Marathons to raise funds for charity

The N.D. Social Commission will sponsor a dance marathon and a basketball marathon next week to raise money to fight Muscular Dystrophy, according to a spokesman for the commission. The basketball marathon is scheduled to begin on Wednesday, April 23, and will continue through at least the following Sunday. Teams will be put together in a makeshift fashion, however, organizational or interhall teams may enter as a group. Anyone wishing to either play in the marathon or make a pledge should contact Kevin Sadler at 1394.

On Friday, April 25, at 6 p.m., the dance marathon is scheduled to begin in the LaFortune ballroom. The marathon, which is slated to run until 5 p.m. Sunday, will include a total of thirty-six hours of dancing with four hour sleep periods each night and a twenty minute break each hour.

First prize in the dance marathon is a trip for the couple to the Playboy Club at Lake Geneva or a three-hundred dollar travel coupon. Winners will be chosen on the basis of who dances all thirty-six hours and also has the most pledges.

Any couple wishing to enter the dance marathon should contact either Kathy Smouse at 6729 or Charlie Monroe at 1160, or sign up in the dining halls on Sunday or Monday night.

Students are invited to dance on both Friday and Saturday nights in the ballroom which will feature live bands. Admission will be a donation at the door and record prizes will be given away as door prizes throughout the two nights. Commission members also ask that any bands interested in playing either of the nights should contact Dave at 8412. For further information concerning either of the events, persons should contact the Ombudsman at 7619.

In redefining the family more strictly, the Harter Heights zoning affects a number of the Charismatic Community households in South Bend. "The lifestyle of our community is to live in households," Community Member Pat Lewson, stated yesterday. "A normal family would have two to four unrelated adults living with the related members of the family. These are usually single adults, either students or working at a job," she noted. The ordinance does not help in all, we are a growing community, we double our size each year. The ordinance would limit our growth," she observed.

Associate Professor of Physics Paul Decelles, another community member, said that certain people objecting to the amendment had designed a counter-proposal containing a "more liberal definition of family" when the council sub-committee formed to design the amendment earlier this year. The original counter-proposal would permit the number of unrelated people to live in a household as the same as the number of related family members, according to Community Member Ann Kaiser. The "A" Residential Association was formed of people who wanted a more liberal definition of family," he stated, "which would give more freedom of choice as to whom they would like to live with. Most of the people in the association are members of the Charismatic Community."

The proposal we presented to the council defines a family as two or more persons related by blood, legal adoption or marriage together with persons unrelated by blood, legal adoption or marriage living and cooking together as a household, exclusive of household servants," said Decelles.

The amendment proposed by Roger Parent and approved by the Common Council April 7 defined the family as one or more persons related by blood, legal adoption or marriage with one or more persons, not exceeding two not related by blood, legal adoption or marriage, functioning as a single housing unit, exclusive of household servants. The "A" Residential Association's proposal would eliminate the possibility of absente landlord, Decelles noted. Both proposals were presented at the Common Council meeting April 7, and after being debated for four hours, the Parent proposal was approved, Decelles said.

"Even though five of the council members had stated that they hadn't had enough time to study Parent's proposal, a vote was taken at that meeting," Decelles stated. "We intend to take recourse in any way we can," he noted, "we will work to change the amendment when it does become law when the mayor signs it. We will ask the Common Council for exceptions to the amendment for religious reasons. Or we can use the judicial system— but we want to wait for the outcome of similar cases in other ways. We want to work for a compromise with the amendment."

HPC revotes for chairman

Visitation Hours

Dear Editor:

After reading Tuesday's front page article on the SLC's suggestion that visitation hours remain unchanged, I decided to write this letter to express a few thoughts on the matter.

First, I'd like to take a look at the concept of limited visitation hours in general. Personally, I consider them an insult, as well as an inconvenience. If my parents did not consider me mature enough to come and when they are going to leave, I wouldn't be here right now. However, apparently they did so here I am.

I find it amusing that the University doesn't consider 7:17AM mature enough to come and go as she judges fit, when they know how much about him. I really don't think it is their damned business who is visiting my room and when they are going to leave. I find it a bit ironic that the report stresses the need for freedom and privacy in its recommendations. Privacy can be found behind a closed door (who cannot see through doors), and my concept of freedom doesn't include being bounced out of a friend's room at the appointed time.

The final point I would like to take up is the report's contention that there is no persuasive argument for changing the times which are currently in effect.

No less than 95 percent of students polled expressed a desire for more liberal visitation hours. I don't mean to sound like a bomb-throwing radical, but doesn't this resemble a persuasive argument? After all, we are paying a premium price.

A friend once commented to me that the administration of Notre Dame should realize that this is a school and not a prison. I couldn't agree more. And when they do realize this, maybe Notre Dame will be all that the outside world thinks it is.

HPC Chairman Election

Dear Editor:

I am writing in regard to the decision of HPC Chairman of the HPC President's Council. For the information of everyone, I would like to state that last Tuesday, April 8, we held our final election. At that meeting Tom Logan was narrowly voted in. Because of my own ignorance, two extra ballots were cast. One vote was allowed because I was unaware of the rule. "Any person running for the chairmanship is allowed to vote." That vote cast for Ellen Johnson by herself should not have been allowed.

The other ballot is still a mystery, and for whom it was cast, I was not aware. I obviously hope it was an honest mistake. I don't know who the "mystery" ballot was cast for, but I do know that the results no matter what they were, have caused confusion in my mind as to the outcome of the election in anyone's mind.

None of the Presidents of forms expressed the need for a new election. I don't know about the others, but I feel that the results would not have been any different. I have always argued that if Tom Logan was going to be effective, then they should have been aware that the outcome of the election is anyone's mind.

I am not knowing what going to transpire throughout the week following the election. I saw no turns in reaffirming the election. As it turned out, those people who convinced me to hold another election stated they had more confidence and more results. I feel confident in the change in some of the ballots cast at last night's election.

I certainly hope next year's Presidents are not so easily washed away from the decisions they will have to be making in their upcoming terms as they were this past week.

Israel Archaeology

Dear Editor:

The letter from Inebruck describing Tim O'Reiley's trip to Israel suggests that he swallowed all the propaganda to which he was exposed by the Israelis.

Evidently he made no attempt to understand why the Arabs object to "Israel's national hobby, archaeology." If he didn't have the opportunity to meet Arabs whose homes were demolished under the guise of this "hobby," surely he can read. In addition to the UNESCO passed resolutions and finally sanctions against Israel, he could read the recent article on Jerusalem by John Cooley that appeared in The Christian Science Monitor.

Cooley reported, "Since 1967, thousands of Arab residents have lost their family homes to Israeli archaeology. And non-Jews who lived most of their lives in homes they expected to come back and settle, while any Jew can.

O'Reiley should have had the opportunity to have visited this man. Each year at that time the Americans for Justice in the Middle East hold a special service to demonstrate their support for the Palestinians' right to return to their homeland. (Father Joseph Ryan has been president of the organization for the past two years.)

The ecumenical Easter service in 1974 was held in Tel Aviv, in addition to a political statement.

During the service (which I attended), O'Reiley's "passive Israeli" shielded the camp. Israeli shells South Lebanon almost daily occasionally, such as about this time last year, Israeli jets (supplied by the U.S.) shelled camps in the heavily populated island of Beirut. Having lived in Lebanon for 17 years, I can assure the Israelis are not passive.

ND Student abducted by friend; escapes unharmed

A Notre Dame freshman was abducted at gunpoint Monday night from his Flanner Hall residence by a young man described as a high school friend of the student.

Arthur Pears, director of Security, reported yesterday that no criminal charges have been filed in the case.

The student was confronted by the other youth about 11:45 Monday night in a washroom in Flanner and ordered to walk to a car located in the parking lot between the stadium and the Senior Club. When they arrived at the car, the student was forced to hand-cuff his left wrist. Before the other hand-cuff was placed, the student fled the car and ran around the Senior Club.

The student reported to Security that he heard four shots fired as he fled. The student ran from the gunman and was picked up by a University official near the Center for Continuing Education. The official drove the student to the South Bend Police Station.

The gunman, a student at IUSB, was reportedly admitted to a local hospital yesterday for treatment. Security reported that the Notre Dame student was informed by the gunman that he was currently receiving psychiatric care.

First Rejection

According to Kail the Wake Committee got their first rejection of Wake plans when they spoke to the Niles Township Town Direct­ors in mid February The directors were told the Wake would be held in a tent with beer. They informed the directors "about 100" would attend and there would be a fireworks display. When commenting about the Wake yesterday, Gibson mentioned the fireworks display, a detail which the Wake Committee never spoke to the police chief about. Kail said "We were thinking of hiring ten off-duty policemen to patrol the area." Kail said, "But Gibson said in IPOs we wouldn't be able to control the crowd. He already had the idea it was going to be bad." Yesterday, Kail reached a tentative agreement with a beer distributor in town again for selling the committee the beer through the license held by the Heidelberg Inn. However, such an arrangement would be a felony, according to Kail. The committee could not obtain beer through the license of a business establish­ment. Kail explained, even if the costs were made up in admission charges, and no money for the beer itself was paid for the students in attendance. "The definition of a liquor transaction in Michigan," Kail said, "is to buy, sell or give away." Committee member Mary Ann Kennedy confirmed that the Wake will be held Saturday at Stepan Center. A fireworks display will start the Wake at 8:30 p.m.

"Welcome to My Nightmare"

Cooper to appear at ACC

The King of Shock Rock, Alice Cooper will bring his "Welcome to My Nightmare" tour to the Notre Dame Athletic and Convocation Center on Tuesday, April 29 at 8:00 p.m. Cooper will be accompanied by Suzi Quatro and backed by a five-man band in this, his first solo tour.

Tickets will go on sale on Monday, April 21 at 9:00 a.m. at the Student Union-LaFortune and A.C.C. box offices for $8, $10, and $15. All ticket sales will be handled at these two locations. No mail orders will be accepted. Each customer can buy up to 8 tickets. Student Union will sell a total of 1800 tickets for the concert. Inclusion in this figure is floor section A and B, loge sections 10-11, all of which sell for $7; Section 2 and B of the lower arena which sell for $6 and bleacher sections 108 and 110 which sell for $5. "All of these seats are located in front of the center stage and are considered prime seats," stressed Student Union Concert Commissioner Rob Kilkiske. The A.C.C. will sell the remaining 10,000 tickets for the event.

"Welcome to My Nightmare" is a major nationwide tour which marks Alice's debut solo effort after a year's absence from the stage. The underlying theme is "Nightmare", backed by five musicians: Dick Wagner (guitar), Steve Hunter (guitar), Prakash John (bass), Ponti Glan (drums) and Jojo Chrowinski (keyboards). "Nightmare" will visit 60 cities in 6 months. The total project, from the music, inspired by Cooper's demonic dreams, to the tour itself, has been in the works for over two years.

"One Earth" Festival slated

The International Student festival slated for the night of April 19, 1975 at 8 p.m. in Washington Hall will feature the theme "ONE EARTH" according to Julio Baez, the Festival Chairman.

The festival will start with the slide presentation on World Problems organized by Mr. Skip Peterson. It will be followed by an African lion hunter dance and a group of songs from Brittany, France. The Baltic club as last year will present a group of Lithuanian Dancers from Chicago.

The Chinese association will present a Fiddle Duet and a folk dance. "Welcome to My Nightmare" is a major nationwide tour which marks Alice's debut solo effort after a year's absence from the stage. The festival will conclude with the Latin American musical group. Commenting on the success of the Festival, Rodriguez stated, "Each year the Festival has enjoyed a very good turnout, and we expected the same for this year. There is much enthusiasm on the part of the international Students and I think that as usual we'll fill the halls. It's really a cultural exchange." The festival is open to all in the community and no entrance fee will be charged.

Valpo rallies to defeat Irish 5-3

by Rich Oldso

Sometimes cliches do apply. There's an old adage that in baseball, the breaks will even out. I saw it last Wednesday. Notre Dame was very fortunate to defeat Valparaiso 6-5 but it took a combination of the Crusaders, who had the breaks on their side, as well as a hard-luck Irish loss at the plate to put the game on ice.

The Irish jumped in front 3-0 on pitcher Bob Stratta's sacrifice fly in the first and shortstop Jim Culveyhouse's two-run double in the second. The Irish left 10 runners on base, seven of which were in scoring position. Notre Dame committed five errors, three of which were in scoring position and two of which came with runners on base.

Stratta had the irksome task of facing the Irish third baseman, Jim Culveyhouse. Culveyhouse hit a sacrifice fly to left and a two-run double in the second inning. However, Stratta managed to get out of the inning without further damage.

Stratta carried a 3-1 lead into the fifth inning. He was able to retire the first two batters, but then John Pilcher hit a double and Tim Taylor followed with a sacrifice fly to left field. Stratta then allowed a single to Kevin Smith, but an excellent throw by shortstop Jim Culveyhouse cut down the potential run scorer at the plate.

Stratta then retired the next two batters, but Notre Dame was not finished. Two outs later, Dan Stratta came to bat and hit a two-run homer over the fence in left center. Stratta's home run was his first of the year and his first against Irish pitching.

The Irish continued to push the ball in the sixth inning. They loaded the bases with two outs on a walk to John Pilcher and a single to Tim Taylor. Stratta then induced Jim Culveyhouse to line out to center field to end the inning.

The Irish were able to add two more runs in the seventh inning. Stratta faced his fourth of the day against Irish hitting. He allowed a single to second baseman Jim Culveyhouse, but that was the extent of the damage. Stratta retired the next two batters to record the out and secure the 5-3 victory for Notre Dame.

Stratta finished the game with 7 innings pitched, allowing 5 runs on 9 hits. He walked 2 and struck out 8. Stratta's complete game performance allowed the Irish to defeat Notre Dame for the second time in the series.

The Irish are now 15-3 overall and 5-3 in the Big East Conference. Notre Dame falls to 14-4 overall and 4-3 in the Big East Conference.

Women's crew defeats Nebraska: Novices win

by Maureen Flynn

Women's lightweight crew captured a spring regatta, steam by defeating their Nebraska counterparts in an away meet last Saturday. The Irish varsity pulled away from their opponents in a 200 meter sprint and crossed the finish line in first place.

The Irish varsity crew consisted of: Katie Monahan, Lindsay Anderson, Jennifer Fitzsimmons, Lisa Harkavy, and Erin Fassino. The Irish varsity crew defeated the Nebraska varsity crew, who included: Anna Harkavy, Lindsay Anderson, Jennifer Fitzsimmons, Lisa Harkavy, and Erin Fassino.

The Irish varsity crew won the race by well over 100 meters. The meet was won by a large margin, four full boats against Nebraska crews. The Irish men will face a similar challenge on Saturday, as they are scheduled to compete in a 200 meter sprint against the Nebraska varsity crew.

Golfers fourth at Indianapolis

by Tom Kranick

Notre Dame's golf team ran into some tough competition at the Indiana University Intercollegiate Tournament, finishing in fourth place behind Purdue. The Irish finished the 36 hole event with a total of 156, 15 strokes below par. The Boilermakers, led by Jim Calveyhouse, finished in second place with a total of 141.

Coach Noel O'Sullivan said, "It was a difficult day for our team. We had some issues with our putting, which has been a consistent weakness for us this season. We need to keep working on our putting to improve our overall performance." The Irish are now 3-4 on the season.

The team will next compete in the St. Vincent Invitational on April 26. O'Sullivan said, "We are looking forward to this tournament. It will be a good test for our team and a good opportunity to improve our overall performance."
