WSND implements policies

by Phyllis Washington

New policies have been implemented at radio station WSND in response to the controversy arising from last September's broadcast of the "Radio Free Notre Dame" program. WSND's general manager Jim O'Brien worked with the administration to insure that a repeat of this incident could not occur.

"Things are working out well now and relations with the administration couldn't be too much better," O'Brien said.

Last September, a "Radio Free Notre Dame" program topic, "Sex at Notre Dame," received complaints about the way the program was being conducted on the air. In response to the complaints, Dean of Students James Roemer, ordered O'Brien to draw up a plan of action against the occurrence.

WSND submitted eight proposals to Roemer.
- Cancel "Radio Free Notre Dame" program.
- Tape delay all future talks shown aired over the station.
- Restrict the two regular station employees involved in the "Sex at Notre Dame" program from appearing on any future WSND broadcasts.
- Cut in half the air time of the "Sex at Notre Dame" program.
- Tape delay all future talk shows at WSND.
- Develop and implement a station policy, based on Federal Communications Commission guidelines, regarding offensive program content.
- Place the same two employees from ever again on the "Sex at Notre Dame" program.
- Place the same two employees from ever again on the "Sex at Notre Dame" program.

According to O'Brien, WSND has followed up on these proposals. "We've cancelled the 'Radio Free Notre Dame' program," O'Brien said, "and it was replaced by 'Talk It Up' a new WSND program as of last October 8." "Talk It Up" addresses more relevant campus issues and it has a better reputation because we have a very good person handling it."

WSND's new program has covered such topics as nuclear power and the overseas.

In anit-American protests

Mob storms embassy

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) -- Some 2,000 Libyans chanting support for Iran stormed and ransacked the U.S. Embassy here yesterday in the first of a wave of angry anti-American protests in the Moslem world, U.S. officials reported.

None of the embassy staff was injured, but the Libyan government accused the Americans of having seriously injured several of the attackers by firing military-type "tank guns" at them.

Libya's official JANA news agency said this "confirmed that the embassy's employees are military personnel." It did not say whether this meant the government planned to take any action against the Americans, who had to scurry for safety through a back door and went to their homes after the attack.

State Department officials in Washington said an automatic tear-gas security system had activated when the embassy was stormed.

The JANA report said the protesters set fire to an American flag and effigies of President Carter and Shah of Iran. U.S. officials reported serious fire damage on the first floor of the four-story building.

An embassy source said the mob's target was badly damaged and there also was damage on the second floor of the building that the Americans immediately filed the "most possible" protest with the government of Libyan leader Col. Muamar Khadafy over the attack and implied that it believed Khadafy had ordered the attacks.

Only one Libyan policeman was in front of the embassy when the demonstrators started marching on it, and authorities ignored appeals for help from the staff, State Department officials said in Washington. They said additional protection had been requested from the Libyans as soon as the attack began.

U.S. Marine guards were withdrawn from the embassy some time ago at the request of the Libyan government department officials said.

This was the second time in two weeks that a U.S. Embassy had been stormed. On Nov. 5, a mob of Pakistani Moslems attacked and burned the embassy in Islamabad along two U.S. servicemen and two Pakistani staff members.

The Libyan news agency said the Libyan students protesters marched on the embassy in support of the demand by Iranians holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran for extradition of the ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to Iran.

Religious leaders hold conference

by Stephen Sharp

Prominent Jewish, Moslem, and Christian speakers emphasized the knotty relationship between politics and religion in the Arab-Israeli conflict at a conference at Notre Dame this weekend.

The conference, which focused on the "Religious Currents in the Arab-Israelis Conflict," opened Saturday afternoon at the Center for Continuing Education with a welcome from Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, Rep. John Brademas, Chief Majority Whip of the U.S. of Representatives, delivered the conference's keynote address in th Memorial Library Saturday night.

Hesburgh called on all involved parties to think otherwise about the problem in the Middle East. In ORDER TO END THE CONFLICT: "Let's make religion a unitive not a divisive force for peace. After all, peace is the goal of religion," Hesburgh said.

The panel which followed Hesburgh's welcome, however, highlighted the political contamination of religious ideals in the Middle East.

The panel, "Major Religious Perspectives," featured Prof. Thomas Idinopulos of Miami University in Ohio, Professor Pinchas Peli of Ben Gurion University in BeerSheva, Israel, and visiting professor Peli at Notre Dame this year; and Iman Mohamed Jawad Chiri, director of the largest Islamic Center of Detroit and visiting professor Peli, how ever, defended the Jewish settlement of Israel as part of God's people's Messianic vision. In a speech spiced with anecdotes, Chiri stated, "Judaism is expressed first and foremost through religion, not national identity. The Jews' purpose in life is to be holy and sanctify the name of God, and the return of the Jews to Jerusalem is part of that sanctification."

The conference's Christian representatives, Idinopulos and Brademas, examined the essential political, not religious, basis for the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Idinopulos, consulting editor

Militants issue warning: Shah must stay in U.S.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-Word that the ousted Shah of Iran is on the move again drew an angry new warning yesterday from Moslem桌s who said they would put their U.S. Embassy on trial if the shah leaves the United States, a militant spokesman said after learning that former Iranian monarch Mohammad Reza Pahlavi had left New York for Texas. But Iran's acting foreign minister said a trial of the hostages would not take place soon.

The Shah flew before dawn yesterday to an Air Force hospital outside San Antonio for an indefinite period of recuperation from the degenerative surgery and cancer treatment he underwent in New York.

Eslami, who have offered Pahlavi asylum, said in New York they believe the fleeing ex-monarch is likely to remain in the United States for several more weeks. He said the Shah would go to the Bahamans, though the Bahamian government has not confirmed that.

U.S. officials said nothing about the Shah's eventual destination. President Carter asked whether he might be offered permanent U.S. asylum, replied, "I cannot UN Security Council prepares for second debate

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Security Council members held private consultations yesterday evening to prepare for a second round of public debate on the U.S.-Iranian crisis. The debate in the 15-member council was expected to resume at about 7:30 p.m. U.S. Ambassador Donald F. McHenry said during a television interview earlier yesterday he expected "the council will act (on a resolution), sometime tomorrow or the day after.

Los Angeles (AP)—A tape recording by one of the Americans held hostage at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran calls for the United States to surrender the deposed shah of Iran so the hostages can be freed. The seven-minute tape of the voice of Jerry Plotkin, from the Los Angeles suburb of Sherman Oaks, was obtained last week by Los Angeles radio station KNCP newsman Alex Paen in Tehran from students holding the embassy. "In the name of God return the shah and free the hostages," Plotkin said in a steady voice. "Let the world know no tyrant or dictator can ever find safe harbor in the U.S."

Officials link buildings to sickness in Carmel

CARMEL, Ind. (AP)—The mysterious illness that has troubled the faculty at Orchard Park Elementary School may be part of a nationwide surge in sickness related to new buildings, health officials say. "We've had so many of them lately, we could make 'buildings' a full-time job," says Dr. Philip R. Taylor, a physician assigned to cover New York state for the National Center for Disease Control. "They all seem to deal with the air," he said. Orchard Park Faculty reported more than half their numbers were stricken with an unknown illness this year. The symptoms included eye irritation, headaches, nausea, dizziness and fatigue. "As we start to build buildings tighter to conserve energy, we can expect more of this," he said, citing a case on New York's Long Island of an "air-starved building," where improved ventilation had to be added.

Native Americans to receive millions in grants

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Office of Education announced yesterday 170 grants totaling $24.5 million to improve education for Indian children and adults. Nearly $4.4 million went to tribes and Indian-controlled school boards operating 28 schools in a dozen states. Some $14 million was awarded to tribes and other Indian organizations for teacher training, curriculum development, preschool programs and similar projects. Adult education programs for Indians received $5.9 million. All the funds were granted under the Indian Education Act. Earlier this year, the government awarded $47 million to local school districts based on the number of Indian children they enroll.

Weather

Fair and mild tonight with lows in the low 30s. Sunny and warm tomorrow with highs in the low to mid 80s.

Campus

4:00 p.m. SPEECH—"what's general about general intelligence," by roger j. sternberg, ph. d. yale university. sponsored by psyeh dept. 119 HAGGAR HALL

5:15 p.m. SOCIAL french club dinner, sponsored by the modern languages dept. SOUTH DINING HALL, 2nd FLOOR

6:45 p.m. ROSARY daily at the GROTTO.
Iranians cast votes; favor new constitution

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Iranians began voting yesterday on a new constitution that would make Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini ruler for life. Overwhelming approval was expected in the two-day referendum, despite strong criticism from the left and center that it would give the religious leader dictatorial powers.

Some Western observers believe that once Khomeini is sworn in, despite strong criticism from the left and center that it would give the religious leader dictatorial powers.

The ballot went relatively smoothly, although there were reports of minor disturbances in provinces where non-Persian ethnic groups have been agitating for greater autonomy from the Khomeini regime.

Men and women over the age of 16 filed in separate lines into Tehran's voting stations to make their simple "Yes" or "No" choices with non-secret ballots, often aided by Mullahs - Moslem priests - at the ballot boxes in mosques.

operators man switchboard; provide student service

by Mike Lewis
Executive Sports Editor

All of the telephone calls from, to, and within Notre Dame go through a complicated maze of electronic equipment in the basement of the Memorial Library.

Two operators man the switchboard there from 7:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. each day. Janice Love, one of the operators, said her primary duties are to correct misdialed numbers and provide information for callers, not all of which has to do with the phone system.

Operators are often asked to provide correct numbers, or report a malfunctioning telephone. But they are also asked to settle bets, relate game scores and offer help to oft-confused Notre Dame students.

"One time a student called me and asked how to cook a roast," said Joan Kramer, one of the operators.

Love added that she was asked to settle a bet earlier this semester.

"Will you tell this fellow that no girls are allowed on the Notre Dame campus?" the caller asked. The caller was very disappointed with her reply, Love recalled.

Both operators said their job would be a little easier if students would consult their own books rather than call them for numbers. The operators' phones are wired so they will not register a busy signal, and twelve calls will "pile up" at a time. According to Love this results in many hurried moments in the switchboard room.

The switching equipment sits behind the operators' room. Jon Gilroy, a Bell technician assigned to Notre Dame, said there is "probably enough wire in there to stretch from New York to Los Angeles."

The equipment is set up to form a "loop system," as calls literally progress from one end of the room to another while the connection is made. Students dialing long distance are transferred automatically to an off-campus operator.

The system also features devices that monitor the flow of calls and the amount of traffic on Notre Dame lines. A special machine is attached to the system and the statistics are transmitted to Indianapolis, where the results are tabulated.

One operator feels this sort is now under way in preparation for the planned dormitory. This study, Gilroy said, will help technicians install the phones when the building is built.

"The central switching system is "identical" in other college phone systems, Gilroy said, although it is much smaller than at some larger Universities. The University of Wisconsin, for example, has about 46,000 telephones on its system, he said.

Dick Miller, a repairman assigned to Notre Dame along with Vern Manthy, said one of his favorite jobs is taking calls about "burned in" phone numbers.

"They'll call us and say I'm out of the phone book," Miller said. "When we answer the phone, they'll say 'What's my number?'"
ONCE AGAIN!!!

STUDENT GOV’T PRESENTS

HAVE LUNCH WITH A PROF.

15 tickets per week
5 students per ticket
tickets available

in student gov’t office
(2nd floor lafortune)

any questions call Mike Flynn: 8906
7668

TREAT YOUR PROF!!!

ND Press reflects academic excellence

by Phyllis Washington

What is a university press?

"Before I came here," Jim Langford, director of the University of Notre Dame Press, said, "I worked at Michigan's press and I got a phone call to press a pair of pants."

But a university press does not iron clothes. "We do for the academic side of the university what the sports teams do for the fame of Notre Dame," Langford explained. "We're not going to get as much attention as the football and the basketball teams, of course, but we're getting the name of the University out to the world in academic circles. The University of Notre Dame Press reflects the academic excellence of what goes on in the university."

Notre Dame's press started in 1949 and became a major press when the early press printed The Scholastic and the Notre Dame Magazine, but it no longer does printing. All the printing is done in Michigan and Harper and Row does all the warehousing.

The Press is located on the fifth floor of the Memorial Library and it employs about twelve people. The staff is small but they do a great deal of work. About 800 manuscripts are reviewed in a given year and about thirty to thirty-five of the best manuscripts are selected to be published.

The Notre Dame Press publishes a certain kind of book. "It exists to publish books that are deserving of publishing, which commercial publishers (such as Doubleday and Harper and Row) won't publish," Langford said. Landgord categorizes these books as "serious, non-fiction," about important issues.

The Press restricts itself to five or six strong areas that it knows it can publish well. Most of these books deal with humanities, ethnic studies, philosophy, theology, literature and political science. "If you can concentrate on just a few areas, Langford said, "you can build a strong program."

The Notre Dame Press ranks about twenty-fifth out of seven- seven university presses located in the entire country on the number of books reviewed and the level of sales. In terms of recognition and reputation, it ranks considerably higher than twenty-fifth. For example, Notre Dame was placed in a category with five other university presses, five times as large, that were included in a New York Times feature story. The profile also included Harvard, Princeton, The University of Chicago, Johns Hopkins and The University of California. "Our program is given the University a lot of recognition," Langford said.

Notre Dame's press sells many books to college, university and public libraries around the country. There are about 180 college libraries that stock the Notre Dame Press. Many book clubs sell the Notre Dame Press paperbacks which are used in courses where Notre Dame press paperbacks are used in courses. More of our books are used at Harvard than at Notre Dame," he added.

In addition to the use of the University Press paperbacks in other colleges and universities, all books published that carry Notre Dame's name are also published in England and sold in many parts of Europe. These books are not just books written by Notre Dame faculty members. In fact, two-thirds of the books are from authors outside of the Notre Dame community.

Unlike most university presses around the country, Notre Dame's is self-supporting. It receives no direct subsidizing from the University. Fewer than ten universities in the country break even," said Langford. "We attempt to break even, but we're not here to make a profit."

Langford cited three immediate goals of the Press. "We plan to sponsor an annual lecture series by world famous people," Langford said. At the present time, the University Press is negotiating with Carlos Fuentes, Mexico's most famous novelist.

A second plan is to invite national leaders to the University for a week to give lectures under the sponsorship of University Press. "The lectures will grow into a book that we'll publish," Langford said.

"We also hope to launch a kind of book club," he said. "The book club would inform the public of what the Press has to offer and would deal primarily with Notre Dame alumni. "Bookstores are generally located in shopping centers and they only carry the ten best sellers in fiction, and the ten best sellers in non-fiction. They don't carry more serious kinds of books," Langford said.

"Most alumni look back and would like to have a continuation of the sort of values that they discovered here," Langford said. "The main connections with the University after they graduate are through reunions and the Notre Dame Magazine. But there isn't a real focused sort of continuing education where important things are being brought to their attention."

The book club would keep in touch with the alumni and let them know about books that might be interesting to them, what books the press publishes and other books published by other presses that might make it easy for the alumni to order them.

Notre Dame's Board of Directors of the Alumni Association voted unanimously to encourage and support the idea. However, the club is still in the planning stage until adequate financing can be found.

One possibility for financing might be through the expected sales for this year. "We're hoping this year to get sales in the area of 600,000," Langford said.

The Notre Dame Press is also planning a book club. The book club would inform the public of what the Press has to offer and would deal primarily with Notre Dame alumni. The book club would keep in touch with the alumni and let them know about books that might be interesting to them, what books the press publishes and other books published by other presses that might make it easy for the alumni to order them.
American students at a time when oil prices within OPEC had, along with Kuwait, produced slightly more than half of the annual daily OPEC oil output of nearly 31 million barrels. The three countries have said they would like to cut production in 1980.

Under the circumstances, Miller returned from the trip with the best results. The President had said in his address to the United Nations that the case for the Palestinian was not the force behind the three countries' decision to halt what they described as economically and militarily impossible efforts to build a Palestinian state in the occupied territories. The President had also said that "the opportunity to do so will be gone forever." One U.S. diplomat in the Middle East observed:

"It's the annual pre-OPEC pledging by the United States, the one U.S. diplomat in the Middle East observed; it's the annual pre-OPEC pledging by the United States."
“The church seems bent on making a horrible mistake. It appears poised to make a horrific mistake. It seems to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.”

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions.

The church is making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. It appears to be making a mistake of catastrophic proportions. I believe this is a mistake of catastrophic proportions. No, I believe through the living reality beyond - in the person of Jesus.

God Himself, as Aquinas insisted, is the reality for the believing person. The current trend towards a static concept of faith, with its over-emphasis on memorization of creedal affirmations, is the current academic notion of faith is all about.

There is a concept of revealed truth, which is presented and transmitted through the church. And this cognitive element, this knowledge content of faith, is very important. But it is completely secondary and supplementary to the experiential encounter God is asking us to covenant and discipleship.

The current crisis of faith comes from stressing the cognitive without respecting the experiential. We are in danger of pervverting revelation, once again, into a thing -- a collection of information, a mere body of facts.

Churchmen once again seem to be on the brink of forgetting that revelation is an event wherein God himself personally communicates to us through various means (e.g., scripture, sacraments, historical events and especially other people), to establish and deepen a relationship of faithful love.

It is in the personal experience that is in question. What God encounters us, speaks to us, shows us who we are, and propels us to the ways we are doing to follow him. The fact that the current trend concentrates on information about God rather than on personal encounter with God is the reason why informed people like the bishop I referred to are becoming so alarmed.

A stable concept of faith, the bishop told me, “has always led to tragedy. Confusing faith with intellectual knowledge made it possible, for example, for Catholics in Nazi Germany to have the best catechists in the world and to be the most effectively instructed Catholics all the time Hitler was destroying their Jewish people.”

This same differentiation between theological literacy and authentic faith: between intellectual knowledge and a lived encounter, is absolutely essential. It must be possible for someone to have a straight 4.0 in theology courses and be, in fact, an atheist. It is one thing to know facts; it is quite another to live a totally different kind of life because of a transforming encounter with the living God.

A second reason is that faith is all about.

The current trend towards a static concept of faith, with its over-emphasis on memorization of creedal affirmations, is the current academic notion of faith is all about.

Unfortunately, this is exactly what revelation is not; precisely what faith is not. Revelation has always been, and continues to be, a culturally and historically distinguished human act.

In an earlier time, if we were asked the question, “What is revelation?” we might have replied, “It is an after-dinner concert, the entertainment: beginning with the welcome, while the court jester danced and performed under the costumes of the guests. The lord and lady of the house issued their compliments of the festivities.”

The atmosphere was set for the arrival of the guests and the commentary of the two and three weeks production schedules. And many would-be behaviors are unnecessary or optional (e.g., the study of Moreau Hall).

The study includes influences of the historical period and stored, the costumes worn in previous SMC/ND theatrical productions. Occasionally unique, but the number of ready-made costumes is so small that most must be made from scratch. Costumes are loaned to the Saint Mary’s Student Government and to the Music Department staff for school functions such as the Madrigal Dinners. In addition, they are sometimes loaned to local high schools. In any case, strict loan procedures are adhered to, to insure that costumes are returned in good condition.

Just as previously used costumes are organized and classified according to their historical period and stored, the patterns used to create them are also filed for reuse. For Dee Hawfield, designing costumes involves not only picking and matching patterns, but relying on improvisation in creating growing, personalized garments.

It stands to reason, that making elaborate clothing might prove very expensive if not carefully supervised. The results of careful planning and materials in bulk and soliciting the generous contributions of local clothiers will be precious. The aim is to provide maximum. Naturally, some productions do not require tailor-made costumes, while the costumes for The Heiress are taken from the SMC/ND Costume shop. Our goal, for Dee Hawfield, is the purchase and alteration of the costumes for the next play. Hawfield and her assistants studied the costume shop. The costumes for Hamlet, cast about fourteen hundred dollars. If you are interested in knowing more about the garments interests you, go to see The Heiress--better yet, go after your services at the costume shop!
The Observer

Monday, December 3, 1979 - page 7

The Heiress - A Striking Study

ND/SMC Theatre 1979 O’Laughlin Auditorium

Molly Wolufe

The Heiress, a play by Ruth and Augustus Goetz, (based on Henry James’ novel The Heiress) is a striking study of subtle cruelty between mother and son, a web of complicity between lovers. Directing such a play on stage is no easy task; and exploring the melancholy outcomes, must be presented both sensitively and relentlessly. The play must be successful for the most part. For the Lyceum’s production, which opened last Friday, at Saint Mary’s O’Laughlin Hall.

The entire action of this seven scene play occurs in the handsome parlor of one Dr. Austin Sloper’s home in Washington Square in New York. In the opening scene, Captain Willard is searching for the legendary outlaw, Captain Willard (Martin Sheen) is rapidly moving from despondency to mania, saying "Everytime I wake up, I think I’d be back in the jungle.”

"I love the smell of napalm in the morning. It’s the smell of victory,” the doctor retorts “You are clever, he icily instructs Davenport. "You have?" is a priceless moment, as she later says, "I have been caught by mavericks." At first, Cathy Hurst, as Catherine, is more stuff that2 literally but she soon settled into her character and admirably developed her role. Immediately after the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her he has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’ Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’ Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’ Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’ Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.

O’ Laughlin succeeds at ease with the formal English spoken at the time than the other members of the cast, and consequently sounds like a smooth talking salesman than a nobly secure soldier. In the Broadway staging of Heiress, featuring Richard Kiley as Sloper and John Alexander as Catherine, David Selby as Dark Shadows fame portrayed Morris as an irrationally villain, so that the audience was torn between pitying him or applauding Catherine’s actions at the play’s climactic conclusion. No such dilemma in O’Laughlin Hall, the audience was delighted by the performances of Lavina Penniman, Catherine’s widowed aunt, and by Christine Foy, Duvall is a giant in his role, which is an easy task, with all the men looking for maniacal, make-up artist, who is most appealing as the early, vulnerable Catherine, when Morris (James O’Brien) first tells her she has fallen in love with her, but stuns her. “You have?” is a priceless moment, as it is her first kiss.
The Observer
Monday, December 3, 1979 - page 8

IN CONCERT
When in Southern California visit STUDIOS TOUA

These students brave the cold as they participate in a student sailing regatta over the weekend. Angelo Caprio emerged as the winner. [photo by Chris Salvin] and they agree that the present organizational structure should...

WSND

...WSND

These students brave the cold as they participate in a student sailing regatta over the weekend. Angelo Caprio emerged as the winner. [photo by Chris Salvin] made up of the top seven management people.

...WSND

"The people to whom the chief executive is accountable are people who work for him," Roemer added, "and that doesn't seem to me to be a proper kind of board."

O'Brien does not feel that such an advisory board is necessary. "There are no boards that Dean Roemer is talking about in professional broadcasting," O'Brien said, "and we won't let someone...

(continued on page 1)
LAST MONDAY NIGHT
THESE GUYS PLAYED...

THESE GUYS WON.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Prize</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mark Biebowski</td>
<td>$5.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Diane Bryant</td>
<td>$25.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Frank Dillon</td>
<td>$5.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sean McCaffry</td>
<td>$10.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>John McGee</td>
<td>$15.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Craig Mehlinke</td>
<td>$25.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tim Method</td>
<td>$25.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tim Rathbone</td>
<td>$10.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kevin Cumplon</td>
<td>$10.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trevor Enzell</td>
<td>$5.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rod Ewalt</td>
<td>$10.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tadco J. Rambert</td>
<td>$2.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michael J. Serrets</td>
<td>$5.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mike Cost</td>
<td>$1.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Game Days: Nov. 26
Atlanta 5 1
Los Angeles 3 1

LIMIT ONE GAME CARD PER CUSTOMER PER VISIT.

PLAY PRO FOOTBALL ON MONDAY NIGHTS
Get a free game ticket every time you visit a participating campus food service location.

AT THE HUDDLE
THE Observer
Monday, December 3, 1979 - page 10

DOONESBURY

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

WEVT, WATU WITH THESE
118,000 albums and tapes in stock

ALL THIS, OUR "FIN MIKED PE DECADE"
end concert ticket headquarters

RIVER CITY RECORDS
920 N. Nappanee St.
219-555-5313

DETROIT BUS!!!

by Michael Molinelli

(continued from page 12)

Meredith assisted on Devine's goal, but scored the final two to give Notre Dame its first victory in nine games in Madison. With Wisconsin's Jim Shuldford off for interference, Meredith scored his first goal on a deflection of a Jeff Brownwisch-schidle slapshot from the right point. The Irish captain bear goalie Roy Shultz at 8:31 of the second period to give Notre Dame a 3-2 lead.

Then at 15:28 Notre Dame's John Higgins and Badger Dave Speer erupted into a fight after Speer had hit Higgins across the back with his stick. Both players were disqualified from the game, and Higgins received a minor penalty for roughing. Wisconsin took advantage of the power play with a goal by Todd Ley at 10:31 to even the score at 3-3. Todd had taken the puck on a pass across the crease from his brother Scott and had plenty of room to slip it in by Irish goalie Bob McNamara.

Meredith scored the game winner at 6:17 of the third period when he grabbed a rebound of a Brownwisch-schidle slapshot, skated to the right of Schultz and backhanded it over the sprawled Badger goalie. McNamara played superbly for the Irish in the third period, stopping all 12 Wisconsin attempts. The Badgers also had two power play opportunities in the final 20 minutes of play.

"McNamara came up with the key saves for us Saturday," said Smith. "His play was a big factor."

Friday night Griffin paced Wisconsin's victory with his first career hat trick. He beat Irish goalie Dave Laurion's wakeup on a pass across the crease from his brother Scott and had plenty of room to slip it in by Irish goalie Bob McNamara.

Meredith assisted on Devine's goal, but scored the final two to give Notre Dame its first victory in nine games in Madison. With Wisconsin's Jim Shuldford off for interference, Meredith scored his first goal on a deflection of a Jeff Brownwisch-schidle slapshot from the right point. The Irish captain bear goalie Roy Shultz at 8:31 of the second period to give Notre Dame a 3-2 lead.

Then at 15:28 Notre Dame's John Higgins and Badger Dave Speer erupted into a fight after Speer had hit Higgins across the back with his stick. Both players were disqualified from the game, and Higgins received a minor penalty for roughing. Wisconsin took advantage of the power play with a goal by Todd Ley at 10:31 to even the score at 3-3. Todd had taken the puck on a pass across the crease from his brother Scott and had plenty of room to slip it in by Irish goalie Bob McNamara.

Meredith scored the game winner at 6:17 of the third period when he grabbed a rebound of a Brownwisch-schidle slapshot, skated to the right of Schultz and backhanded it over the sprawled Badger goalie. McNamara played superbly for the Irish in the third period, stopping all 12 Wisconsin attempts. The Badgers also had two power play opportunities in the final 20 minutes of play.

"McNamara came up with the key saves for us Saturday," said Smith. "His play was a big factor."

Friday night Griffin paced Wisconsin's victory with his first career hat trick. He beat Irish goalie Dave Laurion's wakeup on a pass across the crease from his brother Scott and had plenty of room to slip it in by Irish goalie Bob McNamara.
new players are going to respond to competition, and I liked what I saw at Taylor. We got to play everybody this week. I think we ran into a few wrinkles, we’ll be better the next time.

If we can iron out a few more wrinkles, we’ll be OK.

... Valpo

[continued from page 12]

Jen and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... Belles

[continued from page 12]

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.

... and Paxson had 12 points each, while Jackson and Paxson had 12 each.

Woodridge, starting his first game as Irish center, scored only six points — all three baskets being slam dunks — but helped Woodridge down 12 rebounds and blocked three shots.

In addition to Simmons’ 28 points, freshman guard Julian Hudson collected 21 points. Jackson had more than six assists. Simmons led the Crusaders with 12 rebounds.

The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery. The Irish will go up against a much bigger team tonight (8:00 p.m.) at the Florissant-based Lesaffre Bakery.
Split series

Meredith leads Irish past Wisconsin

by Brian Beglane

Sports Writer

MADISON, Wis. - Overall, the memories the Notre Dame hockey team carries from the District County Memorial Coliseum are not good. That is not surprising when you consider the record the Crusaders have in the Midwest's oldest Western Collegiate Hockey Association rival, Wisconsin. In 24 games at the Dane 'tumble rink,' Notre Dame has lost 20 and won only four. But for now, the memories the Irish have are not as bad. The reason is win number four, which Notre Dame collected via a 4-3 victory over the Badgers Saturday night. That win followed a 5-3 Wisconsin triumph in the series opener Friday, and gave the Irish a split in last WCHA series before Christmas break.

Notre Dame finishes up the first half of the regular schedule this weekend with two non-tournament contests, one at Bowling Green Friday and the other at home versus Western Michigan Sunday afternoon. The Irish take a 1-3-1 league record into the weekend, and are 8-5-overall. Wisconsin is 6-6-1 in WCHA play and 7-6-overall.

"You're never happy when you lose, but we have to accept this as a loss," said Notre Dame coach Jeff Logan. "But when you look at your mistakes, we were outplayed. It was a battle, but we didn't get better. It's just not good enough."

"We're just not having the time of our lives," said senior co-captain Pat Politi. "We're trying to do too much, we're almost not getting to play."

"We're not doing the things we need to do to win. We're not getting loose passes, we're not playing with a lot of enthusiasm."

Most significant among the absent Irish Friday night was senior forward Mike Donnelly, who missed the game because of a Rhodes Scholarship interview back in his native Toronto. He flew into Madison Saturday afternoon in time enough, however, to pace the Irish victory with two goals and one assist. Included in those two scores was the game winner, "I don't want to take anything away from anyone else," said Jeff Logan, "but special recognition certainly should be paid to Meredith, and allTER. Both players were just outstanding. Michaela had to carry the leadership burden Friday night alone when Greg was missing."

"Then Saturday night both players added an incredible amount of ice time. For them to perform as they did has to pick up the slack on the team. The value of Greg to our club was shown in the goal scoring column as well on Saturday."

Irish coach Jeff Logan and Pat Donnelly, who was playing before his hometown of Madison, exchanged goals in the first period with Badgers Lexi Della-Rosa and Ron Griffin for a 2-2 score after the buzzer.

ND takes Valparaiso Tournament by Mark Hannakelva

It's always nice to open the season with a win. Two wins make for double pleasure. So when the Irish opened the weekend on Saturday against the Crusaders and overcame the 20-8 lead before coach Digger Phelps replaced his five starters with a fresh lineup midway through the first half, it was a case of the Irish boiling over and never looking back.

Forward Kelly Tripucka led the way with 22 points, while [continued on page 11]

Belles falter after opening victory by Beth Hoffman

Women's Sports Editor

Saint Mary's basketball season started out a little like the month of March. The Belles roared like a lion with a 61-46 win at Indiana Central on Thursday, but crept out like a lamb with a 74-64 loss at Illinois Benedictine College on Saturday.

Anne Armstrong, one of the team's seven freshmen, added double figures in both games to lead all scorers in the win over the Crusaders. Armstrong, a Sylvania, Ohio native, collected 23 points against Benedictine and 18 versus Central.

In Saturday night's loss, Benedictine grabbed the early lead, but the Belles managed to narrow the margin and finally tied the game at half, 38-38, with a stubborn full-court press. Saint Mary's and Benedictine tossed the lead back and forth in the second period, but midway through the half both teams took command, 60-56, and never relinquished that lead. As the half closed the Belles' full-court press again helped the Saint Mary's effort, but unlike the first half, that aid was not enough.

"We just did poor fundamentally," commented the Belles' head coach Jerry Della-Sasso after the loss. "Our passing was terrible. We didn't re- respond, and that really tells me the worst I've ever seen. I was very proud, though, that the players never gave up and were fighting hard to the buzzer."

It's always nice to open the season with a win. Two wins make for double pleasure. So when the Irish opened the weekend on Saturday against the Crusaders and overcame the 20-8 lead before coach Digger Phelps replaced his five starters with a fresh lineup midway through the first half, it was a case of the Irish boiling over and never looking back.

Forward Kelly Tripucka led the way with 22 points, while [continued on page 11]