WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders agreed yesterday to seek $3.6 billion in new cuts from domestic programs — President Reagan “would undoubtedly veto” the huge emergency bill, and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker said a veto probably would force Congress into an around-the-clock weekend session to produce a second measure that Reagan would approve.

But with the cuts, Baker added, Reagan would go far enough on the measure needed to keep virtually the entire federal government solvent.

Baker predicted the Senate, later in the week, would pass the first of the bill, which exempts the Pent­agon, foreign aid and benefits programs such as food stamps and Medicare.

A Senate vote on the $41.7 billion spending bill — still $2.3 bil­lion more than Reagan wants — was expected last night or today. The bill would then return to the House, which earlier this week rejected a similar plan for new cuts.

Regan is scheduled to leave Sun­day for a workday Thanksgiving vacation in California, but White House spokesman David R. Gergen said yesterday that the president “would not leave Washington” if a satisfactory bill were not worked out.

Gergen, however, refused to tell the House how much of Reagan considers Baker’s $3.6 billion cut sufficient, even though, as panel at the emergency spend­ing budget bill, the Senate Budget Committee sent an overall budget plan to the floor which vir­tually ignores changes in economic forecasts and deficit projections overall.

The plan, which passed without recommendations, is probably a copy of a budget outline approved earlier this year. At the suggestion of Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., the panel estimated that without further ac­tion on the so-called “veto taxes,” the deficit could reach $165 billion by 1984. This year’s deficit will range from $76 billion to $92 bil­lion.

To support his premise, Roos cited the economic trends of the past and how the Fed has reacted to pressure of interest-prone industry. When the Fed increased the monetary supply, the action “had a cumulative effect of increasing the long-term trend rate of growth in money to rise from 1.5 percent in 1960 to approximately 4.5 percent now, and increased the inflation we are facing.”

According to Roos, slower money growth does not promote higher in­terest rates. “During the period from 1954 to 1966, the money growth rate was 2.5 percent and interest rates were about 3.5 percent. “Since 1966, annual money growth in­creased to about 6.5 percent and interest rates have risen to an average of about 8 percent. “The average growth rate of money since 1966 is directly reflected in higher interest rates.”

Roos said that the economy is al­ready at or near the peak of its growth.”

Now mandatory

Laundry service under review

By BOB VONDERHEIDE and MARK BOENNINGHAUSE

Barton discusses arms control

By ED KONRADY

St. Louis Federal Reserve President Lawrence K. Roos ex­plained the complexities of the Federal Reserve System’s stance on monetary supply reduction last night in the Center for Continuing Education.

Roo’s speech, “Enjoying Arms Control: a Continuation of Education,” dealt with a SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty) Free Diet,” dealt with the problem of the sym­metrical arms limitation treaty.

“ Americas have a tendency to focus on the worst possible thing that could happen. The arms control community tends to focus on nuclear and strategic weapons. The military community tends to focus on the idea of an attack from the Soviet community,” he said, calling this phenomenon the “Pearl Harbor mentality.”

Society tends to worry about nuclear weapons when making SALT and other arms limitation treaties, Barton said, and ignores the negotia­tions concerning conventional weapons.

“There are a number of reasons why conventional weapon negotia­tions are important. First, this is where the deaths are. Since World War II, many more people have been killed by conventional weapons than by the nuclear bomb.

“Risks of war have increased with an increase in conventional weapons, however, with nuclear weapons, the fear of mutual destruc­tion lowers the risks of war. Some people would say that because of nuclear weapons, the US and USSR are farther from war than ever.

“Thirdly, the economic costs of war is mostly in conventional weapons. In the United States, $14 billion is spent on strategic weapons while $65 billion is spent on con­ventional weapons. Only one fifth of the $900 billion spent for world defense is for strategic weapons.

“Instead of trying to trim the budget for thenut for such weapons so there is more money for other projects, Barton suggested that we try to reduce the budget for conventional weapons.

”All new alliances are needed to reduce the defense budget. The anti-nuclear group, according to Barton, is not strong enough to get the votes necessary. A group of people who want to reduce the defense budget, control arms or increase produc­tivity, could band together to get enough votes to affect the amount of money spent for defense.

“One place the government could cut the conventional weapons budget is in arms exports. “Our cur­rent arms export policy is in a big mess. Arms have become a ‘currency,’ a gift to other leaders when we visit or act as a host. Today’s currency is the F-16. The idea of vetoing arms exports doesn’t work. Everyone the president goes to Congress, he is going to win. Only when the arms are going to countering that can hurt Greece and Israel, two countries with a lot of power in Congress, is there any opp­osition.”

“Even with limits in arms exports, a decrease in the defense budgets and a strategic limitation treaty of some kind, the problem that no effective police ac­tion will ever be effective against the United States and the UN.”

SALT free diet

By ED KONRADY

Now staff

The theme of this year’s Barton discusses arms control

There is no more important issue than arms control to the Barton, a professor of law at Stanford University.

Barton spoke yesterday afternoon to a small crowd at 124 Hayes-Healy Hall in his speech, “Enjoying Arms Control on a SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty) Free Diet,” dealt with the problem of the sym­metrical arms limitation treaty.

“ Americas have a tendency to focus on the worst possible thing that could happen. The arms control community tends to focus on nuclear and strategic weapons. The military community tends to focus on the idea of an attack from the Soviet community,” he said, calling this phenomenon the “Pearl Harbor mentality.”

Society tends to worry about nuclear weapons when making SALT and other arms limitation treaties, Barton said, and ignores the negotia­tions concerning conventional weapons.

“There are a number of reasons why conventional weapon negotia­tions are important. First, this is where the deaths are. Since World War II, many more people have been killed by conventional weapons than by the nuclear bomb.

“Risks of war have increased with an increase in conventional weapons, however, with nuclear weapons, the fear of mutual destruc­tion lowers the risks of war. Some people would say that because of nuclear weapons, the US and USSR are farther from war than ever.

“Thirdly, the economic costs of war is mostly in conventional weapons. In the United States, $14 billion is spent on strategic weapons while $65 billion is spent on con­ventional weapons. Only one fifth of the $900 billion spent for world defense is for strategic weapons.

“Instead of trying to trim the budget for thenut for such weapons so there is more money for other projects, Barton suggested that we try to reduce the budget for conventional weapons.

”All new alliances are needed to reduce the defense budget. The anti-nuclear group, according to Barton, is not strong enough to get the votes necessary. A group of people who want to reduce the defense budget, control arms or increase produc­tivity, could band together to get enough votes to affect the amount of money spent for defense.

“One place the government could cut the conventional weapons budget is in arms exports. “Our cur­rent arms export policy is in a big mess. Arms have become a ‘currency,’ a gift to other leaders when we visit or act as a host. Today’s currency is the F-16. The idea of vetoing arms exports doesn’t work. Everyone the president goes to Congress, he is going to win. Only when the arms are going to countering that can hurt Greece and Israel, two countries with a lot of power in Congress, is there any opp­osition.”

“Even with limits in arms exports, a decrease in the defense budgets and a strategic limitation treaty of some kind, the problem that no effective police ac­tion will ever be effective against the United States and the UN.”

Now mandatory

Laundry service under review

By BOB VONDERHEIDE and MARK BOENNINGHAUSE

Barton discusses arms control

By ED KONRADY

Now staff

SALT free diet

By ED KONRADY

Now staff

SALT free diet

By ED KONRADY

Now staff

SALT free diet

By ED KONRADY

Now staff

SALT free diet
When Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev arrives Sunday in Bonn, West Germany, on a four-day visit, the West Ger­ mans will urge him to accept President Reagan's call for reduction of nuclear arms. But in a letter to Helmut Schmid, according to the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, Brezhnev's letter will go along with Reagan's offer to end the deployment of U.S. missiles in return for the dismantling of Soviet rockets aimed at West­ ern Europe. West Germany's visit will be a flanking move for the idea of a first step toward a new student cen­ ter — the University is now philosophically behind the idea.

It takes female doctors twice as long to be promoted in some medical colleges, and the percentage of women on medical faculties is smaller than it was in 1965, a new study says. The study of men and women in some medical colleges, and the percentage of women on medical faculties is smaller than it was in 1965, a new study says. The study of men and women in medical colleges, and the percentage of women on medical faculties is smaller than it was in 1965, a new study says.

Actor Robert De Niro will play Josip Broz Tito in a movie about the life of the late Yugoslav leader, a Belgrade weekly reported yesterday. The film, to be produced by Brad Dexter, an American of Yugoslav origin, will be based on a book about Tito written in medical schools has increased almost fivefold over 19 years, according to the short article. Robert De Niro was able to complete a study to determine precisely where facilities should be included in the center, the search for a multi-million-donor and, perhaps, most importantly, the selection of a site for the structure. MacDonald admitted to be in doubt about the site problem. An attorney representing the observatory can only speculate on possible sites for any potential center. The site of the old fieldhouse (following its demolition), a strip directly across the road from Dillon Hall on the current site of one of the Burke Memorial Golf Course greens. At this point, however, a site selection is a suggestion only — more to be added to the long list, and speculation will not doubt continue. Still, MacDonald's air of excitement is hard to shoo away. It has caused the course of the University to start moving in the direction of a new student center. MacDonald believes, then, that the center can be significant — and aroused — much of the credit should go to Mauroy, his staff and his predecessors in the role of student body president; however it is much too early to be hailing our laurels. The excitement this week has been only an appetizer for public statements of dollars and cents. There is undoubtedly a long road ahead for the student center concept and a requis­ ite need for continued pressure and diligence on behalf of our elected student leaders. But still, it was particularly satisfying to hear the observer's box and overhead week, to hear of a little ray of sunshine on this matter.

The Observer

An 80 percent chance of precipitation, with periods of light rain possibly becoming mixed with snow by daybreak today. Windy with light rain changing to snow flurries. Temperatures falling from the mid and upper 30's onto the upper 20's tonight. Snow flurries continuing through tomorrow. High in the mid 30's tonight. — AP

Student center: fantasy to fact

Jim McDonnell was in an exceptionally good mood. In the director of student activities said that he was having a hard time keeping his excitement to himself. Almost as soon as I walked into the Student Activity Office Wed­ nesday, the reason for his glee jumped to the forefront of our conversation: progress on a new student center fund-raising campaign.

"Things are happening now that haven't happened in years around here," said McDonnell. "I think that we've reached the first step toward a new student cen­ ter — the University is now philosophically behind the idea."

Many ND students as well as some faculty members and others have become so complacent and cynical about the proposal for the student center that the conversation I've described above probably doesn't mean too much. We've been hearing a lot of talk — and very little progress or even apparent concern — for years now. In fact there has been a lot of frustration on campus lately following the revelation that a structure housing laboratory animals might displace the student center as the next construction project on the Univer­ sity's agenda following the faculty office building. So why the cause for McDonnell's carry-over-again now?

"For the first time, Mr. Hes­ brough has said that he is real­ ly behind the idea," McDonnell said. "Certainly this is a milestone. Hesbrough's full dedication to the student center fund rais­ ing campaign is one of the keystones to the construction of the facility. Before we get too optimistic, however, we must consider the fact that, although Hesbrough has repre­ sented the president's office, he is not the only one involved. More recently, he has represented the University. In this role, he has been one of the main spokesmen for the idea. The reason for this is that he is one of the University's key officials, and he is well-liked by the students.

"I think that the University is now philosophically behind the idea."

"The students are basically powerless," explained McDonnell. "But this time, they have finally collected enough money to put together a fund-raising campaign."

Justice Department attorneys believe that despite "a lot of smoke," President Reagan's national security adviser, Richard V. Allen, did not act unlawfully when he accepted $1,000 a day in the Justice Department's gunrunning investigation. The prosecutors, however, said they have evidence that the president was involved in the cover-up, according to the White House. The prosecutors, however, said they have evidence that the president was involved in the cover-up, according to the White House.

Looking into Torrington... If you're looking for a career with diversity and challenge. Opportunities in sales, pro­ duction, manufacturing, design and research engineering for all kinds of industries. The Torrington Company is a major international manufac­ turer of anti-friction bearings and precision metal products for industries around the world. We are looking for engineers, technicians and other personnel around the world. Our Head­quarters are in Torrington, Connecticut. We are an equal oppor­ tunity employer.

The Torrington Company is a major international manufac­ turer of anti-friction bearings and precision metal products for industries around the world. We are looking for engineers, technicians and other personnel around the world. Our Head­quarters are in Torrington, Connecticut. We are an equal oppor­ tunity employer.

Student center: fantasy to fact

Jim McDonnell was in an exceptionally good mood. In the director of student activities said that he was having a hard time keeping his excitement to himself. Almost as soon as I walked into the Student Activity Office Wed­ nesday, the reason for his glee jumped to the forefront of our conversation: progress on a new student center fund-raising campaign.

"Things are happening now that haven't happened in years around here," said McDonnell. "I think that we've reached the first step toward a new student cen­ ter — the University is now philosophically behind the idea."

Many ND students as well as some faculty members and others have become so complacent and cynical about the proposal for the student center that the conversation I've described above probably doesn't mean too much. We've been hearing a lot of talk — and very little progress or even apparent concern — for years now. In fact there has been a lot of frustration on campus lately following the revelation that a structure housing laboratory animals might displace the student center as the next construction project on the Univer­ sity's agenda following the faculty office building. So why the cause for McDonnell's carry-over-again now?

"For the first time, Mr. Hes­ brough has said that he is real­ly behind the idea," McDonnell said. "Certainly this is a milestone. Hesbrough's full dedication to the student center fund rais­ ing campaign is one of the keystones to the construction of the facility. Before we get too optimistic, however, we must consider the fact that, although Hesbrough has repre­ sented the president's office, he is not the only one involved. More recently, he has represented the University. In this role, he has been one of the main spokesmen for the idea. The reason for this is that he is one of the University's key officials, and he is well-liked by the students.

"I think that the University is now philosophically behind the idea."

"The students are basically powerless," explained McDonnell. "But this time, they have finally collected enough money to put together a fund-raising campaign."

Justice Department attorneys believe that despite "a lot of smoke," President Reagan's national security adviser, Richard V. Allen, did not act unlawfully when he accepted $1,000 a day in the Justice Department's gunrunning investigation. The prosecutors, however, said they have evidence that the president was involved in the cover-up, according to the White House. The prosecutors, however, said they have evidence that the president was involved in the cover-up, according to the White House.
Preventative measures

Forum addresses alcohol issue

By SUSAN FLECK
News Staff

An Open Forum on the topic of alcohol at Notre Dame was attended by about 50 people last Wednesday night in the Flanner Commons.

Members of the panel include: David Link, Dean of the Law School and member of the PACE committee on Student Life; Psychological Services Counselor Peggy Cronin; Flanner Hall President Lloyd Burke; Keenan Hall President Paul Calahan; Lt. Cmdr. Richard Hornmann; and Professor Walter Davis.

Dean Link's study on alcohol use at ND is "charged with a suggested program on what to do with alcohol on campus." Link described two of his planning; a quick response, "fire fighting plan," and a more intense, "fire prevention plan." He said that these actions that result from excessive drinking, not discipline. Recognition of the problem and treating it are more important than punishing attitudes and to identify and help people in order to reduce the drinking problem.

Along the same lines, Davis declared "students, faculty, and staff are all in this together." He stated that counseling is the answer to the drinking problem, which must be confronted on a dorm and individual level. Party rooms are for socializing, not for drinking and getting drunk, according to Davis.

F.Roos, a Notre Dame NROTC instructor, related the similarities between Navy life and Notre Dame, noting that neither group has had any formal education on alcohol and that those with problems run the gamut of the age group — not only students, but older faculty members as well. He said that it is necessary to promote responsible attitudes and to identify and help people in order to reduce the drinking problem.

Also, dorms are encouraged to implement rules restricting the percentage of funds allocated to alcoholic beverages. The HPC calls for a re-evaluation of the priority of alcohol at social functions and the formation of alcohol commissions in each dorm in order to sponsor greater awareness.

In conclusion Link said "drinking is one of the most serious student life problems at ND." He also stated that a large percentage of problem drinkers come from very repressive or very liberal backgrounds. The family of Notre Dame has to deal with the problem through community efforts and a statement released by the Administration recognizing the problem, according to Link.

During the question and answer period a variety of suggestions and questions were brought up. One student believed that examples of alcohol and that those with problems could provide a shock value to make the almost realize that everyone has to participate in the effort. Social space was also another option considered to coping with the drinking problem. Whatever the decision, according to Link, "what I'd like to have by spring is a University statement and some policies."
Friday, November 20, 1981 — page 4

Embarking on the Urban ‘Pillage’

Many Notre Dame students will parade in what is known as a “Urban Plunge,” that is, they will spend holidays in urban slums, in a big city and find out what kind of life

By Gus Tamborelo

other people lead. Over the mid-semester break, I went home to Houston and tried to start in my own little urban plunge.

Houston is a city of phenomenal growth. Over a thousand more people each week, many of whom are Eastern businessmen. The problem is, crime grows where the money goes, so to speak. One out of every four Houstonians is a victim of a felony each year. My urban plunge allowed me to become a member of this statistic.

For the first few days, I lived one of the worst-shuns in the area called Fifth Ward, or “The Bloody Fifth” to those who live there. This is an area where rats run around like dogs, and hoboes and street-corner men are as prevalent as stop signs. The area houses people who live below the poverty line, and local businesses are run out by those who live there. This is an area of the worst slums in the area called East End, or the area of the worst poverty areas. The problem of this statistic.

I went to the bus station on the outskirts of downtown Houston a couple of times.

I wanted to find out, too, if other people lead. Over the mid-my grandmothers and aunt were barefooted. He said, “Hey, how ya doing?”

He followed the ticket lady. The man asked me what happened and I told them that I was going to sue for money. He said, “Fine,” and was fairly nervous about it.

I went up to the counter to buy my ticket and in walks one of the hoboes. I had been talking to the ticket lady. The man had a green army jacket and was barefooted. He said, “Hey, how ya doing?”

“Fie, and fairly nervous about it. I thought for sure that he was going to sue me for money.

Well, he didn’t. I had the money for my ticket in my hand, and trying to ignore the man, placed ten dollars of it on the counter. Suddenly the man grabbed the money and stormed out of the door. Two other men in the bus station ran after him.

I stood there as if I had just lost my American Express traveler’s checks. I was hoping Karl Malden would walk in the door, but then again, he wouldn’t. I just wanted to tell him for carrying cash.

The ticket lady was in shock. She said, “I’m so sorry this happened, before. That really didn’t concern me.”

I was more furious about the lack of security than about the ten lost bucks.

A few minutes later, though, the two drags in the vagrant that ripped me off. The bus people took him in the back. The bus was leaving at 1:15, and it was now 11:00. The bus people called the police, and miraculously, they made it there in about 10 minutes.

The questioned the guy and he claimed to be Jesus Christ. His first words were, “Sway yent, God, I’m Jesus Christ.” But Mr. Christ did not have my ten bucks.

He said he dropped it when the two men chased him. The police searched him, and sure enough he didn’t have my money. The police asked me what happened and I told them that I was going to sue for money, and the guy took it. He said, “Don’t you want to press charges?”

“Well,” I answered, “does that mean I have to appear in court?”

“I couldn’t press charges because I’m in school and I wasn’t going to come home from a thousand miles away to put a man in jail for stealing ten dollars. So I asked if my sister could press charges. He answered no. He said that since it was my money, I had to press charges. So I told him that my sister gave me the money before we got to the bus station. Of course, he didn’t believe me and answered, ‘That would be against this man’s Constitutional right. And I’m not going to go against our Constitution.’

Then he said, ‘Well, maybe you can book him on abusive language.’

I had to laugh. Here he wouldn’t let me lie about the money, but he felt he had the duty to make up an offense. Meanwhile, the bus driver was flooding his accelerator pedal, hinting that the bus was waiting for me. I decided that I wouldn’t ruin my trip, so I left and told him to do what he wanted.

Later, my sister called the bus station. They told her that they released him immediately.

The purpose of all of this is not to discourage anyone from going on an Urban Plunge. I think the lesson learned was extremely worthwhile. Just remember, though, to go with an open mind, and a closed pocket book.

A special Christmas

I become obsessed with the most imagination—things sometimes. Out of all the tragedies encountered while paging

through today’s big city daily — murder, rape, robbery, murder — I thought I could get into the “urban life” even further.

I wanted to find out, too, if

Paul Kosidowski

Second Thoughts

his special guests: Bob Hope, The Playboy Playmates, Hans Conried, The Hawking Family, Raw Satin

As eager as I am to get my yuletide

ting in with George and Christmas celebration. I just figured lame tide swing in with George and Christmas seem to be one of the domestic soap, and nut bread that once showing up around the windows and doors of America still an anachronistic shock, but they are welcome. After all, with the World Series over what is else is there?

Most of the commercial i’m really doesn’t bother me. I was once an actor in the NEO over the river and through the woods school of Christmas nostalgia, but now I have come to accept things like prewrapped presents, plastic trees and even Ronald McDonald in a red suit and beard. Besides, if there is one thing worse than Christmas commercialism, it’s columns complaining about Christmas commercialism.

I can’t really say what upset me about the threat of this seemingly harmless hour of television. I am not an anti-video radical. I had no part in the picture tube burnings of the ’60s. But I am uneasy about the threat of this seemingly Thank God for that.

The Christmas dramas are usually wonderful. Many convey the spirit and variety and the “specials” have been savored in an avalanche of celebrity family carolers and still more versions of Dickens’ A Christmas Carol adapted for modern audiences.

The Christmas dramas are usually well done. Many convey the spirit and are very touching. They portray real people whom something very meaningful out the Christmas experience. They are emotionally packed, profound, and supreme sacrifices. We are supposed to react to according to what situation.

In a disconcerting way, these dramas can be funny. “Are your Christmas’s like this?” they ask. After being unnerved by their sentimentality, we wonder if our holidays are as charming or as eventful, in fact, we get so emotional watching them that our sensibility stays in the den with the television. We are also moved by what happened on Walton mountain that, by com-comparison, the “Christmas” happening in the next room becomes trivial.

I am convinced that beyond all the hype and flakery there is a solid foundation of “true spirit.” It can be felt in those moments that are special because they are so rare. To fo-

I know that drama created by the world’s greatest artist could never hold a candle to some of the moments from my past years. No author could have touched me like my mom did when she “gave” me the first letter I had written from school. My sister’s version of “Shelby Night” bears Andy Williams by ’tide. My dad can’t tell a joke better than George Burns ever could.

I am convinced that beyond all the hype and flakery there is a solid foundation of “true spirit.” It can be felt in those moments that are special because they are so rare. To focal-

The chocolate soldier

They sat at a table near the window, watching the flowers on the water. Neither of them would ever be young again. They were afraid of being overtaken by midlife. But when it evening would come, they were saying, made cowards of both of them.

"There's no sense in pretending," he said, "that would be comforting. But when it was over, it would be destroyed by regrett."

I would remember," she said, "that it had happened once. That would always be comforting to me."

He placed his hand over hers. "Please," he said, "I would love the whole of the morning."

"I know," she said. "I would never want anything that I thought would hurt you."

"Anyway," he said, "the problem is nothing ever happens only once."

They sat wordlessly, in love with the sweetness of the other's presence. The evening was reaching its flower that has lost touch with the morning.

Porter.

It wouldn't be comforting. But when it was over, we would still have love, and we won't have to make apologies to anyone, even ourselves."

With our innocence intact for the Christmas ballet," he said. "One lives dangerously as a chocolate soldier."

At eleven o'clock, they felt the restaurant, having finally decided to find a motel. The car they were driving belonged to her aunt.

"Dear old witch," she said affectionately, speaking of her aunt. "She's my godmother, you know, and she expects me to have a nice time," she told me. "I've never been able to lie to her." She suddenly shivered.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

"I felt funny," she said, "as though there were mice running down my back."

Getting out of the car at the motel, he kissed her. "Your hair," he said, "in the moonlight, looks as though it has turned to glass."

I never noticed before," she said, "how much you look like Marlon Brando."

"Holding you," he said dreamily, "I feel as though I am touching the purest crystal."

"Oh my God," she said, "your lips taste like fudge... as tough as a pumpkin!"

The both turned to look at the old yellow car, as though suddenly realizing it could turn into a pumpkin. Witches are who goddesses grow mischievous at midnight, like the consciences that make cowards of us all.

---

Letters to a Lonely God

Expensive restaurant, listening to love songs on a piano. When I'm an old man, waiting to die, some nun in a nursing home will want to sing me a song to fall asleep by. I'll ask for a better sweet tune about the mystery called love, and she will think I'm crazy.

"You tell me that you're a chocolate soldier," she said, "who was loved by a lady as pure as sugar."

"I'll tell her we were eaten by mice," he said. "It certainly feels that way."

The drinks are wearing off, the candles are burning down, and you're feeling sorry for yourself," she said. "I thought Tomorrow, we will still have love, and we won't have to make apologies to anyone, even ourselves."

"With our innocence intact for the Christmas ballet," he said. "One lives dangerously as a chocolate soldier."

At eleven o'clock, they felt the restaurant, having finally decided to find a motel. The car they were driving belonged to her aunt.

"Dear old witch," she said affectionately, speaking of her aunt. "She's my godmother, you know, and she expects me to have a nice time," she told me. "I've never been able to lie to her." She suddenly shivered.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

"I felt funny," she said, "as though there were mice running down my back."

Getting out of the car at the motel, he kissed her. "Your hair," he said, "in the moonlight, looks as though it has turned to glass."

I never noticed before," she said, "how much you look like Marlon Brando."

"Holding you," he said dreamily, "I feel as though I am touching the purest crystal."

"Oh my God," she said, "your lips taste like fudge... as tough as a pumpkin!"

The both turned to look at the old yellow car, as though suddenly realizing it could turn into a pumpkin. Witches are who goddesses grow mischievous at midnight, like the consciences that make cowards of us all.

---

Midwest offers less than pleasant thoughts

What's the matter with the Midwest? It seems that everyone not from it, and some of those who are, can't stand the place. Different people give different reasons for loathing it.

1) There is no ocean out here. Whoever heard of going to the beach of a polluted lake? There's probably more surf in a bathtub. There's no shark attacks either. What is going to liven up those long, sweaty afternoons, lolling in the sand, without an occasional clearing of the water, and maybe even a sighting? The worst that can happen in a lake is you might be gobbled by a confused coho.

2) There are no big cities. Besides Chicago, the Midwest is nothing more than farms, small towns, and more farms. Felt to be a city only by citydrome, like South Bend, are laughable at best. Even Chicago is sort of a half-hearted. Who ever heard of a skyline consisting of three buildings?

3) The sports teams here are terrible. One can only mention such names as the Cubs, Bears, Wildcots, to evoke thundering yawns of enthusiasm from fans. You know they are bad when you see the high schools getting equal coverage in the local sports page.

4) The newspaper out here, real like high school journalism class projects. The Chicago Tribune is the only major city newspaper I've seen, and the only one that mates to express in the experiential and experimental mode particular aspects of life. Some are familiar to all like "Office Procedures" which high-lighted office equipment or "Pillow Talk" which relied on the innocent selectiveness of the "smooth pillow to give it the classic 'boy meets girl' look.

"Fotsack" and "City" put into motion the inner tensions and paradoxes of the world in which we live. The former gave a new of what life will be after a nuclear holocaust, the latter blatantly displayed the tension between non-communication and the inner desire to reach out to other.

These various units of energy, time and space succeeded in drawing the audience into the experience of life as perceived through dance. Art sincerely imitated life. Hopefully now, abiosis will expand that life.
Baby boom faces job squeeze

It's mathematical: Though the population of Americans who would normally compete for management-related jobs will rise over 40 percent by 1990, the number of opening promotions will only increase about 20 percent during that period. Our officials, who should be able to handle the crunch, but few are expecting it. In popular terms, millions of young workers won't reach the upper rungs on the "ladder of success", since they always assumed promotions were in their grasp. It's uncommon today to find 35-year-old senior executives who, bared to promotion, face another 10 years before a decent promotion comes through.

Compensating for the loss of routine advancement won't be a snap for our future. After all, our nation has worshiped promotions and high salaries for generations. Where do they expect to go and what do you do if you can't "get ahead"?

"Our traditional notions of success will have to change from the point of view of the employer and employee," said Kenneth Broussard, a University of Southern California business professor and career development researcher. "It won't happen. Horatio Alger is still very strong in people's minds."

Broussard told our reporter Michael Duffy that baby-boomers best not underestimate the odds against them. "For the majority, it would be a mistake to assume that 'I'll be one of the favored few.'" he adds. "Everyone between 18 and 35 in the job market is facing unprecedented competition and will have to decide if they want to deal with it."

Soon, younger Americans will begin to notice that their older brothers and sisters in white-collar jobs aren't going anywhere. And they'll eventually seek new ways to avoid the unrewarding rat race. Rather than moving up what Duffield calls the "greasy pole of success," business professors are beginning to push them to find work near their fields, or change their vocations entirely.

Publicitees is a crunch in a boom generation are in for what the Wall Street Journal calls a crunch in the '80s. We're expecting won't be as plentiful as everyone would like.

Dear Editor:

Mary's College. It does not necessarily represent the opinion of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. The Observer is an independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame de la Lac and Notre Dame College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible.

The Observer

EDITORIALS

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief

Managing Editor

Production Manager

Circulation Manager

Advertising Manager

Business Manager

Production Manager

Circulation Manager

Advertising Manager

Editor-in-Chief

Managing Editor

Production Manager

Circulation Manager

Advertising Manager

Business Manager

Production Manager

Circulation Manager

Advertising Manager

Michael Monk

Tami Tomlin

Tom MacLennan

P. O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556

(219)283-8661

P. O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN

(219)283-8661

2018 — page 6
Irish-Lion confrontation arrives

Two teams seem headed in opposite directions

By CHRIS NEEDLES
Sports Writer

Frustation.

Every college football coach can tell you all about it. Bear Bryant gets frustrated when Alabama can't get by Southern Mississippi. Dennis Green gets frustrated when Northwestern can't get by the stadium security guards.

Tomorrow, Joe Paterno and Gerry Faust will stand across the field from one another at Beaver Stadium. They will coach teams that must win to salvage what could have been great seasons.

For one of them, the frustration will continue.

They are remarkably similar, in many ways. For each, academics is the most important factor in the careers of his players.

"People who say winning or losing is all there is to college football are dead wrong," says Paterno. "The most important thing for these players is the education they receive while they're at Penn State.

"We feel that there is more to life, and especially to college life, than football," says the 16-year head coach. "We never practice on Friday. We rarely practice on Monday. These guys have other things to do, and we can't make unreasonable demands of them.

The primary reason for these men being in college is to get that education. It includes learning in the classroom and out of it. We try to give our players time to get a well-rounded education."

Faust, of course, is much the same. He has an impressive academic background. His time leading rusher. See story page 9 (AP Photo).

Key matchup

Coaches handle frustration, more

By SKIP DESJARDIN
Associate Sports Editor

Irish University Park, Pa. — A local food market here has been running a radio ad all season long that, like most other ads and billboards in this part of the country, extolls the praises of Penn State football. This particular ad, through was unique: "We're No. 1," says the grocer, "and we'll go undefeated."

"Until we play Notre Dame," he adds skeptically.

A man has to be a resident of Pennsylvania to realize the emotional significance of tomorrow's battle between Notre Dame and 16th ranked Penn State at Beaver Stadium. In this part of the country, a collection of small towns in a 50-mile radius of the university, followers thrive on their local high school's football game on Friday nights, and then gather around the radio on Saturday afternoons to cheer on Penn State.

These Pennsylvanians who, God forbid, don't like Penn State prefer to root for Notre Dame. Don't worry — nobody likes you.

So that is why, despite both teams' dis­ appointing records, tomorrow's battle with the Irish is considered to be, without a doubt, the Nittany Lions' biggest game of the season. The Beaver Stadium attendance record, 89,133, set last week against Alabama, should fall once again.

Rain is in the forecast for this afternoon, but it should turn much colder with a possibility of snow flurries by game time, with temperatures in the 30's.

The showdown is a tale of two teams going in vastly different directions. Coach Gerry Faust's Irish (5-4) have won three in a row in impressive fashion, having muscled the opposition.

But, as has been the case throughout recent history, history, Penn State was unable to win the big game — this time to Miami.

"We're going through a tough period right now," he says. "Slowly but surely, we're starting to improve our schedule, and we're feeling it. We opened a new era here by playing Alabama."

There are those who say that Paterno's biggest frustration is in never having won a national championship. He has been close a number of times, but "the big one" has always eluded him. A number of factors, including a habitually weak schedule, have contributed to that sad fact. And it is sad — for it can be said that Joe Paterno is one of the truly great coaches in football today.

Things may be changing, however. Paterno, who doubles as Penn State's athletic director, is building a tougher schedule for the Lions.

The realization that it's gotten tougher to win a national championship by playing Temple and Cincinnati has a lot to do with that decision.

"We opened a new era of Penn State foot­ ball with the game against Alabama," he says. "And the Notre Dame and Texases are coming up. We have to learn how to beat them. That's the next step for us."

"There's no scene in playing teams like that if you are not going to beat them."

Frustration.

Sure, it's frustrating," said Faust after the Irish lost to number one by losing four of its five last games. "I think it's probably been the most difficult part of my life. God must be test­ing me."

The Faust gym story is well known. Irish fans everywhere have shared in a little of the emotion on the coach and his players have been suffering through all year. But things are starting to roll again.

"We're looking better all the time," Faust says. "But it was a long, hard road."

It will be the classic match-up. The established coach, respected by his peers, a national champion by playing Temple and Cincinnati has a lot to do with that decision.

"We opened a new era of Penn State foot­ ball with the game against Alabama," he says. "And the Notre Dame and Texases are coming up. We have to learn how to beat them. That's the next step for us."

"There's no scene in playing teams like that if you are not going to beat them."

Frustration.

Sure, it's frustrating," said Faust after the Irish lost to number one by losing four of its five last games. "I think it's probably been the most difficult part of my life. God must be test­ing me."

The Faust gym story is well known. Irish fans everywhere have shared in a little of the emotion on the coach and his players have been suffering through all year. But things are starting to roll again.

"We're looking better all the time," Faust says. "But it was a long, hard road."

It will be the classic match-up. The established coach, respected by his peers, a national champion by playing Temple and Cincinnati has a lot to do with that decision.

"We opened a new era of Penn State foot­ ball with the game against Alabama," he says. "And the Notre Dame and Texases are coming up. We have to learn how to beat them. That's the next step for us."

"There's no scene in playing teams like that if you are not going to beat them."

Frustration.

Sure, it's frustrating," said Faust after the Irish lost to number one by losing four of its five last games. "I think it's probably been the most difficult part of my life. God must be test­ing me."

The Faust gym story is well known. Irish fans everywhere have shared in a little of the emotion on the coach and his players have been suffering through all year. But things are starting to roll again.

"We're looking better all the time," Faust says. "But it was a long, hard road."

It will be the classic match-up. The established coach, respected by his peers, a national champion by playing Temple and Cincinnati has a lot to do with that decision.

"We opened a new era of Penn State foot­ ball with the game against Alabama," he says. "And the Notre Dame and Texases are coming up. We have to learn how to beat them. That's the next step for us."

"There's no scene in playing teams like that if you are not going to beat them."

Frustration.

Sure, it's frustrating," said Faust after the Irish lost to number one by losing four of its five last games. "I think it's probably been the most difficult part of my life. God must be test­ing me."

The Faust gym story is well known. Irish fans everywhere have shared in a little of the emotion on the coach and his players have been suffering through all year. But things are starting to roll again.

"We're looking better all the time," Faust says. "But it was a long, hard road."

It will be the classic match-up. The established coach, respected by his peers, a national champion by playing Temple and Cincinnati has a lot to do with that decision.

"We opened a new era of Penn State foot­ ball with the game against Alabama," he says. "And the Notre Dame and Texases are coming up. We have to learn how to beat them. That's the next step for us."

"There's no scene in playing teams like that if you are not going to beat them. The normally staunch Lion defense was shredded for 469 total yards last week from Bama after yielding over 300 yards of the previous two weeks. Mark Robinson, a sophomore free safety, leads the defense with 5 tackles and junior defensive end Walker Lee Ashley has six quarterback sacks and has forced four fumbles. Defensive back Roger Warner has a pair of 200-yard efforts this season. By SKID DESJARDIN
Associate Sports Editor

The normally staunch Lion defense was shredded for 469 total yards last week from Bama after yielding over 300 yards of the previous two weeks. Mark Robinson, a sophomore free safety, leads the defense with 5 tackles and junior defensive end Walker Lee Ashley has six quarterback sacks and has forced four fumbles. Defensive back Roger Warner has a pair of 200-yard efforts this season. For each, academics is the most important fac­ tor in the careers of his players.

"People who say winning or losing is all there is to college football are dead wrong," says Paterno. "The most important thing for these players is the education they receive while they're at Penn State."

"We feel that there is more to life, and espe­ cially to college life, than football," says the 16-year head coach. "We never practice on Friday. We rarely practice on Monday. These guys have other things to do, and we can't make unreasonable demands of them.

The primary reason for these men being in college is to get that education. It includes learning in the classroom and out of it. We try to give our players time to get a well-rounded education."
Defensive Line Coach Bill Meyers of Notre Dame.

Defensive line of Bob Clasby, Tim Marshall, and Sean Farrell, a consensus all-American guard, are highly respected offensive line of the Nittany Lions faces the rapidly improving Irish.

Lions anchor the contingent. The Deerfield, Illinois, native is the team's third leading rusher with 146 yards. Sweeney also has totaled in 61 passes for 96 yards.

A three-year starter, Sweeney knows his role at Notre Dame. "I'm not the star who's going to score some points or rush for 100 yards," frankly explains Sweeney. "I'm being a team play, on offense and defense." He has a good sense for the game and for the future.

But, in no way is Faust taking Penn State lightly. "They're one of the finest teams in the country," he says. "They're very experienced at the different positions," explains Faust. "They have a lot more experience you can't buy".

Moriarty prior to the season opener with LSU, created a balance on the collegiate level but it was "a lot of work and a lot of frustration on the football field and that's the nature of the game." He feels that his best is yet to come.

A three-year starter, Sweeney knows his role at Notre Dame. "I'm not the star who's going to score some points or rush for 100 yards," frankly explains Sweeney. "I'm being a team play, on offense and defense." He has a good sense for the game and for the future.

But, in no way is Faust taking Penn State lightly. "They're one of the finest teams in the country," he says. "They're very experienced at the different positions," explains Faust. "They have a lot more experience you can't buy".

Moriarty prior to the season opener with LSU, created a balance on the collegiate level but it was "a lot of work and a lot of frustration on the football field and that's the nature of the game." He feels that his best is yet to come.

A three-year starter, Sweeney knows his role at Notre Dame. "I'm not the star who's going to score some points or rush for 100 yards," frankly explains Sweeney. "I'm being a team play, on offense and defense." He has a good sense for the game and for the future.

But, in no way is Faust taking Penn State lightly. "They're one of the finest teams in the country," he says. "They're very experienced at the different positions," explains Faust. "They have a lot more experience you can't buy".

Moriarty prior to the season opener with LSU, created a balance on the collegiate level but it was "a lot of work and a lot of frustration on the football field and that's the nature of the game." He feels that his best is yet to come.

A three-year starter, Sweeney knows his role at Notre Dame. "I'm not the star who's going to score some points or rush for 100 yards," frankly explains Sweeney. "I'm being a team play, on offense and defense." He has a good sense for the game and for the future.
Pineville's Joe Paterno and an assistant to Nebraska's Tom Osborne. After the game all three take their talking with Warner. Paterno gets the last and longest score in Paterno, who saves the tale play football, nevertheless offers him a scholarship.

Warner does not remember exactly how many schools recruited him. He made only two visits — to Pineville. West Virginia and Pittsburgh — and missed out on a trip to Notre Dame because of a snow storm. He felt much pressure to stay in town and work in Morgantown, but he fought that pressure and chose Paterno.

"I caught a lot of back for not going to West Virginia," he says. "I just didn't like their program. At Pineville I liked the guys on the team I got. I along with Coach Paterno really well. I just liked the big time atmosphere.

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better.

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not intimidated and neither are the other guys, I like the challenge. It helps me use my skills better."

"I'm not int...
The Irish Extra — ND vs. Penn State
Friday, November 20, 1981 — page 10

Fighting Irish vs. Nittany Lions

The Game

The Statistics

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TEAM STATISTICS</th>
<th>ND</th>
<th>OPP</th>
<th>RECEIVING</th>
<th>GU YD AVG TO LG</th>
<th>DEFENSE</th>
<th>TOTAL YDS PBU FR BK</th>
<th>PENALTIES-YARDS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SYSTEM STATISTICS</td>
<td>1 0 0 0</td>
<td>0 0 0 0</td>
<td>0 0 0 0</td>
<td>0 0 0 0</td>
<td>0 0 0 0</td>
<td>0 0 0 0</td>
<td>0 0 0 0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Lineups

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>THE LINEUPS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1 0 0 0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Peerless Prognosticators

Each week, the Observer sports staff makes picks with "Jimmy the Greek's" kickoff line. Results are in CAPITAL LETTERS.

MIKE OLEKNIK

Michigan over Ohio State by 13
Penn State over Michigan by 16

CHRIS NEEDLES

Wisconsin over Minnesota by 21

BILL MARQUARDT

Oklahoma State over Nebraska by 16

GARY GRASSEY

South Carolina over Arkansas by 16

MICHAEL ORTMANN

Penn State over Penn State by 1

KELLY SULLIVAN

Marshall over Texas by 1

MARK HANUSKA

Michigan over Nebraska by 13

The Peerless Prognosticators

Each week, the Observer sports staff makes picks with "Jimmy the Greek's" kickoff line. Results are in CAPITAL LETTERS.

MIKE OLEKNIK

Michigan over Ohio State by 13
Penn State over Michigan by 16

CHRIS NEEDLES

Wisconsin over Minnesota by 21

BILL MARQUARDT

Oklahoma State over Nebraska by 16

GARY GRASSEY

South Carolina over Arkansas by 16

MICHAEL ORTMANN

Penn State over Penn State by 1

KELLY SULLIVAN

Marshall over Texas by 1

MARK HANUSKA

Michigan over Nebraska by 13
BUSCH. The official beer of The Charlie Daniels Band.
Another trip to Michigan is next on the agenda for the Notre Dame wrestling team. Coach Brother Joe Bruno's wrestlers will participate in the Michigan Invitational Tournament on Saturday, which will be run by team members placed at the Michigan State Tournament in East Lansing. The trip to Ann Arbor is the third of six straight meets on the road before the season opener November 9. — The Observer

Notre Dame's Rowing Club will hold a mandatory practice for the men's varsity tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the ACC Fieldhouse. Novices are welcome. — The Observer

BASKETBALL

The Ten Top Weekend Basketball Games in Notre Dame territory are in progress. The games will be played in various places, and the records and totals points are as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Game</th>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Central Division

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Home Team</th>
<th>Visitor</th>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Western Conference

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Home Team</th>
<th>Visitor</th>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

TAMPA BAY, Sept. 23 — The University of Notre Dame basketball team will play three exhibition games in Florida during the next three days, the first of which will be at the University of Tampa Friday night.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Home Team</th>
<th>Visitor</th>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Player</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Associated Press
Southern schools rated highly

ATLANTA (AP) — Coach Joe B. Hall of Kentucky says pre-season basketball ratings won't mean much this year because "there's an awful lot of balance." Hall's Wildcats, a perennial Southeastern Conference power, are likely to be highly rated this season along with several other Southern powers, including 1981 national runner-up North Carolina and third-place finisher Virginia of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Louisville of the Metro Conference and Alabama-Birmingham of the Sun Belt Conference "There's an awful lot of talent spread all over the country and until next year 10 games are played, you really can't tell," Hall said. "There will be some teams come out of the pack that are equally as good as those that are ranked high." With 7-1 Sam Bowie sidelined with a fractured shin bone, Kentucky could have trouble just trying to win the SEC, Georgia, a newcomer to the league's basketball elite, and Alabama return enough starters to give the talent-laden Wildcats a fight.

Bowie wore a cast for eight weeks, but Hall recently said the bone had not healed as expected and his star center could miss a month or more of the season.

Coach Dean Smith lost All-American Guard Al Wood from last year's team, but North Carolina figures to be the strongest outfit in the South this year.

The front line will feature two talented 6-9 performers — James Worthy and Sam Perkins — and Jimmy Black returns to run the attack from point guard. The Tar Heels are counting heavily on 6-4 freshman Michael Jordan, who has a 42-inch vertical leap.

"If the players we have returning, we should have a good team," Smith said. "But we can't have any false confidence. We're young. We'll learn what we have to work with early." Virginia lost two outstanding players in Jeff Lamp and Lee Raker, but the Cavaliers can't be counted out of the picture because of one man — 6-5 Ralph Sampson, college basketball's Player of the Year last season.

Wake Forest, with four starters back, and Clemson also could be in contention in the ACC race. Louisville, which has one national title under Denny Crum, has every starter returning from a team that had a horrendous start a year ago before coming on late and returning to the NCAA tournament.

"Naturally we would be picked to win, but the Metro has had a lot of surprises in the past and anything can happen in this league," Crum said.

The Cardinals feature Derrick Smith, last year's Metro Co-Player of the Year, the McCrays — Rodney and Scooter — and point guard Jerry Eaves.

---

Southern schools rated highly continues...

...with Memphis State and UCLA. Rose carried the first Sun Belt champion, North Carolina-Chaufente, to the Final Four and then went to Purdue, which also made an NCAA tournament appearance.

Barrow has the preseason favorite, a team led by the smooth style of Oliver Robinson. The question will be how well UAB replaces Glenn Marcus, who ran the team from point guard.

Virginia Commonwealth, which also went to the NCAA last year, and two National Invitation Tournament teams, South Alabama and Rose's South Florida club, are expected to make the Sun Belt race a four-team affair.

Western Carolina has four starter almost 34 points a game last year — and generally is considered the team to beat in the Southern Conference. For the second consecutive season, the conference will experiment with the 3-point field goal at the NCAA's request.

Furman, which got 22 points a game from Mel Daniel last year, figures to be the most serious challenger to the Catamounts. Appalachian and Tennessee-Chattanooga also must be considered.

---

Southern schools rated highly concludes.

---

How to recognize the real taste of beer at 17,000 feet

---

Cosimo's Hair Design
18461 St Rd. 23 South Bend
Call for appointment 277-1875

---

NOVEMBER SPECIAL!

- shampoo, conditioner, cut style
Guys - $7.00 (reg. 13.00)
Girls - $10.00 (reg. 18.00)

* with Co-Designers only
By MICHAEL OLENIK
Sports Writer

They might not be in the middle of the spotlight, but Len Moher and Terry Fairholm seem pretty satisfied with the position that they are in. You see, both are in their second year as Lefty Smith's right and left hand men, and this time it's not as Smith's most relied upon players. The importance of these two to the Irish hockey program now lies on the bench and in the locker room, as the two former teammates from the '74 through '78 Notre Dame hockey editions combine for what is considered in league hockey circles to be a very solid coaching staff.

Moher, a standout goaltender all four of his college years, serves as Smith's full-time assistant and recruiting coordinator, a job that keeps him more than busy. "I coach the goaltenders and the defensemen, and I also recruit. During the games I sit in the press box to diagram what we are doing and to see what adjustments are needed."

Moher's experience in the crease gives him a chance to coach the defense from a different perspective, as he is quick to point out. "Hey, I've played with defensemen enough to know what a goaltender looks for. I almost empathize the goalie with a teammate who is on the back with respect to the defense, because of the way that he directs his teammates. Because I'm the only guide coach in the league, I think we have a little extra advantage."

Moher seems intent on stressing Notre Dame's recruiting philosophy. Despite losing a good number of prime recruits each year due to Notre Dame's high academic standards, the native of Wellesley, Mass., offers positive comments on the system as a whole. "The hockey program here at Notre Dame is successful. We've recruited consistently ranked nationally, and that draws the attention of many quality players. I tell the recruits that they can be a heck of an academic and athletic world. As I've said, the combination is only ranked nationally in genuine — every hockey player in 13 years has earned a degree."

As far as his continued involvement in hockey, Moher sees only positive repercussions. "Hockey is the sort of sport that is difficult to walk away from. I am fortunate to be a part of something I've been doing since I was about 10 years old."

Tonight: 9:00-10:30 enjoy the talented RAIDERS OF THE LOST ARK
Slavs 2:15-4:30- 2:15-4:30-7:15-9:25
CALL: 219/234-3712

Celebrate the last weekend before break at the O bserver — Sports

RAIDERS OF THE LOST ARK
Slavs 2:15-4:30- 2:15-4:30-7:15-9:25
CALL: 219/234-3712

RAIDERS OF THE LOST ARK
Slavs 2:15-4:30- 2:15-4:30-7:15-9:25
CALL: 219/234-3712
Molarity

TUES. TURN OUT DOG TO RONDOHR'S WITH THAT CRANK PADDON SCREW MY GLASSES O N THE MAN BEHIND THE OPERATION

WE'RE PROGRESSING THIS- CAMDEONE FOR SOME TIME, I THINK I CAN HAVE A CHANGE (THROUGH, IT'S THE TIME WE WAIT Days FROM RIGHT TO BACT PM

DON'T BE CAREFUL - ALL lit. COUNTING AND RECORDER, IN FACT, IT SEEMS EASIER TO BACT PM

Doonesbury

YOU SEE, WALTER, THE TRICK THAT MAYBE YOU'RE POLI

YOU'RE SO DARN AFFABLE AND YOUR CIRCLES AREN'T SO BAP AFTER ALL.

Simon

IT'S NOTHIN; WITH A LIBERAL UP li 4.I KI. J I. WTH I 11.1 I. I C/W. IF, IT'S NOTHIN;.

If you have the RSPUR, you'll see the BISHOP SCHEMED THE WHOLE EVENT WHICH NORMALLY GEECE FOR ATINO THE MANY AREN'T YOU THE MAN FILES? UP A M E A T STORY IN THE SATANIC MONTHLY...

Michael Molinelli

OH, IF YOU KNOW I CAN'T MAKE AN END, YOU DON'T KNOW THE WHOLE MEAN. I DON'T MIND THE S NAPS OF MAT... FOR CHRIST'S SAKE?

Garry Trudeau

49 A11, I THE MAN FILES IT ' S A BISHOP.

Jeb Cashin

NEW YORK. AMERICA! EVERYWHERE IS IT. EVERYWHERE IS IT. EVERYWHERE AS IT IS.

73 Y O U  S E E , W AL T E R , T H E TRICK THAT MAYBE Y O U ' R E SO D A R N A F F A B L E

The Daily Crossword

All Rights Reserved

ACROSS
1. Trestle (20)
5. The rain (20)
10. Windjammer (20)
14. Hebrew (20)
15. Mountain (20)
16. Parishioner (20)
17. Famed hit (20)
19. Kys of giants (20)
20. Uses a heat process (20)
21. Stuck (20)
22. Guidance (20)
24. — genesis (20)
25. Actress (20)
29. Physicians (20)
32. Double pole (20)
36. Regarded loss (20)
38. Pathology (20)
40. Ridge (20)
41. Milan money (20)
42. Broadway (20)
44. Hit (20)
45. Cut of meat (20)
46. Bison (20)
47. Liver (20)
49. Genome (20)
50. — advent (20)
52. — diet (20)
53. Old poem (20)
54. Mrs. in Madrid (20)
55. City on the Danube (20)
56. Shaded mall (20)
57. Orderly (20)
58. Silent star (20)
59. Once's own legs (20)
60. Way (20)
61. Dallas campus (20)
62. One's own (20)
63. J o b y ' s wife (20)
64. He had a session (20)
65. Jane or Zane (20)
66. Down (20)
67. Type (20)
68. Neglected person (20)
69. — pan (20)
70. Confusion (20)
71. Comic Mort (20)
72. Name (20)
73. Relative of the site (20)
74. Small world (20)
75. Must have (20)
76. U.S.M.C. base (20)
77. Location (20)
78. Addressed the ball (20)
79. — down (20)
80. — back (20)

DOWN
1. Type of book
2. — night
3. Confusion
4. Comic Mort and family
5. Minnesota college
6. Relative of the site
7. Small world
8. — milk
9. — must have
10. U.S.M.C. base
11. Location
12. Addressed the ball
13. — down
14. — back
15. — night
16. — milk
17. — milk
18. — back
19. — night
20. — milk
21. — milk
22. — back
23. — milk
24. — night
25. — milk
26. — back
27. — milk
28. — night
29. — milk
30. — back
31. — milk
32. — night
33. — milk
34. — back
35. — milk
36. — night
37. — milk
38. — back
39. — milk
40. — night
41. — milk
42. — back
43. — milk
44. — night
45. — milk
46. — back
47. — milk
48. — night
49. — milk
50. — back
51. — milk
52. — night
53. — milk
54. — back
55. — milk
56. — back
57. — milk
58. Confusion
59. Comic Mort
60. Comic Mort and family
61. Relative of the site
62. Small world
63. Must have
64. U.S.M.C. base
65. Location
66. Addressed the ball

Thursday's Solution

Campus

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20

10:10 a.m. — Seminar. "Ecological, Engineering and Legal Aspects of Power Plant Operation on the Hudson River." Dr. John P. Waller, Waller, Matsukey and Skelly Engineers, 205 Cushint, Sponsored by Environmental Engineers, All are welcome.
12:15 p.m. — Meeting, Italian Club, Faculty Dining Room, South Dining Hall, All Italian speaking professors are invited.
12:15 p.m. — Slide presentation. "Add a Little Salt To Your Undergraduate Years", Chris Patriciak, ND Biology Major, Galvin Auditorium, Sponsored by Biology Department, All are invited.
12:15 p.m. — Lecture, "Thomas More's Utopia: A Socioeconomic Dialogue", Gerard Wegener, ND graduate student, Memorial Library Lounge, All are welcome.
3:30 p.m. — Colloquium. "How to Find Truths in Physics That Will Survive the Failure of Our Best Current Theories", Dr. Charles Meiner, University of Maryland, 118 Newland Science Hall, Sponsored by Physics and Philosophy Department, All are welcome.
4:5 p.m. — Spanish club tertulia, south alcove on main floor, LaFortune, Venga past, baldor con nosotros y practicar el arte de conversar!
7:9, 11 a.m. — Film, "Every Which Way But Loose", Engineering Auditorium, $1 admission.
8 p.m. — ND/SMC Theatre, "The Inspector General", By Nicholas Gogol, Washington Hall, Tickets available at the door.
8 p.m. — Country Rock Jam, Ozark Mountain Daredevils, Sept 14th, Sponsored by Student Union, $5 advance, $6 at door.
8 p.m. — Basketball, ND vs Yugoslavia, Ohio State, Athletic and Convocation Center.
8 p.m. — Basketball, ND vs Yugoslavia, Athletic and Convocation Center.
8:30 p.m. — Colloquium, "Geometry in Physics. Einsteinian are New Unifications", Charles Meiner, University of Maryland, Memorial Library Auditorium, Sponsored by Physics and Philosophy Departments, All are invited.
Saturday, November 21
1 p.m. — Football, ND vs Penn State Away.
7, 9, 11 a.m. — Film, "Every Which Way But Loose", Engineering Auditorium, $1 admission.
7:30 p.m. — Hockey, ND vs Ohio State, Athletic and Convocation Center.
8 p.m. — ND/SMC Theatre, "The Inspector General", Washington Hall, Tickets available at the door.
Sunday, November 22
5 p.m. — Film, "Stepping Out. The Debuts Grow Up", Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's College, Sponsored by Saint Mary's Social Action Committee, Refreshments will be served.
8 p.m. — Concert, Wind Ensemble, Roger Briggs conductor. Little Theatre, Saint Mary's College.
8:15 p.m. — Concert, University Church, Marilyn White, conductor, Sacred Heart Church.

Television Tonight

8:00 p.m. — 16 NBC Magazine
22 "Dukes of Hazzard"
28 "Work of the Network Wars"
34 "Washington Week in Review"
46 "Local Summit Teaching"
8:30 p.m. — 34 Wall Street Week
40 "The Reading Mind"
9:00 p.m. — 22 "McLain's Law"
22 "Dukes of Hazzard"
34 "Enterprise"
46 "Today With Lester Sontroll"
9:30 p.m. — "The Wall Street Journal"
1:00 a.m. — 16 "It's Only Human"
20 "The Pill"
28 "Strike Force"

Bring your TV Remote control to Senior Bar and buy your first draft for a penny! TONIGHT!
Irish play host to Ohio State

By MICHAEL OLENIK
Sports Writer

A feeling of immediacy is being felt by Lehigh Sweetwater. He's a 2-1-1 football player, as last week's two losses to Michigan State has left the Lehigh Sweetwater with only victory in their last two league games. There is as hope however, that the Ohio State Buckeyes will provide the prey that is needed to set the Irish back on the winning path early in the season.

The season has not laid positive overtures for the team from Columbus either, as Ohio State is mired in tenth place of the CCHA, one notch below the struggling Michigan. The loss and a loss in the 3-1-1 Buckeye record stems from the league opening series between the two teams back in October, and is very likely that Jerry Weil's team will be looking for some type of redemption.

"They (Notre Dame) have proven they're not a teamical team by the way they've been playing lately," said Weil of the Irish. "They faced them earlier, they played extremely well and would have been better for anyone to beat. We know their personnel now, and know which players to key on. Plus, we played badly against them the first time that I don't really think they saw them the way we really are. I've seen them play twice and as such, we have been." A shakiness in the first three lines gave the Irish defense some balance against the Spartans last week, and it may be a surprise if the Buckeyes will facilitate a team comeback if issues were to rear their ugly heads.

With Bill Rothstein now teamed with Kirt Byrk and Jeff Loggan, the two coaches are trying to complement the solid first shift of Scott Thomas, Jeffery Pery and Jeff Draney.

Rothstein has taken over as point leader with 13 (5 goals, 10 assists), while Pery and Byrk pace the goalscoring with five apiece in league play.

Despite being bailed out by last week's series, Dave Laurin remains stable in the net with a 3.86 g.a.a. and a league-leading 233 saves. Consistently good play from Laurin will be necessary if the team is to change the 8-7 conference record this season.

"Ohio State can definitely be classified as a physical, real team. I think we finished out our season with 3-4 shots throughout the series, but we stumbled in the second period," said Rothstein. For a tenth place team, the Buckeyes boast a relatively solid attack team as per John Darnell and John Dougan have been used for a great time in league gamess. Darnell's 3.12 average places him in a league that is doing what's not usually done — a fact that the Irish need not be reminded of.

Reasons for Notre Dame's recent play are hard to pinpoint for any observer, but Rothstein certainly gave a good attempt early this week: "We could point to one specific thing, but actually it's a combination of problems which are causing us to lose. We are just not executing the basic fundamentals of hockey. And in that respect we've done exactly what we've been." A shakiness in the first three lines gave the Irish offense some balance against the Spartans last week, and it may be that the Buckeyes will facilitate a team comeback if issues were to rear their ugly heads.

The problem is definitely more basic for the Buckeyes. Their defense is not quite as good this year. "We aren't passing, skating the hard way," said Rothstein.

There is no doubt that an improvement in all three departments will be needed for the Buckeyes to erase the last three weekends from their memory. But with this week's games is set for 7:30, with tickets available at the Gate 10 box office.

Yugoslavian squad presents problems

By SKIP DESJARDIN
Associate Sports Editor

Digger Phelps and his assistants have had a tough task this week. They have had to prepare their team, they know nothing about. When Belgrade's Red Star Club from Yugoslavia took the floor last Tuesday night, the Carolina調べ will be just as much a surprise to the Carolina coaching staff as they will be to the Red Star players.

There are two Yugoslavian teams touring the country right now, and little information is known about them. Despite some help from the fabled Sports Information Office has no information on them.

"We've seen them play," says Assistant Coach Gary Brook. "But don't ask me any names. All I know is their numbers." Despite being tainted by last season's 180-0 loss to Drake, the 6-7-1 Bulldogs are a different team this year. Their defense is much tighter, just as their offense has improved. Their goalies have been burning the nets on the team's American Tour. He was 8-10 for 24 points against Drake, and 8-11 for 16 points against James Madison. That percentage is not indicative of much in the way of a Yugoslavian team, but is a sign of the club's shooting ability. Thus far on their tour, they are averaging 56.6 percent from the floor.

Part of the reason that Irish coaches are hopeful of their team's chances is the way they have been handling defensive formations tonight that they did in last Sunday's charity game.

"We're quicker than they are, so it's a good team for us to try to mix up our defenses as well, just to keep them off-balance a little. They're quick enough for us to have them off-balance a little," said Rothstein. The man to watch for Belgrade is 5-10 guard Jerry Radovic, who will number 11 tonight, is a legitimate star — he is averaging 18 points per game on the tour. Against Drake, he was 18-18 on his 18-18 guard has been burning the nets on the team's American Tour. He was 8-10 for 24 points against Drake, and 8-11 for 16 points against James Madison. That percentage is not indicative of much in the way of a Yugoslavian team, but is a sign of the club's shooting ability. Thus far on their tour, they are averaging 56.6 percent from the floor.

Part of the reason that Irish coaches are hopeful of their team's chances is the way they have been handling defensive formations tonight that they did in last Sunday's charity game.

"We're quicker than they are, so it's a good team for us to try to mix up our defenses as well, just to keep them off-balance a little. They're quick enough for us to have them off-balance a little," said Rothstein. The man to watch for Belgrade is 5-10 guard Jerry Radovic, who will number 11 tonight, is a legitimate star — he is averaging 18 points per game on the tour. Against Drake, he was 18-18 on his 18-18