WASHINGTON (AP) - The trucking industry declared a nationwide shutdown yesterday against 300,000 Teamsters after the trucking industry declared a "voluntary" anti-inflation, not a limited or selective disruption in trucking transportation, not a limited or selective strike. However, within the next few days, important decisions will be made on how to bring it to a cold and stable state. If it becomes necessary, the industry's decision to counteract the union's old "voluntary" anti-inflation, not a limited or selective strike. However, within the next few days, important decisions will be made on how to bring it to a cold and stable state. If it becomes necessary, the best thing to do is to instruct its employees to go on a back-to-work order under the Taft-Hartley Act.

According to Augusta's Resident Advisor Karen Mitchell, "We have never had set election procedures or a structured hall council as is characteristic of the other halls on campus." Mitchell's proposals, adapted from Student Government and SMC Assembly passes hall revisions

by Pam Degnan

The Saint Mary's Student Assembly voted unanimously last night to implement Augusta Hall's revised hall council positions. The proposals emphasized the need for redefining five necessary hall council positions. The proposals are expected for several days, as experts say it would be easier to obtain a back-to-work order against a wider work stoppage, however.

Government lawyers planned to meet late yesterday to discuss what steps, if any, they would take. The strikes and walkout followed a breaking off a contract talks between the two sides late Saturday. The union's old contract expired at midnight Saturday. No further negotiations are expected for several days, however.

There were early reports of strikes in a dozen states in all sections of the country. The full extent of the walkouts was unlikely to be known until the bureaucrats played "a small part," in his decision to order the walkouts. Industry's decision to counteract the union's "voluntary" anti-inflation, not a limited or selective strike. However, within the next few days, important decisions will be made on how to bring it to a cold and stable state. Rumors of nuclear plant sabotage go unconfirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The FBI is checking out "around a half dozen rumors" of attempted or threatened sabotage at the crippled Three Mile Island nuclear power plant in Pennsylvania but has confirmed none of them, a spokesman said yesterday. FBI duty officer Jim Cox commented after the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said in a statement that "NRC representatives at the facility were informed at 10:45 a.m. on March 31 that there would be an attempt to sabotage the facility during the night."

"We have no active investigation of a sabotage attempt," Cox said. "All the rumors have been checked out and so far there is nothing positive."

Striking Indiana teamsters picket trucking firms

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Members of Teamsters locals in Indiana set up picket lines yesterday and some trucking firms today stopped operations in a national contract dispute. The trucking industry declared a nationwide lockout against 300,000 Teamsters after the union launched strikes against 70 companies when negotiations collapsed late Saturday.

Government spokesman says radiation leaks harmless

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) - Officials of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission tried to assure the public yesterday that radiation leakage from the Three Mile Island power plant near here, is not harmful to human life. Government spokesmen also said there have been no reported sightings of truck-sized groundhogs and those nasty little 10-foot high robins that I saw on the way to work this morning.

Trial period successful

La Fortune remains open 24 hrs.

La Fortune has completed its trial period successfully. The key concern during the month (trial period) was whether the building would be open for the balance of the year. Because of the results of the experience we were very successful. He noted that more students used La Fortune during the test period, especially between midnight and 3 a.m. Only two security-related incidents were reported - a traffic was stolen in the building on a Saturday evening and the locks on a trophy case were tampered with. Security will increase their patrols of the building at night, Reid added.

Reid hailed a lack of "consis­ tru publicity" for confusion about the building's hours. Some students had complained that their books had been locked to La Fortune last week because the students were unaware of the building's revised hours.

Brademas opens nominations to U.S. service academies

Indiana Congressman John Brademas has announced that Congressional nominations are now open to students in the Third Congressional District of Indiana to the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Co., the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, NY, and the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, MD, for the classes entering in 1980.

"In order to give every interested student an equal opportunity for an appointment and to minimize the best quali­ fied young men and women, I am continuing the policy of making service nomination on a competitive basis," Brademas said.

Brademas has used the com­ petitive system in making all previous nominations to the service academies. Candidates must be at least 17 but not yet 22 years of age by July 1 of the year admitted. Brademas said that nomina­ tion are open to interested residents of Elkhart, LaPorte and St. Joseph counties, excluding boroughs of Cass, Dewey, Hamma, Johnson, Noble and Prairie, which are not part of the Third Congressional District.

Brademas also announced that he is permitted to nominate 10 candidates to compete on a state-wide basis with other congres­ sional nominees for Indiana's allotment of seven vacancies to the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, NY, for the classes entering in January 1980.

Brademas urged all student interested in competing for an academy nomination to write to him as soon as possible at 1236 laFortune on a 24-hour basis. In Senior Bar decision

Roemer approves manager

By Rosemary Mills
Editor-in-Chief

Dean of Students James Roemer has announced the appointment of Tom McGrath as general manager of Senior Bar for the 1979-80 academic year. Clare Stack was named business manager and Joe "Srah," Sisters wall club manager. All three appointees are juniors.

Approximately 50 students applied for a managerial position, according to Roemer. All applications were reviewed by representatives, and hall representatives and should be a good mesh." Schlegel explained that from the managers' point of view, there are "s certain criteria which have to be met in picking a manager."

The choices certainly met these criteria," he noted. "Tom has the knowledge of business and ability to work with people that is needed. And the others are also very competent." "The three of them made outstanding presentations," Roemer commented. "We felt that they had excellent qualifications and could make good contributions to the University, the junior class, and Senior Bar."

Roemer added that McGrath, Stack and Srah were experienced and capable workers. "In working on a Junior Parents Weekend," he said Tom and Clare were well-organized and showed a good ability to work with each other. The job job has done with Grace Food Sales is quite remarkable."

For the remainder of the semester, the present managers will train their replacements. The managers will not be paid for this period, which includes the day following graduation. They will also work without pay for ten days in August before the bar opens. A, this time any necessary painting, renovations and general maintenance will be done.

170 girls visit SMC for Little Sister Weekend

by Kit Bernardi

This past weekend, 170 girls visited the Saint Mary's campus as a part of Saint Mary's Big Sister-Little Sister Weekend.

Julie Pope, vice-president of Student Activities, termed the weekend a success. Pope described the event as "having been a success and seemed to have gone pretty well."

Pope attributed the weekend's success, in part, to the method in which fiscal details were handled through cooperative efforts among students, section representatives, and hall representatives.

The Big Sister-Little Sister Weekend is a special weekend that enables sisters of SMC students to participate in college activities. The ages of the sisters ranged from six to 20 years.

The weekend began on Friday with an Admissions Open House held in the Lehman Board Room for little sisters interested in attending SMC next year. A welcome reception followed.

On Saturday, the sisters travelled to the 100 Center on an old-fashioned double-decker bus, where they toured the converted brewery. The event began with a steak dinner, compliments of the dining hall, which was accentuated by festive decorations. The sisters also received tickets to see "Brian's Song," which played in Carroll Hall Friday and Saturday.

The weekend concluded yesterday with a special Mass celebrated by Fr. David Murphy of Campus Ministry. Stuck pins with the Saint Mary's shield on them were blessed at the Mass and distributed to all the little sisters. A brunch followed the Mass.

Pope commented on the necessity of a loosely structured schedule of events due to the diverse ages of the sisters. Pope and the members of the committee who organized the festivities are eager for any feedback concerning the weekend for future weekends.

Despite poor road conditions, Maintenance reports no accidents' by Janet Rigaux

There have been no traffic accidents along Notre Dame Avenue despite the poor condition of the road, Edwin Lyon, director of Notre Dame Maintenance, reported.

Many students requested that Lyon have the chuckholes in the road patched over spring break. "However, it is not a master of the road crew not patching the road," Lyon explained, "but rather the problem is that the asphalt companies cannot produce their hot asphalt mix now due to the cold temperatures outside." According to Lyon, the road crew has had to use substitutes for the hot mix, which are only temporary. The asphalt company hopes to begin opening again April 9. "We will get the asphalt a few days after the companies start functioning again. We hope that will be a few days after April 9," Lyon commented. "Then and only then will we be able to fix the road properly."

When the snow and ice first started melting a couple of months ago, because of the excessive water in the road, the road crew had to use a substance called jadar, a cement by-product, to fill the holes, Lyon continued.

Once the water dried up, Lyon stated, they were able to use another substance called cold patch, an asphalt by-product, which proved more effective.

"We realize that the patchings we have done so far have only been temporary. However, there is nothing we can do until the asphalt companies can start making their hot mix again," Lyon stated. Even though the problem has not been possible due to the present condition of the asphalt, Lyon maintains that the road has been repaired at least a dozen times in the last two months.

"In fact, when the road was covered," Lyon added, "...was out there everyday refilling the holes."

Nuclear accident causes widespread emotional fallout

(AP) Emotional fallout from the accident at Three Mile Island spread across the country yesterday, with opponents of nuclear energy rallying from Plymouth Rock to the Golden Gate.

"Stop the merchant of atomic death," read a typical banner in a demonstration at a nuclear plant in Vermont. About 15 members of the Massachusetts Bay Coalition held vigils at Plymouth Rock and at a nuclear power plant in Plymouth. About 15 members of the "Solar Rollers," who had bicycled 60 miles from Amherst, Mass., joined a demonstration at a nuclear plant in Vermont.

"Hell no, we won’t blow," was the chant of demonstrators Saturday at two nuclear plants under construction at both ends of Indiana. In San Francisco, protesters played dead outside a utility office. Many officials were changing their minds about nuclear power.

A strong advocate of nuclear power in Rhode Island, U.S. Rep. Edward P. Beard, a Democrat, yesterday withdrew his support of an atomic plant in Charlestown, R.I.

Beard said that even proponents of nuclear power now think the Charlestown project now will be shelved.

Missouri Gov. Joseph Teasdale said he will ask the state Public Service Commission today to make sure the $2.6 billion nuclear plant now under construction in Clay County, Mo., is safe.

In New York, the state Environmental Protection Department and health officials continued to test milk and air samples but found no increase in radioactivity.

made in the cooling system."

Scientists are concerned about the possibility of hydrogen and oxygen mixing, in flammable proportions, both in the bubble in the reactor and outside the reactor, but inside the containment building.

Authorities have ruled out, for the time being at least, a mass evacuation. Carter said that if an evacuation is needed, the public should follow the instructions of state officials as "calmly as they have been in the past few days."

Among the 23 amendments to the Student Government Constitution proposed last week by the Board of Commissioners was a proposal to add an OH- Campo Campus Commissioner and a third Hall Presidents Council representative to the Board. The Board includes, at present, the Student Body President, Vice President and Treasurer, the Judicial Coordinator, and the Student Union Director (the HPC Chairman), and an elected representative from the HPC. The addition of a ninth member was recommended to prevent weighing deadlocks which might have resulted on an eight-member Board (the original seven members and the Off-Campus Commissioner).

The Observer disagrees with the Board's decision to add a third HPC representative to the Board. While we do not deny that the HPC is "the most representative body on campus" (as cited by Board members supporting the addition of a third HPC member), we believe that two HPC representatives on a nine member Board are more than sufficient. The HPC has the potential to be a very powerful group, if it acts in union. However, in the past it has proven to be less than effective in utilizing this potential to represent and deal with problems of the student body.

We believe that a second Student Union representative would have been a better choice for the position. Student Union is an organization concerned with the social and non-political aspects of student life. Its members—though they are appointed and not elected—represent the student body well with respect to their social needs. A complete representation of student viewpoint is needed on the Board of Commissioners, especially because this body formulates policy which affects all aspects of student life. This complete representation would be best achieved by the addition of a second Student Union representative.

In any case, it has been convenient to place HPC members on boards, committees, and councils. But the rationale for placing elected representatives in these positions is to be carefully thought out and clearly explained. Statements to the effect that "the HPC is the most representative body on campus" do not, in our opinion, automatically justify the appointment of HPC members to important positions. We believe that these organizations have ample capacity to represent student interests and perhaps are better suited to help achieve a true representation of student viewpoint.

Reaction to gay rights appeal

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to the series of columns written by a member of Notre Dame's gay community, specifically I wish to respond to the second column, in which the author makes a comparison to the natural origins of homosexual sex.

"Homosexual sex is natural for the homosexuality oriented whose consciousness hasn't been tampered with. Archite as it may sound, I still believe that the basic (God-given, if you will) purpose of sex is procreation. In this age of blossoming freedom, abortion, the pill, etcetera, are making on as necessary accoutrements to a "full", free lifestyle, something that we all have a right to. We have a right to decide and control as much as possible what happens with our bodies, they say. And the author ends his article with "Gay people are not trying to hurt anyone. They are only trying to live their own lives in peace." I don't see this as the case at all. Insofar as I believe that the basic purpose for sex is procreation, it seems to be to be important that role models, elders, or whatever you want to call those persons that are in positions of prominence, protect the young heterosexual traits, so that the learning of the basic sexual parameters, and the normalization of the continuation of the human species. Anita Bryant seems to think so, at least on this one point.

I believe that the gays are "normal" homosexuals, but all his phrase means to me is that there are individuals who are the product of the sexual preferences in the face of social criticism, so as far as "decisions being tampered with", just as Mr. Azrul as a homosexual is worried that homosexuals may begin to doubt others that originate from their sexual preferences in the face of social criticism, so as far as "decisions being tampered with", just as Mr. Azrul as a homosexual is worried that homosexuals may begin to doubt others that originate from their sexual preferences in the face of social criticism. I as a Catholic church (and it is not zeroing in on the area around Pittsburgh. The scientists were intrigued by it. Sam Pittsburgh, the enjoyable to what the planet was, named, said, "It seems there are man-made roads down there, but what do you make of the giant meteorites that are not staked all over them?"

"Those were caused by meteories, dummy."

"They're bigger than meteorite holes, they are dead potholes, Sam said."

"If your theory is correct, humans could possibly move about in such a fashion among the meteorites, another color photograph came in of the Mississippi River, which showed the planet as dark brown."

"Oh, by Jupiter, Don't tell me we've got snow down there, too!"

SG Board in need of more balance

WASHINGTON — It may have been an honorable coincidence or it could have been planned, but at the very moment a pair of people here sent Voyager I out into space to photograph the planet Jupiter, an announcement was made of a majority of the Editorial Board, and an elected representative from the HPC. The addition of a ninth member was recommended to prevent weighing deadlocks which might have resulted on an eight-member Board (the original seven members and the Off-Campus Commissioner).

The Observer disagrees with the Board's decision to add a third HPC representative to the Board. While we do not deny that the HPC is "the most representative body on campus" (as cited by Board members supporting the addition of a third HPC member), we believe that two HPC representatives on a nine member Board are more than sufficient. The HPC has the potential to be a very powerful group, if it acts in union. However, in the past it has proven to be less than effective in utilizing this potential to represent and deal with problems of the student body.

We believe that a second Student Union representative would have been a better choice for the position. Student Union is an organization concerned with the social and non-political aspects of student life. Its members—though they are appointed and not elected—represent the student body well with respect to their social needs. A complete representation of student viewpoint is needed on the Board of Commissioners, especially because this body formulates policy which affects all aspects of student life. This complete representation would be best achieved by the addition of a second Student Union representative.

In any case, it has been convenient to place HPC members on boards, committees, and councils. But the rationale for placing elected representatives in these positions is to be carefully thought out and clearly explained. Statements to the effect that "the HPC is the most representative body on campus" do not, in our opinion, automatically justify the appointment of HPC members to important positions. We believe that these organizations have ample capacity to represent student interests and perhaps are better suited to help achieve a true representation of student viewpoint.

Life on Earth considered doubtful

Art Buchwald

"Water is blue," was the reply from the astronaut who had never heard of brown water. "Maybe Earth has something different in its water than we do." You're out of your mind. Human life cannot survive on brown water. Nothing could live in that.

"Gentlemen, I think it's too late to tell the picture," said one astronaut. "He photographed the Las Vegas area. Since Dr. Irving Las Vegas has been dead for some time, he can tell us what makes him do it!"

Dr. Las Vegas looked at the photo. "If I didn't know any better I would say it looks like a pizza of neon lights."

"It's out of the question," a jovian biologist said. "No human being would put up with neon lights in the middle of the desert. There has to be another explanation. But whatever it is they're tiny stars which are just burning out."

The photo came back revealing, in beautiful detail, a hypnotic vision of green and orange colors. The scientists were agast. "Oh, by Jupiter. Don't tell me we've got snow down there, too!"

IRATUM: The Observer was asked to apologize to Student Body President Andy McKenna for a grievous misquote which appeared in the Thursday, March 29 Observer. The Observer apologizeously quoted McKenna as saying that he "thinks this place could use some changes." We at IRATUM believe that Whatever McKenna actually said was "I think Notre Dame needs a face lift." We think this is a more accurate反映 the community. The Observer also attempts to apologize to Student Body Vice President Andy Roohan who was also misquoted. Roohan said "I don't think the security people should have read "ya, ya, that too."}

Duck dies in fire at Leeper Park

by Dan Lecher (Very Old Man)

One duck is dead and the duck house at Leeper Park duck pond was totally destroyed after a fire took place shortly before 7:00 p.m. this morning.

City firefighters attempted to save the house by carrying the fire one line onto the pond to the fire. Damages were estimated in the dollars by Fire service employees the fire was caused by a blowtorch from the pond. The only possible effect of the leak could be the recent

Real News:

Indiana proposed as national toilet

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)—An apparently facetious proposal by Minnesota newspaper that Indiana become the dumping ground for human waste "for industrial waste brought an angry return from a Hoosier legislative leader. Bob Johnston, a writer for the St. Paul Pioneer Press, suggested Indiana become the national garbage dump for industrial waste. Indiana. Farmer said, "serves, near as we can tell, no other important function." Senate President pro tempore Martin Edwards, R-New Castle, said a friend in Wisconsin had sent him the article. "It's one thing for us, as Hoosiers, to call each other names," Edwards said. "When somebody from Minnesota says it, I take great exception." He particularly objected to Farmer's saying Indiana could be "kind of a toilet to the nation."
Students jog around Fr. Soring to protest b-ball ticket allotment

by Erroling Wrisitter

University of Notre Dame seniors and administrators expressed shock and amazement today as they washed approximately 1,000 students jogging around the statue of Fr. Soring in front of the Administration building. The massive jog-a-thon was protest of the reduced number of lower arena season passes for basketball games for the coming years.

University president, Sr. Theodore Philips, explained the reason for the cutback, "We felt that by offering more season tickets to faculty members, we could attract more quality professors and improve the University. It falls under Phase IX of the Campaign for Notre Dame. Philips, not fully in control of the athletic department, passed the recommendation along to the ticket manager. The manager, who wishes to remain anonymous, confirmed Philips' comments. "Yup, that's what she told me," he said.

"We decided that the best way to do it was to give reduced seats only to this year's seniors. After all, many of them got the shaft last year, and we wouldn't want them to completely lose faith in the athletic teams. Although none of them will get football tickets when they graduate, we still want them to send in the minimal $100 contribution and receive applications."

Many seniors and juniors expressed amazement at the fact that the underclassmen bothered to protest. "They're just not making kids as apthetic as they used to," one senior was heard to comment. Another offered sympathetic feelings, "What will they do when they lose the lottery for graduation tickets?"

The juniors tried to explain the futility of protests. "At least they told you about it before you slept out all night to get a good seat," said one. "You should be thankful for that."

Other juniors just shook their heads. "Maybe the threat of not enough seats will scare people and more seats will become available," a boy offered.

It was rumored that the sophomore class president had planned a sleep-out in the ACC, but was advised against it. "Those sort of things never get enough support," he was told by a knowledgeable upper-classman.

Student Body President A.G. Soodes refused to comment on the situation. His only statement alluded that the students were lucky Philips had taken the time out from her busy schedule to watch the protest.

NOTRE DAME (AP) As the hour draws near for a settlement yesterday, Andy McKenna said, "This looks like a stalemate for the reality side." "I mean, I'm all in favor of making Notre Dame a place that corresponds more or less to the students' intelligence in the past and to the present's intellectual capacity. "In a way, the green was too unreasonable for us to expect the administrators to see it that way." McKenna's comments came after a four-hour meeting over concerns and wrath at the Morris Bookstore by several University officials.

"They were really helpful in explaining the University's position on this thing," McKenna said. "They told me that, while

For example, the deeply sincere reason for the record's success is the fascination phenomenon of rain dance music. Probably, no one can understand what much the group is trying to say, as their songs are such a great hit. Perhaps the main reason for the record's success is the fascinating phenomenon of rain dance music.

The debut album by that utter, unamusing New Jersey group, the Sewage People, hit number one this week. Their fans, with their new single, "Rauchende Men." The surprisingly successful formula infecting the album lies at the heart of the disc's association with the Joni Mitchell popularity, breaking new musical grounds with their fusion of disco and American Indian folk music, what is now called Indisco.

Jesus had snatched us from the hands of an angry God, that He had bought for life.

Essentially, the absurd is the sense of feeling of divorce that a man intuitively feels towards himself and his world. This inner estrangement is, for those consciousness that intertwine with the problem of suffering and logical step, once the absurd experienced in life, the suicide, an admittance, an admission of feeling. What composes the genuine metaphysical revolt? I will examine Camus' notions of absurdism, and explore the reasons why Camus does not consider suicide a revolt, but rather an acceptance of the absurd as a way of life.

Abused thought is forever perplexed on the edge of the abyss, the "waterfowl desert" where the world is viewed in stark nakedness, stripped of illusions and illusions which give people a cause and reason for living, for being.

The diversity, the anarchy, the ness inherent in creation is witnessed with detached aplomb by the absurd. He is not afraid; does not recoil from what he sees; he has no stake in judging or avoiding the reality of the absurd, which is given to him by the absurd awareness, which he grants to die voluntarily.

Before these questions can be reasonably dealt with, we must first explore Camus' notion of the absurd.

Essentially, the absurd is the sense of feeling of divorce that a man intuitively feels towards himself and his world. This inner estrangement is, for those consciousness that intertwine with the problem of suffering and logical step, once the absurd experienced in life, the suicide, an admittance, an admission of feeling. What composes the genuine metaphysical revolt? I will examine Camus' notions of absurdism, and explore the reasons why Camus does not consider suicide a revolt, but rather an acceptance of the absurd as a way of life.

He is not afraid; does not recoil from what he sees; he has no stake in judging or avoiding the reality of the absurd, which is given to him by the absurd awareness, which he grants to die voluntarily.

The absurd is sin without God. The absurd man is in the mind and the world. He is straining against each other, without being able to embrace each other.

Camus then establishes three essential components of an absurd mental state. These are:

1. The absolute absence of all hope.
2. The absurd man in the state of constant dissatisfaction.
3. The problem of suicide.

The absurd existence is the problem of continuous dissatisfaction because the absurd cannot be fully answered. Even the absurd man who needs to be appeased and satisfied for all the sins of mankind is not to be satisfied. Thus salvation becomes a punishment. The absurd man must suffer in order to make Jesus seem attractive. The absurd existence is the problem of suicide. Is suicide a logical step, once the absurd has been experienced?
College releases course booklet

The Observer Monday, April 2, 1979 - page 12

by Mary Ellen Woods

The second annual Course Evaluation Booklet will be released April 12, according to Editor-in-Chief Bill Rooney. The information included in the booklet will be helpful in the selection of courses for the Fall Semester 1979. The booklet provides evaluations of some 120 courses offered by the College of Arts and Letters (AL). This represents an increase of 35 courses from last semester. The courses chosen by the editorial staff were "Recommended University Electives." Rooney stressed that these courses are not directed toward AL majors, but are generally of interest to students across the University. The evaluations use a five-point analysis: content, preparation, organization, comments and reading list. The professor teaching a course is asked to provide factual information about the course. A student who has taken the course is contacted for comments about the nature of the course and a personal reaction to it. The courses were given a numerical rating, 1 to 5, with 5 being the highest rating, in addition to the student's personal comments. Rooney stressed the objectivity of the evaluations as an aid in the selection of courses.

"The Course Evaluation Booklet is an informational service to students," according to Rooney. "Our concern was to present a reliable source of information to the students as they select courses for the departments.

This semester, the editorial staff wanted to extend the service to the College of Business. However, they found only one course that was definitely being offered as an elective. Rooney described his disappointment in this, but recognized the financial and staff limitations of the Business department. He strongly suggests further inquiry into the difficult dilemma present in the Business College.

Though they could not survey the Business department, Rooney emphasized that his staff was concerned with each AL department that lent itself to objective evaluation, with the exception being General Program, College Seminar, Classical and Modern Languages.

We evaluated courses from 14 departments, including Communications, Theater and Film, formerly Saint Mary's and Drama.

Hawk assumes office as new OBUD director

by Donna Tevern

Jeff Hawk, a junior management major, took office yesterday as the 1979-1980 Observatory (OBUD) director. He was selected March 14 by OBUD’s four-member Steering Committee.

Hawk, a native of Lima, OH, stated that his main objective as OBUD director will be “to make the community more aware of OBUD and what it can do for them.” He declined to mention any specific proposals, saying that they would have to be approved by the Steering Committee.

Also beginning terms yesterday were the members of OBUD’s 1979-1980 Steering Committee: Tim Browne, Tim Hamilton and Kelly Quinn. Hawk is the chairman of the committee.

According to former Director Dr. Bergin to serve on national arts council

The appointment of Dr. Thomas P. Bergin, dean of Continuing Education at Notre Dame, to the National Council on the Arts has been announced by President Carter and Third District Congressman John Brademas, sponsor of the nomination.

The council includes the chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts, Livingstone Biddle, and 26 distinguished private citizens who are recognized for their knowledge and expertise in the arts. The council advises the National Endowment on policies, procedures and programs in addition to making recommendations on grant applications. Bergin has served seven years on the Indiana Arts Commission, three of them as chairperson. For four years he was chairman of the National Endowment’s Artists-in-Schools program and is currently a member of the Task Force on Arts in Education sponsored by the National Foundation. He is also a member of the Rockefeller Panel which produced the recent report, “Coming to our Senses.”

Brademas praised Bergin for “his particular contribution to furthering the role of the arts in our schools, colleges and universities.”

BE RECONCILED WITH YOUR PARENTS

“Between experiencing and having experienced—the moment when the experience yields its last secrets. A moment we only discover is already past when cracks and stains appear, the gilding flakes off, and we wonder what it was that once so attracted us.”

“Your position never gives you the right to command. It only imposes on you the duty of so living your life that others can receive your orders without being humiliated.”

Khomeini proclaims Iran a republic

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini triumphantly proclaimed Iran an Islamic republic yesterday, announcing that the "yes" votes of millions of Iranians in a referendum had created the nation's first "government of God."

The 78-year-old Shiite Moslem leader, who led the struggle that toppled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime in mid-February, said his countrymen had voted "to establish a government of righteousness and to overthrow and bury the monarchy in the garbage can of history."

Khomeini's victory statement, read by an announcer over Tehran radio, contrasted with continued concern by the revolutionary authorities over unrest among the nation's large ethnic minority groups.

Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan, head of the Khomeini- appointed provisional government, warned rebellious Turkman tribesmen in the north eastern city of Gonbad-e-Shahroud yesterday that if the bloody week-old fighting there did not cease he would send in government troops tomorrow morning to restore order.

A government spokesman warned, meanwhile, that new trouble was brewing in Arab-populated Khuzestan province. Khomeini said the nation's widespread referendum Friday and Saturday gave "unanimous" approval to an Islamic republic. But this apparently was not meant literally, since early returns over the weekend indicated a small number of Iranians voted against establishing an Islamic republic, which has still not been fully defined.

State radio and television said yesterday preliminary results showed 16 million voted "yes." An estimated 18.7 million had been eligible to vote. Scattered early returns from provincial towns showed 99.7 percent of the voices in favor of an Islamic republic.

As the results were announced, some motorists in downtown Tehran flashed their headlights to show approval. But most citizens seemed to take the new Iranian, "of God." A Tehran banners merchant, however, "Of course I expected it because it was obvious in this is what the people had a revolution for."

The Moslem religious leader had called on the shah to shah the cause, among other reasons, rejection of Western-style modernization of Iran that counter to traditional Islamic values.

At one voting booth in a middle-class section of Tehran, support for the republic ran at about 70 percent, according to officials watching the balloting Saturday.

A young woman student said she voted "no" so "we can have a simple democratic republic."

"Why does it have to be bound by Western values?" she asked.

Several Iranians interviewed yesterday expressed fear that the Islamic republic would mean turning back the clock to a thousand in Iran and limiting the freedom of women — notions that Khomeini has tried to dispel with draft mixed success.

Some voters complained about having to cast their ballots in full view of revolutionary officials and said registration procedures were erratic.

Tallarida to head ISA office

The appointment of Fr. Thomas C. Tallarida as director of International Student Affairs at Notre Dame has been anounced by Fr. John L. VanWolf, vice president for Student Affairs. The office provides services and counseling for some 500 students from more than 60 foreign nations at the University.

Formerly directed by the late Fr. Daniel J. O'Neil, the office in LaFortune Student Center has been managed during the last year by Berry Farrey, who will continue to serve in an advisory capacity under the new director.

Tallarida is currently rector of Zahm Hall and in a former director of Off-Campus Housing and has been active in Campus Ministry and as director of staff services.

The appointment to the new position is effective April 2.

Lacrosse squad powers past Detroit

In lacrosse action at Carrier Field yesterday, Notre Dame defeated the Detroit Lacrosse Club, 9-7. Leading the way for the Irish was Tommy Capozzino, who scored a three goal hat trick. The win raised Notre Dame's record to 3-0. The next match for the Irish is this Wednesday, when they travel to Alton College.

Flowers hits double figures in Pizza Hut Classic

Notre Dame's Bruce Flowers was one of six Eastern all-stars in double figures, helping to lead the East to a 107-92 win in the Pizza Hut Basketball Classic played Saturday in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Flowers, who finished fourth in the balloting conducted by fans across the nation, scored 10 points. Indiana State's Larry Bird scored 17 to lead the East and was selected the game's most valuable player.

Hartzell bounced back in the winning a tie breaker, 5-3. But Field.

The Irish took first in nine events, and plac ed one runner in the top six in all but one of the seven events contested.

"The meet was very satisfying," commented Irish Head Coach Joe Piane. "The guys stepped up and put in a very good effort today and just put everything together.

The Irish, who lost this year's two previous matches against Big Ten foes (at Ohio State, 8-1, and Michigan, 9-0), were victorious again, raising the total of the five set matches.

Notre Dame's top-seeded Mark Hoyer was the only one to lose in singles competition, falling to Wisconsin's All-American candidate Ken Thomas, 6-4, 6-2. But the Irish took the other five four-set matches from the visiting Badgers.

In the second singles match of the afternoon, the wins were shared.

Notre Dame's 6-3 upset romp in the 110-meter highs in 14.53 seconds over San Diego's 110-meter hurdles in 15.62 seconds.

In the distance events, Joe Forrest won in 1500-meters in 3:56.08, and Chris Larng took the 5000-meter run in 16:29.24.

In the doubles competition, Notre Dame's top-ranked team of Hoyer and Harris pulled off a thrilling 7-6, 2-6, 6-1 upset of Wisconsin's top combo of Rhys Tomhas and White, but the Irish netters then took the other two doubles matches. Ken Thomas and Pieliski crushed Notre Dame's second team of Bob Koval and Truth and Hoyle and Bill Pratt in three sets 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

"We're just taking this win in stride," added Fallon. "We feel very good about it, but we can't jump to the conclusion that we're going to knock everyone else out.

The Irish netters and the Bulldogs last season, 9-0.

In other three-set matches, second-seeded Carlson Harris downed Rob White, 6-3, 6-4, and号楼 Tom Robinson came back to defeat Roy Murray, 4-6, 6-4.

Three of the four starters (Vida Blue, Bob Kaval and Truth) were among the division's chaff.

The most familiar sight to Padre fans last year was that of Rolling Stones entering a tight ballgame, putting out the first, and helping stop San Diego to their best season. His consistency throughout his career has been awesome. Perry, Randy Jones and young Bob Ojeda comprise a capable nucleus, but the club is too thin in all departments to be a serious threat.

The next meet for the Irish will be April 14th and 15th at Terre Haute, IN, to face theScarlets of Indiana State.

The National League's Western Division shapes up as a tooth-and-nail struggle between bitter rivals Los Angeles and San Francisco. The loss of a few vital legs to last year's pen-drive many leave the big Dodger in the Sky blue, because the Giants have overwhelming starting pitching and a line-up capable of exploding. The Reds are still better than the rest, although age, injuries and free agency have made them the shortest-lived dynasty in memory. Even if Gaylord Perry gets another twenty-win season out of his venerable wing, the Padres should stumble a bit and join Houston and Atlanta among the division's chaff.

The Dodgers upline remains set, a good sign for any team. And, there's no reason to think Steve Garvey, Steve Yeager, Reggie Smith, Ron Cey and the rest of the Angelos will tail off appreciably. Still, there are losses of seventeen game winner Tommy John to overture, as well as the defection of hard-hitting utilityman Lee Lacy to switch to the right side of the infield. While this is still one of the game's most solid teams, they may have just enough to overhaul the Dodgers.
