Murder alarms ND students

by John M. Higgins

A resident of South Bend was murdered in her Notre Dame apartment last night.

Debbie Britton, 28, was found behind a couch in her apartment at 1010 Notre Dame Avenue across the street from the Goose's Nest Tavern. She was pronounced dead at the scene of a gunshot wound in the back, by the county coroner as 9:45 p.m. Police said neighbors heard two shots at approximately 9 p.m. and that a white and blue Cadillac was seen leaving the vicinity of the murder. A car matching the description was seen at approximately 10:30 p.m. near the Notre Dame post office.

Robbery was cited as a possible motive for the killing. No additional information was available.

Students living in the area were shocked by news of the murder. "We're all frightened to death," said Greg Merideth.

"This is the second murder in five weeks," he added that students are educated to believe that man faces individual limitations which ultimately prevent him from reaching his full potential.

"Man is endowed with instinct," Carmichael said. "But unlike an animal, man has the power to think. Capitalism, however, focuses on the notion that man is an animal.

"The system intentionally confuses people, and as a result, they do things without really thinking," Carmichael shouted. "Under this type of system which breeds inequality, confusion and humankind suffering, man is an animal."

The revolutionary explained that his movement (AAPRP) has a three-fold purpose. The major objective is to collect African students from college campuses across the nation who understand that it is their responsibility to help alleviate the suffering of the African masses. The projected goal of the AAPRP is to establish a united African front under socialist rule.

He also cited the AAPRP attempts to raise the consciousness level of every American man and woman.

"We try to help make people think for themselves, but this is extremely difficult to accomplish in America," Carmichael said.

Where's Spring?

Most students can only pray it is just around the corner.

Existentialist Jean-Paul Sartre dies

PARIS (AP) - Jean-Paul Sartre, whose existential view of man as the making of his own destiny placed him among the giants of modern philosophy, died yesterday after a month-long illness.

The 74-year-old French writer-philosopher died at Broussais Hospital in Paris, surrounded by a few close friends, said one of those present, Liliane Siggel, author of a book on his life.

Others at his death bed, according to Ms. Siegel, were feminist authors Marie Greengrass and Simone de Beauvoir, Sartre's close companion for most of his life, and his adopted daughter, Arlette el Kain.

Sartre was admitted to Broussais March 19 for treatment of pulmonary edema, an accumulation of fluid in the lungs that hampered his breathing. He died shortly after 9 p.m., 2 p.m. EST.

The iconoclastic Sartre was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1964, but refused to accept the prestigious prize to mark his contempt for what he called bourgeois honors.

Nearly blinded in the last decade of his life, Sartre had virtually given up writing that had made him legendary as an impassioned, though often inefficient, defender of justice for so many years.

Sartre's writings expanded the theory of man as a responsible being, who is burdened with the terrifying freedom of existence, the only freedom worth fighting for, he often said.

Sartre first gave his definition of existentialism in "L'Être et le Néant" (Being and Nothingness), published in 1943 during the German occupation of France. The Roman Catholic Church denounced it as a rejection of God, and the French Communist Party condemned it as a "bourgeois ethic" intended to distract workers from the class struggle. Sartre himself complained he was widely misunderstood.

As a political leftist, part of the misunderstanding was of Sartre's own making. He liked to think of himself as a member of the proletariat, but most of what he said and wrote went over heads of his audiences.

His doctrine held that man's commitment is a cause, his conscious participation, makes him different from animals or immaterial objects. He argued that man by himself is nothing, a creature without soul or meaning, and the only freedom worth fighting for is the freedom of choice.

His earlier achievements made Sartre one of the most prestigious playwrights and novelists in the French language.

He vehemently opposed the French war in Algeria in the 1950s and the American war in Vietnam. He gave his prestige to such causes as Lord Bernand Russell's "War Crimes Tribunal" during the Vietnam war and the Bader-Meinhof urban guerrilla movement in West Germany in the 1960s and 1970s.

Sartre was born in Paris on June 21, 1905. His father was a naval officer and his mother, born Anne-Marie Schweitzer, was a musician and jungle doctor Albert Schweitzer, who received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1952.

County blames students

An investigation by the St. Joseph County Sheriff Department has concluded that the fire at Campus View Apartments Thursday night was caused by students setting off fireworks in their apartment.

Sergeant John McKalister said that three Holy Cross Junior College students "had apparently been playing around with fireworks from early afternoon to early evening, shooting bottle rocket launchers and putting the back patio level of the residence into a danger area.

"They could have been hurt," McKalister said. "The only freedom worth fighting for is the freedom of choice."

Saint Mary's is using a new procedure for advance registration for fall semester similar to the one Notre Dame has been using for years. Students are instructed to enter the registration area at the south entrance of Angela Athletic Facility and to bring their I.D. cards and fall schedule of classes booklets. I.D. cards will serve as students' official entry to register. Students should check in at the first booth by I.D. card and giving their name. All Dorm Directors should show their Form 50.

SMC Details new registration

Students who participated in departmental pre-registration for majors will receive a list of the classes for which they are already pre-registered. Students should then proceed to the departmental tables which are set up in the gymnastics area. From the department's representative the student should request a card for each section in which she wishes to enroll. Students who participated in departmental pre-registration for majors will not need to obtain class cards for those courses previously selected and indicated on the list of classes.

If a student should change her mind about a course for which she has already obtained a class card or for which she had signed up at departmental pre-registration, the student should report to the drop table. There, the student may turn in any unwanted class cards and drop any courses she may have selected at her departmental pre-registration. Students should not attempt to return cards to the departmental tables.

When a student has all of her class cards, she should sign her name and social security number on the back of each card at the tables along the exit corridor. She should then turn all of her class cards in at the Registrar's table. Students carrying more than 18 credits should first see Teresa Marcy at the Academic Affairs Table. When a student turns in her class cards at the Registrar's table, she will be given a pre-punched card authorizing her to have an I.D. made. The student should return to the gym for an I.D. pictures April 24 and 25 from 8:30-11:30 a.m. and from 1:30-4:30 p.m. At this point, the registration process will be complete. Students should exit using the north door of Angela.

Seniors to be registered from 4-5:15 p.m. and Juniors to be registered from 5-6:45 p.m. on Friday. Sophomores to be registered from 6-5:15 p.m. on Tuesday. Students should refer to the final registration schedule to determine the alphabetical order in which they are to register. Students may register only for themselves and only according to their schedule.

Center announces seminar

Couples interested in enriching their marriage may now enroll for the Couple Communication Seminar, which will be held May 8, 15, 22, and 29 in the Counseling Center in South Bend. The sessions will run from 7 to 10 p.m. on each of the four consecutive Thursdays. The registration fee, which includes all books, is $100.00. The Couple Communication program is not a counseling service, but an educational program designed to enrich communication between people who are married, living together, friends, or colleagues. It emphasizes specific communication skills for dealing with day to day issues as partners grow personally and build their relationship over time. Interested couples can contact Becky and Jerry Gudorf (288-9001) or the Center (277-0274) for registration and other pertinent information.

ND grad tips off Aspen drug dealers

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) - Tucked up the Roaring Fork Valley 180 miles west of Denver, Aspen has always been a place where people could go to get away from the rest of the world.

For quite a while now, state and federal authorities have contended it is also a place where people can escape the drug laws enforced elsewhere.

A quotation from Thoreau: "Let poster of a dove floating above property. Prior to this decision, Administration," Schneeman said. "I was told that more undergraduates would be able to attend the picnic if it was held on May 10 during exams. As I see it, more undergraduates would be able to attend Tuesday, after exams are over than on Saturday while they're still being given."

According to James Roemer, head of Students, there are no new enforcements on the keg policy for picnics. "We decided to make a precedent set in the past by having the senior picnic after the undergraduates have gone home," Roemer said. "To have the picnic for the senior class with beer during exams causes problems. No one wanted to set a new precedent. We asked him to reschedule the picnic. Fr. Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne on Thursday appointed Joseph Whelan, a Notre Dame alumnus (SMC '74), to the position of her personal appointment secretary—a job which pays $15,000 annually.

Byrne, who has been criticized for her nepotistic tendencies following the appointment of her daughter Kathleen as a public relations city job in Chicago, also appointed Pat Willet (SMC '79) to administrative positions earlier this year. The women are friends of the mayor's daughter.

"I know Dick Dove," Whelan said. "She was a freshman (at SMC) when I was a senior.

Seniors change Picnic

by Kelli Flint
Senior Staff Reporter

An enforcement of University policy has resulted in a rescheduling of the Senior Picnic, according to Nick Schneeman, senior class president.

Schneeman had originally planned two senior picnics, one on April 19 and another on May 10. "Approval for the picnics was denied by the administration," Schneeman said. "The administration said that no more picnics with kegs are allowed on University property. Prior to this decision, one one weekend was allowed to have picnics with kegs because these students are over 21.

Schneeman said that he was disappointed with the decision on the picnics because of behavior of picnics held since last fall. "I worked hard to successfully enforce responsible drinking at picnics this year," Schneeman said. "There has been a great improvement over last year's situation. There have been no complaints from the administration, no security problems, and no alcohol abuse problems this year."

Schneeman said that a picnic will be allowed by the administration on Tuesday, May 13, after final examinations are over. This picnic would replace the one scheduled to take place May 10. Schneeman said. "I was told that there would be undergraduate picnics with kegs after the final exams."

According to James Roemer, head of Students, there are no new enforcements on the keg policy for picnics. "We decided to make a precedent set in the past by having the senior picnic after the undergraduates have gone home," Roemer said. suggested that Schneeman switch the picnic with the senior dunes party, which was originally scheduled for after exams.

Roemer added that he would approve a picnic on Greenfield (upon Schneeman’s request) with beer if it scheduled for sometime after other students have departed.

Roemer also noted that there is no permission for kegs on University property anywhere. “If any students bring kegs on university grounds and security notices them, the kegs will be confiscated and not returned.”

Dull receives fellowship
by Patty Sheehan

Dr. Martin H. Dull, associate professor of mathematics at Saint Mary’s, recently received a faculty fellowship from the Lilly Endowment in Indianapolis.

Dull is one of ten recipients chosen for the 1980-1981 academic year.

The competition, limited to Indiana colleges and universities, was open to able teachers in mid-career who proposed to diverge from their academic routine to pursue individually-designed programs in the United States or abroad.

Those selected for the endowment have professional development interests that cannot be adequately served by conventional fellowships. The Lilly endowment is supplementary to Dull’s sabbatical salary at Saint Mary’s.

Dull will use his fellowship to support an academic year as Visiting Postdoctoral Fellow at the University of Chicago. He will read in the area of the history of mathematics and science and audit courses in intellectual history.

Dull aims to develop interdisciplinary perspectives that will bridge the gap between scientific and non-scientific fields of study. When I explain to a class the theory of real numbers, I want to be able to relate it to the history and culture of the Greeks, and why they developed the number system, Dull explained.

When asked if the endowment was a surprise, Dull replied, “After looking over the other proposals of previous recipients, I had a pretty good idea that what I wanted to do was something the (Lilly) people were interested in funding. I was more pleased than surprised.”

350 American Urban History 10TT12 Poinsette

No other civilization passed so rapidly from wilderness to an urban world. How do we account for the rise of American cities? What historical forces, what processes of urbanization played determining roles? What impact did the American city have on American government, culture, on society itself? What was the influence of historical forces, what processes of urbanization played determining roles? What impact did the American city have on American society?

The purpose of this course is to try to answer these questions.

PHILOSOPHY

244 Philosophy of Law 10 MWF Hawk

The purpose of this class in the philosophy of law is to view law in its philosophical significance. This will occur in the analysis and assessment of concrete issues such as: What is the nature of law? What is the nature of legal liberty? What is justice? What is the nature and what are the limits to my responsibility? What is the justification, if any of punishment? There will also be a special section of the course devoted to acts of conscience in their legal environment.

246C Philosophical Issues in Women's Studies 2TT4 Clark

This course is designed to acquaint students with contemporary research in women's studies and to provide a forum for discussing issues in that research. Among topics of discussion will be language, freedom, power and the self.

RELIGIOUS STUDIES

300 Christian Culture 11MW Jancowski, McDonnell, Mandell

From the various perspectives of Religious Studies, Philosophy, and Humanistic Studies, this course examines ways Christians, and Catholics in particular, have understood the relationship of the Gospel to cultural forms, human values and social issues. Cross-listed with HUST 300 and Phil 300. Upperclassmen only.

356 World Justice and Church 1TT3 Malins

This course focuses on the teaching of the Catholic Church in relation to contemporary issues of social justice. The biblical notion of justice is examined in depth. Recent encyclicals, documents of Vatican II, and statements from national conferences of bishops dealing with social issues are studied along with the writings of contemporary theologians and social analysts. The role of various agencies within the Church as well as volunteer associations of laypersons concerned with problems like world hunger, peace, human rights, third world development, minority groups, the situation of women, etc are examined. Along with regularly assigned readings, films, and meetings with people directly involved in the ministry of social justice, students will work in small groups on research concerning one particular current justice issue of their choice and write a major paper on that topic.

SOCIOLGY

201 Introduction to Social Problems 9TT1, 10TT12, 1TT3, McGee

An examination and evaluation of (1) the nature of social problems and the perspectives used to understand such problems, (2) the extent of selected social problems such as aging, crime and delinquency, substance abuse, suicide, divorce, child abuse, racial prejudice and discrimination, (3) the role of selected social institutions such as the family, religion and education in social problems and (4) the personal and societal responses made to social problems. No prerequisites.

255 Social Work Policy and Service 9TT11 Filger

Development of social policy and service programs in response to changing social conditions. Focuses on the theory, history, scope, nature, organization, and implementation of current programs on local, state and federal levels. No prerequisites. Offered fall semester.

305 Business and Society 9TT11 Horning

A systematic analysis and evaluation of the cultural and social factors which shape the role of business in our society. Materials drawn from other societies are used as a basis for comparison. Illustrative topics include organizational structure, power authority, social responsibility, organizational behaviour and ethics. Prerequisite: Soc 103 or permission of the instructor. Offered fall semester.

355 American Minorities 12 MWF McKelvey

The study of the patterns of intergroup relations in various societies with special attention to integration, segregation, cultural pluralism and temporary accommodation. No prerequisites. Offered fall semester.

Scholars debate euthanasia morality

by Chip Black

"They shoot horses, don't they?" replied Rev. Dr. Robert Holderbey in a debate last night with Dr. Jose Espinosa over euthanasia. The debate, sponsored by the ND/SMC Right to Life campaign, was held in the Library Auditorium before a crowd of approximately 50 people.

Holderbey's statement concerned the pursuit to death of patients who are suffering severe pain and are on the brink of dying. He used several examples of "tedious deaths," where, according to him, euthanasia should be applied.

The format of the debate gave Espinosa speaking time first, with Holderbey allowed an equal allotment of 23 minutes to speak. After each participant had spoken, the floor was opened to questions. If there are ten heads and nine hens, do you get more hats or do you start chopping heads? Unfortunately, our society sometimes chooses the latter," Espinosa, a professor at Case Western Medical School, said about the United States' attitude towards euthanasia.

Espinosa stresses the inadequacies of pro-euthanasian definitions of "close to dying." He pointed out that a low reading on an EEG did not give an accurate account of the life left in a body. Espinosa also mentioned that many doctors wish to kill infants they believe "defective."

He concluded his presentation by outlining the current laws that deal with euthanasia and how he believed that many of the terms in the laws were vague. "I endorse the right to life."

Holderbey said, "I also believe in the right to die with dignity."

The majority of Holderbey's speech were emotional stories about euthanasia cases. "The dignity is not in the death, but in the individual," Espinosa replied to Holderbey's justification for euthanasia.

When the two participants accepted questions from the audience, Holderbey was immediately confronted by questions concerning his religious faith. Many doubted his commitment to the Christian religion.

Campus View Manager John Wilson declined to estimate the damage, saying only that it was “nowhere near” the $35,000 estimated in the police report.

The residents of the apartment denied the fire was caused by fireworks. “There’s just no way,” one said. “We were only using little firecrackers, not bottle rockets, and we stopped at five o’clock when two girls came over. I can’t believe that it smoldered that long.”

According to Chief Robert Lindzy of the Clay Township Fire Department, Campus View has had no other fires since the complex opened in 1974. “This is the first fire that we were aware of,” Lindzy said, “other than a small one two years ago that was set in order to cover up a burglary.”

Campus View undergoes no regular inspection for fire safety. Lindzy said, “It’s a residential area. We are not allowed to inspect unless the residents request it.”

Even after the debate had ended, Holderbeey and Espinosa continued to argue.

Brought us cookie recruits when we dived. Bum stone!

Why do they call you “fingers”?

On frightening the Irish, it’s easy for me to keep it because you had work right into Friday morning.

Please call Tom at 1720-734. Thanks.

Bookstore action continues as crowds grow large

Day 4, Bookstore Basketball held courtside by the weather. But no one seemed to care as crowds grew large. To pick up for yesterday's second round action in the campus basketball class.

"There were a lot more people watching the games today," offered Bookstore Commissioner Bob Hitz. "The atmosphere really began to clear up for us this evening, and the temperature was a bonus, he says."

A crowd of over 200 watched the defending champ "Defending Champs" dispose of Tech in the Bookstore courts. Dan Short led Tech with 7-2 straight scoring, while every point in the game was a point for the Books.

"Well, one day Coach Devine was studying for his upcoming season class and he rubbed his hands in glee. His players never had been able to play football the way he, Coach Dan, was looking at the game.

"But then, he was studying his roster for the upcoming season and he was studying his muscles in the gym and Tom Sudikhop washed off in a five apiece. One of Hanzlik's basketballs was an unconventional running jumper from just under half court.

In other tourney highlights, Bill McCracken of the Carriers' flushed out the 52-18 win over Visser and Vincent Douches 21-18 on the courts. The Carriers were paced by Mike Buchanan who had a shooting performance, while sophomore marksmen Pete Cowe pumped the nets at 6-6 for a trip.

"The tournaments have been very competitive so far, and we are expected continuing excitement in the rest of the games," said Simari.

Today's top Bookstore offerings feature "Much Later WEB" on Bookstore 9 at 5:30, followed by the "Buchar Broke" on the same court at 6:15. "Stragamason and Jansen" will work out their Bookstore season on Bookstore 10, also at 6:15.

Weather halts drills again

Tennis team extends streak by Michael Oremian Associate Sports Writer

The Notre Dame tennis team ran its winning streak to ten straight yesterday afternoon with a 7-2 drubbing of visiting Purdue in the final tuneup for this afternoon's showdown with Big Ten powerhouse Indiana.

"I'm always happy with a win," said Irish coach Tom Fallon. "But we had a lot of heartbreakers today. I hope we get them all out of our system now."

Despite what Fallon and the rest of the Books didn't play Indiana today.

"Though we lost (and won, and were) still...had some points against Purdue, our enthusiasm for this time this season.

The switch didn't appear to affect their play (however) as each came out to straight set victories.

"Carlton has been extremely well lately, explained Fallon. "I just thought he deserved the chance to play again."

One number one and number two doubles got the Irish off to a fast start, as they took a 2-1 lead into the singles competitions. The number three duo of Jim Falvey and Tim Noonan lost a tough three-setter to Purdue's Matt Friedman and Phil Dall. After splitting the first two sets, Falvey and Noonan battled back from a 9-3 deficit to tie the score at six, only to fall short in the tie-breaker, 5-3.

In singles, senior captain Carlton Harris and freshman Mark McMahan swapped positions and started out on a new basis for the first time this season.
