Student Life Council reduces membership

The Student Life Council voted yesterday to reduce its membership from 24 members to 15. The change will be included in a list of recommendations to be presented to the Board of Trustees on May 9.

By FREDERICK H. MARKS

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist-led rebel forces, firing rocket-propelled grenades and bazooka shells, finally pushed into 3 miles of Phnom Penh's vital airport Monday and hurled government troops back toward the center of the city, a representative of the Cambodian government said yesterday when government forces abandoned five positions to the north.

With the Khmer Rouge rebels controlling about 90 percent of Cambodia, the Phnom Penh, Pochentong Airport was the capital's largest supply link with the outside world.

One diplomat who fled the city said the insurgents may launch a major attack against the airport within a week.

In forwarding his proposal, Hegarty claimed the reduction in size would make the SLC more efficient through a consolidation of efforts. Members eventually voted in favor of the proposal.

Professor Walter Nicgorski contended that no vote should be taken on the matter until so that council members would have time to reflect upon it.

Nicgorski disagreed with the speedy adoption of the proposal, stating there had not been enough "reasonable debate." Nicgorski contended that no vote should be taken on the matter until such debate was possible.

In reducing the number of representatives of the faculty, administration and student body from eight to five, the council also voted to reduce the number of student members from three.

The revised council will include one representative each from the administration faculty, and students. These representatives will be the vice president for student affairs, the vice chairman to the faculty senate and the student body president.

This elimination of ex officio members, proposed by Maureen Glenon and amended by Fr. Carl Ebele, will allow the dean of students, the chairman of the students' academic council and the student body vice president.

This change will not necessarily bar these officers from further input on the SLC since they could still be chosen for one of the four remaining positions on the SLC from their areas.

The discussion on reducing the size of the SLC followed a report from the Board of Trustees which Bro. Just Potosky, vice president for student affairs, read at the opening of the meeting.

"I am glad to hear that the SLC is examining itself. Student life at Notre Dame has undergone many changes in the last seven years and the SLC was an integral part in many of them," said the president.

The recommendations to reduce the size of the SLC must be prepared and mailed by April 21 in order for the topic to be discussed at the May meeting of the trustees.

Commutant forces advance

Communist rocket and artillery fire appeared to be increasing day by day. The rebels hit a napalm bomb storage area and fired other rockets in a pattern that covered all sides of the airport terminal.

The Communists routed more defenders from the airfield's vicinity, and their assault line ½ miles away put the airport within range of a heavy mortar.

"The situation to the north west near the airport is very serious," an official source said. "There is some penetration in those segments of the defense perimeter."

OHKORI KURINO, the Japanese ambassador who closed down his country's mission here last week, said in Tokyo the airport may become the prime target of a major rebel assault before the lunar new year holidays April 13-15.

Despite the assault, U.S. planes resumed ammunition and fuel flights into the airport at dawn - the 46th day of the battle.

Two more evacuation flights Monday took additional U.S. embassy personnel from the country. The embassy was the only diplomatic mission still operating in Phnom Penh, and with that a staff reduced from nearly 300 to about 30 or 40 in less than a week.

Staffs of voluntary relief agencies doing refugee work under contract to the U.S. government also had almost left the capital by Sunday.

Political sources said a meeting of senior officials including acting President Sau Khamekay and Vice Prime Minister Meas Saong Thoun discussed whether the capital should be surrendered to the insurgents, but decided military and civilians leaders should work for unity in the face of the new threats.

In Bangkok, Foreign Minister Chatchai Choonhawana said the Thai government at its own initiative had established a "direct contact" with the rebel Khmer Rouge in an attempt to set up peace negotiations in Bangkok with the Cambodian government.

"As a neighboring country of Cambodia," Chatchai said, "we don't want to see the continuation of the bloodshed."

Campus escort service started to provide added security

by Lonnie Luna
Staff Reporter

Former Fisher Hall President Rich Morton will hold a volunteer escort service for all concerns for the first one hundred students.

Morton explained the basics on how the Student Escort Service will operate.

"Eight to twelve in the evenings, there will be two escorts in the lobby of the library near the revolving doors and two escorts at the Circle. The escort will leave every fifteen minutes on route to the South Quad and, if required, the escort will deviate their path via the North Quad."

"If a student requests to call Security and ask for an escort. All she has to say is when asking for an escort is where the escort is to pick her up and which grade she is in. She does not have to give her particular destination," continued Morton.

"After two, Security will handle the escorting.

"Morton explains that the escorts will have to present their Escort ID cards without being asked to do so.

"We are looking for reliable male and female volunteers to have the success of the service. The Service will tentatively run from Sunday through Thursday," explained Morton.

Regarding the alleged lack of action the University has taken to provide the proper safety of its female inhabitants, Morton said, "Until the University provides the proper funding, this Service is a definite necessity.

Student representatives have the formation of this Service and, hopefully, the impact provided by this action will initiate the necessary University action.

There will be an organizational meeting after Dr. Philip Facenda's Lewis Hall meeting Thursday night in the LaFomite Ballroom for all concerned students. For additional information, call Rich Morton at 3079.

Morton is available to discuss the matter with the girls' halls if they desire more information.

Any interested students are asked to contact their hall presidents.

"The success of the Service depends on the behove of boys and whether they take the Service seriously enough," concluded Morton.

A POLITICAL demonstration outside the South Dining Hall? An extremely only seemed like we were back in the 60's as these clever students marched last Friday to promote last Saturday's FSD's dance in Stepan Center.

Graduation name cards, announcements are ready

Graduating seniors who have not picked up their graduation announcements or name cards should do so by April 15, according to Joe Henderlong, senior class representative.

Each senior is entitled to ten free announcements, which are now available in room 222 of the Administration Building. Extra announcements may be bought after April 15 for ten cents each.

Also available in the same room are order forms for name cards and information packets detailing the programs and procedures for commencement weekend. The deadline for ordering name cards has been extended to April 15, instead of the April 9 date listed on the forms.

Campus housing lottery abolished

The problems of on-campus housing and a possible lottery should not be present next year, according to Fr. John Mulcahy, director of student residences. "There will be no lottery for on-campus housing next year," stated Mulcahy.

"Things are running comparatively the same as last year," continued Mulcahy, "and we can see no problems right now."

"We're gambling that the same number of people will move off campus again, and with the addition of Lewis Hall as a women's residence hall, there should be adequate housing," he added.

The freshman quota will be the same next year, according to Mulcahy, reaching the 1960 level as in the past. Requests on housing cards are continuing and Mulcahy said he will know far more about the situation when the April 15 deadline is reached and a definite number of on-campus residents will be realized.

Theology course corrections cited

30 level theology courses are open to any student at Notre Dame or St. Mary's needing a first theology course. The preliminary course evaluation booklet erroneously states that this level of courses is open only to sophomores, according to Prof. O'Brien of the Theology Department.

Pre-registration Programs for Freshman Intents

Pre-advance registration programs will be conducted for all freshmen intent areas on Wednesday, April 9 at 7:00 P.M.

At each program, complete information will be given on the advance registration procedures and on the sophomore year and its relationship to the degree program.

Universal Notre Dame nights sponsored by Alumni Clubs

by Marianne Schulte
Staff Reporter

The month of April begins another series of Universal Notre Dame nights throughout the world. Universal Notre Dame Night is an annual event which occurs in April at many of the extensive Notre Dame Alumni Clubs, which are located in some 50 cities in the U.S. and some international locations.

At these Universal Notre Dame nights, speakers from the university travel to these different clubs and lecture on the many diverse aspects of the Notre Dame community, other than athletics, which are a part of the contemporary scene at their alma mater.

John Nesesson, a graduate of the University in 1960, established the first universal Notre Dame night in 1924. Originally intended to be held at all alumni clubs on the same night in April every year, the event occurs each club selected to date throughout the month of April at each club's choice.

The Notre Dame Alumni Association operates primarily through a club structure to achieve the goal of keeping the alumni united as a family and informed with the current happenings in the Notre Dame community," Tom Pagna, executive director of the Notre Dame Alumni Association, said yesterday. Appropriately fifty-three clubs from both the larger clubs like Notre Dame and the smaller ones like Terre Haute.

In some cases when a speaker is requested and the club's treasury cannot afford the expenses of the speaker, the expenses are then assumed by the Alumni Association itself, Pagna said. This year's program consists of some twenty to twenty-two speakers, including University President Rev. Hesburgh, Provost Fr. James Burtchell, Executive Vice-President of Public Relations and Development. The most heavily requested speakers are those well-informed about the academics and finances of the university, Pagna noted.

Pagna concluded by expressing a desire for students now at Notre Dame to attain a better acquaintance of the purposes, activities, and opportunities afforded through the alumni clubs. Beyond the more selfish motive of being directed toward job opportunities through club connections, the individual clubs offer warm welcomes into new, unfamiliar communities and a chance to remain in touch with other Notre Dame fellows who are living in the memories of their alma mater, he said.

An ad hoc committee met last week to discuss joint-sport teams between St. Mary's and Notre Dame women. Following the meeting, Steve Wernig, assistant to the vice-president for student affairs, said, "There will be combined teams between St. Mary's and Notre Dame women in cross-country, gymnastics, sailing and skiing next year. Because these teams require special equipment, it is better to combine the teams and share the equipment.

Sports is relatively new at St. Mary's, said Wernig, but looks promising. There was much more interest than expected this year in intramural sports, especially for volleyball. Any female student interested is eligible to try out for these teams next year.

Members of the committee from Notre Dame were Fr. Edmund Joyce, Sr. Dolores Muzzi, Colonel Stevens, Edward Krause and Donald Napolitano. Napolitano said that the interest and support would have to come from the students. "We will have to try it out—that's the only way to know how well the teams will work," he stated.

To further the growing interest in sports at St. Mary's, any incoming freshman who was on a team in high school or indicates an interest in a particular sport on her application, will receive a letter during the summer inviting her to various meetings in the fall about her sport, Wernig said. Also, the sports themselves and tryouts will be more highly publicized. There was a problem this year with people not knowing times and places of tryouts, Wernig observed.

One big drawback in the sports program is the absence of a gym, St. Mary's. Wernig had no comment on the progress of the proposed gym.

Universal Notre Dame nights primarily socially oriented," Pagna cited. Main activities include picnics, Communion breakfasts, "send off" dinners for Notre Dame recruits, and reception dinners for recently graduated ND students to welcome them into the alumni club in their area.

"In the past, athletes have been the major tie linking the alumni with the University," Pagna explained. "Now more than ever since Notre Dame has initiated co-education into their program, athletes are continuing to be underplayed, and more emphasis is being placed on academics.

Pagna continued, "It is in the purpose of these "nights" to call to the attention of the alumni those facets of Notre Dame life other than athletics. Topics of the lectures might include academics, curriculum, religious life on campus living in general."

The theme of the 1975 universal Notre Dame nights is "How Others See Us." Part of the 1975 program focuses on the North Central Accreditation Report of the university, which reviews the standing of the institution's strengths and areas of concern. Areas of concern is used as a more polite term for weaknesses," Pagna warned.

Speakers at the "nights" included members from both the administration and the faculty whose expenses are are paid for by the individual alumni clubs themselves.

The requests for speakers for the nights are compiled with, according to Pagna, regardless of the membership size of the club itself. "In my eleven years as Notre Dame as a football coach, I lectured at eighty different clubs, including both the larger clubs like Denver, New York, and New Orleans, and down to the smaller ones like Terre Haute. In some cases when a speaker is requested and the club's treasury cannot afford the expenses of the speaker, the expenses are then assumed by the Alumni Association itself, Pagna said. Open House Today

Beginning tonight, The Observer is hosting its second annual Open House. The members of the staff are inviting all members of the Notre Dame-St. Mary's community to visit the Observer offices in LaFortune between 7:30 p.m. and midnight tonight through Thursday.

The purpose of the O'Hen House is simple: to bring together those who read the paper with those who put it together. It is too easy to consider the Observer with one's work and effort that goes into publishing a daily college newspaper. On the other hand, it is too easy for those who write, and work production to fail to see beyond the fourth floor of LaFortune to the readership they serve.

Although The Observer is advertised as an independent student newspaper (or perhaps because of this), it has a responsibility that extends beyond the students to the community at large. This paper provides a service to this community. In fact, The Observer belongs to the community in a real sense. The Observer is read every day by a large portion of the community. In fact, The Observer is dependent on the students to provide the man-power for each issue.

The Open House is an opportunity for all members of the campus to learn something more about the newspaper upon whose services it relies every day. In a real sense, The Observer belongs to all the students if for no other reason than the annual subscription fee each student is asked to pay. The criticisms and comments in the Letters to the Editor of recent weeks have illustrated a student concern over this newspaper.

The Open House provides an opportunity for the airing of such constructive criticism. By holding the Open House, The Observer is committed to openness with those who read the paper in the hope that those readers will, in turn, be open to the problems of a daily college newspaper.

The Open House is finally an invitation to all students to join the Observer staff. The Observer needs students as writers and production and layout staff. The more students involved in daily work, the better the final product will be.

Visit Vietnamland

Fred Graever

Step right up, ladies and gents, for the thrill of a lifetime. Just constructed on the outskirts of an Indian Reservation in New Mexico: VIETNAMLAND! Celebrating twenty years and fifty thousand lives spent to give the people of South Vietnam all the Democracy that American technology and know-how could produce.

Four hundred rides and exhibits, sponsored by the vast Military-Industrial Complex. Dedicated on July 4, 1976, by President Gerald Ford, who said, "What a wonderful way to learn history.

Visit an actual Vietnamese officers club. Dance with the Saigon lovelies. Drink expensive American liquor while kids enjoy playing bumper cars with replicas of the Mercedes-Benz automobiles driven by high officials in the Vietnamese Army.

Watch the Dow Chemical exhibit. "The Blazing Glory of Napoléon."

Take a ride in an American tank, jeep or fighter plane. Feel the gleam of being "right on target" when you shoot down gooks who appear before your very machine gun turret.

Take time out to sample the delights of the Mekong Delta, where you can ride on a real American cruiser and shoot at anything that moves.

Stop in an actual American military holding. View soldiers taking the covers off of packed plastic,/vietcong stick coasters? One sure present, never failing to bring a smile, is the original mortar shell collection glass set. What a hit at the bar-becue!

Looking for something for that little boy in your life? The Rusty Calley outfit is just what the military market ordered. Everyone isNERCed: Rusty Calley rifle, Rusty Calley helmet, Rusty Calley knapsack, Rusty Calley bandoleer. It is the map of key Vietnamese villages "possibly held by Communists."

If we must not forget the little girls? The Pentagon concession stands offer a wide variety of Vietnamese orphan dolls. They walk (some of them with legs), they talk (pull the string and hear real Vietnamese phrases). ("That's short. I'm a civilian."). And many of them work as double agents for the Vietnamese government.

After your stop in the Pentagon, move right into the Home Front section of Vietnamland. Take a ride in the Kent State Massacre enerafted before your eyes, to the tune of "The Boys of Fall, Nixahl and Young singing "Oh, Ohio."

Moving right along, you'll see the "Hall of the Presidents." Ideal life replicas of Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, Jack Kennedy, Richard Nixon and Jerry Ford do all they can to absolve themselves from the blame for our involvement in Vietnam. In the end, five of the Presidents gang up on Nixon.

For a special balance, make sure you visit the "Hall of the Candidates," where Hubert Humphrey, Gene McCarthy and George McGovern all spell their political densities the word "w-a-s-a.

Out in the main field, Abbie Hoffman and Jerry Rubin amuse the kids with their Yippie antics. See their throw rocks, bottles and bags of human excrement at Chicago Police as a protest against the war. Narrated by Allen Ginsberg, with commentary by Richard Daley.

Walk through "media row," and see the amazing distortion machines used by many of the broadcasting networks and news publications to tell the American people about the war. A special dramatization will be presented, entitled "One Family." It is the story of a mother and father who view their children, and the children of their friends, as they return from Vietnam. They go from supporting the war to brutal indignation as they see the boys come home whacked out on junk, without their limits, unemployed, and most ineffective of all dead. The suspense reaches fever pitch when one of the boys doesn't come home at all, but is seen on the evening news as the director of a Vietcong POW camp.

The "Silent Majority" room is then highlighted. You will be allowed to make your own moral judgement on the war, as various government officials view from a sound-proof booth.

Hungry? You should be! Have a meal you won't forget in our replica Vietnamese Village. Delight to a village feast of rice. Thrill to the occasional MIG bomb. Tingle to the mystery of not knowing if the waiter is one of ours or one of theirs.

Hate accommodations provided in a real-life POW camp, complete with tiger cages, torture pits, and special American Press publications, where you will be allowed to play volleyball and make confessions.

This is the opportunity of a lifetime to remember the Vietnam war as it really happened, and should not be forgotten. You will be able to tell your friends about your visit. It will be as long as you like.

To raise gay consciousness

ND sponsors panel discussion

by Andy Praschak

The Notre Dame Campus Ministry is sponsoring a panel discussion tonight at 8 p.m. in the Library Auditorium. The purpose of the discussion will be to raise consciousness to the gay experience on campus and to manifest a pastoral concern to the gay community, according to Father Neuzil, a member of the Education Department and a Jungian psychologist. Neuzil is an Episcopal minister who has done a large amount of counseling for homosexuals. His thirty-minute talk will not only encompass the topic of homosexuality, but also the aspect of bisexuality.

Following Neuzil's talk, two doctoral students from Notre Dame will also present their positions. The talk will be given to personal experiences and the other from a pastoral position.

FOR THE LAST TWO YEARS THE AWARD

has been given to two students who were usually active in student government. "Service to the community is as valid to the college but has not been given enough credit in the past," Werner noted.

"The award shall be given to an outstanding member of the Senior Class who has demonstrated leadership and loyalty to Saint Mary's College and has made a significant contribution to the College Community. The name of the recipient is not announced until Commencement." Werner said.

Junior officers seek applications to fill positions at Senior Bar

by Ken Bradford
Copy Editor

Juniors interested in management or bartending positions with next year's Senior Bar must submit applications to the junior class officers by Monday, April 14, according to Junior Class President Augusto Grace.

Three major positions, including manager, assistant manager and statement of intention on why the day, April 14, according to Junior Class President Augusto Grace. In addition to a regular resume, a addition to a regular resume, a Class President Augusto Grace.

The application should also include two University references.

The Senior Bar manager, Grace stated, should be able to coordinate people, be honest and knowledgeable of the goals of the Senior Class. In addition, the manager should have some marketing skills, but the applicant will be judged on his qualifications rather than his experience, Grace noted.

The assistant manager is responsible for arranging specials, receiving orders, planning work schedules and overseeing maintenance, Grace said. Grace stated the business manager should possess basic business skills and will be responsible for the checking system, the bookkeeping and the inventory. The managerial positions are rewarded by salaries paid by the Office for Student Affairs. Grace would not reveal the exact salary figures but termed them "very generous."

Bartenders will be paid by the hour and will need to obtain a bartender's license. Grace said it is essential that next year's bartenders be chosen so the licenses may be procured and the Senior Bar could open earlier next year.

The junior class officers will screen all applicants and send recommendations to the student affairs office. Grace said the officers will probably select two persons for each position and the continuing candidates will probably be interviewed.

Grace advised all interested applicants to apply for all three positions. He said junior girls are especially encouraged to apply, noting the Senior Bar could use some input from qualified women.

"The Senior Bar should be a learning experience for its workers," Grace said. He added, "that the club will provide service for seniors and not just make money."

Grace noted that anyone with ideas for next year's Senior Bar should relay them to the junior class officers.

LUNCH AT BULLA

with Prof. Joe Evans
Meet in the faculty in an informal setting on WEDNESDAY, APRIL 9TH between 12-1:15
Cold weather notwithstanding, the Notre Dame golf team has finished its first two dual matches of the year and ended up with a mark of one win and one loss. The Irish will need to play well in the upcoming week, as they face two of the Midwest's top teams in Western Michigan and Indiana State.

The first dual meet of the season for the Irish was held on Saturday in Bloomington, on the Indiana University course. Notre Dame found the going tough in the 38 degree temperature and gusty winds, losing to the Hoosiers, 379 to 399. Low scorer for the Irish was Jeff Burda, who fired a one-over par 73. Next in line for Notre Dame was Paul Kowalski with a 79. After the match, Coach Noel Sullivan was not entirely displeased with his team's performance. "We did not play that well, but considering that we didn't have the chance to prepare as well as we might have liked to, I am not that upset by the way we played. We'll improve." Sullivan proved himself to be a prophet, as two days later, after a good day of practice, the Irish knocked off the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, 384 to 411. Also slated to compete in the meet was the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse, but due to an emergency, were unable to attend.

The Irish were gifted during the day with fifty sub-80 rounds at the picturesque Memorial Course, even though the weather and ground conditions were not close to being ideal. Burda, the team co-captain from Aylmer, Calif., again led the way with a brilliant two-over par 72. Burda fired a two-under 34 on the front nine, thanks to birdies on the first two holes. On number one, the senior cammed home a 17-foot putt and on two it was a 15-foot putt for the birdie three. On the back side Burda shot a four-over 39, which included a 36-foot birdie putt on number 14 that was captured on film by the WSBT camera crew covering the event.

"He fought them right down to the wire," was really proud of the team. They didn't give up. Playing in a three-hour first singles marathon Notre Dame's Randy Seibert kept his 5-4 record intact as he defeated Francis Gonzales 6-7, 7-6, 6-4 in a tense packed battle that had the crowd applauding over the four-hour match. Seibert lost the first set on a tie-breaker 15-47, but rebounded in the second set to win on another tie-breaker. In the third set the Irish sophomore met bullets like shots to maintain serve and break the highly ranked Puerto Rican import.

In second singles action Ohio State's Dave Patterson defeated captain John Carroca 6-4, 6-4 in a straight two-set match. The loss put Ohio State on top 3-2. Freshman Brian Hanline was edged out in third singles by the Buckeyes' John Botsis. In the opening set Botsis won handily 6-1, but Hanline kept on fighting to maintain the second set 6-3. He lost the third by the identical score.

Notre Dame's Ron Inchauste edged out Kevin Haley 7-5 in the first set of fourth singles action, but he couldn't hang on as Haley dropped the last two, 5-7, 6-4. Inchauste took the second set in forty minutes from Bolivia's mark at 42. Chris Kane raised his season record to 6-0 in fifth singles as he defeated Ohio State's Miguel Frasch in second double. After dropping their first set 6-4, they bounced back to take the hard fought and third by scores of 6-4, 7-6 respectively. Notre Dame's Inchauste brothers lost in doubles 6-7, 6-4 to Dave Patton and Bill Hales. It was the third loss of the season for the Irish tandem.

At 3-0, Notre Dame meets a formidable foe in the University of Illinois, who face off against Indiana at 3:00 p.m. at the Courtyard Tennis Center. weather permitting, otherwise, they will play indoors.
