INDIANAPOLIS — South Bend city officials wound up testimony in the state hearings concerning the renewal of the liquor license of Corby's Tavern yesterday. City Attorney Richard Hill appeared before the Indiana Alcoholic Beverage Commission to dispute earlier testimony that the city is engaging in a conspiracy against Corby's and other bars in the "five-points" area on Eddy and Corby Streets.

The hearing was the conclusion of a series of hearings stemming from the local ABC's recommendation last April that Corby's license not be renewed because of the number of violations of liquor laws and numerous complaints from neighborhood residents that Corby's is a "public nuisance." Final briefs will be submitted by both sides to the Commission on October 21.

Under direct examination by Assistant City Attorney James Masters, Hill refuted accusations by Corby's Tavern Industries (CTI) officer Harold Rowley that Hill, Mayor Roger Parent, and other city officials have conspired to shut down Corby's. Hill said that he and Parent had never discussed Corby's specifically, but rather the five-points bar situation in general.

Hill outlined the procedures his office follows when a license comes up for renewal before the local ABC. When the renewal hearing nears, Hill said, the Police Department forwards to his office any information regarding legal violations concerning the license in question, noting that "in normal course, such reports do not come up until renewal." This information is then presented before the local board.

Hill also stated that although he had discussed with Parent special efforts to increase police presence at Corby's, he did not have jurisdiction over the city's bars.

Sending planes

U.S. to protect Mideast oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is rushing four special early warning radar planes to Saudi Arabia to help strengthen the oil-rich country's air defense against a possible spread of the war between Iraq and Iran, the Pentagon announced today.

In announcing the shipment of the highly sophisticated planes, U.S. officials said the deployment is temporary and stressed that the move does not mean the U.S. is taking sides in the Iran-Iraq war.

"The United States government unequivocally reaffirms its position of neutrality," said Pentagon spokesman Thomas C. Ross.

"This deployment is purely for defensive purposes. It is designed to track aircraft for the purpose of providing additional warning for Saudi Arabian defenses," Ross said.

Saudi Arabia has indicated its support for Iraq in the fighting with Iran. However, U.S. defense officials said they have no reason to believe the Saudis will be relaying to Iraq any military data provided by the American radar planes, known as AWACS.

Ross told a Pentagon press briefing the decision to deploy the aircraft was made "in response to a request from the government of Saudi Arabia." Defense officials said one of the big AWACS planes already had taken off from Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma and that the remaining three would be leaving for Saudi Arabia within hours.

They said planes were also being sent to Saudi Arabia with in-flight refueling, covering the distance in 17 to 18 hours.

The deployment will involve a total of about 300 military personnel, defense officials said. They added that American cargo planes would be making flights to deliver supplies to Saudi ground facilities being used by the AWACS aircraft.

The AWACS planes, which are modified Boeing 707 jets, carry a flight crew of four plus up to 24 Air Force technical personnel to monitor radar and other electronic equipment.

Defense officials said that after the AWACS planes reach Saudi Arabia, they would be flying their early warning patrols wholly within Saudi airspace. They declined to identify where in Saudi Arabia the planes would be based.

The AWACS deployment came in response to a formal request made by the Saudi government on Monday, Pentagon officials said, noting that the request followed several days of intensive consultations.

The U.S. officials said the AWACS planes, with a "look-down look-through" radar range of 230 nautical miles, will be particularly helpful in bolstering Saudi Arabia's defenses against any possible attack by low flying aircraft.

NDSG discusses new constitution

By Dan LeDuc

Staff Reporter

The Hall Presidents Council met last night at Dillon Hall to debate the proposed Constitution: Student Body President Paul Riehle put the new plan before those in attendance.

A hand count of the hall representatives showed that thirteen of the necessary sixteen dorms had already passed the Constitutional amendment allowing the October 9 vote. A referendum before the entire student body is necessary for passage of the new Constitution.

Over fifty percent of the student body must vote on the referendum, and two-thirds must vote in favor of the revised Constitution for the referendum to pass.

The new Constitution replaces the Board of Commissioners with a re-defined 24-member Student Senate. Major objections to the Student Senate focus around the fact that the Senate will also virtually eliminate the Campus Life Council.

"I would say that this body would replace the CLC," said Riehle. However, if there is a future need for the CLC it may be reinstated.

The SRF said, "the CLC hasn't been the student voice to the administration." Only nine of the nineteen members of the CLC are students. Riehle claimed that a majority of the time last year the CLC couldn't get a quorum and couldn't accomplish anything.

Dillon Hall President and HPC Executive Coordinator Pam Conklin, expressed concern with "going in circles" between the CLC and the Student Senate. Major objections to the Student Senate focus around the fact that the Senate will also virtually eliminate the Campus Life Council.

A military judge said that an independently appointed board of psychiatrists will examine Marine Corp. Robert Garwood before his court martial on charges of desertion and collaboration with the enemy in Vietnam. The judge, R.E. Switzen, on Monday granted a request by prosecutors to require the 34-year-old Marine to undergo another psychiatric examination if he intends to use insanity as a defense. Switzer stipulated that the director of the National Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., will name the board. He said at least one member will be a doctor with experience in dealing with prisoners of war. The two-fisted rebel of the silver screen, James Dean, has been dead longer than he was alive. There is a problem, however. For many years, along with Notre Dame. Saint Mary's was also an avid supporter of United Way, and together both schools pooled a substantial and significant donation. This noteworthy sum was then handed over to the local St. Joseph chapter of United Way, which then distributed the money to organizations such as YMCA, Girl/Boy Scouts, and 35 other groups in the area that aid the poor, the handicapped and the aged.

The problem is that on September 15 the Saint Mary's Board of Governance single-handedly ruled to boycott this year's United Way campaign. This unprecedented decision, needless to say, has generated much disbelief, disapproval and plans to contest among students, faculty members and administrators who view United Way as a worthwhile and meaningful campus endeavor. United Way, they are arguing, has proved to be a vital human improvement organization in the South Bend area. The Board's reasons for rejecting United Way are twofold: 1) Students in the past have never had the opportunity to vote whether they wanted United Way as their college charity and 2) A few of the board members questioned the validity of some of the organizations that are funded through United Way claiming that abortions are available through a form of reproductive medical care.

It seems reasonable to say that the St. Joseph

Marosen questions friendship

By David Rickabaugh

"I felt I could ease the relations between Security and the students," said former Main Gate Security Guard Steve Maroszan of the events surrounding his resignation in April.

The circumstances surrounding the resignation led Maroszan to claim he was forced to forfeit his position.

"They (Security) wanted me to conduct a prison-like operation. I couldn't do this to the students, they were my friends, not prisoners," commented Maroszan.

Maroszan thinks other members of the security staff complained about the number of students visiting him at the gate.

He also feels the other guards watched his post to find him disobeying the rules.

Maroszan supposedly did not have a bad working relationship with some members of Security because they allegedly felt the students were "jock strappes that couldn't open the doors of their dorms." I didn't remain silent and let this untrue bigotry continue, I supported the students. Security did not want to get a little rowdy; they need some way to relieve the pressure. That does not make them secondclass citizens!"

Due to the embarrassment he feels due to the incident, he hopes to become a parishioner of Sacred Heart. He feels the clergy of the University could have supported him, or at least consoled, him during his time of crisis. "Boog," asks, "Do they know what hell I was going through."

When asked about the developments, Security Director Glenn Terry stated, "The Commission confirmed what we have been saying all along."

Boog also commented that, "I am displeased that The Observer is reporting this story. It happened six months ago and is no longer important."

Maroszan feels it is an attempt to continue the policy of sweeping the incident under the rug. He still does not know what became of the student petition protesting his resignation. "It seems it fell on deaf ears," he observed.

"Not one of the students has visited me since the incident. I am beginning to wonder if my position of friendship was worth the price I've paid."

Maroszan's residence is one block from the Notre Dame campus.

Pangborn falls victim to crime

By Mary Fran Callahan

Senior Staff Reporter

More campus crime was discovered last night whereas theft of two watches and a class ring was reported to The Observer by Hispanic residents, who said they were fed up with unkept promises.

One of the watches taken was valued, according to a resident. The other watch was engraved, and the owner intimated that the article was of sentimental value, as was the stolen class ring.

A victim expressed a reluctance to accept the reality of campus crime when he said, "I never bothered to report it to Security because I knew nothing would ever turn up."

Floor residents said they saw a suspicious man standing in their stairwell shortly after the Michigan football game.

"We asked him what he was doing, and he said he was "trying to find the way out," a resident stated.

Thus far, Security has been criticized and no suspects in the recent wave of campus crimes. The department, however, does have officers working on the thefts.

Last week, Security officers questioned a group of South Bend residents emerging from Pangborn Hall. No suspects were taken into custody, however.

Earlier in the week, a recent robbery at Fisher Hall prompted Security Officer William Hefid to advise students to lock their doors "even if they just go take a shower."

Student Senate and the CLC. Notre Dame had a Student Senate in the past, before the Student Life Council which preceded the CLC. Conklin wondered why Riehle was reverting back to something that was so unsuccessful in 1968 that it was voted out of existence by the students. He inquired as to how the new Student Senate would be perceived by the administration. Conklin thought that the semester used getting the Senate into operation might be more effectively used working on the already formed CLC.

Riehle responded that he would have no qualms convening the CLC next semester but wants to work on the Senate this semester. Though he will not convene the CLC, his designate may call the group into session. Riehle has made Fr. Van Wolveleer his designate. Fr. Van Wolveleer plans on convening the CLC this semester.

Riehle stressed that the Senate is a student senate and that administration and faculty are not included in the membership so that the students alone may have a voice. In the past, many resolutions never passed the CLC because of the administration membership.

The Senate would be only an advisory group, but passage of a resolution would be by students, and the resolution would be presented to the administration. Thus, if the resolutions were not adopted, it would be clear that the administration was unwilling to accept them — not that the students were unable to organize and present them.

Riehle said the formation of the Senate would more clearly define the roles of student government.

Riehle expressed concern that the CLC and the Student Senate operating concurrently would confuse the students over who had the say in student government. The CLC works on hall life; the Senate would work on campus life. Riehle said that the Student Senate would include elected members rather than the CLC's appointed members.

Flanner Hall President Mike Shepardson pointed out that the resolution would be by students, and passed the Senate in the past, before the CLC exceeded the CLC. Conklin won- most of the CLC last night with the HPC in Dillon Hall. The HPC also WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, preparing to take his battle for re-election to the nation's industrial heartland, announced Tuesday he will seek extended environmental deadlines to help ailing steel manufacturers compete with overseas manufacturers.

Saying "a healthy and modernized steel industry is vital to our nation's economy and also to our nation's security," Carter also unveiled a liberalized tax depreciation schedule for steelmakers.

The measures could result in domestic steel prices rising by as much as 25 percent, industry officials said.

The president announced the measures at the Executive Office Building next to the White House just before he began campaign visits to several key steel-producing states. Those of which Carter will visit Wednesday and Thursday have 112 electoral votes out of the 270 needed to win.

Carter will make campaign visits to Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania on Wednesday and Thursday. The other two leading steel states are Illinois and Indiana.

Plants have been closing, workers have been laid off, and Democrats in Congress have warned Carter that he could fare poorly in industrial states if there is no program to restore some of the lost jobs.

In an apparent reference to those who advocate a reduced government role in business, Carter said: "the comprehensive steel agreement that we've reached in proof that the proper role of government is to be a partner in economic change, not an impediment and also not an unwinding or indifferent spectator."

"In today's real world, a quick fix for one particular problem easily means quick trouble...for others," the president said.

Carter said that he would closely watch recent years in which rapidly rising wages, reduced product demand, a lag in capital investment and import competition from Japan and Europe.

Administration officials, from the president on down, were quick to deny that the new environmental plans amounted to a relaxation of air and water pollution standards. Instead, they used the phrase "stretch-out" — more commonly called upon to describe an industrial system in which workers produce more without an increase in pay.

The Institute for Employee Benefits Training is the first and most prestigious school in the United States, training Employee Benefits and Pension Specialists. This is a dynamic, growing career field in which advancement does not require an advanced degree. Our graduates are in demand by law firms, pension consulting firms, insurance companies, banks, and personnel and benefits departments of corporations. The Institute's Placement Service will place you too. If not, you will be eligible for a substantial tuition refund.

Furthermore, you will earn graduate credit towards a Master of Arts in Legal Studies through Antioch School of Law for all course work completed at The Institute.

If you're a senior of high academic standing and looking for a meaningful career, contact your Placement Office for our catalog and arrange to have an interview with our representatives.

...‘Paper Lion’

In the weeks prior to the fight, Plimpton was continuously an­noyed by calls from Ali pre­dicting the tragedy th at was to befall his opponent. "You is gonna fall during ring instruc-- tions," Ali would whisper.

Plimpton recounted other unusual adventures. Several years ago as a Boston Celtic, Plimpton was put into the final minutes of a game with the Atlanta Hawks, down by fifteen points and with little hope of winning.

Seeing the odd man com e onto the court, Plimpton’s team m ates were revitalized m om entarily and fought back to within two points of the opponents. At that point Plimpton was replaced by John Havilcek, the All-Star power forward. This turned out to be a mistake, however, as the Celtics went on to lose the game.

Plimpton’s career has ventured off the playing field as well.
As a percussionist for the New York Philharm onic, Plimpton ruined an entire perform ance one night, sending Leonard Bernstein into a rage.

Known as “The Flying Telephone Pole,” Plimpton was once a circus trapeze artist.

Although his perform ances in the center ring were less than perfect, Plimpton did n o go totally unnoticed. M inutes before one show was to begin, wearing only his pink leotards, Plimpton went to see a doctor about a shoulder ache. U pon hearing that his strangely-dressed patient was a “flyer,” the doctor replied, “the human body is a cathedral and you’ve desecrated it.” Plimpton was refused treatm ent.

Perhaps Plimpton’s unusual career was sum m ed up best by the young lady who introduced him last night. To the delight of the crowd, she announced that Plimpton, “Has done alm ost anything I can think of.”

... Warnings

In recent m onths, the FDA has announced that warning labels will be required on bubble bath.
"Excessive use or prolonged exposure may cause irritation to skin and urinary tract."

It has ordered warnings on products ranging from  sunlamps to hair dyes. It warned pregnant w om en to curtail or stop drinking coffee, tea and colas because of a possible link betw een caffeine and birth defects. The agency found no scientific evidence to back up claims that Bendectin, a drug used to treat m orning sickness, causes birth defects. But it recommended, nonetheless, that manufacturers include “patient package inserts” to give customers more information. Look around the house. The skull and crossbones that used to be confined to containers o f rat poison and weed killer has been replaced by fine print and has spread through the rooms. The print seems to get smaller as the warnings get longer. “For external use only,

I have a recurring nightmare: It's November 4, and I calmly stroll into the voting booth, confidently picking my first presidential ballot. I pick up the "tool" and scan the ballot. "Carter, Reagan, Anderson," I begin to sweat. "Anderson, Carter, Reagan." I awake violently, screaming, "Where is Anderson?" I will tell you what—I hope it isn't this bad every four years, because if it is I think I'll just bug it now. I mean this will be my first time inside the voting booth and there's nobody with a bandwagon that I want to jump on, nobody that I can spend my college years fanatically supporting as an idealistic undergrad. Eugene McCarthy, George McGovern, Morris Udall, heck, even Edward Kennedy, where are you? When I was a kid I used to put my Humphrey and McGovern bumper stickers on my bicycle and school folders and be the most politically hip 10-year-old in town. But now I can finally vote, and there's nobody to vote for.

Seriously, who can any self-respecting 20-year-old liberal vote for this year? (I know, I know, John Anderson, but I'll get to him later). This is a year for the "Don't vote, it's over anyway" school, and not as economically rewarding as the previous elections. For example, consider the Iranian issue "to hide in the Rose Garden." Not to mention his criticisms and distortions of Reagan, which often amount to the "pot calling the kettle black." So what are we left with? Good old John B. Anderson, the white-haired pansies. (Ed Clark, Barry Commoner, and the others truly represent throwing your vote away.)

The only problem is that Anderson revealed himself as more of a self-righteous hypocrite than the concerned intellectual the media have portrayed him as. He also has no chance of being elected (he didn't win a primary) outside of the media, and lacks the strong organization to seriously challenge and win. The only thing that Anderson can do is what I hope happens, and that is throw the election into the House. While I do feel he doesn't have a chance, if everyone who is saying, "I'd vote for him, but he doesn't have a chance and I don't want to throw my vote away" would vote for him, he could probably send it to the House. This would be better than either Carter or Reagan.

All of this brings several questions to mind, the most prominent being "Isn't there a better way?" There is a leadership crisis in this country, and we need strong leaders to govern, but first we need viable choices to create dialogue in which to decide these issues. Our current situation is another bitter fruit of television, in that Iowa and New Hampshire get to have a 90 percent share in determining who becomes president. By being strong there, the Reagans and Carters get their head starts and become "front-runners." Perhaps it is time for a parliamentary system. But that is another article. In the end, all I can say is "Where have you gone, Pat Paulsen and Harold Stassen, a nation turns its lonely hearts to you."

On Wednesday, Oct. 8 the World Hunger Coalition in conjunction with the ND FLOC Support Committee will be co-sponsoring a "Quarter Night." During dinner hours at the ND and SMC dining halls, each student is asked to donate a quarter (s), which will help support the Midwestern farmworkers in their struggle for justice and basic human rights. Bring your quarters!

Ohio State Senator Zimmer described these people as "men, women and children who do back-breaking work for 10-12 hours a day." Despite the fact that their stoop labor helps to put food on every American's table, the senator noted, the farmworkers are "treated like animals, depraved of dignity" and their children are forced to "play in the stench of outhouses."

Irish perform magic at home

Notre Dame's field hockey team just may have decided not to kiss the Blarney Stone, but rather the astroturf on Carter Field.

After beating Lake Forest at home last Friday, 1-0, the Irish are 3-0 in the years.

The win was long and we're not used to the Ohio Wesleyan.

"We'll be up for the weekend, as always," says freshman standout Clare Henry, who stresses the tournament will be a real challenge for her team.

The Irish have yet to win a game on the road, as is reflected in an even 3-3 record. The losses came at the hands of Indiana University, University of Toledo, and most recently, a 2-0 setback at Ohio Wesleyan.

Henry doesn't feel that a poor team performance contributed to the Ohio loss. "The bus ride out Clare Henry, who stresses this afternoon and the Depauw this weekend the Irish will come at the hands of Indiana University, University of Toledo, and most recently, a 2-0 setback at Ohio Wesleyan."

... Masztak

His statistics last year give solid evidence to the praises of Toman. He led the team in pass receiving with 28 catches for 428 yards. A member of the trio who has been touted as Notre Dame's best receiving corps ever and the nation's best in 1980 along with wide receiver Tony Hunter and flanker Pete Holohan, Masztak also fulfills the role of a blocker quite adequately, according to Toman.

"He is much improved from last year; of course that comes with experience."

"Deen is a super guy, he's a great asset to the program on and off the field. There's no question about it," concludes Toman.

Who taught Masztak the art of refining his natural skills?

"If I had to name my best coach, it would be my dad," says the Morrissey Hall resident. "He has really helped. He always knows what to say and do at the right times."

"If my head was getting big, he would tell me."

"I was just concentrating on getting the guys blocked so Harry could kick it," says the member of last year's Butcher Brothers in Bookstore Basketball with fellow gridiron standouts Kevin Hart and John Scully. "I was thinking, 'Come on, Harry,' but I never lost faith."

"When it went up I thought, 'It's there.' I was on my knees watching and I was just kind of bringing my hands up slowly as it was going, and then finally, I brought them all the way up when it was good."

"You could see how close we (the team) were there -- everyone on the sidelines was giving support. It was good, and everyone was a part of that win. Even if it wasn't good, everyone would have been a part of it."

Masztak stresses that the aura of closeness is still there, despite a week's layoff from play, and that it has to be with the team preparing for Michigan State.

"We can't take them lightly," says Masztak of the Spartans. "We're Notre Dame; people will always come out after Notre Dame."

"It's not going to be a roller-coaster ride to Alabama. I'm going to take the games one at a time and we have everything to lose."

"I love it here, I wouldn't be happy any other place."

It's doubtful the Irish team and fans could be as happy if the talented Masztak were any other place but under that Dome that memorized him nearly three years ago.

It has taken three years of dedicated effort, but last Notre Dame fields a competitive team. Although forced to practice in St. Joe's Lake early in the season, the team perserved and finally secured a slot in the Rockne Memorial's already overcrowded pool.

The club president and head coach, senior Mick Corbisiero, has managed to leave the hardships of eligibility-confusion behind and is enthusiastic about the club's first season. We have a good team, and a lot of enthusiasm. It's only a matter of time before we take off and really do well.

The scores of the club's first two games certainly support Corbisiero's statement. The Irish bombed Western Michigan and Purdue by respective scores of 16-8 and 20-13, leaving little doubt of their potential to excel. But next week's team travels to Ohio State for a tournament which will include powerhouse like Kentucky, Indiana, and Michigan— all fielding varsity teams composed of scholarship players. The Irish, meanwhile, have no one on scholarship at this level, and achieved only club status.

However, the club's founders, Corbisiero and vice president Dan Cilibrone remain undaunted. "If Notre Dame went varsity and brought in a coach we'd really dominate this area. We have a great chance of making the Mid-West Conference championships this year," said Corbisiero.

The Irish are in their first year as a member of that conference which includes nationally ranked Loyola of Chicago, Purdue, Iowa State, Southern Illinois, Ohio State, Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan.

It is difficult to refute Corbisiero's claims of great things to come when one takes a look at the roster. The Austrian brothers, Tom and Dave, both played high school water polo in Toledo. Tom was an honorable mention all-American and Dave played for National Team. Michael Lee adds valuable experience, having played for the Jamaican National Water Polo Team. Rounding out the talented team is John Smith, who made a name in Southern California— the water polo capital of the United States.

In fact, many west coast teams aided the Irish in laying a solid foundation. "UCLA and Berkeley helped us a great deal," explains Dan Cilibrone, who often brings the books of plays and some film gams. Heck, one of UCLA's assistant coaches was even right here and coach for us."

Corbisiero also elaborates that "we have a lot of seniors and next year's team is the best yet. We'll have to be a bit of a bit of a surprise, but we don't come up with some more players. Anyone can come out."

The club will travel to Ohio State this week to participate in its first conference tournament. Indiana, Kentucky and Michigan will be among the featured squads. Following the Buckeye tournament the Irish will travel to Pittsburg where they will host Michigan and Ohio State in a triple-meet season finale.

OUT OF THE BLOCKS — Notre Dame's 2:40 record in this season's football marks its best start since Dan Devine's first squad went 4-0-1 in 1973. That year the Irish defeated Boston College (17-3), Purdue (17-0) and Northwestern (31-7) before losing to Michigan State (10-3).

Notre Dame has scored more points in its first two games this season than in any other year under Devine. Their 60-point total is most closely matched by the 54 point total in 73 and 79.

OPEN UP — A glance at the records might convince Notre Dame's schedule makers to pencil a few more open dates into the Irish's slate. Since Ken MacAfee became coach in 1978, Notre Dame has posted a 17-2-2 record in games played following open dates. Nine of those games have been season-ending clashes with Southern Cal, in which Notre Dame is 2-5-2. Since Devine has been under the Golden Dome, the Irish are 4-1 after open weekends, losing only to Michigan (28-14) in 1978.

DEVINE INTERVENTION — Following Notre Dame's awe-inspiring victory over Michigan State, the Michigan student newspaper indulged in some posthumous evangelizing. The headlines in the Michigan Daily said:

"Dear Notre Dame, 26, God 3."

I CAN'T HURT — Creighton Miller, star halfback for Notre Dame in the mid-40's and now a lawyer in Cleveland, recalls that there may be more truth than myth when it comes to divine intervention for the Irish. Miller remembers his coach, Frank Leahy, taking the entire team to the cemetery before big games to say a rosary at Rockne's grave.

"I'm not sure if it helped," remarks Miller, "but it didn't hurt."

TWO-MINUTE WARNING — There have been only eight occasions in the history of Notre Dame football when the Irish have been deprived of victory in the last two minutes of a football game, the most recent being Southern Cal's field goal with two seconds left to nip the Irish 27-25 in 1978.

On the other side of the winner's circle, the Irish have scored the winning or tying points after the two-minute warning 14 games. Southern Cal and Iowa have been the victims three times apiece.

KNIGHT-LESS KNICKS — The NBA's New York Knicks announced last week that Tony Knight, who played for the Irish from 1974-78, will be sidelined for the entire NBA season. Knight, a former member of the Irish basketball team who averaged 19 points last year and has been starting forward for the Knicks for the past three seasons, was injured during an exhibition game last Tuesday. He'll be in a cast for three months and will spend the next three to six months undergoing rehabilitation.

CROSS COUNTRY FROM ACROSS THE COUNTRY — Notre Dame's Irish Invitationals, the largest collegiate cross country meet in the nation, will host five of the top twenty harriers (that a word?) squads in the country. According to the most recent issue of The Runner, the bible of American cross country, Auburn is rated national number one, Florida State and Indiana eighth, Florida 19th and Illinois State 20th. All five of those teams, plus Notre Dame and some 50 other schools, will take to the Burke Memorial Golf course course (hurt) starting at 2 p.m. Saturday.

SPEAKING OF INVITATIONALS — The Notre Dame men's tennis team will see its only action of the fall when the Irish will bid farewell to the Cream City Tournament. The Garden City, Kansas school has smashed Notre Dame's 26, God 3 record. Since Devine has been under the Golden Dome, the Irish are 4-1 after open weekends, losing only to Michigan (28-14) in 1978.
