Carter bars future Iranian oil imports

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter halted oil imports from Iran yesterday, declaring that America will not bow to economic pressure or terrorism in its efforts to protect "the lives of our people"' held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

Carter said he was cutting off Iranian oil imports, which account for about 4 percent of daily American consumption, "to eliminate any suggestion that economic pressures can weaken our stand on the issues of principle.

It's said the Iranians who have held the embassy and 60 Americans hostage since Nov. 4 are demanding that America will not bow to economic pressures. The shah is hospital-

The president said it is vital to America's security and that the white diplomatic personnel be permitted to "return at once." He said the United States "refuse to permit the use of terrorism and the seizure and the illegal arrest of our citizens to impose political demands.

U.S. officials said earlier in the day that there had been no significant change in the situation of the American hostages.

In his statement, nationally broadcast from the White House press room, Carter said, "No one should underestimate the resolve of the American government and the American people in this matter."

He then ordered a ban on the purchase of "any oil from Iran to deliver to this country." He said the move must be part of an international effort to secure release of the American hostages.

In announcing the ban on Iranian oil, Carter warned that his action "will present a challenge" to the nation and will test American strength and determination.

He said he has asked the Energy Department to develop conservation measures and promised to work for fair and equitable distribution of short fuel supplies.

The White House is considering asking the nation's governors to attend a meeting in Washington this week where President Carter would discuss conservation steps that would reduce the country's economic dependence on oil.

Carter said, "America does face a difficult task and a test. Our response will measure our resolve."

"We act as an American people, and there is also a shortage of materials. The shah is hospital-

News in brief

Iranian student held for fatal shooting of youth

DENVER (AP) - While the governor urged Colorado residents to "stay calm," District Attorney Dale Tooley said it could be tomorrow before he decides what charges, if any, to file against an Iranian held in the shooting death of a 15-year-old schoolboy. Two other youths, who police said were looking for "some Iranians to harass," were wounded in the shooting Sunday, which followed several days of demonstrations in Denver and Boulder over the seizure of American hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. Ali-Shariati, 21, a student at Colorado Heights College, was being held in the city jail. Tooley said Shariati would be advised of his rights at a hearing today. "We're investigating a possible homicide, a possible burglary and several other matters," Tooley said.

Pacer production halts; new Eagle model soars

DETROIT (AP) - American Motors Corp. will end production of its ruddy Pacer model Dec. 3 to increase production of its new four-wheel drive cars by 60 percent, the company announced yesterday. AMC said it would boost production of the four-wheel drive Eagle models at its Kenosha, W.1. assembly plant from 250 to 400 a day. Spokesman John Pichurski said a "moderate" number of new employees would be hired, but could give no immediate figures. The Pacer, introduced in 1975, has been increasingly less demand in recent years.

Brown reimposes odd-even gas sales; promotes solidarity

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. said yesterday he will re-impose odd-even gasoline sales, in California next week in a show of "solidarity" with President Carter's plan to halt the import of Iranian oil. Brown, a candidate for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, said he supports Carter's accord and will not try to second-guess the president while the 60 Americans are being held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran.

PLO halts Iranian negotiations

(AP) - A Palestinian delegation met regarded as the best hope for winning freedom for the U.S. Embassy hostages in Tehran gave up its efforts yesterday and left the Iranian capital, U.S. Embassy hostages in Tehran.

Work of the PLO's apparent failure to end the impasse came as Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime and the Moslem militia holding 98 hostages at the Tehran embassy reaffirmed their determination to face down the United States in the tense confrontation.

A three-man negotiating team gave up its efforts and left Tehran. But Abdullah Nabi Sadr, Khomeini's foreign affairs chief, announced that the Moslem militia was ready to negotiate with the United States in the tense confrontation.

As the discussion on the reporting of raped ended, Trigant and Kathleen Neville, a at a campus commissioner, offered suggestions on rape prevention. Trigant presented five suggestions made by the SMC Board of Government. The Board suggested that the patrol of Saint Mary's Road be evaluated. "The road has been better patrolled recently," Tri-gant said. "But I don't know how long that will last," she said.

Terry responded "I don't have a system of flagging when cars go down that road. We don't talk them (security) any particular time." Terry and Roemer noted that the road patrol could be evaluated.

Trigant also relayed suggestion that more lights be installed along the road, a guard house be built on the intersection of 31, better education be offered about rape, and that a buzzer or emergency phone system be set up along the road.

Neville, relating suggestions from the Off-Campus Council, suggested that a student escort service be set up, possibly using the Library as a dispatch center. Roemer noted, "The University would support that idea enthusiastically."

Who Bears The Blame?

The recent takeover of the U.S. Embassy and the holding of 60 American hostages in Tehran has touched off violence in the United States. Demonstrations supportive of the Ayatollah and the takeover by Iranian students have occurred in many cities. The U.S. has provoked anti-Iranian demonstrations on campuses across the country and has caused in any instances anti-Iranian feelings to replace logic. The Observer believes that Iranian students are violating simple rules of hospitality and breaking our cultural traditions which, by their presence in this country, they should respect. But we also question the reaction of the American people.

The Iranians demand the extradition of the Shah, and American students in the U.S. support this demand. The students believe the Shah has no right to remain in the U.S. However, one must question if these students are not deluding themselves; the Shah has not been guilty of retaliating in a way they view as wrong despite the Syrians, the Egyptians, and the Cambodians who followed a nihilistic support of the Shah. They are also hypocritical to enjoy the benefits of the U.S. support this demand. The Shah's government to deny anyone else this same privilege?

LaFortune features nuclear concerns film tonight

Tonight in the LaFortune Little Theatre (first floor), the film "Suicide or Survival?" will be shown by the Student Committee for the Investigation of Military and Nuclear Disarmament. It is a 25 minute documentary color film dealing with the strategic military forces of the U.S. and U.S.S.R. Times of the showings will be noon, 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. There is no admission fee.

The film gives an overview of the current nuclear crisis in both nations, with highlights of two actual nuclear alerts, the '62 Cuban crisis and the '73 Mid-East crisis. A simulated war-game scenario depicts how a local feud in East Germany could escalate into a full nuclear exchange between the superpowers.

Film footage from Eisenhow-er's Czar acquires the viewer with modern efforts to minimize the likelihood of nuclear war, chiefly through the channels of international diplomacy and arms control agreements. Focus is given to U.S.-U.S.S.R. relations in non-military domains, including joint scientific, technological, commercial, trade and cultural exchanges. The film culminates with an explanation of the present SALT talks, a demonstration of U.S. verification capabilities, and the significant role of the U.S. in the approach of the SALT II Treaty.

An excellent contingent of officials, leaders and specialists appear in the film, including Secretary of State Vance, Secretary of Defense Brown, Senator Frank Church, President Carter and Soviet Chairman Brezhnev.

This film was produced by the Committee for the East-West Accord, a non-partisan American group concerned with disarmament. For more information, or if you cannot see these showings but would like to see the film, call (309)...

The Belles ended season on sour note

by Kate Huffman

Sports Correspondent

The Saint Mary's College volleyball team rounded out its season last weekend in a final round of play at Earlham College. The Belles were defeated in a close opening match by Taylor University, whom the Belles had defeated earlier in the season. Match scores against Taylor were 11-13, 16-16, and 16-14.

In their second match of the day, the Belles were defeated by Marian, 15-8, 15-6. In what turned out to be its final match of the season, Saint Mary's lost to Huntington College, 7-15, 15-13.

In the first game of the match against Taylor University, the Belles scored 15 kills on 24 attempted spikes. After losing the second game, the Belles seemed to be heading for a victory in the third game, as they scored their 15th point and won the match. But the umpire called for a replay on the final point, which a ball had rolled on the court. Taylor won on to win the match on the replay. The Belles' second match was even more discouraging to Coach Erin Murphy. The next match against Marion was played immediately following the third match and was won by Marion after the loss. "I think the girls did not have enough time to recover from the loss against Taylor," Murphy stated. In spite of the loss, Murphy commended freshman Peggy Prewett on her aggressive defensive play and Mary Laughlin, also a freshman, on her excellent job setting for the Belles.

In the final match, Saint Mary's held a comfortable 12-1 lead over Huntington College. The Belles went on to take the game 15-7 but Huntington rebounded and took the next two games to win the match.

... Flanner
The inshore soccer season came to a conclusion Friday afternoon and in spite of dismal weather conditions, Flanner Field eased to its second consecutive championship title with a 2-0 triumph over Off-Campus. It was the fourth championship in the last seven tries for the Flanner residents.

An early season 1-0 loss to Off-Campus prompted Flanner Field’s Jim McKeely to remark, “We had to be able to control the middle of the field and this game we did.”

Although the rain and cold hampered off on both sides of the slippery astro-turf on Carrier Field seemed to have less influence on Flanner. “We really didn’t have any excus­­­­­­­­­­­­­es,” commented Off-Campus Field’s President David. “We had to try to play on it (the wet field), Flanner Field is really good and deserved to win.

The breaks went against Off-Campus. It doesn’t snow in our game. Fifteen minutes into the match, a foul called awarding Flanner’s Ed Kennedy a free kick just outside the penalty area. Kennedy took the opportunity to blast a terrific shot into the net for a 1-0 lead.

Only five minutes later another goal from Kennedy off a short free kick from close to the Off-Campus box. David Cushing took a turn this time and fired a low shot on the ground past a Wall of Off-Campus defenders for the insurance goal that put the game out of reach. Flanner goalies Nat Walsh and Bob Goyette (at right) were outstanding on the Off-Cam Dillon head coach Jerry Bridges was a little concerned about how his team would perform in its inaugural semi-final playoff bout. The Big Red, which entering conference play had been undefeated and virtually unbeaten for the past two seasons until last week, when arch-rivals Princeton tied them 1-1 in double overtime. But any fears of a continued letdown were put to rest Sunday as Dillon scored on their first three offensive possessions and went on to defeat Stanford, 26-0 at Carrier Field. The Big Red racked up a whopping 294 yards against a fine Stanford defense. Stanford was able to muster 153 total yards of its own, but as player-coach Rich Ward put it, "Our mistakes just killed us," in respect to the 17 turnovers and two turnovers his team committed.

Dillon took a quick 6-0 advantage in the first quarter as the Big Red drove down the field 65 yards in eight plays, with Dana Crowley scoring on a 1-yard run. The key play in the drive was a 19-yard pass from quarterback Brian Crowley to brother Dana for a first down on a third-and-eight. On the next play, Stanford picked up two first downs, but a key third-down penalty put a halt to the drive.

The Big Red took over following a 39-yard kick-off return by Allen Bridges. On the first play from scrimmage, various formations, I had promised a friend I'd come and watch and I'd heard from others that the game was good and the people were better. I wasn't disappointed on either count. The game I'd come to see was between the Flyers and the Angels and, even though the Flyers were heavy favorites, they could only manage a 1-0 lead. With the score knotted at zero late in the second half, I began to pray that someone would score. You see, this thing about overtimes. As I was standing there, I noticed Terry Phelps coming toward me kicking a soccer ball. Slightly impressed that the mother of three could find the time (and energy) to play soccer while her morning routine was to ask her about her involvement in the newly-formed league.

"I played team sports in high school," she told me. "And I've always missed the great thrill that both part of a team offers. Unfortunately, most women never get a chance to experience that."

Waiting to play the next game, Digger's better half pumped up that there would be no letdown for league, each with a roster of 20 women. "Just a mother's instinct," she added. "But the boys realized that she could hit and field and they accepted her. It's funny because she bakes cookies for the team and then goes out and her home run to win the game. It proves that both men and women can get involved and not have to give up their identities."

"I play because it's fun and because it's also a terrific exercise," she concluded after running up to her teammates.

"Hey, does Digger ever come to your games," I couldn't resist asking her. She said, "He comes to quite a few games. But, the other night he went with me to a team party and after observing the great friendships that had evolved between teammates he said 'Oh sure,' she said. "He comes to quite a few games.
