Vance resigns position over Iranian conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is resigning in the wake of his disagreement with President Carter over the attempt to rescue American hostages in Iran. The Associated Press learned last night.

Vance's departure, considered imminent, is certain to add to Carter's problems following the collapse of the mission in a remote desert in Iran last week.

'There had been a good relationship, but both the president and the secretary conclude it was impossible for him to function as secretary of state,' a senior administration official, who refused to be identified and the Vatican's Congregations.

Vance was the only member of the National Security Council who opposed the operation, the official said. But afterward, he supported the administration in explaining the operation to foreign governments.

Vance's resignation over the military venture was only one of a series of setbacks for the soft-spoken former Wall Street lawyer, whose approach to foreign policy was one of conciliation, rather than confrontation.

Again and again, he ended up on the short end of power struggles with Defense Secretary Harold Brown and the national security adviser who played a prominent role in drawing the United States away from detente with the Russians.

There was no immediate indication of who would take Vance's place. He had said he would be leaving at the end of the fourth term. If Carter, who is re-elected, survives, Warren M. Christopher, the deputy secretary of state, has been considered a leading prospect to succeed him.

A theory has persisted from the start that Brezhnev, like Kissinger, would like to move from the national security adviser's job to secretary of state. But last month, Brzezinski told women's Democratic group that his choice for a new secretary would be Christopher, a high Los Angeles lawyer who served in the Justice Department during the Johnson administration.

Christopher recently has taken on a number of travel missions that normally would have been Vance's, including efforts to persuade European leaders to support Carter's economic sanctions against Iran and against the Soviet Union for the 'Soviet's intervention in Afghanistan.

Vance, 65, is a veteran of the Democratic foreign policy establishment whose international views underwent a major shift during the Vietnam war. A former deputy defense secretary, he became a quiet advocate of conciliation and a low-keyed approach to world problems.

One of his principal interests, a transition to black rule in Rhodesia, was accomplished largely through the offices of the British government. But in arms and control and human rights, Vance saw once-favored Carter policies take a back seat to growing confrontation with the Soviet Union.

While Brezhnev, Defense Secretary Harold Brown and other key Carter policies were championed in the aftermath of the rescue attempt, there was no sign of Vance, even though his quiet work pre-dawn hours at the State Department, along with notification to foreign governments and consultations with key members of Congress.

In dealing with foreign governments, Vance seems to enjoy a good reputation. His avoidance of bombast was appreciated in foreign capitals. From the start, he never attracted the attention of his celebrated predecessor. Henry Kissinger, who had a gift of being noticed, he bounced off frequent reports of differences with Brezhnev who is in more of the Kissinger mold.

Seek asylum in Cuba

Guerrillas end embassy siege

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) - Guerrillas ended their 61-day occupation of the Democratic Republic Embassy yesterday, flying out a Cuban and a Guatemalan diplomat from their diplomatic hostages, including U.S. ambassador Diego Asencio, were freed.

The ambassadors from Venezuela, the Dominican Republic, Israel and Egypt were released just before the Soviet-built Ilyushin jet took off at 8:20 a.m., about 11/2 hours after the guerrillas left the embassy with their hostages in two Red Cross buses for the Bogota airport.

Others, including Asencio and the papal nuncio, were flown to Havana along with the guerrilla band, then sent to Cuba. According to reports from Havana and Washington, shortly after the siege began, Cuban President Fidel Castro offered the guerrillas asylum.

From Havana, Asencio was flown on a charter plane to Homestead Air Force Base in Southern Florida where he was met by his wife, Nancy, other members of his family and government officials. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance sent a message expressing the diplomat's courage and said he was "proud of the manner you have conducted yourself through the ordeal."

A State Department spokesman said the 48-year-old Asencio, 20 pounds lighter and wearing a two-month growth of hair, was flying "over the opposing team's goal line."

On Saturday, approximately 200 or 500 people from the North and South quads lined up on opposite goal lines. According to witnesses, at the referee's signal Harrovet ran towards the ball with the rest of the North Quad team.

'Nothing like this has happened. It was just a freak accident,' said John M. Higgins.

A Notre Dame student was injured during an An Tostal 'earthball' game on Saturday, a field near the North Quad.

The South rose a few inches after a several year domination by the North.

In jubilation over the victory, the students stopped the game, 'It was just a freak accident,' one witness said. "We did not know what happened." In jubilation over the victory, the players then ran to the goal line and the inflated ball is placed in the center of the field. The players then run to the ball, hit it in the air, and try to move it down the field over the opposing team's goal line."

As soon as the referees saw Harrovet go down, they stopped the game. "He was knocked unconscious and bleeding pretty badly," said referee Bill Hogan. "He was still breathing." An ambulance was called to the scene and Harrovet was transported to the hospital where he was treated for a concussion and facial lacerations.

'Nothing like this has happened. It was just a freak accident,' said John M. Higgins.

The rules were changed and we judged that it was safe now," Hogan said.

"We've never had any problems like this before," said Chris Digan, who has refereed games like this has ever happened. It was just a freak accident."
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Indiana campaign headquarters for Republican John B. Anderson are closing their doors to signal a new beginning. The pursuit of an independent bid for the presidency. "Because of the state of the campaign, we've had pull-backs in our (Indiana) operation. Headquarters is being shut down, but our county committees are not," said Anderson volunteer Stu Wachs after the veteran Illinois congressman announced his decision Thursday to run for president as an independent.

State coordinator Don Redfern said Thursday that the Indiana Anderson for President committee was disbanding, but that a group to push Anderson's independent bid in Indiana might be "formed in the near future."

Hunt brothers given $800M despite credit restraints

WASHINGTON (AP) - The chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Paul A. Volcker, helped arrange up to $800 million in credit for the billionaire Hunt brothers of Texas to help them pay their silver speculative debts, it was learned last week. Meanwhile, the chairman of the House Banking Committee accused the board of attempting to violate its own credit restraint directives through its involvement in the transaction. Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., also said he planned to hold hearings on the development. A government source, who did not want to be identified, said Volcker gave his approval to the line of credit from private banks in late March because of concerns that the financial problems of Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt placed some brokerage houses and banks in potential jeopardy. Volcker's approval apparently was deemed necessary because the board had announced rigid restraints on credit sought for speculative purposes a week earlier, on March 14. The credit restraints are an integral part of the government's anti-inflation program.

Murderer files lawsuit alleging poor jail conditions

FORT WAYNE Ind. (AP) - A convicted murderer, now serving a life term at the Westville Correctional Center, has filed a $365,000 civil rights suit against county officials for alleged poor conditions in the Adams County Jail. The suit, filed in U. S. District Court by Ernest Richard Tope of Indiana: Anderson for President committee was disbanding, congresswoman announced his decision Thursday to run for president as an independent. "Now is a poor time to talk about helping others when so many are losing jobs, but in a country that can spend $800 million on a Presidential campaign, $750 million was spent on a Presidential campaign in two months by a candidate who dropped out, how many hungry could have been fed with that same amount?" cried Denver. In a work where illusions are spun on nullcler and military arms, children are starving, he said.

We need to take care of each other, not just worry about ourselves, he commented. "The world is not working," but we are the ones who make that choice, intimated Denver. New building planned

WNDU accepts bids for building

by Kelli Flint
Senior Staff Reporter

At least fifteen organizations have expressed an interest in occupying the current WNDU building, according to Leo Corbaci, Dean of Administration.

WNDU is awaiting finalization of plans for a new facility, which will be located on Door Road. The dates for the groundbreaking and completion of the building are uncertain at this time.

However, Corbaci estimated that the new facility should be completed within the next 18 months. "There has been much interest expressed in the building," Corbaci said. "There have been no serious discussions yet as to who will occupy it."

Corbaci did not release the names of the organizations that have expressed interest in the building. The Observer has learned of three of these organizations.

Educational Technology Services has expressed written interest in the building according to Andrew Zand, coordinator of Educational Technology Services. According to Andrew Zand, educational technology services (ETS). "We have even designed floor plans for the building," Zand said. "We feel that a central location would make ETS more accessible for students."

Zand noted other advantages associated with the new location. "If we were located in the WNDU building, we would be able to cut the use of vehicles for delivering film and equipment," he said. "We would be close to many buildings that make use of our facilities."

Zand added that the WNDU facilities would enable ETS to expand their current services. "We now have only two or three areas for individual viewing of tapes," Zand said. "This causes problems because of the number of students that use our facilities. We've designed a plan that would add three individual viewing areas, and also allow for two large group areas."

Zand said that he is optimistic about his chances for obtaining the WNDU building for ETS. "Since the WNDU building is designed for media, I would like to think that our services (ETS). "We have even designed floor plans for the building," Zand said. "We feel that a central location would make ETS more accessible for students."

"It really is possible to eliminate hunger on this planet in the next 15-20 years," said John Denver at a Saturday press conference before his concert at the ACC. In 45 minutes he presented a very convincing and emotional plea to eliminate hunger.

"Fifteen to twenty million people starve each year and I want to do something about it," emphasized Denver. His talent lies in communicating with people. Many have written him to tell him that his songs express feelings and emotions that they could never put into words.

As a member of the President's commission on World Hunger, Denver wants to educate and communicate with people to make them aware that there is a problem. Fifteen to twenty million people starve to death each year, and it "is a worthwhile goal to try and eliminate hunger," he added. Denver offered a simple and basic solution for the average individual. Inmates take several hostages as 'peaceful' negotiations begin MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) - A food service worker and six guards were taken hostage yesterday by about 35 apparently unarmed inmates at the Indiana State Prison, but three of the hostages were released and negotiations started in what was called a "peaceful mood.

Four hostages were still held by the inmates, according to Dan Rose, LaPorte County sheriff. But he added, "Everything is in a peaceful mood. The situation is in hand. I'm optimistic."

Another 200 inmates had barricaded themselves inside another section of the prison but held no hostages, officials said.

There are around 35 prisoners in the NSB (New Security Building), but only four or five of them seem to be interested in the whole thing," said state Sen. John R. Larson, chairman of the Indiana Senate Corrections Committee.

"There's no leadership among them. They're very unorganized and probably frightened," Larson told newsmen at the prison.

"Negotiations will continued through the night. We expect a settlement by early morning, noon at the latest.
There is a tone of optimism," Larson said the prison taken over apparently was related to the shaving of one guard Saturday night. He said the guard, who was not identified, was stabbed and pushed down a flight of stairs. His condition was not known.

Larson, a Valparaiso Republican, said the wounded guard apparently was 'one of the guards the prisoners have a grievance with.'

"Much of this goes back to some particular people that the prisoners have disagreements against," he said.

Officials "made a choice to negotiate...instead of storming and removing the prisoners, because they believe the prisoners are serious," Larson added.

There were no reports of injuries and the inmates were not believed armed, said William Wast, executive assistant to Gov. Otis R. Bowen.

Bill Warrick of South Bend television station WBT, one of the newsmen inside, said the inmates sought better medical care, individual review of the cases of prisoners in the security lockup and better news coverage of the prison. They also wanted amnesty for all inmates participating in the incident.

Dan Rose, LaPorte County
sheriff. But he added, "There was some confusion earlier whether six or seven hostages had been taken.

There are 1,600 inmates at the prison in this city of 39,000 residents on Lake Michigan. It is Indiana's only maximum security prison, although a federal maximum security facility is located at Terre Haute.

The Michigan City facility has a long history of problems. In 1979, about 100 inmates held three guards hostage in a secluded unit before releasing them unharmed when prison officials agreed to install new security gates.

There were no reports of injuries and the inmates were not believed armed, said William Wast, executive assistant to Gov. Otis R. Bowen.

There has been a working relationship between WNDU and WSNF, according to WSNF Executive Board member Paul Stauder.

"There has been a working relationship between WNDU and WSNF," Stauder said.

"WNDU would be a great facility for WSNF, since we're already a radio station. We looked into expanding our office space and possibly adding another studio prior to WNDU's announcement that they would be vacating their current facility," Stauder said that he is uncertain of WSNF's chances of obtaining the WNDU building.

"If we were given the building, there would be fewer changes involved with our moving in," Stauder said.

"We could easily transmit from the WNDU building, and our relationship with WNDU would ease the transition."
American Express won't penalize you for graduating during a credit crisis.

American Express hasn't changed its application qualifications for graduating students during the current credit crisis. That's because the American Express Card isn't a credit card. It's a charge card. There's no revolving, open-end credit. You are expected to pay your bill in full every month. So with the Card, you don't get in over your head. You use your head.

American Express is continuing its special application plan for graduating students. If you have a $10,000 job (or the promise of one) lined up, you can apply for an American Express Card right now.

You'll need the Card for everything from business lunches to vacations, from buying clothes to buying theatre tickets. You'll have new responsibilities after graduation. The American Express Card will help you manage them.

To apply for a Card, just pick up an application at one of the displays on campus. Or you can call the toll-free number 800-528-8000, and ask for a special student application.

when Tom Sudkamp and Company were contemplating names for their 1980 bookstore basketball team, they settled on "Chumps." But then a logical follow-up was necessary: Defending Chumps.

After all, they were the Chumps last year and they won the title which made them defending champs this year. And Chumps sounds like "Champs."

Anyway, Bill Hankzik made the prophetic team name stick when he threw a 15-7 win over Huntington, and he had every reason to believe the next year's team would win the title.

"Bill played very well today," commented team captain Sudkamp, who had six points in 13 attempts for the winners. "He had his moments when I knew he was the man I wanted to win games for."

The game started slowly with Hankzik hitting five of his first seven shots to give the Champs a 3-2 lead. Pete Holohan hit his first shot for the Wombats then missed his next seven attempts before dropping a short jumper to cut the lead to four. The Champs won 13-1 at halftime before outscoring their opponents 10-4 in the second stanza.

In the second stanza, Sudkamp followed his historic three-pointer with a triple of his own to spark a 10-0 run and put the Champs out in front for good. "They couldn't do anything," Sudkamp said. "We just kept hitting free throws and they just kept missing."

Sudkamp who had six points in 13 attempts for the winners. "He was hitting every shot he'd taken last year and no one realized it was more than the Wombats."

"Bill had a real good game," added Holohan, who also played for last year's titlists. "We really needed someone to step up with a big game, and he did."

The winners led 11-7 at halftime before outscoring their opponents 10-4 in the second stanza.

Just as records were made to be broken, so were streaks begun to be snapped.

The Notre Dame tennis team had five spring of 14 consecutive victories stopped yesterday afternoon when the Irish dropped a day double to Buckeyes.

Lynch scored his first two straight sets of the day, even after he had been granted a linesman in both singles and doubles.

The Irish held a seemingly comfortable 4-2 lead going into the doubles competition, needing just one win in three matches to take the victory.

After the number three duo had split sets and the number one and two Irish teams had lost their first sets, the heavy pressure began to tell as the number threes got the game back up nine since An Irish team was ranked 157 win over Huntington.

Byron Lisch, who earned the victory with relief help from Steve Whitmeyer, hit a 7-6, 6-3, 6-2 first set win. "The number three doubles match was a battle," Lisch admitted. "I was content with the satisfaction of knowing that they were making a very real, if often overlooked, contribution to the team's success."

Just as the number threes, the number fives were content with their efforts.

"We're really happy," said Lisch. "We could have been more competitive in some matches, but we were content with the result."

The Irish varsity, hit on two Irish players. One of the few chances these players had to play against teams from other schools was lost when Notre Dame was forced to drop its junior varsity schedule in each of the last two seasons due to a shortage of players.

Total Class had a tough time trying to overcome some fine shooting by the Blowoffs (21-36 for the game) and couldn't get inside on Marvey, who blocked several shots and intimidated her opponents on several occasions.

Maggie gave the Blowoffs a solid one-two punch on the front line, as she scored six baskets and grabbed 11 rebounds. Hewitt and fellow guard Joy One added some solid shooting from the backline, combining to hit five of six shots. Team captain Beth "B.J." Jones, playing with two sore ankles, was a solid candidate for the "Tompson" award, as she sprained her knee early in the second half but still managed to grab five rebounds for the Blowoffs.

Walk-ons: A special breed by television and radio stations, the walk-ons practice with the hope of some day getting a chance to play. But they are aware that the odds are against them. One of the few chances these players had to play against teams from other schools was lost when Notre Dame was forced to drop its junior varsity schedule in each of the last two seasons due to a shortage of players.

Every once in a while, though, a walk-on player earns a chance to play in a varsity game. Through a combination of outstanding play in practice and being in the right place at the right time, they get their shot at playing time. Lou Puglisi, Chuck Male, Tom DeSiano, Joe Unis, Mark Sullivan and Bob Bivens are some of the walk-ons who have seen action in important games.

Players like these provide additional incentive for their fellow walk-ons. And their successes on both the practice and playing fields also give a big boost to all of their teammates.
