Leaders ask for prayers

Midwest summit under way

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Carter met with Egypt's Anwar Sadat and Israel's Menachem Begin on Monday but got his first big test at the Midwest summit yesterday and joined them in asking the world to pray for success.

"We ask people of all faiths to pray with us that peace and justice may result from these deliberations," the three leaders said in a statement issued by the White House less than two hours before their 3 p.m. EDT meeting. When some spokesmen said Powell said the plea for prayer probably was Carter's idea.

The meeting, at Carter's lodge, lasted an hour and 40 minutes. The three leaders gathered on a flagstone patio with a panoramic view of this forested, Md. area presidential hideaway in the mountains of western Maryland.

But there was no word afterward about what was said or whether any progress was made.

It was the first meeting between the Egyptian president and the Israeli prime minister since Christmas at Amman, an Egyptian city on the Suez Canal, where they set up shop to negotiate their foreign ministes.

The ministerial talks broke down in mid-January.

Historians at the Library of Congress said it also marked the first time an American president had met with the chiefs of state of Israel and Egypt at the same time.

"We try to settle these decades-old disputes between Arabs and Jews in the Middle East," Carter said.

"The meeting, President and Mrs. Carter took a stroll around Camp David with Prime Minister and Mrs. Begin. The Israeli leader and his wife arrived during the afternoon after attending a relative's wedding.

While they were hiking, Sadat took a moment to look around the mountain town near the Pennsylvania border. Mrs. Sadat was visiting an ill grandchild in Paris and had no plans to join her husband at the Camp David summit.

President Sadat and Prime Minister Begin spoke briefly to each other after the stroll and then measured one another during early afternoon walks at this forested presidential retreat in the mountains of western Maryland.

Powell called it a "chance encounter" and said it happened at 12:35 p.m. The spokesman said Begin and Sadat exchanged pleasantries for about two minutes and were joined by Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, who rode up on a bicycle.

Vice-President Walter F. Mondale was summoned from Washington, 65 miles away, early yesterday. Mondale had left Mondale in Washington to tend to non-summit business, but the president had said he planned to include the vice president in important sessions.

Carter, asmiddelman, set the stage for the three-way session by huddling separately first with Begin and then Sadat.

Because of Carter-imposed secrecy, there were no disclosures about the substance of the talks.

"The style and tone have been quite informal," Powell said.

When asked if the meetings were Carter's first steps at this historic peace summit, Powell referred to the 30-year conflict in the Middle East between Arabs and Israelis. The task of negotiating the differences looked long and hard. The summit could last 10 days to a week.

The private talk between Carter and Begin last Thursday. Begin benew his way through the trees at this presidential retreat from his lodge to Aspen Lodge, where Carter is staying. Israeli sources, asking not to be identified, said the talk lasted 3½ hours.

"The president then saw Sadat yesterday morning, again without

Student goods stolen: suspect identified

by Mark Rust

Staff Reporter

A Mishawaka suspect, foiled by his lack of imagination and the alertness of a janitor, is being sought in connection with the theft of a University student's property from the Self-Store Company in Mishawaka according to the Mishawaka Police-Detective Bureau.

The name of the suspect has not been released.

The recovery of the goods and the identification of a suspect was made much easier for the police when it was discovered by a custodian Tuesday that a rented locker—adjacent to the one he was cleaning—held a number of boxes that fit the description of those stolen.

Evidently, the suspect broke the inside lock and simply hauled the property into his own rented locker directly across the aisle," Sgt. William Bron of the bureau said.

Acting on a search warrant issued yesterday, the police inspected the boxes, identified the contents, and took the name of the suspect from the rental register.

Peter Rimkus, a junior Science major, told police Friday that every one of the 34 marked boxes that he had stored last spring had been taken over the summer.

Most of the stolen property—including two refrigerators, two chest drawers, trunk, bookcases and shelving—was recovered. All the items in the suspect's locker were identified by the police as belonging to Rimkus.

According to the police, the whereabouts of the suspect are known and, upon issuance of an arrest warrant, "an arrest will be forthcoming."

No new evidence revealed as Connally and wife testify

Washington (AP) — Former Texas Governor and Mrs. John Connally recounted yesterday the moments when President John F. Kennedy was cut down from behind by an assassin's bullet, and said they heard no firing from the front.

A congressional hearing at which the Connallys testified produced gasps from spectators who were reminded of the shock of those frightening moments of American history, but no important new evidence about the assassination surfaced.

Giving no support to theories that two gunmen were firing in a conspiracy to assassinate the president, the Connallys said there were three shots and all came from behind them.

Their testimony to the House assassinations committee supported the Warren Commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald murdered the president in Dallas, firing three shots from a sixth-floor window to the rear of the president's car.

Some investigators say that there may have been some firing from a grassy knoll in front of the motorcade.

"You heard none from the grassy knoll?" asked Rep. Samuel Devine.

"No sir," Connally replied. "I don't think any came from there."

"We reacted to the shots," Mrs. Connally testified. "If one had come from the front we would have reacted to it."

The Connallys were in Kennedy's car when the president was assasinated Nov. 22, 1963. Connally was wounded; they testified, as they have before, that Connally either was — or may have been — hit by a separate bullet. But they said they were one of three.

Mrs. Connally testified that she distinctly heard three shots and perceived that the first hit Kennedy the second hit her husband, and the third hit the president.

Connally testified he is not certain himself that he was hit with a separate bullet but said he is certain he was hit by the second shot which came from behind.

There has been a great deal of speculation that the president and I were hit with the same bullet. But it wasn't the first shot.

The amateur motion picture film of the assassination was shown in the hearing room. Drawing a gasp from spectators when the president was hit — and then Mr. and Mrs. Connally were asked to give their own recollection.

"I heard what I though was a rifle shot," Connally said. "I think it came from over my one shoulder."

I looked at the president because I frankly, had the fear it might be an Arab. I never made the turn full. I was hit. I was knocked over but doubled over. The force of the bullet drove my body about double. I could see I was almost drenched with blood.

"I only heard two shots. I did not hear the shot that hit me. I heard another shot, the third. It hit a low impact."
Japan to help restore site

ATHENS, Greece-Greece has approved $207,000 in credits for the importation of titanium from Japan to help restore the 2,500-year-old Acropolis monumens, officials said Wednesday. Greece stopped all imports from Japan last June because of the trade balance favored the Japanese. The decision to import the highly costly metal was seen as an attempt to get the Japanese to import more Greek goods. The metals, resistant to erosion and temperature changes, will be used to support the marble temples.

ROSSVILLE, Tenn.-Police spotted a flaming, three-foot-high, cotton-wrapped cross burning on the lawn of ABC-affiliate WNGE during Thursday night's repeat showing of "Roots." The show, based on a book by Henry, Tenn., author Alex Haley, depicts Haley's ancestors' heritage and traces the history of slavery in the United States. Cross-burnings in the United States have historically been associated with white supremacist groups.

Ticket office prepares for scalpers

by John McGrath

Officials at the Athletic Ticket office are bracing for the annual bout with a perennial problem that accompanies Notre Dame football ticket scalping.

Mike Busick, ticket manager, says that the situation this year is no different and that standard procedures will be followed.

"If we know of any instance or get any proof that a person is charging an inflated price for tickets, we will revoke that person's privilege of purchasing tickets in the future," Busick said.

According to the ticket office manager, South Bend police, both uniformed and plain-clothes, will aid in the detection of potential scalpers at Saturday's game and throughout the season. In addition to South Bend police, campus security personnel will be stationed at the student gates.

"The police are instructed to confiscate the tickets and to ask any scalpers to leave the university grounds," Busick said. "If we catch any student, (booking tickets) we will confiscate their I.D. as well as their ticket and turn the card over to the Dean of Students office for disciplinary action," the manager said.

According to Busick, there are usually about a half-dozen scalpers caught each game. "As long as people are willing to pay, there is going to be scalping," he said.

Busick offered no consolation to those who might be cheated by scalpers, saying only "our best advice is not to pay the price, and they will eventually come down to a more realistic figure."

N D looks into new check-out system

by John Ferrell

The University is currently investigating the feasibility of a new computer check-out system, according to David E. Sparks, Director of University Libraries.

The mini-computer would assist the libraries in keeping track of book loans, and would keep the bookshelves, which are now in "disarray," in better order, according to Sparks. Library administrators were given a demonstration of the computer system in action at Western Michigan University and were impressed with its efficiency. The computer, which is manufactured by Computer Library Systems Inc. of Boston, would cost the University an estimated $350,000, excluding installation fees.

Sparks is optimistic about the computer, but stated that the University must depend on "a gift from some alumni" in order to invest in the new check-out system.

Phones needed to open

OBUD still unable to function

by Pat Mangan

As of yet, the Ombudsman office has not been able to resume its services to the Notre Dame-St. Mary's community. Normally, the Ombudsman Service (OBUD) is in operation seven days to two days after the beginning of the fall semester. This year, however, OBUD was edged out of its former office to accommodate the unusually large cabinet of Student Body President Andy McKenna. Although moving has been an inconvenience, it is not OBUD's main problem since their new location is only a door away from their old office on the second floor of LaFortune. The real problem is that OBUD's new office is yet to be equipped with telephones.

Tom Lux, Director of OBUD said, "It takes a least seven to ten days to gather and correct our information." Lux had expected to be in service by Thursday, but since OBUD primarily supplies information to the community by telephone, it is at the moment severely handicapped.

Lux was surprised by the delay and had expected phones to be installed by last Friday. He was not sure exactly who or what was causing the hold-up, but Director of Student Activities John Reid offered this explanation.

"Normally it takes about ten days for the phone company to service the University's many needs at the opening of the fall semester. If for example, this order were called in to February, it would only take a day for Indiana Bell to install it." When the phone company service representative arrived, Lux was told that the company has been flooded with orders from other institutions.

Lux still unabed to explain the delay.

Ford Motors to cooperate in Pinto probe

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) - Ford Motor Co. will cooperate with an Indiana grand jury's probe into the fiery crash of a Pinto, but its chairman and its outgoing president will probably not testify, the automaker said yesterday.

Elkhart County Prosecutor Michael Cosenito said early yesterday that the grand jury had summoned chairman Henry Ford II and Lee A. Lacoco, elected as president in July, to appear when the panel reconvenes Tuesday.

Ford's general counsel, H.R. Noble, said in a statement released late yesterday that he believes "the needs of the grand jury can be met, with the appearance of other company officials, and that it will not be necessary for Mr. Ford or Mr. Lacoco to appear.

Noble said the company "is prepared to cooperate with the prosecutor to assist the grand jury in its deliberations."

Cosenito had said he would insist on appearances by Henry Ford II and Lacoco and that the grand jury would be willing to hear from anyone designated by the automaker.

He said that summons were forwarded to the Wayne County, Mich., prosecutor in Detroit.

O'Meara urges research in faculty hiring criterion

by Bob Powers

University Provost O. Timothy O'Meara says he will stress the criterion of research in the hiring of faculty. "The natural home of work of this sort is the University," he said, "since it is research which distinguishes a university from a college. To make it a university, distinguished research must be performed here."

O'Meara explained that research includes not only laboratory work in the sciences, but also creativity on the part of the faculty in the liberal arts and business. O'Meara stated that research has gradually become one of the primary considerations for admission to the faculty during the Hesburgh Administration, and since then, the faculty has become much more involved in research.

While O'Meara described Notre Dame as a "First rate University" in the area of teaching, he added, "We are not yet distinguished in research. What we are doing should be of a higher order in the area of research."

Clark Equipment funds series

The first business lecture in a series funded by a $100,000 gift from the Clark Equipment Co., Buchanan, Mi., will begin in April, 1978.

Bro. Leo Ryan, dean of the College of Business, said, "We will have more details later this dinner on Oct. 5." At that time, fifteen members of the business faculty and fifteen senior officers of Clark Equipment will meet at the Center for Continuing Education to name a general chairman and appoint a committee to form the lecture series.

The $100,000 gift was announced May 6 at the time of the company's 75th anniversary. B.E. Phillips, president of Clark, presented the grant to University President Fr. Theodore Hesburgh as a memorial to the company's first president, Eugene Clark.

Student Affairs clarifies use of hall chapels

by Gregory Solman

Since Sorin Hall was built early in the University’s history every dormitory at Notre Dame has had its own chapel for liturgy and prayer.

“I’ve heard Notre Dame referred to as the ‘City of the Blessed Sacrament,’” Fr. William Toobey, director of Campus Ministry, commented on the University’s unique situation of having a chapel in each of the 22 residence halls.

“I know of no other school in the world with a chapel in each dorm, and we are committed to preserving that tradition,” he added.

For this reason, the University again has clarified its policies regarding student use of the hall chapels. In a directive from the Office of Student Affairs to each of the hall rectors and resident advisors, it is stated that hall chapels must be reserved for liturgy and prayer.

“The only exception is a general hall meeting called by the rector because a specific hall could not accommodate all of its residents elsewhere due to the directive states. ‘Chapels shall not be used for parties, banquets, club or organization meetings, classrooms and study halls. However, it could be a quiet place to read for some students,’ the statement continues.

The “chapel space” policy was formulated by the Office of Student Affairs. According to Fr. Daniel Jenke, rector of Dillon Hall and associate director of Campus Ministry, the policy is “generally supported by most of the rector.”

According to Toobey, the policy “wants to restrict the use of chapels as social space...to reserve it and make it a special place for solitude, quiet, reflection and meditation.”

“We don’t get too rigorous with the rules,” Toobey added. “Officially, if a student walks into a chapel with a sociology book, no one will kick him out.”

When Toobey arrived at the University nine years ago, chapel space was being used more for social space than it is now. At that time, the chapel policy had not been clearly stated.

After several “informal efforts” to reinforce the proper use of the chapels, a formal policy was issued by the Office of Student Affairs.

“Father Hesburgh is particularly committed to the concept of the traditional hall chapel,” Toobey said. “He is very specific about the use of the chapels,” he added. “The students themselves can decide upon what functions are proper and tasteful.”

Richmond teachers settle strike; Marion teachers still off the job

In Richmond, the teachers voted unanimously yesterday to end their 13-day walkout and then marched in masse into schools to begin preparation for the start of classes for the city’s 9,700 pupils today.

There was no immediate decision whether the seven class days lost to the strike would have to be made up.

The strike ended after negotiations for the teachers and the school board reached what was termed a “conceptual agreement” on a new two-year contract, capping 20 months of bargaining.

The agreement called for a 6 percent pay raise for last year, when the teachers worked without a contract and an 8.6 percent raise for the current school year. Under the last contract, the system’s 472 teachers earned between $8,975 and $10,077 a year.

The teachers had been demanding a 9.5 percent raise for this year, while the board had offered 8.5 percent.

The settlement was reached after the teachers dropped issues concerning preparation time for elementary classes, restrictions on class size and the due process for non-tenured teachers.

Jack Huggenberger, president of the 330-member Richmond Association of Classroom Teachers, said the contract agreement ended the “painful” process of language disputes, rather than pay, that had been the stumbling block.

He said the new contract was one that both sides could live with.

At Marion, Grant Circuit Judge A. Morris Hall summoned another 144 teachers to his courtroom yesterday, held them in contempt for defying his original back-to-work order and gave them until 8 a.m. today to return.

If not, he said, they will be fined $25 each per day and sentenced to one day in jail for each day they remain on strike.

It was the same ultimatum given to 168 teachers who appeared in court Tuesday.

Eight strike leaders still are in jail, with seven of them released under the custody of armed sheriff’s deputies to participate in negotiations.

Students learn about community

by Robbie Moore

A new program aimed at developing student interest in the South Bend-Mishawaka area is underway, Mary Ann Roemer and Father Don McNell, creators of "Horizons," are urging students from Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Grace Hall, to participate in the program.

"Horizons" originated in the classroom. Urban studies students, enrolled in the course, "The Empty City," were mainly residents of Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Grace. "These three halls were chosen for the pilot program as a matter of convenience," Roemer said.

Future plans include expansion of the program to include participation of other dorms.

A bus tour of South Bend and Mishawaka on Sept. 17, following an audio-visual presentation at 1:30 p.m. is part of the program. The slide show will be shown in the Library Auditorium and will highlight the historical aspects of South Bend and the St. Joe River.

The cost of the tour will be a dollar with room for 150 students divided equally among three buses. The fee must be paid before Sept. 11, and will be collected by rectors' assistants.

The bus tour will make stops at points of interest such as the Century Center, the Farmer's Market, and the 100 Center, as well as a riverboat ride down the St. Joe River. Special guest commentators will include Jean O'Meara, wife of the ND provost.

Following the tour, there will be a cookout behind Grace Hall.

"So many students spend four years here at Notre Dame and unfortunately never discover the opportunities which lie beyond Corby's, Shute's and Nickie's," she stated. Born in Mishawaka and a present resident of South Bend, Roemer wants to acquaint the students with these opportunities.

"I remember dating Notre Dame students and hearing them complain that there was nothing to do in South Bend. I would like to show those students they are wrong," Roemer said.

"Horizons" began last spring. It is comprised of thirteen students and three directors. This group reflects a mixture of hall presidents, rectors, and rector's assistants. They are presently working with representatives from Student Affairs and Urban Studies.

Roemer hopes students will be persuaded to involve themselves in the community surrounding Notre Dame, by offering their assistance in civic projects such as Logan Center.

New assistants aid Devine

by Mark Ronnii
Sports Writer

The 1978 Irish football programs will bear the names and faces of two new assistant mentors, Gene Smith and Jim Gruden. Following last year's memorable accomplishments, head Coach Dan Devine was burdened with the task of replacing two fine assistant coaches, Francis Peay and Hank Kuhlman. Peay, last year's junior varsity coach, had accepted a generous coaching position at the University of California at Berkeley. Kuhlman, director of the Irish backs and speciality teams, signed with the NFL's Chicago Bears as an assistant coach. Devine's search went no further than his own backyard.

Smith, who only two years ago tendered the Irish blue and gold, finds himself as full-time coach of the Notre Dame junior varsity squad. The ex-Irish player looks upon this fact as a distinct advantage, because he watched the last few years here at Notre Dame, I do know most of the players. I have the ability to communicate with them and understand them. I feel Smith entered Notre Dame in 1973 with outstanding athletic credentials. The Cleveland, Ohio native lettered seven times in football, basketball, and track as he finalised a standout career at Channel High School in Bedford, Ohio. At Notre Dame, Smith saw action at three different positions including offensive end, linebacker, and defensive end. Unfortunately, injuries, however, limited his football career. In 1977 Smith worked as a teacher's assistant while pursuing his master's degree in International Relations.

"I was very surprised and excited at receiving the offer," said Smith. "It afforded me an opportunity at my young age that I could not possibly turn down. It is the best situation that I could get." Jim Gruden, assistant coach at Indiana University for the past five seasons, will direct the running backs and the special teams for the Notre Dame squad. Gruden, 41, lacks experience in the college coaching ranks. Before his five-year stay at Indiana University, Gruden coached at Dayton University and Heidelberg (Ohio) College, his alma mater. As a player, Gruden called the signals for three seasons and lead his team to a remarkable 24-3 slate. Football, however, was not his only athletic endeavor. Gruden also lettered in golf and was twice his conference champion in that sport.

"Jim, like Smith, is thrilled at the prospect of coaching at Notre Dame," said Devine. "I know that the fact I received the position," said Gruden, "I had heard about Notre Dame ever since I was a kid. It was very special to me."

Both men, no doubt, realize that coaching football at Notre Dame is no simple or menial task. The pressures for prime performance are equally great, especially when defending a National Championship is the new task to be completed. However, Smith owns an NCAA ring while Gruden may have to continue to enjoy that privilege.

SMC netters open season with victory

Open last year's nineteenth best tennis team in the country, the Saint Mary's Belles, opened their 78-79 season with an 8-0 victory over Saint Joseph College at home yesterday.

"They played well today," commented coach Tom Selser, "and it should be a good season this year."

Selser continued, "The team looks strong, but time will tell whether we have the strength that we had last year."

The Belles lost Barb Simpson and Louise Grimes, the number one and number two players, to graduation.

Tami Griffin and Nancy Brown are the Number Three doubles team returning to the squad this year. December assistant coach Selser believes that this year's squad has the potential to repeat the performance turned in by last year's SMC netters.

In yesterday's match against Saint Joseph, the Saint Mary's squad fulfilled Selser's expectations as they breezed past their opponents. Cindy Schuster, the number one SMC singles player, opened the match by defeating Barb Selked, 7-6, 7-6. Ann Danies, Maureen O'Brien, and Terry Bracken followed Schuster with easy victories over their opponents.

The doubles teams of Schuster/Danies, O'Brien/Bracken, and O'Brien/Karen Smith also scored victories for the Belles. The only loss sustained by Saint Mary's came in the number one singles match when Maura Finnan was defeated by Saint Joseph's Sue Fitzgerald.

Selser hopes that the addition of freshman Karen Fyke will produce the return of junior Ann Daniels after a year in Rome will be sufficient to fill the gaps created by the loss of key players from last year's squad.

With the victory scored in Tuesday's tourney, the Belles have a squad of 14 women. The 77-78 Belles finished fifth in a field of 31 teams in the National Collegiate Finals held in Santa Barbara, CA, last June. The team made their way to the finals by capturing the Midwest AIAW Regional title held in Chicago. Six singles players and three doubles teams represented Saint Mary's in the final (continued on page 11)
