People on the move

Collins stresses action

By DAVID RICKABAUGH
Staff Reporter

Marva Collins, creator of Chicago's Westside Preparatory School — a school for problem children in other schools — held a lecture last night in the Library Auditorium describing "people on the move." Mrs. Collins stated that people on the move find meaning in life and view success as a lifetime pursuit.

The Chicago educator said, "the action of one man is greater than the ideas of one thousand. Each individual must toll each day like it was their last day on earth. These beliefs combined with a goal, makes the difficult not impossible."

People on the move, according to Mrs. Collins, "must be universal rather than local individuals" with the wide base of knowledge and skills to create future culture and mold the destiny of the future.

A question and answer session followed the lecture. Mrs. Collins addressed inquiries from the overflow crowd which centered on the aspects of her school.

The private school, according to Mrs. Collins, focuses on a personal approach to teaching. "We regard the students as individuals, are not nuts and bolts, each are different. Teachers become actors and actresses, and in the evening they practice for the next show. They fail to actually teach," she said.

Mrs. Collins explained how she handles problem pupils. "I simply tell them, we're not going to suspend you, we're not calling your mother, you are either going to learn or die." According to Mrs. Collins, the teachers never resort to physical violence.

White responding to a question dealing with criticism of her program, Mrs. Collins commented, "if you get by '60 Minutes' you'd say my school is one you would walk into heaven without any problems."

The life of Marva Collins since her institution for a form which enrolled children who were labeled intellectually disabled, retarded, or slow to learn, is the subject of a television movie "Welcome to Success: The Marva Collins Story." Clipper Tyson, who spoke at Notre Dame last year on an International Education Festival which is celebrating the achievements and talents of Black Americans from Feb. 8 to March 5, will present various events and programs.

---

Deal in Panama

Former aide accuses Jordan

By CHARLES J. HANLEY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — The former chief aide to the exiled Shah of Iran says Hamilton Jordan, chief of staff in the Carter White House, double-crossed the deposed ruler by "making a deal to have the shah arrested in Panama" in an attempt to win freedom for the American hostages.

In an interview looking back over the events of the hostage crisis, Robert Armao said Jordan and White House counsel Lloyd Cutler assured the cancer stricken Pahlavi that the hostage crisis, hoping to try him for alleged mass murder and corruption. With Pahlavi in Panama, the revolutionary regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini began court proceedings to have him extradited.

Armao said Jordan and White House counsel Lloyd Cutler assured the cancer stricken Pahlavi that the hostage crisis, hoping to try him for alleged mass murder and corruption. With Pahlavi in Panama, the revolutionary regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini began court proceedings to have him extradited.
President Reagan's federal hiring freeze is "neither unconstitutional nor contrary to law," according to U.S. Dis­ trict Judge Charles R. Breyer, meaning that even those promised employment before the ban was invoked on Inauguration Day are out of luck. Breyer said that the "20,000-odd" persons who received ac­ ceptance letters from federal agencies between the election and Jan. 20 were not legally hired, since Reagan's executive order was retroactive. Officials of jobs that were not filled have been receiving little attention because of the continued unsold killings of children and disappearances over the past 19 months. —

The elections for Student Body President are this Tuesday. For those of you still awake, there are only two tickets running (both coed), the lowest number in recent memory. You could blame this on student apathy, or perhaps increased awareness.

In the annual "rag on student government" column, Mr. and Mrs. World? No, this is an honest assessment of the organization and capability of the student voice as it stands right now, in relation to the almighty Administra­ tion.

As it stands, this is the "chain of command:" the Hall President governs, it only represents the student voice. Remember that at Notre Dame, student government, "on the fringe" as he put it, having served as a Student Senator, while running mate Rosemary Canino is presi­ dent of Badin Hall. He does not believe the student voice is unified yet, and places that as one of his top priorities next year. Buo­ chers also feels that Biehl wanted an entire year by not convening the CLC once, and he said he will use the Board of Trustees to keep an eye on the student body extensively if elected.

For a time, it appeared the Murday/Kenney ticket would run unopposed when the ticket of swimming star Mike Shepsharden and Junior Kiki President Mike Cianciola fell out of the running over various misunderstandings. But Canino, searching for a running mate, found Biehl's willingness, and the pair was able to enter the race when the deadline for applications was extended. Some have questioned the seriousness of this ticket, but both appear sincere and dedicated, and they are ready to challenge Murday.

That's where it stands. Little has really changed, except during exam and vacation times when the whole thing looks more like apathy, or perhaps increased awareness. But Canino, searching for a running mate, worked closely with Riehle this year, perhaps more closely than Richie's running mate, Don Ciancio. He is supportive, persistent, and he brings a few novel ideas to the campaign. Richie was undaunted, consoled only by the fact that the Trustees told him he could rewrite the CLC con­ stitution. He organized the senate anyway, even though it was merely creating another body to deal with. In seeking the CLC's continuation, he wrote out all ad­ ministrators as voting members, the logical thing to do, and left the Trustees approved of this change.

Where's that? It stands. Little has really changed, except that there should now be no interference from the executive branch. Student government workers will argue that students' attention has at last turned to the one viable body, the Senate, and that a consistent, continuous voice can now be expressed. In the meantime, patience has been a key word in following the progress of student government in the past year.

With that now that there is a unified voice, does that mean the Administration will pay any more atten­ tion? No one seems to know, and there obviously in little reason for optimism. Don Murday, one of the two candidates for SBP, feels the election year is going to be a Golden Opportunity to make the most of that.
Leifstricts decline in El Salvador
White cautions against U.S. support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former ambassador to El Salvador said yesterday that the leftist guerrilla movement is "broken and declining" and that any attempt to bolster the government through large-scale U.S. military aid could backfire with a right-wing coup.

Robert White, a career diplomat currently awaiting reassignment, said "I believe the right is constantly trying to overthrow the government, as it is the left, and it's a beleaguered government in the middle.

White: ambassador during the last year of the administration of then-President Jimmy Carter, testified to a congressional subcommittee that "the real threat to the government is not from the left, but from the extreme right."

White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nunns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.

By speaking out publicly against U.S. military assistance and sending at least some additional advisers to help the Salvadoran government, White said El Salvador's security forces, including so-called death squads, are responsible for most of the killing in the Central American nation and criticized the "wesel words" in a State Department document that suggested that responsibility for 10,000 deaths last year was evenly divided between leftist and rightist forces.

He said rightist death squads have committed most of the assassinations, as many as 5,000, including "thousands and thousands of young people for mere suspicion of being leftists or being sympathizers of leftists."

He also said he is certain that three Roman Catholic nuns and a fourth churchwoman from the U.S. were killed by rightist elements.
FAC remains active

By JEFF CHOPPIN
News Staff

The 1981 Freshman Advisory Council has been active, but still has "a very long way to go," according to Council Chairman Robert Thompson.

The most recent activity sponsored by the Council was the Freshman Night at the ACC. Over 200 people attended the event, which included skating, dancing and a movie all for one dollar.

This is the kind of low pressure social event that I'd like to see the Council, and the University as a whole, have more of," Thompson said. He added that "the people who stayed had a good time."

One of the Council's purposes is to act as a vehicle for freshmen complaints, according to Thompson. "Freshmen should realize this. They have not used their representatives to the fullest potential so far." He said that if freshmen have complaints, they should take them to their respective dorm representatives.

Some of the past activities sponsored by the Council were the Thanksgiving Food Drive, which netted $300, and the Class of '84 t-shirt contest. Thompson added that the Council was also responsible, in cooperation with Fr. Greg Green, assistant vice president of student affairs, for allowing freshmen to bring their cars on campus. The Council also distributes newsletters written by Emil Hofman, dean of freshman.

The t-shirts, designed by David Simon of Fisher Hall, will be available sometime after break for $5. Freshmen may pick them up from their representatives.

See FAC, page 8

---

Sophomores plan weekend

By MARY O'KEEFE
News Staff

Saint Mary's annual Sophomore Parents Weekend takes place this Friday through Sunday with a few changes in the traditional schedule of events.

Sophomore Parent Weekend Chairperson Pam Kelly anticipates the arrival of over 500 parents Friday afternoon when registration takes place in LeMans lobby from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m. Parents who arrive later than 6 p.m. will register in LeMans lobby Saturday from 10:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

On Friday evening, 75 sophomores will present a variety show entitled "We Did It Our Way" in Angela Athletic Facility at 8 p.m. The show, written and directed by sophomores Karen Bosoy and Sally Georges, will encompass mainly of musical acts dealing with the first two years of college life. The show is open to all ND/SMC students. A reception for sophomores and their parents will be held in Angela.

An academic open house is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday in Angela. At the academic open house, representatives from Saint Mary's academic departments and administrative offices will talk with students and their parents. Members of the Alumni Association and student government officers will also be present to answer any questions parents or students may have concerning their role at Saint Mary's. Holding the academic open house in Angela is a change in location from previous years...

See SOPHS, page 8

---

Attention Women of ND/SMC

Protect Yourself with CHEM SHIELD

(a mace substitute)

available in ND Bookstore Jewelry Department

ND Student Government

---

FREE SENIOR FORMAL BID!

Don't miss the Celebration!

---

ARE YOU ENGAGED TO BE MARRIED

If you are planning to participate in Marriage Preparation through the Campus Ministry program, sign-ups will end on Monday, March 9.

For more information or sign-up stop at the Campus Ministry Office, 103 Library, or call 6336.
Cross captures Grammy Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Christopher Cross, a 29-year-old pop-rock singer, guitarist and songwriter won honors as best new artist last night as the recording industry handed out its 22nd annual Grammy Awards at a star-studded nationally televised ceremony.

Anne Murray, with her single “Could I Have This Dance?” and George Jones, with his single “He Stopped Loving Her Today” won the awards as best female and male country vocal performers.

Ray Orbinson and Emmylou Harris won the award for best country performance by a duo or group with vocal for their single “That Lovin’ You Feelin’ Again.”

Bobby John was best male rock vocal performer for his album “Glass Houses.” The award for female rock vocal performer went to Pat Benatar for her album “Crimes of Passion.”

Bob Seger and the Silver Bullet Band won the award as best rock group for the album “Against the Wind.”

Bette Midler was named best female pop vocal performer for her single “The Rose” from the movie of the same name. Miss Midler’s performance as a drug-addicted rock singer in that film earned her an Oscar nomination as best actress last year.

Cross — the name is a pseudonym — is from San Antonio, Texas. His six-man band is called Christopher Cross and so was his debut album. A single from that album, “Sailing,” became a big hit and was nominated for song of the year and record of the year.

“I think it’s the one I wanted most of all,” Cross said after the new artist award was announced.

Cross continued from page 1
WASHINGTON — There is no doubt in anyone’s mind that the military is going to get everything it asks for in the new Reagan budget. But it’s easier to give money to the Pentagon than it is to spend it. All the services want their mites on the new funds, and once it’s been okayed, we may see internecine battles between the armed forces, the likes of which this country has never witnessed before. As soon as Congress appropiates the money, it will be delivered in a Brink’s truck to the doorstep of the Pentagon, where high-ranking officers of the four branches of service will be waiting for it. An admiral will say to the Brink’s employees, “OK, men, bring the money up to the safe in the Navy procurement office.” “The hell you say, an Air Force needs every penny of it, and more.”

An Army four-star general will chip in, “Keep your hands off those bags. They’ve been set aside to build up our conventional forces.” “In a pig’s ear,” the admiral says. “Every cent has been allotted for new nuclear carriers and anti-submarine ships.” “What about me?” a Marine Corps general says. “Oh, shut up,” the Army general says. The Brink’s driver is annoyed. “Will you guys make up your minds? We have to get to lunch.” “I talked to the Senate Armed Services Committee and they said we could build a new bomber with this money,” the Air Force general says, trying to grab one of the bags. “The Army general pushes him. “You fool, there are four hands, off that bag. That’s going for our M-60 tank.” “President Reagan says he wants a Rapid Deployment Force,” the Marine Corps general says. “And the Marines are the only ones who can do the job.” “You stay out of this,” the admiral warns. “We’ll give you what’s left over, once we build our cruiser carrier ships.”

The Air Force general says to the Army general, “Don’t ever push me again or we’ll bomb Fort Bragg back to the Stone Age.” “Oh, yeah,” the Army general says. “How would you like to see SAC headquarters filled with nerve gas?”

While the two are arguing, the admiral is heaving bags of money behind a bush. The Air Force general and Army general start beating up on him. The admiral shouts to the Army general for help, and the Marine says, “Not until you promise me enough for 1000 helicopters.”

The Brink’s guard separates the officers. The admiral, dusting himself off, says, “That does it. We attack Laighty Air Force base tomorrow morning.” “Listen,” the Brink’s guard says. “If you don’t want the money, I know a lot of people in the government who do.” By this time, someone has called the Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, who rushes down to stop the fight. “What’s going on?” he asks angrily.

The admiral promises the Air Force this money for an MX system and a new bomber. “Yes, I did,” Weinberger says. “And did you give me your solemn word it would go for new aircraft carriers and submarines?” (the admiral asks.) “Of course.” “And didn’t you swear,” the Army general says, “that we would get the bulk of the new appropriations to modernize our equipment?” “I recall saying that.” “So which service gets the money?” “None of you,” Weinberger replies. “I just got a call from Al Haig and he says the $8 billion has to go for ‘ ((* equipment. We’re going to El Salvador.”

Art Buchwald is a syndicated columnist.
Trust — Elvis Costello

(Film Review)

Costello is a paradox. He is both; the record and its producer, Nick Lowe, have been given a double entendre. When you look at the pictures of Costello in the liner notes, you see a man who is both physically and spiritually connected to the band. The album version of the song used the pseudonym "Redwave."
The Observer

Thursday, February 26, 1981 — page 8

Campus

Molarity

Are you going to vote for me?

Michael Molinelli

I hate an imbued electorate

Bureau announces changes

All Placement Bureau interviews scheduled for Lafayette Student Center today and tomorrow have been transferred to Room 222 in the Administration Building.

...Sophs

continued from page 4

tive from recent years when students and their parents went to several different buildings to obtain information about the college.

A dinner and dance is scheduled on Saturday from 6 p.m. until 1 a.m. in Century Center. College President Dr. John Duggan along with Chairperson Pam Kelly will speak during the dinner. A total of 823 people are expected to attend the event.

Fr. Joseph Keena will celebrate a special Mass for sophomores and their parents in the Church of Our Lady of Loretto Sunday at 8:30 a.m. A special Mass for sophomores and their parents will be on Saturday from 6 p.m. until 1 a.m. in Century Center. College President Dr. John Duggan along with Chairperson Pam Kelly will speak during the dinner. A total of 823 people are expected to attend the event.

...FAC

continued from page 4

Future events to be held will be the freshmen formal and the movie "Heaven Can Wait." The formal will be held on April 11 at an undetermined site on campus. The on-campus location will make the formal accessible to all the freshmen, Thompson said. He blamed last year's poor turnout on the off-campus location.

All profits from the March 6-7 showings of "Heaven Can Wait" will be turn over to the Council treasury to help sponsor the formal. Thompson hopes that the freshmen class will participate more for the remainder of the Council's events. "The key to the remainder of the year will be class input."
goals for the season and nine points the previous year, he set team records with 52 goals. He then played for University of Cincinnati, Mich., and first started that had more than just a hockey game.

Logan developed a strong interest and furthered his game.

The Fighting Irish with a 4.71 league record and 12-20-2 overall.

Friday night we ran into a hot goalie and on Saturday night, I hate to say it, but the referees had a big impact on the game. The series left the Fighting Irish with a 4-7-1 league record and 12-20-2 overall. "We've had our share of problems this year. The key players that we thought were going to come through haven't, especially the upperclassmen. However, lately they have been supplying the leadership," says Logan about the team's lack of success.

To be optimistic, I'll say we played very emotional, which is something we haven't done in a long time," replies Logan when asked to comment on the Colorado series. "And everyone gave 100 percent. "I didn't think I played that well. It just happened that every time I shot the puck it went in," says Logan. "I made a lot of long shots and things like that, but the referees had a big impact on the game." The series left the Fighting Irish with a 4-7-1 league record and 12-20-2 overall. "We've had our share of problems this year. The key players that we thought were going to come through haven't, especially the upperclassmen. However, lately they have been supplying the leadership," says Logan about the team's lack of success.

Logan is a native of Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich., and first started playing hockey when he was five years old. As he grew older, he developed a strong interest and furthered his game.

Logan decided to attend Notre Dame because he wanted a school that had more than just a hockey team. "I didn't want to put all my eggs in one basket," says Logan. "I wanted something to fall back on."

Logan was a regular forward when he was a freshman. During his initial season, he collected 14 goals and added 16 assists. In the following season, his statistics were similar as he tallied 17 goals and 14 assists despite missing six games with stomach muscle problems. During his sophomore year, Logan had his greatest weekend in a two-game series with Michigan Tech. He scored hat tricks on both nights, which earned him the WCHA Player of the Week honor.

"I didn't think I played well that weekend, but I had a great weekend."

Logan was a regular forward when he was a freshman. During his initial season, he collected 14 goals and added 16 assists. In the following season, his statistics were similar as he tallied 17 goals and 14 assists despite missing six games with stomach muscle problems. During his sophomore year, Logan had his greatest weekend in a two-game series with Michigan Tech. He scored hat tricks on both nights, which earned him the WCHA Player of the Week honor.

"I didn't think I played well that weekend, but I had a great weekend."

Logan was a regular forward when he was a freshman. During his initial season, he collected 14 goals and added 16 assists. In the following season, his statistics were similar as he tallied 17 goals and 14 assists despite missing six games with stomach muscle problems. During his sophomore year, Logan had his greatest weekend in a two-game series with Michigan Tech. He scored hat tricks on both nights, which earned him the WCHA Player of the Week honor.

"I didn't think I played well that weekend, but I had a great weekend."
For ND track

Dawning of a new era

The dawnning of a new era sounds a little dramatic, but that's the way a couple of coaches are talking about the future of the Notre Dame track team and many of its programs.

Head Coach Joe Piane and one and only assistant, Ed Kelly, began working together six years ago. Since then Notre Dame has had four All-Americans and a steady improvement in women's records. More importantly, the caliber of the entire team has reached the point where it can be considered in the same breath with teams like Indiana and Michigan "Why?" Work. Work and a better attitude, says Piane.

"When I and I came here you wouldn't have believed how bad the attitude was," he recalls. "Everything was negative. Ed works his tail off and I work pretty hard and the kids see that. If you're down at Coral is drinking beers not really caring the kids serve that and say, why should we work if he isn't? We've done an adequate job of recruiting, but we'll have to do better — that's the key.

So the question is: What's new? Why should things start to improve? There is the fact that Van Pearcy, at 9.6 100-yard dash and 46.8 440-yard sprint man will be here next year. But in the past, football players at Notre Dame have not readily participated in other sports. Van Pearcy would not be at Notre Dame if it weren't for Gerry Faust," says Piane. "Gerry Faust has given him a guarantee that he doesn't have to participate in spring ball. For him (Van Pearcy) track was as important as football. If would have said, 'No, we don't want you in track,' he wouldn't be here coming here."

"Faust sees that there is value in track, not just for sprinters, but for everyone. He goes out and encourages them. Greg Bell is a freshman (and a football player) and in doing excellent job on the field. Dick McGarry is another example."

The difference is, previously, the kids weren't as encouraged as they are by Faust. Now, Gerry is saying, "Yeah, I think it's a great idea. It's good for football, it's good for track, it's good for the program."

"This year's team is the best Piane has fielded since taking over in 1975. Piane, a Peace Corps veteran, is a quiet, self-motivated man and his personality, as it does with all coaches, affects his coaching style."

"I'm not about to give great fire and brimstone speeches and great pep talks," Piane emphasizes. "I simply can't do that. It's just not me, it's not in me to do that."

"Track is so much different from most sports. In football you get motivated by hitting some one. Track you go out and perform yourself. I think you gravitate toward the sport that matches your personality. I enjoy football, but will have to do better — that's the key.

That's my impression. And Gerry Faust is going to help us. I think the track program is going to improve. We're about five class athletes from being one of the top twenty teams in the nation."

Notre Dame has class athletes right now, most notably Chuck Aragon, who may soon achieve the 'Rumtree/foot' feat of breaking the four minute mile. But being a national contender means more than one or two great runners and a great relay team. Consistency throughout each part of the team, as in all sports, is the key.

A new era may in fact be dawning which could add another national championship to Notre Dame's list. Co-captain Faust, luck, team spirit and chemistry will decide the fate of this new era.
A 1950s Dance Contest and Ice Cream Social will be among the attractions Saturday afternoon during the Notre Dame women’s basketball team’s home finale against the Fighting Illini of Illinois. The Notre Dame Athletic Department and the Variety Crew are sponsoring the fun-for-all afternoon, along with Farrell’s Ice Cream Park and Steak & Ale Restaurant, which are providing the prizes. All participating couples will receive a free ice cream cone at Farrell’s concession stand. Sign-ups for the Dance Contest will be in progress during the neat game against Dayton, and continue through the first half of the women’s game. Admission is free.

Notre Dame-Saint Mary’s women’s interest in golf should contact Mary Beth Heslin at 1549 or 431 Breen. A women’s softball team is forming and several matches have already been arranged with a full schedule being planned for next fall. Try-outs will be near the middle of March. Noel O’ Sullivan, men’s head coach, has agreed to coach the women’s team.

Classifieds

The Classifieds is an important part of our service to the community. It provides a platform for job seekers, businesses, students, and others to connect and share information. With the ever-evolving world of digital communication, the Classifieds continue to be a valuable resource for people looking to buy and sell goods, find services, and locate opportunities. Whether it's job postings, real estate listings, or personal services, the Classifieds are an essential tool for reaching your target audience. In today's fast-paced world, the Classifieds remain a reliable method for advertising and connecting with others.

Freshmen contribute to win

by FRANK LAGROTTO
Sports Writer

There are no names the average fan would immediately recognize whenever the subject of Notre Dame basketball arises. They do not receive the playing time, score the points or sign the autographs. A team like Truppo or Packer does. In fact, against tough opponents in those "big games," they usually don’t bother to take off their warmups.

"They are this year’s seniors — Joe Kleine, Cecil Backer, Tom Slaby and Barry Spinner — and all of them have quickly, may even painfully, learned that it takes time to crack the lineup of a major college basketball team.

Discouraging? Perhaps. But Dug Platner has nothing short of confidence in his rookie quartet. "Those guys have been savor for us all year," he points out. "They help us in areas that may not always show up on television or in a boxscore, but the coaches and players are aware of their contribution."

Assistant coach Tom McCauley elaborates: "The freshmen help us get ready for a big game, and in that respect they are as much a part of a win like Virginia as the guys who played. Ask John Paxson. He’ll tell you that playing against Barry Spencer in practice all week helped him get ready to guard Jerry Lampley. Or ask Orlando Woolridge. Working against Joe Kleine helped Virginia prepare to play against Ralph Sampson."

But McCauley doesn’t stop there. "I can say that these guys are a big force. Fortunately, they’re not the only ones playing "big game.""

See FROSTY, page 10

NOTICES
PROFESSIONAL TYPISTS, 10-12 PM Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday. 10-12 PM Thursday, Friday. Medical School, 3105 Linn. Catharine and Winners Circle. Free Typing.

DON’T BE ARMED AT ALL
USING OR CARRYING POCKET KNIVES
ALL TIMES. Knives seized will not be returned. Law enforcement officials will be present. WAC, 10-12 PM. At all times.

MORRISFY CONCERNED
Emergency!.ids M N 20:30 E 1771 E. 21st. Please contact the police at 10-12 PM Monday. Free Typing.

DRUNK TYPING — $1.25 a page. Also professional resumes done. Call Dan, 270-843-3456.

CRAZY ROCKS at Fat Wally’s Tuesday, Feb 26. Come and get ready with good rock 'n roll music. Free Typing.

Next ride to David-Southern movement of West, March 1, 1986. Call 279-5427.

There are only 50 seats left on the Kennedy bus for spring break. First come, first served. No reservations. Call 577-3104.

We care about your day today. Free Typing.

Hill Farm Flying Club accepting new members. Student pilot welcome. Call Dan Reeder at 310-4274.

BENGAL BOUTS
Virginia as the guys who played. Ask Tom McCauley.

Any word the subject of Notre Dame basketball. They do not receive the playing time, score the points or sign the autographs. A team like Truppo or Packer does. In fact, against tough opponents in those "big games," they usually don’t bother to take off their warmups.

"They are this year’s seniors — Joe Kleine, Cecil Backer, Tom Slaby and Barry Spinner — and all of them have quickly, may even painfully, learned that it takes time to crack the lineup of a major college basketball team.

Discouraging? Perhaps. But Dug Platner has nothing short of confidence in his rookie quartet. "Those guys have been savor for us all year," he points out. "They help us in areas that may not always show up on television or in a boxscore, but the coaches and players are aware of their contribution."

Assistant coach Tom McCauley elaborates: "The freshmen help us get ready for a big game, and in that respect they are as much a part of a win like Virginia as the guys who played. Ask John Paxson. He’ll tell you that playing against Barry Spencer in practice all week helped him get ready to guard Jerry Lampley. Or ask Orlando Woolridge. Working against Joe Kleine helped Virginia prepare to play against Ralph Sampson."

But McCauley doesn’t stop there. "I can say that these guys are a big force. Fortunately, they’re not the only ones playing "big game.""

See FROSTY, page 10
"There are only two games left at home, and they are both going to be good ones." A reputation precedes Saint Francis into tonight's game. The game is general consensus that this is an other Boston University or Saint Francis is Virginia, and that is far from the truth.

"Saint Francis plays like a combination of LaSalle and Fairfield," says Phelps. "This is another one of those solid eastern teams that look toward Notre Dame all year.

"We saw what can happen when a team plays like the game is the biggest of their careers. Fairfield came very close to knocking us off.

"I’m glad she wasn’t in the audience Monday night. I wouldn’t want to ruin her impression of this place.

"At first glance, Jenny Klauke hardly looks like a basketball star. Standing 5' 9 1/2, she doesn’t tower above her opponents on the Notre Dame women’s basketball squad.

"But when the Irish decided to leapfrog from MAW Division III to Division I in a single season, and lured one of the top coaches in the nation to Notre Dame, somebody had to be the knight on the white horse. And as one of the first two women ever to receive athletic grants-in-aid at Notre Dame, Klauke was a prime suspect.

"When teammate Mary Joan Forbes, the other scholarship athlete dismisses her knee before the season opened, the burden fell squarely on Klauke.

"It wasn’t quite the Second Coming.

"Whether or not she could walk on water wasn’t the issue — the hardwood of the basketball court posed enough of a challenge. Klauke passed when she should have shot, shot when she should have passed, and in general resembled a business major trying to pass a mechanics exam.

"She got about the same results. After opening the season alongside Maggie Lilly in the starting backcourt, Klauke soon found herself occupying the best seat in the house at tip-off.

"It was a new and refreshing style of play only confused her teammates and frusrated her coaches. Most often the case, when she tried to put the ball behind her back, it wound up behind the third row. Watching Klauke operate in the midst of Notre Dame coach Mary DiStanislao’s offensive attack was akin to watching a boxer out of his element.

"She seemed to think that a one-on-four fastbreak was a good scoring opportunity, much to the chagrin of DiStanislao. Defense was still something other people did.

"Thank God for Goshen.

"The Maple Leaf, a non-descript Division III school, happened to wander into the Athletic and Convocation Center just after South Carolina blew out its 124-48 pique. Goshen staggered out of the ACC with an 86-44 loss, and 22 of those points to Jenny Klauke.

"Goshen is hardly among the nation’s elite in women’s basketball, but it had taken Klauke a long time to learn that you have to walk before you can run. The Maple Leaf happened to remind her just how fast she could go.

"Since then, Klauke has run through some pretty fair opposition. In its last four games, Notre Dame has lost to Ball State, St. Joseph’s, Michigan and Virginia. Klauke has been the leading Irish scorer in each of those games, averaging 20.5 points and 7.5 rebounds while playing under just 25 minutes per contest.

"Jenny has begun to play up to her capabilities," says DiStanislao. "At the beginning of the season, people had very high expectations of her. As if she could come in and turn the program around by herself. As a result, she tried to do too many things. Now, though, she’s playing intelligently, and the results have been fantastic.

"Probably the most encouraging aspect of Klauke’s surge is that her strong play has come against top-notch competition, not Division II and III passers.

"As Notre Dame’s 9-3 record attests, Jenny Klauke isn’t ready to walk on water. But nobody has to throw her a life preserver, either.