Ericksen.

Letters and a questionnaire concerning the trip will be sent to all Juniors next week. Ericksen explained that he is trying to arrange the plans so that anyone who wants to go on the trip can.

International cultural festival to be held

by Mary Janca
Staff Reporter

An evening of color, song, dance, and cultural heritage awaited all attending the fourth annual International Festival this Saturday at 8 p.m. in Washington Hall. The event is sponsored by the International Students Organization of Notre Dame and St. Mary's and is hosted chiefly by foreign students attending N.D. or S.M.

According to General Chairman Julio Baez, "the purpose of the festival is to show the gratitude of the international students to the Notre Dame and South Bend communities for their hospitality."

All students and faculty and residents are invited to attend the festival, and admission is free, he said.

A program of dances, folksongs, and instrumental pieces, representative of other cultures and countries is scheduled.

The festively opened with a glimpse of American folklore by singer-guitarist Nancy Sertoes, followed by a Chinese operatic play performed by Chicagoan Neil Liu. Professor George Hu of Chicago will demonstrate the art of Kung Fu, while a Siamese dance will be presented by Chinese grad student Fu, while a Siamese dance will be followed by a Chinese operetic play by Mary Janca. Margret Chase Smith coming to Bulla Shed

Former Senator from Maine, Margaret Chase Smith, will be the special guest as Campus Ministry resumes its lunchon program at the Bulla Shed this Wednesday, April 24 at 11:15 a.m.

Ms. Smith will be the sixth guest since the lunchon series began last November. Preceding her were Fr. Hesburgh, Fr. Danne, Deans Macbeath and Lally, Darger Phelps, and playwright-actor Jason Miller.

A lunch consisting of submarine sandwiches, chips, homemade cookies, and drinks will be served. There will be ample time to question and dialogue with Ms. Smith.

Positions open in student assembly includes three each in Holy Cross, Regina, and McCandless Halls, five in LeMans, and one each for the off-campus and day students.

Students interested in running should contact either Smith at 4050 or Legislative Commissioner Joanne Garrett at 4600.

Evening with candidates to be held

by Ken Bradford
Staff Reporter

Irish hit, but stall with Bulldogs

by Sam Yannucci

It was a great day for Coach "Jake" Kline's Irish baseball squad, as they propelled their unbelievably offensive performance near the top of the Big East standings. Yesterday's doubleheader with hard-hitting Ferris State University was a testament to their performance.

During the course of the two afternoon games, including 6 home runs, 7 triples, and 11 doubles -- were sprayed around the Carrier Field while an amazing 46 runs were scored.

In the opener, Notre Dame shortstop Jim Pomarico doubled in the first and then went on to score, highlighting the offensive prowess. Ferris State had a chance to equalize with two hits and a walk in the top of the second, but it was too little too late.

As the game went on, Notre Dame's offense carried the day, scoring 9 runs in the second inning and 10 runs in the third inning. Pomarico's 3-run home run was the highlight of the day. He finished with a .563 batting average and 5 RBIs.

Ferris State regained the lead briefly in the top of the third when they pushed across two runs. ND tied it at 4-4 in their half when Pat Coleman walked, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored on a wild pitch. The game wasn't deadlocked for long as a fourth inning home run gave Ferris State a 5-4 lead and sent Scholl to the locker room.

But again the Irish bounced back in the bottom of the inning. Naussbaum singled and scored on Hansen's triple. Although the senior captain from Erie, Pa. was thrown out trying to score on Mark Schmidt's grounder, the Irish managed to nudge into the lead as Pomarico came home Schmitz.

Remarkably, the 5th inning was void of scoring, but in the sixth, Ferris State hit Irish relief pitcher Mark Schmidt for a double run and once again regained the lead 8-7. The Irish rallied as rightfielder Ron Goodman tripled and came home on Schmitz's single. Pete Penick followed with a single to right but he too was forced on Schmidt's fielder's choice.

That made it 9-7, but the Irish were not done yet. During those 11 autumn weeks, Schmidt was a disruptive force for the Irish defense, and his performance was critical in keeping the Irish in the game.

The prototype for all this two-out hitting was the emergence of other individuals in the lineup besides those mentioned, they are both happy with the group's retention.

The 9-8, 10-7 split with Ferris State is the most encouraging thing at the moment," Boulac admits. "We've trying to expose them to game experience make him our leader on the line.

"Mark's strength is his great attitude, his willingness to learn and adjust. He's a strong hitter with good timing and has the experience of playing the best middle guards in the country. If he learned how to handle the bat, I'm sure he could handle the ball better," Boulac concludes.

Although the Irish were not on the scoreboard in the 5th and 6th innings to vault them into an almost unsurmountable 14-7 lead.

Casper, who lettered at both tackle and guard in last year's championship game, has the potential to be a game changer. Mike Moore is attempting to make his case against the Bulldog defense, and it was a magnificent day at the plate for Notre Dame. Captain Casper was at the plate.

Tom Hansen led the Irish barrage with 4 hits, while Jim Smith (4 hits) was named the Cleveland (Ohio) Daily News Player of the Year. Hansen batted .465 in his 4 year Notre Dame career.

The 11-7 Irish host the Wolverines of Michigan this afternoon in a doubleheader beginning at 1 o'clock at Carter Field.

shortstop Jim Smith crosses home plate with another tally. Despite scoring a total of 24 runs on the afternoon, the Irish could only manage a split with Ferris State.

"Although he still is a long way from Dave, Robin has built his own reputation as a hard worker as well. He might not have the blazing speed to catch a ball deep, but he'll catch the ball," Boulac says.

Injuries certainly can hit with an unsteady pitching rotation. When both Pomarico and Boulac were involved in the lineup in spring drills, all the experimenting the two coaches are not the only player to pay the price during those 11 autumn weeks.

"Notre Dame's season perhaps can be described in two plays, both of which culminated in touchdowns by Eric Kline," Boulac says. "First was the electrifying 85-yard scamper against Southern Illinois. The second was the winning touchdown in the Sugar Bowl when Bulldog miscue before Hansen slapped a single scoring Stratton.
