Paczesny, Sr. Jones give reactions to Mulcahy's housing proposal...

by Ken Bradford
Staff Reporter

Vice President for Student Affairs Brother Just Paczesny yesterday criticized a letter sent out by the Housing Office about the possibility of converting either Flanner or Grace Hall into a women's dormitory next year.

The letter, which was sent Wednesday to hall rectors by Housing Director Fr. John Mulcahy, proposed reconverting Farley Hall for male use and converting one of the two towers for women.

Paczesny said the plans have not been discussed by the University Officers, the group which has the authority to make such a choice. The text of Paczesny's statement follows:

"I am disturbed by the letter from the Director of Student Residence in the Rectors. It forced too many students to conclusions that are unfounded because of inaccurate assumptions."

"The use of the Towers and Farley Hall as examples of possible solutions to the residentiality problems is simply one suggestion made by Father Mulcahy himself. The final decision does not rest with the Director of Student Residence, but with the Officers of the University. At no time have the Officers discussed such a trade-off of a Tower for a hall. A number of other possibilities are under discussion in hope that the solution will result in little disruption and present hall life as possible," Assistant Provost Sr. John Miriam Jones agreed with Paczesny's assessment of the situation.

"Brother Just's statement expresses the actuality of the situation and I concur with it," Jones said in her written statement yesterday.

"I regret the timing of Father Mulcahy's suggestion," she continued. "Its being coupled with the article concerning the various options tends to enlarge it beyond its proper perspective."

"It is only suggestion and, to my knowledge, one that is under serious consideration," Jones concluded.

Paczesny is a member of the Officers of the University while Jones is not. Other members of the body include the University President, the Provost, Assistant Provost and the four other University Vice Presidents. Mulcahy admitted Thursday night that the decision to select the next female dormitory would not be his to make, and that his plan was not the plan of the Student Affairs office. "I can only suggest what I think will work, and I think my plan will," Mulcahy stated.

The release of the plans in Thursday's Observer, Mulcahy said, was meant to trigger reactions by students and administrators to a situation which he believes needs immediate attention. He added that no other halls have been formally discussed as possible for future female use, there is a possibility that other plans for female hall conversions will be submitted.

"I'm in a hurry to get an answer to our problem," Mulcahy noted. "We need an answer soon for the housing office to function properly."

Mulcahy said the problem began when the female student quota for the University was raised from 1000 to 1500. This change necessitates finding housing for an additional 500 females in the next two years.

The decision to admit "extra" women disrupted the on-campus housing situation, Mulcahy noted. Until the quota was raised, there were enough rooms for women on campus.

Mulcahy called his Farley-Towers plan a "workable solution which would put an end to the housing problem."

"The Towers are the only two dorms which can handle the increased female population," he continued. "If the University cannot afford it, then it should have a private corporation to come in and build on the land it leases."

Modular housing might also be an answer to housing situation added McGuire.

"If they can move guys off campus, why can't they move girls off campus?" asked freshman Tom Marvinsac. "If girls want equal rights, then they should be treated like the guys," he added.

"It is just as dangerous for them as it is for the guys," he concluded.

On the other side of the controversy, the women at Farley were thinking along the same lines.

"I don't like this at all because the proposal will move half of the North Quad female population to the other end of the campus," said freshman Kathy Berg. "As it is, students complain about the male-female relationships and then if this happens, there won't be any interaction at all. Guys from the South Quad will not come all the way to the Towers to visit," added Berg. There would be a waste of money to renovate the Towers Berg concluded.

"We need an answer soon for the housing office to function properly."

"I was very, very upset. I would hate to see either Tower to go because we were starting to get things going and as a result, if this proposal does pass, they would be virtually "gone," said Tom Porter, Grace president. Porter added this proposal would cause a warped situation seeing that no freshman would be admitted—the hall would have nothing but sophomores, juniors and seniors.

"The main problem is not the housing situation but the fact that 350 girls are coming. We don't have room to put them anywhere," stated Frank McGuire, Flanner president. "A new dorm is definitely the only solution. If the University cannot afford it, then it should have a private corporation to come in and build on the land it leases."

"I'm in a hurry to get an answer to our problem," Mulcahy noted. "We need an answer soon for the housing office to function properly."

"The Towers are the only two dorms which can handle the increased female population," he continued. "If the University cannot afford it, then it should have a private corporation to come in and build on the land it leases."

Modular housing might also be an answer to housing situation added McGuire.

"If they can move guys off campus, why can't they move girls off campus?" asked freshman Tom Marvinsac. "If girls want equal rights, then they should be treated like the guys," he added.

"It is just as dangerous for them as it is for the guys," he concluded.

On the other side of the controversy, the women at Farley were thinking along the same lines.

"I don't like this at all because the proposal will move half of the North Quad female population to the other end of the campus," said freshman Kathy Berg. "As it is, students complain about the male-female relationships and then if this happens, there won't be any interaction at all. Guys from the South Quad will not come all the way to the Towers to visit," added Berg. There would be a waste of money to renovate the Towers Berg concluded.

"We need an answer soon for the housing office to function properly."

"I was very, very upset. I would hate to see either Tower to go because we were starting to get things going and as a result, if this proposal does pass, they would be virtually "gone," said Tom Porter, Grace president. Porter added this proposal would cause a warped situation seeing that no freshman would be admitted—the hall would have nothing but sophomores, juniors and seniors.

"The main problem is not the housing situation but the fact that 350 girls are coming. We don't have room to put them anywhere," stated Frank McGuire, Flanner president. "A new dorm is definitely the only solution. If the University cannot afford it, then it should have a private corporation to come in and build on the land it leases."

"I'm in a hurry to get an answer to our problem," Mulcahy noted. "We need an answer soon for the housing office to function properly."

"The Towers are the only two dorms which can handle the increased female population," he continued. "If the University cannot afford it, then it should have a private corporation to come in and build on the land it leases."

Modular housing might also be an answer to housing situation added McGuire.

"If they can move guys off campus, why can't they move girls off campus?" asked freshman Tom Marvinsac. "If girls want equal rights, then they should be treated like the guys," he added.

"It is just as dangerous for them as it is for the guys," he concluded.
Junior parents to receive information for weekend

The Junior Parents Weekend committee will begin to mail information to parents this weekend.

Program is scheduled for Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. February 25, 26, and March 4, 1975.

Plans for the weekend include a Friday night hockey game, ND vs. Wisconsin, and a cocktail party afterwards.

Saturday morning begins with collegiate workshops in which the programs in each major are explained and career opportunities all observed. Continuous showings of Notre Dame movie will be shown. That afternoon's activities will include a basketball game, ND vs. Dayton.

Saturday evening will be highlighted by the Junior class Mass, written by members of the class, and the traditional Presidential Dinner.

The weekend will come to a close at a Sunday morning breakfast. Included in the first mailing of information will be a cover letter from Fr. Hesburgh, an explanation letter from Pat Boyle, the weekend chairman, ticket and reservation applications and explanations, and a schedule of events.

Boyle stated "Our intentions are to give information to the parents this weekend. This way, when the students return home for break, they will be able to talk to their parents about the weekend and make any plans."

Junior Class President Augie Grace invited any juniors that are interested to stop by and lend a hand on preparations. Grace stated that he knows time is precious at this time of the semester, but he hopes that classmates could give up 3 hours to help. "We'll be there all day, and food and drinks will be furnished, so have a break and stop in," said Grace. For additional information call Pat Boyle (285-2521), 632 Notre Dame Ave., apt. 2A, or Augie Grace (5654).

---

Sunshine Promotions & Celebration Concerts Presents

BLACK OAK ARKANSAS

and Special Guest: JU JO GUNNE

NOTRE DAME A.C.C.

TUESDAY, DEC. 17

8 P.M.

Tickets: $4.00

$5.00

$6.00

---

THE PLAYBOY CLUB OF MIAMI

WE COMES NOTRE DAME

AND ST. MARY'S TO FLORIDA

ALL ND & SMC STUDENTS, FACULTY & ALUMNI WILL BE ADMITTED BY TELLING THE DOOR BUNNY "WE'RE THE FIGHTING IRISH." SHE WILL THEN ISSUE YOU A CLUB KEY. (18 I.D. REQUIRED.) CASH TRANSACTIONS ONLY.

The Playboy Club of Miami

7701 Biscayne Boulevard, Miami, Florida

(305) 751-7543

---

NOW RENTING

APARTMENTS WITH

two bedroom furnished apartments

Featured:

- community building
- 2 baths in the
- air conditioning
- swimming pool
- dishwasher
- range
- refrigerator
- garbage disposal
- basketball court
- location: 3 blocks from campus!

Erratum

ND Counseling Center will hold their open house Friday, December 4 instead of Saturday, December 7 as stated in yesterday's paper. The time of the opening remains from 1-5 P.M.

---

THE OBSERVER

Friday, December 6, 1974

---

BLACK OAK ARKANSAS

Tickets: $4.00

$5.00

$6.00

---

C

FOR SECOND SEMESTER

APARTMENTS WITH

the student in mind

TWO BEDROOM FURNISHED APARTMENTS

Featuring:

- community building
- 2 baths in the
- air conditioning
- swimming pool
- dishwasher
- range
- refrigerator
- garbage disposal
- basketball court
- location: 3 blocks from campus!

---
Rangel cites power of people

by Andy Praschak
Staff Reporter

Citing the fact that the "American people have the power to steer the future of their own country," Democratic Representative Charles B. Rangel spoke last night in the Center for Continuing Education Auditorium to an audience of approximately 70 people.

Rangel, a member of the House Judiciary Committee received national attention after voting for every article for impeachment presented before the committee. He is also chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus.

"We have the potential to move in the United States to make certain that elected officials are responsive to the people's needs," asserted Rangel. He noted that examples of this power are the number of incumbents defeated in the last election, and the pressure exerted on congressmen for the removal of Nixon from office.

Rangel said that the pressure people exerted on their congressmen after the firing of Cox first jolted the Congress to begin their investigation. "Without this type of pressure, there will only be meaningless investigations, acts being held now with Rockefeller," Rangel said.

According to Rangel, this country, without a doubt, has the capacity to exercise its designs to make certain that the government responds to those needs when it is outraged. "We have to make a commitment that we are going to bring about a change for the better in this country," he said.

Rangel Speaks on Economy

Rangel believes that this nation will soon be facing an economic disaster. "It's always the poor and minorities who are asked to pay the most during these times," he said.

Rangel noted that poor people cannot afford to listen to the White House with its suggestions of "cut the budget, increase the taxes," and doing these things, "we must begin to think of the American people as the making the sacrifices," he noted. He expressed concern that elected officials are not only taking people off the Welfare of human lives.

Rangel Evalluates Ford

Speaking on President Ford, Rangel said that he had hoped that he would be stronger than he appeared to be. "Ford proved himself inorder to the black community by saying he agreed with the position of the whites in the Boston area, even though he was against their use of violence," noted Rangel.

Rangel also revealed that Ford tried to weaken every Civil Rights Act brought before the House but voted for them when their passage was inevitable. Evaluating the present tax laws, Rangel pointed out that millionaires and large corporations are not paying a cent while President Ford is proposing a five percent surtax on anyone making over $7000. "We have to evaluate who is making the profits while President Ford is asking us to make the sacrifices," he noted. He continued by saying that if people are being asked to sacrifice sugar this holiday season, the sugar companies should be asked to sacrifice some of the 1000 percent profit they are presently making. Rangel said that he is tired of talking about Atica, large black population in the prisons and the inhumanity shown to prisoners.

"We must begin to think of the prisoner as an investment and train him in a skill rather than just locking him up and spending $10,000 a year on him.

Academic Council meets to hear Fr. Burtaehall

The University Academic Council met in closed session yesterday to hear Fr. James Burtaehall, provost of the University, address the members. The subject of Burtaehall's report was not released, however, it is known that the Council will meet again on Dec. 11.

In May of 1974, after the Observer had stopped regular publication for the school year the administration announced a proposal for major changes in the Academic Code to be voted on by the Council at a meeting held after the end of finals week.

In November 1972 the Observer discovered that the new Academic calendar was the be released two days after it ceased publication for the semester. All Council meetings for the rest of the semester had been cancelled.

The calendar had initially been approved by the Council at a meeting held after the paper had ceased publication in December 1972. "The subject of the December 11 meeting has not been released.

By providing funds for domestic jobs, Rangel said that they would not only be taking people off welfare roles, but they would also give job opportunities to those who are least likely to be able to protect themselves.

It's the People's Choice

There is a serious lag between the time Congress recognizes a problem and the time it starts to work on a solution, according to Rangel. "We have to place some of the blame for this problem on the people for their choice of representatives," said Rangel.

Rangel pointed out that with thirty five percent of black youth out of work, this country cannot afford to cut funds to domestic programs while the defense department remains untouched in its budget. "We cannot afford to have a Pentagon with its Dr. Strangelove concepts," he noted. By providing funds for domestic jobs, Rangel said that they would not only be taking people off welfare rolls, but they would also give job opportunities to those who are least likely to be able to protect themselves.

SO WHAT PRODUCTS DO YOU GET FOR 99 CENTS?

Males Get

Shampoo - TEGRIN - $2.55
Razor - LADY TRAC II - 99c
Toothbrush - ORAL B - 59c
Mouthwash - LISTERINE - 79c

Females Get

Shampoo - EARTHBOUND - 99c
Razor - LADY TRAC II - $1.00
Toothbrush - Oral B - 99c
Comb - DUPONT - 49c
Aspirin - EXCEDRIN - 99c
Shave Cream - FOAMY - 50c
Pen - FLAIR - 49c
Mouthwash - LISTERINE - 79c
Razor - TRAC II - $1.00
Shampoo - ALBERTO BALSAM - 99c
Cotton Tip SCRUB - 79c

Over three million students have purchased The 99 Cent Experiment. There are only enough available on each campus for one out of six students. Our product is called Superbox and we would really appreciate if you purchased our product at:

THE HAMMES NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE
Co-education differs at ND-Yale

by Gregg Bangs
Staff Reporter

It is well past midnight and a party that started at 9 pm Saturday is still going strong in Dillon Hall, one of the larger dormitories at the University of Notre Dame. Although the Indiana drinking age is legally twenty-one, there seems to be no lack of beer at this get-together. However, at 2 am the party suddenly breaks up. There's plenty of beer left, plenty of food and guys but every one of the twenty or so girls who were at this party has left. Why? Notre Dame students might not be hesitant to break the drinking statutes, but they think twice when contending with the University's parietal rules that state any member of the opposite sex must be out of the men's or women's dorms by 2:00 am on weekends and midnight on weekdays. Thus, at 2 am everybody returns to their respective male or female dorms.

James Brubaker is a sophomore at Yale University. Having come back from a late movie, he starts up the flight of stairs that leads to his third floor single in Morse College. On the way up, he meets a friend of his on the second floor. They talk for quite some time, and Brubaker returns to his room at 2:30 am. The difference between Morse College and Notre Dame's Dillon Hall is that Brubaker's friend was female. She not only wasn't breaking parietals, she lives in Morse College—which is co-ed, like the twelve other undergraduate colleges at Yale.

Both Yale University and the University of Notre Dame were once undergraduate havens of higher education for males. However, since 1969 at Yale and 1972 at Notre Dame, women have been admitted to the freshmen classes at both schools. Although both schools claim that the co-education process has been a success, problems such as residence overcrowding, admittance quotas and social pressures have all afflicted both programs.

Notre Dame and Yale are very similar in many respects. Yale's undergraduate numbers approximate 5,500 people compared to Notre Dame's 6,600. Both draw students from all over the country, as well as from abroad. Both schools are located in medium sized cities that are very close to huge metropolitan centers. Since both schools have a lot in common, a study of their co-education efforts would seemingly bring forth similar results at first glance. However, not only do the two institutions have similarities, but the differences between the two schools stand out and make an interesting comparison.

Although the Yale graduate schools started admitting women in 1892, the undergraduate ranks remained closed to females. In 1962, a special faculty committee designed to study the freshman year made the first formal appeal regarding the enrollment of women undergraduates to then Yale President Griswold. The report stated: "Ultimately, we believe, Yale should concern itself with the education of women at the undergraduate stage. In the young women of the nation, we have a huge supply of talent for which our educational institutions have insufficiently provided, and which our country has imperfectly utilized."

The report also recommended that women be admitted as a substantial proportion of each class and the male numbers not be reduced. This report was endorsed by the Yale College faculty, thus opening the doors for specific proposals regarding co-education. Various committees were set up to insure a smooth move into this program and in the 1969-1970 academic year, women came to Yale.

Emerged called at Edmund A. Stephan, chairman of the Notre Dame Board of Trustees, and Mother M. Olivette Whalen C.S.C., chairman of the Saint Mary's College Board of Trustees, announced a joint statement that the two schools were unable to solve financial problems such as the inevitable asking of "the women's point of view." Only thirty women lived in the residential colleges, and it was hard for the women to find comfortable roommates or friends. The male-female relationship was strained because of the odds involved.

The Yale Corporation decided in 1972 that the next class admitted, the class of 77, would be admitted on a co-education system. The Corporation decided to do this to enhance the educational and social atmosphere of the college. It also decided to sell them for cash at the Notre Dame Bookstore.

Observer Insight

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10

8:30 P.M.

NOTRE DAME ATHLETIC AND CONVOCATION CENTER

Tickets: $7.00, $6.50, $6.00

Tickets from Nov. 23 will be Honored on Dec. 10. Good tickets in all price ranges will be available at the door night of concert.

Sales at the door are limited.

THE DOOBIE BROTHERS

IN CONCERT

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10

It's easy - when you finish with your books, you trade them in for cash! Then go out and blow it on your friends and family.

Whether you end up one fat Santa or a little short depends on how many books you've got to sell, what condition they're in, and whether or not there's a need for them right away.

Whatever you want to use the money for it will sure beat just letting them lie around collecting dust. So bring your books over to the professional book-buyers at the bookstore now, while your book is worth the most it will ever be.

Sell too long and the chances are you may end up playing Scrabble!

Turn your books into Christmas presents.

Hammes Notre Dame Bookstore

Thurs. & Fri., Dec. 12 & 13 - 9:430

Sat., Dec. 14 - 9-3:00

University of Notre Dame
keep the same class size, which meant an obvious reduction in men. Therefore, Yale was actively trying to seek a 1:1 ratio in women.

Dean David said 651 women were admitted for the class of 1977 and 464 for the class of 1978, so "the 40-40 split which is striving to seem to have naturally fallen upon us, but the men and women were judged equally with no regard given to sex," David said.

Although Notre Dame has not dropped its quota, it too hopes to establish a set proportion. The Committee on University Priorities report stated, "If Notre Dame's Female enrollment increases to about 1,500 by 1976, and the co-exchange with Saint Mary's College continues, the combined population on both campuses will be close to 3,000, which approximates the 3:5 national ratio of women to men in colleges.

"The report went on to state that any further increase in women's enrollment would be determined in "the light of several variables, among them residence capacity, the volume of applications, relative enrollment in specific colleges and the extent of cooperation with Saint Mary's College," the report specified.

According to this report, Notre Dame keeps its undergraduate enrollment at 6,000 which would keep the co-ed dorms at 1,500 Notre Dame females and 464 for the class of 1978, so "the feeling isn't right and we're just not ready for it," Cooke said. "We try an experimental dormitory, but the amount of work put into it and all the grief caused by anxiety could not possibly be matched by the good coming out of it," he said.

Overcrowded dorms

One aspect of dorm life common to both schools is that they're both overcrowded. Mulcahey said, "If you're going co-ed, go all the way and have men and women on the same floor." Mulcahey foresaw only two options. Either Notre Dame will search for innovative ideas, but they will take on a distinctive Notre Dame flavor when they are instituted here. Although both schools will surely make changes in their programs as the situation dictates, it is obvious that Notre Dame and Yale will be responsible for the ultimate attitude of the co-education program.

In the long run, it is students who are responsible for the attitude of a campus. Fr. Schlaver observed, it is not a building's obligation to make things happen. It is the people who inhabit it who must provide the impetus.

The Humane Imperative

A Challenge for the Year 2000

Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C.

Preface by Kingman Brewster, Jr.

A distinguished citizen-priest offers an agenda of hope and maps out the areas in which belief and action might unite and bring about a better world. $5.95

Yale University Press

New Haven and London

THE HUMANE IMPERATIVE

SHARE THE RIDE WITH US THIS CHRISTMAS AND GET ON TO A GOOD THING

Us means Greyhound, and a lot of your fellow students who are already on to a good thing. You leave when you like. Travel comfortably. Arrive refreshed and on time. You'll save money, too, over the increased air fares. Share the ride with us on weekends, holidays. Anytime. Go Greyhound.

GREYHOUND SERVICE

TO

ONE WAY ROUND TRIP YOU CAN

YOU ARRIVE

Chicago
Cleveland
Pittsburgh
Detroit
Milwaukee

10:45 11:20 A.M.
9:15 A.M.
7:30 A.M.
10:35 A.M.
7:10 A.M.

1:20 P.M.
4:15 P.M.
1:45 P.M.
3:45 P.M.
6:15 P.M.

Ask your agent about additional departures and return trips.

GREYHOUND BUS TERMINAL

210 W. Monroe St.

337-4541
Budget proposal approved

by Gregg Baugs
Staff Reporter

The Faculty Senate approved the report turned in by its committee on a Budget Review Proposal and authorized its circulation to all faculty members and administrative officials.

The report is the culmination of a three-month study on the budget making process at the University. This past September, Faculty Senate Chairman Professor James Cushing asked that the Faculty Senate organize a Committee to study a proposal recommended in the Committee on University Priorities (Coup) report.

That proposal recommended, the formation of "A Budget Review Committee, representative of the whole University, to reflect upon the assignment of resources and to evaluate critically the reasoning underlying such allocations."

The Faculty Senate set up the committee and asked Professor James Danesby to act as chairman. Danesby selected Professors Paul F. Conway, Waldemar Goulet and Irwin Press as members of the committee.

"Over the summer the four of us worked on a committee that studied salary increases among college faculties, so when Prof. Cushing asked me to chair this committee, I had no problem finding people to work with," he explained.

In its introduction, the Committee stated in a report that it saw its task as a three-fold. Their first objective was to "determine the way in which University budgets are established at present."

The second purpose of the committee was to "consider what should be the structure and the function of a University Budget Review Committee."

The third goal was to determine "how representation of the faculty on such a committee might be implemented."

The Committee's report then explained how the University budget is determined and run. To gather research on this subject, the Committee members talked to Professor Richard M. Lynch, comptroller of the University, and with Fr. James T. Butchessell, C.S.C., Provost. According to the report, these two offered "a clear picture of the process by which budgets are constructed."

Included among the explanations was a chart which illustrated the responsibility for the areas of the University that have distinct budgetary requirements.

The structure of the chart is divided into two areas. Hesburgh presides over the budgetary proceedings. The two sectors under him are in the areas of academic and non-academic requirements. Butchessell is in charge of academic, while Fr. Edmund Joyce, executive vice president is in control of non-academic areas.

The Committee reported that it proceeded to outline the structure and functions to the committee. First, they named the report the Budget Priorities Committee.

"The choice of title (BPC)," the report states, "reflects our belief that this committee's primary role is in the provision of input regarding priorities at the beginning of the process rather than review after the fact."

The purpose of the report agreed with the purpose of the recommendations in the Coup report.

The report then went on to outline the composition of the Budget Priorities Committee. The BPC would consist of the executive budget committee (EEC) and the president of the University, six members of the faculty, one member of the University staff and one student.

The report then stated the function of the committee included among these functions are the writing of several reports to the EEC and the writing of an annual report to the Notre Dame community.

When presented to the Faculty Senate meeting last Tuesday night, the report was discussed at length and a few changes made. "The changes that were made were only minor modifications," Prof. Danesby commented. "If anything, these revisions made the report more general," he continued.

Since the Faculty Senate made this study on its own, its recommendations for a budget review committee must be reviewed and approved by Hesburgh. Danesby is optimistic. "I really think he will set up this committee. What kind of budget review is up to him—but with all the work this committee has done, I hope he would set up a committee that would take into account the different factions on campus," he concluded.

TRAVEL RESERVATIONS

GRUENINGER TRAVEL
281-4610
Mon-Fri 10-9 Sat 10-6
Sun. 12-5:30
UPPER LEVEL
SCOTTSDALE
MALL
House Committee poll indicates Rocky’s V-P approval probable

By CHERYL ARVIDSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee completed hearings on Nelson A. Rockefeller’s vice presidential nomination Thursday and an informal poll indicated it would approve him next week by a substantial—but not unanimous—margin.

The poll, indicated perhaps as many as 10 Democrats on the 38-member committee would vote against Rockefeller, while his nomination is put to a vote, expected to take place late next week, possibly Thursday.

The Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously confirmed Rockefeller’s nomination after televised hearings that focused—like the House hearings—on Rockefeller’s financial dealings.

The nomination must be approved by majority vote of both houses of Congress, a full Senate vote was scheduled for Tuesday.

Rockefeller’s final appearance before the House committee Thursday featured more sharp exchanges on the propriety of gifts and loans the former New York governor and his family gave associates and politicians, including Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Rockefeller, his brother, Laurence, in 1961—“raises a question of ethics if not of law.”

Rockefeller said there was “nothing unusual, wrong or immoral” about it and denied there had been any attempt to “cover up” the transaction.

He said his brother had made the loan, at his recommendation, because Laurance was in the “venture capital” business and intended it to be an investment with a substantial return. He also said the loan was to provide a nest egg for Miller so that he could remain in public service—he became the Republican vice presidential candidate in 1964—instead of returning to law practice.

Rockefeller also testified Thursday that “the records have been searched” and none of his other brothers or sisters “have made a gift or loan to any public official.”

The woman said she parked the car while parking her friend’s car in the van which left at 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. when the woman was attacked and raped, according to the police report. Someone attacked her in an area that was later described that as “a wild figure.”

Macheca said all information the woman gave as identification was found to be fictitious. The Police record listed her name as Melissa Moore, her address was given as 418 Badin Hall (which is a broom closet), and her phone number was really the number of a St. Mary’s student.

Macheca said all information the woman gave as identification was found to be fictitious. The Police record listed her name as Melissa Moore, her address was given as 418 Badin Hall (which is a broom closet), and her phone number was really the number of a St. Mary’s student.

An investigation is in progress to determine what actually happened and whether the woman actually is the real number of a St. Mary’s student.

The Morris Civic Auditorium
South Bend, Indiana
COME TO SING OR JUST COME TO LISTEN

Join a 2300 audience in singing Handel’s oratorio that has become a holiday tradition. The Messiah Sing-in will be conducted from the stage with an organist, soloists, and other instrumentalists.

Bring your own score or buy one at the door ($2.00). All tickets are $1.00 and unreserved. Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance by mailing a check and a self-addressed stamped envelope to:

Century Center
P. O. Box 837
South Bend, Indiana

CHUCK BERRY SEZ:
Take your sweet little rock’n’ roller to the promised land on Saturday night.
You never can tell.

BOOGIE THE NIGHT AWAY!!!

The fun will leave the circle at 7:30 and 8:30.
Plane crash report

'Pilot error' charge angers pilot association

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Angered by National Transportation Safety Board comments on an air disaster Sunday that killed 92 persons, the Air Line Pilots Association asked President Ford Thursday to dismiss board Chairman John Reed "in the public interest."

The Board preliminary report said TWA's flight 514 descended to 1,800 feet in an approach. The minimum safe altitude, indicated on charts aboard the plane, was 3,000 feet.

Although the report did not say so specifically, it indicated that pilot error lay behind the crash.

The Boeing 727 jetliner flew straight into the side of Paris Mountain just below its top and a mile and a half from a secret government base designed to shield government officials in event of a nuclear attack.

Angered by the board comments, the Air Line Pilots Association demanded in a letter to President Ford Thursday that board Chairman John Reed be removed "in the public interest."

The pilots' organization said it was "shocked and saddened" and that Reed had violated his agency's own rules by commenting on circumstances surrounding the crash before the completion of an accident report.

ALPA President J.J. O'Donnell also said the pilot of the jetliner was following established practice when he descended 3,000 feet in an air traffic controller had just told him the TWA flight was cleared to begin an approach.

"I would have assumed that the radar controller knew where I was and that he knew the mountains out there," O'Donnell said.

A traffic controller had cleared the jetliner to make a landing approach minutes before the crash, the safety board report said, and the plane immediately began descending toward the airport on a protracted altitude.

Investigators offered no explanation why the pilot started his descent on the west side of the mountain range instead of waiting until he was safely on the east side.

Sources close to the investigation said a recording of the last half hour of conversation between the pilot, co-pilot and engineer showed that just before the crash, someone in the cockpit asked whether the craft was going to descend below the 3,400 foot level.

The plane — nearing the end of a flight from Indianapolis, Ind., and Columbus, Ohio — was trying to land on Runway 12 at Dulles after being diverted from Washington National Airport because of bad weather.

There was no mention in the board's report of the high winds and driving rain through which the jet was flying, but sources close to the investigation said the year's first big winter storm apparently played only a secondary role.

THE BOARD'S PRELIMINARY REPORT said TWA Flight 514 was cleared for its landing approach minutes before the crash.

Orders put out by the Federal Aviation Administration, said, which permitted the plane to descend to 1,800 feet, was based on a procedure permitting a pilot to disregard charts information about minimum safe altitude, conflict with practices that have been established in dealing between pilots and controllers over the years, O'Donnell said.

A traffic controller had cleared the jetliner to make a landing approach minutes before the crash, the safety board report said, and the plane immediately began descending to the airport on a protracted altitude.

Investigators offered no explanation why the pilot started his descent on the west side of the mountain range instead of waiting until he was safely on the east side.

Sources close to the investigation said a recording of the last half hour of conversation between the pilot, co-pilot and engineer showed that just before the crash, someone in the cockpit asked whether the craft was going to descend below the 3,400 foot level.

The plane — nearing the end of a flight from Indianapolis, Ind., and Columbus, Ohio — was trying to land on Runway 12 at Dulles after being diverted from Washington National Airport because of bad weather.

There was no mention in the board's report of the high winds and driving rain through which the jet was flying, but sources close to the investigation said the year's first big winter storm apparently played only a secondary role.
Also oppose lottery
ND women against acquiring sixth dorm

by Paul Young
Staff Reporter

A survey of women from Farley, Green-Phillips, Lyons and Walsh halls revealed the majority oppose the proposal to acquire a sixth women's dorm to accommodate next year's planned increase in female enrollment. They preferred by a slight margin the inclusion of women in an off-campus lottery by a

The survey of 17 randomly selected women asked the following three questions and obtained the following results:

I. How do you feel about the possibility of converting another male dorm into a female dorm next year as a solution to the housing problem? Five women favored the action while twelve opposed it.

II. Would you prefer women to be put in a lottery along with men with the possibility of going off-campus as an alternate solution? Nine favor it, eight were opposed.

III. Do you feel that the housing situation will cause women to voluntarily move off campus whether or not they are included in the lottery? The majority responded "yes," but with the important qualifier typified in a Lyons resident comment that "a few girls would think about it sooner but this represents only a small percentage which probably won't make any difference to the housing problem."

Several objections voiced by women against the acquisition of a male dorm include some specific referrals to Fr. Mulcahy's proposal of a Planner or Grace tower switch with Farley. The belief that Mulcahy's proposal was merely a plan for shuffling students around without really settling the problem dominated among these advocates. Laura Campbell of Lyons, disagreeing with the "shuffling of students" involved in the Planner and Grace option, stated "coeducation is a rough thing at this school and this would just make it rougher."

"Pros in favor of taking a male dorm in almost all cases chose its option as a reluctant, but necessary, alternative to forcing women off campus. This feeling was put into words by Janet Robert of Lyons who stated, "I think kicking girls off-campus should be the last alternative to be considered."

Many answering affirmatively to the inclusion of the women in an off-campus lottery cited equal treatment with men as the reason. As one Grace resident expressed "to preserve the relations between men and women on campus it would be much better to have women included in a lottery. If women are not included it could just make Ill feelings worse."

Women opposing their inclusion in a lottery offered lack of security and transportation problems related to it as a major drawbacks to off campus living. Regarding security, Janet Robert explained that "the only real places safe for women to live off campus are Campus View and Notre Dame apartments." She emphasized, "This limits residential possibilities as women can't really choose houses, since they are less secure and often exist in bad neighborhoods."

Also, the potential danger involved where women lacking transportation might have to walk to campus from considerable distances at inopportune hours, motivated many against a lottery including women.

There exists, according to Patty Lane of Lyons, the possibility that "the idea of moving people off campus is becoming more attractive to Notre Dame students." This she emphasized may eventually succeed in changing the

SMC Board of Regents to consider pros. hopefuls

The search for a new president remains in full swing at Saint Mary's College, with three more candidates to be interviewed next weekend.

Newest additions to the list of candidates for future SMC president are Dr. Boyd Litzinger of St. Bonaventure University, Dr. Robert Giroux of Clark College (Iowa), and Dr. John Duggan of Vassar College.

Student Academic Affairs Commissioner Tess Lehman noted that these interviews will take place December 15-14, and that the candidates will appear before "faculty, students, administrators, and Board of Regent members." She emphasized that there is no particular hurry in finding a new president, a least not until next September.

Dr. Eugene Campanale, Chairman of the Education Dept. and member of the Search Committee, emphasized that, "These are not the final candidates." Future interviews are still possible, and as yet no trimming of candidates has been done.

Dr. Glen Olsen, a member of the SMC Board of Regents and Chairman of the Search Committee, is out of town and unavailable for comment.

Nation's coal miners ratify new contract

The nation's soft coal miners ratified a new contract to end the national coal strike, it was announced Thursday. The government was expected ready to announce the highest unemployment in the United States in 13 years.

The United Mine Workers Union announced officially in Washington that union members had ratified a new contract proposal, clearing the way to end the strike of 280,000 coal miners.

Recovery of coal production, 70 per cent halted by the walkout, will end an expensive drain on the national economy.

Government and private industry economists estimated the country will have lost $6 billion in production by the time coal production resumes.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department said the number of persons seeking unemployment benefits swelled by 215,000 in mid-November, and the government Friday was expected to release November unemployment figures expected to be the highest since 1961.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE INTERNATIONAL STUDENT ORGANIZATION WILL BE VOTED ON TODAY FRIDAY, December 6, in the Library Auditorium Starting at 7:30 P M during our Christmas reception The proposed constitution is posted outside the ISO office in basement of La Fortune

MERRY CHRISTMAS

AND HAPPY NEW YEAR! from the management.

CAMPUS VIEW APARTMENTS

THIS YEAR ENJOY AN OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTMAS AT THE TOWN & COUNTRY SHOPPING CENTER MISHAWAKA THE CIVIC MINDED SHOPPING CENTER
The old woman peered from behind the curtains at the car coming up the drive. The crashing of the gravel and the barking of the dogs were the only sounds she could hear.

As the boy got out of the car, he squinted towards the house. The bright sunlight reflected against the windows as he walked around the back, and pulled a floral arrangement from the trunk.

It was one of the cheaper arrangements, actually the cheapest one that came covered and still fresh. He card read, "To Grandma. Merry Christmas. Chuck and Linda." The house was a large, small and white and frail. From the outside, there appeared to be no damage around its surroundings, it looked like a sock that someone had forgotten to pick up from the floor.

The barking became louder as he walked towards the house. His face was beginning to crack, from the exposure to the wind. He had been doing the flowers all morning, putting the deliveries as he went along, more out of boredom than efficiency. But this one had really got to him. It was a forty minute drive out of the city, beyond the suburbs, infrared that had been forgotten by all except for perhaps an amnestic realtor.

He parked a white sedan, divided in two sections. The top section had a broken piece of glass in it, the bottom was empty. The week had been from the beginning of co-education. It’s futile, he thought. Looking for a doorbell, he found none. He knocked, loud enough to be heard, but he hoped, not loud enough to really disturb anyone.

A series of locks and chains were undone. The door opened slowly.

The old woman’s eyes began to tear, from the glaring light coming from the outside. She asked the boy who he was, but couldn’t be held back of the dogs that barked at him. She invited him in.

The house was quite warm. He smelled something baking in the kitchen. A remainder of chocolate that she didn’t eat all day. He told the woman once again about Chuck and Linda, he had learned the expense of the wire delivery. She invited him in the expense of the wire delivery. She invited him in the expense of the wire delivery.

"Pardon me," she said, "I know this sounds a little silly, but could you help me with something?"

"Sure," he said rather absent-mindedly. He was occupied with how long it was going to take him to drive home from this place.

"I’ve almost got this tree finished, but I just can’t quite get the star on the top. You see, I’m a little short, and the step ladder just isn’t high enough, and I’m a little afraid to get up there anyway."

"I’m afraid that’s a lot more exciting than this one for every member.

We need information. Students should be given, at the very least, a list of the options that are now open. The period of time over break is crucial, and students must be prepared to consider, discuss, and be ready to act on whatever comes up in January.

As it is, student input has been ignored. One wonders just who is talking to whom on this problem. It appears that someone, or perhaps an entire group of people, are talking in their feet in a matter that demands immediate action. Would it be asking too much from the administration that a list of options and variants be compiled and presented to the students? Would such an action cause so much disruption that the talks would be placed on hold?

In the meantime, students should try to avoid panic that accompanies the housing rumors. By remaining rational, we can offer ourselves a position which may yield an opportunity for input.

Above all, let’s get the facts out, and avoid the panic that surrounds the housing problem at present.

The Editorial Board

Christmas Crab Bag

In the spirit of the season, we turn to honor those closest to our hearts:

Gerald R. Ford—A football helmet. As Lyndon Johnson once said, "He’s played his hand too long, and I’m a little afraid to get up there anyway, cause I had a nasty fall last spring and hurt my ankle. Could you help me put the star on the tree?"

She was back half of the house, and was gone for longer than he thought she should have been, since she was just getting that star. When she finally returned, she had the star on a tray, with a sandwich, a can of coke, and a cigar.

She handed him the star, and pointed to the ladder. "Now, just a minute, please, till you get up there and," she said, crossing the room and heading for an old Victrola.

She had climbed the ladder over to the tree. Climbing up, he discovered that his jacket was too constricting for him to reach where the star had to be placed. He took it off, shifting the star from hand to hand, and balancing himself on the shaky ladder.

"Now you be careful up there," she said, placing and old record on the player. The boy reached up to put the star on the tree. "You just a minute, please," she said, putting the record in the player.

"Oh, come all ye faithful," she began to sing with the choir.

Sensing the moment, he planted the star on the tree. She clapped her hands and smiled. He said, "I mean, I mean, I mean, I mean I mean to say, but I don’t know the words quite as well as she did.

They talked while he sat there, a piece of salami on stale rye. The cigar, she told him, was one of her husband’s collection of Havana. His feet were cold, and don’t smoke much."

He began to smile at that, but held himself back. She watched him, and he began to smile.

"They won’t let you smoke up there, I guess," she joked.

As he left, she tried to give him a dollar. "Oh, no, I couldn’t," he said, a moment later reaching for the bill. She touched his hand.

"A merry Christmas to you," she sang, raising a smiling face to the sky.

The observer
Eunice once was a young woman who wasn't interested in, or celebrated, Christmas. She didn't care for the religious aspects, and found the commercialization of the holiday distasteful. However, she knew that everyone around her expected her to participate, so she would occasionally make a show of celebrating, just to avoid causing a scene. This year, she decided to take things a step further. She purchased a small ornament in the shape of a snowman and hung it on her tree. She also bought a box of candy canes and a bag of cookies to place by the tree for the kids. She even went so far as to write out a list of presents for the people in her family and friends, even though she knew she couldn't afford to buy anything. Eunice was determined to make her holiday season more enjoyable, even if it meant pretending to celebrate in a way that wasn't authentic to her personal beliefs. She didn't care if her neighbors thought she was fake, she was doing it for herself.
Our Christmas Stocking

dirty laundry and clean linen

Dear Editor:

In the words of your eminently assistant columnist, Pete McHugh: "Let's not mince words, Woody. I won't. Mr. McHugh, your name, not that Woody Hayes, is the only one that I would identify with the word "schmuck" after reading your strip today.

You accused Woody Hayes of being "detriments to competitiveness, education, and yet, even America." I would like to take this opportunity to examine that statement and make you eat it bit by bit. You called Woody "a detriment to football." How can you call anyone with his overall record a detriment? I hardly think that his employers or his players would agree with you. Sure his temper gets out of hand a little but I do not believe that you look at it as good as I, you can afford to let off steam once a while. Besides, I do not see that his temperament is any more of a detriment to the image of Notre Dame than a heroic cowardice so superbly displayed by our own Bobo Wallace in another season in 1966. But then, I think it's just a matter of which side you're viewing the two coaches from. I'm quite sure that if the situation were reversed, with Ara at Ohio State and Woody calling N.D. home, people would tend to see more of the ferocity (or a detriment to the game) while Ara would be a lousy, yellow, American on-campus cowardice as a disgrace to the game.

Second, you called Woody Hayes, "a detriment to education." Who writes your material? Absurd, absolute, false. If you're reviewing the situation on the college campuses in the late '60's, you'd see that it was the people like Mr. Hayes, who tried to reason with the students rather than the apathetic professors and teachers who stirred up the pot in the first place, who brought no end to the college disorders. Perhaps if you'd met Mr. Hayes, if you'd seen him in his column, schools like Kentucky or Columbia, you'd find yourExtension of advice was a disgrace to the college, to the country and to the image of a school that is associated with Notre Dame. You see, Virginia, USC also had a national championship. Maybe you're thinking, some people say that Woody Hayes is a "detriments to America." I'll grant you that he might be a detriment to Liberal America, and that he would never carry Massachusetts or D.C. as a presidential candidate, but I hardly see him as a detriment to America.

It is said that people in your column, as columnist on a paper with a fairly large circulation, who could use their columns for educational purposes (perhaps an in-depth study of why we almost lost to Pitt?) choose to waste the space on a malicious attack of an opposing coach. It is sad, because when most people read a column such as yours, they assume that it is based on a careful analysis of an subject (which I've just shown it is not) people choose to be personally griped. They further assume that you must know what you are talking about and that you are not just a man with no personality gripe. You are probably the only applicant for your job, or you got the job because you had a cousin, who knew a person whose great uncle once humpeted into Route Rockefeller, on a bus.

You've missed the point, Brian M. Clancy

Dear Editor:
The women on the ND swim team in your Nov. 21 issue was excellent and much appreciated. I would like to add another regular to the swim meets weekly.

I have a regular subscription to The Observer and find it very enlightening, and usually well-written. Thanks for an equally good student paper.

Sincerely,
Flory T. Meagher

President, Zahm Hall

Dear Editor:
The weather about the ND swim team in your Nov. 21 issue was excellent and much appreciated. I would like to add another regular to the swim meets weekly.

You've missed the point, Brian M. Clancy.

Sincerely,
Flory T. Meagher

President, Zahm Hall

Dear Editor:

Surely it was the pre-Thanksgiving rush and pressure which caused some of the taste and sensibility allowing you to publish the advertisement of p. 5 of The Observer, Friday, November 22! I am sure I am only one of the many members of the Notre Dame community who found it an unfortunately clear example of an exploitative attitude towards women, degrading, degrading of myself, real respect and understanding between the sexes. The members of the art editorial board will attempt in the future to be more perceptive and enlightened in your decisions on such matters.

Sincerely,
Isabel Charles, O.P.
Assistant Dean

Dear Editor:

My sincere thanks to the Observer for the pre-Thanksgiving issue. I thought you did a fine job of covering a very important and sensitive area. The articles were varied and gave different points of view—but the whole mood conveyed an attitude of deep concern.

I have found all the staff that I have come in contact with, most helpful and cooperative. My warmest thanks for all your help.

Mary Ann Roemer
On the Friday before Thanksgiving there appeared a short blur hidden on page 8 of The Observer. It was about the topic of a number of students on a Lynne Hall residence floor who say the story was widely read throughout the community. What was not stated in the article was that the Security Department, did not release the facts of the article to The Observer, but rather notes on the Security phone operators, they receive no notice but a report to Mr. Pearsof Security phone operators. The observer stories preventing any possible embarrassment over the situation. Indeed, knowledge of incidents of this kind might cause students to be a bit more careful when walking through the halls after the afternoons of such attacks and like incidents would reflect poorly on Security. Apparently so, when one considers the reaction of Mr. Pearlsto the publication of the report. The most unfortunate aspect of this publication arrest is that it is symptomatic of a larger sense of distrust, almost a feeling of insecurity. This kind of siege mentality is prevalent at Security, especially in regards to the Observer. Without exaggeration, many of the officers apparently feel that nothing would be as enjoyable a pleasure as to see the Security officers tarred, feathered, and run off campus. As a result, last week, Security put in its usual hitches and refused to let any information about the student to the student body. The student body, in turn, is allowed to give out any information to any student. When The Observer reported on the security of the student phone operators, they receive nothing but a referral to Mr. Pearl.

So instead of attempting to better relations around a policy of education and openness, Mr. Pearl encouraged his people to expect to stop all attacks on this campus by the South Bend Police Department can be expected to help. But instead of disseminating information of this sort, the decision has apparently been made not to inform the Powers That Be to put a strath of secrecy on the whole matter. The student co-operation with the South Bend Police Department would undoubtedly greatly increase the efficiency of the department. Hopefully something can and will be done in this area in the near future. The prospect of a change looks dim. The first move will have to come from Security.

Old Friends and New Dreams

Frank Palmeri

Indeed, new campus celebrity Darby O'Garbo has been hard to miss around campus recently. Last semester, as wrote the凭借 her overnight fame and success, he is rarely seen in public now, without an impressive entourage. Flanked by press agents, body guard of loving family, and a pack of adoring fans Darby leaves no doubt that he has gone Hollywood. One can look back over the last few years and see the hard earned name of Darby O’Garbo. Place. It is frequented by other top campus celebrities of note—those who are better known on campus in general. The Athletic Department has offered to come up with a system of seating and parking that should be able to handle the excitement that comes with Darby O'Garbo. It is frequented by other top campus celebrities of note—those who are better known on campus in general. The Athletic Department has offered to come up with a system of seating and parking that should be able to handle the excitement that comes with Darby O'Garbo. It is frequented by other top campus celebrities of note—those who are better known on campus in general. The Athletic Department has offered to come up with a system of seating and parking that should be able to handle the excitement that comes with Darby O'Garbo. It is frequented by other top campus celebrities of note—those who are better known on campus in general.
On August 14, 1945, students returned to the residence halls after Tuesday evening dinner to hear the joyous news of the war's ending. They poured out of the halls and across the campus waving the flag which was flying in a soft, cool breeze--"Old Glory" and "The Star-Spangled Banner" and the National Anthem. Throughout the day the sky had been overcast, but as dusk approached the clouds rolled away and reflected brilliantly off the golden dome. Yes, the war was over. Led by the band the students marched down Notre Dame Avenue toward South Bend and joined the already democratizing crowd. Rejoicing was everywhere, and Father O'Donnell completed it by announcing a two-day holiday.

That is the way the war ended at Notre Dame. For most it was their first contact with the Armed Services, at least two or four months of intensive training and special classes. For many it was their first contact with other colleges. They remained at Notre Dame for periods of two or four years, earlier, almost to the day. In the summer of 1914 Father J. Hugh O'Donnell, President of Notre Dame and John Cavanaugh, Vice-President, offered the University's facilities to the Army. The Army refused, but the Navy accepted. So, in September of 1941, the first NROTC units, made up of Notre Dame students, were on campus.

On a cold, wintry Sunday afternoon on December 7, 1941, news of the Pearl Harbor tragedy reached campus. Everyone was completely stunned and no one wanted to join the service. A tremendous wave of support swept the campus with the help of the Notre Dame men. The President, Roosevelt's declaration of war the national news.

First, there was the NROTC, made up of Notre Dame students who continued their formal education while they served in the Midshipmen School composed of graduates from other colleges. They remained at Notre Dame for periods of two or four months of intensive training and special classes. For most it was their first contact with the Armed Services, at least two or four months of intensive training and special classes.

In 1943 came the V-12 Navy men and the accompanying V-12 Marine officers. These were Notre Dame men plus numerous outsiders. Many had seen service and were returning for another period. Officers and phibs were not officers but they continued the regular four-year college education. Anyone who flunked was dropped from the service.

In 1943 the V-12 Navy men and the accompanying V-12 Marine officers. These were Notre Dame men plus numerous outsiders. Many had seen service and were returning for another period. Officers and phibs were not officers but they continued the regular four-year college education. Anyone who flunked was dropped from the service.

The social life on campus was reasonably good. Proms, dances, and balls were very popular. Military parades were cancelled; although alcohol was prohibited, it was often consumed illegally at such gatherings. Tickets were sold for $2.50 from the Men's and Mary's girls. Cigarettes were a cherished commodity and pipes were common. The Navy and Army stores were crowded with customers.

A free movie was shown every Saturday afternoon by the Notre Dame Navy officers. These movies went down for their entertainment. Especially popular was an officer's club and bar that was open for the evening. The Morris Civic Auditorium was the Palais Royal, a prominent USO club and ballroom. Notre Dame, along with the other colleges, usually sponsored a dance downtown on Saturday nights only. Students "put on tree" could not leave campus, however. At that time the Knights of Columbus, prestigious on campus, put on carousals to raise money for the USO. The Rockne Memorial served as a place for social life was generally enjoyable, considering the frightening aspects of the war. However, a military atmosphere with all its regimentation prevailed on campus.

Everyone had to arrive at 5 in the morning and prepare for calisthenics, and everyone went to bed early at night. Bed checks were a common practice, and upperclassmen were allowed to stay up fairly late. Uniforms were mandatory during the day, but civilian, reviews, and marching were always taking place. Students needed passes to leave for the weekend. All was routine and restriction.

The archives of the Navy were returned to Washington, D.C. and not made available to Notre Dame. However, the school's archives stated that young officers were trained here between 1942-4, and thousands of naval and marine trainees came out of Notre Dame during this period. The Navy did pay a price, however. Some 333 alumni and 150 students enlisted in the war, and this did not include the Midshipmen or V-12 men. Several faculty members and some sports figures died during the war from natural causes.

Admiral Chester Nimitz upon receiving an honorary degree in 1946 said of Notre Dame men: "Father O'Donnell, you sent forth to me, as to other naval commands on every ocean and continent, men who had become imbued with more than the mechanical knowledge of warfare. Somehow, in the crowded hours of their preparation for the grim business of war, they had absorbed not only Notre Dame's traditional fighting spirit but the spiritual strength, too, that this University imparts to all, regardless of creed who come under its influence.

Cy Reed- To the South Dining Hall Breakfast Club. Keep up the good tradition. Merry Christmas. Don McNeil, president doesn't. Greg Weightman- Merry Christmas: to all the decrepits in Alumni especially two misplaced roommates (and anyone from Beaver Dam, Wis.), the McNevins twins, Helen, Lou, Kathy, Peg, and Bettie.

Chris O'Brien- To the "Alumni Gang," 314 Lennern, 112 Dillon, Digger & Ribs: All is great in Innisbrook! No premature showers ROTTCS, picnics, or shirt decoration here! Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. Kill that Raider!...Scoop.

Shares Sullivan- Hey Flunkies, how is the 1-0 Club standing up? Hope the Campus housing hasn't caused the club to dissolve. Merry Christmas Twins, Rex, Little Gleen and Miss ya' lots. Kathy is pre-med, I think Gien and I will be together on Christmas-wish he that old gents. Hey tennis team have a good season.

Kate Duferberg- Sue, Kathie, Margot, and the others in the period. We care that things don't get too exciting old SMCS. How could you leave me for a new and better roommate? We'll miss you N.T. How's your streaking partner? Holiday greetings to you and family.

Cindy Pass- Sorry, she was too late. But she's here and existing in Pradler-Sagan.

Tim O'Reiley- Sorry about the title. Griff. But don't curse us. And to all a good night.
Roger Valdiserri commented yesterday on the effect liquor advertising in university publications has had on revenues from the sale of football programs.

The Indiana state law, which prohibits manufacturers and distributors of alcoholic beverages from advertising in programs and other publications of educational institutions, went into effect for the first time this school year.

Valdiserri said the new law, "hurt our whole program situation. It has cut into our advertising revenue which helps pay for printing. We had to work a great deal more to replace those ads, and we weren't able to make it all up."

Part of the problem, Valdiserri explained, is that beer and liquor advertisers, "took out full-page color ads in the past. We had to fill those pages with several black-and-white ads this year."

In response to an inquiry, Valdiserri said that there were no current plans to raise the price of programs next year. "I would be very reluctant to raise our prices," he stated, "although other schools have gone up to $1.25 for a program. We will raise our prices only if forced to by the increasing costs of printing and paper."

The cost of both of these items, Valdiserri pointed out, has greatly increased in the past year, especially paper which has gone up 90 percent.

Valdiserri said that his office has written to the state alcoholic beverage commission pointing out aspects of the new law which he termed "antiquated and unfair."

"The law is ridiculous and antiquated," Valdiserri stated, pointing out that liquor manufacturers and distributors are permitted in the state to sponsor radio broadcasts of college sports events.

"Go to the little League park," he continued, "and look at the billboards in the outfield. They're beer advertisements, and the kid out in center field has "Schlitz" written across his jersey."

Valdiserri pointed to other inconsistencies in the ABC rulings. "They tax licensees to taverns in the neighborhood of the campus. And yet the purpose of this law is to encourage temperance."

"There's not a great deal of logic behind it," he concluded, "when they permit other things to go on."

New neighborhood association formed

by Ellen Sybug

Staff Reporter

The Harter Heights Association, a newly formed neighborhood organization, is drafting an amendment to the South Bend zoning code which, if passed by the Common Council, would significantly affect the availability of off-campus student housing.

According to Edward Mark, one of the leaders of the association, the proposed amendment, which would affect any area in the city zoned "residential A," is an upper middle class neighborhood directly south of the University. "Three years ago there were one or two student houses here. This year there are eighteen," stated Mark, "this tends to cause rowdiness and wild parties and create an undesirable atmosphere to raise a family in."

Mark estimated that the association presently has one hundred members and that others in the area have expressed interest. He added, "This neighborhood has many Notre Dame people in it. I would say about fifty of our members are directly connected with the University."

"Banks are already considering this a deteriorating neighborhood and some people have been denied mortgages because of this," Mark contended. He added, "Our fear is that the value of the property will descend rapidly in direct proportion to the greed of the real estate people who own and rent homes in this area."

Mark stressed that the action should not be construed as anti-student or anti-Notre Dame. "We have many people connected with the University who favor this action and many of us have college-age children faced with the same housing problems at their schools. But we have substantial investments here, and we can't lose this," he explained, "it only takes a year or two to kill a neighborhood."

Fr. Tallarida, director of off-campus housing, reacted to the proposed amendment. "I have my doubts that it would be passed. It steps on too many vested interests."

(continued on page 18)

O-C STUDENTS

STARVE A THIEF FOR CHRISTMAS!

Leave Valuables; Clothes, Books, Stereos, Radios and Appliances with Volunteer Staff and Faculty Families for the Christmas Break

CALL STUDENT GOV'T (283-7668) THIS WEEK

SAVE YOUR NAME AND PHONE NUMBER IF INTERESTED

Store at Your Own Risk" Rather Than Leaving "At High Risk"!

MAY YOU HAVE PEACE AND HAPPINESS THIS CHRISTMAS SEASON. BEST WISHES FOR THE NEW YEAR (AND THE ORANGE BOWL)

FRANK ANASTASIO, THE ROMA

219 N. Michigan Avenue

Cavalier Camera Scottsdale Mall next to Bishop's Buffet
Open Till 9 pm Evenings 5 pm Sunday
Complete Line of Camera and Darkroom Supplies

KEN'S DEN BARBER - HAIRSTYLING Award winning stylists
Unique atmosphere
Rottler styling and products
702 LWW (ACROSS FROM 100 CENTER)
Phone 255-6500 Appointments preferred

Y e a r a fte r y e a r, semester after semester, the College Master from Fidelity Union Life has been the most accepted, most popular plan on campuses all over America. Find out why. Call the Fidelity Union College Master Field Associate in your area:

1005 E. LaSalle
South Bend, Ind. Phone 287-2327

College Master
Another Continental Discount Fare:

STAND BY TO SAVE $42 TO LOS ANGELES

You come out ahead because we really move our tail.

Believe it or not, our L.A. Standby Discount Fare on selected flights is only $104. And we have Standby Discount service to Denver for $50, saving you $25 off Coach fare.

Then there's Night Coach Discount to Los Angeles for $116, or $30 less than Coach.

We're also the only airline with Economy Discount service throughout our route system—another way to save, just for skipping a meal. Some sample fares:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>City</th>
<th>Discount Fare</th>
<th>Save</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>LOS ANGELES</td>
<td>$131</td>
<td>$15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DENVER OR</td>
<td>$131</td>
<td>$15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COLORADO SPRINGS</td>
<td>$75</td>
<td>$10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ALBUQUERQUE</td>
<td>$89</td>
<td>$10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>KANSAS CITY</td>
<td>$41</td>
<td>$4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SAN FRANCISCO</td>
<td>$131</td>
<td>$15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PORTLAND OR</td>
<td>$131</td>
<td>$15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SEATTLE</td>
<td>$131</td>
<td>$15</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Remember too, a travel agent costs you nothing extra, so call one for the good word on all our Discount Fares. Or call us at 686-6500. At holiday time or any time, we can probably get you where you live, for less.

We really move our tail for you.

CONTINENTAL AIRLINES

The Proud Bird with the Golden Tail.
O-C students add neighborhood's problems

(continued from page 14)

there. A free immunization clinic is held the first Tuesday of each month. A blood pressure testing clinic is also made available to the elderly residents.

A daily lunch program for the elderly was also maintained. F.R.A. Services runs the program with 90 percent of the funds from the government and the remaining 10 percent from donations. Taylor describes it, "we serve a very well-balanced meal to them and it makes no difference whether they are eating something or not. We also provide transportation to and from the center for those who need it. Lunch is served to an average of 45 people a day.

The center staff also works out in the community. "We work to locate housing for low-income people and our outreach workers go and visit residents to encourage their use of the center. They also gather information on the people's needs so we can take action to help them, " Taylor stated.

Arthur Quigley, president of the Northeast Neighborhood Council, said, "The center also serves as a tool to keep public agencies working for the people who need help." He described a case of one low-income person whose electricity had been turned off because she was unable to pay the bill. He said, "the center also received little cooperation from the city agency designed to handle such cases.

"The students can't care about the neighborhood like we do."

Neighborhood Council Meets The Northeast Neighborhood Council is another group that meets in the center. It is an open organization that concerns itself with any issue facing the residents. Taylor said, "Our attendance varies. When there is no big issue a lot of people attend but when the community is facing something crucial we can hardly fit all the people in.

The council serves as an identifiable voice of the people concerned with the neighborhood. They recently worked to prevent that opening of another tavern in the area. Quigley said, "we argued on philosophic grounds—what is in this place going to be like to live in."

Taylor said, "Logic would tell you that four taverns is enough in a two block area." Although they were unsuccessful in the tavern fight, Roos feels the council has achieved much on a person-to-person basis, "it has opened contacts and been very effective in serving the elderly," Roos said. The group meets the second Monday of each month.

With a general physical improvement through the use of federal funds and vigorous community effort on behalf of the residents by the neighborhood center and the Northeast Neighborhood Council the area is one old, urban neighborhood that has a chance to survive. There is, however, a problem that is left unresolved and cannot be alleviated by action at the center or the council might take.

Because of its proximity to Notre Dame, the northeast side has always had a number of students living there. Quigley, who has lived in the neighborhood for thirty years, remembers, "Twenty years ago we had students living here. Many widows rented rooms in their homes.

Quigley recalls, "The situation was very different. The widow or whoever had to sign an agreement with the university to report any drinking or misconduct on the part of the student. In effect, they agreed to become a recte. Now they have their own supervisors," Quigley said.

It is not only the rules that have changed; it is also the number of students. Because of Notre Dame's recent overcrowding problems, a larger number of students than ever before is seeking housing. Parent described the difference, "It is now economically profitable for a landlord to buy a number of houses in the area and rent only to students." It seems that because of the number of students seeking Housing of Campus, the landlord is assured of renting his home.

Parent continued, "The best students, by combining in groups of four or five are able to afford a much higher rent than most of the permanent residents would be asked to or able to pay." Thus one encounters the case of an elderly widow on a fixed income who can no longer afford decent housing.

Effect of Student Population The student lifestyle also has an effect on the neighborhood. "The noise and the late parties are a change and change is hard for the residents to accept," Taylor noted.

The taverns which serve the student population are also the object of complaints by the residents.

"The litter outside caused by people leaving the taverns is really a problem," Taylor said. She added that her home, three blocks from a tavern, she had picked up several bushels of cups and other litter at a time. Quigley and Taylor identified a basic difference between the students and other residents. "The students can't care about the neighborhood the way we do. They don't have a substantial time or money invested in it," Quigley said.

Taylor noted, "The students are not permanent residents and this effects their attitude towards the neighborhood.

Quigley pointed out that residents in a neighborhood watch for change and change is hard for the students to accept. "I know all the cars and all the people that belong to on my street. If there is a stranger car or person I'm likely to stand at my window for awhile to make sure everything is alright."

Parent also noted this difference, "The students don't exercise the protective element in a neighborhood, they don't act like good neighbors."

The failure of the students to become a part of the neighborhood has an effect on its ability to survive. "We must keep people with resources: financial, legal and analytical in these neighborhoods," Roos said, "or they won't survive. Young families don't want to put up with the noise and litter and they will give up and move to the suburbs."

Roos feels that if this happens the strength of the neighborhood will fall, leaving only the elderly and low-income people who do not have the resources to leave. Thus the second case—a young family that wishes to stay is forced to give up their dedication to the neighborhood because of the community breakdown.

The students also have encountered problems. The rising rate of burglary of student homes is the main cause of alarm. Roos pointed out, "Students are vulnerable to robbery because of their life-styles—they act as a magnet.

Students homes are left empty during the day. "This makes it easy for the burglars," Quigley exclaimed. Parent noted, "Students are apt to own stereo, calculators and typewriters; all of these are easily stolen and easily sold."

The Colonial Pancake House "Enjoy a snack or dinner" 35 Varieties of Pancakes Chicken Steak Sandwiches Friday Nites: Perch Dinners U.S. 31 (Dixie way) North (Across from Holiday Inn) Your Host Bob Edwards, ND '50 1974-75 Our Ninth Season

STUDENT UNION THEATRE

FABULOUS FABLES FOR THE PRESENT FABULOUS FABLES FOR THE PRESENT 1974-75 Our Ninth Season Dec. 6, 7, 12, 13, 14 at 8:00 P.M. Washington Hall (Notre Dame) Admission $1.00 Student - Faculty ND-SMC Staff $1.50

Merry Christmas! Have a Happy Holiday Season!!

AT THE HAMMES NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE:
Exploding package kills UPS employee

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A small package, mailed from a United Parcel Service small package, started to open it to learn its contents, exploded in the arms of a coworker, 38-year-old John Metz, who was killed in the explosion. Eight coworkers were injured.

The employee, John Metz, 38, and other employees noted jokingly, "It might be a bomb." Six of the injured were treated and released. UPS employees said the brown paper wrapped package, measuring 8 inches by 12 inches, was addressed to a motorcycle shop in "Falls Church, Va."

The goal for the continuous drive has been set at approximately 40 pints a week from Notre Dame and St. Mary's. According to O'Rourke, they have come close to achieving this goal. "So far," she said, "it's been pretty successful. We've already met our 40-pint goal and for most of the semester, we've been just getting the mechanics of the operation down," O'Rourke expressed the hope that the program could be expanded next semester. "We are also thinking about setting up a station here on campus, possibly in a room of our infirmary," she added. "But that is just an idea at this point."

Ordinance is planned

The amendment will be introduced to the Common Council by Roger Parent, councilman for the Harter Heights area. He commented, "I'm not sure this ordinance is the answer to the problem but these people have to fight. If they don't do something, the neighborhood will go downhill." He stated that the group expects some public hearings on it to allow all sides to be presented. "Parent added.

He explained that this would not only affect students but landlords as well. "I expect that a lot of controversy will arise over this issue. It will affect the rest of the city and the landlords."

THINK... COLLEGE LIFE

INSURANCE CO. OF AMERICA

Merry Christmas World!!

TO MY STUDENTS AT NOTRE DAME & ST. MARY'S
MY FACULTY 'STUDENTS-STAFF-AND FRIENDS,
SEE YOU NEXT SEMESTER
NOTRE DAME DANCERS
INSTRUCTRESS FRAN DE MARCO

Fra De Marke says:

IT WAS A QUIET DAY-IN NAZARETH-FOR MARY UNTIL SHE LOOKED UP AT THE VISION OF ANGEL GABRIEL. "FEAR NOT, MARY-HE SAID-YOU SHALL HAVE A SON AND HIS NAME WILL BE JESUS-AND OF HIS KINGDOM END." SAID MARY TO GABRIEL "I AM NOT YET MARRIED-BUT I WILL MARRY JOSEPH-A CARPENTER. HOW THEN CAN MY SON BE KING?" GABRIEL SAID "THE HOLY GHOST WILL BE WITH YOU THE POWER OF GOD WILL COVER YOU, THEREFORE THE HOLY CHILD WILL BE CALLED THE SON OF GOD-AND WITH GOD NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE SO LET US WALK CLOSE TO GOD. LET US AT NOTRE DAME OFFER OUR PRAYERS AND BLESSINGS TO GUIDE THE WAY OF OUR BELOVED PRESIDENT OF NOTRE DAME REV. THEODORE M. HESBURGH AS HE REPRESENTS US IN OUR COUNTERATTACK ON WORLD HUNGER LET US UNDERSTAND ONE FACT: SHEER LUCK DID NOT PRODUCE OUR IMMENSELY SUCCESSFUL AMERICAN AGRICULTURAL MIRACLE, THE SOIL ON THE 'SOCIALISTIC-FOOD-PRODUCING-SYSTEM' LAND IS THE SAME AS OURS, AS TILLABLE AND FERTILE AS AMERICAN SOIL. WHERE THEN LIES THE DIFFERENCE? THE DIFFERENCE LIES IN THESE WORDS, A SYSTEM THAT WORKS-PLUS HARD WORKS AND PRAYERS FOR WHEN WE PRAY NOTHING IS IMPOSSIBLE TWO HUNDRED YEARS AGO-A TINY BAND OF SETTLERS PRAYED FOR A GOOD HARVEST-AND THEIR PRAYERS WERE ANSWERED TWO HUNDRED YEARS AND TWO HUNDRED MILLION SETTLERS LATER-OUR AMERICAN FARMERS DROPPED TO THEIR KNEES AND PRAYED FOR A GOOD HARVEST. THE RESULT-OUR TREMENDOUSLY BOUNTIFUL 'GOLDEN GRAIN MIRACLE'. YES, DEAR WORLD-OUR 'GOLDEN GRAIN MIRACLE' POINTS UP ONE FACT. OUR TRUE AMERICAN SETTLE-OUR FARMER CONTROLS THE THIN LINE BETWEEN SURVIVAL OF OUR HUMAN RACE-OR WORLD STARVATION. TRUE! THINK! THEY TOLL OUR SOIL- FEED OUR CATTLE-RAISE OUR Poultry-RUN THE TRACTORS WITH 'ROB PETER TO PAY PAUL' FINANCING-HAVE WALKED MANY MILES TO CHURCH-AND YET-CAN STILL HARVEST MILLIONS OF TONS OF GOLDEN GRAIN. STARTED FROM SCRATCH, LATER BECAME PART OF A TEAM-CALLED UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. A TRULY REMARKABLE SYSTEM. AND DEAR WORLD-WE DO NOT INTEND TO EVER BITE THE HANDS THAT FEED US...MIGHT ADD THAT IF OUR AMERICAN FARMER DECIDES HE'S HAD IT-THEN-WORLD-WE'VE HAD IT TOO! HOWEVER-WE INTEND TO TRULY APPRECIATE THE GREAT ROLE OUR AMERICAN FARMER PLAYS IN OUR WORLD. WE WILL SPREAD OUR KNEES ALSO-AND PRAY IN PRAYER, WE WILL CONTINUE TO REAP THE 'GOLDEN GRAIN' MIRACLE HARVESTS. WE WILL CONTINUE TO EXTEND OUR LOVING AND GENEROUS HANDS TO ALWAYS-OUT TO YOU-LOADED WITH COUNTLESS BLESSINGS WHETHER IT BE FOOD-MONEY-OR WHATEVER. BECAUSE YOU ALWAYS HAVE-AND ALWAYS WILL BE A PART OF US...WE LOVE YOU.

Blood drive is successful

by Ken Girouard
Staff Reporter

Throughout this semester, a group of students have volunteered their time in order to organize a Blood Drive. Under the direction of Father David Schlafer, students from both Notre Dame and St. Mary's have set up a campus-wide program in which students donate a pint of blood to the South Bend Blood Bank.

Every week, on Tuesday and Thursday, one dorm is chosen to participate in the program. Eight to thirty people from each dorm are signed up to donate.

On their assigned day, the volunteers are driven to the Blood Bank in South Bend during one of the five available time slots. The whole procedure takes up approximately one hour of the donor's time.

Colleen O'Rourke, student coordinator for the Blood Drive, explained the program. "We have four students acting as contacts. These contacts talk to the Community Service Commissioners in the various halls and tell them what all their blood is to donate. The commissioner then signs up the 30 volunteers and assigns them a time slot."

The goal for the continuous drive has been set at approximately 40 pints a week from Notre Dame and St. Mary's. According to O'Rourke, they have come close to achieving this goal. "So far," she said, "it's been pretty successful. We've already met our 40-pint goal and for most of the semester, we've been just getting the mechanics of the operation down," O'Rourke expressed the hope that the program could be expanded next semester. "We are also thinking about setting up a station here on campus, possibly in a room of our infirmary," she added. "But that is just an idea at this point."
Sirica denies requests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge John J. Sirica Wednesday denied defense requests to take Richard M. Nixon's testimony in the Watergate controversy into evidence and said his decision was made in response to arguments it was unnecessary for a fair trial. Sirica said Nixon's testimony was "not essential" for justice.

Sirica ordered the trial of five former Nixon aides to proceed without interruption, meaning it will likely be completed by Christmas.

In summary, Sirica said the alleged Nixon's testimony would merely duplicate that available from other witnesses and would merely duplicate that available from Nixon's testimony by deposition at a court near his San Clemente, Calif., home.

"The witness is simply unavailable to be deposed," Sirica said. "The court will not issue an order to take the deposition of Mr. Nixon while it appears that he is so ill that the taking of such a deposition could seriously jeopardize his health."

"Nor will the court issue an order granting leave to take such depositions on Jan. 6," he said, eliminating possibilities of a holiday adjournment of the trial which was in its 64th day Wednesday.

Sirica, appointed medical team that examined the phlebitis-stricken Nixon had said he would be sufficiently recovered by Jan. 6 to give a deposition, which would indicate a response to attorneys questions taken outside the trial court and said there as evidence. Shortly before Sirica announced his ruling however, Nixon's attorney said he could not be adequately prepared to supply a deposition until well after Jan. 6.

Ehrlichman, formerly Nixon's No. 2 aide at the White House, had argued Nixon's testimony was indispensable to his defense to show he was unaware of some Watergate decisions allegedly made by Nixon and Haldeman. Sirica flatly rejected this argument.

InPIRG conducts grocery poll

The Indiana Public Interest Research Group at Notre Dame (InPIRG) released their second grocery pricing survey today. The survey is designed by InPIRG staff member, Jim Wilmes.

The actual survey work was done by five members at the InPIRG office-283-6413 or at home-288-8489.

InPIRG workers: Wilmes, Frank Piccione, John A. Driscoll, Michael and Sandy Sieder, and project coordinator Blaise Mercadante.

Mercedance announced that the next Grocery Pricing Survey will be released the middle of January.

The coordinator encourages persons interested in assisting on the survey to contact him at the InPIRG office-283-8413 or at home-283-8489.

Novotny fund announced for engineering students

A scholarship fund for engineering students at the University of Notre Dame has been established at the request of Nanette Tripler Novotny, widow of Dr. Jerome L. Novotny, former professor of aeronautics and mechanical engineering at Notre Dame. Dr. Novotny died Nov. 14 after a brief illness.

The fund, established in recognition of Dr. Novotny's contributions in heat transfer research and his interest in mechanical engineering education, will provide scholarships for deserving engineering students interested in pursuing university teaching and research. The money would go into a graduate student grant transfer research and under-graduate fellowships and assistantships at the University since 1966. A native of Cleveland, Ohio.

ENTERTAINMENT NIGHTLY
(Except Tuesday)

Tonight

"RED POKEY"

The White House

"The House of Rock"

WEDS.--DRINK & DROWN
THURS.--PITCHER BEER NITE

MERRY CHRISTMAS from ROCCO'S

537 W. St. Louis Blvd.
(Good Luck on Final Exams)

Just 6 m. north of the state line...

To you and yours...

from "SAINT NICK" and NICKIE'S

Friday, December 6, 1974
Controversy surrounds taking towers for conversion to female dormitories (continued from page 1)

There are, however, the students that believe that the proposal should go through. "I think they should give the girls the Tower and move the grad students staying at Lewis Hall off campus," commented freshman Liz Dumelle. "Lack of student interest and possibly lack of student knowledge has made one student take the attitude of they can take Grace or Femnine, as long as they don't touch my room," said Mike Sheahan. "What difference does it make if either is sent to Farley. It's the people that make up the hall, not the buildings. The hall is what you make of it," added Sheahan.

"I think the University should let the decision rest for a year and in that year, investigate the problems completely so as to find a solution because the girls aren't here yet," said Dennis Sullivan, SLC representative.

A great deal of students feel that the release of these proposals was badly timed. A great deal more feel that the University always seems to make decisions when the finals are being given or over the breaks. They feel that the University never lets the students know what is going on until the decision is made.

Although it is a proposal, the students are pressing for a permanent solution to the problem. They do not want this problem to arise again next year.

"We need a solution to the problem now. We can't afford temporary decisions because the problem will never be solved. Everyone that wants on-campus housing should have it," concluded McGuire.

SMC history dept. plans overseas summer program

by Ken Girouard
Staff Reporter

The St. Mary's Department of History has announced that it is organizing a summer study program in Europe. The program, which runs from May 29 to June 29th, will include stops in Paris, London, Edinburgh and parts of Ireland.

According to Brother Bernard Danahoe, chairman of the History Department, exact details of the summer session have not yet been decided upon. "The curriculum," he said, "is still up in the air. It will probably include, though, credits in English history, histories of the European cities we visit, and the British arts."

There will be no central base of operation for the trip. "This program is not being run in cooperation with any European school," Danahoe said.

"Therefore, we will only rent classroom space in the various cities we are in."

Students in the program will stay in hotels and some of the lectures will take place in the hotel facilities.

The price for the summer session still has not been decided upon. Danahoe noted that, "The last figure quoted, which was sometime last year, was $865 plus tuition. Of course, there has been increases in air fare and possibly hotel rates since then."

The European study program is open to both St. Mary's and Notre Dame students, as well as any college students in the South Bend areas. Interested students should sign up in Brother Danahoe's office in 345 Madeva Hall at St. Mary's. A $50 deposit will be required.

Bicycle storage available throughout winter months

A winter bike storage program is being prepared by the Ombudsman Service, Ombudsman Director Bill McLean announced yesterday.

The program, which will be headed by John Creamer and Charlie Moran will accept bikes for storage Dec. 9 to 11 (next Monday through Wednesday) from 12:06-4:30 p.m. There is a possibility the hours will be extended to 6-9 p.m.

Bikes may be brought to Gate 14 of the stadium and there will be a cost of $1.50 for storing unregistered bikes. Proof of registration with Notre Dame Security or with South Bend will be required to take advantage of the 25 cent rate and those persons wishing to register their bikes may do so at the drop-off point at a cost of $1.00.

Students may pick up their bikes in late March or early April, depending upon the weather availability and student demand. Both on and off-campus students are welcome to make use of the program.

Student reactions (continued from page 2)

residential atmosphere of the university.

Solutions other than an on-campus lottery and a new dorm for women were projected through the survey. Nancy Meier of Lyons suggested the university contract with apartment builders to provide housing on or close to campus. She proposed if the university doesn't have the money itself to build housing, it ought to encourage private enterprises to do it."

Another suggestion encountered several times was the serious proposal of COED dorms as a solution. This, one womanadanance, could be arranged by dividing up the residence into women's and men's sections. This would avoid problems while letting both sexes live under one roof.

An alternative supported by one Farley woman called for the transference of graduate students to off campus residences before undergraduates be compelled to face similar consequences.

If you're one of tomorrow's physicians, there are some things you should know today.

For instance, You should know about the opportunities offered by Armed Forces Health Care. As an officer in the service of your choice you'll work in modern facilities. With the opportunity to practice it. You should know, too, that we make it possible for you to pursue a post-residency fellowship in practice of your choice in every area of Health Care.

For example, You should know that Armed Forces Health Care offers opportunities for initial training and advanced study in practically every specialty. Not to mention the opportunity to practice it. You should know, too, that we make it possible for you to pursue a post-residency fellowship at either military or civilian institutions. And if all this strikes a spark, then you should certainly know about our scholarship program. If you qualify, the tuition for your medical education will be covered fully while you participate in the program. And during that time you'll receive a good monthly stipend.

ARE YOU A DOMER IN DISTRESS WITHOUT WHEELS?
When In Need Of A Quick Getaway,
Call Lois At
JORDAN FORD
259-1981

STUDENT RATES:
Rent A PINTO For Just
$6/Day & $9/Mile (MIN. AGE 21)
609 E. Jefferson, Mishawaka
The Irish Eye

The greatest Christmas gift the NCAA could give college football fans would be a system designed to find out, once and for all, which team is number one in the nation. If this body of sports administrators wasn't so cost conscious and consequently so unwilling to take chances, we would see the first four games of the season like Oklahoma State (5-6) against Brigham Young in Reno, Mississippi State and North Carolina at El Paso, Texas at least there wouldn't be any distractions, but then again, Juicey is only a couple of minutes away. Back to the game. Mississippi State vs. Nebraska: North Carolina by 6.

The Fiesta Bowl, Oklahoma State and Brigham Young at Tempe, Arizona: Dec. 28: This game is embarrassing OSU in below zero, although BYU is in its first bowl game and is led by the best passing quarterback in the nation, Gable. Should it be nice to see Brigham Young win.

The Sugar Bowl, Nebraska and Florida at New Orleans, Dec. 31: This is a letdown after last season's spectacular, and nobody really cares about it. Nebraska ought to clobber the Gators. Cornhuskers by 10.

The Cotton Bowl, Penn State and Baylor at Dallas, Jan. 1: The Baylor Bears aren't going to blow their bowl appearance in Texas. Nebraska won't let them. Baylor by 7.

The Gator Bowl, Auburn and Texas at Jacksonville, Dec. 30: The Auburn War Eagles, as they are now known, are one of the best teams in the country. The only thing that Diddy D. Royal doesn't like to lose, anymore. Auburn by 10.

The Rose Bowl, Ohio State and Southern Cal at Pasadena, Jan. 1: The Trojans have looked unbeatable of late, Ara will admit to that. The Buckeyes are, by no means, an easy team to best and Bo Schenbecher will admit to that. Whether Woody Hayes admits that Anthony Davis is better than Archie Griffin or John McKay admits Griffin is better than Davis may not give us the pressure of more cohesion in our game. USC by 4.

The Orange Bowl, Notre Dame over Alabama at Miami, Jan. 1: Ara Parseghian doesn't like for his team to be humiliated by anybody. The wrath, hopefully this time, it'll be the Crimson Tide. Irish by 6.

The Peach Bowl, Vanderbilt and Texas Tech, at Atlanta, Dec. 28: Vandy probably got into this one because it's south of the Mason-Dixon line. The Red Raiders are a worthy opponent, and should make Vanderbilt wish it had stuck to basketball. Tech by 14.

After their month on the road, the Irish can look forward school rivals, Kirk Bruce, and Mike Flynn should make the Civic Center will rematch Irish and revenge-minded Marquette.!!!!

The Irish Eye

Irish cagers await Yuletide trip

(continued from page 2)

Down in Louisville, the Irish will face basically the same team they beat last year. Senior Kevin Grevey, leading scorer in the Big East (21.9), heads the returnees with Jimmy Dan Conner (12.0), Bob Quincy (11.5), and Brian Leonard (11.2). Two promising freshmen might pose more problems this year for Phelps.

Butler should afford the Irish a mild rest before the New York with an inexperienced team. The January 4 matchup with Maryland (21.9), heads the returnees with

The worst place to have to go for the holidays is undoubtedly El Paso, Texas. At least there won't be any distractions, but then again, Juicey is only a couple of minutes away. Back to the game. Mississippi State vs. Nebraska: North Carolina by 6.

The Fiesta Bowl, Oklahoma State and Brigham Young at Tempe, Arizona: Dec. 28: This game is embarrassing OSU in below zero, although BYU is in its first bowl game and is led by the best passing quarterback in the nation, Gable. Should it be nice to see Brigham Young win.

The Sugar Bowl, Nebraska and Florida at New Orleans, Dec. 31: This is a letdown after last season's spectacular, and nobody really cares about it. Nebraska ought to clobber the Gators. Cornhuskers by 10.

The Cotton Bowl, Penn State and Baylor at Dallas, Jan. 1: The Baylor Bears aren't going to blow their bowl appearance in Texas. Nebraska won't let them. Baylor by 7.

The Gator Bowl, Auburn and Texas at Jacksonville, Dec. 30: The Auburn War Eagles, as they are now known, are one of the best teams in the country. The only thing that Diddy D. Royal doesn't like to lose, anymore. Auburn by 10.

The Rose Bowl, Ohio State and Southern Cal at Pasadena, Jan. 1: The Trojans have looked unbeatable of late, Ara will admit to that. The Buckeyes are, by no means, an easy team to best and Bo Schenbecher will admit to that. Whether Woody Hayes admits that Anthony Davis is better than Archie Griffin or John McKay admits Griffin is better than Davis may not give us the pressure of more cohesion in our game. USC by 4.

The Orange Bowl, Notre Dame over Alabama at Miami, Jan. 1: Ara Parseghian doesn't like for his team to be humiliated by anybody. The wrath, hopefully this time, it'll be the Crimson Tide. Irish by 6.

The Peach Bowl, Vanderbilt and Texas Tech, at Atlanta, Dec. 28: Vandy probably got into this one because it's south of the Mason-Dixon line. The Red Raiders are a worthy opponent, and should make Vanderbilt wish it had stuck to basketball. Tech by 14.

Butler should afford the Irish a mild rest before the New Year with an inexperienced team. The January 4 matchup with Maryland should be anything but peaceful however.

The Terrapins, minus Tom McMillen, Len Elmore, and yes Moses Malone (describing Leffy Davis as "Natty" is like saying Gable is "a little bit") should be good enough. They will use Drissen's fourth year of eligibility to bring in 6-9 Tom Roy, and 6-8 Owen Brown. Maryland's stellar guards John Lucas and Moe Howard will move in.

Against Davidson, Notre Dame makes its southern-most appearance of the year on January 11. The Wildcats will once again go the youth route after starting four freshman in 1973. 6-4 Larry (Sway) Herron should be the chief obstacle.

Pittsburgh will not be up to another 2-game win streak this year, but could give Notre Dame trouble. The January 13 game in the Civic Center will rematch Irish guard Dwight Clay with high school rivals 6-6 Tom Richards and Kirk Bruce, and 6-8 Jim Bolla. Bolla, Kevin Kelly's older brother, should give the Irish problems.

After their month on the road, the Irish can look forward to school and revenge-minded Marquette.

Al McGuire's Warriors will host Notre Dame January 18 in Milwaukee where Clay ruined their 81 home win streak two years ago. The Irish are home January 25 against Holy Cross and the 26th with old-favorite UCLA.

By that time, Digital might be getting at least a change of underwear.

Skaters look to holidays

(continued from page 2)

Harvard and Boston College may not give us the pressure of getting good playoff spots, but they are two of the best teams in the country. The college basketball season, take the Irish case to the

The Irish Eye:

The worst place to have to go for the holidays is undoubtedly El Paso, Texas. At least there won't be any distractions, but then again, Juicey is only a couple of minutes away.

The Fiesta Bowl, Oklahoma State and Brigham Young at Tempe, Arizona, Dec. 28: This game is embarrassing OSU in below zero, although BYU is in its first bowl game and is led by the best passing quarterback in the nation, Gable. Should it be nice to see Brigham Young win.

The Sugar Bowl, Nebraska and Florida at New Orleans, Dec. 31: This is a letdown after last season's spectacular, and nobody really cares about it. Nebraska ought to clobber the Gators. Cornhuskers by 10.

The Cotton Bowl, Penn State and Baylor at Dallas, Jan. 1: The Baylor Bears aren't going to blow their bowl appearance in Texas. Nebraska won't let them. Baylor by 7.

The Rose Bowl, Ohio State and Southern Cal at Pasadena, Jan. 1: The Trojans have looked unbeatable of late, Ara will admit to that. The Buckeyes are, by no means, an easy team to best and Bo Schenbecher will admit to that. Whether Woody Hayes admits that Anthony Davis is better than Archie Griffin or John McKay admits Griffin is better than Davis may not give us the pressure of more cohesion in our game. USC by 4.

The Orange Bowl, Notre Dame over Alabama at Miami, Jan. 1: Ara Parseghian doesn't like for his team to be humiliated by anybody. The wrath, hopefully this time, it'll be the Crimson Tide. Irish by 6.

The Peach Bowl, Vanderbilt and Texas Tech, at Atlanta, Dec. 28: Vandy probably got into this one because it's south of the Mason-Dixon line. The Red Raiders are a worthy opponent, and should make Vanderbilt wish it had stuck to basketball. Tech by 14.

Butler should afford the Irish a mild rest before the New Year with an inexperienced team. The January 4 matchup with Maryland should be anything but peaceful however.

The Terrapins, minus Tom McMillen, Len Elmore, and yes Moses Malone (describing Leffy Davis as "Natty" is like saying Gable is "a little bit") should be good enough. They will use Drissen's fourth year of eligibility to bring in 6-9 Tom Roy, and 6-8 Owen Brown. Maryland's stellar guards John Lucas and Moe Howard will move in.

Against Davidson, Notre Dame makes its southern-most appearance of the year on January 11. The Wildcats will once again go the youth route after starting four freshman in 1973. 6-4 Larry (Sway) Herron should be the chief obstacle.

Pittsburgh will not be up to another 2-game win streak this year, but could give Notre Dame trouble. The January 13 game in the Civic Center will rematch Irish guard Dwight Clay with high school rivals 6-6 Tom Richards and Kirk Bruce, and 6-8 Jim Bolla. Bolla, Kevin Kelly's older brother, should give the Irish problems.

After their month on the road, the Irish can look forward to school and revenge-minded Marquette.
The Irish, despite a misleading 6-3 WCHA conference record (with two losses) are definitely a team which is coming — and coming strong. "I believe Saturday's game (4-4 tie) against Michigan State was the best hockey we have played," commented Coach Smith. "What pleased me most about the performance was that the kids went with State from the start, right on into the overtime." The Irish will attempt to overpower many an opposing goalie during their 8-game Christmas Schedule with Michigan, Michigan Tech, Harvard, and Boston College.

The Irish premier in holiday on ice

by Ish Kissel

It may be the Christmas season for most of Notre Dame, but for hockey coach Lefty Smith the next six games on the schedule are certainly not gifts. In consecutive weekends, the Fighting Irish take on the Michigan Wolverines and the Michigan Tech Huskies at home; Harvard and Boston College on the road.

The Irish, despite a misleading 6-3 WCHA conference record (with two losses) are definitely a team which is coming — and coming strong. "I believe Saturday's game (4-4 tie) against Michigan State was the best hockey we have played," commented Coach Smith. "What pleased me most about the performance was that the kids went with State from the start, right on into the overtime."

The Irish will attempt to overpower many an opposing goalie during their 8-game Christmas Schedule with Michigan, Michigan Tech, Harvard, and Boston College.

SWEATERS. SWEATERS. SWEATERS.

We have them in great selection...sleeveless, v-necks, shawl collars and many more in a good choice of colors and fabrics. Stop by. Vests from $6.50

MERRY CHRISTMAS
and
HAPPY NEW YEAR
from your
SENIOR CLUB

REGULAR HOURS THIS WEEKEND
NEXT WEEK - WE'RE OPEN ON
WEDNESDAY ONLY, FROM 8:00 - 1:00
AFTER WEDNESDAY, WE'LL BE CLOSED UNTIL JANUARY
by Pete McGugh

The big question Wednesday night was not who would wind up as home opener was not how many students bought tickets or how many points VCU would lose, but what in the name of Gilbert’s was Digger doing wearing a plain-old, conservative, unflaxed, definitely not right-on, blue suit. If one were to glean some symbolism from Phelps atypical attire, it might be that his gone outfits of last year are bidding their farewell. However, it is obvious that Phelps might as well try a hairshirt for all he cares. And then, after a week of intense sightseeing. For sale T. H. Stoddard, 17, of Los Angeles’ Paulie Pavilion, Louisville’s Freedom Hall, Maryland’s Capital Center AND Philadelphia’s Palestra. Phelps, as has become evident that Phelps fares the next month, the cagers will venture to have faced the best in the nation. The crucial ten game slate features national contenders from the ACC, Big Ten, PAC Eight, and SEC conferences. The big question Wednesday night was: Are we looking for men and women Need ride to Wash. D.C. are a. Need ride to vicin ity Dallas. Need ride to vicin ity Pensacola. Will share expenses. Call Jim at 3116.

Adrian Dantley and his Irish teammates face perhaps the toughest collegiate holiday schedule this year as they up go against powerhouse UCLA in Maryland and Kentucky on the road.

Kansas will be another story altogether when they meet the Irish Monday night. The Jayhawks return five of their top scorers and eight lettermen from last year’s 22-7 squad. They are also deep enough that 6-10 Dick Battle, who nearly destroyed Notre Dame a year ago with 37 points, might not start.

Indiana is yet another team looking for revenge. The Hoosiers certainly have the matériel with 6-7 junior Buckner free from the rigors of fall football and 6-11 sophomore center Kent Benson free from the inflated expectations of his freshman year. Bobby Knight has his top scorer also, 6-7 senior Steve Green (16.7), along with 6-7 Scott May and 6-6 Jack Laskowski.

At UCLA, Bill Walton is gone at last but John Wooden as usual has more talent than most leagues. Walton’s backup, 7-0 Ralph Drollinger, has stepped into the center position with senior 6-8 Dave Meyers. Marques Johnson at the forwards.

Indiana’s own, Pete Trigovich, and Anderson McClure should be a cordial, to Los Angeles’ Paulie Pavilion, Louisville’s Freedom Hall, Maryland’s Capital Center. And Philadelphia’s Palestra.
by Bill Delaney

Tigers next for Digger's cage(rs)

By Greg Curgan
Sports Editor

Unlike all Notre Dame fans and all Southern Cal followers, Bear Bryant may have watched last Notre Dame-USC spectacle with mixed emotions.

After all, the Irish did lose, something they didn't do last December in the Sugar Bowl. But then again, Ara Parseghian isn't one to take a loss lightly, especially a 34-24 one. And what better way to make up for it than by beating the only "legitimate" undefeated team, Alabama.

Paul Bryant's Crimson Tide bring a perfect 11-0 record into the Orange Bowl on New Year's night for rematch with 'Bama. The Tide likes those zeroes.

But in a bowl competition, Alabama has a lot of experience problem solving. After all, they are the visiting team's usual nemesis. Besides, Alabama is versatile at the vital positions. The Tide is again one of the leaders in the nation in adequate speed.

Tom Clements, a National Honors player, is most notorious around Notre Dame circles for the key to Notre Dame's success in last year's Sugar Bowl.