Blair Kiel’s vindication

Coachng and confidence help him overcome adversity and family ties

This Saturday the black and gold of Purdue will get no sympathy from a pair of Boilermaker alumni and their son.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Kiel will be on hand to cheer on their son Blair, as the Fighting Irish take the field against the winless Boilermakers.

“We went to a few Purdue games when Blair was seven or eight,” said the elder Kiel, “when Mike Phipps was quarterback. But only because it was an in-state school. There was never any pressure for Blair to follow in that direction.

‘Purdue never really recruited him as strongly as Notre Dame and Indiana University did. I did consider going to Purdue,’ said Blair, “but only because it was an in-state school. Basically it was between 11 and Notre Dame. I really didn’t like Purdue that well.”

Blair is not worried about any split allegiances, from his parents. “Playing against my parents’ alma mater doesn’t bother me because they’ve turned their allegiance to Notre Dame. Dad really wants us to beat Purdue.”

Beating Purdue is a lot of people’s minds, especially after last year’s game, which the Boilermakers won in the closing seconds, 15-14.

“Purdue is going to be a tough team for us. If I were to upset us at Purdue — and that’s in the back of everyone’s mind,” said Kiel. “That’s going to be my added incentive when we play.”

How well the Irish will play partially relies on the shoulders of the Colombian, Irish native. “My role is to be a team leader. To do my job as well as I can do it. If I stay relaxed and under control, then the offensive unit will be more relaxed and the unit will perform much better.”

“This year I feel much more relaxed, more confident. Two years ago I was coming in here as a freshman, having to learn a new system. I really didn’t get a chance to establish myself.

“This year I won the job outright — it’s mine to win and keep, and it’s mine to lose. No one can take that away from me, so I’m not feeling any pressure from anyone else and constantly looking over my shoulder. The coaches have confidence in me, the players do, and I do, and that makes me feel a lot better.”

ND looks for revenge

Try to avoid letdown after upset win over Michigan

By GLEN BAILEY
Sports Writer

It is September 26, 1981 and Notre Dame’s rookie coach Gerry Faust is about to become a victim of one of those miracle finishes usually reserved for the Fighting Irish. After 55 minutes of play between Notre Dame and Purdue at Ross Ade Stadium, Notre Dame’s Phil Carter broke a 2-2 tie with a 30-yard touchdown run that appeared to seal the game for the Irish.

It did not.

On a risky fourth and one, Purdue crossed its own 30-yard line and picked up a precious first down. On the next play, Boilermaker Quarterback Scott Campbell fired toward the endzone where Hacker Steve Bryant came down with the ball between two Notre Dame defenders. On the next play Bryant caught the touchdown pass that lifted Purdue to within a point, 1-13.

Flip for the tie? Not on this day. Figures if it worked once it would work again. Boilermaker Coach Jim Young instructed Campbell to call the same play that had resulted in the touchdown.

It worked again. Two points. Final score: Purdue 15, Notre Dame 14. And Gerry Faust and his players still remember.

Is it real?
Are the Fighting Irish really as good as they looked in last Saturday’s 25-13 win over Michigan?
Or will the Boilermakers of Purdue once again burst the bubble and upset Notre Dame on its home field?

“I was happy for our players Saturday night because it hadn’t been much fun during the summer remembering last season,” said Faust, who didn’t give his team long to savor the win over Michigan.

“But we’re a long way from where we want to be,” Faust quickly added. “We did some things well but let’s see how well we come back and do them this week.”

Stopping the Boiler

Irish can't let Scott Campbell establish the ground game

BY SKIP DESJARDIN
Sports Editor Emeritus

Last season, as the final seconds ticked away, Scott Campbell led the Purdue Boilermakers to a come-from-behind win over the Irish.

In 1981, Campbell came off the bench at the last minute to replace injured starter Mark Herrmann. He was 17-29 for 178 yards in that national televised game.

"Scott Campbell is an excellent quarterback," says Notre Dame Coach Gerry Faust. "He struggles well and he isn't afraid to throw on the run. Steve Smith was the kind of quarterback who'd always run if we broke the containment. But Campbell is different. He can, and will, run. But he throws well on the run, and that scores us." There is little question that Campbell is the key to Purdue's chances this weekend. His success, however, may hinge — not on his arm but on the runners behind him.

The Irish secondary is still somewhat of a question mark. They must prepare for an aerial onslaught on the part of the Boilermakers. If Campbell can establish a running game, he can keep Notre Dame's defensive backfield off-balance. They will not be able to hang back, waiting for Campbell to throw. They will have to give up a half step, just in case the Boilermans run.

Play action passes by Campbell could freeze Irish defenders just long enough to free up a receiver. And that will mean trouble for Notre Dame.

Purdue is led by tailback Mel Gray. In two games thus far, he has gained 164 yards on 32 carries. Had Purdue been closer to Stanford or Minnesota, they might have been able to run more, and Gray would have even more impressive stats.

But his running ability is impressive as it is. The junior college transfer earned JC All America honors at Coffeyville in Kansas. He adds an element of quickness to the Boiler backfield that has been lacking in recent seasons.

Gray is only 5-9, 164, but he's a durable strong runner who can physically handle a pounding.

Joining him in the backfield will be fresh man power-running Rodney Carter. The 6-2, 200-lb. runner is — like Gray — averaging over five yards per carry. He complements Gray's style, as well. While Gray is the speedster, the Boilermakers rely on Carter for the "must" yards.

The Irish defensive line will have to play as well as the did last week to shut down the running game. For the first time since 1979, Michigan was held to under 100 yards rushing.

Kevin Griffith, who sacked Steve Smith three times last week, will be chasing Campbell out of the pocket again. That leaves much of the burden for stopping the run to Mike Gann. The sophomore lineman was impressive in his most extensive action to date last week. Like all the front men, he must repeat that performance.

There is more good news for the Irish as well. Tackle Tom Marshall, who missed time with a sprained foot, is listed as "probable" for this weekend.

"We knew we had to be quicker and more physical up front," said Faust of last weekend's game. "I think we've made progress in that direction.

"But the key against Michigan was pressuring Steve Smith and keeping him from exploiting the way he likes to. Campbell presents an entirely different set of problems for us defensively."

The secondary, which allowed Smith to pass for 186 yards last week, must be allowed to key on the pass. That means that Griffith, Gann and the other men up front for the Irish must shut down the Boiler running game.

Sweeney makes his move

Switch to tight end was his own idea

By TIM DOYLE
Sports Writer

Versatility and enthusiasm are great assets for an athletic to possess. Many coaches would be pleased to have players with one or the other of these characteristics. Once in a great while a unique player comes along who is able to express both of these characteristics. John Sweeney not only possesses versatility and enthusiasm, but seems to have a never ending supply of both.

After starting at fullback for three seasons, Sweeney, a 6-2, 217-lb. senior, began spring football practice at fullback, but soon started to spend time practicing at tight end due to the discovery of a much-improved Larry Moriarty at fullback.

Some players might be upset about losing a position at which they shine. But Sweeney is philosophical. "It was hard to handle at first but I have accepted it now. If Moriarty can keep up like Saturday, then he definitely deserves to be there. I just want to play wherever I can help."

Coach Tom Lichtenberg, offensive coordinator, praises Sweeney's versatility. "John is so valuable to us because he is an excellent blocker and can play fullback or right end. Halfback through spring practice John approached Coach Faust and me with the proposal of moving to tight end. He is such a team player, he only wants what is best for the team."

A position change can often present a player with adjustment problems. However, going from fullback to tight end is quite natural for Sweeney. He has the experience of a blocking back and has good hands.

"Although he has had no prior experience at tight end," Lichtenberg notes, "he has adjusted extremely well. Sweeney has enjoyed the adjustment. "I like playing tight end, especially in this defense. Because the tight end sees the ball a lot. I feel it is somewhat easier than fullback because you don't take as many hard hits."

Last week was the first time Sweeney played tight end in an actual game. "The first series I was in there. I was so excited and nervous that I miscalculated the defense a couple of times, but the next series I was right."

With Mark Bavaro out of action for a few weeks, Sweeney will take on a more important role. "We will use John as more of a primary receiver when he is in there this week — as opposed to a blocking tight end," says Lichtenberg.

Sweeney is also the special teams captain, another example of his versatility. As the Deerfield, Ill. native approaches the end of his stay at Notre Dame, he realizes he has a wide-open future. "I plan to take the MEAT's spring training and look at medical schools. As far as professional football is concerned, I will just have to wait until spring."

For now, however, Sweeney will follow in the footsteps of former teammate Pete Buchanan. Last season, Buchanan moved from fullback at tight end as well. The reason? There was already a superb athlete ahead of him in the fullback slot, and Buchanan wanted to play. He knew he couldn't beat out the man above him on the depth chart. So he made a change.

"That man's name? John Sweeney. He has come full circle in a short time. But Sweeney has lost none of the enthusiasm about which his coaches rave. He's still out to do what he can — wherever he can — to help the Irish.
Ends merger fight
Allied takes over Bendix Corp.

NEW YORK (AP) — Allied Corporation settled the tangled takeover fight between Martin Marietta Corporation and Bendix late yesterday with an agreement to buy Bendix for about $1.9 billion and gain a significant stake in Marietta as well.

The companies said Allied would buy the Bendix shares recently purchased by Marietta, and afterward would acquire the rest of Bendix's stock in a merger, according to a joint statement.

Allied had jumped into the fight on Wednesday with an agreement to merge with Bendix and swallow Marietta, too. But shortly afterward Marietta bought 14 percent of Bendix's stock, forcing Allied to reconsider its ambitious 2.5 billion plan.

Marietta would buy back 19.1 million of the approximately 29.5 million Marietta shares that Bendix had purchased under its contested takeover offer. Marietta would pay the same price that Bendix paid, $4.87 a share, or about $91.5 million.

As a result, Allied would still hold the 6.4 million Marietta shares currently held by Bendix and not subject to the backroom agreement, the companies said. Allied said its Marietta holding would represent about 49 percent of the currently outstanding Marietta shares.

Also, Allied would be given the right to nominate as many as 11 directors to the Marietta board. Allied would be prohibited from increasing its interest in Marietta until December 31, 1983, by a so-called "standstill agreement" that would last 10 years.

Bendix would become a wholly owned subsidiary of Allied, with a new chief executive. Bendix also would keep its headquarters in Southfield, Mich. In addition, Bendix would become president and a member of the board of directors of Allied, the companies said.

Bendix started the fight last month when it launched a $1.5 billion takeover bid for Marietta, which retaliated with its own $3 billion offer for Bendix.

Construction begins on new faculty building

By DAVID F. TRACY

Groundbreaking took place this week for Notre Dame's future Arts and Letters faculty office building, located behind O'Shaughnessy Hall.

A day earlier, Carl R. Reitke & Sons Construction Co., the firm in charge of construction, had staked out the building, removed the topsoil and broken ground on the central basement and footings.

The expected date of completion is April 1984, according to Physical Plant Director Donald Dedrick. The construction company is ordering supplies and trying to accomplish as much preliminary work as possible before winter, he said. "When the weather breaks in March, we'll really go into it. By November of 1984, we hope to have the building closed in with the outside work done, including masonry, windows, and flooring, so that we can heat the building and work through the winter."

The architects, Elferth Associates, of Bloomington, Minnesota, designed the structure as three four-story sections, with lobby entrances to the southeast and northwest. It will have 254 offices, a faculty lounge, a conference room, some smaller seminar rooms, and a secretarial pool.

Its future occupants have been housed in the basement of Memorial Library since its construction in 1963. Project cost is estimated at $7.2 million.
Actor Robin Williams, star of "The World According to Garp" and television's "Mork and Mindy," and his wife, Valerie Velardi, are expecting a baby about next March, according to a spokeswoman. The couple is relaxing at their ranch in the Napa Valley in Northern California before Williams goes back on the road for a series of nightclub engagements, said the press agent, who asked not to be identified. The couple has been married 5 years. "They waited this long to have a baby because Robin felt that while he was doing the series 'Mork and Mindy,' he would be unable to give the attention he should to Valerie and a baby," the spokeswoman said. The tele­vision comedy series was canceled by ABC, and Williams movie, "The World According to Garp," came out July 23. The movie had grossed $26 million as of last week, the spokeswoman said. — AP

Almost one year after the assassination of President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, his wife, Jihan, says she is still trying to put her life back together. She is studying and writing, walking, scuba diving and an exercise for herself. She said in an interview published recently in London's Daily Express. In what is believed to be the first such interview she has given since her hus­band's death, she says, "It is in the morning when I miss him most of all. "To wake up alone in the dark. That was our special time to talk. Then, and just before we went to sleep." Mrs. Sadat told Express reporter Catherine Olsen in the family's sun drenched summer home in Alexandria, Sadat, who made his historic peace mission to Jerusalem in 1977, was gunned down on October 6, 1981, during a military parade in Cairo. — AP

The body of a truck driver from Illinois was found early yesterday lying beside his rig in Interstate 44 about five miles west of Beltsville in central Indiana, a spokesman for the Indiana State Police said. Police identified the man as Gary D. Ellison, 37, of Moweaqua. Authorities said Ellison choked to death follow­ing an auto attack, Lt. Richard Jones said. A passerby reported seeing the man at 7:50 a.m. Jones added. — AP

The owner of a nightclub in San Antonio, Texas, where numerous country western stars got their starts was found slain in her fashionable home south of the city. Her caretaker also had been killed. Investigators said Robbie Barker, 65, owner of the Farmers Daughter dance hall, and Frances Machado, 65, who lived in a mobile home with her husband on Ms. Barker's 60-acre property, were found dead Thursday night by Mrs. Machado's hus­band, Osman. Ms. Barker, a longtime friend of the late entertainers Bob Wills and other country performers, had been seated numbly in the car. Mrs. Machado was shot from close range, officers said. Laredo County Sheriff's Lieutenant Roy Rogers said the bodies had been ransacked. Ms. Barker was reported to have kept large sums of cash and expensive jewelry in her home. — AP

A Michigan State University student is laying his fight against the fraternity that ousted him for homosexuality. John Nowak, 20, of Westland, president of MSU's Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual Council, has been considering court action after Uni­versity President Cecil Mickey upheld his suspension from Delta Sigma Phi, Nowak said Thursday he decided to drop the issue after investigating his legal options and talking with fraternity members. "People may criticize me for not taking my case to court, but they are not in my shoes," said Nowak, "I think I had a strong case, but I still had to consider my family. I don't want to hurt or upset my family any more." — AP

California will have a garbage crisis by 1987, when half of the state's dumps will fill up, a state agency warns. "The garbage crisis will come each California family hundreds, if not thousands, of dollars in the next decade," and cut yearly disposal capacity by 20 million tons, says Terry Trumble, head of the Solid Waste Management Board. Inland Empire landsfills, such as recy­cling, composting and "waste-to-energy" systems must be developed to offset dump shutdowns, the agency recommended in a report released Thursday. California now has the capacity to dispose of 4.5 million tons of solid waste a year in 356 landfills, the report said. The board warned that Southern California is losing landfill space at an "astounding rate." It said 96 percent of the state's garbage is generated in Southern California — 19 million tons yearly. — AP

Refugee camp massacre death toll reaches 597

BERI T: LEBANON (AP) — Refugee workers uncovered a new mass grave of 19 bodies yesterday, and Lebanon's chief prosecutor reported a death toll of at least 597 from the refugee camp massacres — double the number confirmed by the Red Cross.

An advance unit of 540 French paramedics and infantrymen came ashore yesterday at a village called Qarqour near the Lebanese border, charged with trying to stop Beirut's bloodshed.

Israeli troops continued to come under sporadic sniper fire as they drank coffee at a sidewalk cafe, Lebanese state television reported.

In Israel, Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government asked the Israeli chief justice to lead an inquiry into Israeli conduct during last week's massacre of civilians at two Palestinian refugee camps.

The justice, Yitzhak Kahan, refused to consider the request immediately, because his court has before it two private petitions on whether to order a full judicial inquiry into the Beirut bloodshed. Kahan's political opponents rejected the proposed investigation as insufficient. Since Kahan would not have subpoena power over the power to jail jurors, as in a normal judicial inquiry.

Israelis questioned anew the official Israeli version of events surrounding the refugee camp slaughter, which has been blamed on Lebanese Christian militiamen.

The papers said Israeli commanders in Beirut knew by 11 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 16 — the first day of the massacre, that civilians were being killed, Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon has said the Israeli forces helped plan last week's Phalangist assault on the camps and provided some support, but he says they never expected a slaughter of civilians.

The mass grave unearthed yesterday was discovered near the Chatilla camp. Jean Jacques Kurz, an international observer, said some refugees removed bodies had been discovered thus far, however, and more than 2,300 people were missing.

He said his figures were compiled from all relief agencies involved in the recovery operation. Kurz has said some refugees removed relatives bodies before Red Cross workers arrived at the camps, and civil defense workers had dug up other bodies.

Relief workers say the exact number of deaths may never be known since the mass graves believed dug by Christian militias have been difficult to find.

The new peacekeeping force is expected to remain until the Lebanese authorities can assume total control of the nation's capital.

The French army that arrived early yesterday will be joined by 600 other French troops, 800 U.S. Marines and 1,000 Italian infantrymen.

The Israeli command, which sent its forces into West Beirut last week after the assassination of Lebanese President-elect Bashir Gemayel, says it is carrying out its troops presence there and turning evacuated areas over to the Lebanese army.

Israel's state radio yesterday said all Israeli forces will be out of West Beirut by tomorrow.

Purdue rates near top in mathematics, science

WASHINGTON (AP) — Purdue University was among the nation's major research campuses to get high rankings in a report judging the schools' scholastic quality of math and science programs.

The California Institute of Technology was ranked No. 1, either alone or with others, in three of six fields based on professors' ratings of the institutions' scholarly quality, said Porter E. Gossage of the National Research Council, who was staff director for the study.

The rankings were based on a survey of 1,155 math and science professors, or about 8 percent of all U.S. professors in the fields.

Two other Golden State schools, the University of California-Berkeley and Stanford, each held two No. 1 rankings, as did the nation's oldest university, Harvard.

In addition to Harvard, the East Coast was represented by Princeton, ranked No. 1 in mathematics, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which shared top billing in chemistry.

CIT led the pack in geosciences, shared top billing with Harvard in physics and was in a four-way tie for first in chemistry with Berkeley, Harvard and MIT.

Stanford was tops in computer sciences and shared the No. 1 place in statistics-biostatistics with Berkeley.

On a separate ranking on the estimated influence of articles in scientific journals attributed to the colleges' graduate programs in 1978-79, Berkeley was No. 1 in mathematics and statistics, MIT in physics, UCLA in geosciences, the University of Wisconsin in chemistry and the University of Illinois-Urbana-Champaign in computer sciences.

The rankings were among 16 separate measures produced in a two-year, $500,000 study published Thursday with the impromptu of four prestigious academic groups, the American Council of Learned Societies, the National Academy of Education, the Social Services Research Council and the National Research Council.

It was funded by the Mellon, Ford and Rockefeller foundations, the National Institute of Health, the National Science Foundation and the National Academy of Sciences.

Honduran officials predict siege end

SAN PEDRO SULA, HONDURAS — Government officials yesterday predicted the week-long leftist siege of the Chamber of Commerce building is near an end, but would not discuss details of negotiations with the guerrillas who hold 19 hostages.

The guerrillas, claiming to be members of the Cinchoneros Popular Liberation Movement, released an account Thursday night, cutting the number of business leaders and others believed held to 39.

Economy Minister Gustavo Adolfo Allary, Treasury Minister Arlindo Carlini, and Central Bank President Gonzalo Cardenas were among the remaining captives as was Rafael Pastor Zayala, president of the National Industrial Association.

"We have more faith to say now that it is coming to an end," said a well-placed government official speaking to reporters Thursday night on condition his name not be used.

The government has not released any details of its negotiations with the Cinchoneros, one of four guerrilla groups operating in Honduras. There has been speculation that the 19 guerrillas would be granted free passage out of the country in return for releasing their remaining prisoners.

President Callejas, speaking to reporters Thursday night, would not discuss details of negotiations. "The coincidence is no great," he said.

Government-controlled media have repeatedly charged the siege was an attempt by the government to gain control of the Chamber of Commerce building. Central Bank President Gonzalo Carias said yesterday that the siege had been ended by a "direct link between two articles: 'The coincidence is no great.'"

Older Americans will face higher healthcare bills as a result of inflation and the recently passed tax increase.

The attention focused on the 1982 Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act has centered on the tax increases in the law. The measure also includes $152 billion in spending cuts over three years and the biggest chunk of the cuts affects the Medicare program.

Medicare is the federal government's health insurance plan for people 65 or over. It also covers people with permanent kidney failure and certain other disabled individuals.

The suit attacks the ads which say a customer survey concludes people prefer the ‘grilled’ Big King burger to those of McDonald’s or Wendy’s Old Fashioned Hamburgers.

McDonald’s Corporation sought an injunction to block Burger King from launching a $20 million television advertising campaign on Sunday, but the judge denied the request.

Burger King wants to tell millions of customers that its hamburgers weigh 20 percent less, before cooking than those sold at Burger King.

McDonald’s says that is not true and contends Burger King is planning to broadcast false, deceptive, misleading and offensive advertising.

When it comes to protecting our hard-earned reputation, you'll never see a white flag flying over the golden arches," said McDonald's spokesman Bob Kerrey in Chicago.

A public relations man of Miami-based Burger King Corporation, reached at an advertising meeting in New York, defended his company.

"Every one of the statements made in the advertisements can be substantiated," said John Weir. "The campaign will be launched as scheduled."

The controversy centers on the position in the ad that "consumers prefer the taste of flame-grilled hamburgers over the fried hamburger served at McDonald’s."

McDonald’s claims its burgers are grilled, not fried.

One is eligible for hospital insurance at age 65 if he has worked long enough to be insured under Social Security or the railroad retirement system or if he is enrolled to monthly Social Security or railroad retirement benefits. He also is eligible under special conditions of disabled or suffering from kidney failure.

Eligibility standards — meet there are no montly premiums. If one does not meet the eligibility standards, but still wants to sign up for hospital insurance, a monthly premium must be paid. As of July 1, 1982, the premium is $153 a month, up from $90 during the previous calendar year. Another increase — not yet determined, but linked to inflation — is expected next July.

Part A — which deals with medical coverage — carries a monthly premium. It is this premium that is increasing as a result of the budget cuts included in the tax bill. The monthly premium now $12.20 will go to $13.70 next July and to $15.90 a year later.

Both Parts A and Parts B of Medicare include "deductibles, the minimum amount that must be paid by the individual before Medicare benefits may be taken. These deductibles have been rising with the rising cost of living.

Part A, for example, will aid in the payment of up to 90 days' stay in any participating hospital per benefit period. For the first 60 days, Medicare pays for all covered services except the first $260 — a $56 increase from the rate last January.

For the next 40 days, the hospital portion for those covered services beyond 65's a day — an increase of $1 from Jan 1. If hospitalization extends beyond 90 days, there are 60 "reserve" days that one is entitled to in his lifetime. In this case, Medicare will pay for covered services beyond $150 a day — an increase of $28 from last January.

There is also a deductible for Part B of Medicare. The current rate is 20% up from $60 before January 1, 1982.

The medical insurance section pays 80 percent of "approved charges" for covered services. This amount is based on what is defined as "reasonable charge."

Clearing the air through broadcast deregulation

The Federal Communications Commission's effort to eliminate the Fairness Doctrine and the political broadcasting provisions of the Communications Act is a step toward providing the American people with an increased number and diversity of opinion on important national issues. Congress should repeal the Fairness Doctrine, the "equal opportunities" requirement, the "reasonable access" regulations and revamp the Communications Act to grant broadcast media the same First Amendment rights and guarantees enjoyed by newspapers, books and magazines.

The Fairness Doctrine imposes an unrealistic, editorial straitjacket on broadcasters. For each point of view presented, many varying points of view must be given expression. This not only robs a broadcaster of his editorial discretion, it underrates his motives, undermines his professional integrity and ignores the fact that broadcasters rights are conditioned by a professional notion of fairness and objectivity. While our reporting must not give each story or each candidate the same amount of airtime, we conscientiously present a balanced view of all major issues.

Indeed, the Fairness Doctrine's insistence on equal treatment for opposing viewpoints has been counterproductive in terms of the public debate on important issues. Rather than be burdened with each and every nuance of each and every issue, broadcasters have shied away from controversial and polarizing matters. Cowed by excessive government regulation, the electronic media have opted for low-key and often non-existent coverage of pressing public matters. This situation not only does not benefit the consumer, it destroys the noble yet ineffective concept that is the rationale for the Fairness Doctrine.

The "equal opportunities" requirement meant that broadcasters must grant equal time to appear on their airwaves. Federal law also requires a "reasonable access" to the editorial process. In an election campaign, newspapers are not required by the government to grant equal front page coverage to all candidates for office. Some candidates rate a photo and coverage on page one; others rate a small notice on page 40. In the print media, our government bureaucrats make the decisions.

It is hard to imagine that if there were electronic media at the time of the First Amendment, that our Founding Fathers would have excluded broadcast journalism from its protection. For most Americans today, the press is radio and television.

Yet under section 315 of the Communications Act, broadcasters must grant equal access to all minority, Irving and opinion candidates meeting government-imposed requirements. The requirement to grant candidates equal time on the air is hamstrung by the "reasonable access" to the media by federal candidates, which is not limited to federal and candidates, yet TV and radio must not only surrender editorial discretion that is the rationale for the Fairness Doctrine.

"Reasonable access" to the media by federal candidates injects the government into an area of editorial discretion which is uninvolved in other media. No federal law requires broadcasters to grant space to federal candidates; yet TV and radio must not only surrender editorial discretion, they must also identify the candidates as candidates, and not endorse them or reject them. Where is the context of a candidate's viewpoint? Must a broadcast station, for example, give space to those candidates it opposes? Are magazines required to make room for opinions that run counter to the magazine's political leanings? Where must the owners of radio and television stations have their opinions and preferences undercut by hamstrung candidates?

The end result is that broadcasters cannot say what they want to say and have many reasons not to investigate, report or cover in important public issues. The Fairness Doctrine and other noble-sounding principles have created among broadcasters a fear of controversy. We worry about every commercial, every public service announcement and every news item that might create a controversy which might merit a response. We worry, when a candidate runs on the air and we necessarily err on the side of safety. In the current environment, broadcasters could not even air an old Ronald Reagan message without the last election without fear of an equal opportunity proceeding or a lawsuit for libel.

Even in instances where a broadcaster seeks to exercise his right of self-expression by endorsing a particular candidate, his position and his point of view are undercut by government mandates. The political editorializing role requires that a broadcaster must give notice and an opportunity to respond to all candidates for office when he endorses a candidate for that particular office. No other media are so cowedled by the government. Must a newspaper not give space to those candidates it opposes? Are magazines required to make room for opinions that run counter to the magazine's political leanings? Where must the owners of radio and television stations have their opinions and preferences undercut by hamstrung candidates?

The public is more concerned with public interest and public issues than anyone gives them credit for. The people of the United States will not withstand their liberties in the context of the marketplace of ideas and do nothing. Must a newspaper not notify and provide candidates that run counter to the government's editorial judgments? Must a magazine's political leanings? Where must women's rights be given notice and an opportunity to respond to all candidates for office? Must women's rights be given notice and an opportunity to respond to all candidates for office? Must a broadcast station, for example, give space to those candidates it opposes? Are magazines required to make room for opinions that run counter to the magazine's political leanings? Where must the owners of radio and television stations have their opinions and preferences undercut by hamstring candidates?

The ND soccer team was shut out by Indiana last night 0-0 in a game delayed half hour by rain. Paul DiBernardo scored off a corner kick as Irish goalie Gerard McCarthy deflected the ball into his own net at 19:58. At 62:59 Marty Gortier gave a free kick from 25 yards out to the left of the penalty box. He kicked the ball into a wall of Irish deflectors, picked up the loose ball, beat four defenders and bundled the ball for the goal. Indiana scored against McCarthy in the 71st minute when McCarthy couldn’t control Zuberer’s shot from 25 yards and the ball popped out to Gortier whoрамmed it home. Keith Meyer finished the scoring at 70:00 off the cross from Gallagher. — The Observer

Red Sox 4, Yankees 2

BOSTON (AP) — John Tudor, staked to the lead with a three-run third inning, scattered seven hits last night in pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees. Tudor, 13-10, struck out nine in earning his third consecutive victory. The Yankees jumped to a 2-0 lead before the Red Sox unloaded against New York starter Roy Howell, 1-3.

Lou Piniella put New York in front 10-10 with his sixth homer, a shot into the screen in left-center with one out in the second. The Yankees added another run in the third on a two-out single by Willie Randolph and a 200-foot pop double down the left-field line by Dave Collins.

Boston struck back in its half of the third to go in front to stay. Rick Miller led off with a single, took third on Gary Allenson’s double off the wall in left and scored on Jerry Berry’s grounder to short.

Dwight Evans sliced a double to right, scoring Allenson. One out later, Carl Yastrzemski singled to center to score Evans.

Atlanta 11, San Diego 6

ATLANTA (AP) — Rafael Ramirez belted two home runs and drove in five as the Atlanta Braves snapped a three-game losing streak with an 11-6 victory over the San Diego Padres last night.

The Braves started the night with a three-run first on a grand slam by Don Kessinger and a sacrifice fly and pinch hitter Chris Chambliss drove in the go-ahead run on a forceout at second base.

The victory went to Ken Dayley, 5-6.

Angels 10, Rangers 1

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Bobby Clark and Tim Foli each drove in two runs and Bruce Kison scattered seven hits for eight innings as the California Angels protected their division lead with a 10-1 pounding of the Texas Rangers last night.

Kison, 10-5, walked two and struck out eight before being relieved at the start of the ninth inning by Luis Sanchez. California battered Texas starter Rick Honeycutt, 5-17, and two relievers for 14 hits.

The Angels took a 2-0 lead over Kansas City in the American League West into last night’s contest.

California scored single runs in the second, third, fourth and fifth innings. Clark drove in Don Baylor with a second-inning groundout, Bob Boone scored on Rod Carew’s third-inning sacrifice fly, Brian Downing doubled in the fourth and Clark again knocked in Baylor with a fifth-inning single.

John Fought takes Southern Open lead

By TOM SALADINO

AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — John Fought, the 1979 rookie of the year who quit the tour earlier this year in frustration, fired a 6-under-par 66 yesterday to take a one-stroke lead after the second round of the $250,000 Southern Open golf tournament.

Fought, who had a 67 Thursday, has a 135 total, one shot ahead of first round co-leader Bobby Clampett, who had a 69 Friday for a 134 total over the par-70, 6,791-yard Green Island Country Club course.

Both Fought and Clampett are graduates of Brigham Young University.

Fought, who won two tournaments in his rookie year and earned $100,000, has earned less than $90,000 in the three years since, including only $9,798 this year.

The 26-year-old, who also won the 1977 U.S. Amateur, had four birdies, including a 15-foot par on the 16th hole and a 10-footer on 15, to take the lead in the battle for the $45,000 first prize.

Though he was six under midway after only eight tournaments and took off for four months before returning about eight weeks ago.

"I just wanted to get away, I didn't want to play golf," said Fought, who worked for his father as an accountant and then resumed practicing for two months before returning.

"I knew I was going to come back. I just had to get away. I had put too much pressure on myself, and it was wearing me out," he said.

Clampett, 22, a non-winner in two seasons on the tour, had a round that included five birdies and four birdies.

"Today has shown me that there is still a chance to play. I need to get out and work at it," said Clampett, who won 10 rounds before being three of the last five holes.

While not winning on the tour, Clampett has finished second five times. He was third this year in the U.S. Open and led the British Open for two rounds.

Two shots back at 135 were George Burns and Tom Simpson. Burns had a 68 and Simpson had a 69.

Andy Bean, Wally Armstrong and Chip Beck were at 136. Bean and Beck had 68s. Armstrong had a 70.

Cards keep 4 game lead over Phillies

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Krukow and Ron Blomberg hit two-run singles in an 8-3 victory over the New York Mets last night, keeping the Phillies' slim pennant hopes alive.

Philadelphia began the night 4 games behind the first-place St. Louis Cardinals in the National League East.

Krukow, 15-11, left after yielding a leadoff triple to George Foster in the eighth inning. He recorded only two hits in eight innings.

The Phillies picked up an un­ earned run off Mets starter Walt Farrow. 0-2, in the fourth following leadoff walks to Gary Matthews and Mike Schmidt. Bo Darnell grounded into a double play, but first baseman Dave Kingman booted George Yovovich's grounder, allowing Matthews to score from third.

Philadelphia scored again in the sixth when Schmidt drew a leadoff walk, stole second, and scored on Yovovich's broken single to right field.

The second-ranked Nebraska Cornhuskers set many records while crushing New Mexico State last week, but the only record they're shooting for today is a winning one. The Cornhuskers take a 2-0 mark to State College, Pa., for a nationally-televized clash with eighth-ranked Penn State (CBS-TV, 3:30 p.m., EDT), which already owns a 3-0 log.

The winner will have to be considered a serious challenger for the national championship.

Meanwhile, Washington, the No.1 team in the Associated Press poll, begins defense of its Pacific-10 crown with a home game against winless Oregon, third-ranked Penn State visits No.19 Illinois and fourth-ranked Arizona State is at No.16 Miami, Fla., Missouri is at No.6 Southern Mississippi, State, No.6 Southern Mississippi entertains Texas Christian in a night game and Mississippi, State, No.12 University of Florida travels to the University of Tennessee.

Week 3 is also being televised with a 28-24 triumph on 7-yard pass from John Mazur to Fred Eason and sophomore Sean Salisbury "We still have as many great athletes as we just want to find out if everybody will be there, that's all."

NFL owners, players meet to end strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Donlan and Ed Garvey, the chief negotiators for the National Football League owners' group and the players' union, will meet this weekend at an undisclosed site in hopes of settling the four-day-old strike, the Management Council said Friday.

Jim Miller, public relations director of the owners' union, would not reveal the make-up of the negotiating committees but said he did not expect Pete Rozelle, the NFL commissioner, to take part in the talks.

Donian, executive director of the Management Council, has assured his counterpart with the union, agreed in telephone conversations to meet. It was the first major development since the talks broke off Sept. 17. Three days before the strike began.

The Southern Cal-Oklahoma game will not be televised after all, since the NCAA got a stay of a U.S. District Court ruling which had averaged the new four-year TV pact with ABC and CBS. Oklahoma had sold the USC game to a local station for $250,000, but the stay killed that deal.

Last year's game in Los Angeles was a memorable one, with USC pulling off a 28-24 triumph on 7-yard pass from John Mazur to Fred Eason and sophomore Sean Salisbury, "We still have as many great athletes as we just want to find out if everybody will be there, that's all."

Sunday college games a real possibility

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — The NCAA gave the go-ahead yesterday for live network telecasts of college football games on Sundays during the National Football League players' lockout.

The first Sunday telecast could be Oct. 1, pending approval of the plan by ABC, CBS and the Turner Broadcasting System, said Tom Hansen, assistant executive director of the college football programming. The plan, designed to give the networks greater flexibility in choosing games, was approved yesterday by the NCAA Council.

Hansen said the council had agreed to limit the Sunday telecasts to just one game in any area per week. This could mean one game telecast nationally, or two or more aired on a regional basis.

Hansen said the plan must be approved by ABC, CBS and the Turner Broadcasting System, which has signed a supplementary cable contract with the NCAA.

Hansen said: "We're in the process of gaining the final signature from the college football league."

Under the NCAA contract with ABC and CBS, a national appearance pays a school about $55,000.

Burtnett starting over after 13 years in the trenches, Purdue’s coach settles down

By GREG SMITH

Sports Writer

The Purdue Exponent

WEST LAFAYETTE Ind. — After 13 years of coaching, Leon Burtnett has made it in the top 24x109 since becoming Purdue’s Mbb head football coach after Jim Young’s resignation in 1969, Leon Burtnett has found the job demanding of both time and energy.

"The most important thing is that I coach head coach b that it demands more time," Burtnett says. "It demands that you plan your whole day. I have to make sure I leave time for the mental part of the game." One of his prior assistants was quoted as saying, "If I had done it before as an assistant, so it wasn’t as if I was going in cold. I just hadn’t done it as much before.

Burtnett found that he must also spend more time recruiting. "As an assistant coach, I was assigned a certain area to cover," says the 59 year old assistant coach. "If I finished in my area, Jim had me in other areas.

"I feel that as head coach I have to see more recruits in more areas. When I first came, I’d flow 40,000 miles in recruiting trips. We had an excellent recruiting real last year, but each year you have to try to do better.

During the 13 years he has been coaching college football, Purdue has not stayed in one place for a long period of time. In fact, the four players who have spent at Purdue the longest time he has ever stayed at one university in California and raised in Oklahoma, he and his family moved to Moore, Kan., before his sophomore year in high school. While in high school, Burtnett gained much knowledge of the offense that works very well. We learned in for both coach and players.

New coach, new offensive systems

The Boilermakers have learned in new offensive systems but don’t he surprised if some of them come into their own this week against Iowa. We have a more diversified attack than we had last year.

Last year these two words could be the key to the Irish season, as the team that was supposed to put a fairy tale ending on Faust’s Cinderella story instead made 1981 a year of learning for both coach and players.

"We don’t want another five and six season like last year. The ups are more determined to do well to win the year. It was a new year for Coach Faust, it was a new place to work under him, and I think the transition was part of last year’s problem."

"After a year of experience, we know how he thinks and the type of players we have on this team. It would be foolish to sit the kids on the team on this team to go. We have to play at our maximum potential. But before any starts confusing you about the Irish and ending their statements with the words "national champions," Kiel adds a touch of reason to the rose picture painted by the lights last week.

"I don’t think that people should be jumping to conclusions yet. We have gotten better but we still have a lot of things to prove.

"Like the saying goes, one game does not a season make."

One coach that has certainly made a difference this year has been quarter back and receiver coach Ron Hudson, and Kiel is the first to admit it.

"Hudson coming to Notre Dame is one of the major reasons why I’m playing the way I have lately," says Kiel. "He’s brought in a whole new offense that works very well. We use the backs much more, while concentrating on the middle area of the field.

"We’ll be using Tamer Hunter on inside patterns and hitting the wide receivers outside when the defense comes in on Tony. We have a more diversified attack than we had last year."

"In 1981 we had a lot of things to prove. This year we have a lot of players that we think are better but we still have a lot of things to prove.

"Like the saying goes, one game does not a season make."

Notre Dame will have to do the things Faust speaks against of a Boilermaker squad that has given up 331 total yards in back to back losses to Stanford (35-14) and Minnesota (36-10).

"That total is a little bit deceiving because you can’t forget that Stanford’s All American quarterback John Elway was accountable for quite a bit of that yardage and he’s as good as anybody around," said Faust. "They (Purdue) are breaking in some new people at certain positions that don’t be surprised if some of them come into their own this week against us. It seems like playing against Notre Dame does to that anymore we play."

If the new people Faust speaks of do come into their own, it would give Purdue its first victory at Notre Dame stadium since 1975. During that time, Notre Dame has won it 13 times, the Boilers 12.

The Boilermakers are one of many reasons this intra-state rivalry always ranks as one of the most emotional games of each season for both teams.

"When a team plays emotional games like we have the past two weeks, you can have layoffs," said Faust. "But you’ve got to be careful..."

"That’s what’s happening to this football team, they have doubts about their abilities. The kids want to win so bad it’s effecting their play. They have to relax and have fun.

The Boilers shouldn’t expect too much fun facing a Notre Dame defense that held Michigan to 41 yards rushing and sacked quarterback Steve Smith eight times for 44 yards in losses.

"They have the personnel, there’s no doubts," said Burtnett. "I think they surprised everyone last year when they showed how potent the personnel they have. Their defense was good last year. Now their offense looks more consistent.

Notre Dame’s new front four defensive consistency begins with junior tackle Greg Kiel, who had the best day of his career against Michigan with 15 completions on 22 attempts for 141 yards. For his efforts, Kiel received the game ball from his coaches. Notre Dame’s most valuable player award added on and a double dose of confidence from himself.

"Blair Kiel looked a lot better in his first game against Michigan than I’ve seen him look since he went to Notre Dame," said Burtnett. "He will be a problem for us."

And so will fullback Larry Moriarty, who rushed for 116 yards on 16 carries against the Wolverines. Kiel’s well-timed short passes, mixed with the running game provided by Moriarty and tailback Pat Molnar and Larry Hill, have kept Burtnett in his office watching game films until the wee hours of every morning this week.

For the Boilers the offense is Campbell, who has completed 27 of 58 passes (46.1 per cent) for 277 yards in two games.

"I have as much respect for him as any other quarterback we’ve faced this year after what he did to us last year," said Faust.

Campbell will look to fullback Dave Rutherford (35 yards and 9 tackles) in Saturday’s game. The Boilermakers will face the passing talents of freshman tailback and Michigan’s wide receivers.

"Remember that we won our first game last year," said Faust. "I have been perched perhaps over cautious in his predictions for the remainder of the season. "Things didn’t go so well for us after that, but we’ll have a mental make that will cost us.

"I don’t feel we’re that bad of a football team..."

The Upset

The Observer sports staff predict the outcome of the week's major college football games. Records are compiled as to how each writer does against the spread. In other words, it is not enough to pick the winner of a given game. The writer must pick a winner and give the underdog points.
