Former diplomat discusses career

By VIC SCIULLI

News Editor

In other business, Yonchak completed his interviews with the rectors of the women's dorms regarding the social life at Notre Dame. He reported that they did not think most Notre Dame women would be adverse to paying for parties. Yonchak will send a proposal to the men's dorms considering the possibility of charging women at the door for hall social events. "It's by no means mandatory that guy's dorms do this," he said.

Steve Orsini was the sixth senator to address the students at the Senate meeting, Yonchak said he will try to convince Father Ted to implement some of the ideas. He said he would try to come over for Mass, but never got here. I assume he couldn't get through the cordon around the hotel. Ernesto Sol did get through with his wife and young son. He had Mass about seven o'clock this morning. I authorized the President and was at our alumni meeting in Panama last July. He said he would try to come over for Mass, but never got here. I assume he couldn't get through the cordon around the hotel.

At eight o'clock, we were over in the Camino Real Hotel in the boondocks tomorrow to watch the balloting. The Left has said that there is no hot water for the shower, but checking later, found that everyone else had it. Rolando Duarte called about 3:15. He is the brother of the President and was at our alumni meeting in Panama last July. He said he would try to come over for Mass, but never got here. I assume he couldn't get through the cordon around the hotel.

Student Body President Lloyd Burke also asked the students to consider whether the $25 student activities fee is desired qualification for a personal dedication to peace and justice is the most highly desired qualification for a diplomat, according to Wilkowski. Patience, strength, and diplomacy are the personal representatives of the president of their country and they must act the part," she said. "Ambassadors are also supposed to turn in a reasonably good job of reading lines." Wilkowski could not easily define the function of an ambassador. "Ambassadors are the personal representatives of the president of their country and they must act the part," she said. "Ambassadors are also supposed to turn in a reasonably good job of reading lines that are sent out by their governments to guide them in dealing with other nations, sometimes in such lofty and fierce matters as war and peace, but mostly in rather mundane matters.

There are a number of qualities which attract people to foreign service. Patriotism and the romance of travel are among these attractive qualities, though Wilkowski stresses the importance of "in and out of fashion." The former ambassador believes that foreign affairs provide for the individual - being in the center of important events and having a feeling of contributing to what draws many people to foreign service.

"I was a Foreign Service Officer," said Wilkowski, "becoming an ambassador has absolutely nothing to do with how well he or she knows the President. But it has everything to do in the case of political persons and Presidential campaign supporters.

Claire Booth Luce and Ann Armstrong, who were appointed as Ambassadors to Italy and London, respectively, make the point. Fewer and fewer of the first adventures into multilateral diplomacy was on an assignment to Geneva, Switzerland, in the 60's. There she was part of the U.S. team negotiating with the European Community for membership in the international institution GATT, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trades. The assignment made Wilkowski keenly aware of the enormous complexity of finding consensus on economic issues among 50 to 100 countries.

Wilkowski's most important work in Zambia involved efforts to make U.S. foreign policy in South Africa "more realistic and less rhetorical" in support of majority rule. Specifically, I sought Washington's authorization to send ambassadors in the area to have direct contact and dialogue with the leaders of the liberation movements who were clearly destined to become the future presidents of their countries. These and other recommenda tions, the embassies were to find their way into a restructured U.S. foreign policy which Wilkowski was involved in during his first trip to Africa in 1976.

Wilkowski's most important work in Zambia involved efforts to make U.S. foreign policy in South Africa "more realistic and less rhetorical" in support of majority rule. Specifically, I sought Washington's authorization to send ambassadors in the area to have direct contact and dialogue with the leaders of the liberation movements who were clearly destined to become the future presidents of their countries. These and other recommendations, the embassies were to find their way into a restructured U.S. foreign policy which Wilkowski was involved in during his first trip to Africa in 1976.

Wilkowski, who has served under eight presidents and 12 secretaries of state commented on her relationship with former Secretary of State Kissinger. "There were pains to keep out of each other's hair and to maintain your own," she said. "Maybe that is why our relationship never achieved the degree of mutual admiration it might have." Personal dedication to peace and justice is the most highly desired qualification for a diplomat, according to Wilkowski. Patience, strength, and diplomacy are the personal representatives of the president of their country and they must act the part," she said. "Ambassadors are also supposed to turn in a reasonably good job of reading lines.

Wilkowski conclud ed her lecture with a discussion on the get through of a liberal arts education. "Without knowledge and understanding of other cultures and some language proficiency, I do not believe that any college graduate can claim a truly liberal college education. Nor do I believe that he or she can function in a personally satisfying way in the kind of liberty today. Our country needs college graduates who can play a leadership role as informal and articulate citizens.

Salvador trip

Hesburgh's story continues

By DAN KOPP

Staff reporter

Student Body President Bob Yonchak said that he will request a larger student ticket allocation from the Athletic Department for next season's football games with the Western State.

During last night's Student Senate meeting, Yonchak said he will try to convince Father Loyola to hire Ticket Manager Steve Orsini that students should receive more than the usual 200 tickets for at least one away game. "It's still going to be a long shot, but I'll keep working on it," Yonchak said.

In other business, Yonchak mentioned that he has almost completed his interviews with the rectors of the women's dorms regarding the social life at Notre Dame. He reported that they did not think most Notre Dame women would be adverse to paying for parties. Yonchak will send a proposal to the men's dorms considering the possibility of charging women at the door for hall social events. "It's by no means mandatory that guy's dorms do this," he said.

Steve Body President Lloyd Burke also asked the students to consider whether the $25 student activities fee is desired qualification for a personal dedication to peace and justice is the most highly desired qualification for a diplomat, according to Wilkowski. Patience, strength, and diplomacy are the personal representatives of the president of their country and they must act the part," she said. "Ambassadors are also supposed to turn in a reasonably good job of reading lines that are sent out by their governments to guide them in dealing with other nations, sometimes in such lofty and fierce matters as war and peace, but mostly in rather mundane matters.

There are a number of qualities which attract people to foreign service. Patriotism and the romance of travel are among these attractive qualities, though Wilkowski stresses the importance of "in and out of fashion." The former ambassador believes that foreign affairs provide for the individual - being in the center of important events and having a feeling of contributing to what draws many people to foreign service.

"I was a Foreign Service Officer," said Wilkowski, "becoming an ambassador has absolutely nothing to do with how well he or she knows the President. But it has everything to do in the case of political persons and Presidential campaign supporters.

Claire Booth Luce and Ann Armstrong, who were appointed as Ambassadors to Italy and London, respectively, make the point. Fewer and fewer of the first adventures into multilateral diplomacy was on an assignment to Geneva, Switzerland, in the 60's. There she was part of the U.S. team negotiating with the European Community for membership in the international institution GATT, the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trades. The assignment made Wilkowski keenly aware of the enormous complexity of finding consensus on economic issues among 50 to 100 countries.

Wilkowski's most important work in Zambia involved efforts to make U.S. foreign policy in South Africa "more realistic and less rhetorical" in support of majority rule. Specifically, I sought Washington's authorization to send ambassadors in the area to have direct contact and dialogue with the leaders of the liberation movements who were clearly destined to become the future presidents of their countries. These and other recommendations, the embassies were to find their way into a restructured U.S. foreign policy which Wilkowski was involved in during his first trip to Africa in 1976.

Up again with the first light shortly after six. I thought I was back in Cambodia because there was no hot water for the shower, but checking later, found that everyone else had it. Rolando Duarte called about 3:15. He is the brother of the President and was at our alumni meeting in Panama last July. He said he would try to come over for Mass, but never got here. I assume he couldn't get through the cordon around the hotel.

Enrneo Sol did get through with his wife and young son. He had Mass about seven o'clock this morning. I authorized the President and was at our alumni meeting in Panama last July. He said he would try to come over for Mass, but never got here. I assume he couldn't get through the cordon around the hotel.

There was a large flap last night about the problem of numbers on the ballot. The end of the ballot has a perforated edge with a number that is marked down when a person has registered. The dilemma is that without the number, you cannot prevent illegal voting, but if the number is left on the ballot, then the ballot is not really secret. Somehow you have to accommodate both values, so we suggested that the person either detach the number and burn it or detach the number and drop it in the urn with the ballot so there is no connection between the ballot and the number in the registration.

In any event, all of the political parties are meeting this morning to try to untie this little snarl that came up at the last moment.

TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1982
Argentina not softening

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) - An official source who asked not to be identified said Argentina's willingness to forego immediate British recognition of Argentine sovereignty over the islands should not be interpreted as an abandonment of its previously stated position. He said the Argentine government considers United Nations handling of the sovereignty issue a process toward recognizing Argentine rights. The U.N. General Assembly, dominated by the developing nations, has included the Falklands on a list of territories to be "decolonized."

Woman astronaut named

WASHINGTON (AP) - Dr. Sally Ride, an astrophysicist, will become America's first woman in space next year as a crew member for the seventh flight of the space shuttle, NASA announced yesterday. Ms. Ride, 30, is to fly with three male astronauts, all military officers, on the second mission of the second shuttle, the Challenger. The flight, scheduled for six days, is set for liftoff April 20, 1983. She will serve as a mission specialist, working with three satellites that are to be placed in orbit from the ship's cargo bay. They are a West German scientific satellite and communications satellites for Telesat of Canada and the Indonesian government.

Budget could be balanced

WASHINGTON (AP) - Former President Carter's chief economic aide today said today the federal budget could be balanced by 1985 if President Reagan and Congress compromise on a combination of tax increases, military spending cuts and scaled back cost-of-living increases in Social Security. Without a compromise, Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers from 1977 to January 1981, said the deficit will become even more serious because the government's credit demands will be mushrooming at a time when the Federal Reserve Board is committed to slowing inflation by restricting the growth of money for which borrowers will have to vie.

Syria acts against Iran

BEIRUT - Lebanon (AP) - Syria's President Hafez Assad has closed his country's borders with Iraq and halted the flow of oil, apparently deciding the time is ripe to bring down the long-time rival regime in Baghdad. Assad's action also is likely to help Iran in its border war with Iraq over the vital Shatt el-Arab Persian Gulf waterway. "The Syrian government apparently feels that (Iraqi president) Saddam Hussein is now ripe to take on the country's borders. They have decided to bring down the border war," said a Syrian analyst, who declined to be identified. The independent economic An Nahar Arab Report and Business Monitor predicted Syria's move would likely increase Iraq's dependency on oil-rich Arab creditors on the Persian Gulf and further drain cash reserves, estimated to be half their $30 billion level before the Iran-Iraq war began in September 1980.

Rainy weather

WEATHER Continued cloudy and colder with showers, possibly mixed with snow. High 43 degrees. -AP
...Hesburgh

I sat with Clark Kerr and listened to Bustamante for about a half hour with our guard immediately behind us. It's a curious way of life that one has to get used to with a guard always present and always with his hand on the butt of a 45. Since we knew most of the things that were being asked by journalists from all over the world (we later learned that there were between 400 and 700 of them here), we left the meeting early. I went to the American Embassy, which is called Fort Apache. It is an amazing embassy and perhaps a sign of the post-Teheran times. We had to go in the back way, not the front, and then through guarded corridors, people at every intersection with handguns and rifles and shotguns, and then up through corridors where every opening was covered with barred protection and every door was solid steel with a combination entry lock. We finally entered the Ambassador's office and found him relaxed, as usual. We then went down to the basement of the building to meet with the young military instructors who are among the fifty-some assigned to this counter.

We then went up to the roof and looked over the whole city from this vantage point. It's a beautiful city situated between volcanic mountains and stretching out north and south. We also visited the four or five Marine posts on the top of the roof. These poor guys have to sit in flak jackets all day long (very warm) with mortars and rapid fire automatic rifles at hand. It's not very good duty, since the California-type weather here gets warm at noontime, especially if one is sitting on a roof.

From there, we went back to the hotel where we had a real Notre Dame lunch. We began with Rolando Duarte, the brother of the President, and Armando Palomo and Ernesto Sol, whom I mentioned yesterday. Later, as the Mariachi band started up, we were joined by the President of the Junta and my former student Napoleon Duarte. I must say that all of the eyes were raised as he walked into the room and gave me a big hug. As usual, he had his own guard, a captain in the Army, who was staying very close to him, also hand on butt of gun.

Drama! Art! Music!

Freshmen

Apply to be the 1982-1983 Cultural Arts Assistant Commissioner

Applications are being accepted from Friday, April 16 up until Friday, April 23. Come pick up your application in the Student Union office.

Mr. Goodbar Clue

Mr. Goodbar Clue

FOR MONDAY NIGHT—Here is clue two in the "Looking for Mr. Goodbar" contest.

Historically, campus clergy have sought to foster spiritual growth of Notre Dame students, helping them find direction in their spiritual lives. One priest, through help of the church's smooth way, Father Walsh, renowned for University help in finding direction in their spiritual lives, was covered with barred corridors where every opening was covered with barred protection and every door was solid steel with a combination entry lock. We finally entered the Ambassador's office and found him relaxed, as usual. We then went down to the basement of the building to meet with the young military instructors who are among the fifty-some assigned to this counter.

IF YOU HAVE AT LEAST TWO YEARS OF COLLEGE, you can take your paid vacation every three months. If you join the Army Reserve at the end of this year, you'll get paid vacation every three months, as an Army officer. You'll earn over $100 a month and $100 a month as a Reservist, in addition to one's income as an Army officer. It's a curious way of life that one has to get used to with a guard always present and always with his hand on the butt of a 45. Since we knew most of the things that were being asked by journalists from all over the world (we later learned that there were between 400 and 700 of them here), we left the meeting early. I went to the American Embassy, which is called Fort Apache. It is an amazing embassy and perhaps a sign of the post-Teheran times. We had to go in the back way, not the front, and then through guarded corridors, people at every intersection with handguns and rifles and shotguns, and then up through corridors where every opening was covered with barred protection and every door was solid steel with a combination entry lock. We finally entered the Ambassador's office and found him relaxed, as usual. We then went down to the basement of the building to meet with the young military instructors who are among the fifty-some assigned to this counter.

IF YOU HAVE AT LEAST TWO YEARS OF COLLEGE, you can take your paid vacation every three months. If you join the Army Reserve at the end of this year, you'll get paid vacation every three months, as an Army officer. You'll earn over $100 a month and $100 a month as a Reservist, in addition to one's income as an Army officer. It's a curious way of life that one has to get used to with a guard always present and always with his hand on the butt of a 45. Since we knew most of the things that were being asked by journalists from all over the world (we later learned that there were between 400 and 700 of them here), we left the meeting early. I went to the American Embassy, which is called Fort Apache. It is an amazing embassy and perhaps a sign of the post-Teheran times. We had to go in the back way, not the front, and then through guarded corridors, people at every intersection with handguns and rifles and shotguns, and then up through corridors where every opening was covered with barred protection and every door was solid steel with a combination entry lock. We finally entered the Ambassador's office and found him relaxed, as usual. We then went down to the basement of the building to meet with the young military instructors who are among the fifty-some assigned to this counter.

IF YOU HAVE AT LEAST TWO YEARS OF COLLEGE, you can take your paid vacation every three months. If you join the Army Reserve at the end of this year, you'll get paid vacation every three months, as an Army officer. You'll earn over $100 a month and $100 a month as a Reservist, in addition to one's income as an Army officer.
Research Update

AN AWARD OF $92,581 from the Indiana State Board of Health for arbovirus surveillance laboratory service directed by Dr. Paul Grimstad, assistant professor of biology, heads funding of 707,292 during March for the University of Notre Dame’s research, instructional, and service programs. Research awards totalling $601,561 included:

- $179,154 from the National Institutes of Health for research in elementary particle physics by Dr. John Poitier, professor of physics.
- $93,559 from the National Science Foundation for research of radiation convection interaction in heat transfer by Dr. John Lloyd, and Dr. Kwang-Tzu Yang, professors of aerospace and mechanical engineering.
- $81,342 from the National Institutes of Health for a biomedical research support grant to be administered by Dr. Robert Gordon, professor of biology and vice president for advanced studies.
- $155,000 from the National Science Foundation for research in elementary particle physics by Dr. John Poitier, professor of physics.
- $179,154 from the National Institutes of Health for research in elementary particle physics by Dr. John Poitier, professor of physics.
- $135,000 from the National Science Foundation for research in elementary particle physics by Dr. John Poitier, professor of physics.
- $179,154 from the National Institutes of Health for research in elementary particle physics by Dr. John Poitier, professor of physics.
- $179,154 from the National Institutes of Health for research in elementary particle physics by Dr. John Poitier, professor of physics.

Chemistry prof delivers Reilly Lectures

Dr. Sheldon G. Shore, professor of chemistry at Ohio State University, will deliver the Reilly Lectures in chemistry at the University of Notre Dame during the week of April 19.

His first talk, given yesterday afternoon, dealt with systematic approaches to the preparation and study of small boron hydrides and relationships to metalloborane and metal cluster systems. On Wednesday he will speak on metalloborane analogues of organometallic systems, concluding Friday with approaches to the preparation and study of metal cluster systems and reactivities of ruthenium cluster anions on the catalysis of the water-gas shift reaction. All lectures are at 4:30 p.m. in Room 123 of the Nieuwland Science Hall.

Fellowship awarded Accountancy research continues

By NORLIN RUESCHHOFF

Accountancy Department Chairman

Professor Michael Morris was announced the fifth annual Coopers and Lybrand Research fellow at the Notre Dame Accounting Association’s spring banquet last Wednesday evening. Morris was recently appointed to the fellowship for the 1982-83 academic year by the University Provost, Timothy O’Meara. The fellowship will grant him a leave of absence from teaching during the spring semester and provide him a summer grant in 1983.

Michael Morris joined the accountancy faculty in September, 1979, and currently teaches cost and managerial accounting. He completed his doctorate at the University of Cincinnati; Morris has made presentations of research papers at meetings of the American Accounting Association and the American Institute for Decision Sciences. He has had articles published in Taxae: The Tax Machine, The Michigan CPA, and The Woman CPA. Morris is a member of the American Accounting Association and is currently serving on the board of directors of the Michiana chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

The Coopers and Lybrand Research Fellowship program is now in its fourth year at Notre Dame. Professor William Nichols is the present holder of this fellowship. The program has proven itself to be very productive in fostering scholarly research activity in accountancy at Notre Dame. During this past year, the first two Coopers and Lybrand fellowship recipients, Professor James Gaertner and Professor David Ricchiute, received national recognition for having written articles that were published in the fall 1981 edition of New Guides for the Professional Accountant (a selective collection of articles that have appeared in the Journal of Accountancy during the past year).
Making income tax returns public

Dear Editor:

Last Thursday, Tom Perruccio died. I did not know him very well. Last year he graduated from college and we had a couple of pleasant conversations in the dining hall. And I found him to have an entertaining wit.

The one thing I recall most clearly about Tom was a ride on his golf cart, which he owned for his heart condition. I stood on the back end and pretended I was a Roman Legionnaire rushing to the battle line. And as I thought back on it, I felt like a meteor rocketing through time. I often think of the young men who are our Tom Perruccios, and I feel like a meteor rocketing through time.

Yet what strikes me most about the death of Tom is the contact I had with the late Oliver Williams or Professor John Housh.

For more information about the symposium, contact Fr. Oliver Williams or Professor John Housh.

P.O. Box Q

Wit and Wisdom

To tell you the truth, I have a fear I paid more than my share. I suppose a lot of people think that. There must be a lot of other people, though, who know darn well they didn't pay enough.

And I know the IRS could get more money out of the tax cheaters, and it wouldn't cost the government a nickel. They would make income tax records open to everyone. And if everyone who each paid would be posted in the front hall or printed in the newspaper.

At least the figures would be readily available to anyone who wanted to look them up. This would be the way not to get better compliance with the tax laws.

People who wouldn't cheat or steal anywhere else have no hesitation about cheating on their tax returns if they think they can get away with it. Most of the same people wouldn't cheat at all if they knew their neighbors were going to see what they did.

They don't mind cheating the big, anonymous bureaucracy, but they wouldn't cheat on their friends. The fact that cheating on their tax is the same as stealing from their friends doesn't occur to them.

I've always thought the government goes about trying to get us to pay our taxes the wrong way. They need the review system and I suppose they have to scare some people with the threat of a jail sentence, but the IRS has never appealed much to our sense of national pride.

Amercians would be proud to pay their income tax if they thought their money was being wasted in Washington. If everyone knew what everyone else was paying, it would make it easier to be proud, too. No one gets much of a kick out of being proud in front of a computer than's checking a return for errors in arithmetic.

I don't know why income tax returns are secret. They're considered nobody else's business, even though what we earn isn't usually much of a secret to anyone who knows us. I'd like to see unions do not appreciate the goals or problems of their institutions.

What about planning a discussion of the religious vision that sees labor and management as co-creators in production and services that place personal dignity and common good above corporate expansion and expanding profits? Yes, that's what will happen in Notre Dame's Center for Community Education on May 3-5, 1982.

There will be many insights and challenges from bright and experienced people. The conference is no more crazy than the ideals of Pope John Paul II's latest encyclical "On Human Work" — the focus and inspiration for Fr. Williams and his network's second such conference. It's as old as the dreams of Popes Leo XIII, Pius XI, Pius XII, John XXIII, and Paul VI. It's as new as the United Automobile Workers Union's contracts with Ford and General Motors.

Private property has rights and duties; corporations have stewardship as well as ownership considerations. Unions must seek more than "more of everything." Religious beliefs in the market place as well as in the sacrity. Government must intervene when labor and or management fail. If you think this is a sales pitch — you're right. It's enriching now — class lectures and discussions are open to everyone. Major and concentrations will be encouraged.

We'll do our best to make sure that the IRS has a pretty good idea how much tax they've found some way to steal from their neighbors. If they're driving a Mercedes, they're making more than we are.

If we know how our neighbors make, what's wrong with knowing how much tax they pay? It would be a way of applying a kind of strong peer pressure that the government could never afford in arithmetic. We'll all be embarrassed into paying our fair share.

Very likely there would be people who pay more than they had to just to keep up with the Joneses. As far as half the income of the federal government comes from taxing the salaries of individuals. Most of that comes from money that is withheld from their paychecks. No one gets rich on a salary, no matter how high it is, and no one can cheat much on his tax if it's withheld, either.

I'd like to see the federal government concentrate its investigative efforts toward the people whose income is derived from sources other than salary. I'd like to be able to look at the tax books and find out how much the guy with the four-car garage and the chauffeur-driven Cadillac is paying, because he's getting off easier than I am. I'm damn sure about it.

IRISH GUARD TRYOUTS are approaching quickly. All those interested in trying out for the 1982-83 Guard should attend a short practice on Thursday, April 22, on Green Field next to the band tower. No experience is necessary, however, candidates must be at least 6 feet, 2 inches tall. For more information, call Kevin Connors at 1216 — The Observer.

TWO CLOSE ONES ELUDED the Notre Dame baseball team Sunday, as the Irish dropped a doubleheader to Indiana State University, 3-2, in eight innings, and 7-6. Steve Whitmyer lost the tie in the opener as Dan Szajko knocked in both in the Irish runs, and contributed one of the two only Irish hits in the second game. Bill Stonkoski started, but lasted only two innings as Tom Conlin relieved him in a losing effort. The Irish could muster only four hits as Phil Dingle went one-for-two, with two RBIs. The next Irish game is tomorrow at St. Joseph's at 1 p.m. on Jake Kline Field — The Observer.

COACH RICH O'LEARY's Notre Dame Lacrosse team will take on Midwest power Denison College tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. The game will be played either on Carter Field or Alumni Field, depending on the weather — The Observer.

THE SMC TRACK TEAM will be in action this afternoon. The team, coached by Rachel Wrobleski and Tim Dillon, will run against Manchester College, Amsterdam College and Tri-State College by scores of one for a meet to be held at Manchester. The meet begins at 3 p.m. — The Observer.

SMC'S WOMEN'S SOFTBALL team, coming off a first round finish in the Vatican University Tournament, will take their momentum over the weekend, plays host to Bethel College this afternoon at three — The Observer.

AN TOSTAL, INNERTUBE WATERPOLO continued yesterday with third-round action. "Catcher" and the "Rock Lobsters" swept past "Rock Lobsters" and the "Sperm Whales" swept past "Fighting Piranhas Don't Nibble," 12-6. Also, Heaven Above beat "Wee Dreams," 9-3 while "Dick Moby and the Spasm Whales" swept past "Rock Lobsters" 11-6. The third round concludes this afternoon at the Rock, as "Delish's Cute Chokers" takes on "Dead meat and the Potkers" at 4:40. Then "Neptune's Nymphs" faces "Trost Fishermen in America" at 4:40, followed by the "Two Romans" against "Chlorinated Water Otters" at 5:20 — The Observer.

THE ND-SMC SAILING CLUB will hold an officers meeting tonight at in the Howard Social Space. All officers should attend — The Observer.

SMC HALL ELECTIONS APRIL 28 — The newest hall officers. You can count the slugging down of meals in Killing fields. From 1:15 to 1:30 2:00 — VOTE VOTE VOTE

TICKETS

I'M ON A CASH ROLL — HAVE YOU? CALL 277-6032 and you won't be broke and you'll be able to make a little extra money this summer — The Observer.

PERSONALS

HAPPY BIRTHDAY JULIE LINUS PIERCE — On your birthday this year, you'll want to throw a party, and it will be a happy and successful party. The key to your party is getting your guests to attend. First, you'll have to plan a menu that will appeal to your guests' tastes. Second, you'll have to make sure that your guests are comfortable and entertained. You can do this by providing plenty of food and drinks. Finally, you'll have to make sure that your guests have a good time. — The Observer.

ATTENTION ATTENTION (ARTICLE ON STUDENT LIFE) — Professor requires student to pay top $8.75 in dues to Community College Minor, Greenpax, C370. Extra fee per quarter is $7.50. — The Observer.

SHUT UP! — We feel the need to say this. There is a lot of noise in the halls lately, and it is making it difficult to study and work. Please try to keep the noise level down. — The Observer.

LAWYER needed to take care of some personal affairs. Call John H. 277-8582.

SMC HALL ELECTIONS APRIL 28 — The newest hall officers. You can count the slugging down of meals in Killing fields. From 1:15 to 1:30 2:00 — VOTE VOTE VOTE

TICKETS

I'M ON A CASH ROLL — HAVE YOU? CALL 277-6032 and you won't be broke and you'll be able to make a little extra money this summer — The Observer.

PERSONALS

HAPPY BIRTHDAY JULIE LINUS PIERCE — On your birthday this year, you'll want to throw a party, and it will be a happy and successful party. The key to your party is getting your guests to attend. First, you'll have to plan a menu that will appeal to your guests' tastes. Second, you'll have to make sure that your guests are comfortable and entertained. You can do this by providing plenty of food and drinks. Finally, you'll have to make sure that your guests have a good time. — The Observer.

ATTENTION ATTENTION (ARTICLE ON STUDENT LIFE) — Professor requires student to pay top $8.75 in dues to Community College Minor, Greenpax, C370. Extra fee per quarter is $7.50. — The Observer.

SHUT UP! — We feel the need to say this. There is a lot of noise in the halls lately, and it is making it difficult to study and work. Please try to keep the noise level down. — The Observer.
Today

Molarity

Doonesbury

Stuff Simon

The Daily Crossword

Michael Molinelli

Garry Trudeau

Jeb Cashin

Student Union presents:

Dr. Hatem Hussaini
Director of the PLO's
Palestine Information Office

Mideast Peace

Tuesday, April 20, 8:00pm
Memorial Library Auditorium

Campus

T.V. Tonight

Drinking too much?

The Observer

Tuesday, April 20, 1982 — page 7
Tourney field narrowed to 'Thirsty 32'

By Will Hare
Sports Writer

Irish Quarterback Jim O'Hara was back at work yesterday on the practice field after him impressive three-of-five passing performance in Saturday's scrimmage. (Photo by Rachel Blount)

For those who were at Bookstore Courts 9 and 10 at 6:15 last night, they may be suffering from a minor case of whip-lash after trying to watch two side-by-side thrillers. But had they been at Lyons Court 11, they may be suffering from heart failure.

BOOKSTORE XI

In perhaps the best game of the 1982 Bookstore Basketball Tournament thus far, "Red Rummers" fought off a tremendous comeback to defeat "Comin' at Ya" by a score of 27-25. The contest was plagued by fouls and darkness, yet "Red Rummers" pulled out a narrow victory. They now sit in a 1-1-1 tie atop the group with "Sly Shysters" and "Karcher". Future games will have to decide who will make it to the "Sweet Sixteen".

"Comin' at Ya" had a great chance to win the game at 20-19, but "Red Rummers" scored four of the next five points to clinch the game.

Mike Frawley's phenomenal 8-of-9 shooting and late buckets by Don Strumillo sealed the win for the Rummers, who now meet "Even Less Jacksonless Five" in a classic duel this afternoon.

"Comin' at Ya" had several chances to win the game, but three shots from the left corner by "Shysters" did not fall, while one from the right by "Hill's Angels" did. "Shysters" came up short in the end.

Behind the Bookstore, Mike Mitchell's 9-of-16 shooting was the difference in the victory for "Take This Ball and Shove It II", which fought off a stubborn "Irish Magick" squad. Phil Parderic and Greg Knaefel combined for 14-of-24 from the field for the losers.

"Showdowns" scored more points than three prior opponents of "T.F.S. Again" combined, but not enough to beat last year's rummer-uppers, as they fell 21-15. Chris Brown was 6-of-11 to lead the winners.

Another impressive performance was turned in by "Hill's Angels", as they downed "Take This Ball and Shove It II". "Hill's Angels" are a team that finished in the Sweet Sixteen last year, fell down early, and could never make up the difference.

"Cooz" may have a former "Mr. Bookstore" award winner in Bob Keeseman but it was John Leonard's 10-of-15 shooting that earned his team the victory. "H & S Realty" are pretty small, "Hill's Angels" stymied Leonard, and they used their height. They got a couple of breaks down the end and hit a couple short jumpers to win it.

Thirty-two teams remain going into today's action and four-hundred twenty-one teams have been eliminated.

Tourney field narrowed to 'Thirsty 32'

By Will Hare
Sports Writer

Irish Quarterback Jim O'Hara was back at work yesterday on the practice field after him impressive three-of-five passing performance in Saturday's scrimmage. (Photo by Rachel Blount)

For those who were at Bookstore Courts 9 and 10 at 6:15 last night, they may be suffering from a minor case of whip-lash after trying to watch two side-by-side thrillers. But had they been at Lyons Court 11, they may be suffering from heart failure.

BOOKSTORE XI

In perhaps the best game of the 1982 Bookstore Basketball Tournament thus far, "Red Rummers" fought off a tremendous comeback to defeat "Comin' at Ya" by a score of 27-25. The contest was plagued by fouls and darkness, yet "Red Rummers" pulled out a narrow victory. They now sit in a 1-1-1 tie atop the group with "Sly Shysters" and "Karcher". Future games will have to decide who will make it to the "Sweet Sixteen".

"Comin' at Ya" had a great chance to win the game at 20-19, but "Red Rummers" scored four of the next five points to clinch the game.

Mike Frawley's phenomenal 8-of-9 shooting and late buckets by Don Strumillo sealed the win for the Rummers, who now meet "Even Less Jacksonless Five" in a classic duel this afternoon.

"Comin' at Ya" had several chances to win the game, but three shots from the left corner by "Shysters" did not fall, while one from the right by "Hill's Angels" did. "Shysters" came up short in the end.

Behind the Bookstore, Mike Mitchell's 9-of-16 shooting was the difference in the victory for "Take This Ball and Shove It II", which fought off a stubborn "Irish Magick" squad. Phil Parderic and Greg Knaefel combined for 14-of-24 from the field for the losers.

"Showdowns" scored more points than three prior opponents of "T.F.S. Again" combined, but not enough to beat last year's rummer-uppers, as they fell 21-15. Chris Brown was 6-of-11 to lead the winners.

Another impressive performance was turned in by "Hill's Angels", as they downed "Take This Ball and Shove It II". "Hill's Angels" are a team that finished in the Sweet Sixteen last year, fell down early, and could never make up the difference.

"Cooz" may have a former "Mr. Bookstore" award winner in Bob Keeseman but it was John Leonard's 10-of-15 shooting that earned his team the victory. "H & S Realty" are pretty small, "Hill's Angels" stymied Leonard, and they used their height. They got a couple of breaks down the end and hit a couple short jumpers to win it.

Thirty-two teams remain going into today's action and four-hundred twenty-one teams have been eliminated.

Tourney field narrowed to 'Thirsty 32'

By Will Hare
Sports Writer

Irish Quarterback Jim O'Hara was back at work yesterday on the practice field after him impressive three-of-five passing performance in Saturday's scrimmage. (Photo by Rachel Blount)

For those who were at Bookstore Courts 9 and 10 at 6:15 last night, they may be suffering from a minor case of whip-lash after trying to watch two side-by-side thrillers. But had they been at Lyons Court 11, they may be suffering from heart failure.

BOOKSTORE XI

In perhaps the best game of the 1982 Bookstore Basketball Tournament thus far, "Red Rummers" fought off a tremendous comeback to defeat "Comin' at Ya" by a score of 27-25. The contest was plagued by fouls and darkness, yet remained exciting to the final horn.

Noire Dame quarterback Ken Karcher led "Comin' at Ya" back from an 18-15 deficit to tie the game at 20. Karcher scored several inside baskets in the surge and played tough defense that bottlenecked up former Notre Dame hoosier Tim Healy of "Red Rummers".

"The key was getting the ball inside," said Healy, "but it was getting out of hand at the end." "Red Rummers" had several chances to win the game, but three shots from the left corner by Mike Prevotnick kept "Comin' at Ya" in the thick of things. But after "Red Rummers" fell down 24-23, they scored four of the next five points to clinch the triumph.

Mike Frawley's phenomenal 8-of-9 shooting and late buckets by Don Strumillo sealed the win for the Rummers, who now meet "Even Less Jacksonless Five" in a classic duel this afternoon.

"Comin' at Ya" had several chances to win the game, but three shots from the left corner by "Shysters", as they downed "Hill's Angels" by seven. Mike Kelly's outside shooting was the difference in the game. "We've got five unselsh people," said Kelly, "and we tend to get the ball to the guys that are hot." "Hill's Angels", a team which finished in the Sweet Sixteen last year, fell down early, and could never make up the difference.

"Cooz" may have a former "Mr. Bookstore" award winner in Bob Keeseman but it was John Leonard's 10-of-15 shooting that earned his team the victory. "H & S Realty" are pretty small, "Hill's Angels" stymied Leonard, and they used their height. They got a couple of breaks down the end and hit a couple short jumpers to win it.

Thirty-two teams remain going into today's action and four-hundred twenty-one teams have been eliminated.