John Paul I assumes Church leadership

VATICAN CITY [AP] - Pope John Paul I assumed the throne of St. Peter and leadership of the world's 700 million Roman Catholic yesterday in solemn, outdoor ritual marked by the simplicity already a hallmark of his papacy.

Breaking more than 1,000 years of tradition, the 85-year-old pontiff donned a simple white wool stole as he rode his silver car in procession around the square as the shepherd of his flock and concelebrated his inaugural Mass with the College of Cardinals.

He refused to be crowned with the traditional beehive shaped papal tiara or be carried by a dozen footmen to the ceremony in the swaying portable throne, as past popes had done.

Like his predecessor Pope Paul VI, he chose to have his installation at St. Peter's Square, following a procession of 104 cardinals. They emerged to the strains of a choir chanting in Latin, "Veni, Creator Spiritus," "Come, Holy Spirit."

The new pope waved to the crowd of about 250,000 in the sun-baked square and blessed them, making the sign of the cross with his hands. Before him were gathered a throng of dignitaries including kings, queens, princes and presidents, and a multitude of pilgrims and tourists. John Paul wore a golden miter and a simple gold vestment. He carried his crozier, the staff symbolizing his pastoral function.

The crowds applauded as he took his seat on the four-foot-high velvet-covered papal throne.

The chair had no papal canopy over it, in keeping with the pattern of simplicity initiated by the new pope since his election Aug. 26 by the College of Cardinals.

Italian Cardinal Pericle Felici, dean of the cardinal deacons, then placed on the pope's shoulders the simple iron staff, walked into St. Peter's and leadership of the church, the men who elected him one of the shortest conclaves in recent history.

The new pope began the ceremony with prayers inside the basilica at the Altar of Confession, built atop what is thought to be the tomb of St. Peter, the first pope.

The five dorms renovated were the Notre Dame Student Government submitted a proposal estimating the cost of the alterations at $9,000.

Completed except for carpeting, according to Fraatz.

Due to the fact that in some dorms the structure of the buildings had to be altered, the cost rose greatly above initial estimates. The final figures, which will be released early next week, are in the range of $38,000, according to Vince Fraatz, University engineer. "Edmund Joyce, assistant vice-president of Business Affairs, approved a new estimate of $15,000 about five weeks ago to help cover the rise in cost. Fraatz commented on the new estimate, "Fr. Joyce has been very considerate about the whole deal."

In Sorin, structural interference also presented a problem. The lounge constructed by renovating three rooms on the first floor entailed the knocking down and replastering of walls. One such wall formed part of the former room of the founder of the Law School.

According to Bro. Dave Porter, rector of Sorin, "Not enough money was budgeted so the University had to go into reserve funds to make the additions.

When asked what progress has been made in the five halls, Fraatz responded, "All the halls are completed except for carpeting which will take about another six weeks."

"The reason for this delay was the difficulty in contacting the contractors over summer vacation, according to Fraatz."

Financial problems accompany dorm social space renovations

by Jodie McCormack

Over the summer renovations in five dorms on campus were begun to help increase social space. Financial problems arose when the actual expenditures greatly exceeded the original estimates.

The five dorms renovated were Sorin, Moessmer, Pangborn, Morrissey and Howard. On March 17 the Notre Dame Student Government submitted a proposal estimating the cost of the alterations at $9,000.

The final cost of the lounge, study lobby, and conference room constructed rose to $18,000. Fraatz explained, "Due to the wall bearings we had to do extra work."

Quake shakes Germany

[AP] The strongest earthquake ever recorded in Germany shook parts of this and four neighboring countries early yesterday, damaging homes and a historic castle but causing few injuries. There were no reports of deaths. The quake, was measured by seismological stations in France and West Germany at between 5 and 7.2 on the Richter scale. The low casualty toll appeared to stem from the fact that the quake is focused in a thinly populated region of small, mountain villages.

Who gets drunker drunker?

INDIANAPOLIS [AP] Responsibility for crimes involving drunk individuals extends beyond the incident incident right back to the bar where they were served, state officials say. And under a new program, State excise authorities and police will join forces to trace accidents back to establishments where liquor is sold to intoxicated persons and hold the owners liable for the actions of their customers. Indiana will eventually reach a point where everyone, barkeeps and hosts of private parties alike, will be held liable for the actions of an intoxicated person of any age.

Egypt: Israel summit to open

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration is shying away from calling this week's Middle East summit a last chance for peace in the embattled region, but officials warn privately of serious consequences if the Camp David meeting fails.

Yet as Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin prepare to sit down tomorrow for an unprecedented retreat in the Maryland mountains, neither side has given any assurance that a new and more fruitful effort will succeed.

Administration officials, who declined to be named in interviews that unless the conference keeps the peace process alive, there could be an Arab summit conference which could lead to another oil embargo and a dangerous shift of forces in the region.

In Egypt, Sadat said during the weekend he considers the conference "a turning point" in Middle East history. And Begin, in an Israeli radio address, called the meetings "very important," although he said he did not consider it a final chance for peace.

The Arab leader, who left for New York City on Sunday, said he was going to Camp David with "a maximum of goodwill and an open mind."

The administration sources say the United States and Israel are prepared to call the summit a success if it produces merely an agreement to keep the negotiations going.

Sadat, however, is under increasing heavy pressure to win some major concessions from Israel or abandon his peace initiative. He may not be able to weather those pressures any longer if he brings no prizes back from Camp David.

Sadat's trip to Jerusalem, which launched his peace initiative last November, has been bitterly criticized by radical Arab states such as Syria, Iraq and Libya. A few of the most conservative pro-western Arab governments have supported him while Saudi Arabia, the religious and financial leader of the Arab world, has remained publicly neutral.

But Saudi Crown Prince Fahd's attitude became increasingly harsh in recent months. In late July, Fahd, according to sources, told Sadat it was time to abandon his peace initiative because of Israeli intransigence. The sources said Fahd was trying to arrange a summit meeting of Arab leaders to restore unity among them.

At that point, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance went to the Middle East with his summit proposal.
Sadat quickly accepted the invitation, hoping that the United States would put forward its own peace plan and pressure Israel to accept it.

American diplomat Alfred Atherton visited Fahd and Jordan's King Hussein, and managed to win both leaders' endorsements of the summit. But the Saudis made it plain they regarded Camp David as the last chance.

Textured map of Notre Dame city's only blind faculty member, Stephen J. Rogers, professor in the General Program of Liberal Studies, in choosing materials which could be readily differentiated by touch. Rogers' map utilizes 18 different materials, such as fine grained sandpaper, rubber car matting, fresh screen, foam rubber, and electrical wire.

At the suggestion of the University's Committee for the Physically Handicapped, a texture consultant used on the special project last spring and spent two months researching the problem and designing and constructing the map.

Rogers consulted with Notre Dame's only blind faculty member, Stephen J. Rogers, professor in the General Program of Liberal Studies, in choosing materials which could be readily differentiated by touch.

Five different types of campus buildings - academic, residential, religious, support and athletic - are distinct from vehicular drives indicated by small nail heads. Walkways made of electrical wire are distinct from vehicular drives on campus made of a thicker artists' tape.

Rogers plans to make a tape recording to guide new students and visitors in exploring the map. He wants to record characteristic sounds of different campus spots - basements on the roads, bells near Sacred Heart Church, ducks near the lakes - to further help students orient themselves.

No Divorce for Singles

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Being a married man, I always believed that single people living together had the best of both worlds. Whenever I met someone in a leisure suit with a gold chain around his neck and a beautiful blonde as his arm, whom I introduced to everyone as his “roommate,” I always felt I was wild with envy.

But things are tough even for unmarried couples — tougher in some ways. I discovered this the other day when Harlequin came to see me without an appointment. Harlequin is 35 years old and until his visit I always believed he had the perfect setup. His “roomie” was a sweet named Saralee, and they shared a lovely apartment overlooking the Potomac. They had a pet dog named “Pothead,” and the thing they both bragged to me about was that they had all the benefits of being married, without any of the hassles. That’s the past I envied the most.

Therefore, when Harlequin told me what he came to see me about I was truly shocked.

“I want to break up with Saralee,” he said.

“That’s too bad. But what’s the problem?”

“I don’t know how to go about it.”

“You just tell her, I guess.”

“That’s easy for you to say.”

Harlequin said, “You’re married and you want to break up with your wife?”

He’s married? I didn’t know.

“Of course we did. All singles say the same thing. But after you live together for three years, the vows don’t mean anything. The one who is rejected acts worse than the victim of a divorce.”

“I’m not mad,” I said, “I thought the singles life was all cream and strawberries.”

“I know, but it’s too late. You’re married,” Harlequin said, “and don’t think you can break up with her.”

“Who’s married?”

Harlequin said, “Her name was Rosemary.”

“Once you’re married you can’t look for another person,” he said, “unless you want to get married to another person.”

“Are you sure?”

“Don’t you know that divorce?”

“I don’t.”

“Go to Harlequin,” Harlequin said, “He’s a divorce lawyer.”

“You mean I can’t get a divorce?”

Harlequin said, “That’s it.”

“Who do I call, Rosemary?”

“Call Rosemary,” Harlequin said, “Get married and then have a baby.”

“Looks good to me.”

“Right,” Harlequin said, “But it’s too late.”

Migrant workers strike; defy deadline to move

BELMONT, Ohio (AP) — With the tomato-picking season reaching its peak, striking migrant workers vowed yesterday to defy a Labor Day deadline to vacate a four-square-mile town where they are being fed and sheltered.

Growers, meanwhile, said they would mount a court today to dramatize their opposition to strike leaders who have been urging migrants for 11 days to leave northwest Ohio tomato fields and set up a camp.

Strike leaders claim some 1,500 migrants are refusing to pick tomatoes in protest of low wages. The leaders say hundreds more already have left Ohio.

The dispute has turned violent at times, with pickets arrested, strikers sprayed with pesticide, and a cross burned near the 15-by-20-foot tent that has been home to between 100 and 150 strikers for up to 11 days.

Leaders of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee said they will ask a judge tomorrow to block the eviction notice issued by William L. Kelley, their landlord and also the mayor of this small farming town.

Kelley, who said he was pressured into evicting the strikers by anonymous telephone calls, said he will also take the matter before a judge tomorrow.

"It's going to be tied up in the courts for a couple of weeks at most," said Kelley, acknowledging that the peak of the tomato harvest would be over by then.

Putnam County Sheriff Bob Buelter estimated that one-fourth of the 8,000 migrants who came to his county have left because of the strike. Farmers, however, say they have enough workers remaining to harvest Ohio's multi-million dollar tomato crop.

California's.

"The farmers don't have a problem with the true laborers," said Louis Klassen, spokesman for area growers. "Our problem is with these outside agitators who are trying to separate the farmers from their laborers."

Baldemar Velasquez, 31, who attended high school and college in this area and founded the strike group 11 years ago, said the migrants want a 60-cent hike in their current hourly wage of $2.65 and 10 cents more than the 25 cents they get for each three-pound hamper of tomatoes they pick.

In addition, Velasquez said the migrants want to become a third party in annual contract negotiations between growers and the large canneries. The canneries set the prices which allow the growers to pay their labor.

One producer that is a primary target of the strike, Libby McNell & Libby Inc., has not raised prices to farmers in three years, and the growers say meeting the laborers' demands might not be better than break even on this year's crop.

Buchanan needs assistance

Volunteers are needed to assist Jim Buchanan, 74, who severely injured his spinal column in a recent accident.

Buchanan, of 1346 Bissell, off Eddy St., had previously lost his left arm in another accident. He must be helped into a brace three to four times each week.

Anyone interested in volunteering to help Buchanan can call Jack Foley at 1535 or get in touch with Volunteer Headquarters.

Fire alarm installation proceeds

Eight Notre Dame dorms have been earmarked for the installation of fire alarm systems.

The dorms—Lvens, Howard, Greer-Phillips, Dillon, Alumni, Farley, Zaiden, and Cavassa—are the last residence halls to be equipped with fire alarms, according to Bro. Boreomoe Malley, Notre Dame fire chief. They represent the final stage in the installation on campus, he said.

The systems are similar to those already in operation in other campus buildings, and are programmed to alert both the Notre Dame fire station and the South Bend fire department simultaneously. Pull stations are located on each floor of the buildings.

The $40,000 program was begun during the summer and work is currently progressing at Lyons Hall, Malley stated. Even the youngest of the dorms,

Farley, was built in 1937, at a time when fire alarm systems had not yet come into common use, Malley explained. He also pointed out that the danger of fire at the time of the halls' construction was much less than it is now.

"It's not the buildings...it's what students bring in that causes the trouble," Malley said, pointing out that all the buildings were basically fire resistant. Some students "put enough in their rooms to cremate themselves," the fire chief said.

Malley, who has been on fire duty for 39 years, stressed that the system is being installed now because of the growing fire danger posed by the presence of paneling, lofts and overstuffed furniture in the rooms.

Last year he had two (dorm) fires...they were the first bad ones in years," explained Malley, who pointed to a recent fire at Providence University which killed 10 co-eds as an example of the danger.

Malley also expressed concern over the recent rash of false alarm calls and asked students not to "cry wolf" with the new system because, as Malley put it, "some day the wolf will come."

John Paul I assumes leadership

Standing by were an estimated 10,000 security men in the square and sharpshooters posted on nearby rooftops, sent by the Italian government to protect the dignitaries and spectators from any possible terrorist attack.

Before the ceremony began at 6 p.m., noon EOT, police dispersed a crowd of leftist demonstrators gathered near Castel San Angelo, five blocks from the Vatican.

They were protesting the presence of Argentine strong man Videla. Police picked up 30 youths for questioning.

Another group of demonstrators threw firebombs at cars parked near Premier Giulio Andreotti's residence near Piazza Navona, across the Tiber River from the Vatican.

Police sealed off all streets leading to the Vatican, blocking the streets with armored cars. Helicopters buzzed overhead to check out the crowds.

Police swept the city before the ceremony, inspecting trash cans and mail boxes, anywhere bombs could be hidden.

The ceremony was beamed live to 48 countries in North and South America, Western Europe, Africa, Asia and Australia.

Earlier in the day when he gave his weekly papal blessing from his window, the pope drew a parallel between himself and seventh century Pope Gregory I, who asked for a "life saver" to help him from sinking while ruling the Roman Catholic Church.

All-Opponent Team

The fourth USC player on the All-Irish Opponent team, Dennis Johnson will be called on to back signals for an inexperienced squad. Johnson garnered 105 tackles last year earning All-West honors.

Tom Forristall is the only legitimate American candidate on a weak Air Force squad. By season’s end Forristall should be the all-time leading Falcon tackler. In the last two years he has been on 347 snaps including 25 tackles against the Irish.

DEFEENSIVE BACK - Tom Graves has been plagued by injuries during his three years at MU, but he can remain healthy in 1978, he should rank as one of the top college defenders. At 6-1, 215 pounds, Graves has the size and speed to handle big men.

Jeff Delaney proved he is a tough competitor last year as ND struggled against Pitt’s stingy defense. The Bear’s strong tackling is key to stopping 12 career interceptions, a statistic the Irish quarterbacks will keep back in the back of their minds.

Roland James earned All-SEC honors in his sophomore season as he became Tennessee’s second leading tackler. This spring led his team in interceptions with six and added four fumble recoveries, enough to earn him All-Big 8 laurels.

SPECIALISTS - Navy’s Phil McCray is a threat any time he gets under a punt as he finished third in the nation in that department in 1977 (13.5 yds. per return). Also an excellent receiver, McCray soared Navy’s only TD versus the Irish last year.

Missouri’s Leo Lewis has led the Big 8 in punt return for the past two years. Lewis is also a long ball threat at his wide receiver position.

Everyone was well under way, with the trip created over the summer. Secretary Herb Gold announced the fall schedule, with the first game slated for September 16 at Ball State, with the home opener against Michigan the following weekend.

President Rumsfeld announced that plans for the spring trip were well underway, with the trip scheduled for March 11-24. Several fund raising activities were also discussed.

Practices have begun and will be held every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 4:15 behind Stephon Center. Anyone interested in the club, regardless of experience is invited to come out.

Off-campus activities tonight

A meeting for all those interested in working with off-campus activities will be held today at 3 p.m. in the Student Government office.

The purpose of the meeting is to coordinate off-campus activities make plans for upcoming events.

Persons planning to attend the meeting should leave their names, addresses and phone numbers with the Student Government secretary or with Mrs. Fitzpatrick at 233-490 (evenings).
The Irish have the privilege of facing two of the best this year in shape for his senior campaign. To make that read All-American.

If it wasn't for the Irish's Dave Huffman, Rob Shaw would be team nightmares since the days of Tony Dorsett. Carroll earned second cherished pro prospect. As he towers at 6-7, 280 pounds. Munoz, an All-West performer is a sit out last season, the 6-4, 242 pound Wolverine would be one of the position. Kellen Winslow will bring his 6-6, 240 pound frame to South Bend this Saturday. An All-Big 8 selection in 1977, Winslow grabbed 25 passes including one touchdown for the Blue team last week as Domini to corral a football and underwent surgery on Friday. "The loss of Domini in virtually a irish wing back Tom Domini became Notre Dame's first major casualty as he tore cartilage and underwent surgery last month. non-contact injury is just on of those things that can happen," continued Devine. Without Domini's services the Irish are virtually bare at the wingback slot. Pete Holohan looked sharp in his first starting role. "We may have somewhat of a sophomore melted last year at that position," continued Devine. "This year he would have been twice as good a receiver but we can't afford to move him back to the offense." With the academic loss of Speegle and TD's injury, the Irish coaches will be hard pressed to find replacements. Other players that did not see action but should be ready for the opening clash with Missouri are: Rick Bott, Melvin Land, Colburn Lowndes and Tim Huffman. Tom Vandenburgh will miss the entire season with pinched nerves while defensive tackle John Wolfe is doubtful.

The kicking duties have been split between Joe Utch and Chuck Male. Male cleared the end zone on two kickoffs while Utch was 7-7 on extra point conversions in 1976. The ISS. On defense Joe Restle got off two picks last year and Harry Oliver nailed a 53-yarder.

FOOTBALL NEWS

The Irish will face a schedule that includes six teams that have been named AA in the past two years. With the exception of Notre Dame football. So you will know who to like for the field this year and also to identify the player that just made that great play, here is my version of the ALL-Irish OFFENSIVE TEAM.

OFFENSIVE LINE

Gordon Jones and Kirk Gibson. Both are willies seniors who have three lettermen and both towers at 6-4, 240. Gibson has been his 6-4, 240 pound frame to South Bend this Sunday. An All-Big 8 selection in 1977, Winslow grabbed 25 passes for 385 yards putting him in position to be the Blue team's starting position in Mizzou. With an excellent build for blocking, Winslow also managed the Irish.

Steve Gaestad from Pitt is no shoker to him as he boasts 31 receptions for 544 yards and nine touchdowns in 1977.

OFFENSIVE TACKLE

If it wasn't for an injury that caused Bill Dufek to sit out last season, the 6-4, 242 pound Wessel would be one of the hottest prospects in college football. In his sophomore year Dufek was named to the All-Big 8 and All-American teams. Another speedster, he does the forty in just 4.9 seconds.

And the last selection from the long list of USC gargantuan offensive linemen. The three letterman will be quite a challenge for ND's front four as he towers at 6-7, 280 pounds. Munoz, an All-West performer is a zer, he passed for 1767 yards and 15 TDs. Davis runs a 9.8 hundred yd. dash. Charles White led the PAC 8 in rushing last year as he amassed 1478 yards holding up the famous tradition of the USC tailback. Eddie Lee Ivey's 97 yard kick return touchdown versus the Irish was one of the few bright spots in the Yellowjackets 69-14 drubbing. Ivey's 900 yards of the season was a team record.

Dave's runningmate Hitos Buckley and Tennessee's Keslyn Finch are two other explosive backs that can't be taken lightly.

DE - Matt Devine MIA

This is pretty much a Miami's most prestigious tackle ever and when you look at some of those on that list you have to be impressed. At 6-5, 248 pounds, Smith has all the tools a quarterback around and is getting most sport writers' votes as the quarterback around and is getting most sport writers' votes as the Melvin Land has improved every year at MSU where he has picked up 1867 yards and 15 TDs. Davis runs a 9.8 hundred yd. dash.
