From Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - FBI probe implicates officials

The FBI investigation into corruption in New Mexico has implicated eight members of Congress, sources said. The probe is said to be the largest political corruption investigation in our nation's history.

The investigation used undercover FBI men posing as casino gambling license and prison officials seeking bribes. The FBI never had to use entrapment.

A source familiar with the investigation said that FBI agents paid out almost $500,000 in bribes.

The source, who asked not to be named, said that FBI agents paid out almost $100,000 in cash to the officials, although fewer than 10 of them took money.

"Some arranged meetings or did other favors," the source said.

In addition to state and local officials in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the source said those who became subjects of the probe were: U.S. Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr., D-N.J. and U.S. Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., Frank Thompson, Jr., D-N.J., Michael O. Myers, D-Pa., John W. Jenrette, D-S.C., John P. Martha, D-Pa., and Richard Kelly, R-Fla.

Those contacted denied any wrongdoing.

Sources said that Webster and Assistant Attorney General Philip Heymann watched closely to avoid entrapment, which is a frequent risk in undercover investigations and constitutes a defense against conviction.

Defense attorneys must then prove the law enforcement officer instigated the crime and that the defendant was not otherwise predisposed to join in the scheme.

But one source said, "The FBI undercover men never were the first to suggest bribes to the subjects. Originally, they weren't even investigating political corruption, but running a phony fencing operation for stolen art, stocks and bonds. Informants and lawyers who came to bring them to the attention of authorities seeking bribes.

Another protection against entrapment, the FBI videotaped some of the osseous robbery transactions, including some in an expensive house in the fashionable Georgetown section of Washington. When the videotapes are shown, it will prove there wasn't entrapment.

Brzezinski analyzes situation

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) - U.S. national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski said yesterday the proposed $400 million military aid to Pakistan is "only the beginning of the United States response to the threat posed by Soviet troops in Afghanistan.

"There is an urgent need for the United States to move quickly to safeguard Pakistan in terms of the 1959 (mutual) defense pact between the United States and Pakistan," Brzezinski said.

Brzezinski did not indicate if the two sides had reached agreement on the size of the U.S. aid package to Pakistan.

Last week, Zia called the $400 million in military aid "an outrageous move and "preposterous." Pakistan and the United States have had strained relations in recent years over a cutoff in U.S. military supplies and American criticism of Islamabad's nuclear expansion.

Brzezinski added that while the United States is willing to provide a "sizable amount of aid to Pakistan," he called for "continued cooperation in maintaining Pakistan's "freedom of action" in the region.

Brzezinski emphasized the need for "concerted action" and said that Pakistan faces a "serious threat" from the Soviet presence in neighboring Afghanistan.

On March 21 and 22, he will meet with President Jimmy Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Brzezinski said that the United States has made it clear to the Soviets that there will be "no deal" unless the Soviets withdraw from Afghanistan.

Jazz Festival selects ensembles

by Jane Barber

This year the Notre Dame Collegiate Jazz Festival will be held March 21 and 22.

Established in 1959, this will be the twenty-second edition of the oldest and largest, and possibly the only festival of its kind.

The Festival is sponsored by the Cultural Arts Commission of the Student Union, and is a non-profit event to promote jazz education at the collegiate level. The 1980 Festival is chaired by Stan Huddleston, with Fr. George Wiskirchen, S.J. as Faculty Advisor.

Billy Taylor, a versatile pianist and composer, and Tony Williams, a jazz drummer, are the two judges chosen thus far of the six that will be selected. Applications were sent out to thirty-five college jazz bands who were asked to send tape of their performances to the Jazz Festival committee, which consists of thirteen students who are various department heads.

Of the twenty-five groups that replied, ten ensembles and five combos were selected. The five combos are those from Notre Dame, the University of Iowa, University of Wisconsin, Ohio State University and Indiana University.

The ensembles are from Notre Dame, Iowa University, Alabama University, Purdue University, Northwestern University, University of Wisconsin Madison, University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, New England Conservatory, University of Akron and Ohio State University.

As always, prizes will be awarded to individuals and ensembles, not to schools collectively. Last year, fifteen individuals from various colleges were commended.

As in the case of the Midwest Blues Festival, the allowable budget for the Jazz Festival was cut this year. Because Jazz is still in an early stage of planning, the full extent of the effect that the lost funds will create is still indefinite.

It is certain that there will be no guest band performing this year as has been the custom in past festivals, because of the lack of money to provide a sizeable amount of financial assistance.

The schedule for Friday night, March 21, consists of performances by five of the competing bands and a jam session for the six judges.

On Saturday, March 22, there will be two competition sessions for the participating bands. The judges deliberation and awards presentation will conclude the Festival that evening. The cost of the weekend admission pass for the Festival will be approximately $7.50.

Guardsmen recapture New Mexico prison

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) - National Guardsmen and a police SWAT team recaptured a New Mexico prison yesterday to free all the remaining hostages and end a 36-hour bloodbath that left at least 27 inmates dead and 50 persons hospitalized.

State Criminal Justice Secretary Adolph Saenz said the death toll had reached 27 "not counting the gymnast who had been burned for more than 12 hours."

"The violence was incredible," Saenz said. One of the prisons was destroyed.

There were earlier reports that the prison had served as a funeral parlor for the large number of prisoners, but Deputy Warden Randy Boyer said that was an unconfirmed rumor.

A corrections officer, Fred Henderson, said some of the dead inmates had been mutilated, making it difficult to identify them.

"Some of these guys' faces are totally gone," he said. "There's nothing to identify them by."

 Asked whether it was taking place in a prison, he said, "It's from the prisoners.'"

Gov. Bruce King said he agreed with the plan to keep the troops despaired threats that the hostages would be killed.

Without firing a shot, about 100 Guardsmen and police entered the grounds at 1:45 P.M. MST. When a group of about 25 defiant inmates holding the administrative building began shouting at the officers, the Guardsmen fired at the prisoners.

"Shoot us," one of the convicts yelled. "We've got no guns."

A short time later, Corrections Commission Chairman Bud Richards announced, "We're in control right now. Not a shot has been fired."

Correction officers said the three prison guards and nine undercover FBI men originally taken hostage were found safe. Two guards were found in a gas tank, which is no longer used, and a medical technician was found hiding in a vault.

"We were totally under control and we have all the hostages," King said.

"The prisoners were identified by the number of prisoners that we did lose - some to smoke and some to other things."

The governor said the death toll may go up a little higher, but "not to any of the numbers we have here before."

Some Sen. Manny Aragon of Albuquerque, who met with prisoners during the negotiations, said that based on what he was told, the death toll could go to 75 or more. "I wouldn't doubt it," he replied when asked if that was possible.

Aragon said there were "quite a few bodies" reported inside the prison gym which was still on fire.

As another protection against the ça a cor­ sion, it is certain that there will be no guest band performing this year as has been the custom in past festivals, because of the lack of money to provide a sizeable amount of financial assistance.

Americans support military in Gulf if Soviets invade

NEW YORK (AP) - Americans say they are willing to send U.S. troops to the Persian Gulf if the Soviets invade that region, the Associated Press NBC News poll shows. The public supports the thrust of the so-called "Carter Doctrine" put forward by President Carter in his State of the Union Message in late January. The poll found Americans almost 4 to 1 in favor of using U.S. military power to defend the Persian Gulf as they are to defend Western Europe.

According to Russo, the fate of future aid programs are decided through a lot of political maneuvering on Capitol Hill.

The Observer has learned of two stories that serve to illustrate Russo's point. According to the 1978 federal budget, $15 million were allocated to the NDSL, however, by the end of the fiscal year $110 million had been used in the program. In another case in the 1976 fiscal year, no money whatsoever was appropriated for student assistance, yet through various supplemental bills, $320 million were utilized for financial aid.

When asked why such a move would be made by the federal government in decreasing aid, Russo offered several reasons.

"Besides the move towards reduction of federal spending, a possible explanation might be the desire on the part of the federal government to consolidate its financial aid programs. There are many different scholarships and other types of funds, and this can make for a confusing situation. If some of those programs were cancelled, then it will be easier for the government to coordinate student assistance."

Russo conceded that delinquency in repayment of the loans is a problem. He does not feel, however, that this would be as bad as it first appears.

"What goes on with regard to financial aid is dictated by the political arena. When there is a sense of compromise, I do not feel that this budget will be passed without some negotiation between Congress and the president," Russo also explained.

The Financial Director repeated that this budget was not the first, nor is the last, to reflect that possible cutback. Russo claimed that the situation would not be as bad as it first appears. Off-Campus Commission distributes crime survey

by Mary Ellen Woods

According to Shannon Neville, off-campus commissioner, all off-campus students will receive a crime survey by the end of this week. The survey is an attempt to determine the extent of the crime against off-campus students, and is directed to graduate as well as undergraduate students.

Neville stated that the Off-Campus Commission (OCC) is attempting to dispel rumors regarding off-campus crime. "Our main purpose," Neville stated, "is to assemble and organize valid statistics in order to analyze the extent of off-campus crime."

"Many students do not report crimes to the Police or the Student Housing Office. For this reason, we cannot get an accurate list of crimes committed against off-campus students," Neville noted. In addition, the Police Department does not distinguish crimes against students from other crime which takes place in a given neighborhood.

The crime survey asks students to report any crimes of which they have been victims. Students should note if force was involved. They are to comment on the assistance of the South Bend Police, their landlords, and the Notre Dame Housing Office.

The survey will also report on the safety of off-campus housing, and the role of the landlord and the local police in maintaining the neighborhood. Neville pointed to the survey, which asks for suggestions for increased security in students' houses and neighborhoods.

Prompted by Notre Dame professor Albert LeMay, a member of the Board of Delegates, the OCC prepared the survey. The survey will be presented to the Notre Dame Student Administration, the Faculty Senate, the Housing Office, and The Observer. Neville asks that all off-campus students return the survey in order to present an accurate and complete picture of the problem of off-campus crime. She stressed that the survey may be an aid to Juniors who are looking for off-campus housing for next year.

The survey will enable us to pin-point trouble spots which students may then wish to look for housing in the coming year," Neville said.

Neville asked that completed surveys be returned to the Off-Campus Room in the LaFortune Student Center. There will be a box there for that purpose.

Academy Awards
Student Union presents film fest

by Kelli Flint

An Academy Awards film festival will be one of the highlights of the Student Union activities for this semester, according to Tom Hanel, director of the Student Union.

The festival, which takes place March 8-10, will be an extension of the Academy Award winning film festival which was presented last week with the assistance of Mr. Do and concluding with 'Patsy.'

The Cultural Arts Commission, a division of the Student Union, will be presenting the Academy Awards, an Oscar winning film festival, Sophomore Literary Festival. Hanel added that the Cultural Arts Commission is not suffering financial difficulties, and that the Sophomore Literary Festival budget will not be cut.

The Student Players will be performing in 'The Bar Kneepipe' April 17. The Players last presented 'Stop the World, I Want to Get Off.'

Conjunction with the Black Cultural Arts Festival, Nikki Giovanni will speak in the Library Auditorium on February 12. The Student Union will also be sponsoring a Mardi Gras Valentine dance, semi-formal, with a 50's band. The theme of the dance will be the 'Juke 50's.'

The Union is also trying to plan a trip, similar to last semester's journey to see the musical 'Ain't In Chicago.' The 'Ain't' trip was very successful. Hanel said. "We are trying to plan one to the Chicago Symphony, or possibly another play."

Applications for Student Union Director and Comprooler are available in the Student Union office through February 13.

Chicago Teachers Union votes to strike today

CHICAGO (AP) - Members of the Chicago Teachers Union voted by a margin of three to one Sunday to go on strike Monday morning, union President Robert Healey said.

Interim School Superintendent Annette Caruso said public schools would be open despite the strike. Chicago schools were closed all week even though teachers did not show up.

The vote was taken at the union's first general membership meeting in eight years. Earlier, the CTU executive board voted 60-0 to recommend the strike. "The union's executive board voted to recommend the strike because the city's $3.5 million budget is not enough to take care of the needs of the children and the teachers," Healey said.

Healey said the city's 48,500 employees get their paychecks Friday but the union and the city continued to haggle over two issues - restoring jobs of teachers and aides which the board had cut to save money and adding to the current $5.4 million savings to the school days lost during the walkout.

The CTU executive met after 15 hours of waiting for the board's response to the final teacher proposals. Healey said the board members, "would not restore the teachers or the aids, or live up to our contract" by restoring the days lost.

School board president Catherine Rolster, called Healey's statement "most unfortunate." Rolster said she would not sign the paychecks and the school board's $206 million loan to the school system is "in serious straits."

Carter proposes charter to govern secret court

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration intends to propose that a new, secret court be given power to authorize covert government intelligence agents to break into homes and offices and open mail of certain Americans.

But with President Carter's proposal still at least five days from being made public, debate has already begun over just which Americans should be targets of such intrusions.

The question is whether the government can act against any American believed to be an agent of a foreign power or only against Americans suspected of criminal activity. Another question is just how certain of that criminal activity the government must be.

The issue arises because Carter plans to propose, possibly as early as Friday, a comprehensive charter to govern a wide range of activities by U.S. intelligence agencies, including the CIA, FBI, National Security Agency and others.

In his State of the Union message last month, Carter said that because of increased U.S.-Soviet tensions, he wanted to broaden restrictions placed on these agencies after abuses by them came to light in the 1970s.

Farm Labor Organization calls for campus boycott

by Brenda Brown

Representatives of the farm Labor Organization Committee (FLOC) met last Friday with Fr. John Van Wolvlear, Vice-President for Student Affairs, to discuss details for a referendum for a campus boycott of Campbell and Libby producers.

The FLOC is working to gain support from support to irresponsible, "shirt jargon" harassment. As he is uncertain about organizing the movement, Ireland said that his group would start a petition in order to gain support from the campus.

According to Fr. Van Wolvlear, the FLOC is required to present their views in the event that Campbel and Libby fail to participate in a meeting with the FLOC. The boycott would have to prove that a "honest attempt was made" to enlist their participation before the referendum would appear on the ballot.

The referendum was originally proposed last spring but failed to take effect when fifty percent of the student body did not vote. The referendum will be reintroduced during student government elections this spring.

Socrates favors Olympic Boycott

Bryan O'Neill

In spite of the fact that school has just started again, I reckon I've already read too much about Socrates. The other night I fell asleep and dreamt that somehow Socrates was alive and on campus. He struck out like a sore thumb in that classical Greek garb. Many of the students just thought he was some crazy lunatic out to recapture his youth at a toga party. I recognized him instantly, however, and just had to talk to him. Amazingly, he was very up-to-date on the current world situation. I couldn't miss this opportunity like this one so I immediately began to give him some of my own words:

"Olympics above politics, that's what I say. Our athletes should be free to compete with the athletes of any other country no matter what the political situation is. After all, they have trained long and hard. To rob the athletes of a chance to compete would be to rob them of the one goal they've had for so long."

That's a good point," Socrates replied, "but what is the essence of politics? Is it, as not, have I read in a recent Wall Street Journal editorial, the airing of opinions on matters which disturb the country wherever they are?"

Reluctantly, I conceded (admitting of course that the Olympics were not above politics). But I was quick to point out what I had said earlier; athletes should be free to compete with each other no matter what the political situation is.

"Exactly," I replied.

"Then we could logically extend this idea to all professions. Imagine. We might have international scientists, engineers, architects, lawyers, computer experts and doctors working towards a common goal."

"Well wait a minute, Socrates. We can't all work together towards a common end. The 'politics' of the matter would prevent that."

"Then what is the special factor that allows the world's athletes to compete together?"

By this time I was becoming impatient. "It's the hard work, the dedication, the years of training that these athletes apart. Many have practiced years for these games. All the athletes could not afford to train any longer. After all the sacrifices that the athletes have made."

"Imagine. We might be able to work peacefully together towards a common goal!"

"That's a very admirable thought, Socrates. At your eyes lit up. "What a virtuous thought indeed. You mean that men of different cultures, different beliefs and different religions are able to work peacefully together towards a common goal?"

"Exactly," I replied.

"Then could we logically extend this idea to all professions. Imagine. We might have international scientists, engineers, architects, lawyers, computer experts and doctors working towards a common goal."

"That's a very admirable point," replied Socrates. Dedication, sacrifice, hard work, and a common goal, is it not?"
One young duck has turned himself over to authorities and has given an extensive account of the Soviet plan. Assured that he would be granted immunity for his testimony, he told the State Dept. and University officials that the KGB agents took advantage of the lake residents' disinterest in the appearance of suspicious wave patterns on the lakes of the campus to the State Department the day after Ford's visit.

A senior State Dept. official said that these reports and subsequent flyover studies of the lakes confirmed the existence of a Soviet deep sea mining platform. The Soviet Union has armed the ducks and geese of Notre Dame with several advanced and tactical weapons. There was no specific information on the type and types of weapons that the waterfowl have already been used in the area.

The public has been left with only these reports and testimonies, but the senior official, who did not want to be named, did say that most students and faculty members would not be particularly upset by the presence of some weapons since they appeared to mostly pro-nuclear at one of Ford's lectures.

three baskets by Shar Matvey, two free throws by Jane Pollock, and another free throw by Molly Cashman cut the lead to 22-20, with 2:11 left.

A breakaway bucket by Lisa Martin started a string of eight unanswered Warrior points, which carried over into the second half and gave Marquette a 20-lead. Notre Dame could get no closer than nine points the rest of the way.

There were a couple of bright spots for the Irish. One was the play of Maggie Lally. The junior guard hit seven of 14 field goal attempts in the second half, all from the 15-foot range, and finished as Notre Dame’s leading scorer with 14 points.

Another bright spot, which came late in the first half, was when Shar Matvey broke another in the bounce for the previous record holder, Carol Lally, watching from the stands. Matvey took a pass from Lonboy and hit a five-foot jumper to set up the single-season scoring record for Notre Dame. She now has 287 points on the year, breaking the old mark of 281 set last year.

The reports prompted a weekend conference of Republican congressmen, governors and other officials in Atlantic City to urge an “immediate, full, impartial investigation of the charges by congressional ethics committees.

The FBI investigation was conducted in five cities and several points in between, according to several sources. The cities were Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Miami, and Newark, N.J.

One source said the locations used for meetings included the Barclay Hotel in Philadelphia, the Twin Bridges Marriott in the Washington Suburbs, the Plaza Hotel in New York, and a condominium in Ventnor, N.J., near Atlantic City.

About 100 FBI agents began interviewing the 30 subjects of the probe on Saturday to advance their investigation, read them their rights and question them. “Most of them told the FBI to go to hell,” said one source.

No charges have been filed, nor arrests made, but several sources said federal officials were planning to present their evidence to one or more grand juries, perhaps as early as this week.

One source familiar with the investigation gave this account of it:

The FBI did not begin the operation as a political corruption investigation. Its New York office proposed nearly two years ago a complicated undercover sting probe in which agents posed as fences willing to buy stolen art and financial instruments.

The fencing operation was undercover in the summer of 1978. In order to give it legitimacy in the eyes of criminals, the FBI men asked an informant for a favor.

To the surprise of the FBI, the informant volunteered the names of lawyers, local officials and congressmen who might help. This turned the probe toward political corruption, in November 1978. As more and more figures were lured by the bait of cash bribes, the probe “grew like Topsy” during 1979, eventually involving seven undercover FBI men and 100 other agents backing them up.

The FBI men and others helped them pose as businessmen and even as Arabs representing a South American who wanted a gambling license in Atlantic City and in whose opinion he could live in this country permanently if he fell into disfavor with U.S. authorities.

One agent operated out of the Georgetown house where a number of the transactions were videotaped.

Ireland said the undercover political corruption side of the inquiry was slowed now, but that the fencing operation, which already has led to one criminal charge, might continue.

“There is admittedly something very exciting about watching the American flag burn after night,” he added.

Before calling for campus support, Ireland canvassed the CARD headquarters in Chicago. He said that organizers there were doubtful that a movement would be successful in N.D. Ireland quotes “Notre Dame has been notoriously conservative — even apathetic.” Directors suggested that he contact Monsigneur Egan, who referred him to Campus Ministry.

Ireland said that he hopes to eventually solicit support from Campus Ministry and faculty members, notably Prof. Joseph Duffy, as well as from Indiana’s Senator Brademas and perhaps Father Hesburgh. His first concern, though, is to organize a student alliance.
Belles finish second in tourney

Indiana Tech just keeps getting stronger and stronger as the minutes ticked away in the championship game of the Saint Mary's Roundball Classic on Saturday.

Tech managed to tie the game with host Saint Mary's as the seconds of regulation play elapsed. Five minutes of overtime granted Kirk Kavanaugh's Warriors just enough additional time to nab the crown with a 66-64 win over the Belles.

"They outplayed us. We made a lot of fundamental mistakes," said Jerry Dallessio of 9-6 Belles. "We played like it was the fourth game of the season. We had been progressing, but tonight we regressed to where we were before Christmas."

"Tonight there was just no blocking out. They got three and four shots, and anytime you give away that many you'll get beat," continued the Saint Mary's mentor.

Saint Mary's jumped out to an early lead, relying heavily on its fastbreak offense. The Belles built a 26-19 margin, its largest of the contest, on a typical play of the day: rebound and four shots, and anytime you give away that many you'll get beat, said Dallessio.

"We usually play one half of our game, and four or five minutes late, our game is over," said Saint Mary's guard Armstrong with 17 points to her credit at halftime.

"You can probably give the Belles a lead and they're not going to win. We were out-thought, out-executed, out-rebounded and out-played. They just beat us," said Dallessio.

Notre Dame then made its move, bringing the margin, until they reached the 34-32 mark, at the six minute mark. Tech exploded for 17 of her game-high 18 points, hit both ends of a one-and-one opportunity to give the Warriors a lead they would never relinquish.

Marquette continually widened the margin, until they reached their biggest lead of the first half. That was the major reason why Notre Dame suffered in its fifth loss of the season, 67-46, at the ACC.

The Belles were completely dominated on both ends of the floor, scoring only 16 points in the first half, and hitting only two of eight free throw attempts. Notre Dame hit seven of 10.

Dame suffered a one-and-one opportunity to give the Warriors a lead they would never relinquish. Marquette continually widened the margin, until they reached their biggest lead of the first half, 22-11, with 4:41 remaining. Notre Dame then made its only real run at the minsters, a (continued on page 8)

Swimmers shine; easily beat Bonnies

Win one for McDermott!" was the theme of Saturday's popular Irish swimming team destroyed visit to St. Bonaventure Saturday, 63-48 to close out the home schedule for the 1979-80 sea- son.

Irish, Badgers split as Smith wins 200

What a difference a day makes.

On Saturday afternoon the Irish eyes were smiling, as the Notre Dame hockey team came away with an exciting 4-3 win in the opener in its series with the Wisconsin Badgers. For Irish coach Lefty Smith it was a day for rejoicing, as he notched his 200th Notre Dame victory and also celebrated the birth of his grandson midway through the first period.

But on Sunday the Big Red fans did the celebrating, as Wisconsin overcame a 4-1 Notre Dame lead and scored two goals late in the third period to leave South Bend with a 7-5 win and a split for the series.

"I gave Wisconsin a lot of credit for coming back the way they did," Smith said about Sunday's contest. "We just didn't have that killer instinct. The Badgers could have folded, but they didn't.

The Badgers gained the early lead on Sunday, as Jon Morgan connected on the power play. But the Irish came back with a vengeance, scoring three goals in the last three minutes of the first period.

Dale Collard started the Notre Dame flurry with 2:10 left, tipping in a shot on a frantic scramble in front of the net. Defensive man Jeff Brownshedd gave the Irish the lead on a breakaway 47 seconds later, and then Greg Meredith poked in Tom Michael's rebound with only two seconds left in the period.

When Meredith notched his second goal on another assist from Michalek early in the second stanza, it appeared that the Irish were going to run with their sixth straight victory.

"But we started to let up," Smith noted. "We were getting more individualistic, starting taking chances we shouldn't have, and that burned us.

"When you get somebody down, you squeeze them. We didn't."

The Badgers responded with four straight goals of their own, including two by Chuck Duscher, and Ron Giffin's tip-in with Irish goalie Dave Laurion completely out of position gave Wisconsin a 5-4 lead going into the final period.

Paxson, ND outclass Davidson

by Paul McLane
Assistant Sports Editor

Davidson coach Eddie Beckman was in no happy mood when he heard that Notre Dame had lost to LaSalle last Wednesday night.

"Notre Dame came out ready to kill us," offered Beckman, after his Wildcats were humiliated by the Irish, 105-71, Saturday night at the ACC.

"They had to make up for the loss, and we happened to be next on line."

Notre Dame was simply too much for their outclassed guests. They pleased the home crowd by scoring the game's first eight points, and later stringing on nine and 14 straight points. It was over early.

"Davidson did enough to stay with us for the first few minutes, but we got those spurs that enabled us to dominate," said Irish coach Digger Phelps. "I'm really happy with the way we played. We shot and rebounded, and mixed our defenses well."

Notre Dame shot 54 percent from the field, outrebounded the Wildcats, 46-27, and committed only 10 turnovers.

The Irish athletic department are crying "Broke," as every turn. Of course, they won't let anyone actually shake their piggy bank, but it's obvious they are on the verge of being in trouble.

"Of money, that is."

By no means is it a secret that the Ayatollahs of Notre Dame athletics are crying "Broke," even a few tears under the north dome of the Golden Dome. Obviously, the whole state crowd with some of his pursuits. They pleased the home crowd by scoring the game's first eight points, and later stringing on nine and 14 straight points. The top-seeded free-stylers upped his season ledger to a sparkling 21-6, while pushing his career win total to six shy of the century mark. He was named most valuable wrestler of the tournament as he won his second National Catholic crown in a row, and the third in his four-year career.

The way he wrestled today, no one would have known that he had 70-and-three-quarters. Notre Dame posted five of the national team, with two first-place wins, three thirds, and a fourth. Marquette captured the team championship with 75-and-one-quarter points, nudging second-place John Carroll, which had 70-and-three-quarters. Notre Dame posted 58-and-one-quarter points.

Senior captains DiSabato, at 134 pounds, thrilled the home crowd, while sweeping off the most decisive wrestling ever. The Columbus, Ohio, native captured individual National Catholic wrestling championships at John Carroll University yesterday. The Irish finished third as a team, with two first-place winners, three thirds, and a fourth.

"It was great playing in front of a packed house," pointed out Jeff Perry, a sophomore at John Carroll University. "Obviously the whole thing has caused much anger, frustration and even a few tears under the north dome of the ACC.

"But all of that was forgotten on Saturday when the Irish faced off against arch-rival Wisconsin.

"No one was counting their pennies or scanning the roster for players sure to transfer. No, on Saturday, complete with its sell-out crowd and its victory, even the skeptics paused to enjoy looks at the way it can be played at Notre Dame.

"I'll stay," he says with conviction. "I like this school and the people I've met here. Besides, I made a commitment to Coach Smith and the hockey program and I'm not going to turn my back on that."

"A lesson in loyalty perhaps, from student to teacher."

Unfortunately, I'm afraid, this is all a moot point. Like the song reminds the wishful thinker..."whatever will be, will be."

Anyway, most of us have been around Notre Dame long enough to realize what we think about the whole thing probably won't matter at all.

But for Lefty Smith, Saturday was the best of times.

CLEVELAND—Notre Dame's Dave DiSabato and Mark Fisher graved things; about scholarships and sellouts and how the lack of either could affect his team.

"If we keep winning, I think I could help the program," commented senior captain Greg Meredith—someone who always knows that to say and when it should be said. "I think we proved today that we have championship-caliber team, but whether or not I will affect any decisions remains to be seen...

"I can't read their minds."
