Women vital to resistance movement

by Bill Delaney
Latin American Countries are economically depressed because they are "dependent on the imperialism of foreign business interests," according to Mari Squella, an exiled Chilean sociologist. Squella talked about politics and social upheaval in Latin America, emphasizing the role of women before an audience of about 50 students and faculty members in the library auditorium.

After the military junta and the assassination of President Allende in Chile, Squella said she was arrested several times, held in solitary confinement, tortured and finally exiled. Momentary tears came into her eyes as she told of her experience in prison and of her friends who have disappeared or been killed.

Latin American International Students sponsored the lecture as part of "Latin America Awareness Week." Squella spoke for 40 minutes followed by a 30 minute question and answer period. Afterwards, about 30 people joined in an informal discussion with the young. Hacked hair activist from Chile that lasted an hour-and-a-half in the Library Lounge.

Squella described herself as a member of a growing leftist "Latin American resistance movement against foreign imperialism." The working class in these underdeveloped countries lives in poverty, she pointed out, while American business makes 15 billion dollars of clear profit" each year. Because of imperialism, she said, profit margins are much higher for U.S. business interests in underdeveloped regions.

The military dictatorship in Chile, Squella explained, needs the military to stay in power. Squella noted that "lights won't stop attacks. Neither will walking in twos or threes, even with a guy. You can't fight someone with a gun." Squella added, "I personally don't think most girls feel they're in danger on this campus. I don't think they worry about being anywhere at any time."

A LeMans section leader noted that "flights won't stop attacks. Neither will walking in twos or threes, even with a guy. You can't fight someone with a gun." Some students proposed the placement of a security post on the road between Notre Dame and St. Mary's. "It's the obvious answer," one student said. One student commented on the security problem saying, "There's more of a community awareness on both campuses between the girls and the guys."

Section leaders were generally enthusiastic about the meeting. "It worked great," one student said. One student commented on the security problem saying, "There's more of a community awareness on both campuses between the girls and the guys."

Some recommendations and comments from section leaders will be brought before the HPC, according to Rizzo, "to see what we could possibly work out." Rizzo explained that there will be two additional meetings next semester which will "hopefully include every section leader at Notre Dame and St. Mary's. I think it will work," she said.

Women resist abuse of alcohol at Georgia Tech game

This is something that will happen would be a ridiculous posture to assume, Roemer added."

Some students felt that they had a legitimate right to have alcohol in the stadium. "We should be allowed to have it in the stadium since we're allowed to have it on campus," commented freshman Michelle Kowalski.

Roemer explained that the policy is designed to control the abuse rather than use of alcohol. "At the Georgia Tech game, I watched a number of students with a can of beer in one hand and a fifth of warm whiskey in the other," he said. "That constitutes a serious abuse of alcohol that we can't condone.

"For us to stand by and let it happen would be a ridiculous posture to assume, Roemer added."

Some students expressed doubts that the new policy would meet with success. Kowalski said, "I don't see how it's going to help because if people want to get alcohol in, they'll find a way.

Senior Bill Bransley agreed. "I think they're tried before and have never been able to completely shut it off."

Roemer said he had no intention of totally shutting off the flow of alcohol into the stadium. "I'm not going to believe that we're going to totally contain all liquor brought to the stadium," he said. "We will allow thermoses, so someone can bring a thermus full of coffee that he's faced with. We're not going to have people snuffing their noses,"

The primary concern, according to Roemer, is the presence of cans and bottles. "Cans and bottles can lead to potential real weapons," he said. "These are the kind of things that will be confus-
Counseling Center to hold assertiveness workshop

A workshop on assertiveness and self-confidence will be offered by the Counseling Center on three consecutive Mondays from 8 to 10 p.m. beginning November 14. The workshop is open to students, faculty and staff and will be held in the Counseling Center, Room 400 of the Administration Building. The workshop has three goals: to educate participants as to their interpersonal rights, to help them overcome blocks to acting assertively, and to develop assertive behavior through practice.

Each session will combine lectures, exercises, role-playing and discussion, and assignments will be given to encourage participants to extend their assertive behavior to situations outside the group. The first session will concentrate on social skills and using assertiveness in social situations. The second will be devoted to identifying personal rights and distinguishing assertive behavior, which expresses one's feelings and thoughts openly and directly without violating the rights of others, from nonassertiveness, which is indirect, manipulative, and aggressive; the third session will discuss and identify the rights of others. The third session will deal with specific problem areas, such as marking and refusing requests, receiving criticism and dealing with persistent people. Each participant will work on individual problems during the last session.

During the workshop attendees will work in pairs under the guidance of a professional counselor to develop their own assertiveness techniques. The workshop is free and open to all. For further information, ask for Joan Biever.

Soviets buy more grain

WASHINGTON [AP] - The Soviet Union is continuing its U.S. grain purchases, this time buying an additional 400,000 metric tons of corn. It was the third Russian purchase in 24 hours, as the Department said Tuesday. The Soviets also bought 3.4 million tons of corn and 100,000 tons of wheat.

The purchases are expected to offset a smaller than expected Russian harvest, estimated at 194 million tons, or 10 percent less than U.S. experts had forecast. The Soviets are in the second year of a long-term agreement with the United States that commits them to purchase about 3 million tons of grain annually.

In 1976, the Russians bought some 3.4 million tons for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30. But they're expected to buy up to 15 million tons of wheat and corn in 1977-78 and 26 million metric tons annually. They have increased their purchases because of a long-term agreement with the United States.
Complaints of renovation plans concerned with handicapped

by Bob Brink
Assistant Managing Editor

The absence of an elevator that would be accessible to all floors of LaFortune Student Center has led several people to register complaints. In an article printed Nov. 8 in the Observer, Bro. Jace Pascen, vice-president for Student Affairs, stated that the purpose of the proposed renovation is to "make the center more accessible to the handicapped students." However, as of yet, there has been no definite tentative stand, ramps and lifts would only make the basement and the first floor accessible to the handicapped.

"It's not like we are not for the handicapped to reach either the second floor, where various small shops, offices and the student government offices would be located, or the third floor where the Observer, Dome, and Scholarly Magazine are located."

Bro. Francis Gorch, manager of the LaFortune Student Center cited the current renovation plans. He claims that an elevator is the most important feature that is required, and should be given priority over all the other changes proposed. "If you're going to cater to the handicapped, you should provide the services," Gorch noted.

Cell Popporic, administrative assistant for the Observer, agreed with Bro. Gorch's statements. "I know it's a real necessity for an elevator that would make all of LaFortune readily accessible to the handicapped, but to everybody," Popporic said. She added that she had seen many students and "VIP's," both young and old, out of breath after the long climb to the top floor.

When contacted about the complaints, Pasceny admitted that whether to include an elevator in LaFortune was a "fair question."

He stated that he felt the addition of an elevator would be important, and pointed out that the possibility of adding one, or of at least adding lifts that would go to the second floor, was not out of the question. The plans are not yet finalized, he said.

"If I'm re-examining it, we see the real necessity for an elevator, we may have to redo the plans."

Joe Gill, executive coordinator for Student Government, agreed, yesterday that the issue was a valid one. "If the addition of an elevator would discriminate against handicapped students who want to participate in activities that take place on high floors," Gill said.

Gill added that he had spoken to Pasceny about the situation, and said that Pasceny had "acknowledged the problem to him, and had given the indication that something would be done about it."

Art collecting as an art

A special two hour symposium on the "Art of Collecting" will be held at the Notre Dame Art Gallery tonight at 7 p.m.

During the last several years members of the Notre Dame-Michiana communities have requested the Art Gallery's advice on matters of collecting art objects. In response to this need, the Art Gallery has assembled a panel of professionals who can offer guidance and advice.

Washington (AP)—The Shah of Iran disclosed last night that his country will seek a price freeze when the 13-nation OPEC cartel meets next month to consider whether to increase world oil prices.

The Shah made the announcement at a news conference which was arranged to give him a chance to visit here. Heavy police forces kept rival groups of Iranian demonstrators from clashing with police for the fourth day of violent street talks.

Mr. Carter was able to draw his conclusion to give you a better view of neutrality in the upcoming talks. If Carter said that any price increase would be disruptive to world economic stability, and the price rises over the past two days appeared too high, it would mean that the Shah said the president's argument involved the past two days concerned over the policy of neutrality in the upcoming talks.

"After pursuing the world economic situation, we have come to this conclusion to give you a break," the Shah said.

Last only was the Shah had told Iranian political groups that main on the oil price question at the Carter-Ford talks.

The Shah said he would be willing to go along with a freeze on prices. The current world price of oil is about $11.50 per barrel and most of other oil producing states will seek a price increase.

The Shah commented that oil in producing power has the most powerful member of the cartel, has the right to make a decision, and that is because of the declining value of the dollar and inflation in Western industrialized countries.

"It is believed that Iran will seek an increase of about five percent while other members of the cartel favor a much larger hike.

Iraq, for example, is proposing a 23 percent increase."

"The Shah persuaded the thousands of Iranians who have passed through the past two days saying they represent "international chaos, disorder and world revolution."

Oldest man in nation

for former slave Smith -135

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—When former slave Charlie Smith, believed to be the nation's oldest person, was felled by a broken leg in an automobile accident he was sitting high on his stretcher, clenching his fists and sporting cowboy hat and boots, style, according to the operating room.

"Smith was in good spirits and was talking to himself before he went into the hospital room," a hospital public relations official said.

Smith was taken by ambulance to the hospital Tuesday after Smith had been sent there by two witnesses who had been waiting just outside the house.

A pain in his elbow was diagnostic of a broken bone from infection forced physicians to amputate his right arm. Bone hospital officials said. He was listed in serious condition.

"He's quite a guy," said Marilyn Nes, nurse supervising at the first hospital where he was taken. "How he was doing was the last I heard of him.

When the ambulance came to take Charlie, Mrs. Nes, he had his fist out and was stretching in all his glory. He had his favorite purse where he keeps his post cards, birthday cards and ticket items like packets of sugar and tea.

Smith's age, which has been estimated to be anywhere from 125 to 135, according to record, came to light when he was found picking citrus at age 115.

He does not know his birth date, but believes he was 12 when King George V gave him his native Liberia in Africa in 1854.

Rattlesnake burglar alarm
TUCSON, Ariz. [AP] - Burglars who do not go for a drink when they rob a house have become a bon mot at Poquito's, a three-foot-long rattlesnake.

"You know you keep in a glass cage when I'm in the car and I talk to him as I drive," Escandon reports. "He's just like a friend and is a lot like a cat unless he's upset."

He found the snake last summer after it had been hit by a car and nursed it back to health. Escandon says he frees the snake while it's gone, then when he returns he recaptures Poquito with a pole and moves him in the cage.

Poquito - Spanish for "a little bit" - got his first workout on Halloween. "I'd try to steal Escandon's steel to see if Poquito rattles, and had even unhooked it when he was apparently scared away by the sound of Poquito's rattles," Escandon said.

Police who investigated Escandon to get a sign warning of Poquito's presence, but he didn't like the suggestion.

"A rattlesnake is the whole thing. It would be like advertising and would certainly rip you off, why advertise?"

Last Squad drinks together
BRUSH, Colo. [AP] - The Last Squad has a 53-year-old bottle of Canadian whiskey, drunk to a toast to the members who have survived and adjourned its last official event.

For 41 years, those who were members of The Sportbrush American Legion Post 68 in southern Colorado have waited for this occasion. When it came Tuesday night, they didn't go right.

The rules had been altered in 1979 and 10 of the 11 original of Last Squad members shared in the fifth set aside in 1936. The original plan was to wait until eight - the number of members who were original members before the bottle was opened. The temperament was altered, coordinator Harvey Reinert said, because the youngest of the remaining members is 79 and "We just decided to have the party Tuesday night, they did it up big.

SECRET SOCIETY REPUBLiC STRENGTHENS

WASHINGTON [AP] - A secret study by the Carter administration finds an alarming buildup of Cuban military strength in Africa and recommends a slowdown in improving relations with Havana.

One of the highlights of the study, sources here said, was that there are an estimated 25,000 Cubans in Algeria, all but 2,000 of them military personnel. This represents an increase of at least 30 percent over last year and contradicts a Cuban promise to reduce its presence in the former Portuguese colony.

The study, which involves intelligence estimates and political judgements, does not question steps already taken by the administration to improve relations with the government of Fidel Castro after 16 years of hostility.

But it calls for an absence until Havana's intentions become clearer.

Washington has been感到 increased concern about Cuba's military moves in the past two years and doubts have been cast on the government's promises to cut its military forces.

Mono may cause cancer, death if ‘inherited virus’ present

WASHINGTON, D.C. [AP] — Researchers say they have discovered a disease inherited by some male children that can turn a common virus into a cause of cancer or make a killer out of mononucleosis.

The disease, identified at the University of Massachusetts Medical School, is a deficiency that leaves the body open to a fatal form of the virus. The disease can also cause mononucleosis or have a break-down of the body’s ability to fight infections. Sometimes victims suffer lymphoma and mononucleosis at the same time, the researchers said.

Purtilo said no studies have been conducted to determine how widespread the new disease is. But he said it is probably about as common as hemophilia, an inherited blood clotting deficiency that affects about 20,000 Americans.

Educators say Ban sex and violence on prime-time television

CHICAGO [AP] — A nation-wide group of educators says sex and violence should be banned from prime-time and child-time television.

The Council of Chief State School Officers said Tuesday in a resolution adopted by its policy committee that it “stands against television prime-time and child-time programming and commercials which emphasize sex or violence or which pervert sex and violence on the air.”

Members of the council are state school superintendents and commissioners from around the nation. Illinois schools Superintendent Joseph Cronin, chairman of the policy committee, said the sex and violence resolution recognizes that “excessive violence on TV increases aggressive behavior” among youngsters and too much television can hinder their physical development and hamper their ability to “distinguish reality from fantasy.”

In other action, the council urged more emphasis on the arts in education plus action to prepare youngsters for jobs by creating closer links between schools and the “world of work.” The latter move follows congressional approval in August of $1 billion for a Department of Labor program to cut youth unemployment in the nation’s cities.

“Our interest as educators is to play a role in developing a closer link between growing up and taking a meaningful role in society,” said Daniel R. Taylor, superintendent of free schools of West Virginia and president-elect of the council.

Chances appear good for Scottish home rule

LONDON [AP] - Prime Minister James Callaghan's Labor government won an unexpectedly high 26-vote majority Wednesday night in the House of Commons for a motion to speed passage of its bill giving Scotland limited home rule.

The striking firemen, members of the Fire Brigades Union, abandoned picket lines three times Tuesday to fight several blazes, including a smoky fire inside a London hospital.

LONDON (AP) - Striking British firemen refused to help battle a raging blaze yesterday in a power station east of London. It was the worst fire in the three-day-old wildfire for more than a century.

The unprecedented strike by virtually all of Britain's 33,000 full-time firemen turned nasty as strikers squabbled over whether they should aid the soldiers or remain on the picket lines.

Some striking firemen abandoned the picket lines to join army troops at an early morning blaze in a London medical school building. But they were heckled and photographed by other strikers who refused to help.

The chief fire officer for Essex County telephoned several fire stations near Tilbury on the Thames River east of London when flames quickly engulfed a building.

The firemen went on strike 9 a.m. Monday over a pay dispute. They argue their average weekly salary of $115 dollars is not enough to make ends meet in inflation-ridden Britain. But Home Secretary Marilyn Rees has said the firemen would not be exempted from anti-inflationary pay guideline that allow for raises of no more than 10 percent.

Three building employees were overcome by smoke. The soldiers, using 1960's vintage fire tenders, had to withdraw and let the fire burn itself out. Officials said there was severe damage and the plant was in danger of collapsing.

The military had not taken modern equipment from fire stations because the Labor government hopes to avoid a picket-line confrontation. The soldiers also have been plagued by firebugs, hoaxes and 'some idiot with a transmitter' who is jamming communications, authorities say.

Rod Carew elected AL MVP

The Name to listen to.

BLOOMINGTON Minn. [AP] - Rod Carew of Minnesota Twins, who spent much of the 1977 season chasing baseball's elusive .400 mark, Wednesday was named the American League's Most Valuable Player award.

"It is a big thrill," said the 32 year old first baseman. "The MVP in the MVP.

"Over the years it seemed he was curiously a perennial winning team," said Carew. "I geared myself for it not to happen." Carew batted .388 the past season, the highest hitting title and fifth in the past six years. He led the Twins with 128 runs and 239 hits, the most hits since Billy Werth's 234 for the New York Giants in 1930. Carew received 12 first place votes from 75 writers. Ten other players collected first place votes in the most diverse voting in the 47 year history of baseball's American League. Carew is the 16th player from a non-pennant winning team to win.

The Twins finished fourth in the American League, but the Twin Cities business will be jinny for the Svmpson. The league's Most Valuable Player award.

Singleton of the Baltimore Orioles attracted three first place votes and finished third with 200 points. First place was worth 14 points, second placed first place third place etc. Designated hitter-outfielder Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox finished fourth and was followed by four members of the New York Yankees - third baseman Craig Nettles relief ace and Cy Young Award winner Sparky Lyle, catcher Thurman Munson who won the 1976 MVP, and outfielder Reggie Jackson.

Carew's 1976 average has not been surpassed since Ted Williams hit .406 in 1941. Carew's lifetime average of .335 is the highest since Williams retired with a .344 mark in 1960. "June was the turning point," said Carew of his sensational season, when he hit .466 that month. "A lot of people were saying everything I hit found the hole. I hit the ball solid the month of June and everything was a hit." Carew won his first batting title in 1969 when he batted .333. An injury took him out of the running the next two years by he won his first batting title in 1972, .359 in 1973, .364 in 1973 and .359 in 1975. He won the Rookie of the Year Award in 1967 when he batted the .318. In 1973, 1972, .359 in 1975. He won the Rookie of the Year Award in 1967 when he batted the .318. In 1973, 1972, .359 in 1975. During November and December, more than fifteen international basketball exhibitions will be held in the United States in competition with American colleges, universities, high schools, and semiprofessional teams.

Highlighting the tour is the appearance of the Soviet National team, which is a usual visitor to America on the eve of the Olympic Games.

In the past, the Russians have played in all-star teams and have typically been defeated. This year, however, the Soviet team will be coming to the United States for an exhibition tour

For the seniors this week is filled with the first of the "lasts" that we will experience in our final year here at La. We went through the problems of waiting to line for the "cake" courses for the final time, turned in our last form 50 and will see our last home football game.

For over twenty seniors on Dan Devine's squad this will be their last game this month. Tuesday night, in the double overtime battle with the Tigers, 64 fouls were called as seven players fouled out of the game.

Those men are the gentlemen who, perhaps, have spent more time within the stadium's confines than any other members of the senior class. Those men will be ending a 20 year tenure on Saturday. Here is what he and a few others thought of the upcoming game.

The game will test our size and strength as a chance to see what we have. The game will help improve our front line in going to take physical force and the ability to control the ball from the backfield."

The contest should be physical enough to equal the Russian's physicality this month. Tuesday night, in the double overtime battle with the Tigers, 64 fouls were called as seven players fouled out of the game. Last week against Purdue, there were 59 fouls called.

This will be the second matchup between the Irish and the Russians. The Irish were being two years ago at Madison Square Garden when the two teams copped in that clash, 77-77. After Tony Knight had sunk a jump shot from the left corner with two seconds remaining in the hard fought battle, the Irish had boosted their lead to 66-50. However, in the next eight and a half minutes, the Irish missed the only shot they had to use three times.

In the final four and a half minutes, Notre Dame could only register six points.

But, that game two seasons ago was played under international rules while, tomorrow night's clash will be officiated under the NCAA rules.

Obvioulsy we have something to shoot for because they beat us in the NCAA two years ago," Phelps added.

The Irish will have their oppor- tunity to exact revenge Saturday night when Notre Dame hosts the Russians and the Olympic team. As an NCAA team, Notre Dame can play in the ACC. They have the ACC tie-ins for seven games this month.

The Irish are undoubtedly the bigger team. The Russians rely on 7-4 Vladimir Zhigiliy and Anatoly Myshin, both 6-10. At center, the Russians rely on 7-4 Vladimir Korchaga.

Although the Irish may be looking to rotate ten men throughout the contest, the USSR will be using only aTraditional Moslem Moslem Moslem of personnel.

Forward Mikhail Korkis were attached with ten of 12 shots from the field to pace the Russians with 26 points. Tkachenkov followed Korkis with 13 more.

In that contest, Louisiana State emerged victorious, 94-96, in double overtime. The USSR, just as in that battle, will be a very physical team. The Irish are indicative of preparation Irish Head Coach "Digger" Phelps wants his players to develop their regular season form again this week against Missouri.
