St. Mary's extends parietal hours until 2 am

by Jean Powley
Saint Mary's Editor

Saint Mary's parietal hours have been extended to 2 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights effective this Friday, according to Dean M. Duggan. Duggan announced in a letter to be distributed to students today. The new hours will be in effect for the rest of this semester, after which time the policy will be reviewed and re-evaluated.

Duggan feels that the trial period is necessary because although he thinks it will work, he wants to be sure it continues to work.

"It was a reasonable proposal and I considered it on its merits," Duggan said. "And I'm convinced it is a positive step."

Before any final decision was made on Student Government's proposed parietal changes it was discussed and unanimously endorsed by the Student Affairs Council. The extension was also discussed by the Student Assembly, before being brought to the Parents' Council and the college's senior officers. In addition, Duggan said that he spoke personally with several faculty members on the subject, as well as with many students.

Student Government also initiated its own poll of faculty student and alumnus opinion.

This is the first extension of parietals at Saint Mary's since Duggan extended them from 10 p.m. to midnight on Fridays and Saturdays when he first came here in July 1975.

Last year's Student Government administration under Mary Lo Fickle worked very hard to extend weekend hours to 2 a.m., but without success because of student apathy.

No one turned in the parietal questionnaires distributed to them.

Mary Rukavina, Saint Mary's class of 1975, said she was "setting the stage for an almost unanimous "We'd be delighted to have it in the future.""

Veeck asked the audience of 200, which gave him a standing ovation, "for a couple of favors." First he asked each person "to oppose bigots and to help us." Then he said people are becoming lost in a society that has a "fetish" for proposals.

"Just think what you can do to an IBM computer," he noted. He also suggested instead of throwing junk mail, "Take the junk mail from one guy and put it into another guy's return envelope."

For his second request, Veeck asked the audience to vote for "the largest minority group in the world."

"Let's all get together and vote for the kids," he said.

"Did you ever hear a preacher say that a wonderful man was killed?" he asked. "Left-handers of the world arise, you have nothing to lose except your shoes." Veeck was the author of three books, Veeck as in Wreck, the Hustler's Handbook, and THirty Tens a Day.

Veeck paraphrased the Cleveland Indians in 1946, the St. Louis Browns in 1951, and the White Sox in 1959.

After telling the White Sox in 1951, "I'm on the South Side of Chicago Bears football team to consider playing at Comiskey, "We'd be delighted to have it in the future.""

Veeck's talk was sponsored by the ND/SMC Junior Class.

Senate approves second treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) The Senate approved the last of two Panama Canal treaties yesterday, agreeing to relinquish control of the waterway in the year 2000 and giving President Jimmy Carter a narrow but crucial victory.

The vote was 66-32, the same margin by which the Senate approved the first treaty on March 16. The margin of victory was only one more than the two-thirds majority required by the Constitution.

The same 68 senators who voted for the first part also approved the second.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter followed broadcast accounts of the voting.

The first treaty commits the United States and Panama to maintain the neutrality of the international waterway, which is open to ships of all nations.

Yesterday's vote completed the deal, providing for actual transfer of the waterway to Panama on Dec. 31, 1999.

It came after nearly 40 days of Senate debate, and after intensive lobbying by Carter and his associates, who said that rejection would undermine the president's ability to conduct foreign policy.

Carter and Panamanian leader Gen. Omar Torrijos signed the treaties in a ceremony in Washington last fall, and the administration has contended that their ratification is crucial to the president's ability to conduct an effective foreign policy.

To gain the votes for victory, Carter and Senate leaders had agreed on an amended version of a treaty reservation sought by Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.

The reservation spells out U.S. rights to take any action, including military force, to keep the canal open in case of work stoppages or other internal disturbances.

DeConcini, Senate leaders and Carter agreed to a compromise giving the United States those rights. The compromise also asserted, however, that the United States would not be permitted to intervene in Panama internal affairs or violate its sovereignty.

In a statement the so-called DeConcini reservation at a 73-27 vote, the Senate removed what had been the biggest obstacle to ratification of the second of the two canal treaties.

Panamanian officials, who originated strong objections to DeConcini's proposal had indicated they could accept the compromise.

DeConcini's proposal, however, before the final vote the Senate rejected an effort by Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., to send the treaty back to Carter for renegotiation. The treaty was "ripe for ratification," he said, in offering its unsuccessful move.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., announced he would vote against the second treaty as he did yesterday, that left the outcome in the hands of Hayakawa, Cannon, [continued on page 3]
CRAWFORDSVILLE Ind. [AP] - A representative for Grosset & Dunlap, Inc., publishers of former President Richard M. Nixon's memoirs, said yesterday that the book was being printed here amid very tight security.

Irving Ross, vice president in charge of production for Grosset & Dunlap said R.R. Donnelly & Sons began printing the book Sunday under security measures that were "intraicate and necessary."

Donnelly's has been contracted to publish the first 225,000 copies of the book titled, "R.N., the Memoirs of Richard Nixon. There will be a $50 special edition and the others will sell for $19.95 in bookstores across the country, Ross said.

Ross said he picked Donnelly & Sons to print the book as an earlier experience with the firm that left him with a good opinion of its ability to keep close security on the product.

Copy for the book was set at a Donnelly plant in Elgin, Ill. and Ross brought it to the Crawfordsville plant Saturday. Work on the book started on Sunday amid extremely tight security at the plant which employs 2,200 persons.

Ross said the security measures were necessary to prevent early release of the book. Only persons with Donnelly identification can enter the plant on the outside of this central Indiana community of 14,000.

A ring of Pinkerton guards was reported watching the printing of the book.

The only persons to see the book besides Donnelly workers and Grosset & Dunlap editors are representatives of the New York Times, which has (non-exclusive) serialization rights to Nixon's memoirs, Ross said.

"Previous experience in the industry has set the environment for the security on producing the book. We have hired additional security people and we are watching every step of production carefully," said Ross who added, the Crawfordsville plant manager.

"We expect efforts to get the book. We don't think it will come from inside the plant, because we believe Donnelly employees are loyal to their company," he said.

Indiana dunes expand

WASHINGTON-Indiana Congressman Floyd Fithian asked a House Appropriations subcommittee yesterday for more money for development of the Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore. Fithian, whose district includes the Dunes, requested a supplemental $1,340,000 for operations, planning and construction. The 2nd District Democrat said the money for the project was authorized in 1976 but noted that the administration had been slow to allocate it.

Fithian told his fellow representatives, "We cannot become complacent about the preservation of the Indiana Dunes."

Badin women share weekend with inner-city eighth graders

by Brandi Andrusak

The Badin "Weekend of Caring and Giving" was well received, according to Sr. Veronica Girmscheid, Badin Hall rectress. She commented, "It was far better than expected; the Badin women's involvement was excellent."

The purpose of the weekend, Girmscheid said was for inter-city eighth graders "to get to know each other on a different level and to create bonds with others outside of the classroom." "It was an awareness for the Notre Dame students of those who have less," she continued.

In composing how the eighth graders reacted to the opportunity, Girmscheid commented, "The girls were excited because they were not familiar with inner city school. Words cannot describe how those girls and boys contributed their time to us young black girls from an inner city school. Words cannot describe how the warmth they gave to us."

"The bad part I hated was the part when we said goodbye. I didn't want it to. It was just a sad moment for me."

"Norma motivated me to keep going even if I have trouble on the outside."

"The girls were so nice to us and showed us many of (the things) that we never learned. We searched into each other's lives and probably would (never) have seen it if it was not for Miss O'Brian and Sr. Verene and many more."

The girls' letters indicated that they enjoyed all aspects of the weekend, especially the Friday night party, the discussion groups, the tours of the campus, roaming with the Badin women and sharing a new experience with each other and "caring strangers."

Supreme Court reverses ruling, bars release of Watergate tapes

WASHINGTON [AP]—The Supreme Court yesterday barred publication of White House tape recordings played at the Watergate cover-up trial as an attempt to help former President Richard M. Nixon.

In a 5-4 decision reversed a 1976 ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that would have made the tapes available to the public. The 12-member jury in the Watergate trial sought to air portions of the tapes while Warner wanted to reproduce them for sale as records and tape cassettes.

Nixon argued that the tapes' release would invade his privacy and cause him great embarrassment. In arguing before the justices last Thursday, Jefferson said the former president would suffer "mental anguish" if the tapes were not kept from "every disc jockey, every television performer...to be played Relentlessly."

Nixon's attorneys argued that home sales of 22 hours' worth of White House conversations would lead to their being "played at cocktail parties and in sardine productions."

But in arguing for Warner Communications, former Watergate Commissio...

Stock Market pace slackens
NEW YORK—The 3,000 traders, clerks, and specialists crowding the floor of the New York Stock Exchange said they were busy, but were having a leisurely pace yesterday when the furious pace of trading in recent weeks had slowed. On Monday, a record 63.5 million shares of stock had changed hands. The total for Friday and Monday was more than 110 million shares a respective week for an entire week of normal activity.

Yesterday, the New York Times reported that Dr. Robert Newton Zinder of E.F. Hutton, traders appeared to be “diligent” the gains. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks had risen more than 40 points to close at 803.27 Tuesday. Volume was 38.95 million shares.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks had risen more than 40 points to close at 803.27 Tuesday. Volume was 38.95 million shares.

Arthur deCordova, the floor specialist for the NYSE, had no time to comment on what he termed the “slow pace.”

Robert Chandler, a clerk for LaFreniere 46 days stepped off to be leaving the floor to take his first cigarette break since Friday. “Everybody’s kept up with the pace; you’ve got no choice,” he said. Analysts were reluctant to read a long-term trend into a rally so young. But Raymond F. DeVaivre Jr. of Loeb Rhoades, Harrislower & Co. reported that at a tavern in the financial district Monday night, “There’s a little more elbowroom in the bar, and people you barely knew couldn’t want to buy you a drink.”

When these things happen, they often seem to come for no reason at all.”

WIRETAP LAW PASSED IN HAWAII TO HELP CURB ORGANIZED CRIME

HONOLULU (AP) - Hawaiian law enforcement officials hope a new wiretap law that makes it easier for them to eavesdrop on telephone calls will help curb what they see as the growing menace of organized crime in the 50th state.

"The statute, recently passed by the Legislature, must be signed within 60 days by Gov. George Ariyoshi, who has said he favors it. Current law allows electronic eavesdropping only with the consent of at least one party to be tapped, or if federal officials are involved. Hawaii Crime Commission studies show that the FBI has used wiretaps only three times in the state. The new law permits state officials to seek court authorization for their own secret wiretaps.

The American Civil Liberties Union objects that the more flexible law would not help round up organized crime leaders and would infringe on constitutional rights to privacy.

But Honolulu Police Capt. Harold Kawasaki said "inevitable to use wire and oral communications in their activities" and that intercepting such communications is an "indispensable aid to law enforcement and the administration of justice."

The new law comes at a time when many Hawaiian officials are increasingly concerned about crime on the islands. Federal statistics show that while serious crime dropped 4 percent nationwide last year, Hawaii's rate climbed 27 percent.

The crime commission in a 112-page report on extortion talked of "a climate of fear in the community which has been generated by publicity of the violence connected with Hawaii's organized crime."

Deputy Honolulu Police Chief Eugene Fletcher has said two underworld leaders known to police are currently trying for control of illegal gambling operations in the state.

According to crime commission direc tive, 25 of states allow court-ordered wiretaps, but only California, New York and New Jersey are they used extensi vely.

Campaign reveals abuses; finds widesp Lars grant graft, theft

In Texas, an aide of Gov. Dolph Briscoe was found paying employees of a defense contractor owned with federal jobs money, the sons and wives of former SSA politicians are allegedly on CETA payrolls.

Last week Labor Secretary Ray Marshall announced the formation of a "management task force of special investigations to hunt down "corrupt political" and "financial abuses" in the department's Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) jobs program.

Targets of the first investigations announced by Marshall includes two states - Texas and Oklahoma - and nine cities: Atlanta; Indianapolis; Gary, Ind.; New York City; Cass City, MI; Los Angeles; East St. Louis, IL; Washington, and Baltimore.

Marshall said 17 other local governments were undergoing preliminary investigations, but declined to name them. Instead, he was that known that local and federal law agencies are investigating jobs programs abuses in Boston, New Jersey, and Westchester and Putnam counties, N.Y.

One Labor Department official speculated that 50-100 other abuses may be squandering $25 million to $200 million a year in public jobs money, but others contacted said it impossible to assess the final figure.

Federal investigators declined to specify what abuses they were looking into, but an Associated Press survey of the 11 local governments under active investigation turned up a variety of allegations.

everyone who knows it's springtime at Notre Dame. The bookstore is especially busy as students try to get their books before classes start. As you walk through the aisles, you'll notice the smell of fresh flowers and the sound of lively conversations. Everything seems to be in order, and you feel comfortable shopping here.

Opening day of the annual tournament is a crucial time. Our team, the Fighting Irish, has been working hard to prepare for this event. The pressure is high, but we're ready to give it our best shot.

As we walk through the aisles, we notice a young girl looking at a bookshelf. She seems lost in thought, and we can't help but wonder what she's thinking about. We approach her and offer our help, and she takes it eagerly.

As we continue walking, we come across a display of books about Notre Dame's history. It's fascinating to see how far we've come and how much we've accomplished. We can't help but feel proud of our team and our university.

Finally, we reach the checkout area. The line is long, but we're not in a rush. We know that shopping at the bookstore is a special experience, and we're not going to rush through it.

Overall, it's a great day at the bookstore. We've picked up some great books and made some great connections. It's a day we'll always remember.
