Over recent firings

Student Dining Hall workers voice complaints

by Jim Flahaven
Staff Reporter

Recent incidents in the North Dining Hall have caused a group of student workers to voice concerns over the treatment of students employed there. The students interviewed generally agreed that the management had adopted a tougher attitude toward student employees, and were less concerned with student problems.

Last month, four North Dining Hall employees were fired by the management for various dining hall rule violations. One student was fired for lending his meal card to a friend, another for bringing in a guest not allowed to eat in the North Dining Hall. The third and fourth students were let go because one student punched out the other's time card 55 minutes late. One student who had been an employee of the dining hall for four years stated, "I think all four were wrong, but I think they should have been given fines or suspensions instead of being fired. Two of the students are friends of mine and I know they were dependent on the jobs to pay for their room and board."

Another employee agreed that the students involved should be penalized but not fired. "Laurence Aronson, manager of the North Dining Hall, responded that he did not want to fire the students, but had no choice. "I feel like a failure when I have to fire somebody," said Aronson. "But in business, employees must understand the consequences of their actions. Some students may not interpret it as such, but it is.""Director of Food Services, Edmund Price, stated, "I feel I am a Trustee of the students' money for food, and feel a deep responsibility for seeing that money goes as far as it can."

He went on to ask how he could allow his employees to take that money wrongly. At a gripe session attended by Price, Aronson, and some twenty-five student employees, one of the students fired said he had been caught in a previous year lending out his meal card, and Price had simply fined him. Price said he did not remember the incident.

A number of the students felt the management had become tougher with the student employees since an article was published in the October 9, 1975 issue of the Observer. The article dealt with alleged mismanagement in the North Dining Hall. Aronson said that there had been no changes in management's attitude toward the students since the article as far as he was aware.

"If we can get the three to be real representatives of the employees as a whole, we may make some real changes," Aronson also approved of the suggested "bood idea. I should express my view, and they should express their view."

"I would tend to agree with Mr. Rich's suggestion is a good one," said one student. "If we can get the three to be real representatives of the employees as a whole, we may make some real changes."

Howard continued saying that we celebrate the bicentennial because it is now time for another revolution in America and like the American war this is only the first. Howard stated that another part of this drama is coming. Corporate becoming Multinationals

The big corporations are looking abroad and are becoming multinationals; they don't need America he says. If the corporation has to fire jobs here, 32 cents is being invested abroad. With big companies moving abroad the U.S. tax base is eroding and there are fewer U.S. jobs.

The final irony, he stated, is that our government is rewarding and encouraging these companies to move overseas. He quoted from P.T. Barnum, 'A sucker is born every day,' and concluded, 'we haven't learned our lesson from history. We can't even name the (continued on page 7)

Solzhenitksyn: West near collapse because of detente capitulations

LONDON (AP) — Exiled Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn Monday said in Moscow that the West is on the verge of a collapse because of "capitulations" in pursuing detente with the Soviet Union.

"I wouldn't be surprised at the sudden and imminent fall of the West," Solzhenitksyn told intervie­wer Michael Charlton of the British Broadcasting Corp., on the weekly television news program "Panora­ma.

"I would like to make myself clear: the situation at the moment is such that the Soviet Union's economy is on such a war footing that, even if it were the unanimous opinion of all the members of the Politburo not to start a war, this would no longer be in the power of the Soviet Union to stop a war.

"To avoid this," the author went on, "would require an agonizing change from a monstrous war economy to a normal peace economy.

"The situation now is such that one must think not of what might happen unexpectedly in the Soviet Union, because in the Soviet Union nothing will happen unexpected­ly."

"One must think of what might happen unexpectedly in the West. The West is on the verge of a collapse created by its own hands."

Solzhenitksyn, citing his publishers in England, said he has noted a particular decline in the strength and resolution of the West during the two years since he was expelled from his homeland.

He attributed the decline to an illusionary detente and cited the success of Soviet-backed forces in Angola as the latest indication of the Soviet Union's long-range goals.

Solzhenitksyn, 57, who was awarded the Nobel prize for literature in 1970, said he was not against East-West detente but against the way it is being conducted.

"Detente is necessary, but detente with open hands," he said. "Show that there is no stone in your hands. But your partners with whom you are conducting detente have a stone in their hands and it is so heavy that it will kill you with one single blow. Detente becomes self-deception, that's what it is all about."

Ford proposes $3.5 billion fund for educational aid program

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford will propose to Congress Monday for a $3.5 billion education grant for the states, mainly to aid poor and handicapped youngsters.

The program for fiscal year 1977 would replace 24 separate education funds now in effect and the President emphasized that no state would get less money than it did before.

The aim is to end the heavy burden of regulations and red tape that states now must cope with to meet the requirements.

The main focus would be on "improved education opportunities for handicapped and local control," Ford said.

A $3.3 billion program would give the states $3.3 billion to aid elementary and secondary schools and education for the handicapped, adult education and vocational education.

"To assure that students with special needs are educated in poverty areas, "receive proper attention to prepared legislation that provides that 75 percent of a state's allocation be spent on educationally deprived and handicapped and that vocational education programs continue to be supported," Ford said in a message to Congress.

For the next three fiscal years, Ford said, he proposed increasing educational aid for the states from $2.4 billion in each year from 1976 through 1980.

"My proposal is based on the conviction that education needs can be most effectively and creatively met by allowing states greater flexibility in the use of federal funds," Ford told Congress, in seeking their prompt and favorable action on his proposal that "this legislation will allow each state to meet its own special needs in education, the handicapped and the educationally deprived."
The Mock Political Convention will debate a platform which advocates greater governmental control of the economy, state aid to private and parochial schools and a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortion.

The 43-page document, adopted by the Platform Committee for consideration by the entire Convention beginning tomorrow night, also favors decriminalization of marijuana, stricter licensing of medical doctors, the extension of the 14th Amendment rights to the unborn by all state plans to aid private schools.

Some provisions unconstitutional?

Some planks of the Convention platform may be unconstitutional. The plank on campaign financing advocates maintenance of "reasonable ceilings" on individual campaign contributions. The Supreme Court last month struck down limits on individual contributions as unconstitutional.

Plank proposals to provide financial aid to parents of students in private schools may also conflict with Supreme Court decisions which have struck down similar state plans to aid private schools.

The Convention is scheduled to begin consideration of the platform on Wednesday and conclude Thursday. Much debate is expected on items for which minority planks have been submitted: abortion, busing, family planning, labor relations and health care.

Important planks of the Mock Convention Platform include the following:

The Economy
- Government should consider becoming "the employer of the last resort," with responsibility for creating jobs at the community level.
- The Federal government should encourage corporate plans for future needs.
- Tax reform to index the rate of progressive tax to individuals to the rate of inflation and to raise the tax rate on incomes over $30,000.
- Provide greater assistance to farmers in the form of subsidy for crop parity.

The platform proposes alternatives to court ordered busing of school children to achieve racial integration in the schools. The proposals seek to improve the quality of education in poorer schools and allow greater neighborhood control of the schools and also propose a system of vouchers to allow students to select the school they wish to attend.

Health Care
- The platform recognizes health as a necessary part of an individual's ability to enjoy life and liberty. It proposes a "national strategy to prevent depression areas where medical personnel are lacking. Comprehensive National Health Care Insurance is also advocated to help relieve the financial burden of skyrocketing medical costs.

Energy
- The platform advocates strict safeguards on the use of nuclear or fossil fuel energy. It calls for a "national strategy to prevent environmental effects of energy and renewed search for new sources of energy.
- Decrease aid to build roads and increase search for new sources of energy.
- The platform advocates strict safeguards on the use of nuclear fuel and fossil energy, greater concern for environmental effects of energy and renewed search for new sources of energy.

Crime
- Decriminalization of marijuana. Marijuana users should be treated in the same manner as alcohol users.
- Greater control of the sale and use of hallucinogens. Provisions are included for registration and licensing, greater enforcement of existing legislation and increased penalties for crimes involving firearms.

Foreign Policy
- Greater cooperation with the NATO countries of Western Europe and promotion of the Western Europe Common Market.
- Continuation of détente, but not at the expense of American interests abroad and at home.
- Continued discussions with China to maintain pre-Western ties with the New Chinese leadership.
- Reduced support of overseas military forces, but the strengthening of the navy.

Defense
- Reduce the number of military personnel stationed overseas.
- Reduce Federal spending on defense.

Funding of Education
- Urge the states to adopt programs to aid in financing private education on the primary and secondary level. The platform urges the states to write-off or outright stipend to parents of private or parochial school students.

Abortion
- Constitutional amendment. The platform recognizes the fetuses rights and to its development. Because no person of law should be allowed to deny human life, the platform calls for the extension of the 14th Amendment rights to the unborn by all legal means, including a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortion.

Busing
- The platform proposes alternatives to court ordered busing of school children.
Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson

The success of Henry Jackson's campaign for the nomination at the Mock Democratic Convention "depends on what the students are looking for," said the state-wide Democratic chairman. "Henry Jackson is a candidate for people who have been generally apathetic, including the delegates."

Milton Shapp

Milton Shapp, governor of Pennsylvania, has the "People's Problem in name recognition" and because of this he is not taken seriously nationally by many people, according to Shapp's Mock Convention Campaign Manager Harry Capadano. Shapp's campaign has been designed as a "favorite son" campaign while his major hope is "to be an independent candidate for the vice presidential nomination Saturday."

Capadano said that the candidate's "economic policies are impressive," Shapp received much acclaim for his work with the Bellard Electronic Company, which he founded and in which he encouraged the hiring of minorities.

Shapp has run in gubernatorial races in Pennsylvania on his merits as a businessman capable of wiping out deficits in the state budget and raising the national profile for several years ago when he met personally with truck drivers in an effort to end a nationwide Teamsters strike. "He's really not a big name guy," Capadano said, but persons interested in Shapp on campus have found out what they wanted to know. Capadano added that he was "a little more interested too.

Shapp plans to set up a communication system "to let the people know at campaign headquarters what is going on on the floor," according to Capadano. Shapp is a 1933 graduate of Case Institute of Technology (now Case Western Reserve University) and served as a captain in the U.S. Army Signal Corps in North Africa, Italy and Austria.

Edward Kennedy

Although Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts is not a declared candidate this year, he would be willing to accept a vice presidential nomination.

Edward Kennedy said that "I'm not going to nominate President Carter," but Kennedy has argued that in 1952, Jackson established a strong pro-civil rights stance, and for 34 years. During his years in the Senate and House, he knows what he is talking about.

Jimmy Carter

Accepting Jimmy Carter's chances in the upcoming N.D. Mock Political Convention, Marita Spadola, Campaign Manager for Carter, stated: "We think he has a really good chance to win, probably the best chance of any of the delegates."

Carter's native of Georgia, graduated in 1946 from the U.S. Naval Academy and did graduate work on the development of the world's first atomic submarines. He was elected to the Georgia Senate in 1962 and in 1970 was elected Governor of Georgia.

While Governor, he sponsored legislation to equalize education funds between the rich and the poor, raise teachers' salaries, unify government agencies, his administration, education laws and prison reform legislative packages.

On the national scene, Spadola stated that "he is one of the prime contenders," but "right now he has a hard to say." After the Mass. and Florida primaries he will be able to have a better idea," she noted.

According to Spadola, Florida, particularly, will be an important state. If he can gain support in this traditionally pro-Republican state, he will be that much more effective in the Democratic Convention this summer.

Spadola stated that the Carter campaign on campus is "going real well."

Soviets praise ‘martyrs and heroes’

MOSCOW (AP) — Flushed by the victory of Soviet-backed forces in Angola, the Soviet Communist party congress on Monday praised those fighting for the “liberation movements in Third World countries.”

The 4,999 Soviet delegates and particle physics have expressed sympathy for each other’s independence."

Delegates also unanimously approved Brezhnev’s report of last month’s congress and praised the course of the Soviet leadership, which pledged support for both peaceful and revolutionary movements throughout the world.

The Soviet Union believes that supporting so-called national liberation movements in Third World countries is not contrary to its policy of detente with the United States and other Western countries.

Speaker after speaker at the 25th congress has lavishly praised national liberation movements since Brezhnev set the line with a condemnation of “fascist-style programs” against liberation fighters.

The congress expresses its full support for the martyrs and heroes of the revolutionary and liberation movements throughout the world."

but to commit suicide,” the newspaper said.

On Saturday afternoon, just hours prior to publication, Mr. Rees telephoned the Times and asked if the story was going to be printed and would be identified. When he was told that it would be identified, he said that such a disclosure left him "no choice but to commit suicide," the newspaper said.

Scotland Yard says double agent found dead hours after paper exposes espionage

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Times Herald said Monday it published a report on the spying activities of retired oil company engineer Norman Rees despite a telephone threat by Rees that he would commit suicide if the story were published and he were identified.

Rees was found shot to death at his home in Southbury, Conn., Sunday, hours after the newspaper reported his espionage activities.

"In fairness, it was decided that the story could not be suppressed under the face of Mr. Rees' threat," Ken Johnson, executive editor of the Times Herald, said in a statement Monday.

The newspaper said in a copy­right story Sunday that Rees had spied for the Soviet Union in the 1970s and became a double agent for federal agents told him he knew of the work for the Russians.

The Times Herald statement Monday said its story about Rees’ spying activities was developed from various sources over a period of several months.

"Once the basic information had been verified, Mr. Rees was contacted and asked to comment. He acknowledged during the telephone interview that he had been an agent for the Soviet govern­ment," the newspaper said.

The Times Herald statement, also verified that Rees had been an agent for the Soviets.

The Times herald said Rees twice came to Dallas for interviews and voluntarily submitted to poly­graph lie detector tests. During those contacts, he asked the newspaper to withhold the story and refrain from identifying him.

"Flying squad," complained that remarks last week by Police Com­missioner Sir Robert Mark would prejudice the case. "How can any of us have a fair trial now?" Drury asked.

Mark said in the speech last Wednesday that a number of guilty officers have been acquitted in the past because justices are reluctant to convict policemen on the testimonies of criminals.

BOSTON (AP) — While the din of campaign loudspeakers echoed through narrow downtown streets, Democrats waged their election-eve search for votes. Tuesday is Massachusetts presidential primary where the ballot reads like a candidate census.

With fittest major candidates and a no-preference line carving up the vote, Massachusetts will produce a minority of delegates. But dividing its 104 national convention delegates in proportion to the popular vote is the only way to share the spoils.

So Monday is a day of endorsements, speeches, leaflets, final efforts to persuade voters in a contest so divided it won't take many ballots to alter the order of finish.

Vermont votes too, Tuesday, in a primary that will rank candidates but will not commit delegates. Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Car-

Women lose to Marquette

by Eileen O'Grady

Not even the women's basketball team could pull off a win from Marquette Saturday, as they were nudged out by the Warriors 45-44. Once again they played a tight game with the Warriors, both defensively and offensively, but they were unable to score the points when they needed them the most.

The first half went in streaks. Notre Dame took an early 6-0 lead on two outside jumpers by Mary Clemency followed by a breakaway and a score, again by Clemency.

But Marquette quickly began to find the basket. They took the lead 10-4, capitalizing on better rebounding and Notre Dame's poor foul shooting percentage.

Bonita Bradshaw entered the game for ND and helped them get back into their momentum. Carol Lally scored successively on a jumper and lay-up, tying the score at 10-10.

The second half went in streaks. Officials made a 30-25 decision in Notre Dame's favor as the 10-10 deadlock was broken and we were tied at 11.

The second half was another man's game. Good hustle by Bradshaw and Jayne O'Reilly kept the Irish in the lead for the last few minutes of the game. The last Notre Dame would enjoy the last minute of the game was the last minute before the final buzzer.

Irish track team wins tri-meet

Sophomore sprinter Jim O'Brien and freshman phenom Jay Miranda paced the Notre Dame track team to an impressive triangular triump over Northern Illinois and Wisconsin this past weekend at Sterling, Illinois. The Irish amassed a total of 87 points as compared to Northern Illinois' total of 63% and Wisconsin's 32%. The Irish defeated both teams.

At the beginning of the season this team started out as a group of individuals and as the season came to an end this last game as a team. That's how the coach summed it up.

"This is the end of the season," she stated. "From a coaching standpoint, who could ask for anything more from his team?"
