Filming concluded on rosary

By DAVID F. KABAUGH
Staff Writer

Filming concluded yesterday afternoon in the Annenberg Auditorium of the Snite Museum on a Thanksgiving television special on the rosary.

The program, part of "The Family Theater" series, features the work of Mother Teresa with the underprivileged. The filming of the segment in the library was part of a two-day filming on the ND campus.

Yesterday's interview segment between the program's narrator Bob Newhart and Notre Dame Head Football Coach Gerry Faust completed the two days of filming on the ND campus.

The program also includes shots of various campus landmarks.

By Patrick Peyton, the "rosary prices," created the idea for the show and supervised yesterday's events. Recently he provided an Easter special featuring Princess Grace Kelly of Monaco as narrator.

During the interview yesterday when asked to comment on the statement that the position of head coach at Notre Dame is the second hardest job next to the President of the United States Faust said, "I don't know about the presidency but I like the job at Notre Dame. Regan played here, maybe he could answer the question better than I could."

Faust, on the subject of the film, said that the events of the past year have been very hard for the family. "In the last two years she has not missed a day."

Newhart, the star of the Saturday Night Live Comedy Club segment, acted as the host and narrator of the program.

According to the program staff the project will air over 200 stations and reach every major market.

Murder or accident? Mysterious death prompts FBI investigation

By BOB DvorChak, Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The crumpled body of Chen Wenchen will be buried tomorrow in Taiwan, but no graveyard ceremony can lay to rest the suspicions and mysteries concerning the circumstances of his death in a five-story fall. Chen, a 31-year-old native of Taipei, taught statistics at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh. He was also a supporter of a Taiwanese independence movement.

Because of that activity, his death in Taipei on July 3 — while officially ruled an accident or a suicide — is thought by some to be a political assassination. And that belief has chilled many Taiwanese in the United States.

Students who attended a July memorial service for Chen at Carnegie-Mellon wore masks or covered their heads with paper bags. The mourners said they feared that other students were spies for the Taiwanese government.

"Professor Chen's death has left every Taiwanese who believes in democracy and freedom terrified," said CMU President Richard Cyert, an outspoken critic of Taiwan's handling of the death. "If a professor from a prestigious American university can meet a mysterious death without the cause of death being made clear, no student is safe. Each one who has spoken against the (Taiwanese government) may become a 'suicide' or the 'victim of an accidental death'...

In a news conference held in Pittsburgh last Friday, Mrs. Chen said she didn't accept that ruling.

"My husband's death was not a suicide and he wasn't involved in anything political. It was a murder," she said.

"Suicide was not his way. He had a future full of potential. But was his death an accident," she continued, speaking in English tones and wearing a white cloth over her head. "No, I believe that his death is explainable external wounds."
News Briefs

Government continues car tests

The government said yesterday, it will continue auto crash tests, but no longer will assign pass or fail grades to particular models and will reassess whether a single test is enough to make an accurate judgement. Raymond Peck, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, said the old practice of giving cars a pass or fail grade may have misled the public at times and been unfair to manufacturers. But he said the agency will continue the tests and will release numerical results, leaving it to the public to judge a car's crash worthiness. Peck said in an interview that labeling a car as having passed or failed the tests-a practice strongly criticized by the auto industry-may exaggerate the danger of some autos while conveying "a false sense of security" about others. The crash rating began two years ago and became a central part of the agency's consumer information program under former President Carter's NHTSA administrator, Joan Claybrook.

Entrants' fees go to hospital

Entrants in a $1 million fish derby misunderstood if they thought all their entry fees would go to Children's Orthopedic Hospital, say hospital and derby officials. Schuck's Auto Supply, the sponsor, was to give the hospital just over $10,000 yesterday but of $124,000 the derby raised, said spokesman Dan McConnell, Schuck's planned all along to deduct expenses. "It was not made clear," said Beverly Lambert, president of the hospital board of trustees. "Many when people thought they bought their entry fee that the whole $10 would go to us." Entrants each paid $10 to try to win $1 million on Sept. 6 by catching a tagged salmon. No one caught the fish, but Schuck's will pay $10,000 to anyone who nabs it by Nov. 1; other donors added another $3,000. AP

Soviet workers invited to Poland

Solidarity members issued an open letter yesterday inviting critical Soviet workers to Poland to see first-hand how the independent labor federation operates. "We hope that when we meet, we will explain many problems and maybe your attitude toward Solidarity and all its members will obtain proper judgment," the letter from the union presidium of Warsaw's PZL aircraft factory told Soviet workers in a daily Solidarity news bulletin. While not mentioning the letter, the official Soviet news agency Tass accused "extremist leaders" in Solidarity of "stepping up efforts to overthrow the socialist system. The attack was the latest in a torrent of sharp criticism unleashed by the union's first congress. In a dispatch from Warsaw, Tass said Solidarity leaders "intend to heighten the atmosphere of an anti-socialist and anti-Soviet psychosis." Further pursue their attack on socialism with a view to taking over power in Poland. AP

God violates U.S. Constitution

Madsayn Murray O'Hair told a federal appeals court yesterday the Texas Constitution's requirement that public officers recognize God violates the U.S. Constitution. Mrs. O'Hair and her atheist group, the Society of Separationists, were challenging a Texas provision as a violation of the constitutional separation of church and state. A similar provision in Maryland was struck down by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1961. Mrs. O'Hair told the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals. Susan Bradshaw, of the state attorney general's office, said the suit was pointless because the 103-year-old constitutional section is not used.

Burglarized family prays

A family of Christian Scientists terrorized by three bandits prayed for two hours before they called police, authorities said. Bruce Suthergreen, 62, his wife and daughter told police they prayed for the return of their property-about $200 and some jewelry-rather than call for help after the thieves left their home early Sunday. Three ski-masked men entered the house before dawn Sunday, ransacked the home and left the family bound up. When the family freed themselves, they prayed.

Weather

Cloudy with light rain showers in the late afternoon or evening. High today in the 70s. Tomorrow, cooler with a high in the 70s and a chance of showers.
Third encyclical

Pope supports worker's rights.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II has written the third encyclical of his papacy, a major document summarizing his views on the rights of workers and their position in modern society.

The encyclical, a letter addressed by the pope to patriarchs, archbishops and other church leaders, will be released by the Vatican today.

The leading Milan newspaper Corriere della Sera said the document will stress the importance of labor unions, the dignity of farm work, the particular problems of the handicapped and the old, and the impact of technological developments.

In announcing the encyclical during his noon message Sunday, the pope said the document was "dedicated to human labor and to workers themselves." A theme he has taken up often since his election as pope in October 1978.

In his travel the pope has often underlined the rights of the working man and has welcomed the development of the independent union Solidarity in his native Poland.

Shouting a hard hat at a steel mill in Terni, Italy, in March, the pope declared that workers had a right to struggle for "a just salary and a certain participation in management." During a visit to a sugar plantation in the Philippines, he strongly defended workers' rights to organize into unions.

The pontiff has given his endorsement to the efforts by the independent Solidarity union movement to represent workers in Poland. But in a meeting with Solidarity leader Lech Walesa at the Vatican in January the pope urged that the union exercise prudence and moderation in its dealings with the government for the good of the entire country.

The Soviet Union and other East bloc nations have been increasingly critical of the series of labor reforms that have occurred in Poland since Solidarity's formation during a wave of strikes a year ago.

The new encyclical was delayed by the shooting of the pope May 13, and John Paul said he put the finishing touches to it during his convalescence at the papal summer palace in Castel Gandolfo.

He said he wrote it for 90th anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's Rerum Novarum, the first major papal encyclical on social issues. That document maintained the priority of man and his fly over the state and affirmed man's right to possess property and earn a living wage.

An encyclical is one of the most important ways that a pope expresses his thoughts on specific matters.

In his first encyclical issued in March 1979, Pope John Paul II condemned nuclear weapons and expressed a cyclical on social issues. That document maintained the priority of man and his fly over the state and affirmed man's right to possess property and earn a living wage.

An encyclical is one of the most important ways that a pope expresses his thoughts on specific matters.

In his first encyclical issued in March 1979, Pope John Paul II condemned nuclear weapons and expressed a cyclical on social issues. That document maintained the priority of man and his fly over the state and affirmed man's right to possess property and earn a living wage.

In his first encyclical issued in March 1979, Pope John Paul II condemned nuclear weapons and expressed a cyclical on social issues. That document maintained the priority of man and his fly over the state and affirmed man's right to possess property and earn a living wage.
Reagan proposes more cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having already scaled down his planned increases for defense, President Reagan eyed further cuts in domestic spending yesterday on grounds that "we face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.

From a meeting with conservative congressional Democrats to a lunch with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and the House Republican leader, the president pushed hard to budgetary matters, even as he pledged at a ceremony officially proclaiming the bicentennial celebration of the revolutionary victory at Yorktown.

"At home, our enemy is no longer redcoats but red ink," Reagan said. "We face the choice of taking drastic action or incurring economic calamity." Even so, he said, the reductions can be achieved "without any damage to any of government's vital services."

The president's deputy press secretary, Larry Speakes, declined to rule out Social Security as one of the areas where additional cuts would be made. He said the total reductions in the upcoming fiscal 1982 budget would be less than $18 billion.
Michigan tops Bottom Ten

Upsets scrambled the Bottom Ten this week. Three teams from last week's poll suffered stunning victories in their season openers.

Second-ranked Georgia Tech was confident as it traveled to Birmingham. The Wreck felt a rout at the hands of Bear Bryant and the Tide was assured. However, they surprised themselves in a 24-21 victory.

The game was marked by classic Bottom Ten post-game quotes. Bryant: "This was no upset." (Even though Tech hadn't won an opener since the 60's.)

"Bill Curry: "We have a bunch of skinny-necked youngsters who want to be bearders." (Tech former Packer may have to beat a few of them if he wants to climb back into the rankings.)

In the Bottom Ten Hall of Fame game, Georgia Tech would have beat the NCAA tournament." Dreschel, 23-17. Vandy had been ranked 7th, but was surprised by the Terps slow-moving offense. Feeling that a kick would be too risky, the Terps went for a two-point conversion. The strategy worked. The attempted field goal and Northwesterns losing streak was extended to 21-20.

In a daring move, Kansas State red-shirted its eight best seniors this season. The Wildcats thought they were on their way to Bottom Ten supremacy, but the plan went awry. Last week's number one team wound up with a disappointing 31-10 game with the Wiley Coyotes of Dakota.

As per Bottom Ten regulations, these teams have been banned from the poll for one week. Last week's number one team had a scare as the Miners dropped their season opener to Texas A & M. Yes, the Longhorns had been ranked 7th, but was surprised by the Miners lack of defense. Feeling that a punt would be too risky, the Miners went for a two-point conversion. The strategy worked. The attempted feat and Northwesterns losing streak was extended to 21-20. The first coaching casualty of the season is UTEP's head coach. He was fired after the Miners dropped their season opener to Texas A & M. A better man the Bottom Ten had never seen.

Here, then, are the rankings:

1) Michigan [4-0]-said Schmeckerbe: "The offense wasn't any good, the defense wasn't any good, and the coaching was poor."

2) Nebraska [1-1] and Nebraska [1-1] - twins of different mothers.

3) TCU [9-1]-new slant on old theme: Christian fed to Tigers in loss to Auburn.

4) Penn [0-6]-starting the inevitable.

5) Texas-El Paso [9-1]-Coach Michaels was doing his running clinic.

6) Columbia [0-6]-"If Penn doesn't have to, why should we play good?" Question.

7) Tennessee [0-7]-sunk 87-7 so far this week.

8) Northwestern [0-1]-Deney Green maintains tradition in coaching debut.

9) Cincinnati [2-6]-deepest penetration in 52 years to Penn State. 45-23 win.

10) Los Angeles Rams [2-6]; Alouette, gentle Alouette.

ALSO RECEIVING VOTES:

Florida State [2-6]-only bear Memphis State by five.

Miami [0-8]-lost to Lehigh impressed voters.

Rice [0-4]-boiled by Texas, 31-3.

John Cardinal Cody [0-10]-anticipating long road trip.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK:

Indiana coach Lee Corso on this week's game with USC: "I scheduled this game for the first time here seven years ago. I didn't think I'd still be around."
continued from page 8

Wolverines will be looking up at the Irish in the polls, something that traditionally has been thought of as a boost for the "underdog." But Faust insists that the latest rankings don't change things.

"It's going to be a tough game, no matter who's ranked where," he insists. "Sure, it's probably easier to get emotionally ready when you're the underdog, but being number one doesn't change much from our standpoint."

Two ironies of Saturday afternoon also come to mind. With a half minute to go, Faust answered the students' chants of "Ger-RY, Get-RY," with a simple wave. But that was the only instant from the opening kickoff until the final gun that the coach took his mind from the field. And it was on the very next play that the Tigers scored their lone touchdown. Not that there was a cause-effect relationship, but it is interesting to think about.

The more ironic event happened moments later. After LSU Coach Jerry Stovall congratulated the winning coach, and Faust had kissed his wife Gerry sprinted toward the locker room. And as he passed the student section, he hoisted his index finger into the sky.

A premonition, no doubt.

ATTENTION ALL STUDENTS!!
Spend Thanksgiving in Florida
Trip to ND-Miami Game is now open on a first come-first serve basis.
- Round trip airfare
- Four nights/five days a Deluxe Sheraton Bal Harbour on the ocean
- Beautiful beaches, pools, clubs, restaurants
- All ground transfers between school and airport, airport and hotel, hotel and game
- Ticket to game
Only $399 per person, quad occupancy
$100 deposit due now
Trip departs Wednesday morning, Nov. 25 and returns Sunday evening, Nov. 29
For further info, contact ND Student Activities Office, 1st Floor LaFortune or call 7308.

ARMY ROTC PROVIDES

Merit scholarships up to $20,000
Leadership development
Management training
Adventure
Employment opportunity
(219)283-6265

Graduate from Notre Dame as an Army Officer
Molarity

IT'S 10:30 p.m. — social concerns film, document-you, "something beautiful for god", latorneuser theater, sponsored by center for experiential learning and student gov't, documentary film-
Mrisher Theres.

MICHAEL MOLINELLI

DOONESBURY

SUN. DAKOTA

GARRY TRUDEAU

TELEVISION TONIGHT

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1981 — PAGE 7

THE DAILY CROSSWORD

CAMPUS

THE BEACH BOYS

THE OBSERVER
Gerry Faust, coach of the number one college football team in the nation, filmed a television special yesterday with Bob Neuliep at Annenburg Auditorium. (photo by Rachel Blount)

Griffith rebounds from injuries

Kevin Griffith is pleased with the return to the college football wars over LSU was accomplished by many of the same names that opened the 1980 season with a resounding victory over Purdue. No less than seventy of last year's starters have returned to the college football war this season. To some fans the only recognizable difference between Gerry Faust's first Notre Dame squad and Dan Devine's last one are the sophisticated offensive sets and golden uniforms. A few new names do dot the starting lineup, however, and it will take some time for defensive interchange and offensive interchange to settle in, at least to summer this distance.

Well-roundedness

Interhall provides escape

Well-roundedness

Interhall provides escape

Saturday's opening game victory over LSU was accomplished by many of the same names that opened the 1980 season with a resounding victory over Purdue. No less than seventy of last year's starters have returned to the college football war.

The scope of Saturday's war is not lost on Griff either. "I think I'll retire now," said a surprisingly jubilant Faust. "Yeah, this is a good time to retire." A meeting for the captains of the interhall volleyball teams will meet this afternoon at 4 p.m. in the ACC auditorium.

Edison Road fields. All interested are invited to attend. Please meet in the center of a circle that is really strong. They're thinking about the upcoming weeks of practice Thursday 9/17 at 4:30 p.m. in the ACC auditorium.

Griffith's return to the college football wars this season.

TRYOUTS—All those interested in trying out for the men's volleyball club will compete tonight and Thursday night in the ACC fieldhouse from 7 to 9 p.m.

CLINIC—A jogging clinic is scheduled for tonight at 7 p.m. in the ACC auditorium.

"We're Number One."

"We're Number One."

Those who are familiar with his antics weren't the least bit surprised Friday evening when Gerry Faust was leading cheers into the microphone. "We are Notre Dame. We're Number One."

On Friday evening everyone thought that it would be impossible for the Irish to be ranked No. 1 in the nation until later in the season, or at least until after beating Michigan (knock on wood). But after the top-ranked Wolverines lost to Wisconsin, second-ranked Notre Dame struggled early with Wyoming before prevailing 37-20, and No. 3 Alabama was upset by Georgia Tech. After beating Louisiana State Saturday, Tony Hunter said of the man who had coached him for five of the last seven years, "He's living in a dream."

But the event of yesterday afternoon were simply too much. A dream led by one with an eye of college coaching experience. It was voted No.1 in the nation not only by the media, but Faust's fellow coaches.

"I think I'll retire now," said a surprisingly jubilant Faust. "Yeah, this is a good time to retire."

"You might have thought he'd view the recognition as a jinx of sorts, 'a monkey on my back,'" as DePaul basketball coach Ray Meyer once called it. Yet it didn't seem to phase Faust in the slightest. He's used to being the best at what he does, and the accompanying pressure. His Moeller teams were often the best in the city, the state and the country. Faust would call number one any time," he smiled. The one (or two) at the end of the season in the counts, but we'll take it when we can get it."

Faust was careful, however. He did refuse to pose for one Observer photographer who asked him for his first finger skyward. "If we can't take a chance of it getting out to Michigan," he said with a grin.

The obvious rule reversal to mind. For weeks, people have been anticipating Saturday's clash with Michigan and the "highly-rated Notre Dame."

But after the top-ranked Wolverines lost to Wisconsin, second-ranked Notre Dame struggled early with Wyoming before prevailing 37-20, and No. 3 Alabama was upset by Georgia Tech. After beating Louisiana State Saturday, Tony Hunter said of the man who had coached him for five of the last seven years, "He's living in a dream."

Saturday's victory represented a personal triumph for Kevin, who celebrated his return by shouting soothing words to his teammates and defensive interchange as they turned the page of the touchdown and were off and running to a 27-9 victory and the number one rating in the country.

Saturday's victory represented a personal triumph for Kevin, who celebrated his return by shouting soothing words to his teammates and defensive interchange as they turned the page of the touchdown and were off and running to a 27-9 victory and the number one rating in the country.

Saturday's victory represented a personal triumph for Kevin, who celebrated his return by shouting soothing words to his teammates and defensive interchange as they turned the page of the touchdown and were off and running to a 27-9 victory and the number one rating in the country.