Announcement made yesterday

Duggan is appointed new SMC president

by Mary Janca

St. Mary's Editor

At a time when many other colleges are on the verge of closing, facing huge deficits, weakened by disunion, faced with the need of tenured faculty, operating in obsolete structures, surrounded by increasing drops in applications and unfilled spaces, St. Mary's faces the challenge of next year's position," the new president observed. However, he also said, "We have shown that strong position SMC must rely on the continued goodwill and support of all alumni." Among these, Duggan said, "are the considerable contrivances of services of the Sisters of the Holy Cross; support, both in spirit and dollars, of alumnae; continuous willingness of parents to pay the tuition required to sustain and improve the quality of education, and the willingness of students to strive for that quality; and cooperation with the University of Notre Dame in those areas of mutual advantage. These advantages bridge programs with the South Bend community, and in particular and especially with the men and women teachers who work here."

Clear identity

The new president contended that SMC's "clear identity is a tremendous asset," giving an advantage over many other colleges. While other schools are currently going through an identity crisis "about what we are," Duggan declared a college with a strong religious tradition, that religious tradition, and that it has decided to remain a woman's college in a world where most of the others are undertaking at least an annual review of their programs.

Duggan continued, noting that St. Mary's president, Dr. William Hickey, "provided a warm, supportive, Christian welfare ministry that is unique in the world. It has presented itself to be a liberal arts college which stresses preparation, moral and aesthetic values, while responding to the needs of a necessary element of vocational preparation, but avoiding narrow specialization."

"It is my intention to do everything I can for students, faculty, staff, and administration to facilitate these goals and make a strong St. Mary's even stronger," he continued.

Historical review of search

Prior to the announcement of Duggan's appointment, Nelligan detailed the work of the Search Committee, the Board of Regents, and the Corporate Board of the Sisters of the Holy Cross in the selection of the new president.

The Search Committee, founded in the spring of 1974, was composed of members of the Board of Regents, administration, faculty, alumnae and students. By the December meeting of the Board of Regents, this committee had selected five presidential candidates for presentation to the Board, the Corporate Board Chairman said:

"After the Board of Regents interviewed these candidates and after having heard the evaluations of these men by the members of the Search Committee, each Board member recommended those whom he felt were the most viable candidates. Those most highly recommended were then interviewed further by the Corporate members of St. Mary's College. She stated these members, the continued, belong to the General Council of the Sisters of Holy Cross. Before interviewing each of these candidates, the Corporate Board members received all the information and evaluations which the Search Committee had collected."

The Corporate Board then interviewed the three final candidates in Boston. "After meeting these men, there was unanimous and instantaneous agreement that we had found someone who could bring to St. Mary's what we wanted for our purposes at this time," said Nelligan. Next interview we would invite the two whose name could be of assistance to anyone for whom he worked, those with whom he worked for. He received not only an 'A' but a president, but a president elect," she stated.

"Thanks to Dr. Hickey," she added.

Nelligan also paid tribute to Acting President Dr. William Hickey. "He has given full measure and overflow to St. Mary's since he came here. His gifts have not been limited to his leadership, but that he has been acting president, and these two weeks have brought to him many, many things to be done in preparation for today and for the Board of Regents meeting on Friday in an attempt to keep this announcement a secret surprise," she explained.

In addition, the chairman thanked the members of the Search Committee, particularly those on campus, Dr. Eugene Campitelli, Sr. Frances Kennedy, Sr. Elena Maliva, and Tesa Lehman.

Press Conference Comments

At a press conference following the announcement, Duggan stated that he didn't foresee any "major problems in the near future for St. Mary's.

"As I said earlier, at a time when many colleges are running at huge deficits, St. Mary's has a balanced budget. At a time when many call-gals are concerned about the number of scholarships available to the filled beds, St. Mary's is in a very strong position," he said.

"The president noted that he would like to avoid narrow specialization, as this "gives the kind of flexibility to innovate," and an increased scholarship fund.

"I also believe that the faculty is an excellent one, and that it has come to the point in the balance of tenure versus freshman in an attempt to keep this announcement a secret surprise," she explained.

Endowed Professorship program begun

by Martha Fanning

Staff Reporter

In recent years the name has been able to inaugurate an Endowed Professorship program in various departments of the university.

Frederick Crosson, Dean of the College of Arts, devoted the announcement to the program as "another sign of our commitment to the university.

Endowed professorships are already very well established at a very good institution," noted Burtchall.

Another advantage of the endowed professorships, mentioned by Burtchall, "is the relatively low operating budget of the compensation burden of the most highly paid faculty. This allows the funds longer needed for those positions to be used to support the positions of lower rank at a rate of higher annual increase than without these endowments. Thus there is a positive effect at all ranks, senior and junior," he concluded.

One short-term disadvantage of the endowed professorships was mentioned by Crosson: the appointment of someone at that level results in the locking up of tenure positions available. Since the number of tenured positions is finite, "one becomes more difficult for a young, new, junior faculty member," he noted.

Furushih commented, "Some people worry we are spending too much on one person when other salaries aren't enough." In the report, Burtchall states that negative feelings of the tenured faculty toward the appointment to chairs, could be kept.

"I think that these are un- established careers, yet unfilled, reflecting enough of the fullest judgment. If one views the personal acknowledgment and responsibility that one's career as a very high priority, one tends already to want to see those professional positions to go inside," he stated.

"If one views the opportunity to strengthen the senior, scholarly component of a department faculty for the benefit of the student as a good thing and has this as a high priority, then one should favor the opportunity to attract a new outsider. If one thinks that both are high priorities, as I hope most of us do, then it is all for the benefit of the student," he observed.

"In any case, it seems clear that we shall not survive financially we academically put without a very considerable portion of our students being the firms base of endowment," Burtchall said.

Burtchall also remarked that he hoped that eventually all professorial positions will be endowed.

There are currently 16 chairs at the university other departments that may be endowed at $800,000. Salaries of the professor must be paid with the interest off the principal chairs.

A further endowment chairs already appointed are: The George and Charlotte Clark Chair in Biology, Prof. George B. Craig, Jr., The Frank M. Freiman Chair in Electrical Engineering, Prof. James L. Mussey; The Michael P. Grace Chair in the M ichael P. Grace Institute, Prof. Jeffrey B. Russell, and the Charles L. Haughton Chair in Chemistry, Prof. Anthony M. Tronzo.

Chairmen not yet appointed include: The Jakey J. Doan Chair in Government and Political Studies. This is the Catherine F. Huking Chair in Chairology; The Kenna Chair in Anthropology; The Howard J. White Chair in Political Science; The John Cardinal O'Hara Chair in Philosophy; The C.R. Smith Chair in Business Administration; The Fred B. Senne Jr. Chair in Oriental Studies; and The James T. Burtchall Chair in History. The Thomas J. Burtchall Chair in Law; and the William White Chair in English.

SLC hears three progress reports

The Student Life Council met for less than fifteen minutes yesterday afternoon and heard progress reports from three SLC committees.

SFB Pat McLaughlin, chairman of the SLC Rules Committee, reported that his committee is working on recommendations for a disciplinary system which would prove less confusing to the students. McLaughlin stated that the recommendations would be completed by March 16, the next SLC meeting.

St. John Siemian-Jones, assistant to the provost and member of the SLC Planning and Policy Committee, announced that his committee will submit a report in May regarding University parietals policies. The report, which will be forwarded to the Board of Trustees, will be based on a student poll conducted last spring, interviews with hall rectors and written correspondence with SLC members who have dealt with the parietals issue.

Denis Sullivan, the Future of the SLC Committee, noted that his committee was not yet ready to report its findings.

In the meantime, stop by B-109 to pick up a copy of our new SLC Planning and Policy Committee Report.

According to president
No major problems foreseen

According to police chief, he explained:

Concerning his role as president of St. Mary's, Duggan noted that the president stands in the center of a number of conflicting forces, and the extent to which a single person can exert his influence on "a complicated, seamless institution such as a college is questionable."

Earlier, at the convocation, in discussing his position, the president referred to author John Coleman's comments in The Blue Journal:

"He is a college president: is he definition almost always wrong. If he spends much time meeting with students, he is neglecting the faculty; if he spends much time with the faculty, he is being located to by them."

If he is off-campus, he should be back reading the school, if he's on campus, he should be out raising money. If he pushes his pet educational thoughts, he's trying to run the show, if he doesn't, he isn't interested enough in education.

"If he changes his mind on an issue, he's wacky-wacky; if he doesn't, he's pigheaded. If his name isn't in the paper, he's letting the school down. If it is, it's a publicity hound."

"If he smiles a lot, he's naive of the problems of the school; if he frowns, he's given up too soon. He's all very interesting an not hard to take, once he gets over wanting to be right, and settles instead for doing the best he can," states Coleman.

"I look forward to doing the best I can at this, the beginning of what I hope will be a long, and happy and productive association."

Search for SMC president ends

by Sherry Antonini
Staff Reporter

The resignation of Dr. John Duggan as the next President of SMC led to an urgent call for nearly a year of research and evaluations, by the Presidential Search Committee.

Following the resignation of Dr. Duggan on March 8, the Faculty Assembly passed a resolution directing the Board of Regents to form a nine-member search committee.

Four of the members, Dr. Leonelle Schoeberlin, Judy Kula, Mary Ann Dobis, and Fr. John Whalen (appointed chairman), were also members of the Board of Regents while four other members were appointed from other voting bodies of the college. Both Sr. Elena Mabie and Dr. Eugene Campanale were elected by the Faculty Assembly. Dr. Francesca Kennedy, Acting Vice-President for Academic Affairs, was chosen by the administration and Tom Lehman acted as Student Representative. The ninth member was Kay Boyle, Assistant Alumnus President.

The search for presidential candidates was extensive and ran through many channels. Sr. Elena noted: "An request for interested persons was placed in the Chronicle of Higher Education. The President of Catholic Colleges was notified and asked for recommendations. Other sources were faculty, alumnae, and friends of the college."

During the spring and early summer of last year, the Search Committee worked with a professional agency, Quaintance Associates, Inc., to aid them in locating candidates. However, this arrangement had terminated by the end of the summer. Although Quaintance representatives traveled to other campuses looking for prospective candidates, the committee felt it was more important as to what type of president SMC was looking for and proceeded to do the work on its own.

The Committee met several times throughout the following months. Since different members were situated in Utah, Washington, D.C., Pittsburgh, and Springfield, Ohio, they generally met at O'Meara International Tower, a place convenient to all, Sr. Elena reported.

However, some of the members were situated in Utah, Washington, D.C., Pittsburgh, and Springfield, Ohio, they generally met at O'Meara International Tower, a place convenient to all, Sr. Elena reported.

Nevertheless, the committee's research showed that SMC was looking for a leader who would address the college's problems and guide it through the next generation.

The committee's efforts were rewarded when Fr. Whalen was appointed as both chairman and member of the committee. He succeeded Dr. Duggan in that capacity.

Also in early autumn, two men were brought to the St. Mary's campus to meet with faculty. (continued on page 7)

Date for public hearing set on drinking age proposal

Notre Dame SSB Pat McLaughlin announced yesterday that the proposed bill which would lower the legal drinking age in Indiana to 18 has cleared another hurdle in the General Assembly.

The House Public Policy Committee has granted the bill a public hearing, tentatively scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 27 at 10 a.m. in the Indianapolis Statehouse.

McLaughlin stated that the committee chairman, Chester Dooh from Lake County, finally consented to a hearing. For the bill to remain alive, McLaughlin stated, it has to be sent out of the committee.

The bill would amend the alcoholic beverage laws by changing the definition of "minor" to "a person less than 18 years of age." The bill, once passed into law, would call for the state to take effect July 1, 1975.

McLaughlin, who will be one of four student leaders to testify in favor of the bill at the hearing, attributed the bill's progress to student support. Before we started writing letters, the bill wasn't even going to get a hearing," he said.

Dear Editor:

Thank you.
In those days an angel of the Lord visited a maid named Elizabeth and said to her: "Greetings, favored one; the Lord is with you!" And she was deeply troubled at the saying and wondered what kind of greeting he had given her. For she knew that she was past childbearing age. But the angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. And behold, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus. He will be great, and the Lord God will be with him; he will reign over the house of Jacob for ever, as the days of David. To him shall belong the sovereignty of the house of his father Jacob. His reign shall be from the time of his ancestors to the end of the earth. He shall reign over all the nations, and their kings shall be subject to him." And Mary said, "Here am I, the servant of the Lord; let it be with me according to your word." Then the angel departed from her. When the angel returned, Mary's cousin Elizabeth was six months pregnant. Elizabeth said to Mary, "How very blessed you are among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! But why is this that is happening to me, a despised woman from the people?" Mary replied, "As soon as the voice of your greeting reached my ears, my heart is filled with joy. The Almighty has done this for me in his servant Mary, and blessed is her faith! For I, the Lord, have heard your prayer and have granted your request." And Mary continued singing, "My spirit has rejoiced in God my Savior, for he has remembered me, the lowly one of his people. He has rewarded me with favor toward his holy servant, Jacob, as he promised with our ancestors, to make us the house of his servant David. From now on all generations will call me blessed, for you have lifted up the lowly and have filled the hungry with good things, but sent the rich away empty. In every generation he has been kind to his people, and remember his mercy toward them, to the father of our nation, Abraham." When Elizabeth heard this, she was filled with the Holy Spirit and shouted out, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! Yet he has looked on the lowliness of his servant; for behold, from now on all generations will call me blessed. The Mighty One has done great things for me, and holy is his Name. His mercy is for those who fear him from generation to generation." The townspeople who were hearing about this marveled at what had been done by the Lord. And Mary continued singing, "My soul magnifies the Lord, and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior, for he has looked on the lowliness of his servant. For behold, from now on all generations will call me blessed. The Mighty One has done great things for me, and holy is his Name. His mercy is for those who fear him from generation to generation. He has shown the strength of his arm, scattered the proud in the thoughts of their hearts; he has put down the powerful from their thrones, but has raised up the humble. He has filled the hungry with good things, but sent the rich away empty. He has helped his servant Israel, remembering his mercy forever. As he promised to our ancestors, he has fulfilled for us, in the person of his holy servant Jesus." When Mary finished saying these things, the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a city of Galilee named Nazareth to a virgin engaged to a man named Joseph, of the house of David. The virgin's name was Mary. And the angel entered and said to her, "Greetings, favored one! The Lord is with you." But she was greatly troubled when she heard this news, and tried to find out what it meant. The angel continued, "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. You will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus. He will be great, and the Lord God will be with him; he will reign over the house of Jacob for ever, as the days of David. To him shall belong the sovereignty of the house of his father Jacob. His reign shall be from the time of his ancestors to the end of the earth. He shall reign over all the nations, and their kings shall be subject to him." And Mary said, "Here am I, the servant of the Lord; let it be with me according to your word." Then the angel departed from her. When Elizabeth heard this, she was filled with the Holy Spirit and shouted out, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb! Yet he has looked on the lowliness of his servant; for behold, from now on all generations will call me blessed. The Mighty One has done great things for me, and holy is his Name. His mercy is for those who fear him from generation to generation. His name is the Son of the Most High, and his kingdom shall have no end. Mary responded, "And you, my cousin, have found favor with God, and I am full of the Holy Spirit. I am a humble servant of the Lord, who has found favor with God." And she continued singing, "My soul magnifies the Lord, and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior, for he has looked on the lowliness of his servant. For behold, from now on all generations will call me blessed. The Mighty One has done great things for me, and holy is his Name. His mercy is for those who fear him from generation to generation. He has shown the strength of his arm, scattered the proud in the thoughts of their hearts; he has put down the powerful from their thrones, but has raised up the humble. He has filled the hungry with good things, but sent the rich away empty. He has helped his servant Israel, remembering his mercy forever. As he promised to our ancestors, he has fulfilled for us, in the person of his holy servant Jesus."
Recent changes stress new philosophy

Observer Insight

by Annette Ruzinski
Staff Reporter

During the past several months, the Office of Student Affairs has initiated some changes which stress a whole new philosophy.

Dr. Mary Alice Cannon, Vice-President for Student Affairs, stated that education is not necessarily limited to the classroom but could extend to outside programs. Many ideas are currently being presented to faculty, administration and students for their opinion.

Program brochure

This is being done in the form of a brochure which lists and briefly describes some workshops and seminars which can be available to students if they are interested in them. In this way, "students can take advantage of the expertise on campus," Cannon added.

Undergraduate counseling

Included in the suggested programs are seminars which would aid undergraduates in choosing majors, how to manage a budget, future job opportunities, and generally how to cope with life after graduation. Cannon noted, "It's a whole new concept in career development which begins with undergraduates."

The Placement Office has remained basically the same. As previously, recruiters will continue to visit Yale with the seniors and job applications will be handled.

Seminars and workshops will begin to counsel undergraduates and help them make wise decisions. These meetings will encourage the student to give critical thought to her future plans. Also entered in the Placement Department is a program constructed to help liberal arts majors.

Opportunities will be pointed out to them for jobs in such fields as Government, Philosophy and History.

Hall programs

Gail Ritchie, Assistant to the Director of Counseling, has gathered a sort of steering group of students who will reflect programs needed for the halls. This group is designed to help the administration create programs for students who want to do something yet don't want to be too active.

"These new residence hall programs are a facet of the whole idea of student development," claimed Cannon.

"Every member in the Student Affairs office is working together to implement the total philosophy and to assist in making a sound choice for whatever the student may be doing," Cannon said.

Counsel of services

In addition, the Women's Council of St. Mary's and Notre Dame was formed to provide a co-exchange of services which would lead to a better understanding, friendship and learning.

Cannon emphasized the importance of programs in halls but also assured that "they are not thrust upon students, but rather, made available to them."

This makes it easier for students and faculty to become involved in programs that satisfy the students really want, she noted.

Response to hunger crisis

Coffin leads prayer service

by Marianne Morgan
Staff Reporter

Social action and civil rights movement leader Rev. William Shaine Coffin, Jr. will lead "A Christian Response to the Hunger Crisis," the Lenten Prayer Service, on Wednesday, February 26 at 11:30 in Sacred Heart Church.

Coffin, former University chaplain at Yale University and pastor of the Church of Christ, is currently involved in the world hunger crisis, particularly on the Yale campus. He is the director of the Yale Hunger Action Project.

This group organized a Fast day last November in which over 2500 people participated and set aside almost $8,000 for distribution for the hungry in Bangladesh, in Africa, and in New Haven.

John Bartlett, former Notre Dame Student Body President (Class of 1972) is working closely in the group's efforts to organize similar actions on other campuses into a nationwide response to the hunger problem.

Coffin became widely known for his participation in the anti-Vietnam movement. In 1972, as a member of the Committee of Liaison, he escorted three released prisoners of war back to the United States.

He was among the first to accept draft cards from war protestors. Subsequently, he was arrested with Dr. Benjamin Spock for aiding and abetting draft resisters. The charges were later dropped.

Active in civil rights during the early '60's, Coffin broke the racial barriers in Montgomery, Alabama along with 50 other "Freedom Riders," by eating at a segregated lunch counter. He was arrested and subsequently appealed his case to the Supreme Court. The Higher Court voided the local segregation laws.

Coffin has received the Dahlberg Peace Award by the North American Baptist Convention, the American Award at the Connecticut Valley Council of B'nai B'rith, and an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Wesleyan University.

Before the Lenten Prayer Service Coffin will be available for informal discussions Wednesday at 3:30 in the ballroom, second floor.
Duggan’s selection ends a yearlong search

... students, administration, and to be interviewed by the Board of Regents. Thus began the most intense phase of work – narrowing down to five men, Dr. Mertz, Dr. Boyd Litzenger, Dr. Robert Giroux, and Dr. John Duggan. Prior to the December 14 Board of Regents meeting, members of the Search Committee interviewed nearly all of the qualified women for the job and were asked to write letters to the Corporate Board Chairman expressing their opinions of the candidates.

In early February, members of the Corporate Board met in Boston with several of the candidates recommended by the Regents and the decision to appoint Dr. John Duggan as the new President of St. Mary’s College was made. Dr. Duggan was recommended to the Search Committee by an administrator from another college, Sr. Elenad, who was impressed with his credentials and invited him to the interviews set up by the sub-committees at O’Hare. Members who interviewed him were also impressed and wanted him brought to campus, Sr. Elenad reported.

Dr. Duggan earned his B.A. from the College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Massachusetts in 1950. He attended Yale where he received his M.A. in 1957 and, in 1957, a Ph.D. in Educational Psychology. He held several important positions in such schools as Canterbury Preparatory School in New Midford, Connecticut, University of Bridgeport, and Yale University.

In January, 1969, he became the Vice President for Student Affairs and Professor of Psychology at Vassar College. He held several other positions as trustee, chairman, and consultant for various organizations and schools and has also contributed articles to several publications.

Dr. Campanale commented that he was “extremely happy” with the choice.

Irish make it or break it tonight

Victory over Fordham is essential to keep NCAA tournament hopes alive

by Greg Corgan

"We're playing these two just like we played UCLA," said Irish basketball coach Digger Phelps yesterday afternoon as he reviewed his team for tonight's game with the Fordham University Rams. "This is a must win situation."

Besides this evening's contest with the 13-8 Rams, Phelps is also considering Notre Dame's final regular season game this Saturday with Dayton. "We can't afford to split with either team. Without these two games we can say goodbye to an NCAA tournament bid."

Currently, the Irish are 16-8 and treading on the edge of missing this year's tourney. The 75-70 loss to DePaul was damaging to Notre Dame's chances. However, should the Irish win their two remaining home games, considering their difficult schedule, ND's TV appeal and Adrian Dantley, an 18-8 mark should be enough to get them a first-round invite.

"Who knows?" said Digger. "But we're thinking positively; we don't even want to talk about what would happen if we lose. That's why tonight and Saturday we need this game from the Fordham University Rams.

Fordham is first, and the Rams are out to prove a thing or two after being drubbed by Marquette last Thursday, 101-64. Of course that was after Fordham coach Hal Wissel incurred the wrath of a referee and was charged with a "pasty" schedule.

Wissel isn't about to give the Irish that added incentive tonight. With a win this evening the Rams can clinch a berth in the ECAC tournament in Madison Square Garden which will determine one of the teams in the eastern regional of the NCAA's. So far, the teams in that playoff are St. John's, Rutgers, Seton Hall and either Manhattan or Fordham.

Other than securing an ECAC spot, the Rams will, no doubt, enjoy the pleasure of beating their old coach Digger Phelps. They seem to have the tools to do it.

Pat Coogan drives in for two more points, helping the ND women's team defeat St. Mary's 38-37.

Swimmers beat ISU in last home meet

by Ernie Torrellas

The University of Notre Dame swim team was its eleventh meet of the year, as they drowned Illinois State, 63-56, Saturday afternoon at the Rockne Memorial Pool. This was the last home meet of the year for the Irish, who performed before a highly partisan capacity crowd.

For the third straight year, Notre Dame and Illinois State went into the final event, the 4x100-yard freestyle relay, with the score at 56-56. Two years ago, the Irish held on to win 63-56 and last year Notre Dame came on to win, 57-36. This year, Notre Dame was not to be denied. The quartet of Ed Fitzimmons, Jim Sevreny, Tim Meagher and Ken Kane nabbed the heat, while setting a pool record with a time of 3:15.7, thus sealing the 63-56 victory.

The highlight of the meet was the diving of Bob Ebel. Ebel broke his own varsity and pool record by amassing 202.60 points. This mark qualifies Ebel for the NCAA Championship in Cleveland, Ohio, March 27 and 28.

Bob Thompson swam well in the backstroke events. He was especially impressive in the 200-yard backstroke as he set a varsity record with a time of 2:01.4.

The Irish will meet the Redbirds of Evansville for the annual crosstown meet on Monday in the rec hall. This will be the last home meet for seven Notre Dame swimmers; Ray Carey, Jim Kane, Dan Makowski, Jim Meagher, Charlie Payne, Bob Thompson, Mike Woit and the senior manager Bill Matarazzi.

Next weekend, Notre Dame travels to Detroit, Michigan to compete in the Motor City Invitational.
