CLC discusses social space, overcrowding, loft regulations

The Campus Life Council (CLC) met last night in the Keenan conference room to introduce new members and discuss their goals for next year.

The four new vice presidential representatives to CLC are Mary Ryan from Badin, Curtis Wesselin from Grace, Ed Zier from Morrissey and Chip Walton from Flanner.

The Student Union will be represented by Gary Luchini and the Hall Presidents Council selected Bill Vito, president of St. Ed’s Hall as their representative.

Representing the Judicial Council will be Bill Walsh, a junior from Pangborn.

Sara Dougherty, vice chairman of the Faculty Senate reported that the five faculty Senate representatives are presently being voted on and results are expected to be released on May 1. The faculty representatives from the original committee attended the meeting last night. Six rectors will be selected to serve on the committee by Sept. 1 of next year.

The actual deadline for the selection of rectors was April 15, but according to Student Body President Andy McKenna, Bro. Just Pirczesny, vice president for Student Affairs, decided to delay the election until next fall because of the number of rectors leaving after this semester.

Student Body Vice President Mike Roohan began the discussion by asking members for their ideas about the purpose and goals of the CLC.

Fr. Richard Conyers, rector of Keenan, began by stating that the major goal of the CLC this past year was the proposal on expansion of social space, which was passed at a major goal of the CLC this past year by asking membership for their ideas.

Mike Roohan began the discussion by asking for members to give up social space to prevent such a lottery, I would know start looking around Christ break, Luchini said. If it is necessary to give up social space to prevent such a lottery, I would agree to that, he added.

Sr. Vivian Whitehead, rector of Breen-Phillips, suggested that the problem was with notification of another CLC project, Whitehead said that if there was to be a meeting any given week because of forecasting overcrowding next year.

The social space proposal calls for the reconversion of residence rooms in several halls into social space. The displaced persons would be relocated as incoming freshmen next year. Because of the anticipated housing problems, some of the members were concerned that the building plans would be laid aside in favor of retaining the residential space.

However, Vito commented that if we sacrifice social space this year, we will have to fight for it again next year.

The possibility of a lottery that would select some students to move off campus was raised, but called impractical by some.

"I'd like to have more time than a week to find a room if I were lottery off campus. Most kids I know start looking around Christmas break," Luchini said.

If it is necessary to give up social space to prevent such a lottery, I would agree to that, he added.

"Since roompicks are coming up, it is critical now," she commented.

In further discussion of the role of the CLC, Prof. Albert LeMay urged the continued support and more student opportunities to better student and faculty relationships. In reference to the continuation of another CLC project, Whitehead suggested that the CLC give a survey of the student body before the meeting which was initiated this spring.

"What it needs is a formal letter from the Office of Student Affairs saying that it is available and encouraging its use," she stated.

Arthur Pears, director of Notre Dame security, urged students to lock their doors and take precautions in the event of a rash of thefts on campus last weekend.

"We usually receive a number of reports on thefts before the students go home," Pears commented, but it is unusual for such a significant amount to occur this early.

According to Pears, thefts occurred in Pangborn, Morrissey, Cavaghan, and Fisher Halls. The ROTC building was vandalized also over the weekend. A Seiko quartz digital watch, valued at approximately $300 and approximately $20 in cash were stolen from the room of a Mortreys resident while he was out to dinner, Pears reported. "The victim suspects the bandit was someone who knew him," he said.

A Cavanaugh resident was victimized for approximately $40 worth of jewelry while he was away from his room last Friday. The student failed to lock his room because he was only leaving for a few minutes. Pears explained.

Last Saturday afternoon, almost $200 worth of valuables were stolen from a Pangborn resident's room as he was playing volleyball outside, the Security director remarked.

Pears also reported that the vendingmachine in the basement of Fisher all was broken into during the weekend. In addition, the Naval display area and a classroom in the Northwest section of the ROTC building were vandalized. No accurate estimate of the cost of the damage has been obtained, Pears said.

"In order to remedy the situation we need the cooperation of the students," Pears noted. Students can guard against theft by locking their doors every time they leave the room.

Pears also pointed out that stolen property is rarely reclaimed unless the articles are marked or the victim can provide the serial number of the stolen article. "With this information we are able to utilize the computer resources of the National Crime Information Center," he said.

The security director also emphasized a Hall Mark service is available at the Lost and Found office. The service provides engraving materials for student use.

Pears noted that it is unfair to attribute the majority of the thefts to people outside the Notre Dame community. In the past, students have sometimes been responsible for burglaries, he explained.

Pears emphasized, however, that it is not unusual for strangers to be roaming the halls. "Young teenagers often come on campus in order to affiliate with University students and participate in University events such as An Tostal," he stated.

Security does not disapprove of students bringing off-campus visitors into the dorms, Pears commented. He noted, however, that Security department does not approve of uninvited visitors in the residence halls.

"I cannot emphasize enough the importance of student cooperation in trying to solve this problem," Pears said, concluding that "The majority of the thefts would have been prevented if the victim would have taken the time to lock his room."

Blaze contained by joint efforts

A small grass fire broke out in a field north of the Notre Dame tennis courts late yesterday after­noon, a spokesman for the Clay Township Fire Department reported.

According to fireman Dave Cherrone, the fire covered an area of grass and dead trees approxi­mately 200 by 300 yards. The Clay Township fire department responded to the call with six men and three pieces of firefighting equip­ment. The ND fire department sent one truck and two men to assist.

Firemen arrived on the scene at 5:25 p.m. and had contained the blaze within half an hour. The fire was finally extinguished shortly after 7 p.m.

Cherrone said the cause of the fire is unknown. He noted, however, that the department responds to up to 150 grass fires a year, the majority of which are caused by careless smokers.

Heard to return to prison

SAN FRANCISCO - Patricia Hearst who lost her appeal for U.S. Supreme Court intervention in her bank robbery conviction, should return to prison while her attorneys try to have her seven-year sentence reduced. U.S. Attorney G. William Hunter said Tuesday, "She has an obligation to do her time... and it will be better for her if she starts now," Hunter said in an interview.

Wallace assigned guards

MONTGOMERY, Ala. - Whether he goes to Washington as a U.S. senator or returns to private life in Alabama, Gov. George C. Wallace will still be guarded by state troopers after leaving the governor's office next January. The Alabama Legislature, in the closing hours of its regular session Monday night, passed a bill assigning at least two bodyguards to the partially paralyzed governor for as long as he thinks they are necessary.

Kroger Co. loses suit

INDIANAPOLIS - The Indiana Court of Appeals says Kroger Co. must pay a South Bend woman $2,700 for loss of her appetite for meat. She was eating sirloin steak when she felt a sharp stab in the back of her throat. She found the inch-long tip of a large hypodermic needle used for injecting animals and said she hasn't enjoyed eating meat since.

Over oral sex issue

NASHVILLE TN. (AP) - The Tennessee General Assembly prepared to vote Monday on whether to allow an appeals judge to resign if the Legislature cleared his name and refused to unseat him for oral sex.

The Judicial Standards Commission, the state watchdog of the court system, recommended Judge Charles Galbreath be ousted from the Court of Appeals after a series of actions that allegedly constituted misconduct, neglect of duty and moral unfitness.

But a special Senate House committee already has voted to accept him of seven specific charges, leaving only the 1976 Hustler letter.

The committee voted to delete the letter but not to remove Galbreath from the bench because he agreed not to let it happen again.

Before his case came up yesterday, Galbreath repeated a pledge to resign if the Legislature cleared his name and refused to unseat him for oral sex.

day, Galbreath repeated a pledge to resign if the Legislature cleared his name and refused to unseat me for oral sex. Chief Justice Joe Henry of the state Supreme Court called it gutter language.

Henry, during hearings by the legislative committee, called the letter "a product of a depraved and sick mind." Galbreath apologized at the time for the embarrassment caused the other judges whose names appeared on the letterhead.

He added, "If I happen to like pornography, pornographic literature, that's my right.'

The 52-year-old Galbreath's letter was a response to a Hustler article on the law and sexual practices. It was the beginning of a friendship with Hustler owner Larry Flynt.

Judge to be unseated?

NASHVILLE TN. (AP) - The Tennessee General Assembly prepared to vote Monday on whether to allow an appeals judge to resign if the Legislature cleared his name and refused to unseat him for oral sex.

The Judicial Standards Commission, the state watchdog of the court system, recommended Judge Charles Galbreath be ousted from the Court of Appeals after a series of actions that allegedly constituted misconduct, neglect of duty and moral unfitness.

But a special Senate House committee already has voted to accept him of seven specific charges, leaving only the 1976 Hustler letter.

The committee voted to delete the letter but not to remove Galbreath from the bench because he agreed not to let it happen again.

Before his case came up yesterday, Galbreath repeated a pledge to resign if the Legislature cleared his name and refused to unseat him for oral sex.

Galbreath was first elected to the bench in 1968 and re-elected in 1976. His current term expires in 1988.

The Hustler letter was written on stationary which contained the names of other judges on the letterhead, and was pictorially reproduced in the magazine. It contained a postscript referring in scatalogical terms to the legality of oral sex. Chief Justice Joe Henry of the state Supreme Court called it gutter language.

Henry, during hearings by the legislative committee, called the letter "a product of a depraved and sick mind." Galbreath apologized at the time for the embarrassment caused the other judges whose names appeared on the letterhead.

Pentagon proposes cutback of military base operations

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon yesterday proposed streamlining the military base structure by closing, cutting back and combining operations at 107 installations from coast to coast to save an estimated $337 million a year.

The plan, already under attack from protesting congressmen, would result in a net reduction of 23,000 jobs - 14,600 military and 8,400 civilian - in 30 states and the District of Columbia.

Because the law requires a complicated series of studies, many of these actions would not take effect for months, and possibly years. Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who has said the military base structure is bigger than required by the size of the armed forces, said the savings could be applied to "higher priority needs, including increased combat effectiveness and readiness."

Much of the thrust of the proposals calls back from a Pentagon drive to trim training costs and eliminate excess military hospitals, on the list for possible closings are Army training centers at Fort Dix, N.J.; Fort Jackson, S.C.; Chicago Air Force Base, Ill.; and Goodfellow Air Force Base, Tex.

The Navy proposed consolidating its recruiting by closing either the Parris Island, S.C., or the San Diego recruitment depot. It also will study whether to shut down the Navy boot training center at San Diego or at Great Lakes, Ill. The Pentagon also earmarked some historic bases for either shutdown or reduction including Ft. Monroe, Va., and San Francisco's Presidio.

Among hospitals targeted for possible closure are Letterman in San Francisco and a naval medical center in New Orleans. The Philadelphia naval hospital would be substantially reduced.

The projected hit of these 30 states would be California, which would lose about 11,720 military and civilian positions. At the other end of the scale is Alabama which would lose only seven personnel, in an Air Force radar station.

With major along installations including 48 obsolete air defense radar stations.

Some states, like Indiana, would gain in the shuffle. With the possible closing of Ft. Sheridan, Ill., the Army Recruiting Command would move to Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., as would the Army Military Personnel Center from Alexandria, Va.

The Carter administration's first attempt at base reductions follows by about two years the Ford administration's move to reorganize 160 bases at an advertised saving of $248 million a year, 1974-76.

"As a replacement for this event," Callahan stated, "we are instituting the 'Greased Pork Chop Contest.' The same teams will compete. We will grease a pork chop in the mud pit at 1:30 on Saturday. We want to be as enthusiastic in celebration of An Tostal weekend as last weekend's audiences."

Student Players schedule performance

An extra performance of Neil Simon's comedy, Come Blow Your Horn, has been scheduled for Friday night in the Nazz. The new schedule of performances is: Friday, April 28, 7 and 10 p.m. - A spokesman for the Student Players said the extra show has administration's permission. "The enthusiastic reception we got from last weekend's audiences," the Student Players' production is sponsored by the Student Union Cultural Arts Commission.

Humane Society pressure prompts event cancellation

"The greased pig contest, as it stands, has been cancelled," Paul B. Callahan, Saturday An Tostal chairman, announced yesterday, "because of pressure from the St. Joe County Humane Society. They threatened to issue a press release condemning the An Tostal event if we went through with it." A new event has been created to replace the contest, he said.

Callahan stated that yesterday he called Mrs. Mamie Brown, the wife of the farmer who is supplying the pig for the contest. Mr. Brown receives the dining hall's unused pigs. Mrs. Brown stated that if the pig was allowed to rest five minutes between each five-minute run, "there would be no way the pig could have been caught."

"The pig, according to Callahan, would weigh about 100 pounds, at least half the weight of anyone short of someone wearing a football uniform," Callahan commented.

"As a replacement for this event," Callahan stated, "we are instituting the 'Greased Pork Chop Contest.' The same teams will compete. We will grease a pork chop in the mud pit at 1:30 on Saturday. We want to be as enthusiastic as we can."" We will also blindfold the contestants," he continued, "so the pork chop will have a fair chance. The teams of three will all have a five-minute time limit to catch the pork chop, and the shortest elapsed time will win dinner for six at the Boar's Head."
ND Students picket abortion clinic

by Bill Scholl

The opening of Women's Pavilion, an abortion clinic in South Bend, has been the source of much controversy in the last two weeks between anti-abortion and pro-abortion groups in the local area.

The Women's Pavilion, located at 425 N. St. Louis Street, across from the emergency room of St. Joseph Hospital, opened April 15 and has been picketed continuously since April 22.

Last Saturday four Notre Dame students took part in the picketing which is being sponsored by the St. Joseph County Right to Life Organization. The students taking part in the protests were freshmen Mary Anne Hughes and Nick Matich, sophomores Christine Leblanc, and junior John Ryan.

According to Ryan, an undergraduated coordinator for the ND-SMC Right to Life Organization, the protest is placing pressure on the clinic and is helping the pro-life movement gain support in the neighborhood surrounding the clinic.

Ryan said he hopes the picketing will help women realize that people do care, and that there are alternatives to abortion. "It's discouraging in a way," Ryan said, referring to the picketing. "I saw two women coming out who had abortions and I noticed that they were very noticeably shaken."

Anita Smithee, a member of the St. Joseph County Right to Life Organization, said that the picketing will continue as long as the clinic remains open.

"We've been to give the women a last minute notice that they don't have to do it," Smithee said.

Marcia Topping, administrator of Women's Pavilion, says she is upset with the picketers and adds that she does not think they do pregnancy testing and offers birth control counseling to both pregnant and non-pregnant women.

Rick LaSalvia, a second year Notre Dame law student and chairman of the ND-SMC Right to Life Organization, does not feel the counseling offered by Women's Pavilion is adequate.

"I am very skeptical of their claim to neutral counseling because of their interests in making a profit through abortions," LaSalvia said.

"I think women are being exploited by counselors whose business it is to make money from abortions," Smithee agrees. "I can't see them trying to talk somebody out of an abortion when they are trying to make money."

Smelser agrees. "I can't see them doing that," Smelser said. "The clinic is not unique to abortion. On the other side of town they are picketing about schools."

"Anyone has a right to voice an opinion, and so far they've been very peaceful," Topping continued. "As long as they do not do anything illegal I don't foresee any attempts by the Women's Pavilion to get them to stop. However, I do think it is unfortunate when a segment of the community tries to control medical ethics for the rest of the community."

According to Topping, the clinic, which is a commercial enterprise, also offers counseling to any woman facing the problem of pregnancy. Topping said the clinic has had any bad effects on the neighborhood. "I do not see them as a nuisance," Topping said.

Marcia Topping, administrator of Women's Pavilion, says she is not upset with the picketers and adds that she does not think they have any bad effects on the neighborhood. "They do not upset with the picketers and adds that she does not think they have any bad effects on the neighborhood."

SELECTING THE PROPER GEAR

The Busch label is where it all begins. Note the snowy, craggy peaks affixed thereto. They are the mountains. Comfort is crucial. If you mountaineer in public, pick a padded bar stool, preferably one that spins (to facilitate admiring the scenery). At home, a comfortable chair or sofa will do. Rule of thumb: if it feels good, and the police don't seem to mind, do it.

First and foremost, you'll need to pop the mountain top. For this task, faithful mountaineers use a church key. Secular mountaineers use a bottle opener. Don't be confused by these antics with semantics. Just remember, the opener is your primary tool. Be true to it and it will be true to you.

Second, choose a glass. Here the options become immense. German steins, hand-blown pilseners, old jelly jars, that cute little Mr. Boffo mug you've had since third grade.

Be adventurous. Experiment. Most mountaineers have a personal preference. You'll develop one too.

Food is next. Proper mountaineering, not to mention proper nutrition, requires a smorgasbord selection of snacks. Some mountaineers have suffered from a potato chip deficiency, a pretzel imbalance or other serious dietary defects. Plan ahead.

Don't just reach for a beer. Head for the mountains.
SAN FRANCISCO [AP] - The cryptic killer Zodiac has broken a four-year silence with a boastful letter suggesting him a movie about himself, and beckoning the detective who has doggedly hunted him for nine years.

"The is Zodiac speaking. I am back with you," said the hand-printed letter received Tuesday by the San Francisco Chronicle. Police said it came from the man they blame for at least six random killings and two kidnappings in the San Francisco Bay area in the late 1960s. It has claimed 37 murders, but police have said they do not believe that figure.

The new letter, which neither claimed nor threatened any new killings, so ruffled homicide inspector Dave Toschi that he grabbed a cigarette and took a few puffs for th first time in three years.

Corporate Responsibility at Notre Dame

By Rosemary Mills
I remember when I was back in high school I fell in love with this girl named Lorraine. She was pretty with deep-set brown eyes, sensitive lips, long brown curly hair, and shy, graceful mannerisms. I hardly knew her and she had a few close friends, so maybe it was my loneliness that filled with her. I never made a move, even though I knew she had her sister walk her to class. One girl I could have handled, but two was too much, so I stood around while she made friends, and when I talked to her I made such a fool of myself that I couldn't even look at her without wincing in embarrassment.

Ah, but she was so pretty that I just had to tell her the secret about her. If I couldn't have her I'd want anybody else. That was the kind of letters confessing my undying devotion and pretending to be the ideal man who waited for her to write back and of course when she didn't I called her on the phone, hanging up in the middle of the call to hear her voice on the other end.

And it wasn't just infatuation or anything like that. I really believed this girl could save me. I believed that all her features were painfully mirrored and I thought that by possessing her I could somehow make myself whole. It was a crazy ridiculous notion but I thought it was love and that maybe I could hold on to it all.

I lost out with Lorraine and as a result of her rejection, I went out with everybody. When you offer someone your heart and soul and are told it's just too bad you don't do something to yourself. It leaves you feeling small and ugly. It makes you stop and think that maybe life isn't worth living and that you should just stop trying.

Maybe I should have tried to be a friend and then go out with Lorraine again. Maybe. It just seems that when you try to be too nice to a girl she takes you for granted and I think it's like slipping through your fingers. And I wish I had two things back, a wish I could do all over again. But wishes don't make it so. And maybe it wasn't love after all but a whole lot of infatuations. There were allusions painfully mirrored and I thought that by possessing her I could somehow make myself whole. It was a crazy ridiculous notion but I thought it was love and that maybe I could hold on to it all.

There are a number of hope and affirmation: "Sweet Jane," "Real Good Time Together," and "Rock and Roll Animal," a caricature of himself. Now he's tried of being the fool, tired of being laughed at, and he has to rock and roll, and no one paid any attention. So in the final section he bears the picture into little pieces and tells us:

Believe me it's just a lie
It's a lie she tells to her friends
For the real song
The real song she won't even admit to herself

Is getting late
A song lots of people know
It's a painful song...

A painful wish...

Reed wants to show us life is futile, but he is contradicted by his passion and ardor for it at every turn. The "painful wish" is for a sterile and rigid environment in which the romantic side of the poet, the self he sees as feminine and weak, can be sheltered and protected. This is why Reed shreds at us to "leave him alone," he's been hurt so many times that he's afraid to even talk to anyone. Yet as the oomchords and strings and something come altogether at the beginning of the song but an anguished plea by a hurt, frightened boy, for understanding and compassion.

In "Gimmie Some Good Times" and "Real Good Time," Reed takes two of his most beautiful and affecting songs and turns them into astonishing and compelling expressions of pain. "Real Good Time" is slowed down until it becomes positively frenetic. Reed sings like one of his deadly, damned. Chords are strummed irregularly and randomly until the song is a parody of one of Reed's most joyless compositions. Suddenly everything pulls together and its 1969 again. There is the start of the "crescendo nihilist heard at the beginning of the song but an anguished plea by a hurt, frightened boy, for understanding and compassion.

The Naz has not always been the snug little cabaret it is today. Those who were in the early 70's when the basement of the Nazz first opened have noticed a change. The basement was much more of a basement, lacking not only the essentials such as arches, lights, and floors, but even a ceiling itself. The performers were mediocre at best. One singer way back then was once known to have played the piano with his fingers snapping and feet tapping. That's how the Nazz used to be.

Welcome ladies and gentlemen to Jazz at the Nazz. Tonight we are fortunate to have with us the Notre Dame Jazz Band and several jazz combos. The announcer is the last production of the Notre Dame-Saint John's 500th anniversary. Their splendid recreation of More's 16th century England and director Reginald Older's outstanding staging has made this an enjoyable evening of theatre.

But staging is always most memorable when the voices of the actors blend so that audience will not have to strain to hear even the smallest of the actors. The play itself is a creation. It is a creation which the audience can follow along with and identify with. The audience is not expected to be a part of the play, but rather to be entertained by it. The play is a creation which is designed to be enjoyed by the audience.

Burghardt, Pelikan to receive honorary degrees at graduation

Fr. Walter J. Burghardt, professor of patristic theology at the University of Notre Dame and Jaroslav Pelikan, Sterling Professor of History and Religious Studies and Dean of the Graduate School, Yale University, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters from Saint Mary's College at its 131st annual commencement, Saturday, May 20.

Ruth C. Clausen, president of the League of Women Voters of the United States, will deliver the commencement address and will receive the degree of Doctor of Humanities.

A member of the League's national board since 1966, Clausen also serves as chairman of the League of Women Voters Education Fund where she played a principal planning and policy-making role in developing the televised presidential debates in 1976.

Burghardt is a research associate at Woodstock Theological Center, Washington, D.C., where he was professor of patristic theology for more than 25 years. He is the editor of Theological Studies and codirector of both Woodstock Papers and Ancient Christian Writers. A former president of the American Theological Society, Burghardt is a member of the Academic Council of the Ecumenical Institute for Advanced Theological Study, Rome, and of the International Papal Theological Commission. He is an editor of The Encyclopedia of Bioethics and a consultant of the International Center of Post-Conciliar Spirituality.

Burghardt received The Maurerological Award for distinguished contribution to Marian theology in 1958 and the Cardinal Spellman Award for outstanding contributions to sacred theology in 1962. He has received honorary degrees from nine other institutions of higher learning including the University of Notre Dame. Burghardt has published articles in more than thirty periodicals and journals and is the author and editor of eight books.

Pelikan, who is a former member of the Saint Mary's College Board of Regents, joined the faculty of Yale University as Titus Street Professor of Ecclesiastical History in 1962. He was acting Dean of the Yale Graduate School from 1973-1974 and director of the Division of Humanities from 1974 to 1979.

Pelikan has been Dean of the Graduate School at Yale since 1975. He is also vice-president of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Among Pelikan's awards are the Albington Award; the Pax Christi Award from Saint John's University, Minnesota; the John Gilmary Shea Prize bestowed by the American Catholic Historical Association; the National Award of the World Street Congress; and the Christian Unity Award of the Assumption Bishops.

Pelikan is the author and editor of numerous scholarly works including the American edition of Luther's Works in 22 volumes. He has received honorary degrees from institutions such as the University of Hamburg, Germany; Yale University, the Catholic University of America, Cce College and Pacific Lutheran University.

INDIANAPOLIS [AP] - More than 4,000 accident and civilian personnel- - of two Army installations could be transferred to Fort Benjamin Harrison here in a plan to reorganize service operations nationwide, the Pentagon announced yesterday.

The decision was part of a proposal by Defense Secretary Harold Brown to close, reduce or consolidate 107 military bases in 30 states and save $337 million a year as a result.

Pentagon officials briefed members of the Indiana congressional delegation on the matter Tuesday and assured them there would be no cutbacks in military operations in the state.

But under the plan, which will be the subject of a months-long feasibility study, the Army's military personnel center in Alexandria, VA, will be relocated at Fort Harrison. The study also will determine whether the activities of the recruiting and command headquarters at Fort Sheridan, IL, also will be shifted here.

The personnel center employs 900 servicemen and 1,935 civilians. Another 864 servicemen and 879 civilians could be affected in the Fort Sheridan relocation.

In the meantime, officials at Fort Harrison are working out the details of such a move, said Major Philip Clifford, a public information officer here.

"We'll be involved all along with people with those two installations to determine what we'll need in the way of office space and facilities," he said. "Right now, we don't have any idea how much room in take or how much construction it'll need."
Mental patient with low IQ ‘competent’ to testify

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - A male patient with an IQ of a nine-year-old is mentally competent to testify against a former New Castle State Hospital attendant accused of sexually abusing him, the State Hospital Employees Appeals Commission ruled yesterday.

However, the commission said another patient, whose mental age is that of a six-year-old, is not allowed to testify when Thomas R. Fiscel makes his bid to be reinstated at the hospital.

Fiscel, 30, and Franklin Robertson, 27, were suspended from their jobs at the hospital two years ago after a female attendant said she saw the men engaging in homosexual activity with patients on their ward.

Hospital superintendent Bernard Wagner said one and possibly two young adult male patients were involved in voluntary sexual activi­ty with the attendants and he called for an official investigation.

The Henry County Grand Jury recently indicted the two men charging them with abuse and molestation.

But the charges were dismissed after the prosecutor said he could find no credible witnesses against them.

Both men were fired following an investigation by Indiana State Police.

Fiscel, who has been unable to find another job, has taken his case to the appeals commission after being denied reinstatement.

Brzezinski off to China

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter has decided he will not send a message to the Brzezinski off to China.

returning to Washington.

ers about his Peking stop, before May 20 to May 23 and then travel Ford, until high-ranking Chinese diplomats recognize.

Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Brzezinski would not be paving the way for improved relations between Washington and Peking.

The White House took pains to say the visit was not a staging post for negotiating on the issues blocking a possible Chinese official recognition.

By name, said such discussions "will include talks on normalizing relations with the Soviet Union and the People's Republic of China are important in their own right," he said.

Powell and other officials stressed that Brzezinski's visit would not signal the start of any official talks between the Carter administration and Beijing.

Travel to Peking will begin Friday, said Mark K. McClellan, a White House aide who coordinates programming for the former president.

Powell said he knew of no plans for Carter to visit China, and that Beijing's decision to send Brzezinski "will be determined in its own way for such a trip.

Carter has maintained a reluctance to visit China, after trips by Richard Nixon, President Gerald R. Ford, until high-ranking Chinese leaders make reciprocal visits.

Brzezinski will visit China from May 20 to May 23 and then travel to Tokyo and Seoul for talks with Japanese and South Korean leaders before his Peking stop.

The only other senior member of the Carter administration to visit mainland China has been Senator Cyrus R. Vance, who traveled to Peking last August.

Powell said that visit was not meant to send a message to the Soviet Union, which is particularly concerned about any indications of a cooling in the U.S.-Soviet relationship between Washington and Peking.

Our relations with the Soviet Union and the Peoples Republic of China are important in their own right," he said.

Powell and other officials stressed that Brzezinski's visit would be made in the spirit of the Shanghai communiqué, a document signed in Shanghai in February 1972 by then-President Nixon, outlining the direction he and Chinese leaders believe the U.S.-Chinese relations would follow.

The communiqué, Powell said, "did not outline a detailed plan for the exchange of communication and consultation," and that by name, said such discussions "will stay in touch through various channels.

The White House took pains to portray the visit as routine, and said Brzezinski was "just another trip," U.S. news reporters would not accompany Brzezinski. Powell said he did not know whether Brzezinski would visit any cities in China other than Peking.

The spokesman said Brzezinski and the Chinese leaders would focus on common strategic con­cerns, among them the Middle East and Asia. One White House aide, who asked not to be identified by name, said such discussions "could help resolve differences and smooth the way to diplomatic recognition.

Professor Peter Geach of the University of Leeds, England, presented the second of three lectures in the inaugural series of the O'Hara Lectures in Philo­sophy of Religion last night in the Calvin H. Scovill Auditorium.

The lectures are sponsored by the Center for Philosophy of Religion and are given every other year by a distinguished scholar. They are named for the former president of Notre Dame. Geach spoke on the concept of truth in Anselm and Aquinas and in Frege and Witt­genstein. The next lecture will be given on Friday, April 28 in the Library Lounge.

Now comes Miller time.
Construction on the new addition to the Engineering Building has been delayed, according to Fr. Jerome Wilson, the Notre Dame physical plant executive administrator.

Wilson stated that the workers experienced "quite severe delays" because of the extreme weather conditions. "We lost at least a month due to the snow and cold weather," he said. Wilson added that the recent spring rain has also hampered work on the project.

The expected completion date of the building is April 1, 1979. Presently, construction is at the point where the upper second floor classrooms and offices are visible. The addition also has two underground levels, where all of the labs will be located. There is still a third upper floor yet to be built. Wilson remarked that even with the delays, the project has not gone over estimated costs. The original estimate of $7 million is still accurate.

Lame Irish bats suspect in setback

It seemed that the St. Mary's softball team was going to have a frustrating week. First, in their scheduled Saturday game against Tri-State, St. Mary's won by forfeit. Then, when Monday's game against Purdue (Calumet) was called due to rain, the team again sat idly by while their frustrations had to build. And build they did, until the Belles released all of their pent up energy against a beleagured Bethel team yesterday, 25-3.

The big inning for the Belles was the third, when Amy Karkiewicz singled, Telena Stokes walked, and Mary Clark belted an in the park home run to put the Belles out in front. 3-0. Diane Klucka walked to continue the rally. Liz Aerts received a fielder's choice knocking in one run. Jerry Plumb being thrown out at home trying to score. After another walk and a single by Sue Schneider, Anne Michel singled, scoring two runs. A walk to Karachiwicz, a single by Stokes, and a fielding error allowing Martin Dietsz to reach base, set up the remainder of the innings nine runs.

A walk to Plum and a fielder's choice to Liz Aerts brought home the last tally of the inning. Diane Klucka pitched three solid innings for the Belles, giving up only two hits, both before she was relieved, and relieved by Plum. Kluckas is credited with the win.

Women's tourney near end

Only five scrappy teams remain out of the original twenty-eight as the Women's Bookstore Tournament is wind down to the nitty-gritty.

"We had a good first half," commented Jetstream's Maggie Lally, "but they simply took it up in the second half and they controlled the board." Only five teams remain in the tournament now. FYB's advanced by virtue of their 21-13 win over The Midnight Raiders. The Ramblin' Notre Dame defeated Susan Young's Team, 21-4 last Tuesday, and thus remain. Helene Gorman's team romped over Bet "LaRocaAMishiana" LaRoca's Team, 21-13 last Monday. Beth Jones' Team also remains, by virtue of their early round 22-20 thriller over the Bean Hayeds. The last team in the fabulous five, the Ride 'Uns, defeated the Crinkle's Christmas Team Tuesday, in advance.

In other action Monday, Marge Meagher's Team defeated The Out Door Lunch Bunch with Munichy A. Jetstream had advanced to their game against Meagher's Team with a 21-13 win over the Dis盘点an's Team.

The final games will be played before the men's semi-final action begins Saturday, and Sunday, the day of the men's finals, The Girls will take on the Jocks in the annual confronntation, replete with boxing gloves for the male athletes.
The Irish soccer team enjoys spring work

by Monte Towle

The Notre Dame soccer team enjoyed a great first season as a varsity open fall unit, compiling a 16-1-1 record against many of the toughest teams from around the Midwest. The Lady Irish have been able to maintain their tournament record of 2-1, but it has been a very good year for the team.

"I have been very pleased with the spring workouts and as the players have done a wonderful job," Hunter points out. "It is important that all of them develop, as well as a physical toughness."

Once the soccer players leave school for the summer break, their soccer training is far from over. As far as Coach Rich Hunter and his players are concerned, the soccer season entails a year round activity. "I expect every player that hopes to stay with the team for the fall, to play with a team back home over the summer," Hunter adds.

In fact, Rich Hunter himself will keep engagements in soccer during the summer months. As he did last year, Hunter will be going to play for two weeks in August. During that time, he plans on testing out for the Polish national team, one that is rated near the top of the soccer world's aspirations.

"Our spring training has also been advantageous because of the opportunities it offers Hunter to continue developing strategy and also work on the basics. We've been working on our air game all spring, especially on the free kicks," Hunter explains. "I've also been teaching the new players our system of play which employs a man-to-man defense."

IN TIMES

The Irish soccer team is off to a hot start. Three win streak has propelled the team towards the top of the National Soccer Coaches Association of America rankings. The team has won all five of their matches by a combined score of 17-2.

"We have a lot of depth in our lineup," Hunter said. "We can play anyone anywhere on the field and still have a good team.

"I expect every player that hopes to stay with the team for the fall, to play with a team back home over the summer," Hunter adds.

Anticipate Drake meet

by Frank LaGrotta
Sports Writer

After Notre Dame's come-from-behind win over top-ranked Marquette on the basketball court, a sportswriter covering the game wrote: "First the Cotton Bowl and now this. It appears that Notre Dame is at its best when they play the best." Those words rang true last Saturday as the Irish giant killers struck again. The seventh-ranked Oklahoma University's outdoor track, site of the 1978 Kansas Relays. The victims: New Mexico, the 1978 Indoor 2-mile national champions and West Texas State, winners of the prestigious Texas Relays. The winners: Bill Allmendinger, Chuck Aragon, Peter Burger and Jay Mirandia - Notre Dame's 2-mile relay team.

"This is definitely our biggest win and it feels great," commented Mirandia who anchored the team and turned in the best time at 1:50.3. "We were in awe of these people coming into the meet and we hoped we could stay close and do the best we could." The best they could do was plenty enough. Individually, Araga ton led off with a 1:51.2 before passing the baton to Burger who finished his leg in 1:52.6. Allmende ger took over, did his work in 1:51.5 and handed the stick to Mirandia. The pity squash patiently waited for his chance. When it came, he hurled himself around the Texas Joe's Komet and New Mexico's Charles Draming coming out of the final turn to win going away. The stopwatch read 7:20.2, both an Oklahoma track and Notre Dame school record. West Texas State finished second and New Mexico came in third.

"It was a great accomplishment," commented Joe Piane, associate director of the Notre Dame track. "However it wasn't a complete surprise. This is only the fourth time these four guys have run together and up to this point they have been gaining experience at each meet. They have improved with each race." Die Piane foresee a national championship in the future? "It's possible," he concludes.

"We'll lose Bill Allmendinger to graduation this year but Mirandia and Berger are Sophomores and Aragon is only a freshman. If they continue to improve the way they have all year and we find someone to take Bill's place then I'd have to think we have a shot at the national title.

There is little time to savor the victory because the foursome will run again this weekend at the Drake Relays in Des Moines, Iowa. The Drake meet; along with Kansas, Penn and Texas Relays, is regarded as one of the top events in the country and Bill Allmendinger thinks: "I am in a good chance to make it two in a row in Des Moines.

"We can definitely win it," the Notre Dame runner from West Babylon, New York emphasizes. "After last Saturday we have the second best time for yards in the country behind Villanova. We're really psyched, we've had good practices this week and we have a lot of confidence in ourselves but we'll just have to wait and see." Allmendinger feels that the atmosphere at Drake will give the Irish an advantage. "I really enjoy the Drake meet," he commented. "The atmosphere at the Relays and I'd have to say that Drake is probably the best as far as competition and running conditions. Those things tend to make a team perform better."

Burger couldn't agree more. "We're going to hit some tough competition in Iowa," the Irish giant killer said. "It's going to be very tough to pick up any points. "I'll bet we can do it again." Since the 2-mile squad, Notre Dame will also enter their 4-mile relay team comprised of Dennis VanderKraats, Steve Welch, Joe Sheehan and Jim Fitch. The distance-medley relay team with Aragon, Mike Miller, Mark Short and Tim Batton is also in the 4-mile leg, Kurt Spiteri the one-quarter, Aragon of course, Mike VanderKraats, and Mirandia anchoring the race. Plans is optimis ing about both events.

"We think we can place in all events. We have a shot at the 2-mile and the medley teams are in good shape and they expect to do well.

And of course there's the 2-mile team.

"We'll have to run as well or better than we did in the Kansas Relays to have a shot at making the list." Those Words rang true last Saturday as the Irish giant killers surprised everyone. They did indeed deserve to make the list.

Short on Sheehan; Leo Latz' left-machine rolling. Montana kept that incredible TILCS machine rolling.

For the Milk Duds, who last year were the surprise team of the tourney, who surprised everyone with their ability to get the ball in the air with reckless abandon. Martin, in his five games, threw up 22, 29, 14 and 13 shots for a grand total of 98, and is indeed the heavy favorite at this point. It was dubbed a classic "grocery" match and revenge was indeed sweet for the Duds. Jim Budde knocked in four more points for the Duds, but it was fair to say that Drake is probably the best team in the country right now.

Airing out the laundry for Larry's Laundrymen, which Brus bruised the boards, hauling down an incredible 19 rebounds, while throwing in nine points of his own in the sparse time he had in the air.

On the losing sideline, Ruffin Reel's Lumbermen, which Brus vs.

the people's choice, 21-17.

"We're going to hit some tough competition in Iowa," the Irish giant killer said. "It's going to be very tough to pick up any points. "I'll bet we can do it again." Since the 2-mile squad, Notre Dame will also enter their 4-mile relay team comprised of Dennis VanderKraats, Steve Welch, Joe Sheehan and Jim Fitch. "We think we can place in all events. We have a shot at the 2-mile and the medley teams are in good shape and they expect to do well.

And of course there's the 2-mile team.

"We'll have to run as well or better than we did in the Kansas Relays to have a shot at making the list." Those Words rang true last Saturday as the Irish giant killers surprised everyone. They did indeed deserve to make the list.

Short on Sheehan; Leo Latz' left-machine rolling. Montana kept that incredible TILCS machine rolling.

For the Milk Duds, who last year were the surprise team of the tourney, who surprised everyone with their ability to get the ball in the air with reckless abandon. Martin, in his five games, threw up 22, 29, 14 and 13 shots for a grand total of 98, and is indeed the heavy favorite at this point. It was dubbed a classic "grocery" match and revenge was indeed sweet for the Duds. Jim Budde knocked in four more points for the Duds, but it was fair to say that Drake is probably the best team in the country right now.

Airing out the laundry for Larry's Laundrymen, which Brus bruised the boards, hauling down an incredible 19 rebounds, while throwing in nine points of his own in the sparse time he had in the air.

On the losing sideline, Ruffin Reel's Lumbermen, which Brus vs.

the people's choice, 21-17.

"We're going to hit some tough competition in Iowa," the Irish giant killer said. "It's going to be very tough to pick up any points. "I'll bet we can do it again." Since the 2-mile squad, Notre Dame will also enter their 4-mile relay team comprised of Dennis VanderKraats, Steve Welch, Joe Sheehan and Jim Fitch. The distance-medley relay team with Aragon, Mike Miller, Mark Short and Tim Batton is also in the 4-mile leg, Kurt Spiteri the one-quarter, Aragon of course, Mike VanderKraats, and Mirandia anchoring the race. Plans is optimis ing about both events.
