Malloy explains failure of sexual hedonism

By RICH COLLIS

Last night, Fr. Edward Malloy, an associate professor in the Notre Dame Department of Theology, delivered a lecture entitled "Why Not Sexual Hedonism?" in the Hayes-Healy Auditorium.

The lecture was the third in the ongoing Catholic Inquiry Lecture Series.

Using the premise that sexual hedonism ("pleasure seeking as a goal in itself") is the root of nuclear war, Malloy explained the failure of the movement in response to the threat of nuclear war.

"Sexual hedonism is a movement in response to the threat of nuclear war," Malloy explained. "It is rather than 'outer' space. There is a reawakening of the human race to the fact that we are on the verge of blowing ourselves up," he added. "I don't know if there's any more problem more worthy of our attention."

Malloy stressed that there is a spontaneous combustion type of movement in response to the threat of nuclear war, adding that he is glad to see so many students and faculty members present.

"Our position is that it has gone out of control, technology and commerce are running riot. It's spontaneous combustion type movement is tied up with current events," he said.

"Let 1000 flowers flourish if they are against nuclear war," Hesburgh said. Malloy mentioned that he is working on the possibility of organizing scientists and religious leaders at the highest level to begin thinking about the effort against nuclear war.

"I was so caught up in a conversation (regarding this possibility) that I went home and made a reservation to go to Vienna over Thanksgiving to that maybe we can set up a meeting in Europe at the highest level of religious and scientific competence in the very near future," he said.

Malloy began by expressing his excitement at hearing Hesburgh's plan for bringing religious and scientific leaders together. "It was worth a day for that," he said.

At an earlier press conference, Malloy explained the area in which his organization plans to work for organizing scientists and religious leaders together. "It is worth a day for that," he said.

"Our group was founded in 1978, before the presidential election," he noted. "We are not a reaction to President Reagan. We are a reaction to his line of reasoning was easy to follow.

"Our position is that it has gone out of control, technology and commerce are in control now."

 Denied accreditation

Hispanic college faces decline

By STEVE GRAHAM

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOUNT ANGEL, One (AP) - College Cesar Chavez was born eight troubled years ago as the first college founded by Hispanics.

Now the school is broke and under attack from the local Mexican-American community that gave it life.

At one time the College was doing a good job — but not now," said Martin Rodriguez, chairman of Centro Chicano Cultural, a local service agency that once helped but the liberal arts college out of financial difficulties.

Local Hispanic leaders who founded the school wanted it to be a "college without walls," offering students credit for practical experience as a teacher's aide, learning how to deal with state agencies and working for various organizations in the Portland area.

To earn a bachelor's degree, students had to prepare reports on their activities for review by a student faculty committee as well as complete courses in more conventional subjects like algebra, English and political science.

Dr. James Muller's speech yesterday in the library auditorium was the highlight of Notre Dame's convocation on the threat of nuclear war. See story at left. (Photo by Rudy Perez)
Columbia suffered technological growing pains on the eve of its scheduled return to space and its launch target was put back until Monday morning today by an erratic data relay system. The ship underwent a series of launch pad repairs last night and officials elected to wait against a sapphire sky. The new target is for 10:20 a.m. EST said L. Michael Wecks of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, although the launch could come anytime before noon — the final moment in Columbia’s “launch window.” A series of conferences between the various space centers and industry experts NASA “determined a course of action which could result” in a lift off at 10:20, according to a space agency spokesman. Columbia’s crew was ready, but as a NASA official said, “The problems are not resolved,” and there was still no go ahead for overnight fueling.

There remained a strong possibility of a second scrubbed launch in as many weeks. As dark enveloped the shuttle, space center spokesman Hugh Harris said “testing is continuing on the pad.” — AP

The Navy ran up the flag yesterday on the most significant submarine ever built; professors preached the horror of a nuclear holocaust, and old soldiers with feeble voices laid wreaths on the grave of fallen comrades.

Veteran Day, 1981, was a day of demonstration and speeches, for — and against — President Reagan’s concept of rebuilding the nation’s nuclear defenses as a warning to the Soviet Union.

But mostly it was a day to tribute to the men and women who died in battle from a bridge in Concord, Mass., where the monument's went from a bridge in Concord, Mass., where the monument's went from a bridge in Concord, Mass., where the monument's went from the jungles of Vietnam where M-16s rattled for an obscure cause.

It was 60 years to the day since 93-year-old Hamilton Fish Sr. had placed the first wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery in Washington, the grave of a dozen Doughboys, killed in the trenches of France during World War I, was returned to the shrine Wednesday to repeat for a crowd of 3,000 spectators the words he had spoken on Nov. 11, 1921:

“Today, children get a kick out of things like this,” 60-year-old Andre Garbett was denied a marriage license in Amarillo, Texas, by his mother, Charlotte Cameron. Garrett was denied bond for allegedly raping and murdering Vio-

Let Tadie Bents at the St. Francis Convent on

“It was 60 years to the day since 93-year-old Hamilton Fish Sr. had placed the first wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery in Washington, the grave of a dozen Doughboys, killed in the trenches of France during World War I,” the original newspaper article reads.

On behalf of the ex-servicesmen of the United States Army of World War I, I welcome this opportunity.

A jet flying overhead drowned out the rest. — AP

A television special featuring the University of Notre Dame will be carried Sunday, Nov. 15 by South Bend’s WNDU-TV on Channel 21 (WSTF). The 30-minute program, one in a series on the mysteries of the rosary produced by Family Theater Productions in Hollywood, Calif., is called “The Visitation.” Portions filmed at Notre Dame include selections sung by the Notre Dame Glee Club, under the direction of Curt Staml, as well as an interview with Head Football Coach Ara Parseghian. Funded by grant from Bob Newhart. Mother Teresa, the nun whose work with the poor in Calcutta, India, has gained worldwide praise, appears in a scene shot in Washington, D.C., with Fr. Patrick Peyton, the Holy Cross priest who founded the Family Theater to promote the rosary as prayer. Portions of the show were filmed in Ireland. — The Observer

Poland’s army declared yesterday that Solidarity’s plans for a remarkable celebration of the nation’s 100th anniversary is loaded with a viable explosive charge.” Lech Walesa, the independent union’s leader, raised the possibility of violence if the government takes action against strikers.

Walesa told a rally of striking coal miners in Sosnowiec: “A solution by strength does not come into consideration, but it is an axe he excluded. When they come, we will hang on to their (rifle) barreled, and we will direct them to another side.”

His remarks, distributed by Solidarity’s information service, were considered a significant departure from the conciliatory language he has used in the past week, as representatives of Solidarity and the government prepared for negotiations Friday on the country’s social and economic ills. — AP

A Chicago substitute teacher whose coffee was spiked with LSD by a curly-haired teenager while his eighth-grade classmates looked on said yesterday she was baffled by the class’ cruelty and may not resume her teaching career.

“Today, children get a kick out of things like this,” 60-year-old Andre Garbett was denied a marriage license in Amarillo, Texas, by his mother, Charlotte Cameron. Garrett was denied bond for allegedly raping and murdering Virginia Tadie Bents at the St. Francis Convent on

“Today, children get a kick out of things like this,” 60-year-old Andre Garbett was denied a marriage license in Amarillo, Texas, by his mother, Charlotte Cameron. Garrett was denied bond for allegedly raping and murdering Virginia Tadie Bents at the St. Francis Convent on

She was later returned to a local slaughterman from which she had strayed.

The cow was stuck for nearly three hours, and workers broke her legs pulling her out. She was

“Today, children get a kick out of things like this,” 60-year-old Andre Garbett was denied a marriage license in Amarillo, Texas, by his mother, Charlotte Cameron. Garrett was denied bond for allegedly raping and murdering Virginia Tadie Bents at the St. Francis Convent on

She was later returned to a local slaughterman from which she had strayed.

The cow was stuck for nearly three hours, and workers broke her legs pulling her out. She was

“Today, children get a kick out of things like this,” 60-year-old Andre Garbett was denied a marriage license in Amarillo, Texas, by his mother, Charlotte Cameron. Garrett was denied bond for allegedly raping and murdering Virginia Tadie Bents at the St. Francis Convent on

She was later returned to a local slaughterman from which she had strayed.

The cow was stuck for nearly three hours, and workers broke her legs pulling her out. She was Happy Birthday!

Astronaut Richard Truly receives a birthday card from the art students at Carver-Jones Elementary School of Texas, who found out that Truly’s birthday coincided with the rescheduled launching of the Space Shuttle Columbia. The children asked him a blast on his birthday

SUSPECT ARRESTED

Salmon Frank Garrett, 17, is escorted to his arraignment in Smalltown, Texas, by his mother, Charlotte Cameron. Garrett was denied bond for allegedly raping and murdering Vio-

Let Tadie Bents at the St. Francis Convent on October 31.

The Observer (USPS 388 320) is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration or either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible.

The Observer, P.O. Box 9 Notre Dame, Indiana 46556

The Observer, P.O. Box 9 Notre Dame, Indiana 46556

The Observer, P.O. Box 9 Notre Dame, Indiana 46556

The Observer, P.O. Box 9 Notre Dame, Indiana 46556

15% Discount to all N.D.- S.M.C. Students

DIRECT DIAMOND IMPORTERS

University Park Mall and Town and Country - Mishawaka

The Assocaite Press

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Astronaut Richard Truly receives a birthday card from the art students at Carver-Jones Elementary School of Texas, who found out that Truly’s birthday coincided with the rescheduled launching of the Space Shuttle Columbia. The children asked him a blast on his birthday.

AP Photo File

The spaceship Columbia awaits launching on Pad 39A at Kennedy Space Center, before its scheduled lift-off of 10:00 a.m. EST Monday. At left is the assembly building that will house the space craft. The shuttle's 240,000-pound storage tank used for the final fuelling process of the spaceship.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN!

Recue workers gather around a 440-pound cow that fell into a manhole in a Bangor street. The cow was stuck for nearly three hours, and workers broke her legs pulling her out. She was Happy Birthday!

Astronaut Richard Truly receives a birthday card from the art students at Carver-Jones Elementary School of Texas, who found out that Truly’s birthday coincided with the rescheduled launching of the Space Shuttle Columbia. The children asked him a blast on his birthday.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

Salmon Frank Garrett, 17, is escorted to his arraignment in Smalltown, Texas, by his mother, Charlotte Cameron. Garrett was denied bond for allegedly raping and murdering Virginia Tadie Bents at the St. Francis Convent on October 31.

The Observer, P.O. Box 9 Notre Dame, Indiana 46556

15% Discount to all N.D.-S.M.C. Students

DIRECT DIAMOND IMPORTERS

University Park Mall and Town and Country - Mishawaka

The Assocaite Press

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Astronaut Richard Truly receives a birthday card from the art students at Carver-Jones Elementary School of Texas, who found out that Truly’s birthday coincided with the rescheduled launching of the Space Shuttle Columbia. The children asked him a blast on his birthday.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

Salmon Frank Garrett, 17, is escorted to his arraignment in Smalltown, Texas, by his mother, Charlotte Cameron. Garrett was denied bond for allegedly raping and murdering Virginia Tadie Bents at the St. Francis Convent on October 31.
Prof. Rossi schedules lectures on women

By MICHAEL SCHEER
Staff Reporter

Professor Alice Rossi, President-elect of the American Sociological Association and an original leader of the feminist movement, will present two views on the movement based on her extensive experience and research. The first public lecture will be at 5:30 p.m. tonight in the library lounge. The subject will be "Feminism and Politics: A Panel Examination of the First National Women's Conference."

Rossi will present a brown bag talk entitled, "Biocultural Science: Its Contribution to Explanation in the Behavioral Sciences," tomorrow at 12:15 p.m. in Room 500 of the library.

Professor Rossi, a member of the Department of Sociology at the University of Michigan, is an expert in her field and has been widely published. Works, attracting popular as well as technical acclaim, have been featured in magazines and periodicals such as Atlantic Monthly, Daedalus, Science, Harvard Educational Review, and Redbook. Her article, "Equality Between the Sexes: An Immodest Proposal," which appeared in the 1966 issue of Daedalus, along with Betty Friedan's Fad, is one of the earliest expressions of the concept of equal human development and was widely anticipated. Rossi's first talk is based on her observations of the formation of a national organization of women in 1977. Its behind-the-scenes nature should be revealing of both the goals of the movement and the character of the women behind it.

Rossi's second talk will be on the scholarly approach she has taken to the movement, viewing it not as a woman, but as a sociologist. The results of her sociological research tend to assert women as being biologically as well as socially more apt to prefer the rewards of parenting to those of other "careers."

Professor Rossi, through the example of her own life, seems to have proved the compatibility of the "complete woman" with today's society. In addition to career success and her fight for equality, Rossi is also a wife and mother of three.

"Lack of will"
Grant sees global economic trouble

By MOLLY RYAN

James Grant, executive director of UNICEF, presented a lecture entitled "War on Hunger: Source Conference or Epic Theater?" Tuesday evening to a small audience in the Memorial Library Auditorium, addressing economic and political issues which affect developing nations of the world.

Acknowledging that the present global economic trend is a trouble, Grant expressed his belief that certain economic goals can be achieved by the end of the century. These goals, as enumerated by the United Nations General Assembly, include eradicating mass hunger and malnutrition, introducing health care for all, and significantly reducing the infant mortality rate. Although these goals are realistic in the context of past experience, they are realistic in the will and commitment to achieve them, Grant said.

The People's Republic of China, Japan, Korea and Taiwan are countries whose governments have begun to successfully reach "the bottom half of the people" mainly by transferring productive assets. The "extraordinary determination at the governmental level" in these countries was praised by Grant, who believes government involvement is an essential element in winning the war against hunger.

Grant attributed a "lack of will on the part of the government" as responsible for world hunger. He cited the Irish and Calcutta famines as examples of countries whose governments failed to distribute available food to their starving populations.

Dubbed "the silent emergency, this pressing matter of world hunger can be dealt with by Grant assured. Governments must be pressured by individuals to take positive action. All major U.S. movements, Grant asserted, have been initiated by people who force the government to become involved. The civil rights, women's, and environmental movements, along with the American Revolution itself, are examples of such movements.

Grant emphasized the need to see Grant, page 5

ANYTHING GROWS
FLORIST - campus delivery
HOUSE PLANTS
GIFTS, TELEFLORIST
WIRE FLOWERS
get your hall formal corsages and boutonnieres
free delivery to stephen center

PRESENT THIS COUPON
25%
272-8820

272-8820
N. IRONWOOD
TOLL ROAD
EAST OF CAMPUS
DIRECTLY
N. of Douglas

The Observer
Thursday, November 12, 1981 — page 4

Proposed bill controls nursing home abuses

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Nursing home operators who violate health and safety standards could face criminal penalties and fines of up to $10,000 under the terms of a bill unveiled yesterday by Sen. James Abraham, chairman of the Legislature's interim study committee on retirement and nursing homes, during a meeting of the whole process by which we regulate the health facilities industry and the enforcement powers that go with it.

He said the bill is intended to protect the consumer, which he describes as "a sweeping reorganization of the state's general fund, which is away from the general fund." The money is currently paid into the state's general fund, which is used to pay for the state's general hospital and home records.

Mr. Sandoval said most students went elsewhere when accreditation was denied. The school must now wait two years before its accreditation application can be reconsidered.

She said the association told the Colegio it had a good program. "The only thing they said was you are a poor institution," she said.

The meeting hall, its heating sys­tem broken, often is used by the Centro Chicano Cultural, which provided nearly $200,000 last year when the college was fighting an eviction notice from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for failure to make mortgage payments. Now the Centro says the college isn't doing its job and has filed suit against the institution. The Centro's board of directors hasn't decided whether to ask Marion County Circuit Court for the money or the mountains in one of the states that are the focus of a study committee, the Health Facilities Council has that responsibility.

The council, which would retain its present responsibility for licensing nursing homes, would be reduced from 17 members to 11 members, all appointed by the governor.

The bill sets up three categories of licenses a full license; a probationary license, which costs the same amount as a full license but can only be issued for three months, and a provisional license, contemplated for new facilities.

The bill calls for more inspectors to visit Indiana's more than 500 nursing homes and proposes a hearing officer system to handle complaints. The measure is aimed at the 50 or so homes that are repeat violators of nursing home standards, he said.

Abraham said the State Board of Health estimates it will take 15 years to implement the proposed changes in the law. The money could come directly from licensing fees paid now by nursing homes and their administrators. That money is currently paid into the state's general fund, which is facing an 8.6 million deficit by next June.

Abraham said he is hopeful that the necessary money can be raised right after the general fund.

3. Rooms designated for internal office space for certain organizations.
4. Rooms designated for internal administrative offices.
5. Resource areas to provide in­formation to students about ac­tivities on campus.

By MICHAEL WILKINS

The Notre Dame Department of Sociology and Anthropology is expanding its internship program beginning next semester, according to Professor Richard Lamanna. The number of internships offered is increasing to 20 to 25, more than twice the number previously offered, Lamanna said. The inter­nship is fulfilled by working six weeks a month as a public or private agency for one or two semesters. Participating students receive three hours of graduate credit.

The department prefers up­perclassmen to take the internships as participants would receive educa­tional benefits commensurate with their academic background, Lamanna said. However, he also noted that there are no formal restrictions on who may receive the internships and that they are not limited to Sociology majors.

"There are many advantages in serving an internship," Lamanna said. "Students gain practical ex­perience for graduate school or jobs as well as developing interests and attitudes for specific job markets." Internships available, according to Lamanna, "We have placements in jobs from hospitals to newspapers to social agencies," he added.

The department has a wide variety of jobs available for inter­nships, according to Lamanna. "We have placed students in jobs from hospitals to newspapers to social agencies," he added.

... Decline

We don't need a college. We need those buildings."

"We don't need them to sell our land and run off to Florida," she says. "We don't need a college. We need those buildings."

The chamber of commerce, em­barrassed over the school's difficul­ties and the campus' rum ­bles, while formulating proposals about the space allo­cation to students about ac­tivities on campus.

The group also asked U.S. Rep. Denny Smith to request a General Accounting Office audit of the in­stitution. That request is under consideration in Washing­ton.

The department has a wide variety of jobs available for inter­nships, according to Lamanna. "We have placed students in jobs from hospitals to newspapers to social agencies," he added.
Stanford professor lectures on economy

By KATIE MCDONNELL
News Staff

Emphasizing that the present administration is addressing the country's economic concerns better than any in the nation's recent past, Michael Boskin, professor of economics at Stanford University, spoke to a large audience Tuesday in the library auditorium.

"There is a tremendous amount at stake in America's present-day economics," Boskin stated. "But the present administration is much better than any seen in recent times towards addressing our economic concerns."

Boskin, sponsored by the College of Business Administration, discussed the economic theories that have gained him national recognition. His lecture, "Changing Views on the Changing U.S. Economy," dealt with an analysis of the economic patterns which have shaped recent history and ideas which might help to improve them in this era he refers to as a "unilateral recession."

He is a part of a growing organization known as the New Economists, who stress that the essential aspects towards achieving a balanced economy are "less government, more incentive and innovation." Boskin's lecture, the second in the Johns-Manville Enterprise Lecture Series, covered extensive ground in issues that face the U.S. economy. "The steady progress from the post-war era of the 1950's," says Boskin, "has been quite hard to fulfill."

His concern is derived from the growing organization known as the Third World Concerns, an essential aspect towards achieving balanced economy concerns better than any in the nation's recent past, making it difficult to clearly interpret.

In observing today's economy, Boskin sees the overall incomes of Americans doubling with each generation, and that a continuation of this could lead such a decline as the American Empire has recently suffered.

"the U.S. needs a more balanced sense of fiscal federalism"

Also discussed was the state of unemploymnet, which Boskin sees as "no longer our major economic and social problem." He feels that, although there are 18 million more workers in the U.S. today, due to the additions of women and children of the "baby boom" era, the American outlook is still hopeful. "We've begun to mitigate the harms done to the unemployed," helping un-employment levels not to come near those that came with the depression with regard to future policies aimed at those and other concerns, Boskin posulates that the most advantageous type of American will be a "worker/consumer/tax paying capitalist," but also states that expectations are increased to greatly today. The government should, instead of planning programs that might obtain their full effect within, possibly, the next decade, start in further expressing an overall consensus which he feels represents most modern economists. The main goal for this program is a gradual reduction of the rate of inflation (with an estimate for the real income to increase 2 percent per year) and a combination of a wide range of viewpoints allows a thorough consideration of student concerns from all angles. The H.A.C. meets once a month for progress information concerning the facility, limited strictly to the Student Health Center board is particularly concerned with the Student Health Center, the administration of this facility has organized a student liaison committee, and the false astigmatisms generally held about the service and will work with Dr. Michael Mond, Director of the Psych Services, in an attempt to establish a more realistic image of the facility.

The members of the committee are always available to hear the concerns of the Notre Dame community. As mentioned at a recent meeting, the committee members are always effective in reflecting student concern as the contact they establish with fellow students. Students are encouraged to discuss their concerns with a Health Advisory Committee members.

Health advisory Committee addresses complaints

By RANDALL GOSKOWICZ
News Staff

In an attempt to address the growing number of complaints from students concerning the care they receive at the Student Health Center, the administration of this facility has organized a student liaison board called the Health Advisory Committee.

The H.A.C. has three major functions to facilitate the involvement of students with the Student Health Center, to aid in the distribution of information concerning the facility, and to bring to the attention of the administration of the Health Center the concerns and constructive criticism voiced by students.

The members of the H.A.C. are from a number of backgrounds, each person sharing the common concern for the various conditions of treatment for students who periodically visit the Student Health Center.

The diversity of backgrounds is particularly conducive to the functioning of the committee, since the wide range of viewpoints allows a thorough consideration of student concerns from all angles. The H.A.C. meets once a month for progress reports on various programs and to examine the latest issues brought to the attention of members by fellow students.

In the future, the H.A.C. plans on making a campaign of information throughout the Notre Dame community to alert students to the services available to them. In addition to this written material, the committee members are always available as a source of information.

The concerns of the H.A.C. are not limited strictly to the Student Health Center, but include also the Department of Psychiatric Services.

The board is particularly concerned with the false approximations generally held about the service and will work with Dr. Michael Mond, Director of the Psych Services, in an attempt to establish a more realistic image of the facility.

The members of the committee are always available to hear the concerns of the Notre Dame community. As mentioned at a recent meeting, the committee members are always effective in reflecting student concern as the contact they establish with fellow students. Students are encouraged to discuss their concerns with a Health Advisory Committee member.

Happy Birthday, John!!

STRAIGHT FLUSH
rock'n roll and country rock
now accepting bookings for formals and hall parties
as seen at Mardi Gras and many hall formals

In Concert with Michiana for 49 Years.
The Interhall soccer championships will be played this evening at 7 pm under lights on Carter Field's astroturf. Zahn and Steward, having the conference's final love shot over Minor and Flanner respectively Tuesday evening.

The SMU Turkey Trot is scheduled for the Monday before Thanksgiving (Nov. 25) at 4 p.m. The three-mile run is open to students in the SMU community. First, second and third place prizes will be presented in each of three categories—students, male staff/faculty and female staff/faculty. Interested runners must register before Friday entry fee to the Angela Athletic Facility before Nov. 20. For more information, contact Coach Dennis Stark (5482) at 4:30 p.m. — The Observer

Two clinics offering twin meets are scheduled for the Rockne Memorial Pool. Tonight's first clinic is entitled "Understanding and Developing Your Swimming Potential." Judge Divun. Next Thursday (Nov. 10) the subject will be "Timing, Finish, Stroke Judgment and Scoring." Interested swimmers should report to Room 218 of the Rock at 7:15 p.m. For more information, contact Coach Dennis Stark (5482) between 4 and 6 p.m. — The Observer

The SMU Turkey Trot scheduled for the Monday before Thanksgiving (Nov. 25) at 4 p.m. The three-mile run is open to everyone in the Saint Mary's community. First, second and third place prizes will be presented in each of three categories—students, male staff/faculty and female staff/faculty. Interested runners must register before Friday entry fee to the Angela Athletic Facility before Nov. 20. For more information, contact Coach Dennis Stark (5482) at 4:30 p.m. — The Observer

All skiers going on the Winter Park, Colo. trip in January must have their adventure paid for by Tuesday, Nov. 17. Money should be paid to Ray Sharp (1570), Sue Hull (1674) or Nancy Sheft (4906) SMC. — The Observer
No-hitters are mysterious

Jim Murray
Sports Writer

The perfect no-hitter candidate seems to be a kid who is just trying to get a place on the team, not paying attention this summer Charlie Lea was pitching his first complete game ever in the big leagues, it was not, like Bobo, his last. Charlie shut out the Giants again the next Sunday. Sometimes, a no-hit game serves notice to manage ment that a pitcher on the staff who is being overlooked is really good. Carl Hubbell didn’t become the great Carl Hubbell. The Meal Ticket,” till he served up a no-hitter on May 8, 1929. He was a second-year man then with only a 10-6 rookie record. Most people think pitchers lose no-hitters in the late innings when nerves crack and the atmospheric pressure drops about to what it is at the bottom of the Atlantic, but Charlie Lea thinks the hitters are the ones affected most. It seems, he notes, to affect their concentration as much as everybody else’s in the ball park. For one thing, the guy who breaks up a no hit game is the place in history of the guy who shot Jesse James. Whatever, you tick off Don Cardwell’s lifetime stats on a moment’s notice? You’ll know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but you read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to It’s Cy Young time again and diehard baseball fans are thinking pitchers. Which brings up one of the great mysteries of the game — the no-hit pitcher.

Grover Cleveland Alexander never pitched a no-hitter. Think of that for a minute. Neither did Lefty Grove. Between them, they won 673 major league games. Dizzy Dean never pitched a no-hitter. But, even his brother, a much lesser pitcher, did.

And so did Charlie Lea. For those of you who weren’t paying attention this summer Charlie Lea was pitching in his 27th major league game when he got his no-hitter, and it was his first complete game in the major leagues.

But that’s nothing! Bobo Holloman was pitching in his first major league game when he threw his no-hitter. It was also the only complete game Bobo ever threw. Bobo and his brother were back in the minor leagues before that season ended.

A Len Barker of Cleveland (you all know old No. 33 from Cleveland, surely?) not only threw a no-hitter this year, he threw a perfect game. Only nine guys in all the history of baseball have thrown perfect games. Len Barker is a hard-throwing pitcher and, unlike Bobo Holloman, that was not his only complete game in the majors — it was his 14th. It was also his fourth shutdown. And Leonard wasn’t 26 years old until mid-summer.

You read the roster of no-hit pitchers and you want to scratch your head if you’re a baseball fan. Not even the bubble-gum card set could identify some of them. Can you tick off Don Cardwell’s lifetime stats on a moment’s notice? You’ll know Addie Joss and Chief Bender, but how about Robert S. Rhoads? Bob Feller. OK. But who’s Don Black? How about the immortal Tom Phoebus? Bill McCahan ring a bell?

There are a few things you notice about no-hit games. In the first place, most of them are close. A great pitcher like Grover Cleveland Alexander is not going to be throwing arm-straining Grade A stuff at the hitters with a 10-0 lead. He’ll be serving up his let-'em-hit-it-behind him in those days, the miracle is, he won all of them.

In the first place, most of them are close. A great pitcher like Grover Cleveland Alexander is not going to be throwing arm-straining Grade A stuff at the hitters with a 10-0 lead. He’ll be serving up his let-'em-hit-it-behind him in those days, the miracle is, he won all of them. And, when I tell you that, you know all you need to know about no-hitters.

The Minnesota Vikings must endure the cold for the rest of this season only. Next year all their home games will be indoors — at the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrotome (AP Photo)
Rookie Valenzuela wins Cy Young

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fernando Valenzuela thanked his team and his manager yesterday for helping him win the 1981 National League Cy Young Award.

He left out Young because he didn’t know who he was.

The voting for the National League Cy Young Award was close among the panel of baseball writers from each league. Valenzuela had 70 points on eight first-place votes, eight seconds and six thirds. Seaver had 67 points — on the same number of first- and third-place votes, but just one less for second place. Carlton had 50. Both Seaver and Carlton have won the award three times.

Valenzuela was purchased from Puebla of the Mexican League for $120,000 by the Dodgers in 1979, who owned the New York Mets.

Before leaving for Paris Tuesday night after an unsuccessful attempt to find out whether he had won the award for the fourth time.

Seaver left for Paris Tuesday night after an unsuccessful attempt to find out whether he had won the award for the fourth time.

Seaver had a 14-2 record for the Reds in the abbreviated 1981 season, while Valenzuela was 15-5

The voting for the National League Cy Young Award was close among the panel of baseball writers from each league. Valenzuela had 70 points on eight first-place votes, eight seconds and six thirds. Seaver had 67 points — on the same number of first- and third-place votes, but just one less for second place. Carlton had 50. Both Seaver and Carlton have won the award three times.

Seaver left for Paris Tuesday night after an unsuccessful attempt to find out whether he had won the award for the fourth time.

Seaver won the Cy Young award yesterday, edging Steve Carlton, was so close that only of the competition, but I’m very happy

Valenzuela, who speaks only Spanish, said that he telephoned Jack Lang of Engram, and the teaching directions of five-time black belt Heavyweight National Champion Charlie Hooks (who teaches mostly in Elkhart), the judo club meets every week on Sunday from 2 p.m to 4 p.m and Wednesday from 8 p.m to 9:30 p.m. The club leaders emphasize the use of the feet and self-defense. As in all martial arts, though, the use of the mind is very important.

"One most always think and be in their best guard in order to out-psych an opponent. Basically, we learn the grace, eloquacity, and speed of the sport, not the striking aspects. We encourage people to come and watch some of our practices in order to observe the artistry involved." MARTIAL ARTS ORGANIZATION. — Unlike the other martial arts clubs, this club is student-run with senior Bob Rickert heading the organization. Members have a variety of arts from which to choose, including Kung Fu and Shotokan.

"The biggest difference is in the various styles we offer people," says Rickert. "The greatest thing about all the martial arts, though, is that one can take control of body with precise accuracy. It provides an excellent means of exercise and blowing off steam, but not on each other. We discourage the emphasis of violence."

WOMEN’S CROSS COUNTRY — The team concluded its season October 31 with a triumph over Holyoke College. Rosemary Desloge paced the Irish and Rosemary Desloge finished in second and third place with respective times of 19:31 and 20:24. Also placing for the squad were Rose Marie Laking, Natalie Rajmanan and Mary Kennedy.

REYNOLDS IN NATIONALS — Fifth-year sailor Phil Reynolds will compete in the "National Single-Handed Championships" held at Wisconsin last weekend. The sailing club, meanwhile will travel to Ann Arbor for this weekend’s meet at Michigan University.

FINAL RESULTS!! United Way at N.D. Participation Chart

Ratio is number of students contributing $2.00 or more divided by total number of students

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Participation Chart</th>
<th>1980</th>
<th>1981</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Alumni</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Badin</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Breen-Phillips</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carroll</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cavanaugh</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dillon</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Farley</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fisht</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Flanner</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grace</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Holy Cross</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Howard</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keenan</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lewis</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lyons</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Morrissey</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pangborn</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pasquerella E.</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pasquerella W.</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Edwards</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sorin</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stanford</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Walsh</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zahm</td>
<td>100%</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

"I thank my teammates and I’m thankful..." to Tom Lasorda...

I feel very great being in the major leagues and winning the Cy Young Award in my first season." Valenzuela, who speaks only Spanish, said through an interpreter. "I feel a little bit surprised because of the competition, but I’m very happy.

"I thank my teammates and I’m thankful to Manager Tom Lasorda, who gave me a chance."

The Dodgers, to honor their left-hander, purchased the star from Mexico, chosen an Italian restaurant in Los Angeles’ Chinatown.

"I feel very great being in the major leagues and winning the Cy Young Award in my first season." Valenzuela, who speaks only Spanish, said through an interpreter. "I feel a little bit surprised because of the competition, but I’m very happy.

"I thank my teammates and I’m thankful to Manager Tom Lasorda, who gave me a chance."

The Dodgers, to honor their left-hander, purchased the star from Mexico, chosen an Italian restaurant in Los Angeles’ Chinatown.

"I feel very great being in the major leagues and winning the Cy Young Award in my first season." Valenzuela, who speaks only Spanish, said through an interpreter. "I feel a little bit surprised because of the competition, but I’m very happy.

"I thank my teammates and I’m thankful to Manager Tom Lasorda, who gave me a chance."

The Dodgers, to honor their left-hander, purchased the star from Mexico, chosen an Italian restaurant in Los Angeles’ Chinatown.

"I feel very great being in the major leagues and winning the Cy Young Award in my first season." Valenzuela, who speaks only Spanish, said through an interpreter. "I feel a little bit surprised because of the competition, but I’m very happy.

"I thank my teammates and I’m thankful to Manager Tom Lasorda, who gave me a chance."

The Dodgers, to honor their left-hander, purchased the star from Mexico, chosen an Italian restaurant in Los Angeles’ Chinatown.

"I feel very great being in the major leagues and winning the Cy Young Award in my first season." Valenzuela, who speaks only Spanish, said through an interpreter. "I feel a little bit surprised because of the competition, but I’m very happy.

"I thank my teammates and I’m thankful to Manager Tom Lasorda, who gave me a chance."

The Dodgers, to honor their left-hander, purchased the star from Mexico, chosen an Italian restaurant in Los Angeles’ Chinatown.

"I feel very great being in the major leagues and winning the Cy Young Award in my first season." Valenzuela, who speaks only Spanish, said through an interpreter. "I feel a little bit surprised because of the competition, but I’m very happy.

"I thank my teammates and I’m thankful to Manager Tom Lasorda, who gave me a chance."

The Dodgers, to honor their left-hander, purchased the star from Mexico, chosen an Italian restaurant in Los Angeles’ Chinatown.
McMahon throwing for records

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Brigham Young University quarterback Jim McMahon, who appears on the cover of the 1981 NCAA football record book, has come closer than any player in history to rewriting the publication. By season's end, the 6-foot senior — who has extended knee and BYU's two losses — is the only to do so. McMahon's shredding of the record book began in 1980 when he played Classical.

This Saturday against unbeaten and 19th ranked Hawaii and the following week against Utah, McMahon will take aim at Herrmann's career passing mark of 9,188 yards. He needs 486 yards to match it.

McMahon's name never appears on the trophy, the one goal he has set for himself: the Heisman Trophy.

This was not the case last Sunday. "The first marathon I ran was terrible, but Sunday's felt like a 10K (6.2 miles) race,"

Joe Piane, head cross-country coach, commented that Juba's time was respectable, although it was ahead of his.

Ed Juba is a cross country and track runner for the Irish. The sophomore engineering student from New York ran in the Metro Parks Marathon sponsored by the Metro Parks Track Club in Louisville. He finished in the top 10 out of 1,000 participants with a time of 2:33:05.

This was the nineteen year old's fifth marathon, a rarity since most marathoners don't start until their early twenties, peaking at 27 or 29 years of age. When asked why he decided to run the marathon, Ed replied, "I had a month off between cross-country and track, there was nothing else to do."

In the past, after 20 miles, Juba said that around that time, his mind would begin to drift and he would be afraid that he, as a marathoner, would put it, "might hit the wall."

This was not the case last Sunday. "The first marathon I ran was terrible, but Sunday's felt like a 10K (6.2 miles) race."

Joe Piane, head cross-country coach, commented that Juba's time was respectable, although Juba didn't share those feelings and that he was proud of him.

"Ed is young for marathoning and his body is still growing. He can still make improvement on his time, but he shouldn't burn himself out."

Three other Notre Dame students, all from Dillon Hall, also participated in the marathon. Matt Mouhamian, Dan Hanigan and Tom Burke (in his first attempt) finished with respective times of 2:34, 5:16 and 5:49.

When asked what his next goal would be, Juba said if he has time in the Spring after track, he would like to run another marathon at a better pace.

Ed Juba goes the distance

By FRAN ANASTASIO
Sports Writer

On Sunday, November 8, Ed Juba went the distance in Louisville, Kentucky — 26 miles, 385 yards worth of distance. Juba is a cross-country and track runner for the Irish. The sophomore engineering student from New York ran in the Metro Parks Marathon sponsored by the Metro Parks Track Club in Louisville. He finished in the top 10 out of 1,000 participants with a time of 2:33:05.

This was the nineteen year old's fifth marathon, a rarity since most marathoners don't start until their early twenties, peaking at 27 or 29 years of age. When asked why he decided to run the marathon, Ed replied, "I had a month off between cross-country and track, there was nothing else to do."

In the past, after 20 miles, Juba said that around that time, his mind would begin to drift and he would be afraid that he, as a marathoner, would put it, "might hit the wall."

This was not the case last Sunday. "The first marathon I ran was terrible, but Sunday's felt like a 10K (6.2 miles) race."

Joe Piane, head cross-country coach, commented that Juba's time was respectable, although Juba didn't share those feelings and that he was proud of him.

"Ed is young for marathoning and his body is still growing. He can still make improvement on his time, but he shouldn't burn himself out."

Three other Notre Dame students, all from Dillon Hall, also participated in the marathon. Matt Mouhamian, Dan Hanigan and Tom Burke (in his first attempt) finished with respective times of 2:34, 5:16 and 5:49.

When asked what his next goal would be, Juba said if he has time in the Spring after track, he would like to run another marathon at a better pace.

How to recognize the real taste of beer while being up the river without a paddle

Give That Student a Blue Ribbon!

Clearing out the cobwebs

Rumbling thoughts at three in the morning...

What happened to Howard Cosell last week during the Holmes-Sipes fight? When Sipes fouled the champ in the seventh round, Howard commented that he thought there was a long count. But we never heard that from him again. After that knock-down, Holmes got up, but wobbled and began to fall again. Only the ropes saved him. So how come ABC always stopped the replay just before Holmes began to go down for the second time?

There is something strange going on at ABC, and I think it has a lot to do with the upcoming Holmes-Cooney match, which the network will probably replay and make a fortune on. Now, they wouldn't want to go running the build-up for that fight by making Holmes look bad, would they?

More and more, sports people are talking over the network news operations. First, Roone Arledge turned things around by dumpmg Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner and turning ABC's nightly news into "The Wide World of News." Now word from the Big Apple is that Van Gordon Sasser, the president of CBS Sports, is about to be named the president of CBS-News. Will Brent, Jr. and Phyllis replace Dan Rather? I can see it now.

"Jimmy the Greek, how do you think the WAC vote is going to go?"

Won't it be interesting to see if McGuire and Billy Packer working without each other this year? McGuire is still with Dick Enberg and NBC, but Packer has picked up his belongings and moved to CBS. Both networks will do college basketball this year (including Notre Dame games on each). I have a feeling the two networks fought long and hard over who would get Packer. Too bad CBS has to start out on such a down note.

Did you notice how quickly the UPI college football poll dropped Miami after their probation was announced? Don't look for Arizona State or Southern Methodist in the coachers' poll, either. Those schools are common commodities these days. What's the point of having first and goal on the Morrissey 6-yard line, Holy Cross was down Morrissey 6-0 on a lone score from the pocket, the Hogs of Holy Cross shut out from the flock.

College grads can become officers in the Corps. If you're finding your bachelor's degree all too representative. Marine recruiters are common commodities these days, put it to work on a commission in the Corps. Talk to your campus Marine Corps representative. Marine recruiters will be at the LaFortune Student Center Nov 11-12 from 9-4 p.m.

Holy Cross, O-C advance to finals

By TED HAUSSSLER
Sports Writer

Holy Cross and Off-Campus are alive and well in the Interhall football playoffs. The Holy Cross' Sheepdogs advanced to semifinal games by winning last night on Carter Field. In the first game of last night's twinbill, the Hogs of Holy Cross shut down Morrissey 6-0 on a lone score late in the second quarter. After having first and goal on the Morrissey 6-yard line, Holy Cross was assessed a 5-yard illegal procedure penalty that pushed the Hogs back into the 15. On the following play, Hog quarterback Kevin Taylor hit freshman receiver Brad Melott for what proved to be the game's only score.

That was all Holy Cross needed as the spirited Hog defense shut down Morrissey and its last-minute offensive threats into Holy Cross territory.

The second game was another hard fought battle as the Off-Campus squad shut down Keenan 7-0. Off-Campus received first down on backfield Willie Sots scrambled 41 yards around right end for an apparent touchdown. The score was nullified, however, by a clipping penalty. Then, in the final moments of the second quarter, Off-Campus signal caller Matt Hoffman, scrambling out of the pocket, hit Bill Norz in the endzone for a 30-yard touchdown strike. Jim Kinney tacked on the extra point making the score 7-0. Both teams played to a standstill in the second half and Keenan's hopes for a last-minute victory were dashed when Off-Campus' tall tackler Tony Atello intercepted a Keenan pass, preserving the victory.

Interhall football continues this Sunday at 1:00 p.m. on Carter Field when Holy Cross takes on the number-one ranked 'Big Red Machine' of Dillon Hall. At 2:15 p.m. Off-Campus brings the side with Grace. The winners of these two games advance to next week's football final.

And Enjoy
Lower Prices!

Kings Cellar
Spirits Supermarket

Pick Up
Your Spirits

Cases

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Generic</th>
<th>48s</th>
<th>Hamms</th>
<th>54s</th>
<th>Miller Lite</th>
<th>78s</th>
<th>Pabst</th>
<th>69s</th>
<th>Coors</th>
<th>12s</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Kamchatka Vodka 899
1.75 Liter

Kessler Blend Whiskey 1099
1.75 Liter

Beefeaters Gin 899
750 ml.

California Jug Wines
Petri
Almaden SALE
Ingleneook

Jack Daniels 899
750 ml.

621 South Bend Ave.
233-4603
Roseland 272-2522

Buy
Observer Classifieds

Land that is so good that even that time-worn cliché is avoided. The kid could make anyone'sassinant get up and out.

And you thought the NCAA college basketball tournament was bad! How about the Canadian Football League, where Montreal (3-15) made the playoffs and several teams with records as bad as 4-10 were left out. Eat you heart out Bowline Kuhn. Take note, Pete Rozelle — parity can get carried away.

Does anybody know who this week's official winner of the holy 500 is? Every week another appeal is overturned or upheld or something. I think the same people who are in charge of the Miss America contest run USAC. Come to think of it, who is this week's host of the Miss America contest?

Every day the trial of those Boston College basketball players for shaving points gets more bizarre. Last week an ex-girlfriend testified that her life was threatened by one of the players involved. This week the FBI claims they got confessions from a couple of players. "Hey, what's the big deal?" the players ask. "We're doing it for fun." That's quite a lot of fun, I suppose.

It wasn't noticed or reported much around here, but former Irish standout Pete Holohan walked out on the San Diego Chargers a couple of weeks ago. He said someone called and said he was fired, so he didn't bother to make the trip to Chicago with the team. If that's me, I'd wonder why one man asked for my playbook. I'd also call some team officials to double check. But Pete apparently didn't bother.

In any case, the Chargers took him back, and he's still in San Diego.

Informed sources say the Pittsburgh Pirates have played their last game in Three Rivers Stadium. Watch for them to move to Wrigley Field or possibly to Denver. If they go to D.C., I hope they fare better than the 1-14 Capitals, the 1-14 Babies and the 1-9 Colts.

Clearing out the cobwebs

Rumbling thoughts at three in the morning...

The Few. The Proud.

The Marines. Where your sheepskin stands out from the flock.

College grads can become officers in the Corps. Which means they give you orders, not just take them. If you're finding your bachelor's degree all too common a commodity these days, put it to work on a commission in the Corps. Talk to your campus Marine Corps representative. Marine recruiters will be at the LaFortune Student Center Nov 11-12 from 9-4 p.m.

Digger!

Phelps was the guest of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes last night in Howard Hall. (Photo by Rudy Perez)
Molarity

Michael Molinelli

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau

Simon

Jeb Cashin

The Daily Crossword

Wallpaper

The Observer

ND/SMC Student Players Presents:

THREE LITTLE PIGS

2nd Floor LaFortune
November 6, 7, 13, 14, 1981
8 pm  Admission $2.00
Momentum turning as Irish go west

Four-year veteran

Gramke quietly leads Irish

By DAVE DZIEDZIC
Sports Writer

"Why me?" Joe Gramke asks when he's told a feature article is being written about him. "What if I don't do well?"

Come now, Mr. Gramke. Modesty is one thing, but he's been honest here. The senior nose tackle has done plenty to deserve recognition during his career at Notre Dame. He has been an integral part of the defensive scheme since arriving on campus four years ago. He has made well over 300 tackles and has been a key factor in many of the Notre Dame victories since his arrival.

"I'm not only running the defense," says the 6-4, 245-pound native of Cincinnati, Ohio. "But right now I just have to sit it out."

"I go out on the field and do everything as efficiently as possible. It's nice to be back with the team."

Defensive line coach Bill Meyers can understand Gramke's frustration. "Joe is a team leader — the kind of guy that hates sitting out because of an injury. He's a smart player who leads by example. "Joe gets out on the field, and his players respond well to him."

"I'm very anxious to get back on the field," Gramke says. "I was hoping to get a chance to play against Georgia Tech. Before the game, we had all 33 senior members of the team — the trainers, managers, and players — introduced individually as they ran out of the tunnel. This is the first time everyone was back together."

"What are Gramke's plans for the future? "Good question," he responds. "I'm thinking about getting to play pro football. But with my ankle injury, I might not get drafted. If not, I'll either start my career in sales or go to MBA school. But if I get a shot at pro ball, I'll definitely go for it."

So Joe Gramke's future is a little uncertain. He is making progress toward recovering from his ankle problems, but it's not sure when he'll be back in action. The Notre Dame coaches, players, and fans hope to see him back soon. In the meantime, he waits, and waits, and waits...

Correction

The Observer incorrectly reported that the charity intrasquad games for the men's and women's basketball teams would be held Saturday night. In fact the games, which benefit a number of local charities, will be played Sunday night at 7 p.m. on the main floor of the A.C.C. Admission is $3 for adults and 50 cents for students. See Sports Brief for more details. The Observer regrets the error.

Flying feet smashing into one's face and heads smashing into bricks are just some of the "barbarous" images that are assumed by many to be associated with karate, judo, kung fu and taekwon-do.

"You would never see a maste or competitor of something like taekwon-do do deliberately start or be in a fight just to show off," says Tae-Kwon Do Club President Ray Hefler. "If someone was to start pushing someone involved in our program in a barroom, our guy probably would just leave the barroom calmly."

"I realize that he doesn't have anything to prove to anybody," he says. "The program is the thing that the club is using."

"I think it's nice to get a spell during an extended break between games."

The programs martial that will be offered in the spring semester to students of all ability levels are very much concerned with the "art" of these fields.

Club Corner

TAE-KWON-DO — The club's 60 members practice from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the A.C.C. every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday during the school year. One of the instructors is black belt master Tim Kausmoto. The emphasis in this division of the martial arts is placed on striking, punching, kicks and drops. Fear not, however, since the first few months place a great emphasis on control. Techniques such as self-defense methods are practiced repeatedly until they are highly developed.

"You would never see a maste or competitor of something like taekwon-do do deliberately start or be in a fight just to show off," says Tae-Kwon Do Club President Ray Hefler. "If someone was to start pushing someone involved in our program in a barroom, our guy probably would just leave the barroom calmly."

"I realize that he doesn't have anything to prove to anybody," he says. "The program is the thing that the club is using."

"I think it's nice to get a spell during an extended break between games."

The programs martial that will be offered in the spring semester to students of all ability levels are very much concerned with the "art" of these fields.

Club Corner

TAE-KWON-DO — The club's 60 members practice from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the A.C.C. every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday during the school year. One of the instructors is black belt master Tim Kausmoto. The emphasis in this division of the martial arts is placed on striking, punching, kicks and drops. Fear not, however, since the first few months place a great emphasis on control. Techniques such as self-defense methods are practiced repeatedly until they are highly developed.

Martial artists provide peace

Louie Somogyi
Sports Writer

"I'm not only running the defense," says the 6-4, 245-pound native of Cincinnati, Ohio. "But right now I just have to sit it out."

"I go out on the field and do everything as efficiently as possible. It's nice to be back with the team."

Defensive line coach Bill Meyers can understand Gramke's frustration. "Joe is a team leader — the kind of guy that hates sitting out because of an injury. He's a smart player who leads by example. "Joe gets out on the field, and his players respond well to him."

"I'm very anxious to get back on the field," Gramke says. "I was hoping to get a chance to play against Georgia Tech. Before the game, we had all 33 senior members of the team — the trainers, managers, and players — introduced individually as they ran out of the tunnel. This is the first time everyone was back together."

"What are Gramke's plans for the future? "Good question," he responds. "I'm thinking about getting to play pro football. But with my ankle injury, I might not get drafted. If not, I'll either start my career in sales or go to MBA school. But if I get a shot at pro ball, I'll definitely go for it."

So Joe Gramke's future is a little uncertain. He is making progress toward recovering from his ankle problems, but it's not sure when he'll be back in action. The Notre Dame coaches, players, and fans hope to see him back soon. In the meantime, he waits, and waits, and waits...

Correction

The Observer incorrectly reported that the charity intrasquad games for the men's and women's basketball teams would be held Saturday night. In fact the games, which benefit a number of local charities, will be played Sunday night at 7 p.m. on the main floor of the A.C.C. Admission is $3 for adults and 50 cents for students. See Sports Brief for more details. The Observer regrets the error.

Flying feet smashing into one's face and heads smashing into bricks are just some of the "barbarous" images that are assumed by many to be associated with karate, judo, kung fu and taekwon-do.

"You would never see a master or competitor of something like taekwon-do do deliberately start or be in a fight just to show off," says Tae-Kwon Do Club President Ray Hefler. "If someone was to start pushing someone involved in our program in a barroom, our guy probably would just leave the barroom calmly."

"I realize that he doesn't have anything to prove to anybody," he says. "The program is the thing that the club is using."

"I think it's nice to get a spell during an extended break between games."

The programs martial that will be offered in the spring semester to students of all ability levels are very much concerned with the "art" of these fields.

Club Corner

TAE-KWON-DO — The club's 60 members practice from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the A.C.C. every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday during the school year. One of the instructors is black belt master Tim Kausmoto. The emphasis in this division of the martial arts is placed on striking, punching, kicks and drops. Fear not, however, since the first few months place a great emphasis on control. Techniques such as self-defense methods are practiced repeatedly until they are highly developed.

"You would never see a master or competitor of something like taekwon-do do deliberately start or be in a fight just to show off," says Tae-Kwon Do Club President Ray Hefler. "If someone was to start pushing someone involved in our program in a barroom, our guy probably would just leave the barroom calmly."

"I realize that he doesn't have anything to prove to anybody," he says. "The program is the thing that the club is using."

"I think it's nice to get a spell during an extended break between games."

The programs martial that will be offered in the spring semester to students of all ability levels are very much concerned with the "art" of these fields.

Club Corner

TAE-KWON-DO — The club's 60 members practice from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the A.C.C. every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday during the school year. One of the instructors is black belt master Tim Kausmoto. The emphasis in this division of the martial arts is placed on striking, punching, kicks and drops. Fear not, however, since the first few months place a great emphasis on control. Techniques such as self-defense methods are practiced repeatedly until they are highly developed.

"You would never see a master or competitor of something like taekwon-do do deliberately start or be in a fight just to show off," says Tae-Kwon Do Club President Ray Hefler. "If someone was to start pushing someone involved in our program in a barroom, our guy probably would just leave the barroom calmly."

"I realize that he doesn't have anything to prove to anybody," he says. "The program is the thing that the club is using."

"I think it's nice to get a spell during an extended break between games."

The programs martial that will be offered in the spring semester to students of all ability levels are very much concerned with the "art" of these fields.

Club Corner

TAE-KWON-DO — The club's 60 members practice from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the A.C.C. every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday during the school year. One of the instructors is black belt master Tim Kausmoto. The emphasis in this division of the martial arts is placed on striking, punching, kicks and drops. Fear not, however, since the first few months place a great emphasis on control. Techniques such as self-defense methods are practiced repeatedly until they are highly developed.

"You would never see a master or competitor of something like taekwon-do do deliberately start or be in a fight just to show off," says Tae-Kwon Do Club President Ray Hefler. "If someone was to start pushing someone involved in our program in a barroom, our guy probably would just leave the barroom calmly."

"I realize that he doesn't have anything to prove to anybody," he says. "The program is the thing that the club is using."

"I think it's nice to get a spell during an extended break between games."

The programs martial that will be offered in the spring semester to students of all ability levels are very much concerned with the "art" of these fields.

Club Corner

TAE-KWON-DO — The club's 60 members practice from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the A.C.C. every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday during the school year. One of the instructors is black belt master Tim Kausmoto. The emphasis in this division of the martial arts is placed on striking, punching, kicks and drops. Fear not, however, since the first few months place a great emphasis on control. Techniques such as self-defense methods are practiced repeatedly until they are highly developed.