Welch chair

By MICHAEL DIETZ Assistant News Editor

Addressing the topic, "American Civi lization in Decline," Max Lerner, visiting professor and first occupant of the Welch chair, will give his inaugural lecture Friday, September 17, at 2 p.m. in the Center for Continuing Educa tion auditorium.

Lerner, a syndicated columnist for the New York Post, outlined his speech: "The nature and importance of the lecture will deal with ques tions of the health and decline in civilizations. I will try to indicate what aspects there are of both." "I think there is a considerable sign of decline and of self-wounding, "Lerner added, "but there is also a very con siderable sign of our capacity for self-corrective action and thinking." Lerner will teach at Notre Dame as a result of the Welch chair, which is an endowed professorship in American Studies. His course for the first semester is titled, "America as a Civilization: An Update," celebrating the 25th anniversary of the publica tion of his best known book, America as a Civilization. "The course is an overview of the changes and revolutions in civiliza tion," Lerner said. He added that the only problems with the second book is a generation gap in experience: "I dealt with this material most of my life. For students, it is new material. We have to get a common ground to get good discussions." "I'm very impressed so far, given the fact of the great disparity of ex perience," Lerner added. "I'm happy to teach undergraduates. It's much more challenging than graduate teaching." It has been eight years since Lerner has taught under graduates.

...Financial aid burts admissions

By MARK BOENNIGHAUSEN and BOB VONDERHEIDE Staff Reporters

The rising cost of a Notre Dame education and insufficient sources of financial aid, both campus and non-campus base, are contributing to a lower confirmation rate by accepted Notre Dame applicants, according to John T. Goldrick, director of undergraduate admissions.

The confirmation rate, which had increased through the preceding decade to a high of 66 percent in 1986, dropped to 62 percent in 1981 and was 59.5 this year.

Goldrick cites inadequate financial aid as a major reason. In a survey sent each year to every accepted student who decides not to come to Notre Dame, "70 to 80 percent reply that the top reason they don't choose Notre Dame is cost. The survey also shows that Notre Dame's academic reputation compares favorably with schools such as Harvard or Stanford."

Though the low confirmation rate is a "serious question" for Goldrick, the University's confirmation rate is excellent when compared with the 50 to 55 percent that is the average of most college.

The position with financial aid is a major concern for the University. "We just don't have enough institutionalized funds," said Goldrick. He also noted that the recent cut backs in federal aid has not helped the situation.

The enrollment of minority stu dents is also complicated by problems with financial aid. Pat Leonardo, assistant director for under graduate admissions said that financial aid is a more serious problem for minority students. Though this year's freshman class has the most minority students of any other previous class, "77% a good portion of accepted minority stu dents did not come. Leonardo said the major reason why most of these accepted students did not come was because of poor financial aid packages.

Leonardo went on to add that it is very difficult to recruit highly qualified minority students when there is not a clear picture about financial aid packages. In a survey done during a two year period, minority students who were ac cepted at Notre Dame and went elsewhere were asked to report the school they went to.

The results showed that 56 percent of the surveyed students went to 15 schools. These schools included most of the Ivy League schools, Stanford, and the military academies. Most of the schools these students attended offer financial aid packages that meet all demonstrated need. Leonardo said.

Two Goshen students face possible indictments

By JACK AMARO Staff Writer

GOSHEN, IN. — Two Goshen College students may be among young men called this summer a vacation. Not a large percentage of Student loan applications were put on hold last semester while USO's office waited for Congress to hand down new regulations.

The same may be true this May. Some applications have been waiting in the USO's office for a long time, so this is the first year that students can begin applying for loans.

"It is a long summer and people had every right to be upset," Russo said last time.

In the interim, some states also drafted new GSL applications, Russo said. It would have to think twice before applying for loan aid.

"There is nothing we can do except to appeal," Russo said last Friday. "We can't catch up on loan applications until three weeks ago. It is a long summer and people had every right to be upset." Russo was not happy with Wash ington's handling of the issue. "There were restrictions that bogged down the GSL application process," he said.

A woman student reported last Thursday morning being grabbed around the neck from behind between 4:30 and 5 a.m. last Saturday while walking through the D.I. parking lot on the west side of the football stadium. The woman told campus security officers she was walking north through the lot returning to her dorm when the incident occurred. The woman said she struck the assailant with her elbow, breaking the hold, and ran back to her dorm. The assailant was described as a white male, about six feet tall. — The Observer

Charges of criminal mischief and public intoxication were filed against two Stanford Hall sophomores Tuesday morning after the two reportedly attempted to break in to the Speedway Service Station, 2150 South Bend Ave. early Tuesday morning. The woman told campus security officers she was held in St. Joseph County Jail until late Tuesday afternoon, when they were released on $150 cash bonds. They face hearings on the charges in the Traffic and Misdemeanor Division of the St. Joseph County Superior Court. The hearings are scheduled for later this month. — The Observer

The stunned people of Monaco suddenly benefited of their storybook prank, filed in monstrous lines past the former Grace Kelly collios Wednesday, in the hilltop palace where the fabled Hollywood beauty first joined them 30 years ago. "She seemed almost as if she were alive," 22-year-old shop employee Pascale Feles said tearfully after viewing the body in the chapel of the palace. "It was a wonderful woman," I am that derstuck. I don't know what I'm doing today," said a middle-aged weeping woman as she walked downtown. "We loved her so." Princess Grace, the American-born actress who won an Oscar in a brief but triumphant film career, died late Tuesday from a cerebral hemorrhage at age 52, after suffering a stroke in her automobile. Her funeral will take place Saturday at 11 a.m. (5 a.m. EDT) at the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Monaco, the palace announced. Royalty, film stars and other luminaries from throughout the world are expected to attend.

Senate Republican leaders appeared increasingly impatient Wednesday to resolve the abortion issue after nine days of gridlock prompted by the president's legislation before the Senate adjourned for the year. Shortly before the Senate voted for the third time this week to reject an abortion ban, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., Assistant Majority Leader Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said Helms lacks the support he needs to get his bill passed. "Helms has reached the point in this struggle," said Stevens. "We will get on the filibuster." Stevens said Helms' measure would prohibit all federal funding for abortions, including money for federally aided medical schools that teach students how to perform abortions. In addition, the measure would permit a direct appeal to the Supreme Court for any new anti-abortion legislation approved by a state legislature. — AP

Presidential press secretary James Brady was greeted as Chicago by 500 cheering well-wishers Wednesday as he arrived for his first visit in his home state since he was shot in the head last March. Brady, accompanied on his trip from Washington, D.C., by his wife, Sarah, and 5-year-old son, Scott. Brady was shot during the March 1981 assassination attempt on President Reagan. The United Auto Workers union and Chrysler Corp. continued bargaining Thursday in Highland Park, Michigan, past the midnight deadline, union officials said. "We will continue to bargain with good faith," spokesman David Mitchell said, refusing to say whether a strike was in effect. But a local union official, Ed. Warren, another local union official, said there was no agreement and that the union was on strike. — AP

No policy changes made by AL dean

By CHUCK KRILL
New Staff

The basic curriculum policies established by Professor Donald Sneigowski, Assistant Dean of Arts and Letters, will remain unaffected under his successor, Professor Abe Neiman.

Neiman assumes this position after three years as Assistant Director of the Core Course and Adjunct Professor of Philosophy and Department.

Neiman sees no need for immediate changes in the Core Course, especially since the Social Sciences Laboratory assessed the student opinion of the course, returning an evaluation that he feels was pretty positive. Because he has had previous experience in directing the Core Course, Neiman points out, it's not like I'm a new ad ministrator. I'm happy enough with the course now.

He particularly likes the interdisciplinary nature of the course. In the Core Course more than one view of a subject is studied in order to reach a greater understanding of it. It's an interdisciplinary course, says Neiman, because we want students to see that no important questions can be dealt with without crossing disciplines.

Besides counseling students and writing articles on the side, Neiman says he would like to see a change in the nature of the Arts and Letters curriculum. He wants to concern himself with the question, What sort of curriculum would be useful in developing an appreciation of liberal education is supposed to do?

The ideals of liberal education are very important to Neiman. He said, "If there is anything I could do here it is to try to make this school to be more of these four years of liberal education and less worried about what these years are going to do for them.

Neiman replaces Professor Sneigowski, who left after four years as Director of the Core Course. Sneigowski originally accepted the position on the condition that he would serve a term of exactly four years. He is looking forward to a change of pace. This year will be exciting. It is the first time in nine years that I will be teaching all four.

This term he is teaching in the English Department; but next semester he will be taking a leave of absence to work with the Arts and Letters London program in April.

Sneigowski spent nearly half of his time as Assistant Dean directing the Core Course. I'm very happy with the way that turned out, but it was not just my accomplishment, he said. He was assisted for the last three years by Neiman, his successor, in whom he is very confident.

He knows the Core Course inside and out, its strengths and weaknesses and its teachers. Sneigowski said. "I'm a highly intellectual person, and thus he will be capable of guiding the syllabus making.

Annual tradition

Domers flock to SMC for panty raid

By MARY ANN GMCORROW AND DAVID F. TRACY
New Staff

Running, walking, and marching to various hall chants, a large group of Domers flocked to Saint Mary's campus last night for the annual panty raid.

Panties, bras, stockings, pillow cases, maps of rooms, rolls of toilet paper, beer cans, and other items written on them rained down from the girls dorms during the ritual held every year on the Wednesday before the first home football game.

Saint Mary's was prepared, as security guards manned each of the dorms, resident assistants were assigned to the doorways, and lower level windows were closed and locked.

Notre Dame men were not to be thwarted as they burst into the dorms and grabbed panties and towels carrying students to the second floor window, where some students gained access.

In Tokyo alone, public baths are going out of business at a rate of one every 15 days. Of 2,314 public baths still operating down from 2,634 in 1968 - almost all depend on outside sources of income to stay in business.

Japan's nude bathing

By MARY ANN GMCORROW

Affluence, inflation the spread of Western lifestyles may spell the end of centuries-old Japanese tradition of nude communal bathing.

The sights and sounds of public bathing are still very present in Japanese cities.

The wall-crawlers were working at sufficient risk to themselves, as $50 fines were levied against any students caught inside the girls rooms.

The guys who participated seemed to enjoy the event. "It builds spirit among the hall," said one freshman Dillon. "It breaks the monotony of studies and certain-ly kicks-off the partying for the Michigam game with a bang."

There were some who disagreed. Others expressed a desire to partic-ipate in a more-revelar situation where the Saint Mary's girls would do the raiding.

Saint Mary's students had mixed emotions. Many appeared to enjoy the event and seemed to take pride in composing clever messages in their underwear.

One apparently revered Regina resident assistant said 'This year they did not seem to cause as much trouble as in the past.'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II gave Yasser Arafat a private audience Wednesday, telling him Palestinians deserve a homeland but void of violence of every form, “above all terrorism and retaliation,” the Vatican announced.

The pope later addressed 20,000 people in St. Peter’s Square and called on Israel and Arafat’s Palestine Liberation Organization to “accept the coexistence and reality of the other.”

In the 20-minute meeting here, the first between Arafat and a pope, drew much stronger protest from Israel.

The PLO chairman made no public comment on the Vatican session, but a Palestinian priest said Arafat considered it a turning point in the PLO’s quest for international support.

Attrition rates

Freshman enrollment steady

By KATHLEEN DOYLE Senior Staff Reporter

The total freshman enrollment at Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s decreased by less than one percent last year, said Emil Hofman, Dean of Freshman Year.

“Out attritions were two academic dismissals and two voluntary withdrawals. Three of those students who left voluntarily did return. There were no dismissals for other reasons,” Hofman said.

“This attrition rate of less than one percent in the freshman year, which is typical of the past seven or eight years, would have little meaning if there was a greater attrition after the freshman year. But the attrition over a four year period is slightly less than eight percent,” Hofman said. “Most of the students who start at Notre Dame finish here.”

Saint Mary’s also experienced a low rate of attrition after the freshman year within the Class of 1985. According to Sister Jeanette Lester of the Institutional Research Department, only five of the 48 freshmen did not complete two semesters. Only 0.9 percent of the class did not return for the sophomore year.

“According to a report by the American Council on Education, the national average of attrition after the freshman year is 50 percent,” Lester said. “Another 20 percent leave college after the second year with only 40 percent graduating in four years from the same school they enrolled in at freshmen. About 50 percent would have little meaning if there was a greater attrition after the freshman year.”

The rate of attrition at Saint Mary’s for the freshman year is 1.75 percent which is approximately half of the national average. Of the Saint Mary’s students who have entered the college since 1974, 75 percent have graduated in four years and 77 percent have graduated in five years.

“The students who voluntarily withdraw do so for various reasons,” said Joan Imler, an admissions counselor at the college. “A lot of times they are not very specific, but mention personal and financial reasons.”

Audience with Arafat

Pope urges rejection of violence

Arafat, wearing a green uniform and his familiar black-and-white headaddress, was whisked in and out of the Vatican through a little used side entrance, riding in a bullet-proof limousine followed by police cars bristling with submachine guns.

He spent about a half-hour in the Roman Catholic city-state, smiling and flashing the victory sign by reporters on his way out.

In a three-paragraph communique, the Vatican said John Paul spoke in English with Arafat, expressing “good will for the Palestinians” and telling him that a Middle East peace solution “must exclude recourse to arms and violence in every form, and above all terrorism and retaliation.”

John Paul also called for “a recognition of the rights of all peoples and in particular those of Palestinian people for their own homeland.”

In the later speech, the pontiff said, “The pope and the Catholic Church look with sympathy in consideration of both peoples (Israelis and Palestinians),” and added he hopes that “each one accepts the existence and reality of the other and that they may find a path to dialogue.”

Before the meeting, the Rev. Ibrahim Ayad, a 68-year-old Palestinian priest who heads the Catholic Ecclesiastical Court of Jerusalem, said Arafat would welcome peace, but only a just peace.

The wooden casket was then placed on an army gun carriage and taken in a slow moving procession to the cemetery. A 21 gun salute echoed across the mountain peaks of central Lebanon as the 34-year old slain leader was lowered into his grave to the strains of an army band.

The Israeli assault on Beirut was shaken by the naval bombardment in Gemayel's funeral was conducted in a solemn Maronite Christian rite at the packed church in his hometown of Bikfaya, 12 miles east of Lebanon's capital.

The death of Gemayel, who was to become president next week, threatened to plunge Lebanon into a new round of warfare. The presence of Israeli troops and Syrian forces in eastern Lebanon also carried the threat of a new confrontation between those two countries.

Weeping bystanders in the brown uniforms of Gemayel's Ombudsman plans meeting for tonight

Ombudsman plans an organizational meeting to be held tonight at the Indiana Student Life Center. All interested students are invited to attend.

The Ombudsman serves as an information and complaint bureau for the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community. Information available from the service ranges from car rental agencies to campus trivia to cultural and social events schedules.

Tom Russo, director of the Ombudsman, has stated that normal operations will continue tonight. On September 20, Koegel also announced a five percent deduction to pursuing student complaints. He will be announcing the implementation of an entire new system of recording, resolving, and reporting complaints at tonight's meeting.

Anyone with questions concerning the ND/SMC environment should contact the organization at 239-6285 or 239 OEB D.

It is tough to compete with schools that offer full need-package aid. The University will always be able to attract students. but it is important to get the best and the right mixture. Golan hopes that financial aid will become a "very important priority of the University in the future."

Goldrick is also concerned about the recruitment of top students. He noted that it is impossible to define a quality university without a quality student body. The availability of institutionalized funds is a top priority for Goldrick and he thinks that the administration has recognized the problem and will make it one of its top priorities.
Brezhnev attacks Reagan's peace plan

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Presi­dent Leonid I. Brezhnev criticized Presi­dent Reagan's peace plan for the Middle East "hastily" Wednesday for denying the Palestinians an independent nation, and an­nounced his own proposals for lasting peace.

Reagan's plan is the third major initiative for a comprehensive Middle East peace settlement in as many weeks, and appeared identical to the plan adopted by the Arab six-nation meeting in Fez, Morocco, last week.

Israel seemed to be holding for a more active role in a settlement by emphasizing the role of the U.N. Security Council or its permanent members, of which the Soviet Union is one. Brezhnev also reiterated the long-standing Soviet proposal for an international conference on the Middle East.

The Fez declaration was adopted a week after Reagan laid out his own blueprint for a Middle East settle­ment.

Israel immediately rejected both the Arab plan and Reagan's which differs in several respects from both the Arab proposals and the Israeli government's position.

Brezhnev, speaking at a Kremlin dinner for South Yemen's President Ali Salih Mohamed, declared that Reagan was merely "pretending to try to find a settlement and creation of their own state ..."

The Soviet leader would be "profoundly convinced," in con­trast, that his own proposals could obtain "a just and lasting peace in the Middle East."

Like the Fez plan, they call for complete Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, including dis­mantling of Jewish settlements.

Establishment of a sovereign Palestinian state on those territories, including Arab East Jerusalem, which Israel annexed in 1980.

Establishment of a complete Israeli with­drawal from the Gaza Strip, including Arab east Jerusalem, and the Gaza Strip, including dismantling of Jewish settlements.

Secure, inviolate borders for Is­rael and its Arab neighbors, includ­ing the 'g' of all states in the area to safe and independent existence."

Man has foot chopped

A man recruited friends who chopped off his foot with a hatchet to fool investigators in a $210,000 insurance swindle, authorities said Wednesday.

Two men were held on $100,000 bail in San Jose on charges of in­surance fraud, grand theft and con­spiracy in a scheme that shocked even hardened accident inves­tigators.

"I just would never believed someone would offer a foot for $100,000," said Mill Smith, a criminal investigator in Sacramento for Farmers Insurance Group.

Authorities said Yarrington and the second man charged, Bruce Wayne Nesbit, identified Ms. Mar­tinez, 47, to help pull off the staged accident and injury.

Security Procedures Outline

On all home football weekends, access to all residence halls will be by one main entrance door only. An individual from the residence hall or University staff will be stationed at that door. All persons who are not Notre Dame or St. Mary's students will be denied admission unless they are a guest of a hall resident in which case they must sign a guest register. The Rectors of Notre Dame residence halls have decided to continue the policy inaugurated last year limiting the access of outsiders to their halls on the Friday and Saturday evenings of home football weekends. The policy was effective in lessening problems with un­ desirable drinking, theft, and vandal­ ism. Hall Rectors noted that the cooperation of the ND/SMC student community played a positive role in the improved conditions and atmosphere in residence halls on football weekends. The residents of that hall need not show an ID card if they are known by the hall staff person at door. All other Notre Dame and St. Mary's students going into that hall must show an ID card but need not sign the register.

On the evening of the Michigan game security personnel will be assigned to each hall and will be on duty from 7 p.m. until 2 a.m. They will bePatrolled by hall staff in the im­ plementation of this policy.

This procedure will begin not later than 7:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays of home football weekends. Hall staff personnel will admit University personnel and families of hall residents. Hall residents who assist outsiders to enter the hall during these restricted times contrary to the above will be subject to appropriate action by Head Staff or Hall Judicial Boards.

An appeal to reason

Quite an unusual sight was seen on campus last week. What conviction is a fellow told "Crazy War" who comes to Notre Dame to carry on has been pounced on by all the old ladies. I went to a Christian Conference and appeals not only through the emotion of mine to attend a Wednesday night Baptist service. There was this song, and each verse was all the way of the week, and when it got to your day you had been "saved," you stood up. There were there or four of us in innocent young kids chewed out by the end of the song, right in the middle of this con-gregation who had never felt anything like the positively heartfelt "salvation". The rest of the article is also spent immediately pounced on by all the old ladies.

I then relates his feeling of "a deep awareness and presence of the living Jesus in my heart." At this point, the mention of the phrases "salvation" and "love of the world" probably appeals to this kind of emotionalism which in some regards might best be described as "an appeal to the emotions." On the Media

If we are successful with USA Today, the careers of one existing local and regional newspapers, our credibility in the eyes of news makers outside, outdoor and other operators could make Gannett the indisputable leader in the in-formation business for your lifetime and mines," says the newspaper's govt. president and chairman, Al Neuharth. "That's modern government. But it won't be that easy. The idea behind USA Today is to provide people with a comprehensive understanding of significant news of the day. It will feature a lot of pictures, fancy graphics, and the most far-reaching coverage of sports and arts, and it will be written and read by people from around the world. Our task is to tell people what they can expect to read in their daily papers. We will do this by publishing USA Today."

Chautauqua in Faith

Mr. Schorp writes in this handout what he would probably say was the most im-portant moment in the building of his own faith. "I went to a Christian Conference and people like this power, joy, and meaning I kind of down here (at Notre Dame) and gave God my whole life. I was born and raised in the U.N.O. I was a little bit of a social Catholic, but I had really not been to a Mass in quite a while."

L.A. could save Olympics

Ever since Pierre de Coubertin began the movement to revive the Olympic Games in the late 1980s, and since the Games finally first took place in 1980, they have been rife with controversy. No modern Olympiad has gone off without some kind of conflict. Los Angeles is considered the most likely American city to host the Games in 1984, but Montreux, Switzerland, has often been mentioned as a possible site too. The Olympic Movement is in劫难期. The Moscow Olympics of 1984 were worse. The Moscow Olympics of 1984 were 80 boycotted by more nations than had ever done so in any past, including, of course, the U.S. The 1984 Los Angeles Olympics are still two years away, yet they have been the subject of more pre-Olympic controversy than any in modern history mainly because the organizers wanted to do something apparently alien to most organizers in the past. They do not want to lose money.

The expense to host a city of an Olympic Games is enormous. Munich, host of the 1972 Games, lost over $200 million. Montreal incurred a debt of at least $1 billion; and Mos-co reportedly spent 5 billion dollars into the red on its last extravaganza. After these staggering losses to the host cities, it is no wonder that the last two cities — Los Angeles and Teheran, Iran — bid for the 1984 Games, knowing that they would only withdraw from the competition when unrest on the home front became too great.

As a result of this bidding monopoly, the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee

A bold new venture began yesterday when a new national newspaper hits the streets for the first time. In an age when newspapers are closing at an alarming rate, the first time in two years. The stories will be short, and there will be more stories and sports — and that those who really want local news will be able to answer life's questions when I needed answers, I would probably now be lounging somewhere carrying a cross too. I, for one, can't wait to see USA Today.

USA Today, the biggest chain in the country is trying to start local news will buy the local paper the US.

Our wide-spread broadcasting, the nation's largest-selling paper put aside fears of sounding self-righteous and contradictions are unnecessary and will be little used! If the country, with all its systems cannot come to terms with this, claiming that our aim is to get this for the 1976 Olym-pics and most certainly the 1980 Games did not positively affect Moscow's standard of living, if their government even cares about it.

What Los Angeles is doing is almost unrecognizable of what is being built, (e.g., a cycling velodrome, a couple of new dorms at USC and UCLA for housing ath-letes — and future college students) have been financed privately, with no expense to the host city. So far the only new project LA is for sports made the difference of 1948 London Games. They were forced to use existing structures because World War II reconstruction was (justifiedly) deemed more important than a sports festival. In es-sence, the country told the host city, 'You want the Games, you got the Games, but you pay the bills.'

For one, I can't wait to see USA Today. At 40 pages per day, it promises far better sports coverage than any paper east of Boston, and a wide ranging news coverage that doesn't get bogged down in details. They plan to give you the story in as short and simple a style as possible.

That's all I need in a paper. With cable television and expanded network news — not to mention news magazines — I can get all the in-depth analysis I want on the stories that are important to me. On a day to day basis, all I want is a round up of the news. I think there are millions of people who feel the same way. Gannett will beam the paper's pages by satellite to printers across the country, ensuring fresh news when the paper hits the stands. In other words, USA Today should be able to bring South Beach readers later stories and sports scores that the Midwest Edition of the Chicago Tribune cannot.

Unfortunately, the paper won't make its way here until April at the earliest. By then, spring examinations are over — and USA Today may no longer exist.

The Observer

The Observer is an independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame de la Lou and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the opinions of the administration of the University. Its publishers and editors are not responsible for the views of its authors. The Observer welcomes and promotes scientific ad- vancement. Notre Dame offers the examples of Dr. Tom Dooley and Dr. Newland. The Church incorporates the importance of man in the creation and evolution. What example does Dr. Newland give? What is the main argument of the author regarding the Church's role? The main argument is that the Church should incorporate the importance of man in the creation and evolution, and that this is a practical, rational communication of faith's life. The Church should be open to new ideas and values.

The Church currently has a very important role in communication, and is not stifling the new ideas. It is welcomed and encouraged.

Nolan Ryan, 15-11, was locked in a 2-2 tie with Atlanta's Tommy Boggs, 2-2, when Alan Ashby led off the seventh with a single. After moving to second on Danny Heep's grounder, Ashby was forced by Bill Doran, but Ryan was safe on second baseman Glenn Hubbard's fielding error and Terry Puhl walked, loading the bases.

Boggs was lifted for reliever Donnie Moore, who surrendered Thon's bases clearing drive, which landed just fair down the right field line.

Brewers 5, Tigers 3

DETROIT (AP) — Roy Howell drove in three runs with a double and a single last night to lead Milwaukee to a 5-3 victory over Detroit in the rubber game of the Brewers' three-game series with the Tigers.

With the victory, Milwaukee remained 1 1/2 games ahead of the Baltimore Orioles — who beat the New York Yankees 8-5 — in the American League East.

German Thomas hit a two-out single in the second and scored on Howell's double. Howell then came home on Charlie Moore's single for a 2-0 Milwaukee lead.

Milwaukee starter Pete Vuckovich, 17-4, went 7 1/3 innings, allowing 11 hits before getting relief help. Dwight Bernard finished up for his fifth save. Jack Morris, 16-15, went the distance for the Tigers, giving up nine hits while striking out five and walking two.

Twins 10, Texas 2

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Gary Gaetti belted four hits and Lenny Facundo drove in three runs last night to power the Minnesota Twins to a 10-2 victory over the Texas Rangers behind Bobby Castillo's six-hitter.

Castillo, 10-11, saw his streak of 20 2-3 scoreless innings snapped in the sixth inning on a two-run triple by Jim Sundberg.

Loser Frank Tanana, 6-18, lasted until the fifth, when the Twins scored three runs for a 6-0 lead. John Castino opened the fifth with a triple and after a walk to Tom Brunansky, was singled by home by Kent Hrbek. Both Brunansky and Hrbek later scored on Gaetti's single.

Cubs 7, Pirates 2

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jody Davis belted a three-run homer and Keith Moreland and Leon Durham added solo shots last night as the Chicago Cubs stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2.

Ferguson Jenkins, 11-15, went the distance despite allowing 11 hits in hurting his fourth complete game of the season. The victory was the 275th in Jenkins' career, 20th on the all-time list.

With the Cubs leading 2-1 Durham led off the sixth inning with his 21st homer, off loser John Candelaria, 12-7. After Moreland doubled and Pat Tabler singled, Enrique Romo replaced Candelaria.

Davis greeted Romo with a long homer to left field, his 12th, to make it 6-1.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets traded Moses Malone, the National Basketball Association's most valuable player last season, to the Philadelphia 76ers yesterday in exchange for forward Caldwell Jones and a first-round draft pick.

Malone has been an NBA all-Star five times. He is considered one of the top rebounders in league history, and the 76ers need help on the boards.

The Rockets will get the first-round pick in the 1983 college draft that the 76ers received in October 1977 from Cleveland in exchange for the late Terry Furlow.

The Rockets will draft in Cleveland's position in the 1983 draft and Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson said the team had a good chance to draft a top player.

"If we get an outstanding center with our No. 1 draft pick he can step out and play side by side with him at forward," Harris said.

He also said Jones would help speed up the Rockets offense.

"The best inside shot in the game is a fast break layup and obviously Caldwell fits into that type of game," Harris said. "He's been a central part of the Philadelphia team that has been quite successful in recent years."

MONTREAL (AP) — Andre Dawson's three-run double last night in the seventh inning gave the Montreal Expos a 6-5 victory over the New York Mets last night.

Cardinals 8, Phillies 0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joaquin Andujar pitched a three-hit shutout as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Philadelphia Phillies 8-0 last night for the third straight win in the crucial three-game series between the National League East leaders.

Andujar retired the first 12 batters and struck out the 13th, Bo Diaz, who reached first when the third strike was a wild pitch.

The Cardinals, who got four runs batted in from George Hendrick, moved 1 1/2 games ahead of the runaway Phillies in the division.

Sox 8, Angels 3

CHICAGO (AP) — Vance Law stroked a two-run triple to highlight a five-run fourth inning as the Chicago White Sox defeated California 8-3 last night and stopped the Angels five-game winning streak.

Jerry Koosman, 9-6, allowed two runs and seven hits over the six innings he worked before being relieved by Warren Brusstar.

The White Sox took a 2-0 lead in the first on Carlton Fisk's run-scoring triple. California got one run back in the fourth when Doug DeCinces doubled and scored on Juan Beniquez' single.

Greg Luzinski led off the fourth and Fisk followed with a double to put runners at second and third. Steve Kemp scored Luzinski with an infield single and Law followed with his triple for a 5-1 lead, knocking out Geoff Zahn, 16-8.

Indians 7, Red Sox 4

BOSTON (AP) — Andre Thompson drove in three runs with a homer and a single and Larry Milbourne and Ron Hansen collected three hits apiece last night, leading the Cleveland Indians to a 7-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Len Barker and Dan Spillner combined to check the Red Sox on five hits and just one earned run. Barker, 15-11, went the first six innings before Spillner came on to earn his 19th save.

The Indians, winning the rubber match of their 13-game season series with the Red Sox, pounded Boston starters Dennis Eckersley, 12-12, for 11 hits and six runs in less than five innings and raked reliever Tom Burgmeier for seven more hits and an insurance run.

Thomson put the Indians in front with his 51st home run, a two-run shot, in the third. It was his 50th homer as a designated hitter, one shy of the American League record, shared by Jim Rice and Rico Carty.

Thomson drove in his 112th run of the year with a single in the sixth.

Northwestern’s at it again

Bottom Ten

As the leaves began to turn, and the frost settled on the pumpkins, it’s time once again for football. That means, naturally, that it’s also time for the spirited chase, the blood-and-guts battle for a place in the Bottom Ten. Across the country, from Lewiston, Me., to Overland Park, Kan., and LaFayette, Calif., college football fans have had the inevitable arguments over who is truly the worst football team in the country.

For the third year in a row, Bottom Ten voters have awarded the coveted top spot to the Midcets of Northwestern in the opening poll of the season. Thus far, Northwestern has been awesome. Consider the statistics: Minus 25 yards rushing against Illinois, minus 26 yards rushing against Indiana, and two losses. The high-light of last week’s game, you ask? Freshman quarterback Sandy Schwab, still unaccustomed to the bumbled traditions of Northwestern football, completed a pass to himself. Unfortunately, when he caught the ball, he was tried to throw it again. That’s illegal, resulted in 25-yard penalty and was infinitely more Midcetish.

Most of this year’s powerful teams are in the West. Perhaps nowhere are fans more riled in their desire for Bottom Ten supremacy than in the WAC’s conference. There, Colorado State developed the strategy that brought them the Bottom Ten title last season. The Rams scheduled 12 games instead of 11, and lost all - a new WAC record. Colorado State’s losing streak was snapped last week by a surprise team, Wyoming.

The Cowboys were supposed to be a threat to the West last season, but there are other contenders in the West. On the flip side of the ballot, Wyoming had a strong showing. After Chuck Farkohed said his soul to the USFL, five first and second-stringers were expelled. Two fine things for selling marijuana, two for trying to sell borrowed textbooks. All were unsuccesful.

"They’ve always played well in September," said team spokesman John Blake. "This is going to be the '60s."

He explained that since 1968, when Weaver took over as manager, Team spirit is stirring along with batting averages and the wool-loss shipments to this year’s version of the patented stretch drive. "Any team that’s winning is going to be a good team," Weaver said.

The annual Arlene Francis "Enter and Sign in, Please" Award, presented prior to each season, goes this year to tiny Morgan State. Prior to last week’s game against Grambling at Yankee Stadium, Athletic Director Earl Young said yesterday the Orioles' lead to 1-1-2 games.

Says Red Raider quarterback Jim Hart: "You'd have to be crazy to say this at the beginning of the season, but I don’t think that’s realistic to us for a bowl game this year." Coach Jerry Moore is even more encouraging. "It’s going to be possible for us to have a better team this year and not have a better record." Tech was 1-9-1 in 1981.

Says Red Raider quarterback Jim Hart: "You'd have to be crazy to say this at the beginning of the season, but I don’t think that’s realistic to us for a bowl game this year." Coach Jerry Moore is even more encouraging. "It’s going to be possible for us to have a better team this year and not have a better record." Tech was 1-9-1 in 1981.

Beating Valpo, Irish win, but not impressively

By SAM SHERRILL

Sports Writer

The Notre Dame soccer team received considerable criticism during the season, with a win over Valparaiso University, but a 1-1 tie against the Irish in the Big East regional game last weekend. Valpo could manage only one goal in the first half, a shot that was blocked by an excellent performance of the Irish defense. The Irish offense was slow to get going, with only three minutes left in the game, David Miles blasted the ball past the Valpo keeper. The Irish finally got on the scoreboard in the 37th minute of the match, with an assist from Mario Harkenrider. Then, Manta got his fourth goal of the season in the 57th minute, when freshman Tom Dooley dribbled the ball into the middle, where Manta volleyed it into the net from the side of his right foot.

The Irish forward matched his fifth goal with only 12 minutes remaining, after he was dragged down in the penalty box. This goal ended the 1-1 tie, which the Irish went on to win 3-1. After holding that "the right to participate in college football for the 1982-1983 season and brought his career total to 36 goals in 42 games," he joined the ranks of the greats at Notre Dame.

Senior Ed Gurr also closed out the scoring with only three minutes left, when senior Tom Dooley passed the ball out to him, and Gurr put it into the net right into his chest and he put it into the net.

Despite the goal showing, the Irish were still in a deficit of 7-4, with only 12 minutes remaining. With the number of excellent chances the Irish have had, it is clear that they are not yet ready for their opponents.

One of the most potent offensive and defensive weapons that a football team has at its disposal is its kicking team. When two closely matched teams meet, it is of the utmost importance that the teams that decide the outcome of the game have the best kicking game. requires a full one third of the total game preparation, says assistant coach John Bouce. "It's as important as both the offense and the defense," says Boulac. "so you put your best people on specialty teams, including starters.

One of those starters is junior quarterback Mike Stick, who will handle the punting chores for the Irish for the third straight season. Karl (E.J. 199 pounds) put a Notre Dame record 73 times last season and brought his career average up to 40 yards per punt. The team is very comfortable with Boulac as both our quarterback and in our punting role," says Boulac. "He is an exceptional athlete who gives us an added dimension with his ability to run or pass from punter position.

"It's something another team must take the time to prepare for. But last year's excellent spring game last with a 48-yard-per punt average and he's been playing even better his fall," Mike Vincent, a 5-11, 181-pound junior, is Boulac's backup, along with highly regarded freshman John Von Wyl. "Mike and Hal have both improved tremendously this fall," says Boulac. "The competition between them made both better players." Returning to again handle kicking.

After a nightmare like 1981-82, you can hardly stand pat. While a 5-6 football season and a 10-17 basketball record would have been an embarrassment to Notre Dame's tradition, the Irish finally got on the scoreboard in the 37th minute of the match, with an assist from Mario Harkenrider. Then, Manta got his fourth goal of the season in the 57th minute, when freshman Tom Dooley dribbled the ball into the middle, where Manta volleyed it into the net from the side of his right foot.

EDITOR'S NOTE: It is with great pleasure that we welcome back one of the finest journalists that has ever written for The Observer, Craig Chval. A 1981 Notre Dame graduate, Craig currently is in his second year at Kent Law School in Chicago, but keeps in close touch with his alma mater. He is currently completing his column run in this space every Thursday for two years, and in our effort to increase the quality of our writing, we have asked him to return to the fold. I think you will enjoy reading his opinions.

The ACC — have committed Notre Dame's football team to playing the first night game in the history of Notre Dame Stadium. In a way, it's a pity ABC is spending all that money putting in lights. After last fall, the Irish should be pretty proud of playing their stadium in the dark.

Hopefully, this year's Notre Dame-Michigan affair will be a little more entertaining than last year's lulu's. If not, ABC may have to change a few contracts and run some "Home Boos" features. That way, at least the viewers will see a couple of games that are actually completed passes.

But the Observer refuses to be outdone. The sports department is sure to turn a few heads, and maybe contracts will be changed as well, by dragging one of its more, ah, controversial columns out of retirement and let great writing and grabbing of teeth, but fearless Chris Needles is prepared to get things turned around under the Golden Dome.

There have been quite a few cascade-induced belches since the last time this column graced the tables of the campus dining halls. Actually, about the same number of belches since the last time Notre Dame's football team caused a food fight. And Needles is hoping there is some kind of correlation.

Honesty prompts us to admit that this is hardly a novel idea. In fact, bringing back the good old days has become an rage in the last several years. Ronald Reagan won a presidential election by promising a return to the good old days.

In the world of sports, Chicago Bear owner George Halas has sought to revitalize his team with a string by bringing Mike Ditka in as head coach. Ditka was a hard-nosed tight end on the 1963 Bear team which won the city's last NFL title.

A few years later, Ditka left town after remaining that Halas tossed around nickles like manhole covers. But all his been forgiven in Halas desperation to revive the Bears' glory days. For so, the only thing Ditka has accomplished has been to show how tough it is to run a Dallastyle offense with the Chicago type players, The Observer however, promises better results.

We see no reason to report that this is a solo act. As much as we’d like to. we’re not bringing back Scott Zettel, John Scal­ ly, Tom Gibbins, etc. However, if John Paxson offers us a big enough percentage of his first NBA contract, we may swing a deal for Kelly. Tracy and Orlando. Give us a call.

 Seriously, though, we will try to take the same approach as before, mixing in commentary and features, all with the side of providing a little food for thought. With the kind of lunches they serve here, that may not be such a bad deal. Our focus will vary, ranging from Notre Dame athletics to the world at large.

Happily, this will help get things back on the right track. Because if it doesn’t, The Observer is negotiating to bring back Frank Lattour.
