INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Investors may or may not be immediately happy with NIPSCO's decision to abandon the Bailly nuclear power plant, but the crucial decision will be made by the Indiana Public Service Commission.

The utility announced last week it was abandoning the project, only 1 percent complete more than 11 years after NIPSCO sought federal permission to build the 644-megawatt plant on the shore of Lake Michigan near Chesterton.

Edmund A. Schroer, NIPSCO board chairman, said the utility spent about $205 million on the project and would seek to recover those expenditures.

"Investors were concerned the company was committed to a project for which the costs of completion are virtually unknown," he said.

Meanwhile, CILA's Education Committee will start its other opportunity.

An Orientation Weekend is already planned for September, the discussion program said an analyst at LF. Rothschild, Utterberg Loughlin, brought the issue up at last week's HPC meeting, and presented the resolution last night.

"The basic benefit to the students," said Loughlin, "would be a more positive effect than the school year. There are so rushed (that first day). That one day extra would make a lot of difference." In his resolution, Loughlin states that students don't have enough time to prepare their rooms, clear the hallways, buy books, and become accustomed to their new surroundings. Also, he states, students haven't time to change their schedules before classes start.

HPC will now take the approved resolution before the Student Senate to obtain its support. HPC President Mike Martin said he would also seek approval from the Faculty Senate. If all three bodies agree to the resolution, Martin said, the administration would be more likely to approve the suggested change.

Walesa's Solidarity vows social support

Warwick, Poland (AP) — Lech Walesa said yesterday the Com- munist authorities are losing "social acceptance." He vowed on nationwide TV his Solidarity union does not want to take power, but assumes responsibility for the na- tion's fate.

"There is no time for stupid polemics, no time for accusing us of wanting to take over power," Walesa said, "because we don't want power, we want to serve the community." The Solidarity TV program came hours after the state-run Polish news agency PAP distributed an interview with Walesa.

"Things have now reached a stage when the authorities are losing social acceptance and social support," Walesa was quoted as saying. "This situation forces us to take upon our- selves responsibility for the fate of the nation."

On the evening radio-TV program, Walesa said: "We don't need the access to radio and tele- vision for polemics. We need it to come to an understanding. We want to explain things. We are not con-

The United Nations high commissioner for refugees praised China on Tuesday for resettling 263,000 Vietnamese refugees "in a way microcosm of what we want." Commissioner Paul Hanson arrived Monday in China, said the country has agreed to accept another 10,000 Asian refugees. He said about 1 percent of the refugees went to a third country. "It is very encouraging that China has such a humane attitude toward the refugee problem," Hanson said. Reasonably begins classes with no preparation time, adding that it was not within his power to do anything about returning her to work in a timely fashion or to offer any verification of her employment at the University. Such decisions, he said, lay with his superiors. Ms. Frese then asked that the court hold the University in contempt until it does what it promised to do. In response, the University stated that it advised Ms. Frese that she would not return to a faculty position until September. The University added that the settlement becomes effective upon final judicial approval, not District Court approval. Ms. Frese believes that final judicial approval was granted to the settlement following the final fairness hearing, and the dismissal of the prejudice charge.

NEW YORK (AP) — A British research team has coated bacteria into making a flu vaccine by tinker- ing with the bacteria's genes, according to a report in the current issue of the English scientific journal Nature.

The vaccine is a type of flu not now causing disease, but the researchers said their work "might be the basis for producing a vaccine against a current strain" of influenza.

The amount of flu vaccine being made by the bacteria is only about 10 percent of what the bacteria should eventually be able to make, the researchers said. That yield would have to be increased if the vaccine were to be produced in large quantities, they said.

Dr. Peter Patriarca of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta said it will probably be at least 10 years before the gene-splicing technique becomes cheaper than conventional means of producing vaccines.

"The work, done by Ingiborg Helland and Mary Jane Gething of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund in London, involved inserting anti-influenza genes into the bacteria's genetic material.

The technique, known as gene-splicing or genetic engineering, has been used by others to make interferon, a possible anti-cancer weapon, and to make several biological substances that are difficult to obtain by other means.

A vaccine, an inert form of a virus, sparks the body to build up its resistance to a disease without making the patient sick.

It has been known that a patient's resistance to influenza viruses can be triggered by injecting the patient with a substance called hemagglutinin, or HA, which is produced by flu viruses.

The British researchers isolated the HA gene that controls the production of HA and inserted it into the bacteria's genes. The bacteria then produced HA as a byproduct of their normal growth and reproduction.

Flu vaccines are now made commercially by growing flu viruses in eggs. The viruses are taken from the eggs, killed, and injected into patients.

Between 10 and 30 days after the vaccine is given, the patient has built up a strong resistance to the viruses and will usually not get the flu or will get only mild case, according to researchers at the Centers for Disease Control.

Wednesdays Court-martial appeal, but the naval court-martial appeal, but the naval adjutant, said yesterday Garwood could lose the appeal of his conviction and will be entitled to his back pay of no less than

About nine weeks, adding about nine weeks, adding 97,300. He's entitled to be paid," Charlottesville attorney Lowe said.

No decision on whether Garwood should get the back pay was made at the hearing at the Army Judge Advocate General's School at the University of Virginia.

The hearing officer's report will be considered by a Marine Corps review board and the Secretary of the Navy before a final decision is made.

Lowe said the process would take no less than eight weeks, adding, "we're not at this point concerned with the timing of this thing.

Lowe also said a hearing officer has been appointed to review Garwood's court martial appeal, but the outcome of the appeal shouldn't affect the request for the back pay.

"We have made a presentation and certainly hope everybody along the way will be fair as can be... and that Robert Garwood will obtain justice," Lowe said.

Asked whether the back pay would be used to pay legal fees, Lowe said Garwood faces "a long and costly course of medical rehabilitation that certainly can expect to be punitive."

During the hearing, the Marine Corps hearing officer Maj. Gary C. Allen submitted 426 pages of questions for Garwood to answer about charges that were not clear in the trial record.

Garwood is on leave pending an appeal of the conviction and retains his rank until the appeal process is exhausted.

These days a trip to the college bookstore can reduce your available funds to some small change. Luckily, that's about all you need to make the one phone call that can replenish your depleted funds in a couple of hours. Here's what to do:

1. Call home. Report the situation, and tell the folks they can get emergency cash to you fast by phone.

2. Ask them to call Western Union's toll-free number, 800-325-6000 (in Missouri, 800-342-6700), anytime, day or night. They charge the money and a pick-up fee to your MasterCard or VISA card. A Western Union Charge Card Money Order, up to $1,000, will be flashed to the Western Union office or agent nearest your emergency.

3. Pick up your money—usually within two hours—at the local Western Union office or agent nearest your emergency.

Be sure to remind your parents about your toll-free number. It's all they need to bank you up at the bookstore.

Library facilities undergo changes

By MARGARET FOSMOE
News Staff

The Notre Dame Memorial Library recently underwent a series of improvements designed to better accommodate students in their use of library facilities, according to Robert Miller, Director of University Libraries.

The major improvement, according to Miller, was the elimination of the College Library on the second floor. Originally intended for undergraduate use, the College library was incorporated into the Tower Library, located on the fourth to tenth floors.

Business, Art, and Music were then shifted to the second floor, where additional seating accommodates their wider usage. Their former place on the sixth floor provided for expansion of the University Archives and further office space for the Archives, a separate part of the University, are the official repository for University records and American Catholic manuscripts. In addition to these changes, several minor additions were made.

The copy machines are now centrally located on the second floor of the building. Also, a New Books display is now present in the second floor foyer.

The improvements at the library were the result of a year-long 1978-80 study. The study documented facts concerning undergraduate use of the library and difficulties with the library. These facts were then compiled and improvements were made accordingly.

Miller said that he "anticipates materials will be much easier to find" because of the changes. "Because the materials are now all together, the library should work much better than in the past, which was, after all, the original purpose of the changes."

The improvements at Memorial were completed by the library staff over this past summer. By the time the changes were complete, the staff had relocated over a quarter of a million books.

With the improvements now complete, the University plans no further primary changes.
Dear Editor:

I am writing to express support for President Reagan's proposed budget cut to student aid. I attend a private liberal arts college. My tuition is over $6,000 a year. Nearly all my school expenses are paid by loans and grants, $1500 in federal aid, $2000 in low-interest government loans, $1500 in grants, $500 in a scholarship, and managed to pay his way through. I am quite sure that when Mr. McNamara, learned there was no way...

Football ticket distribution continues today.

All Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students who purchased season football tickets during the summer should report to the ticket windows at Gate 3 of the Athletic and Convocation Center. Distribution continues today with juniors and all undergraduate students in their ninth semester or higher. Sophomores/Graduate/Low Students: Saturday—today. Freshmen: Friday. The ticket windows will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. including the noon hour. The Gate 3 doors of the ACC will be open at 7:30 a.m. so football ticket customers can be processed. All students should report to the Gate 3 admission windows that the seats in the student section have not been pre-assigned by the Ticket Office. Therefore, if an student wishes to sit with a specific classmate, they must present their IDs together for adjacent seating. No student will be allowed to purchase more than four IDs. To facilitate this process, students should check with band officials regarding ticket distribution procedures.

Marinara students who purchased tickets during the summer should report to the ACC with their respective class of tickets ready for distribution when they arrive at the Gate 3 windows.When picking up their tickets, they must present evidence of their membership and proof of purchase. Any student who has not filled out a 1981 student football ticket application must have done so by 5 p.m. Monday. Since the June 21 deadline has passed, ticket availability will be on a conditional basis. — The Observer been an assistant in any college, get the job done?” Athlon lists the Irish No. 8, adding “New coach Gerry Faust, a genuine optimist, may be crushed at this forecast.”

Sport — “If Gerry Faust coaches as well as he recruits, Notre Dame could have itself another Frank Leahy.” Crable and Carter are among their all-Americans, and All-America Mark Brooks was listed as one of the Four Fabulous Freshmen.

Sports Illustrated — “yet another Moeller alum at South Bend this year, and 46-year-old rookie coach Gerry Faust doesn’t intend to see his 0-07 winning percentage drop so much as a point.”

Football News — “Say one thing for Dan Devine...he didn’t leave a bare cupboard behind...that alone should make life considerably easier for Devine’s successor, Gerry Faust.” Crable makes the FN first team, Hunter the third, and the pair, along with Carter, Kramer and Krimm are on the all-middle-west squad.

The Sporting News — “Faust is targeting for...a first-place national ranking for his team. And TSN’s preseason voting panel (which ranked the Irish second) doesn’t consider that such an impossible dream.” TSN rates Crable and Krimm the country’s best at their positions.

The polls of 14 different publications plus a poll combining all 14 appear on pages 8 and 9.

NFL teams cut down rosters

By LARRY SEDDONS

Associated Press

National Football League teams put their rosters into final form yester day for the opening of the 1981 season, with Pittsburgh Steelers kicker Matt Bahr and Houston Oilers receiver Rich Caster topping the list of cuts.

Also cut were Mike Thomas, a 1,000-yard rusher in 1976, and Mike Fullen, safety for the past seven years, by the San Diego Chargers.

Meanwhile, the injured reserve ranks swelled as teams got down to the 45-player limit. Among the injured reserves were linebacker Ed Simonetti of the Baltimore Colts and quarterback Gifford Nielsen of the Houston Oilers.

Also cut by the Steelers was wide receiver Johnnie Borden, who went from driving a cement truck to a spot on the Houston roster three years ago. He had since been cut by the Oilers and Kansas City of the NFL, as well as Winnipeg of the Canadian Football League.

The other guard spot will be occupied by Mike Shiner, a starting tackle on the left side last year. Shiner switched spots with Tom Thayer, who now moves to left tackle after starting six games at right guard a year ago.

"The switch has worked out well," says Shiner. "I'm a little quicker than Tom and I can get out on sweeps. I'm not as strong as he is. He's a better base blocker which better suits him to tackle."

"I was hesitant about the move in the spring," he continues, "but now I see that it was the best move to make. I love it. I'm glad I made the switch."

Pozderac, meanwhile, will man the same right tackle spot he occupied a year ago. A starter in all 12 games in 1980, Pozderac will join with Shiner to give the Irish offense a rather imposing set of blockers on the right side.

Of the five starters, only Fischer has yet to earn a varsity monogram. Ellis, Thayer and Shiner each have one, while Pozderac has carried a patch.

"It's true that our starters are inexperienced at their positions," says Notre Dame offensive line coach Jim Higgins. "It's also true that we put in a whole new offensive system which requires more teaching time. But I think the switches we made will make us a stronger team. They trust the talents of the people we moved." According to head offensive line coach Tom Bachuki, most offensive linemen are not exceptional athletes. "Exceptional athletes who are big enough are put on the defensive line," he says.

Obviously, then, the moves were made to give the Irish offensive unit, as a whole, the combination of qualities it couldn't get from the individuals which make it up.

"Shiny Ellis is extremely smart, and has good techniques," says Higgins. "He has to be able to squat down with his feet parallel, snap the ball and run. He felt Mark could do that. Randy Ellis is extremely smart, and has good techniques," says Higgins. "He's a better base blocker which better suits him to tackle."

Pozderac also has good toughness," says Bachuki, the first prep All-America Gerry Faust ever had at Moeller High School, has the body type of a center. "It's also true that we put in a lot of pulling with our guards, and we need someone who can get out and run, who can find a linebacker or block him in the open field. That's not as easy to do as it sounds."

Mark Fischer, according to Higgins, the former offensive line coach at Moeller High School, has the body of a center.

"A center has to have a certain body mold, a certain body type. He has to be able to sit down with his feet parallel, snap the ball and run. We felt Mark could do that. He's a very hardworking, very tenacious. Even when you beat him he doesn't quit." Fischer's current weight of 245 pounds is some 25 pounds lighter than his listed weight a year ago. The Irish coaches would like to see that weight up near 255 pounds next year, which would serve as an advantage when trying to block generally lighter defensive linemen.

The tackles — Pozderac and Thayer — both have "good toughness," says Bachuki, something they will need when the Irish are in a ball control type of offense.

"Tom Thayer likes to compete, he thinks tough," says Bachuki. "He's a fine leader for our offensive line. He's solid and a hard worker. The reason we switched him to tackle is because he's stronger than Shiner, and Shiner is more mobile, can run faster."

"Pozderac also has good toughness," says Bachuki, the first prep All-America Gerry Faust ever had at Moeller High School, has the body type of a center. "It's also true that we put in a lot of pulling with our guards, and we need someone who can get out and run, who can find a linebacker or block him in the open field. That's not as easy to do as it sounds."

"The only senior among the five starters is Pozderac. Ellis, Fischer, Thayer and Shiner are all juniors, a fact that may be some comfort to Irish fans already looking ahead to Gerry Faust's second season in 1982.

As the elder statesman of the group, Pozderac has tried to occupy a leadership role, much had John Scully did a year ago. "It's been hard to accept it," says Pozderac of his seniority. "But I've tried to be a leader at times, mostly by keeping them working hard. There are so many extra things that you can get away with not doing that we're trying to do, like staying on your feet and getting the second and third blocks."

IRISH ITEMS — Senior Tony Bel den has been named special teams captain. Phil Carter and Harry Oliver were back on Carter practicing yesterday, seemingly recovered from minor injuries. Everyone who's anyone in college football circles knows of Gerry Faust by now. He's right. Wrong. His subscription to Football News is addressed "Mr. Gerry Faust, Head Football Coach...The September issue of TODAY in Michigan features a cover photo of the stadium's opening section on a sunny Saturday in the fall and inside, a feature on "The Ever-Faithful Fans of Notre Dame" plus a sidebar on Faust. "Very Gerry." With football ticket reservations beginning yesterday morning, Faust was on hand to greet his most eager fans. By KELLY SULLIVAN

...When you think about it, there are really not that many times that a pre-season national championship ends up actually wearing that title. It's very hard to live up to expectations. Our going to work hard maybe we can become one of the exceptions.

Bo Schembechler Head Football Coach University of Michigan

Not until last year did a Schembechler-coached Michigan squad ever finish its season with a win, and not since 1948 has a Wolverine team finished its season atop every college coach, sportswriter or broad­caster has picked Bo's team to succeed Georgia as this year's na­tional champion.

What exactly are the polls an in­dication of? That depends on whether a vote was cast on the basis of a look back or a look ahead. Coaches — Schembechler for in­stance — tend to view the rankings as an assessment of the past season's performance taking into account returning talent, and insist there's no real way to predict how well any club will fare once the season is un­derway. Georgia, for example, missed virtually no returning players.

But some of the so-called experts today may set up the fact that a vis­i­tion full of praise in their evaluations, again evidenced by the fact that the Bulldogs, 11-0 in 1980, are listed no higher than 10th in the AP (Coaches) or UPI (SportWriters) tabulations for this season.

At best, the predictions have been on target only four times in the past dozen years, so it's debatable how much stock a reader should take in them. In keeping with that mind the winning of a national championship depends on the pollsters who have the final say in the ranking, the weekly listings and interest to the title quest and do inform the average sports fan for who the country's elite are.

In this year's publication, the same eight schools occupy if you will the title. The Irish Fare extremely well in rookie Gerry Faust's first col­legiate season. The Irish were picked as high as No. 1 (Game Plan) and as low as 14th (Playboy), but generally are positioned somewhere in the first five and perhaps would have been tapped higher by some writers if Faust had a year in South Bend already under his belt.

Here's a look at what some are saying about the Irish.

Street & Smith's — one of the honest prospects for the national championship...the talent pool at South Bend is qualitative and deep...everything points to an intensely interesting and rewarding season for the Irish." 34's bills the clash with Michigan as college foot­ball's "Colossal Bowl." They named linebacker Bob Crable and place­kicker Harry Oliver to their all-America squad and picked all-Midwest team that included running back Phil Carter, Oliver, Crable, tackle Tim Marshall and cornerback John Krimm.

AND ON THE SEVENTH DAY... — Irish football coach Gerry Faust may have made a few more believers this weekend. If, of course, there were still any doubt­ers.

After Saturday's two-hour scrimmage, during most of which rain threatened, Faust gathered his players to­gether for a brief talk and prayer. As the skies became even more menacing, each of the assistant coaches and players were asked to bring a good deal...knots, "...blessed were the eyes that saw limited action in blocking situa­tions a year ago. Fischer was moved to center in spring drills when Larry Kissner, the heir apparent to all-America John Scully's job, was slowed with an ankle injury.

Kissner has since been moved to guard.

FDLP — An unexperienced group of — experienced — players.

That's one of those nonsensical statements that sometimes makes all the sense in the world. Indeed, when talking about Notre Dame's defensive line, it makes perfect sense.

Of the five returning players, whose task it will be to open holes for Carriers and Sweeney's, nearly every college coach, sportswriter or broad­caster has picked Bo's team to succeed Georgia as this year's na­tional champion.

The other four — Randy Ellis (6-4, 250), Mark Fischer (6-4, 245), Tom Thy­er (6-5, 265) and Mike Shiner (6-4, 270) — will play at the same position he played for Carriers and Sweeney's, and as low as 14th (Playboy), but generally are positioned somewhere in the first five and perhaps would have been tapped higher by some writers if Faust had a year in South Bend already under his belt.
