LaFortune renovation proceeds despite delay

By Kathleen Connelly
Senior Staff Reporter

Renovation construction in LaFortune Student Center did not take place over the summer as anticipated because of changes in advance planning. Work is now set to begin over the summer, according to Student Body President Andy McKenna.

McKenna said that the renovation has not proceeded as projected because of a lack of money. Former vice-president for student affairs, Patrick Lawless, was occupied with the transition of his office to that of president, Fr. John Van Weelde.

Don't expect major policy changes-O'Meara

By Kathy McEntee
Staff Reporter

Notre Dame should not expect any major changes in policy, according to Dr. O. Timothy O'Meara who was appointed to the position of provost in May. He succeeds Rev. James T. Butpersall who resigned in August, 1977.

O'Meara resigned his position as the chairman of the Provost Review Committee after the committee had submitted its report on candidates for the position for Fr. Theodore Hesburgh, University president in the absence of the president.

O'Meara notes that the provost is also an officer of the University who has a relationship with alumni. Of the officers, the provost is the first in order to serve as acting president in the absence of the president.

According to O'Meara, who was named to the Kenna-endowed chair in mathematics in 1976, the provost also handles those rare disciplinary problems which have not been resolved by the vice-president for Student Affairs or the dean of one of the colleges.

A Notre Dame faculty member since 1962, O'Meara views the "thrust of the University's current growth to be in the area of research. "This does not just mean

Bro. Kieran Ryan, assistant vice president for business affairs, is now in charge of the renovation. McKenna commented that Ryan has been working on the project throughout the summer. In conjunction with the renovation, several construction firms have been called in to discuss the plans for the university, personnel, several construction firms, and he has drafted a plan a timetable for extensive remodeling of the building to be finished by January 1 of this year.

Several other points of the plan were completed over the summer. The exhibit in the DeWeyle room was moved to a new location in the same room. In addition, glass double doors were installed in the room to increase accessibility to the Huddle area.

Also completed during the summer was the construction of a stairway leading from Huddle management offices to the basement, a new lounge for female Huddle employees and a dumbwaiter between the first floor and the basement.

The dumbwaiter was installed to service a room which will be the kitchen for a restaurant tentatively planned for the basement of the student center. A freezer, and another kitchen e equipment have been ordered for that purpose.

McKenna hopes to begin a fully developed food service in the basement to make LaFortune into a student social center.

However, "alcoholic beverages will not be served in the remodeled area because, according to state law, alcohol cannot be served within 200 feet of a school building," McKenna stressed. He added that this would continue to [cont. on page 5]

Room and board up $50

By Dave Rambach
Senior Staff Reporter

Notre Dame students are paying $50 more to live and learn under the golden dome this year and can expect annual price hikes of similar magnitude for the foreseeable future.

Tuition has risen $300, from $1,460 to $1,760, while a $50 increase raised room and board to $3,480 to $3,780, while a $50 raise increased room and board to $6,400. Total on-campus expenses exceed $10,000 for the first time in the school's history.

As shown in the accompanying graph, most of the increase was from the University's budget for 1977-78.

The $350 hike represents a 7.3 percent increase in on-campus costs, which Mason described as "Laura, his assistant vice president for Public Relations, described this as "remarkable" and said "that's one" letter of criticism had been received from the department.

Federal safety agency to decide on recall of 9 million Fords

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal safety agency warned nine million Ford owners yesterday that their vehicles might have a lethal transmission. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said it is investigating consumer allegations that the transmission in its vehicles may fail after 200,000 miles. The agency will decide soon whether to order a recall, as it did on another transmission problem last year.

Grocery prices decline

The first decline in grocery prices in a year gave consumers some relief from inflation in July as overall consumer prices increased just 0.5 percent, the smallest gain this year, the government reported yesterday. Grocery prices fell by 0.4 percent in July, following average monthly increases of 1.5 percent during the first half of the year. The improvement was chiefly due to lower prices for beef, down 2.1 percent, and pork, down 4 percent.

An alumna of Notre Dame's Religious Leaders Program, Frances Constance Gaynor, has been named its new executive director by Fr. John J. Egan, director of the Center for Pastoral and Social Ministry.

An adjacent program of the Center for Religious Leaders Program was started in 1972 by Egan to provide a religious and personal renewal for men and women entering religious vocations. It offers an opportunity for study and reflection in an academic atmosphere but without the pressure of working for a degree.

Gaynor, whose appointment is effective immediately, directed Peggy Roach, who has directed the program since 1976 and will continue to serve as administrative assistant to Egan.

A charismatic social worker by training, Gaynor was for 15 years administrator in child welfare agencies in New York City. In 1976, she resigned her position as executive director of the YWCA of Greater New York and was named Radcliffe's director of religious leaders program with 21 new participants this fall.

Student Union plans busy semester

by Tim Sullivan
Staff Reporter

Student Union (SU) commissions have planned fall semester activities ranging from plays to a plant sale, according to Bill Roche, SU director.

The Cultural Arts Commission will sponsor the Midwest Blues Festival on Nov. 3 and 4, and a production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," on Nov. 10 and 11.

Also on Nov. 8, William Windom will return to Notre Dame in a production of "Thurber II," a one-man play based on the life and works of James Thurber.

The Arts Commission will continue to sponsor the Isis Gallery in the Old Fieldhouse.

The Arts Commission will sponsor a program on space exploration on Sept. 2 and 3 and "Papillion" on Sept. 7 and 8. "Julia" will play Sept. 16 and 17, and "One on One" is scheduled on Sept. 11 and 12. Members of the Washington, D.C., Assassinations Bureau will be featured on Oct. 10. Lecture dates are as yet unspecified for Timothy Leary and rock critic Henry Edwards.

A program on the Star of Bethlehem will be offered before Christmas break.

The Service Commission will plan a program on the life of James Thurber.

McKenna sets priorities

SBP outlines year's objectives

by Kevin Richardson
Staff Reporter

Student Body President Andy McKenna called the overcrowding situation his "biggest concern" and that it will be his top priority. "We are currently examining the problem very carefully," McKenna noted.

"We are drawing up a proposal for the Board of Trustees meeting in October."

"We are going to define overcrowding as well as present some solutions to the problem," McKenna said. Though overcrowding has been a problem at Notre Dame in the past, McKenna was quick to observe that "the role a student's room plays in campus life has changed drastically in the past 10 years and this change needs to be considered in any proposal." Connected with the problem of overcrowding, McKenna brought up the problem of social space and said, "We want to make sure that any solution to overcrowding does not occur at the expense of social space."

"His list of priorities consists of ten other major points including developing a course evaluation booklet and a career/guidance/counseling center, as well as continued followup on social space proposals."

Along with these goals, McKenna listed the development of a restaurant in the basement of LaFortune with a "pizza parlor type atmosphere," the establishment of a Security Advisory Panel and a social life analysis as part of the list of priorities.

"We also want to get laundry machines on the north quad," McKenna said. Rounding the list are proposals to put a student record store in LaFortune, projects to help develop student awareness in regards to the Third World Conference and actions to help strengthen ties with Saint Mary's student government.

Discussing improvements in student government, McKenna said he appointed an Executive Coordinator to help in the administration of student government objectives. Jamboree planning will serve in this post and will assist in the coordination of student government activities.

"To get more students involved in student government, McKenna said he hopes to utilize the task force idea. "It gives students a chance to participate without having to assume cabinet level amounts of responsibility." Noting that he will continue to act in his traditional capacities in regards to the Campus Life Council, Board of Commissioners and other campus activities, McKenna said that Student Body Vice President Mike Roohan will "tackle the priorities list in a daily basis."

"It is our belief that division of responsibilities will lead to a more effective student government," McKenna said. "Mike and I will work closely together, as well as with all of student government's objectives."

Blackwell assumes position to help minority students

The appointment of Edward Blackwell to the newly created position of director of minority student affairs at Notre Dame has been announced by Fr. John L. Van沃尔德, vice president for student affairs.

Blackwell has served as assistant to the dean and director of the Higher Education Opportunity Program for Hobart and William Smith Colleges, Geneva, N.Y., during the last four years.

A native of Buffalo, N.Y., he received his B.A. from Canisius College.

The new position was created to provide academic, social and career counseling for minority students, to consult and assist in Notre Dame's knowledge and awareness of minority needs.

The director will also assist in the University's programs of minority student enrollment, fund raising endeavors for scholarships and other projects, and act as liaison between the students and the office of student affairs.

Faculty earns promotions

Seven members of Notre Dame's faculty have been advanced to emeriti rank, and promotions were announced for 39 others at the annual President's Dinner last May. Eleven persons were honored for 25 years of service.

The retiring faculty members have an average of 36 years of service to the University and a total accumulation of 251 years. The dinner host, Fr. Theodore M. Hesburgh, 57, commended them for their loyalty and dedication to the teaching profession a career that extended in two cases more than four decades.

New emeriti are Fr. Paul E. Brichner, professor of English, 33 years; Fr. Matthew A. Flinn, professor of history, 41 years; Bro. Adolph M. Moreia, associate professor of physics, 35 years; Blaise A. J. Peretti, professor of metallurgical engineering and materials science, 32 years; Fr. Charles E. Shreder, professor of theology, 34 years; Leonard F. Sommer, associate professor of speech and drama, 33 years, and Thomas J. Stritch, professor of American Studies, 32 years.

Advanced to the rank of professor from associate professor were Jaime Bellaalta, architecture; William E. Biles, aerospace and mechanical engineering; Brian Cramlish, architecture; James T. Cushing, physics; Jose Fubini, Barbara Deduc, sociology and anthropology; Cornelius F. Delaney, philosophy; Alan Dowty, government and international studies; Kennedy Featherstone, architecture; Alan Howard, mathematics; John J. Knarr, chemistry; John R. Lloyd, aerospace and mechanical engineering; Eugene R. Marshalek, biology; Tang Thi Thanh Trai Le, chemistry; Rodolpho Sandoval, Law School, and Mary Katherine Tillman, general program of liberal studies.

Promoted to the rank of assistant professor were Donald F. Castro, English; Philip E. Devenish, theology; Linda C. Ferguson, general program of liberal studies; James F. Gaertner, accounting, and Kenneth R. Thompson, management.

Other promotions include: Msgr. John J. Egan, Center for Pastoral and Social Ministry, professional specialist; Roland B. Smith, Jr., Institute for Urban Affairs, associate professional specialist; Mathilda B. O'Bryant, librarian; Bro. William F. Drury, associate librarian, and Patrick J. Max, assistant librarian.

Honored for 25 years of service were Frederick J. Crosson, professor of philosophy; John T. Croteau, professor emeritus of economics; Fr. Arthur S. Harvey, administrative assistant to the executive vice president; Emil T. Hofman, professor of chemistry; Robert A. Leader, professor of art; L. Franklin Long, librarian; Fr. Michael J. Murphy, associate professor of earth sciences; Robert F. O'Brien, associate professor of music; Frederick B. Pike, professor of history; Robert J. Waddick, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Letters, and Richard D. Wilkimm, director of placement bureau.

Donor grants

new hall funds

by Laura Lainmore

Staff Reporter

Funds for a new residence hall, designed to accommodate a projected increase in the enrollment of women at Notre Dame, have been donated to the University by a presently anonymous donor.

According to Sr. John Miriam Jones, assistant provost, the substantial donation was given because of the donor's "great deal of loyalty and love for Notre Dame."

The possibility of a tower is under discussion, although no decision on the design has been reached as yet. The planning is presently centering on the finances of construction. Although no building dates have been set, the new dorm may be completed within three years.

Jones, with her Advisory Council for Women Students, has submitted a recommendation regarding social space in the new building, asking that it be used to help alleviate the shortage existing on campus brought out in the Committee on Coordination's report.

mile Fun Run

The Notre Dame Marathon Society will sponsor a one-mile Fun Run at 6:50 p.m. tonight beginning at the steps of the Administration Building. The program is designed to give Notre Dame and Saint Mary's joggers and runners the opportunity to meet and discuss running plans.

The club was organized this past summer by Prof. Kenneth Featherstone of the University's architecture department and a group of interested students.

Swartz, economics; Fr. Robert L. Wilken, theology, and Stephen T. Worland, economics.

Receiving tenure were Joseph F. Bauer, Charles F. Critchfield and Peter W. Thurston, all of the Law School, and A. Murty Kanury, aerospace and mechanical engineering.

New associate professors, promoted from assistant professor, are Esmee C. Bellaalta, architecture; Alexander J. Hahn, mathematics; J. William Hunt, modern and classical languages; Fr. C. Lincoln Johnson, sociology and anthropology; Charles F. Kulp, Jr., microbiology; Tang Thi Thanh Trai Le, Law School; Thomas L. Nowak, chemistry; Rodolpho Sandoval, Law School, and Mary Katherine Tillman, general program of liberal studies.

Promoted to the rank of assistant professor were Donald F. Castro, English; Philip E. Devenish, theology; Linda C. Ferguson, general program of liberal studies; James F. Gaertner, accounting, and Kenneth R. Thompson, management.

be the case even if the legal drinking age in Indiana were to be lowered to 18 or 19, since LaFortune itself is considered a school building.

The idea of a restaurant will not be implemented until all other renovation upsurges are completed. The couches will be removed from the lobby and replaced with butcherblock tables and chairs which are expected to arrive shortly. The couches will then be partitioned into smaller areas.

Furnishings from the alcoves off the ballroom have been moved to newly created social space in some of the residence halls on campus. McKenna quoted Ryan as saying that the tables and chairs in the lobby would have a great impact on the use of the building. Ryan hopes that, owing to the nature of the equipment, the atmosphere of LaFortune will be that of a social place for meeting people instead of a study place.

The most striking remodeling is planned for the Huddle area. According to McKenna, the Huddle will be almost completely gutted and new equipment will be installed. In addition, the room presently serving as an eating area will be converted into a delicatessen where students can buy meat, cheeses and similar items.

Huddle renovation will begin the week of final exams and is scheduled to be completed around January 12. The Huddle will be closed during that time, but McKenna said that arrangements are being made to keep the pay cafeteria in the South Dining Hall open until midnight during that week.

The project has a budget of $400,000. The LaFortune family donated $350,000 of this amount and $50,000, also donated by the LaFortune family, is left over from the last LaFortune renovation.

Welcome Week continued last night with an outdoor concert by Appalosa between the two Towers. Other activities highlighting the affair will include a double-featured movie ("Young Frankenstein" and "Sleeper" tonight), class picnics and a concert Friday on the South Quad. [Photo by Mark Perry]

The prognosis for the Colts is murky. Can Washington take Mitchell’s place? If the answer to this question is yes, then the Colts should be in the fight for the AFC East crown. MIAMI DOLPHINS: The Dolphins have been the hardest hit by injuries this pre-season. A. J. Duhe and Bob Baumhower both out for extended periods of time. That is the heart of the defensive line. Bob Grate, the key to the offense, is out for at least four weeks, and possibly the whole season with torn ligaments in his knee. That just about puts the season down the drain. Except for the fact that the Dolphins have Don Shula. Without question, Shula has been the best coach in the NFL over the last four seasons. He has rebuilt the Miami team without having terrible records. He may just have something up his sleeve for this year.

Don Strock will be the QB barring last minute changes. New RB Del Williams should add punch to the running game, which was above average to begin with. Nat Moore is a fine wide receiver and Andre Tillman is becoming a good light end. The offense is not quite the same as it was in the glory days of the Dolphins, but it is still quite good in both football.

Defensively, the Dolphins strength is at linebacker. Kim Bokhorst is almost there and the acquisition of Don Young, but Shula felt sure enough about it to trade Vern Roper to the 49ers for all of the Williams trade. If the defense is as good as Shula statements, it must be found by Duhe and Baumhower.

The Dolphins will be competitive, but they really must be looking forward to next year. NEW YORK JETS-Coach Walt Michaels is entering his second year as Jet head man and the team seems to be improving. Richards took off a close to 400 yard passing game last year against the Raiders. That may be a portent of things to come. Receivers Wesley Walker and Jerome Barkum are the main ingredients in the aerial show. The line is anchored by youngsters Marvin Powell and Chris Ward. Within a few short years the Jets may have the best set of tackles in the game. The Jets running game needs to improve.

Michaels is installing the 3-4 defense and most of the players are young and untested. linebacker Greg Butte is the star of the defense. Burgess Owens is the best of an average, but still improving, secondary. The Jets are stacked with one of the toughest schedules in football. This is a better Jet team than last year, but the schedule is too tough to expect much this year.

BUFFALO BILLS: There is no more Juice in Buffalo, and there may be no more fans there either. Chuck Knox has moved to upper New York state from Los Angeles and the weather in Buffalo may be as bad as the team will be. Terry Miller tries to fill O.J.'s shoes. The rest of the defense is QB Joe Ferguson and WR Bob Chandler. The old offensive line is still there and will obviously be sold to block for ordinary running backs than it is for block to Simpson. The Bills defense has been poor for years and it will remain so for a few more years. The star of the line is Anthony Mitchell.

Irish coaches encouraged: face numbers situation

by Frank LaGiovanna

While most of Notre Dame's returning sons and daughters spent the summer partying and partying, Dan Devine's Fighting Irish took to the field on Saturday afternoon for a controlled scrimmage. The Blue team outscored the White, 41-14, and most of the starters played in the 40-5,7-2, but the coaches found the day's activity encouraging.

Today was the first real test for the wunderkind in Notre Dame's defense, according to Devine. "They realized that their performance was going to be evaluated, especially with this year's numbers situation.

The "numbers situation" that Devine referred to causing much concern among college football coaches. Devine explained the implications of this to the Irish: "Every team has been on the 1978 football season.

"Notre Dame does not take away a player for less than $30,000. That's a lot of money, and it's a lot more than many other schools. The number of players playing between the lines and on the first string is the lowest point since World War II."

With the roster set at 95 players avoiding injuries will be doubly important to the Irish. "The roster is pretty healthy," commented linebacker coach George Kelly. "A lot of our players sit out Saturday's workout, but we have a couple of others who are going to have to work hard and there is improvement. We're probably won't until the season gets underway. We're working hard and there is improvement. It's going to be a tough season."

"It's really difficult for me to say what we'll be," Yonto反射ive.

"If we've come out of the gate the way we did last year, we've improved a lot. We have a solid defense but they can generate little offense.

Our defensive line and linebackers are as good as any unit in the league. Brad Van Pelt has locked up the All-NFC spot at outside linebacker each of the past two seasons and he's just 27. Middle linebacker Harry Carson is still around at fullback, but he had only one good game last season."

``That's a good way to start any season."
