ND denies discrimination; settles out of court

In an out-of-court summer settlement of the Fresc and Ford sex discrimination lawsuits against the University, Notre Dame denied a history of discrimination against female faculty in tenure and contract decisions. The University, however, did make substantial concessions to the plaintiffs.

The 16-page settlement approved by U.S. District Judge Allen Sharp on July 31 consists of the following provisions:

- Notre Dame must also establish an appellate procedure for women who, in the future, believe they may have been discriminated against in faculty promotions.
- Ford, after reaching a separate settlement with the University, dismissed her case. She will be promoted to the rank of professor in the Theology Department and also receive compensation from Sept. 1, 1980.
- The University has agreed to pay a "reasonable amount" of the plaintif's legal fees.
- Notre Dame will also be kept under the watchful eye of the Equal Opportunity Employment Commission (EEOC) for the next three years, as it will provide the agency with its affirmative action report for that time period.
- Ms. Fresc initiated her lawsuit in 1978, when she was denied tenure and that suit eventually became a class-action with 81 plaintiffs involved. Ms. Ford followed shortly thereafter, with her separate lawsuit.

Food service returns to self-management

Notre Dame Food Service has discontinued its affiliation with SAGA food service in favor of University management, due to a return to a basic policy of self-management. Food Service Director Robert Robinson said:

"This was done for the health and safety of the students. They are our only concern," Robinson stated.

John Lennon's car up for sale

AUBURN, Ind. (AP)-John Lennon's magical mystery car, a 1956 Bentley with a psychedelic paint job, will go on the block next week in a classic car auction.

The Bentley also features purple leather seats, hot pink carpeting, paisley drapes, and a walnut dashboard.

But all those extras won't come cheap at the auction to be held Sept. 4-7 at the Auburn Cord-Duesenberg Museum.

Officials at the museum say the last time the famous auto was offered at auction it attracted bids as high as $280,000, and bids at the Indiana auction are expected to top that amount.

Museum spokesman Dan Broger said the car was purchased for Lennon in 1966 by the Beatles-owned Apple Corp., the same year the Beatles released a song called "Drive My Car."

Some auto writers have claimed that the car inspired the song, but Burger admits he doesn't know what promoted Lennon to buy the auto.

"You don't know why Apple Corp. bought the car, or who had the idea to fix it up like this," Burger said.

He said no one knows who decorated the car or if any of the Beatles had a hand in creating the design.

Apple Corp. owned the bentley from 1966 through 1968, then traded it for a yacht. Shortly after that exchange, it was shipped to the United States, where it was put on a tour of state fairs.

Last year the car was purchased by the Movie Land Museum in Los Angeles for a "Cars of the Stars" display, where it was displayed for six years.

Then another owner purchased the car and put it in storage.

In January, Ron Morgan, a classic car collector and auto wholesaler from Santa Ana, CA, bought it back on tour. Since then, it has earned $5,000 in promotional fees.

Burger said Morgan is putting the car up for auction in several locations across the country, a move he hopes will enhance the car's reputation.

Morgan refused to sell Lennon's car for $280,000 when it was offered at auction last month.

Although Fr. Hesburgh is scheduled to retire this June, the University President will not at all become a "has-been" in University history. Next year at this time, he will have simply moved on to a newly created position, a new challenge - that of chancellor for the University.

According to Provost Timothy O'Meara, the position of Chancellor -- which the Board of Trustees created with Fr. Hesburgh in mind -- will involve a "long planning, external affairs" commitment to the University and its development in the coming years. Since this is a novel position, however, the specifics of the job remain rather nebulous.

And as O'Meara put it, "That's all anyone short of God knows at this time."

What is far more interesting, however, are the ramifications such an arrangement will have on the office of the President. In a letter which O'Meara sent to faculty last May, he explained that the Presidency "has become so demanding," that the new President/Chancellor arrangement will enable "future growth in excellence without requiring the President to be two things at once."

The President can now solely address himself to the immediate concerns on the home front -- the daily operation of the campus in short, the Chancellor will do travelling and worrying about the larger aspects of the University and the direction its policies are taking. In the past, Fr. Hesburgh attempted to tackle both jobs at one time and often received criticism for losing touch with campus life.

So the question arises: Will those potential candidates for Hesburgh's old office really want such a splitting of roles?

Although the President does not set a deadline, it is understood that any candidates must have had a New York Times editorial page to their name. Such a position is still number one in command, as the new President/Chancellor still number one in command, as the new President is second in command. The new President/Chancellor arrangement will enable "future growth in excellence without requiring the President to be two things at once."

... Food

Services made one change in order to stop the abuses going on in the system.
"A student must bring his meal card to every meal," Robinson said. "If a student does not have his meal card, he has two options: do no eat, or pay for the meal. The student may charge the meal at the checker desk.
"If the identification card is lost or stolen, the student will still be required to pay for the meal. However, in the process of obtaining a new card, there can be some discussion," Robinson noted.

Robinson also stated that Food Services has also installed a S-O-U-P line, as a service to both students and dining hall managers.

By dialing S-O-U-P, a person can find out what is being served for dinner, for lunch the next day, and the meal hours for the next day.
"We used to have a tremendous number of calls right at the time when we were busiest trying to get the meal out," Robinson said.
"The S-O-U-P line will free those managers to be out on the lines and in the kitchens, rather than answering the telephones," he said.

In a meeting with Dean Roemer, Student Government judicial coordinator Carla Silva questioned Roemer's ability to add new rules, or interpret existing rules in Du Lac without it being discussed in a meeting of student leaders.

Roemer, however, clarified that changes in the University rules and regulations should be discussed with the student body president, the judicial board coordinator, and the chairman of the Hall President's Council prior to insuring that such changes are made.

Rules regarding elevated beds fall under residence hall regulations, he said, which deal with University property. Any changes in this section of Du Lac need not be reviewed by the student government, according to Roemer.

"The University has always reserved the right to change these rules, because the University owns the residence halls," he explained.

Dean Roemer pointed out that once again, lofts as described in Du Lac are illegal. Du Lac defines loft as "a room or floor built within another room."

"Lofts cannot be built. That has always been a prohibition," he said.

At last night's meeting of the Hall President's Council, the council drew up a proposal aimed at altering the directive to extend the height limit from six to seven feet. This proposal, which HPC members said is in accordance with the Du Lac regulations, also asks that those regulations be enforced more stringently by the hall staffs.

The HPC proposal came after that board met with Fr. Van Wobbe for about an hour last night.

New building nears completion

Construction on the $9.3 million-plus Stepan Chemistry hall, which began on December 20, 1979, proceeded on schedule during the summer, so the five-story structure should be completed by its December target date, said physical plant director Donald Dedrick.

The building, which was projected to cost $9.3 million in 1979, "is going to come in a little over that," said Dedrick. "There were no major cost overruns."

"The north-south half of the building is 90 percent done and the other half is 80 percent done," Dedrick said. "The whole project, except for minor items, will be complete in December. I would hope that by the end of September all site work will be completed."

Along with the Fitzpatrick Engineering Hall, the five-story building fulfills the University's desire to become a great research institution, Dedrick said. The new chemistry hall, which will serve primarily as a graduate research laboratory, will also act as a research center for undergraduate assistants of professors relocated to that building. A few professors will remain in Nieuwland Science Hall.

The new structure, which contains service, prep, instrument and conference rooms, "offers us completely new lab space with tremendous flexibility, much better ventilation and improved storage," said chemistry department assistant chairman Rudolph Bottei. Bottei also noted that plans for the new building include a machine shop, an electronic shop, an animal room and faculty offices.

The new labs are fully equipped with modern features that will enable them to accommodate changes necessitated by ever-advancing scientific apparatus. A portion of the north-earniest part of the building, as well as space on the fifth floor, will be kept vacant for future expansion, Bottei explained.

"It is a truly functional building," he said. Dedrick, however, described the building as "complex."

"There were very stringent mechanical requirements from fume exhaust and air makeup, hot and cold water and electricity," Dedrick said. "An awful lot of mechanical utilities have to be brought to those lab tables."

"The Chemistry Department is grateful to the University for providing us with such great facilities," Bottei said. "It shows great faith in the Chemistry department."

"We started to plan the construction of the building about 15 years ago," said Bottei. "It is the culmination of many years of work."

Reagan trashes proposal for airborne MX system

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) - President Reagan has all but ruled out an airborne system for the MX missile, a White House spokesman says.

"There are increasing signs that he is leaning toward a land-based plan," Deputy White House Press Secretary Larry Speakes told reporters Monday that Reagan has made preliminary decisions on his choice of the MX and on a new manned bomber.

"The president certainly has made some tentative decisions," Speakes said. "He knows what direction he wants to go in this. He has not made any final decisions."

Speakes said he would not confirm that Reagan is moving toward a land-based system for the MX but said "I would not dispute" a statement by Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, that an airborne version of the MX would not be feasible.

If Reagan is moving toward a land-based system for the MX, he has made preliminary decisions on the bomber and the MX "have proceeded on the planning on this and has at least made some preliminary decisions on the way he will proceed on it. But he's asked for additional information."

Speakes said discussions on the bomber and the MX "have been going on for a period of time. He added that Reagan has given directions to the secretary of defense as they proceed on the planning on this and has at least made some preliminary decisions on the way he will proceed on it. But he's asked for additional information."

A spokesman for Sen. Jake Garn said Monday that the Utah and Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., have been assured by the White House that Reagan will not decide how to base the MX before mid-September.

Truck overturns
Domers escape injury in crash

By LYNNE DALEY
Executive News Editor

A Long Island, N.Y., baggage truck destroyed a parked Volkswagen, a portable toll booth and a portable lavatory area, striking the parked car on its side, after the brakes of the U-Haul failed at about 8 p.m.
last Friday night.

ND STUDENTS Tom Gers­ bach and Rich Murphy, who were alternating at the wheel, sustained only minor injuries in the mishap, which occurred at the west gate of the Ohio Turnpike.

Club treasurer Bill Slantery said that the club was insured for $10,000, which, he said, well exceeds any damage in­ surred in the incident.
Gersbach said that the U­ Haul's brakes "completely fail­ e" as he neared the toll booth.

"I geared down but there was no response at all," he said.

To avoid striking a semi­ tractor-trailer truck already parked in the toll station, Gersbach said, he swung the truck sharply to their left, causing the vehicle to tip over on its side.

"We were only going about 30 or 35 mph," said the driver," but at the moment all we were really concerned with was our lives.

The two drivers were transported safely to Notre Dame by Murphy's parents, who had tavelled ahead to attend freshmen activities for another son.

After reloading the baggage onto another U-Haul, Long Island Club President Frank Brady, who drove to Toledo from Notre Dame on Saturday, completed the trip to Indiana.
Brady admitted that some of the cargo was damaged—especially bicycles, shelves and other fragile items packed in boxes. Some suitcases, he said, were crushed or ripped.

Slantery said that the club was contemplating legal action against the U-Haul company because of the defective brakes, but Brady said that any lawsuit would have to be brought by Gersbach and not the Long Island Club.

Gersbach, however, said that he did not plan to press charges at this time.

Bani-Sadr blasts
Khomeini

NEW YORK (AP)—Saying the government of Iran is "break­ ning apart, losing ground more and more every day," Abol­ hashsan Bani-Sadr, the former president of Iran, blames much of the nation's recent trouble
"on Ayatollah Ruhollah Kholmieni.

"Once he was in power, (Khomeini) was also ignorant of international politics, the economics of the country and the world outside," Bani-Sadr said of CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," broadcast Sunday.
Bani-Sadr, interviewed in France, said Khomeini has the support of "11 to 15 percent"
"of Iranians and that he is no longer "a symbol of trust, unity.

"What can you say about a religious man, 85 years old, who is supposed to represent the spirit, the mind, and instead of that, he shoots at people... for the people of Iran, it's torture," said Bani-Sadr.

The former president said during their captivity, the American hostages were in physical danger, but only because of
"terrorist network that worked for the CIA."

Women who commit murder

CONCORD, N. M. (AP) — July 14: Ana Pelton, down to 88 pounds from 120 and psychologically "a piece of meat," is home with her husband. Last night, she mailed suicide notes to her son and her sister. Now she's pointing a .25-caliber Beretta at her head.

"Go ahead," says her husband, who's been cheating on her for four of their 12 married years. "It'll save me the cost of a divorce."

Mrs. Pelton turns the pistol and shoots him nine times. She reloads and fires four more shots. He is hit in the head, the chest—"all over the place," a prosecutor says.

Mrs. Pelton, 45, is charged with first-degree murder. Today she is a patient at the state mental hospital.

"She's a hopeless case," says her lawyer, Thomas Allison, who related the incident. "She doesn't even know he's dead."

July 29: Priscilla Szelog, 38, mother of three, is home for a day. She was hospitalized for depression, by her husband—described in court by her lawyer as a "severe, reprehensible, cruel man who physically, mentally, and emotionally abused her over a long, continuous period of time."

"She's alone with him "no more than five minutes and he starts at it again," says the lawyer, Frank Holland. A 20-gauge shotgun roars once, and Henry Szelos, hit in the chest, is dead.

Holland calls the case classic. He says Szelos drove his wife to an "irresistible impulse, a spur of the moment mental aberration wherein you really lose control for a brief period of time never to do it again."

When Mrs. Szelos goes on trial for second-degree murder in October, Holland will argue that his client's actions were justified.

Aug. 3: Superior Court Judge Richard Dunfey hears Catherine Kelley describe five years of psychological abuse from her ex-husband. She recalls the scene last summer, how he demanded $1,000 and oral sex in a parking lot before she could visit their daughter, how moments later she shot him five times in the abdomen.

Dunfey sentences Mrs. Kelley, 34, to 15 to 25 years. "It was a little hard for the court to understand the mental abuse she had been put through," says Ruth Scribner, one of Mrs. Kelley's lawyers.

"A woman should not have to walk into court with missing limbs and her head broken to prove she has been provoked."

Each year in New Hampshire, three or four men are charged with killing their wives. Police know of 324 cases of wife abuse last year, and counselors say that's just a fraction of the real count.

No education?

U. of Hard Knocks offers respectability

EVANSTON, Ind. (AP) -- J. Henry Ballman always felt a little embarrassed by his lack of formal education. But an eighth grade education didn't serve him well through 71 years. Now, he doesn't have to be a wallflower when he is with college professors, lawyers, doctors. Anybody.

J. Henry Ballman is the proud owner of a B.S., M.A. and a Ph. D. II from the University of Hard Knocks.

"All you need to graduate from the Universitof Hard Knocks is a resume to show that you've been successful in life without a college degree, a black and white photo and $100," says Ballman.

Before you start thinking that this is just another gimmick to soak somebody out of a few bucks, let Dr. Ballman continue.

"We used to just charge $10," he said. "Then Mr. Comstock decided to charge $100 and turn the money over to the Shriners for their crippled children's hospitals. But then mailing expenses and things went up and the $100 covers all of that. Besides, when we ever get too much money, we give it to charity anyway."

Mr. Comstock is Jim Comstock, founder of UHK. A West Virginia newspaperman and humorist, Comstock started UHK to cheer up his partner, who was distressed by his lack of formal education.

Comstock solved the problem with the presentation of a diploma and the words "You are now a college graduate."

Since then, more than 1,200 people have received the black and blue diplomas. UHK even has a campus of sorts. Officials at Atletson-Bradford College in Philippi, W. Va. adopted the group.

Ballman was a 1966 graduate. But travelling to West Virginia was a problem. Why couldn't there be a second campus? No one could come up with a good reason, so UHK-Evansville was born.

The Evansville branch will hold its second commencement Sept. 26 and award former President Harry S. Truman a posthumous degree.

"It's just a fun thing. We're not in it to fool anybody or make any money," says Ballman.

I felt for a long time that college people looked at others as second class," Ballman said. "But I finally said, 'Hey, I'm just as good as these people.'"

Indeed, Ballman worked his way up from welder to regional sales director for a large manufacturer. He is retired but far from inactive.

He's looking for people who have made it without the benefit of a real college diploma. The definition of success is left up to the individual.

"I have a nice home that's free of debts," Ballman says of himself. "I've been married to the same woman for 40 years. We still love doing things together."

"And I've had an awful lot of fun-I can't think of anyone with any number of degrees who's had more fun in life as I have."

Bail for convicted spy set at $500,000

SEATTLE (AP)-- Convicted spy Christopher Boyce was ordered held under $500,000 bail yesterday by a U.S. magistrate and told to appear at a preliminary hearing Sept. 7.

Boyce, brought in handcuffed from a holding cell to the federal courtroom, appeared before Magistrate Phillip K. Swiegert.

He was captured in a Port Angeles, Wash., restaurant Friday night, 19 months after eluding authorities since his escape from a California prison Jan. 21, 1980.

Boyce refused to respond when Swiegert asked him if he understood the escape charge and must present a lawyer.

Boyce was convicted in 1977 of selling highly classified information dealing with U.S. satellite surveillance systems from the TRW plant in Redondo Beach, Calif., where he worked from mid-1974 until 1976 as a security clerk.

A confederate and boyhood friend, Andrew Daulton Lee, 29, was arrested outside the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City ten days before Boyce was picked up. Lee was sentenced to life in prison.

At the hearing Sept. 3, the government will have to show probable cause that Boyce is the person named in the charge and must present a certified California street warrant.

Swiegert reiterated that Boyce ultimately will be returned to California.

Opposed to new program

Doctors threaten walk from hospital

GARY, Indiana (AP) — doctors at St. Mary Medical Center say they may stay away from the hospital unless administrators revamp a new ambulatory care program.

"We are opposed to the mechanics of the program," said Dr. Felipe S. Chua, a physician with a private who also works at the medical center. "It was instituted without due consultation with the officers of the medical staff."

"The American Hospital Association guideline is quite specific: the medical staff should first be consulted," Chua said Monday.

Chua said St. Mary's doctors object to the fact the doctors recruited for the new program would be paid a salary and given office space and staff at the medical center, instead of working on a patient-by-patient basis.

Chua, who is president of the medical staff, said if a compromise isn't reached on the ambulatory care program, St. Mary's doctors could start referring their patients to different hospitals in the Gary area.

He stressed that the action would by an individual decision for each of the 240 doctors who use the medical center, and would not involve withholding of medical care.

Chua was optimistic that a settlement would be reached at a meeting of the hospital's governing board in the next two weeks.

The hospital's plan to coax doctors to Gary by offering a generous salary is in response to a doctor shortage in northern Indiana, Chua said.

He noted that a federal government survey pegged Gary as a "medically underserved area."

He approved the idea of giving incentive to doctors to stay in northern Indiana, but said the medical staff at St. Mary would favor a plan where the hospital would give new physicians a financial incentive during the first year of service in exchange for a commitment by the doctors to stay in Gary.

NRC arranges hearings on Bally Nuclear plant

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — It probably will be sometime next year before hearings can be held by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on the foundation pilings design of the Bailly Nuclear Generating Station, an NRC spokesman said Monday.

Spokesman Jan Strasma at the NRC's regional office in Chicago said the commission has notified Northern Indiana Public Service Co. that no further construction will be allowed until the piling question is resolved.

The NRC ruling, which came Thursday, does nothing more than implement a U.S. circuit court of Appeals ruling handed down last month, Strasma said.

There is a possibility of mediation, however, since NIPSCO voluntarily ended the pile-driving program in 1977.

In its ruling, the appeals court said NIPSCO's proposal to install shorter foundation pilings than called for in its original design was a significant enough design change to warrant public hearings.

Before that, the NRC, in a split decision, has approved the short pilings design.

Meanwhile, the NRC Atomic Safety and Licensing Board will also hold a hearing on NIPSCO's request to extend its Bally construction permit.

Strasma said interested parties have 30 days from the time of the pileings hearing notice shows up in the Federal Register to respond. Because of the schedule of the three-member panel, the hearing probably will be pushed into 1982, he said.

He said the same three-member panel will rule on both the piling question and the permit extension, "but the decisions will be rendered separately.

The hearing will involve questions raised over safety factors related to pilings at the $1.8 million, 644-megawatt plant on the shores of Lake Michigan near Burns Harbor.

The city of Gary and the state of Illinois are among the groups asking for a "show cause" order that would have ended building of the plant.

Each contends NIPSCO has not prepared suitable plans for evacuation of northwest Indiana and eastern Illinois in the event of an accident at Bailly.

Opponents say that pilings driven into the soil are not strong enough to support the building that will house the reactor.

NIPSCO chairman Edmund Schroer late last month pointed to regulatory, legal and political delays and bickering already will be scrapped if its projected 1989 completion deadline cannot be met.
On June 6, 1987, the Naval intelligence ship Liberty was sailing off Lebanon's neutral waters, flying our flag. After six hours of low-level plane re-connaissance by Israeli planes, jet aircraft and torpedo boats tried to sink the Liberty and kill all its crew. Rocket and torpedo attacks actually crippled the ship, and Napalm was dropped on deck (which is an interior fire and prevent survivors. In fact, the ship was so damaged that, and only 14 Americans were killed, instead of the full 287. But the napalm (undoubtedly supplied to Israel by America) took its toll—171 were injured.

I referred to this attack in a recent column, and correspondents made it sound as if I were committing an agitation by mentioning the ag- gression on our ship. These correspondents defended the Israeli attack by calling our ship’s presence in neutral waters “provocative.” We had. Beirut, and we came ashore. Israel was about to launch its attack on Syria, and did not want us listening in.

I do not think the presence of our ship, in international waters, without offensive capability, can possibly be harmful to a neutral country, certainly not provoke evaporative American (as the attackers tried to do)—or even 34 Americans (in their eyes, they could manage). But the American public is appeasing those people to the extent that they can. Weinberger told the Veterans of Foreign Wars, on Wednesday, that we had shot down two Libyan planes, but his words were greeted with long and intense applause. Weinberg had already called the incident regrettably. But these super patriots shrugged off their pain, and were pretty clearly, killing people in a business we should get back into.

And Muammar Khadafy is, pretty clearly, the guy we would like to kill. The CIA has already been planning for overthrow of the congressional oversight committee. Against that back wind, our presence off Khadafy’s shore does appear to be thought of as provocative. Were we daring it against him?

If so, we can settle his hash—as we determined to set Castro back in the 1960s. Khadafy is a threat to our safety, and we always need an incident that proves we need all the arms we can get, just as we did in Iran. Weinberger, who wants us armed to the teeth, to prevent any incident that proves we need all the arms we can get, just as we did in Iran. Weinberger, who wants us armed to the teeth, to prevent any incident that proves we need all the arms we can get, just as we did in Iran.

The demonizing of Khadafy will, I hope, not just be willing to grant that Khadafy is a despot. I do not think much wonder at the devil as at the exorcists who are volunteer­ ing to drive him out. When we decided to knock off Castro’s back in the 1960s, he had at least a few candidates, to replace him—though they turned out to be even worse than he was. That is basically the case. The CIA wants to play demons, Allah, and all the rest, but it has not sufficiently studied the wisest bit of demonology in the Holy Bible or the New Testament. I quote from the Gospel of Luke (1.245-56): “When a demon is driven out, a man wanders the waterless places looking for surcease; and finding none, says, ‘I will return to the lodging I was driven from. And arriving there it finds the lodging occupied by another devil. Then it goes and gathers seven other devils, wicked far worse than itself, and entering, they dwell there, and the man’s death is worse than the first.”

And among us, we are not driving out one devil, they are shopping for seven devils. And they always leave us in a worse mess than we started with.

Hunter is expected to make a home and five live runs on the last night of the weeklong event. Hunter, who was selected as one of the 100 athletes in the senior women's figure skating competition, said that he will carry more on Aragon and Rothstein in tomorrow's issue. - The Observer.

Braves stay atop NL West

Bruce Benedict's first major league bases-loaded home run and Curt Casem's hit to right in the eighth inning last night as the visiting Atlanta Braves pushed the Twins to a 9-1 victory at the Minnesota Zoo. The loss dropped the Twins to the fourth place in the American League East for the first time since being traded by the White Sox before the season. He didn't allow a hit until the sixth inning when Reddick popped a single off rookie Greg Swindell. The right-hander, who has not hit all season, ended only three hits in the seven innings he worked. Braves also scored the first run of the game. New York rookie Mookie Wilson walked with a leadoff home run in the eighth inning off ace Relief pitcher Mike Marshall to a 2-1 victory over the San Diego Padres. - The Observer.

Kleine transfers to Arkansas

Joe Kleine left Notre Dame in May saying that he would not return to the university this fall. Joe transferred to the University of Arizona, where he will study business. - The Observer.

Among those tying the knot were last year's football-tri-captain Tom Gibbons to '81 Saint Mary's graduate Lexi Swedish; Dave Huffman ('78), ex-NFV center now with the Minnesota Vikings, who married in July; current Irish co-captain Bob Crable on July 21, and fellow linebacker John Rice, who wed Notre Dame senior Beth Higgins on June 27. Hooked hockey players include juniors Jeff Perry, John Higgins and Mark Doman. - The Observer.

Aragon, Rothstein, Blake excel

At the National Sports Festival in Syracuse, N.Y., this July, Pasquerilla East freshman Bunny Blake finished seventh in the senior women's figure skating competition. In a June 1980, Blake was one of two skaters who represented the United States at the Junior World Championships in Megève, France. Other Notre Dame students competing in the festival include sophomore Dan Rothstein, middle distance runner Chuck Aragon ('81). The Observer will call upon Aragon and Rothstein in tomorrow's issue. - The Observer.

Once the deadline has passed, ticket availability will be on a conditional basis. - The Observer.

Kuhn supports benefit

(AP) Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has expressed his support for a benefit game for injured Indiana University basketball star Landon Turner between the Indianapolis Indians and the Iowa Cubs. All proceeds from ticket sales for the American Associa- tion (AAA) game have been earmarked for Turner's medical expenses. Tonight's game at Hohestadt Park is preceded by a home run hitting contest which will feature the pitchers that contain team and Bobby Knight. Turner, who is 6-10 and would have been a senior this fall, was injured seriously in July 25 auto accident near Columbus, Ind. He has been paralyzed since the accident.

A Methodist Hospital spokesman told Daily News that Turner has been transferred from the intensive care unit and will be admitted to a spinal cord care unit for rehabilitative care.

Reds refuse guide to Penthouse

CINCINNATI (AP) - A freelance writer says he was denied a media guide because he writes for 'Penthouse' magazine. Reds official says 'Penthouse' magazine has complained to National League President Charles Feeney.

Allen Sonnenschein of New York contends that his request was rejected by the club because of its views toward the men's magazine. Sonnenschein wrote in a letter that he purported to write to Feeney expressing no prejudice yesterday in the Cincinnati Post.

The Cincinnati team's publicity spokesman informed me that the club refuses to send its 'Penthouse' any material that is, nevertheless, available to the print media,' Sonnenschein said in the letter. He added, "I was told that the club does not consider the content of 'Penthouse'"

"For the Cincinnati baseball team to make an unilateral decision about the appropriate- ness of this magazine to print articles which deal with base- ball, and a decision based on concrete rather than on the most blatant attempts at censorship of what are opinions in this country may read and where they may read it. Reds public relations director Jim Ferguson said the club had no official comment regarding the letter.

"There's a lot of fiction in the letter," Ferguson said in a telephone interview Monday. "All I can say is that we did not provide the articles which deal with base- ball, and a decision based on concrete rather than on what we consider to be the most blatant attempts at censorship of what are opinions in this country may read and where they may read it"

Reds public relations director Jim Ferguson said the club had no official comment regarding the letter.

SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING MAJORS: TAKE OUT INSURANCE NOW

How about an "insurance" policy that your science or engineering degree will really be used? It would be nice. Especially considering the work you put into such a degree.

The Air Force will use your talents. We have openings for young men and women majoring in selected science and engineering academic fields...like Aeronautical, Aerospace, General and Electrical Engineering, Mathematics, Physics and Computer Technology, and more.

One way to get into these jobs is through Air Force ROTC. Our AFROTC scholarship can help you financially so you can concentrate on getting your degree. AFROTC is a great opportunity to help yourself through college life was supposed to be rough.

If leaving home and being on your own for the first time ought to be a lonely experience, you'd better remind the newest Notre Dame football players of that.

Coach Gerry Faust's 27 returnees, a group that includes 13 All-Americans and often has been called the best high school teams could offer in 1981, seem as comfortable on campus as the head man himself. And they appear even more at home with each other.

"After the first two days, I knew all the other freshmen players' names," relates center Tom Doerger (Cincinnati, Ohio). "I was amazed, at how friendly everyone was." Lineman Jay Underwood agrees. "The guys have become so much closer than I expected," he reports, "and I'm not surprised in a short time," says the Newport, News, Va., native. "As at practice, you're eating, practicing or attending meetings the rest of the day." The freshmen not only have jelled as a class, but with their older teammates as well.

Yet it's easy to see how such camaraderie evolved. Housed together on fourth floor Planter for the past 10 days, the newcomers have spent nearly every waking minute with each other. They were welcomed by the Michiana fans at a rally at Marrian High School one night, while the quarterback club took them to a nearby lake for a cookout the next. And to break some of them talk about how busy and regimented their days at "boot camp" are, it's not surprisings homickness hasn't had a chance to make its presence known.

"It'll probably hit me the first time it snows"...highly sought back Van Pearcy of Andrews, Tex. "I guess I should be homesick but I'm not. Right now, I feel all of my teammates are like family to me. Everybody has tried to help each other out because we're all going through the same thing.

The hardest part is waking up thinking you're home and then remembering you're not," offers Joe Fazio, an offensive lineman out of Willingboro, N.J. "But there's really no time to think about it after that. We're either eating, practicing or attending meetings the rest of the day." The freshmen not only have jelled as a class, but with their older teammates as well.

The underclassmen have never treated us as inferior," explains defensive back Joe Johnson (Fostoria, Ohio), "they always want to help us out at practice - it's not easy, he's after me all the time." "I'm a wingback," says Daniel Sesto (Spartanburg Wash.), "and junior wingback. But he helps me so much it's unreal. He's been like a coach-player this whole week. He's helped me so much it's what it's like to be a freshman.

But the veterans aren't the only ones lending a helping hand. They're bringing in a lot of assistance from some unexpected sources. For himself this season - Faust. "He's exactly the dynamo I expected," notes Underwood. "A 24-hour bundle of energy. And he really looks out for us..."

The one who should know is Moeller product Mike Larkin. "Coach Faust is the exact same kid I am," says the big linebacker, "the big left-handed kid. I couldn't believe it. I didn't think it would be possible for him to give all the players such personal attention at the college level, but he still says to me almost every one of us during warm-ups.

"Coach Faust is the reason we're all here," smiles the big linebacker. "I could have been happy at a lot of schools, but the desire to play for him was too great."

And the desire to don Irish uniforms and be a part of the Notre Dame mystique was pretty strong, too.

"I'm just starting to realize I'm actually here," said an overwhelmed Joe Howard with a wide grin. "At practice, you kind of block it out, but here I think about playing for a team." "Yeah, you get too nervous if you constantly think about being here at Notre Dame," agreed Tony Piccin, all-tourney fullback. "The best thing is, if you just down what comes naturally, but off the field, you're really alway equipped to be a special place this is."

Few freshmen given the ones as talented as this prize bunch, are able to crack the lineup and make immediate contributions. But Faust and his staff aren't worried of these athletes living up to their press clippings. They've all made strong progress in practice this week.

The freshmen themselves aren't worried about their new home living up to its externality, either. "The freshmen are a quality person, and so are all the other players or they wouldn't be here," notes Machtolf. "I kind of knew Notre Dame would be this terrific."

Faust impresses Skywriters

By KELLY SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

During football season, there’s no love lost between Notre Dame and the Big Ten. But there was no hint of animosity last night between Gerry Faust and Bill Bergey -- a corps of reporters from the Associated Press and Boilermaker country.

The Notre Dame coach, who’s met with Bergey twice with the press since his arrival on campus, wowed some of his potential critics during last evening’s dinner-press conference at the Skywriters.

The 20 or so Midwest journalists made their annual stop at Notre Dame, the second of 10 schools they’ll visit in the next week. Most had never met the Irish dynamo, but were familiar with reports of his exuberant personality and were anxious to catch a first-hand glimpse. And they weren’t disappointed, Faust was his usual self.

He arrived just as the dessert was being served. “It’s just too easy,” he quipped. And after personally releasing hot music in game one there, he started making believers out of the curious. “I hope you haven’t had chance to see him in action.”

“Everything I’ve heard about,” offered Big Ten representative Marc Katz. “The kind of guy that impressed me with his enthusiasm and warmth. That’s my third visit to Notre Dame on this tour, and it’s been far by the best. The quality of the atmosphere and the atmosphere have been tremendous.”

Sime Williams, who never had the chance to introduce himself to every reporter who never had the chance to introduce himself to every reporter, was quite impressed with what they saw. [photo by John Macar]

Big Ten visitors

No. 14 Notre Dame football coach Gerry Faust [above] continued to impress people yesterday. The Big Ten reporters were amazed by what they saw.
