Student Affair Staff will consider matter this week

O-C male lottery still undecided

by Mary Baker

Staff Reporter

No decision has been made yet regarding the possibility of a lottery to force men to move off campus next semester. St. John Miriam Jones, Assistant to the Provost, said yesterday.

"The matter will certainly be on the agenda at the weekly meeting of the Student Affairs Staff this Wednesday." Jones said not set being that it was not discussed by the faculty at that time, though," she said.

"First of all, we need to know the number of students who would voluntarily move off campus. If no one were to move off and there were not enough beds, there would probably be a lottery," Jones observed.

"There is a possibility of using ways other than the lottery method," however. "As the Department of Housing, we have a committee working on the problem," Jones said.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI)—Convicted Watergate conspirator John W. Dean III said Tuesday night he had "no more Watergate bombs to drop."

Dean addressed a mostly student crowd of about 5000 at the College of William & Mary. He said he knew the identity of the mysterious Watergate news leak, "Deep Throat," as he was called by Washington Post reporters Robert Woodward and Carl Bernstein, but he refused to name him.

He said he did not know what was on the 18 minutes of erased White House tapes.

SHAWANO, Wis. (UPI)—Amid angry outbursts and under heavy security, Indians who occupied an abandoned Catholic abbey for 34 days were charged Tuesday with offenses ranging from disorderly conduct to armed robbery and false imprisonment.

13 ft. x 14 ft. By contrast, a Badin single measures approximately 8 ft. x 11 ft.

Citing the differences in the Lewls and Badin facilities, Garlock predicted that "next year will be a very difficult year, but if there is a new graduate hall in 76, one year in Badin should be tolerable."

"The plan for a new residence hall is the crucial point," empha sed Garlock. "If the university wants graduate women students, adequate on campus housing must be provided to attract them."

Mardi Gras Bonus

Due to extremely poor atendance to previous Mardi Gras events, the Notre Dame Third World Fund plans to present NT's biggest bargain—a free koozie, frisbee, or key chain to all patrons. Also fifty cents added to the price of all patrons. Third World Fund to collect staff contributions for charity

by Shawn Beaumont Staff Reporter

The Notre Dame Third World Fund has been organized by faculty members to collect contributions which will be taken from the payroll of all participating faculty and staff. The contributions will be sent to a group of seven charitable organizations to be used for aid to underdeveloped countries, according to Peter Walshe, instrumental in the Fund's organization.

The intention of the Fund is to raise money for various organizations which have what Walshe calls 'pools of expertise' to deal with the problem of imbalance of distribution of the world's resources.

The difference that the operation hopes to make is in sending aid for humanitarian reasons, where much of previous aid was "manipulative," that is with underlying political effects as their purpose. Walshe said the Fund hopes to provide a group of qualified organizations with funds to help meet the priorities of Third World nations, confident the spending will be optimized, he added.

The seven organizations are: Catholic Relief Services, CARE, UNICEF, Church World Services, OXFAM, Coworkers of Mother Theresa, and IFORDAIN.

Last week, all of the faculty and staff members at Notre Dame were sent pledge cards with which each individual can designate a desired amount to be withheld from his paycheck, the money going to the Fund. The contributions are tax deductible and are withheld each week for the purpose.

The intention of the Fund is to aid the United Nations, confident the money going in is not lost, and will be handled by the accounting department, which will also issue the checks. Each participating pledger is asked to state his preference of organizations to which the money will go. If there is no preference, his contribution will be split evenly among the seven groups.

The cards are due Feb. 7 and at that time all will be collected and a formula by which the total sum will be divided. Cards will be accepted after this time but cannot be included in the formula, and will be handled separately at a later date.

At Kellogg's, a student organizer for the Fund, noted that the decision on the seven organizations was made with attention to several criteria of efficiency.

In deciding to remain at Notre Dame, Pagna said he hopes to make a contribution to the community he has come to know and love. He said the overriding factor in his decision to accept the position was his desire to stay at Notre Dame.

My love for Notre Dame is greater than my love for football, Pagna said. He added that he is impressed with his new boss, Vice-President of Public Relations and Development James Frick, and that he hopes to do the best job possible.

Pagna said he hopes to expand and strengthen the Alumni Association to meet the ever-increasing demands made upon private institutions such as Notre Dame. Notre Dame needs the loyalty of its members if it is to continue to provide leadership and education, he noted.

Pagna observed that increasing life expectancies can add an extra dimension to the Notre Dame community, and that he will encourage alumni of all ages to become involved in the Association. The former coach added that it is important for the new graduate to know that he or she will have a place to identify with after graduation.

Another of his goals is to make seniors more aware of the opportunities available to them through their local alumni clubs. Just as the alumni provide a lifeline to the University, Notre Dame can benefit members of its community long after graduation, Pagna said.

Pagna said his love for Notre Dame and its people has been an ongoing process these past eleven years. He recalled his first speaking engagement at Notre Dame Night in Denver Colorado in 1966. In order to welcome him and show their support, the members of the club spontaneously broke into a rendition of the fight song upon his introduction.

"The miles separating these people from the campus couldn't put their tie with Notre Dame," Pagna stated.

Pagna, the first non-alumnus to hold the directorship of the alumni club, noted that he has benefitted greatly from his association with the University. He added that he feels as though he is as much a part of Notre Dame as if he had attended school here as an undergraduate.
Graduate Housing

The decisions to convert Lewis Hall from a graduate student residence to an undergraduate women's residence should be recognized as a sound one, though it does little to eliminate the housing problem that has been an annual occurrence at Notre Dame since co-education began in 1972.

In last year's report of the Committee On University Priorities (COUP), 1976 was stated as the final year of the "period of transition" for co-education. 1976 is coming upon us, and the Lewis Hall decision makes very evident that much will be left undone in the wake of the "period of transition."

The history of Badin Hall in the last four years is a good indication of the manner in which the University has handled the housing problem. Badin has gone from a men's residence hall, to one for women, and now a hall for women graduate students. In each instance, the decision to alter the status of Badin Hall was made in an atmosphere of pressure.

Big week for Irish, MSU tonight

by Fred Herbst

Six teams entered the final week of the Interhall Basketball season with perfect records this past Sunday.

The winners of the ten leagues as well as the runner-up in each league will participate in the playoffs.

Led by Mike Benifer and Frank Allen, Off-Campus II has clinched the title in League I with a 7-0 slate. Dillon I has a one game lead over Pangborn II for the League's final playoff spot.

Joining Hairston and Furlow in the starting lineup are 6-1 senior Peter Davis and 5-8 junior Beney White. The other forward in freshman Jeff Tropf, who first started against Indiana when ten members of coach Gus Ganacek's squad walked out before the game. Tropf has been in the first five ever since.

That incident may have been a turning point in disguise for the Spartans because, since then, Michigan State has been 7-1, losing only to conference rival Minne- sota three weeks ago.

For the Irish, the big question is still Adrian Danley, and whether the nation's second leading scorer will be able to play after suffering a lacerated eye and broken nose in Saturday's game against Xavier. "We don't know yet," explained Digger. "We won't know for sure until tomorrow night before the game."

Danneley, however, has been practicing all week sporting a mask that covers his nose and extends above and below his eyes on either side. He is expected to see action.

To hold off the Spartans, A.D.'s 31 points may come in handy, but Phelps wants some off-the-court help. "The students have got to do for us this week," he said. "They've got to make it happen. They've got to tear this place apart for us tonight and on Saturday afternoon. We need it this week."

Women's team drops first two

by Pete McLaugh

Well, like it or not, yet another male bastion has fallen. The Notre Dame Women's basketball team played its first home game and the first of its new collegiate game ever Saturday morning on the main floor of the ACC. Un- fortunately, however, the old Irish winning tradition could not take effect as the Irish were swamped by a more experienced Toledo team 95-25.

Before a sparse crowd in the South Dome, Notre Dame could never really penetrate the Buckets' tenacious no defense. Junior Mary Clancy and freshman Mary Lou Mulvihill led the Irish attack with eleven and nine points respectively.

The defeat was the women's second in as many contests following a 84-23 trouncing against Michigan Sunday night in East Lansing. The Spartans, ranked second in their division and a probable national tournament team, split their weekend by shutting out the smaller Irish. Mulvihill took team honors with eight points.

Coach Jeanne Earley felt her team was a bit intimidated by its first competition. "Our biggest problem is confidence. What do we do in practice is not what we do in the game. Whatever they do in practice, they'll be doing a lot of it tonight in the big hall." Against the Spartans, the first cross-rivals clash with St. Mary's Thursday night in the ACC. Coach Earley is confident, "We're hoping to entice them. For one thing, we've got the quickness and the press for them to make mistakes.
