Bakhtiar resigns; monarchy ‘in final hours’

By Laura Larimore
Staff Reporter

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Prime Minister Shah Mohammad Bakhtiar resigned yesterday after Iran’s military chief declared support for Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. The 2,500-year-old Iranian monarchy appeared to be in its final hours.

The government news agency placed the death toll in Tehran at more than 200 with scores killed in other cities during two days of bloody street fighting.

Khomeini’s followers took over Tehran Radio and issued a series of directives from the Provisional Revolutionary Government. The broadcasts said the Shah-backed Bakhtiar government had fallen and all members of Parliament had resigned.

The Khomeini followers also reported fighting continued in some cities but urged Tehran residents “to refrain from attacks on the armed forces now that the revolution was triumphed and the armed forces have surrendered.”

Among many rumors circulating in Tehran were that Bakhtiar had fled the country and that he had committed suicide.

Gen. Abbas Gharagabhi, chief of staff of the armed forces, met with 70-year-old Mehdi Bazargan, named by Khomeini to be his prime minister, and said he would support the government set up by Khomeini to establish a “revolutionary” Islamic republic.

The military chief ordered troops to stay in their barracks.

The withdrawal of troops appeared to break the back of the constitutional monarchy that depended heavily on a loyal, united military.

Khomeini, the 78-year-old religious leader who returned to Iran Feb. 14 after 14 years in exile, declared in a statement that “victory is near.”

Insurgents took over Tehran, looting military posts of weapons and ammunition, occupying government buildings and police stations and racing through the streets flashing “V” for victory signs. They raided several prisons and released hundreds of “political” detainees jailed by the Shah as common criminals.

Early today, huge explosions shook the western side of the city near Mehrabad International Airport. Tehran Radio said some military personnel were “resisting Gharagabhi’s statement, but it quoted the commander of the Shah’s elite Imperial Guard as saying, “I wish to state with much pride that the Imperial Guard is on the side of the nation.”

In one of its first acts, the provisional operational staff of the Islamic Revolutionary Movement closed Iran’s borders and all airports for 24 hours beginning today. Tehran Radio said in Washington, the Pentagon ordered the departure of 69 Marines sent from the United States to Turkey in case they were needed to help 19 Marines protect the U.S. Embassy in Iran, Six Air Force helicopters were

by Laura Larimore

In a hall meeting last night, Farley Hall voted on and passed a statement of position calling for a redirection of the issues brought out by the Carroll Hall Council last week. In the proposal, they commended Carroll for their stand, but said that they felt the real issue was not parietals but rather the lack of student input into student life policy formulation.

Michele Kelly, Farley Hall president, read the statement to a group of approximately 40 hall residents. This was like the first official reading of the hall position, created after mandatory redirection of the issues brought out by the Carroll Hall Council meeting last Thursday.

In rejecting Carroll Hall’s initiative to allow parietals, Farley called for a recognition by the administration of student input and for increased student participation, through voting power, in forming rules governing student life. The present Campus Life Council (CLC) has no inherent legislative powers.

In the proposal, Farley stated that “we believe that the Administration does not fully acknowledge the student body as adults fully capable of making responsible decisions. The hall asked for support from the student body in addressing the problems.”

Aircraft aids Wyoming ranchers in cattle feeding

WORLAND, Wyo. (AP) - For the first time in three decades the Wyoming National Guard is using aircraft to feed cattle marooned on the frozen prairie. A C-130 Hercules transport plane stuffed with 12 1/2 tons of hay each trip made one flight Saturday and two yesterday to drop feed on the Sam Hampton ranch about 280 miles northwest of Cheyenne. "We haven't done this since the big blizzard of 1949," Flight engineer Melvin Duncan said. The flights were the first under a $4 million operation approved by the Legislature to provide emergency aid to ranchers struggling with what the National Weather Service says is Wyoming's worst winter on record.

Israel accepts U.S. invitation to resume talks

JERUSALEM (AP) - Israel yesterday accepted an American invitation to resume peace talks with Egypt at Camp David, Md., later this month but announced no softening of its stand on unresolved issues. Egypt accepted the invitation last week. President Carter said yesterday said there would be a break in the Camp David talks so Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Egyptian Prime Minister Moustafa Khalid could consult with their governments on an indication that the talks may go beyond the three or four days originally planned. The meeting is expected to start in about 10 days, but no time has been officially announced.

Susan Ford marries Secret Service agent

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) - Susan Ford is honeymooning at an undisclosed location after her marriage Saturday to a Secret Service agent whom she met while he guarded the Ford family. Susan, 21, and Charles Vance, 37, were married at what was described as a traditional "family style" wedding Saturday at St. Margaret's Episcopal Church in nearby Palm Desert. About 300 people attended. The couple recently bought a house in Los Angeles, where Vance is now based, said Ford family spokeswoman Gloria Hill. His wife has been working as a free-lance photographer.

Cigarette production rises despite cancer warnings

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite cancer warnings, U.S. cigarette manufacturers are continuing to increase their output, the Commerce Department reports. The cigarette industry produced $3.6 billion worth of cigarettes in 1972, turned out 1.1 billion during 1977, the department said. In 1977, there were 39,000 cigarette manufacturers, a slight increase from the 38,100 in 1972. By region, in 1977 there were 12,400 workers in Virginia, 17,900 in North Carolina and 8,700 in all the others.

Hurricane dampens Bull Moose

By Tom Sweeney

Due to excessive damage that occurred at the Stanford-Farley Hurricane Party in October, Planner Hall will not be able to have their annual Bull Moose Party at the Jefferson Lounge.

The damage, which consisted of broken windows, broken fixtures, torn-down fences and rugs that were urinated on and vomited on, was estimated at approximately $450.

In addition, the Jefferson Lounge was sued by several students who had lost their coats and belongings. These cases were thrown out of court, however, because a sign had been posted that warned of broken windows, broken fixtures, torn-down fences and rugs that were urinated on and vomited on, as estimated at approximately $450.

Due to these changes, Planner will not be able to have the party again this year. "It's a shame that a good thing has to be eliminated because of the possibility of alcohol being consumed by minors on their premises," Paese said. "We knew it was going to be difficult this year, but we expected it."

According to Tom Paese, president of Planner Hall, the Jefferson Lounge is an excellent location for a party like the Bull Moose. "There is a room, a stage for the band, a bar, and plenty of room for dancing and walking around," Paese said. In addition, the hall is located in South Bend, so it is easily accessible for the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's community.

James Nafe, owner of the Jefferson, was very cooperative with Planner last year, and allowed them to sell as many tickets to the party as they could. He also permitted alcohol at the party because busses would be used to transport students to and from the lounge.

According to Paese, last year's party went smoothly, with minimal damage and no fights. "We went through 38 kegs of beer, and about $800 dollars of hard liquor. Even the band asked us to let them play again this year, because the evening went well.

Because of the damage at the Hurricane party, however, Nafe has raised his prices and limited the size of gatherings to 500 people. Due to these changes, Paese won't be able to keep the price of this year's ticket's to a reasonable figure. "There is no way that we can have a party with a good band and a lot of beer if we can only sell 500 tickets. It just isn't feasible."

Paese talked to Nafe and tried to arrive at a compromise to let Planner sell 750-800 tickets, but was turned down. Nafe found no objection with renting the Jefferson to ND for dances, but would not allow more than 500 people.

Paese is looking into the possibility of having the party at the Old Armory in South Bend, but doesn't expect any success. Other party centers in the area such as the Century Center were also considered, but they were eliminated because of the possibility of alcohol being consumed by minors on their premises.

Paese is disappointed that Planner will not be able to have the party again this year. "It's a shame that a good thing has to be ruined by a few people who can't control themselves when they've had something to drink."

Fuel crisis may return

NEW YORK (AP) - The question is not "whether, but when." Americans will be forced to conserve gasoline with measures like Sunday service station closings, Sen. Henry M. Jackson said yesterday.

With the current problems in Iran, "there isn't any question that we will have to shortly undertake a program of allocations," said Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee.

"It will start out with a prohibition on the sale of gasoline on Sunday," he said. "It's not a question of whether, but when. I think the sooner the better."

Jackson was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation" television program. He was a last-minute substitute guest for Billy Carter, the president's brother, who cancelled out.

CBS said the cancellation came one day after it received a call from a secretary to presidential adviser Gerald Rafshoon.

The network said the secretary called and said Rafshoon was "very disappointed" and "quite upset" that the president's brother was to be questioned on the program. But CBS quoted Rafshoon as saying he had done nothing to try to get Carter to cancel.

A White House aide, who asked not to be identified, said Rafshoon was "just arounded Face the Nation" would be interested in Billy. He's hardly a national figure."

In Sunday's program, Jackson said a gasoline allocation plan is expected to be in place by April 1, but should be implemented sooner.

"The earlier we start to conserve, the less traumatic it will be for the American people," he said.

The senator did not detail other conservation measures, but said that this year when Americans "go to the gasoline pump, they'll have to pay $1 a gallon for gasoline."

Jackson said he believed an Iranian government under Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini would virtually dry up oil supplies from Iran for the U.S. and its Western allies.

He said gasoline rationing would not be necessary if the loss of foreign oil is restricted to Iranian sources, but would be needed if 9.5 million barrels a day imported from Saudi Arabia also are interrupted.

Jackson described the supply from Saudi Arabia and its oil-producing neighbors as vulnerable to interruption by the Palestine Liberation Organization, which he characterized as having "a real tie to the Khomeini government."

Swiss mime performs at SMC

Mummenschanz, a Swiss Mime-Masque Theatre, has been called marvellously entertaining by Clive Barnes, New York drama critic, and are currently on a national tour.

The Mummenschanz performers are Andres Bossard, Floriana Frassetto and Bernie Schuhr. Their specialty is masks, both facial and body masks, and they have utilized toilet paper, oot pads, ice cube trays, flower pots, as well as clay, rubber and plastic in their construction of the masks.

"We like to take very usual objects and give them a new and different meaning," says Frassetto who helped to establish Mummenschanz when she met her two Swiss colleagues in Rome.

"When we use toilet paper masks, for instance, then this can be pulled out to signify speech. As the conversation grows more animated, the rolls get all tangled up in an amusing way. It may sound strange, but it's really quite clear when you see it—the audience picks these things up right away."

The troupe calls itself a mime group, but this is definitely a kind of mime of their own devising, quite distinct from the classical white-face that they all studied.

Tickets cost $2 for students and $1.50 for adults and may be purchased at the Saint Mary's office in room 239 Moreau Hall. Tickets may also be reserved by calling 284-4176.

Response: 'Why WSND?'

Mark Ferron's concern and sincerely-stated remarks about WSND-AM ("Why WSND?") were approached carefully by all of us at WSND. However, Mr. Ferron has some points to make and some of those points are valid. We do not have a corner on markets and operate in a competitive environment and must work very hard to get the best possible results.

Mr. Ferron is concerned about the number of transmitters that are not working properly. This is a genuine concern and we have been working hard to address this issue. We have replaced some of the transmitters and have been working with the manufacturer to improve their performance.

However, we must be cautious about making sweeping generalizations about the entire campus. There are many dorms that do not have as many problems with their transmitters as Mr. Ferron suggests. In fact, many students have commented that they are able to receive good quality audio from WSND-AM.

Mr. Ferron also raises the issue of power levels and how they relate to the economics of the station. While we understand the financial pressures, it is important to remember that the primary mission of WSND is to provide quality radio programming that connects with the Notre Dame community.

We appreciate Mr. Ferron's concern and suggestions, and we will continue to work towards improving the station. We are committed to providing the best possible experience for our listeners and we welcome feedback to help us achieve that goal.

Suggestions for winter safety

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to the article that appeared in The Observer about winter safety around the Notre Dame campus during the winter-snow and ice.

On campus and throughout the country, treacherous and especially dangerous conditions can occur from snow and ice. It is important for everyone to be aware of these dangers and to take appropriate precautions.

One of the most dangerous situations is when people are walking on sidewalks that are covered in snow or ice. It is important to be aware of the conditions and to take extra care when walking on these areas.

Another dangerous situation is when people are driving on roads that are covered in snow or ice. It is important for drivers to slow down and be extra cautious when driving in these conditions.

We appreciate the efforts of the campus and local government to maintain safe conditions. However, it is important for everyone to play a role in winter safety by being aware of the dangers and taking appropriate precautions.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Valentine's Day is not all it is cracked up to be. As says Geoffrey Chaucer in "The Knight's Tale," Valentine's Day was one of the earliest and most beloved annual speical days. But is it still celebrated today, or has it lost its meaning? Let's explore some interesting facts about Valentine's Day.

In Fifth grade, a year past the time when I was a child myself, there was a class of girls who were constantly teasing me. I had always been fascinated by stories of chivalry and romance, and I would often imagine myself as a shining and chivalrous knight in shining armor. My mother, however, was not convinced that I was ready for this role. She continued, "As the girl was sitting in her desk in stony silence, I saw her blush lightly, and her voice was beginning to quiver with emotion. Finally, I asked her, "What are you thinking about?"

She sat at her desk in stony silence, her eyes wandering restlessly across the room. It seemed as if she was lost in a world of her own. Her mother then paused, sensing her distress. "You have been sitting there for some time, my dear. Would you like to talk about what is on your mind?"

She continued. "My heart is full of love and yearning, but I am afraid to say it out loud. I fear that my feelings will be rejected."

"My dear, you have nothing to be ashamed of. You are free to express your emotions. In fact, it is a day when popularity is at its lowest. I assure you, your feelings are shared by many others."

"But what if they are not? What if no one feels the same way about me?"

"My dear, you cannot control the feelings of others. But you can control your own emotions. Do not let fear hold you back. Express your love and let it be."

SMC holds meeting for pre-MBAs

by Donna Trauscht

All students interested in pursuing a MBA (Master of Business Administration) degree are invited to attend a meeting tonight at 6 p.m. in room 241 Madeleva at Saint Mary's.

Four MBA graduate students from Notre Dame will be present to relate their experiences in ND's program and their prospects for its future. A question-and-answer period will follow.

Further counseling on a program will be available through Prof. Frank Yeandel of the Saint Mary's Business Department. Previous to his arrival at Saint Mary's, Yeandel had advised other students on the MBA program. Presently, there are 410 business administration majors out of 1800 total students at SMC. Because of such a widespread interest in business, the College asked Yeandel to assume the role of official campus advisor on MBA programs. An MBA program itself is designed to absorb students from a variety of disciplines and place them in a new learning environment that does not require a specific bachelor’s degree. Therefore, the liberal arts student can take advantage of it, providing he is able to analyze and quantify a vast amount of reading material. A small amount of knowledge in computer programming is also helpful.

Six basic studies are included in the program: accounting, economics, finance, management, marketing, and quantitative methods, such as statistics and decision theory.

An MBA program can be undertaken by itself or in conjunction with law school. The advantage to the latter would be that a specialization could be reached through an MBA program.

The MBA graduate can be expected to have excellent placement and much better starting salaries than a person only possessing a bachelor's degree.

Law School presents talk

A second lecture in the Notre Dame Law School's spring lecture series, The Christian Lawyers Forum, will be held tomorrow at 3:45 p.m. in room 110 of the Law Building.

Professor Charles Primus of ND's Department of Theology and Professor Joseph P. Bauer of the Law School will lecture on "Law and Lawyers in the Jewish Tradition."

Primus teaches Judaic studies at ND and holds A.B. and Ph.D. degrees from Brown University and the M.H.L. degree from the Jewish Theological Seminary Rabbinical School.

Bauer has been on the ND Law Faculty since 1973. He holds degrees from the University of Pennsylvania and Harvard University and is a member of the New York Bar.

Public favors SALT treaty

NEW YORK (AP) - Public support for a new SALT union in now the highest it has been in three years, an Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

The increased backing for a new treaty limiting nuclear weapons is based on the growing perception that such a pact will enhance U.S. security and that it will reduce the chances of a nuclear holocaust.

The burgeoning support for the new pact comes as Soviet and American negotiators work out the details of a new treaty, although no date has been set for signing a new agreement.

Eighty-one percent of those interviewed across the country, Feb. 5 and 6 said they favor a new SALT treaty. That is six points higher than the backing found in the December AP-NBC news poll and 11 points higher than the November level.

And it is the highest level of support since the question was first asked in 1976.

This month, 14 percent opposed a new pact and 5 percent were not sure.

In tandem with the rise in support for a new treaty, the public increasingly sees a SALT pact as strengthening U.S. security, not weakening it, as critics say.

Fifty-seven percent of those questioned said the new agreement would boost this country's security - six points from the December poll, 13 points from a June AP-NBC news poll.

Twenty-seven percent took the view it would weaken the U.S. military position. Sixteen percent of the 1,600 adults interviewed by telephone were uncertain.

Asked why they support a reason given was to reduce the SALT pact, the overwhelming chance of a nuclear war.

When questioned about his working relationship with Billy Packer, McGuire stated that he enjoys working with Packer. 'We never disagree unless it is legitimate,' he emphasized, 'we do not pump it up just for the cameras.'

McGuire believes that in the five games leading up to the championship, two will be decided by three points or less. 'A coach can do everything right but the key shot must go in,' he said.

Grant scored ten rebounds while Greenwood grabbed the basket.

But excellent outside shooting
by Notre Dame, led by Mrs. Holland and Diane Bury and free throws by guard Jean Myler kept SMC, no one of the last two baskets behind the Cougars until 9:55 remaining in the period. It was a reversal of roles second goal of the night to even upping 4-4 at 2:03 and make Jeff Perry and captain Steve Schneider put the Irish on top 6-4 with tallies at 5:01 and 14:19.

UMD came storming back just 30 seconds later on a goal by Johnson and Bob Hartung sent the game into overtime at 16:43. No one from the capacity crowd of 5,681 had, and the Bulldogs certainly appeared to have the momentum heading into the extra minute session.

But the Irish decided it is 1:16 into the overtime with the only score of the night. Notre Dame sent a centering pass to Humphreys out near the top of the net, and Humphreys quickly returned to his berth. The junior center snuffed it by the left from Johnson, and he nearly drowned in the flood of blue Irish jersys that swarmed the ice in substitution.

But this past weekend was only the start of Notre Dame's stretch drive to the playoffs. The Irish face three more crucial times and their last home series comes this Friday and Saturday when second place Minnesota invades the ACC. It will mark the annual Parents' Weekend for the Irish players, and could be the last time they play on home ice this year. A sellout crowd is expected, and you can bet Notre Dame will be out to make sure it's its last appearance as the ACC.

UCLA Bruins stop Notre Dame short of achieving 'grand slam'

by Ray O'Brien

Sports Editor

While the action between the beginning and the end of Sunday's Notre Dame-UCLA clash didn't develop as expected, the margin between the winner and looser was once again very close as the Bruins outdefended the Irish.

Notre Dame took the game's biggest lead, scoring seven unanswered points at the outset before this usually exciting matchup turned into one of the more boring nationally televised college basketball games of the year.

The Bruins got back in the game as starters, Brad Holland and Roy Hamilton led an 11-2 run and had the shooting ed missing.

Holland and Roy Hamilton led an 11-2 run before both teams started missing.

A sluggish UCLA team, who had to go to overtime to beat USC on Friday night, had the shooting ed missing.

Notre Dame didn't fair much better as turnovers and missed layups kept the UCLA team from getting too far ahead.

During the long stretch of futility, the Irish went six minutes without scoring a point and missed eight minutes without a field goal.

Things only got worse for Dagger Phillips' crew as they scored only two field goals between the 17:31 and 9:09 mark as the ball seemed to get bigger and the hole smaller.

Gary Cunningham's crew graciously kept Notre Dame in the game with assorted missed shots and turnovers but found themselves ahead 48-42 thanks to a couple of tough man-to-man defense and solid rebounding.

Jackie Jackson connected on a 15 footer with three minutes left sending desperate Irish fans into pandemonium as their team narrowed the lead to 50-46.

From there the game of all games came down to the cool period.

But the Irish couldn't do it, and the Bruins capped the night with a 29-25 overtime victory giving them a 50-50 chance for an NCAA title.

The Saint Mary's basketball team found this season's biggest and most in-depth problem with fouls just in time. The senior All-American continued, "We were a little tired and just came out cold. But we pride ourselves on a tough man-to-man defense and just kept us in the game."

"We showed balanced scoring throughout the series and Friday night I thought we did a great job throughout the lineup. It was just a total team victory, an excellent job by everyone."

The Bulldogs started out strongly in the opening minutes of the first period, and had jumped ahead 1-0 on a power play goal by Bill Olesku. But John Friedman and Greg Meredith answered back with goals in five minutes, Meredith's goal coming on a rebound shot at 5:36, to give the Irish a 2-1 lead after one period.

The Belles' offense got under way 2-15 minutes later as the Irish defense in the slot and kept the Irish in the game. The senior All-American continued, "We were a little tired and just came out cold. But we pride ourselves on a tough man-to-man defense and just kept us in the game."
