Committee to examine disciplinary procedures

The approved motion adds one person to Bender's proposed six-member subcommittee, which will put the actual task of drafting the proposal, will report back to the committee before the end of the year.

Nearly one and one-half hours of discussion were devoted to the 12 members present at the meeting listened in arguments by Bender and Roemer on the question and weighed varying aspects of the motions.

Members on the newly created committee include: Vice President for Student Affairs Bro. Just Pacyrsky, Fr. Darrick Henley, Daniel K. Bryant, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Dean Roemer. Deputy to Roemer and Bender.

Bogle analyzes blacks in films

Donald Bogle analyzed the role of black performers in American film in the 1900's through the 1970's, a period in which black performers were depicted in five categories: "Toms," "Mammies," "Bucks," and "Rochester" Anderson, Willy Best, and Jimmy C. Davis, Jr. fall into this category. Just as important in black film roles was the black tragic heroine, or mulatto. Bogle said, "Early in the forties Hollywood got into the tragic mulatto, but it didn't quite work. Recent attempts by black actresses to try tragedy have not totally succeeded. Rosana Ross, in 'Lady Sings the Blues,' did a spectacular job of playing Diana Ross. It was one big, elaborate, escapist fantasy."

"America's domestic, or Mammie," was prevalent in the 1940's. Hattie McDaniel, in 'Gone with the Wind,' was in Bogle's words, "an independent, outspoken woman who never hesitates to speak up. She's the only one who knows all of Scarlett O'Hara's actions.""Bender concluded the one hour discussion by commenting on the role of women in the University disciplinary procedure. Bender made the point that the University needed a Hall Council vote to have final approval of the SLC. This must be presented to the Board of Trustees and Administration, as well as from Student Government.

The accepted motion states that the SLC has the power to approve his committee as a special subcommittee. There are no stipulations in the SLC charter that members of special committees must be from within the University. Bogle further asserted that University trustee John Schneider, who suggested the committee to Bender at an Aug. 25, meeting, gave Bender the freedom to choose any committee he wished.

"When it comes to drafting language, it's "yes," or "no." But he wanted a broader committee to have final approval of a resolution before it went to the SLC.

Bender stressed the importance of the questions being dealt with. "What does it mean to take out this whole mess everybody is getting hung up on little technicalities. It's easier and quicker. But it is important that we do it. Just as important than that," he said.

The student government proposal, he explained, addressed only the technicalities and procedures of a rule. Bender said that the mandate from the Trustees was to revise the disciplinary procedures for the upcoming meeting, but that they were to consider the use of marijuana as a hall offense, Roemer said that the other areas in du Lac to be revised were the solution we want, three committee members. "We want the students to have a role in the decision, as well as from Student Government."

Bender added that Roemer had said that he was going to the Dean of Students, he stressed.

Pacezensky responded that the mandate from the Trustees was to develop the program guidelines. He said, "We want the students to have a role in the decision, as well as from Student Government."

Roemer objected that Bender's proposal, a Hall Council vote has been scheduled for next week. "Infirmary" seemed too impersonal, he suggested. "I'm not sure that this is the best time to do this."

Roemer stressed that the importance of the questions being dealt with. "What does it mean to take out this whole mess everybody is getting hung up on little technicalities. It's easier and quicker. But it is important that we do it. Just as important than that," he said.

Bender said, "I'm not sure that this is the best time to do this."

Roemer stressed that the importance of the questions being dealt with. "What does it mean to take out this whole mess everybody is getting hung up on little technicalities. It's easier and quicker. But it is important that we do it. Just as important than that," he said.

Bender said, "I'm not sure that this is the best time to do this."

Roemer stressed that the importance of the questions being dealt with. "What does it mean to take out this whole mess everybody is getting hung up on little technicalities. It's easier and quicker. But it is important that we do it. Just as important than that," he said.
On Campus Today

Friday, September 23, 1977

Discusses British role
Kenneth considers Market future

In this film, a young poet falls in love with a horde of bandits. Finally, on Nov. 20, Modern Times, Charlie Chaplin's comedy about the creation of approximately 160,000 jobs during his first four years in office.

Papers collected each Sunday

A newspaper recycling drive sponsored by Student Government began last week and will be in place each Sunday throughout the semester. Papers will be collected in each dorm between 9 and 9:30 p.m. and should be left outside room doors. All newspapers are accepted.

Anyone interested in assisting in the program should contact their hall president or John Ryan at 643-7911.

SU to sponsor free classic film showings

by Don O'Sullivan

This semester students will have the opportunity to view American and American film classics at no charge. Student Union is sponsoring the films, which will be shown on Sunday evenings at the Engineering Auditorium.

Harold Lloyd's The Freshman, a comedy of college life and football games, will begin the season on Sept. 25. A double feature will be shown Oct. 2: H.G. Wells' Things to Come and Peter Watkins' The War Game. Both films depict the world of tomorrow, and American film classics at no charge. Student Union is sponsoring the films, which will be shown on Sunday evenings at the Engineering Auditorium.

The Observer is published weekly by the Student Body of Notre Dame, 44544. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame, Indiana, 46556.

Corby's

San Francisco

SCOTTSDALE

HI F

MID-NIGHTMADNESS

STEREO SCENE

FREE!!! Soft drink with 3 items

TACOS • BURRITOS • TAMALES • ENCHILADAS • TACO DOG • TOSTADOS • BEAN TACO • SPANISH HOT DOG • CHEESEBURGER

"We carry a line of Vegetarian Foods."

Hi-Fi MID-NIGHTMADNESS

STEDWARD'S HALL

JOINS IN SYMPATHY AND MOURNING

WITH THE JAMES KEELER FAMILY

ON THE DEATH OF THEIR SON PAUL

APPLICATIONS for considerations in this year's Student Government Budget can be picked up now in the Treasurer's Office.

Second floor

La Fortune Student Center

Deadline for completion is Wed. Sept. 28
Concerning Britain

Kennet discusses Market trade
by Tony Pace
Staff Reporter

In a lecture entitled "The Future of Britain in the European Community," Lord Kennet, a noted British author and politician, expressed his belief that both Britain and her relation with the Common Market will endure for at least the next ten years. Kennet made his address last evening to a group of 50 persons on the twelfth floor of the Memorial Library.

Kennet has been a member of the House of Lords of British Parliament since 1960. Kennet began the lecture by highlighting Britain's differences with other Common Market members. Citing his recent study, he said that Britain does not naturally identify with France, Spain, Italy, Holland and Germany, the original Common Market countries. When Britain joined this group in 1973, along with Denmark and Ireland, it was because of her economic needs.

He stated, "We British basically belong to the Common Market. This is most likely due to the language barrier is the strongest." He then pointed out the British's public's sentiment toward their place in the Market. Though Britain joined the Common Market in 1973, there was no true test of the public's sentiment until a 1974 referendum on the matter.

Lord Kennet stated, "By an almost two to one margin, the British people voted in favor of our membership in the Common Market. Though the people's feelings may have changed some, I still feel they are basically in favor of it." He said that Britain's extreme right and extreme left, in an anomalous political union, were the only two factions which were dead against the Market. But this, he said, is still far short from the majority of the people.

"However," he continued, "there is something strange about this sentiment. Normally, the prime minister's cabinet will be in agreement on all subjects, as a show of strength. On issues of the Common Market though, there is a constant split. Almost always, there will be four or five members voting against the Common Market interest." Overall, Kennet assessed this relation as one that was good for both Europe and Britain. "Though some prices, such as food, are up in price," he said, "these prices are not as high as they would be had we remained outside of the Common Market. This can be judged simply by comparing today's non-Market prices with the Common Market prices." Kennet saw the interrelation of the futures of European countries as the main benefit of the Common Market. The rich countries would come to the aid of the poor countries, he said. "This," he noted, "will tend to have a steady-keeping effect on the whole of Europe. The rate of decline of those such as Britain will be decreased by this association."

Though the decline of England, or at least the end of its economic expansion, was hinted at by Kennet, he remained basically optimistic about its future. He said, "I'm not sure that the people were any happier during the so-called greatness of Britain. Now, at least, the poorer people have decent medicine, housing and food. We're getting poor and learning to like it. We're taking this with dignity and grace."

For the future, Kennet looks for the addition of more countries to the Common Market. He continued, "By an almost two to one margin, the British people voted in favor of our membership in the Common Market. Though Britain joined the Common Market in 1973, there was no true test of the public's sentiment until a 1974 referendum on the matter. Lord Kennet stated, "By an almost two to one margin, the British people voted in favor of our membership in the Common Market. Though the people's feelings may have changed some, I still feel they are basically in favor of it." He said that Britain's extreme right and extreme left, in an anomalous political union, were the only two factions which were dead against the Market. But this, he said, is still far short from the majority of the people.

"However," he continued, "there is something strange about this sentiment. Normally, the prime minister's cabinet will be in agreement on all subjects, as a show of strength. On issues of the Common Market though, there is a constant split. Almost always, there will be four or five members voting against the Common Market interest." Overall, Kennet assessed this relation as one that was good for both Europe and Britain. "Though some prices, such as food, are up in price," he said, "these prices are not as high as they would be had we remained outside of the Common Market. This can be judged simply by comparing today's non-Market prices with the Common Market prices." Kennet saw the interrelation of the futures of European countries as the main benefit of the Common Market. The rich countries would come to the aid of the poor countries, he said. "This," he noted, "will tend to have a steady-keeping effect on the whole of Europe. The rate of decline of those such as Britain will be decreased by this association."

The rate of decline of those such as Britain will be decreased by this association.

 boarded the plane with France, Spain, Italy, Holland and Germany, the original Common Market countries. When Britain joined this group in 1973, along with Denmark and Ireland, it was because of her economic needs.

He stated, "We British basically identify with the people of America, Australia, New Zealand and Canada, not those countries who belong to the Common Market. This is most likely due to the language difference because the Homecoming deal offers USC, Steve Miller tickets

by Paul Jull

The Student Union has announced that 250 Homecoming ticket packages will go on sale Monday at 8 a.m.

The package includes two general admission tickets to the USC football game, two tickets to the Steve Miller concert on Oct. 21, and one set of tickets to the Student/Alumni Homecoming Dance. The cost is $40.

The ticket sale location will be posted on the west door of LaFortune sometime Sunday afternoon. The purpose of the late announcement is to discourage people from sleeping out all weekend. Tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. Only the Student Union sign-up sheet will be valid.

The theme for Homecoming Week is "The Fall of Troy." Cochairmen of the Homecoming Committee, Diane Ross and Mike Kammender, revealed the midweek festivities that are planned. They are:

- "The Homecoming dance will be different this year from other years. The alumni are invited to attend the dance so that they and the students can get acquainted with each other."

The Homecoming Committee will be spending much more time to put up elaborate decorations and to make high quality food available," he said.

A new sound will be featured at the Student/Alumni Dance, with big band and popular music provided by Tony Barron and his orchestra. The semi-formal dance will be held in the ACC concourse on Oct. 22. Individual dance tickets will be held in the ACC concourse.

The Student/Alumni Dance, with a surprise attraction. "We have a large variety of food and a variety of music," said the Student Union social commissioner, said, "the Homecoming dance will be different this year from other years. The alumni are invited to attend the dance so that they and the students can get acquainted with each other."

The Homecoming Committee will be spending much more time to put up elaborate decorations and to make high quality food available," he said.

If it rains the picnic will be inside Stepan. Look for a banner at Stepan, and signs in the dorms if it looks like rain.

SOPHOMORE CLASS PICNIC

Sat 24th Need Tickets? Call 8013

If it rains the picnic will be inside Stepan. Look for a banner at Stepan, and signs in the dorms if it looks like rain.

SEE YA SAT!!!

A Comedy of Errors

Shakespeare's merry masquerade.
October 7, 8, 13, 14, 15
at 8:00 p.m.
All seats $5.50
(52rd-Fac-Staff)
Phone: 284-4176

SEASON TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE

Includes: COMEDY OF ERRORS, CAUCASIAN
CHALK CIRCLE, TOUCH OF A POET, AND THE MIKADO

Bridget's 'Boilermaker' Bonus

A SHOT & A BEER FOR A BUCK

While watching the game with us

Open at 1:00 for the warmup

Regular Specials:
Happy Hour 4:7 Daily
Mon-Tues.
Ladies Night Wednesday
Shots of Tequila & Schnapps .60

Audio Specialists
415 North Michigan 234-5001

We now stock microcomputers

You Say You Want a Roomful of Music But You Just Spent a Fortune on Books?

How Does a $299 Advent, Sony, BIC Stereo Sound? Impressive!

Our new $300 stereo system is really a spectacular bargain, designed to blow your mind but not your budget.

The amazing system is built around some incredible loudspeakers from the Advent Corporation, the company that has a reputation for making better and better speakers for less and less money.

The Advent 3 speakers are a two way acoustic suspension design whose basic operation is much like that of Advent's more expensive speaker systems. Its woofers' cone is free to move over a great distance to push air effectively for good bass response, and it has a heavy and expensive magnetic structure that permits excellent undistorted output. A precise cone tweeter assures clear highs with excellent dispersion.

To drive these little gems, we've chosen the Sony STR 1800 receiver. If you're into FM, the tuner section of the STR 1800 has all the circuitry and features you'll need for drift-free, clear FM reception.

And if you're inclined to listen to Chicago stations the Sony 1800 receiver will surprise you and disappoint the competition.

The turntable is the now famous BIC 920 ready to play with molded base and an Audio Technica cartridge. It will take good care of your records and get all the sound they have to offer playing after playing.

These components would sell separately for $415, we offer you the complete system for $299. The price includes assembly and only Audio Specialists can offer.

Come in and enjoy.
There was the death of a ninety-two year old woman on Christopher Street this summer. She died last week in a hospital when the temperature showed on the clock on Manufacturers' Bank on Sixth Avenue it was 106 degrees. She lived on the sixth floor of a building without an elevator. I've met her several times—a dark skinned woman who used to call in New York in an apartment house where the elevators are running. That can be a nuisance if you're not too swift at climbing stairs.

The police officer on duty on the ground floor told me the number of the apartment. He said that she was very old. A police officer filled to three-fourths or four o'clock it was only one-thirty now. I murmured sympathy for the policeman. He had to admit it. "She's beatin' Chas'ing Son of Sam," he said.

Upstairs in the apartment, the old lady lay alone in bed on the floor. She was on her ungraciously. Flights of angels may lay on a couch where death had dealt with the tedium of waiting, the policeman mumbled sympathy for the number of the apartment.

The priest brought her communion and absolution. For the he has not wasted his time, climbing up six flights of stairs to give absolution. For the he felt threatened by me. It seemed ironic: his fear at that moment made my

Where the Laughter Has Gone

Reverend Robert Griffin

There was the death of a ninety-two year old woman on Christopher Street this summer. She died last week in a hospital when the temperature showed on the clock on Manufacturers' Bank on Sixth Avenue it was 106 degrees. She lived on the sixth floor of a building without an elevator. I've met her several times—a dark skinned woman who used to call in New York in an apartment house where the elevators are running. That can be a nuisance if you're not too swift at climbing stairs.

The police officer on duty on the ground floor told me the number of the apartment. He said that she was very old. A police officer filled to three-fourths or four o'clock it was only one-thirty now. I murmured sympathy for the policeman. He had to admit it. "She's beatin' Chas'ing Son of Sam," he said.

Upstairs in the apartment, the old lady lay alone in bed on the floor. She was on her ungraciously. Flights of angels may lay on a couch where death had dealt with the tedium of waiting, the policeman mumbled sympathy for the number of the apartment.

The priest brought her communion and absolution. For the he has not wasted his time, climbing up six flights of stairs to give absolution. For the he felt threatened by me. It seemed ironic: his fear at that moment made my

Where the Laughter Has Gone

Reverend Robert Griffin

There was the death of a ninety-two year old woman on Christopher Street this summer. She died last week in a hospital when the temperature showed on the clock on Manufacturers' Bank on Sixth Avenue it was 106 degrees. She lived on the sixth floor of a building without an elevator. I've met her several times—a dark skinned woman who used to call in New York in an apartment house where the elevators are running. That can be a nuisance if you're not too swift at climbing stairs.

The police officer on duty on the ground floor told me the number of the apartment. He said that she was very old. A police officer filled to three-fourths or four o'clock it was only one-thirty now. I murmured sympathy for the policeman. He had to admit it. "She's beatin' Chas'ing Son of Sam," he said.

Upstairs in the apartment, the old lady lay alone in bed on the floor. She was on her ungraciously. Flights of angels may lay on a couch where death had dealt with the tedium of waiting, the policeman mumbled sympathy for the number of the apartment.

The priest brought her communion and absolution. For the he has not wasted his time, climbing up six flights of stairs to give absolution. For the he felt threatened by me. It seemed ironic: his fear at that moment made my

Where the Laughter Has Gone

Reverend Robert Griffin

There was the death of a ninety-two year old woman on Christopher Street this summer. She died last week in a hospital when the temperature showed on the clock on Manufacturers' Bank on Sixth Avenue it was 106 degrees. She lived on the sixth floor of a building without an elevator. I've met her several times—a dark skinned woman who used to call in New York in an apartment house where the elevators are running. That can be a nuisance if you're not too swift at climbing stairs.

The police officer on duty on the ground floor told me the number of the apartment. He said that she was very old. A police officer filled to three-fourths or four o'clock it was only one-thirty now. I murmured sympathy for the policeman. He had to admit it. "She's beatin' Chas'ing Son of Sam," he said.

Upstairs in the apartment, the old lady lay alone in bed on the floor. She was on her ungraciously. Flights of angels may lay on a couch where death had dealt with the tedium of waiting, the policeman mumbled sympathy for the number of the apartment.

The priest brought her communion and absolution. For the he has not wasted his time, climbing up six flights of stairs to give absolution. For the he felt threatened by me. It seemed ironic: his fear at that moment made my

Where the Laughter Has Gone

Reverend Robert Griffin

There was the death of a ninety-two year old woman on Christopher Street this summer. She died last week in a hospital when the temperature showed on the clock on Manufacturers' Bank on Sixth Avenue it was 106 degrees. She lived on the sixth floor of a building without an elevator. I've met her several times—a dark skinned woman who used to call in New York in an apartment house where the elevators are running. That can be a nuisance if you're not too swift at climbing stairs.

The police officer on duty on the ground floor told me the number of the apartment. He said that she was very old. A police officer filled to three-fourths or four o'clock it was only one-thirty now. I murmured sympathy for the policeman. He had to admit it. "She's beatin' Chas'ing Son of Sam," he said.

Upstairs in the apartment, the old lady lay alone in bed on the floor. She was on her ungraciously. Flights of angels may lay on a couch where death had dealt with the tedium of waiting, the policeman mumbled sympathy for the number of the apartment.

The priest brought her communion and absolution. For the he has not wasted his time, climbing up six flights of stairs to give absolution. For the he felt threatened by me. It seemed ironic: his fear at that moment made my

Where the Laughter Has Gone

Reverend Robert Griffin

There was the death of a ninety-two year old woman on Christopher Street this summer. She died last week in a hospital when the temperature showed on the clock on Manufacturers' Bank on Sixth Avenue it was 106 degrees. She lived on the sixth floor of a building without an elevator. I've met her several times—a dark skinned woman who used to call in New York in an apartment house where the elevators are running. That can be a nuisance if you're not too swift at climbing stairs.

The police officer on duty on the ground floor told me the number of the apartment. He said that she was very old. A police officer filled to three-fourths or four o'clock it was only one-thirty now. I murmured sympathy for the policeman. He had to admit it. "She's beatin' Chas'ing Son of Sam," he said.

Upstairs in the apartment, the old lady lay alone in bed on the floor. She was on her ungraciously. Flights of angels may lay on a couch where death had dealt with the tedium of waiting, the policeman mumbled sympathy for the number of the apartment.

The priest brought her communion and absolution. For the he has not wasted his time, climbing up six flights of stairs to give absolution. For the he felt threatened by me. It seemed ironic: his fear at that moment made my

Where the Laughter Has Gone

Reverend Robert Griffin

There was the death of a ninety-two year old woman on Christopher Street this summer. She died last week in a hospital when the temperature showed on the clock on Manufacturers' Bank on Sixth Avenue it was 106 degrees. She lived on the sixth floor of a building without an elevator. I've met her several times—a dark skinned woman who used to call in New York in an apartment house where the elevators are running. That can be a nuisance if you're not too swift at climbing stairs.

The police officer on duty on the ground floor told me the number of the apartment. He said that she was very old. A police officer filled to three-fourths or four o'clock it was only one-thirty now. I murmured sympathy for the policeman. He had to admit it. "She's beatin' Chas'ing Son of Sam," he said.

Upstairs in the apartment, the old lady lay alone in bed on the floor. She was on her ungraciously. Flights of angels may lay on a couch where death had dealt with the tedium of waiting, the policeman mumbled sympathy for the number of the apartment.

The priest brought her communion and absolution. For the he has not wasted his time, climbing up six flights of stairs to give absolution. For the he felt threatened by me. It seemed ironic: his fear at that moment made my
St. Mary's Social Commission is presenting the grand opening of "Charlie's Place" in the St. Mary's residence hall. Student entertainment will be featured from 9 p.m. until midnight with snack shop specials planned.

"Charlie's Place" will be a nice place for dates or just for kids to relax and enjoy the local talent we have around Notre Dame and St. Mary's," commented Karen Nickel, coordinator for "Charlie's Place.

Plans now call for "Charlie's Place," named after Food Services Director Charles Plores, to continue on alternate Fridays throughout the year.

See Chicago via South Shore

The South Shore Recreation, a citizens group dedicated to saving the South Shore Railroad, is sponsoring a trip to Chicago to be held at Soldiers Field on Saturday.

The train is scheduled to leave the South Bend railroad station at 10:35 a.m. It will arrive at Roosevelt Road/12th Street at 12:32 p.m. The concert is at 2 p.m.

Tickets are available at the gate for $5.35. Students can also take the train to the Cubs-Pirates baseball game. Escorts will take riders to and from events. The train leaves Chicago at 7:45 a.m. on Sunday.

Brauman to give third lecture

Dr. John I. Brauman, professor of philosophy at Notre Dame since 1975, has been named assistant vice president for advanced studies and instruction by University President Rev. Theodore Hesburgh. The appointment is effective immediately.

Le named v.p. of advanced studies

Chas T.M. Le, assistant to the vice president for advanced studies at Notre Dame since 1975, has been named assistant vice president for advanced studies and instruction by University President Rev. Theodore Hesburgh. The appointment is effective immediately.

Le succeeds John J. FitzGerald, who served in that position from 1973 until he retired in August. A member of the faculty since 1937, FitzGerald was a professor of philosophy. He also served as acting director of the Center for the Study of Man in Contemporary Society for two years.

A native of South Vietnam, Le was rector of the University of Hue from 1969 until he left the country in April 1975 just before the fall of Saigon. He also had held various positions in Vietnam's Ministry of Education. He was president of the Association of Southeast Asian Institutions of Higher Learning, a governing board member of the Regional Institute of Higher Education and Development, Singapore, and advisor to the Vietnamese National Commission for UNESCO.

Educated in England and the United States, Le received the bachelor's and master's degrees in English literature from the University of Cambridge and the doctorate in English literature and language from the University of Chicago.

Art gallery shows "amnesty" posters

"Artists for Amnesty," a series of art posters created by 15 internationally-known artists to mark "Prisoners of Conscience Year 1977," is on exhibit at the Notre Dame Art Gallery in O'Shaughnessy Hall.

Many renowned artists have contributed their talents for the benefit of Amnesty International, the human rights group working in more than 100 countries to protect and free prisoners of conscience, many of whom are jailed for their race, religion, or beliefs.

Mark Hommes and Gll Loecher, local representatives of Amnesty International, have coordinated the display. Orders for the works on exhibit are now being taken through the Notre Dame Art Gallery attendant. All proceeds go to the organization.

Charter Flight To NEW YORK at XMAS

ROUND TRIP $92 DEPARTURE DEC. 22-10 PM RETURN JAN. 15-10 PM

Full payment by check or money order will be taken in lafortune lobby

THE LIBRARY

LIQUOR STORE WEEKEND SPECIALS:

- 5th Rüinite Lambrusco $1.97
- Qt. of Vodka $3.99
- Fifth of Gin $3.79
- Qt. of Schnapps $3.85

BEER SPECIALS:

- Falls City $4.49 case
- Old Style $4.95
- Strohs $5.49
- Busch $5.49
- Bud $5.99

CHEERS!!!
Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

by Jerry Perez

Jack Greeley, administrative assistant of Logan Center for the Retarded, said yesterday that the Center will rely even more heavily upon the ‘student volunteer program as a result of Monday’s announcement by the governor’s Budget Committee of a cutback of funds for Logan and similar statewide programs.

The consequences of such a cutback would include the layoff of 30 to 35 Logan staff members and the cutting-down of preschool, after-school, and recreation programs. The Saturday morning ND-SMC volleyball sessions, and the recreational-program, will also suffer the cutback of several Logan staff members.

When asked exactly how the cutback would affect the Saturday morning sessions, Greeley forecast an even greater reliance on student participation and support. "The volunteer program is always a tremendous strength to the center," he said. "They are a tremendous group of people.

Greeley explained that the Indiana General Assembly’s original appropriation of $1.4 million of state and federal funds to Logan Center, expected to continue into next June, will be cut in half. Logan Center serves 300 to 400 area handicapped daily. The Governor’s proposed cutback of Monday’s announcement, according to Greeley, would cut off all services to about 100 of these people. "We’d simply have to send them home," explained Greeley.

Logan officials are hoping that the community will aid them in their efforts to reverse the decision. "This is why the General Assembly reinstates all of the funds originally allocated. All we’re asking for is what we were promised in the beginning," Greeley said.

Greeley commented that South Bend is a extremely responsible community. He expressed the support of the Chamber of Commerce and many concerned parents and citizens.

Jeanne Conboy, co-chairman for the ND-SMC Council for the Retarded, remarked that the budget cutback "is going to set us back years." According to her, other Logan-sponsored volunteer activities such as basketball, bowling and classroom work are also jeopardized by the proposed budget Cutbacks. Conboy expressed the Council’s intention to conduct a massive letter writing campaign in an effort to recover Logan’s funds. Students will be asked to write the Governor, Bowen and Indiana state representatives expressing their dissatisfaction with the decision.

Chess Club wins to hold tourney

The Notre Dame Chess Club, which won a match against South Bend last week by a score of 11 to 0, will take part in a tournament tomorrow in Room 325 of the Math and Computer Building at 9 a.m. Registration is free.

The first prize is $100, with other prizes also to be won. This includes a $40 prize for the best score by player, and a $10 prize for the best score taken part in a tournament before.

The Chess Club also is planning to go to Florida for the Interlocale Interlegiate competition. For further information, call 234-9684.

Lawyers for Life presents Rice talk

Notre Dame Lawyers for Life will present a talk by Charles Rice of the Notre Dame Law School on a constitutional analysis of the Supreme Court’s abortion decisions and the proposed Human Life Amendment. At 12:15 p.m. in Room 115 of the Law Building.

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production

Logan needs more students due to state budget cutback

The Original Football Weekendier Party

Campusview Apt. Rec. Room

Purdue Saturday (Sept 24)

2 - 20 kegs!!

a Smitty Production
Irish seek rebound against Purdue

by Tony Face
Sportswriter

Trying to recover from last Saturday's loss to the Mississippi State Bulldogs, the Notre Dame football team journeyed to West Lafayette, Ind. this Saturday to face Purdue.

With the two teams having identi­cal 1-1 records, their styles of play are vastly different. Notre Dame possesses a more balanced and is known for the help which has inspired the Irish to score 21 points in their first two contests. Purdue, however, is a pass­oriented team which has scored 36 points in their first two games.

The game will be held at Ross-Ade Stadium and both teams will have a sellout crowd of 69,200 fans.

Overall: Twenty-two correct, and five wrong for 82 percent.

Player of the Week: Mark Herrman

The Notre Dame baseball team will open a 12-game fall schedule today at Kline Field. The Irish will play two doubleheaders with the University of South Carolina at 1:30 p.m. beginning at 11:00 a.m.

The Fighting Irish cross country team will play host to Michigan State on Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m. on Burke Memorial Golf Course.

The Notre Dame baseball team will open a 12-game fall schedule today at Kline Field. The Irish will play two doubleheaders with the University of South Carolina at 1:30 p.m. beginning at 11:00 a.m.

The Fighting Irish cross country team will play host to Michigan State on Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m. on Burke Memorial Golf Course.

West Lafayette, Ind. - (AP) - Senior spring tackle for Notre Dame is Mark Herrman. Herrman, 6-3, 232 pounds, is on a roll this season, having scored his fourth goal in the last three games.

Mark Herrman will be taking on the challenges for graduated quarterback, Mark Vitali, this year. The Irish offensive line is looking for a strong performance from the senior tackle.

The Notre Dame baseball team will open a 12-game fall schedule today at Kline Field. The Irish will play two doubleheaders with the University of South Carolina at 1:30 p.m. beginning at 11:00 a.m.

The Fighting Irish cross country team will play host to Michigan State on Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m. on Burke Memorial Golf Course.

The Notre Dame baseball team will open a 12-game fall schedule today at Kline Field. The Irish will play two doubleheaders with the University of South Carolina at 1:30 p.m. beginning at 11:00 a.m.

The Fighting Irish cross country team will play host to Michigan State on Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m. on Burke Memorial Golf Course.

The Notre Dame baseball team will open a 12-game fall schedule today at Kline Field. The Irish will play two doubleheaders with the University of South Carolina at 1:30 p.m. beginning at 11:00 a.m.

The Fighting Irish cross country team will play host to Michigan State on Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m. on Burke Memorial Golf Course.