Irish leprechaun Randy Kelly boosts a fan at last night's pay rally in Stepan Center. See photo file on page two. (Photo by Glenn Kelly)

The long-awaited after hours study lounge in the new Cushwa Library. See page two. (Photo by Glen Kelly)

Jobless rate surges to post-Depression high
WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment surged to 10.1 percent in September, the worst level since the nation pulled itself from the Great Depression, the government reported yesterday.

Moreover, the numbers of Americans who simply gave up looking for work or settled for part-time jobs also eclipsed modern records.

Another 11.5 million people were unemployed last month, 450,000 higher than in August. Some 120,000 lost their jobs in September while an additional 500,000 people tried in vain to join the workforce for the first time.

The September figure was the first double-digit joblessness experienced by the nation in more than four decades. The previous high was an annual average of 14.6 percent, recorded in 1940 at the end of the Depression.

Some 1.6 million people — a new post-Depression high — were officially declared by the government to have lapsed into the "discouraged workers" category. That is a separate grouping of the workforce for the first time, established because all lounge locks had not been secured.

This secures the lounge for late night study, but because the military unions are not allow ed to meet, the nation pulled itself from the Great Depression, the government pledged to find jobs "for all the 10.1" percent of the labor force out of work.

Reagan's chief economic adviser, Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, said the legislation would create hundreds of thousands of jobs by increasing U.S. investments abroad. The president also said his administration reduced "double-digit inflation, the single greatest enemy of jobs" and added that the toughest, most urgent priority we have is to create more jobs.

Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan termed the unemployment figures "a social tragedy." He said the law he helped draft was "the toughest, most urgent priority we have is to create more jobs."

Reagan's chief economic adviser, Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, said the legislation "would create hundreds of thousands of jobs by increasing U.S. investments abroad. The president also said his administration "reduced "double-digit inflation, the single greatest enemy of jobs" and added that the toughest, most urgent priority we have is to create more jobs."
News Briefs

Seven Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students were arrested at Corby's early yesterday for under-age drinking. South Bend Police Chief Daniel Thompson said officers made the arrests about 1 a.m. yesterday inside Corby's. They were charged with under-age drinking in a tavern. Police also checked Bridge's for under-age drinkers, but no arrests were made. Notre Dame Dean of Students James Roemer was unavailable for comment. He was attending an alcohol conference in Indianapolis. — The Observer

A state district court jury awarded $11.2 million to the parents of a Houston infant who suffered brain damage in his crib. Jurors ruled Thursday that Jacqueline and Steven Smith of Houston were entitled to damages from the crib manufacturer, Welsh Co. of St. Louis, and the retailer, ABC Baby Furniture and Infant Wear Inc. According to testimony, one side of the crib-collapsed July 24, 1981, as Christopher-Smith, then 7 months old, was lying in it. The couple claimed the baby's neck became wedged between two sections of vertical dowel and he suffered brain damage from lack of oxygen. — AP

Eastern Virginia Medical School has announced the birth of its seventh in utero, or "test tube," baby, the eighth such birth in the United States. Vern Jones of the medical school said the baby, born in a Minnesota hospital Thursday, is "a very healthy eight-pound, seven-and-a-half ounce girl." The parents requested anonymity, he said. The birth of the first baby conceived outside the womb at the Eastern Virginia Medical School was last December. Jones said 19 more such births are expected by spring. — AP

Food production must be doubled in the next 60 years or the world will face "social and political chaos" because of food shortages, a Nobel prizewinner said in Florida Thursday. Norstedt Borlaug, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1970 for developing a high-yield strain of wheat, said his prediction is based on estimates that the world population will double from 5 billion to 10 billion by the year 2042. He spoke at dedication ceremonies of The Land Pavilion in the Future World section of Disney World's new Epcot Center. The exhibit features plants grown under experimental conditions. — AP

The Hillsboro, Wisconsin Police Department, housed in a former girl's restroom in a building once used as a high school, soon will be moving. The Hillsboro City Council voted this week to move the department into the clerk's office in the Hillsboro City Building. The department's two officers had complained the room was smelly and damp even though bathroom fixtures had been removed. It was, however, drier than their previous office in the old school. The council's plans may eventually exceed Police Chief Leo Lowrey's expectations. The council discussed constructing an addition to the building, a former high school that now houses the library, the clerk's office and the council chambers, to give police their own office. — AP

The 20-year-old son of the president of Corning Glass Works was released on $4,000 bail after being arrested on charges of importing hashish from China. Neil David MacAvoy, a Stanford University junior, was arrested Wednesday after a package was delivered to him, Sgt. T.K. Davis of the Santa Clara sheriff's office said. Davis said customs inspectors were alerted to the package, which held about an ounce of hashish, by a dog. A postal inspector delivered the package to MacAvoy at the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity house, Davis said, and MacAvoy signed for it and "seemed excited about getting it." Ten minutes later, narcotics agents with a search warrant kicked in the door and arrested MacAvoy. Davis said detectives found more than an ounce of marijuana and $2,500 worth of cocaine in MacAvoy's room. MacAvoy was booked for possession for sale of hashish, cocaine and marijuana, importing hashish and possession of cocaine. He posted bail and was released. His father is Dr. Thomas C. MacAvoy, of Corning, N.Y., president of Corning Glass and last year's president of the National Council of Boy Scouts. — AP

Former Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, dying of cancer, has appealed for voters to stick with land use plans. "I'm not embarrassed. I haven't got much time left. This is my last chance to talk to you about this," McCall, 69, said Thursday. McCall was stricken with prostate cancer in 1973. Doctors found in 1981 that the cancer had spread to his spine, ribs and skull. — AP

Breezy today with a 60 percent chance of rain. High in low 60s. Low in low 50s. Occasional rain and mild Sunday. High in low 70s. — AP

You won't have to take up your collection to afford a food tent that passes the plate with us next Sunday. You can take all you eat. $6.55. So come pass the plate with us next Sunday. You can take all you eat. Without paying, "All it hurts"

The Observer Under the Big Top

Design Editor: Kari Anderl
Design Assistant: Lisa Turner
Production: Janice Zens

Editorial Staff: Donald A. Ezell, Peter Ley, Greg "Tent Pole" Swiercz

Copy Editor: Susan R. Faust
Features Layout: Tom Eberle
Sports Layout: Tom Eberle

The Observer, published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased at $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120. All reproduction rights are reserved.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during spring and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. No reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during spring and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120. All reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. No reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during spring and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. No reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during spring and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120. All reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. No reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during spring and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. No reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during spring and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120. All reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. No reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during spring and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120. All reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. No reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during spring and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year, $15 per semester by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 12-10, South Bend, IN 46614-0120. All reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. No reproduction rights are reserved. Second-class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.
Economic woes

Business group sees slow recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Americans no longer worry that their diploma is a ticket to prosperity, a national survey indicates. Nearly two-thirds of students and graduates of four-year universities are just as likely to find themselves unemployed or underemployed as anyone else in the job market.

The survey, released yesterday by the Business Council for its semiannual meeting of business leaders, also found that nearly three-quarters of Americans give higher education good grades — 17 percent rated U.S. colleges as excellent and 56 percent said they are good. Some 25 percent met out a rating of fair and a 4 percent said they were poor. About 70 percent of those polled said they had major concerns about their ability to pay for a child's college education, and one-third had some concerns. One in 9 — 11 percent — had no such worries.

Asking about President Reagan's efforts to make deep cuts in federal aid to higher education, programs should be cut back drastically and 40 percent said they should be curtailed somewhat. But 44 percent said they favored no cuts in federal student aid.

On a separate question, 49 percent said they were critical of cuts in aid to college students, and 41 percent called themselves supporters. However, large majorities favored continuing federal aid for needy students. Some 71 percent backed low-interest loans to middle-income students, 71 percent supported outright grants to low-income students, and 66 percent endorsed direct federal aid to institutions with large numbers of needy students.

By an overwhelming margin — 85 to 7 percent — Americans felt that all qualified students should get the opportunity to attend college.

Despite doubts that a diploma is a safeguard against unemployment, large majorities believe a college-educated person is more likely to self-support (69 percent) and a community leader (52 percent) than someone who never went to college.

The polling firm mailed out 40 survey questions last May to 3,200 randomly selected people and got usable responses from 1,188, or 28 percent. The firm said it is a 95 percent confident that its results reflect the views of all Americans, give or take 2.8 percent on any given answer.

September jobless rate highest since 1940

NEW YORK (AP) — The September unemployment rate is accepted officially as the highest since 1940, but those who deal with the statistics caution against making comparisons with the Great Depression of the 1930s.

To begin with, there were no official jobless data during the 1930s. They were reconstructed during 1940 and 1949 from various sources by a Bureau of Labor Statistics worker, Stanley Lebergott, now a professor at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn.

The 1940s and the 1930s are “different worlds,” the professor said yesterday. While he read “with grief" of the 10.1 unemployment rate for September, he expressed the opinion that being out of work today is “not as bad as then.”

To be without a job in the 1930s was very different, he said, because of the absence of unemployment insurance and Social Security, and because almost all of the jobless were heads of households.

“The bulk of the unemployed could not live in acute financial need,” said Lebergott, who was a teenager during the 1940s. He recalls some breadwinners were unable to afford an adequate supply of food in those days.

“Unemployment meant something different, in significant ways,” he said. Unemployment insurance today may permit an idle worker to wait for a job of his or her choosing. In the 1930s, he said, “you took the first job you could get.”

The composition of the workforce has also changed significantly in recent years. The two-income family has become common, and women have become prominent in the work force.
Cancer victim

Actor-director Lamas dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor-director Fernando Lamas, the swarthy, silver-haired star of numerous "Latin lover" movies, died yesterday afternoon of cancer, a hospital spokesman said.

Lamas, 67, died at 2:45 p.m. at UCLA Medical Center, said hospital spokesman Al Hicks.

Lamas had been hospitalized for four weeks with what Hicks described as "a generalized cancer."

Lamas had complained of back pain when he withdrew from a role in a new television series last month, said Carol Fletcher, a spokeswoman for NBC. He was to have appeared in a supporting role in the adventure series "Gavilan," starring Robert Urich, which is scheduled to debut following the World Series.

Lamas had filmed scenes for five episodes, playing Caesar D. Tortuga, a sophisticated bon vivant who belongs to an aristocratic South American family left penniless after an unsuccessful coup. He was replaced by Patrick Macnee and all of his scenes were reshuffled.

The dashing Argentine-born entertainer had starred in more than 40 motion pictures and directed more than 60 television shows since his Hollywood debut in 1951.

He met actress Esther Williams when the two championships winners made the "Dangerous When Wet," and the two were married in 1963.

He made his film debut in the play "The Man Arrived at Night" at the age of 22. He played heroes in four movies, then was last opposite Dolores Del Rio in "Lady, Windom's Fan." The movie made him one of the most popular Latin stars. He appeared in more than 20 films in Europe and Latin America.

Lamas moved to Hollywood in 1951 and in 1967, he began his television directing career with "Bat for Your Life" and accepted only special acting assignments thereafter, including an episode of "Marcus, Maris," "S.W.A.T.," "Starsky and Hutch" and "Superman."

He had starred in more than 20 American films, including "The Mermaid," "The Million Dollar Rifles" and "The Cheap Detective."

Last year, Lamas directed an episode of CBS' "Tales of Carse" in which his son, Lorenzo Lamas, a regular of the show, had a prominent part. He also directed feature films for Columbia, including "The Violent Ones" and "Magic Fountain."

MIAMI (AP) — A federal judge yesterday denied McDonald's request for a temporary restraining order that would have pulled Burger King's attacks on Big Macs off the air.

Chief U.S. District Judge C. Clyde Atkins refused to halt the ads after McDonald's attorney argued and viewed exhibits for almost two hours yesterday afternoon.

McDonald's chief counsel, Gary Sennett, admitted that Burger King's commercial containing that McDonald's regular hamburgers are 20 percent smaller is true, but he said the intent of the ad is "false and misleading."

Burger King attorney Stephen Lang denied that the intent of the ad was to mislead.

The "20 percent smaller" commercial shows a little girl in front of a Burger King restaurant saying, "Do I look 20 percent smaller to you?"

McDonald's request yesterday was the second Burger King has made to bar the ads which it said are "false and misleading."

McDonald's, the nation's leading fast-food hamburger chain, filed suit three weeks ago in an effort to take the ads that were under contract until October. A hearing is scheduled on a motion for a permanent injunction in November. But by that time the ads would have been on the air for several weeks, so McDonald's sought a temporary restraining order in yesterday's emergency hearing.

Los Angeles County runs short on funds

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — Times are tough in Portage County. Judges canceled trials after running out of money to pay jurors, only four of the sheriff's 19 patrol cars are available for patrol duty, and some officials considered canceling the November election.

Nearly one property owner in 10 is delinquent on taxes. "People are saying they just don't have the money," said county treasurer Maurice Klime. "They are hurting because of general economic conditions."

But county officials said yesterday the problems will be straightened out somehow, that the trials and the election both will be held.

Commissioners and other elected officials said they will seek the state's advice on how to eliminate a proposed $41,000 budget deficit in the county of 135,600 east of Akron that is home to Kent State University.

State law forbids deficit spending, and with and two and a half months left in the 1982 fiscal year, officials said this week that the county's $112.7 million budget was nearly exhausted.

Officials blame the budget problem on several factors, including the recession, federal budget cuts, high unemployment, and

State law requires the release of anyone not brought to trial within 90 days. "It's just a matter of fact that we're broke and can't pay juries," said Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kaneford.

County commissioners said yesterday they would find the money to pay jury fees, even if they have to borrow it. The commissioners had allotted $12,000 to pay jurors this year and it has been spent.

"Early this week, the county commissioners had notified attorneys that no jury trials could be held until 1983, putting 700 civil and criminal cases in limbo. That might have meant freedom for some criminal suspects, because state law requires the release of anyone not brought to trial within 90 days."

"It's just a matter of fact that we're broke and can't pay juries," said Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kaneford.

County commissioners said yesterday they would find the money to pay jury fees, even if they have to borrow it. The commissioners had allotted $12,000 to pay jurors this year and it has been spent.

"Early this week, the commissioners had notified attorneys that no jury trials could be held until 1983, putting 700 civil and criminal cases in limbo. That might have meant freedom for some criminal suspects, because state law requires the release of anyone not brought to trial within 90 days."

"It's just a matter of fact that we're broke and can't pay juries," said Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kaneford.

County commissioners said yesterday they would find the money to pay jury fees, even if they have to borrow it. The commissioners had allotted $12,000 to pay jurors this year and it has been spent.

"Early this week, the commissioners had notified attorneys that no jury trials could be held until 1983, putting 700 civil and criminal cases in limbo. That might have meant freedom for some criminal suspects, because state law requires the release of anyone not brought to trial within 90 days."

"It's just a matter of fact that we're broke and can't pay juries," said Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kaneford.

County commissioners said yesterday they would find the money to pay jury fees, even if they have to borrow it. The commissioners had allotted $12,000 to pay jurors this year and it has been spent.

"Early this week, the commissioners had notified attorneys that no jury trials could be held until 1983, putting 700 civil and criminal cases in limbo. That might have meant freedom for some criminal suspects, because state law requires the release of anyone not brought to trial within 90 days."

"It's just a matter of fact that we're broke and can't pay juries," said Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kaneford.

County commissioners said yesterday they would find the money to pay jury fees, even if they have to borrow it. The commissioners had allotted $12,000 to pay jurors this year and it has been spent.

"Early this week, the commissioners had notified attorneys that no jury trials could be held until 1983, putting 700 civil and criminal cases in limbo. That might have meant freedom for some criminal suspects, because state law requires the release of anyone not brought to trial within 90 days."

"It's just a matter of fact that we're broke and can't pay juries," said Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kaneford.

County commissioners said yesterday they would find the money to pay jury fees, even if they have to borrow it. The commissioners had allotted $12,000 to pay jurors this year and it has been spent.

"Early this week, the commissioners had notified attorneys that no jury trials could be held until 1983, putting 700 civil and criminal cases in limbo. That might have meant freedom for some criminal suspects, because state law requires the release of anyone not brought to trial within 90 days."

"It's just a matter of fact that we're broke and can't pay juries," said Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kaneford.

County commissioners said yesterday they would find the money to pay jury fees, even if they have to borrow it. The commissioners had allotted $12,000 to pay jurors this year and it has been spent.

"Early this week, the commissioners had notified attorneys that no jury trials could be held until 1983, putting 700 civil and criminal cases in limbo. That might have meant freedom for some criminal suspects, because state law requires the release of anyone not brought to trial within 90 days."

"It's just a matter of fact that we're broke and can't pay juries," said Common Pleas Judge Joseph Kaneford.
Submarine remains in bay

BERGA NAVAL BASE, Sweden (AP) — A foreign submarine is still trapped in the Stockholm archipelago after an attempt to break through the heavy steel cables of an anti-submarine net failed, the Swedish navy said yesterday.

"The latest contact was this afternoon, only a little while ago," a navy spokesman said. "This shows that the suspected foreign sub is still in the blocked Horns Bay area."

The hunt by an estimated 40 surface ships and 10 helicopters entered its second week, and the navy dropped more depth charges before dawn, trying to damage the mystery ship and bring it to the surface.

Officials refer to the sub as a foreign vessel without identifying the country, and it is widely believed to be a Soviet bloc submarine.

The navy spokesman, Capt. Sven Smeal, refused to say what action was taken later in the day but reported in the area about 20 miles south of Stockholm heard no more explosions.

"We are moving as though we can now," said Lt. Col. Evert Dahlen of the defense staff. "We give no warning shots and are bombarding closer to the sub than previously."

"We will, by all possible means, react against violations of our territory," said Prime Minister Olof Palme, who took office Thursday after winning the general election Sept. 19.

Carlsson also confirmed a report in the newspaper Dagens Nyheter that the sub tried to escape Thursday via the northern exit from Horns Bay but failed to break through the anti-submarine net stretched across the 500-yard gap.

He denied a report in the newspaper Expressen that the escape attempt succeeded.

"The captain of the submarine probably did not know the net was there," said Maj. Bengt Sydholm, pointing out the spot to reporters testing the area a few yards from the shore.

After the collision with the net, navy ships dropped five 350-pound depth charges. The hunted sub apparently crept back to the 20-millimeter deep part of Horns Bay and continued its hide-and-seek attempt to elude the Swedish fleet and its search planes.

Carlsson also confirmed a newspaper report that a second submarine was detected Thursday trying to get into Horns Bay, apparently to aid the trapped sub.

Dagens Nyheter said about 1:30 p.m. the navy found that the position burst from the anti-submarine net had moved 100 yards into the bay, but later thebur was纳return to position, indicating that the submarine retreated after failing to get through.

The report said the second sub then creased north of Mysing Isle just outside the blockade. The four and depth charges were dropped.

The sub in Horns Bay was first detected last Friday in the bay by a tour of the secret Musko Naval Station, and it could not have been detected from the surface.

Officials refer to the intruder as a foreign vessel, and defense sources indicated the nationality has been determined with 90 percent certainty through analysis of oil slicks.

Submarine remains in bay

Sat., Oct., 9, 1982 — page 5

Indianapolis (AP) — The National Organization for Women plans to be a major force in American politics in 1984 with one million members, a large campaign war chest and hundreds of knowledgeable feminists as candidates and campaign workers.

NOW President Eleanor Smeal said yesterday at the organization's first convention that the group is committed to women's issues.

"We are determined to hit 1984 with a much larger base of people - especially women who are sick and tired of being discriminated against," Smeal said at a news conference.

At the organization's first convention after the defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment opened here, Smeal outlined the game plan for changing the nation's political climate to pave the way for the eventual adoption of the ERA, defense of abortion rights and defeat of conservative politicians.

"We are determined to hit 1984 with a much larger base of people - especially women who are sick and tired of being discriminated against," Smeal said at a news conference.

As a step toward increasing NOW's membership from the current 220,000, Ms. Smeal unveiled television ads designed to enlist new members.

"NOW's role as a lobbyist for women's rights and in the community, she said, will increase.

That course will give heavy emphasis to electoral politics. Smeal said no matter which of the five candidates is elected Saturday night to succeed her as NOW's leader.

"We intend to build a political force for the future. We know we must change the political climate if we are ever to get an ERA or to get other necessary agenda items such as reproductive freedom."

Part of such a change in American politics would be "the defeat of right-wing candidates," Smeal said.

"The system is that NOW convention will consider a resolution tomorrow to establish an Institute for Feminist Politicians to train women candidates and campaign staff. She said such trained and knowledgeable feminists would be a major force for change in political campaigns and would increase the token numbers of major candidates who are truly committed to women's issues.

Fourteen-year-old boy prisoner at home

GEOEVA, Ill. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy was kept a virtual prisoner at home from the time he was born, taking his meals in the attic and never known to leave his room, his family said.

"We are moving as tough as we can now," said Lt. Col. Evert Dahlen of the defense staff, "We give no warning shots and are bombarding closer to the sub than previously."

"We will, by all possible means, react against violations of our territory," said Prime Minister Olof Palme, who took office Thursday after winning the general election Sept. 19.

"We are moving as though we can now," said Lt. Col. Evert Dahlen of the defense staff. "We give no warning shots and are bombarding closer to the sub than previously."

"We will, by all possible means, react against violations of our territory," said Prime Minister Olof Palme, who took office Thursday after winning the general election Sept. 19.
Undisclosed amount
Avanti Motors sold to D.C. man

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A decade after falling in love with a used car, Washington, D.C., businessman Stephen H. Blake has an undisclosed purchase of the Avanti that he intends to maintain Avanti's standard of quality and said he has bought all the assets and rights to build the Avanti from the Studebaker Packard Corp. after that company stopped automobile production in late 1964.

Blake told a news conference here that he intends to maintain Avanti's standard of quality and said he has bought all the assets and rights to build the Avanti from the Studebaker Packard Corp. after that company stopped automobile production in late 1964.

Blake, 38, president of AMW Inc., Washington, said he plans to meet demand and gradually increase production by improving production facilities and eventually hiring up to 50 additional employees. The Avanti plant now employs about 120 people and makes about 200 autos a year.

Blake said the Avanti II, produced since 1965, will continue to be manufactured in South Bend. Blake told a news conference here that he intends to maintain Avanti's standard of quality and said he has "been in love" with the car since 1962 when he bought a used Avanti.

"It's the most beautiful and perhaps the safest, best built car in America, possibly the world," he said.

The purchase price was not disclosed, but a $3.5 million local economic development bond and a $1.9 million state loan guarantee are involved in the financing.

Arnold Altman, his late brother Nathan and the late Leo Newman bought all the assets and rights required to build the Avanti from the Southbaker Packard Corp. after that company stopped automobile production in late 1964.

Avanti Motors sold to D.C. man
Editor's note: Student Government representatives traveled to four university campuses last spring to access their social space and compare it with the facilities at Notre Dame. They visited student centers at Villanova, Vanderbilt, Duke and Northwestern. Observer reporter Mary Ann McMorris spoke with Maureen Burns and John Gallagher, who took part in the study. They offered the following observations about their experiences.

Q: Do we need a student center at Notre Dame?
A: (Burns) I would think that we need one. We'll always need one. The problem here is that student life is so concentrated. You get tired of having something in only one quad or one dorm. This place needs a central place where people can go to relax and socialize.

Q: Some administrators claim that we don't use the facilities we have at ND. Do you think there would be a difference in people's responses if we had a new student center?
A: (Burns) We sent out an extensive survey last year. LaFortune doesn't serve the purpose of a student center. The Engineering Auditorium is a poor excuse for a movie theatre. The Huddle is a poor excuse for fast food. Stepan Center, the ACC and the Rock are constantly being used. We'd like to see more stuff going on in the dining halls. All we can do right now is just bits and pieces.

Q: What was the reaction of the trustees to your report on the spring trip?
A: (Burns) Well, when we took our report to the trustees, we took it to a certain group of them. All they could do is listen to us and then bring it to the larger group of trustees. The response of the student at this group was really positive.

Q: What campuses did you visit and what were the student centers like at those schools?
A: (Burns) We visited Northwestern, Villanova, Vanderbilt, Duke, and the University of Illinois at Chicago Circle. Northwestern had a pretty building with a view of the lake. They had lockers for all student clubs.

Duke's center had just opened up two weeks before we got there so the mass population was confused as to what to do with this big building. It wasn't that physically attractive to the students. It was kind of cold. It had six pillars with a lot of open space. There weren't that many people around. They had student offices there, but the people hadn't moved in yet. (Gallagher) The theatrical equipment was amazing. They had a huge theatre for plays which took up only about a third of the center. Duke has a bar on campus, a lot like the old senior bar here. It's right in the middle of the campus. It's a place where students, teachers, and administrators will come. It was such a congenial atmosphere. Duke also serves beer in the library hall.

(Burns) We talked to the students when we went to these places. We asked them about alcohol abuse. Duke doesn't think it's a problem. (Burns) I don't think it's a problem. Vanderbilt's center was really nice, too. They have good weather there, and of course they capitalize on that. They have a lot of things geared to the outdoors. The center is ideally located near the center of campus. We need a place that students have to pass on their way to their classes and dorms. The 24-hour section is very important. If the first floor was a good idea, Vanderbilt students are a lot richer than students at Notre Dame.

Each of these schools has different needs to fill with their student centers. (Gallagher) What Villanova did would be a good idea for us. Everything that's in LaFortune now would stay in LaFortune. There's no variety at the Huddle and once you buy something there, there's nowhere to go and eat it.

What every one of these student centers had in common was that there were students there all during the day, between and after classes. LaFortune is usually only busy at lunchtime.
Jerry Young

graduate program in art introduces the student to that assimilated edifice positioned between the Lafortune Center and the Memorial Library — the old Fieldhouse.

I was per "assignment" to try and capture a layman's aesthetic interpretation of this unusual artist's workshop. Aside from a number of interesting doodles created in the margins of notes as a relief from some less than interesting lectures, I am a human in the world of art. But layman or expert, an adequate exegesis of this unusual facility is difficult.

I decided to start my analysis of the Fieldhouse from a vintage point in the bleacher seats of the nice loud environment. From within this huge edifice, I am standing on the top of a wooden basketball floor. The top of the key in the east side of the court serves as an aisle to the various exhibits and sectional studios. Do you wish to lose all this space? I mean, that this is the remnant of the old wooden basketball floor. The top of the key is supposed to shine vengeance the artist has!

Ah, the sculpture arena is ahead. Quirky construction that could pass as defaced material-stand in viewing splendor — well for anyone who cares to view them. Looking down at the floor I notice that this is the remnant of the old wooden basketball floor. The top of the key was reconstructed of the Fieldhouse now serves as an aisle to the various studios in either side. A girl is standing in one of the work groups making a block of freshly mixed clay. I don't know how to know when this building is to be renovated! Joked, "Well, she said, "It's in need of attention. It's going to be torn down. All art studios have to be here off of this Christmas break. We're going to be relocated to the old west side of the fieldhouse."Oh "The Fieldhouse," I asked stupidly. "Well, it really is a shame to lose this space. I mean, look at this place. There's a lot of good space and the light is beautiful. All they need is a little cleaning and painting. It's as though they were left to spite the kiln for coming."

Although the Home Ec program ended in 1965, we still have a taste of it on campus today. "No, we did not come to Saint Mary's with the intention of finding "Mr. Right" and learning to be a housewife. What I am referring to is that mysterious cottage tucked away between O'Laughlin and Regina Hall. The Adeline Crowley Riegler House was erected in 1939. It was dedicated in memory of the first graduate of Saint Mary's to send her daughter here.

The house was once used as a "practice house" for the Home Economics majors. The seniors lived there. Try and imagine living in Madeline or O'Shaughnessy for a semester. The degree of comfort in the Riegler House is substantially higher; on occasion, but the downstairs atmosphere would still be hanging over your head. What a dreadful thought!

The students took such classes as Meat Planning, Tailoring and Clothing Selection — a course in etiquette in those days. (I wonder if they wore pink and green in the 40's, to 0.) I cannot help but try to predict what wise cracks we would receive from the Notre Dame men if we were enrolled in the same classes today. We would be labelled blowoff, airheads, and domesticated and goal-less slugs wanting Daddy's money to find the proverbial hubby, and reject that the expressions of women students are somewhat different than they were in the mid-1900's.

When I toured the house, I noticed that the ceilings and doors were much lower than in an average house. Perhaps back glance to the past can answer that question. Are we going to lose to waste? What choice of future wishing to see the house should contact the Alumnae Office.

Joanie Schlesheber

features

All kinds of animals like cows and giraffes consequently eat green food.

Personally, I have no desire to look like either. And the most skillful argument would probably fail to convince me that a Notre Dame student is the equivalent of a cow or giraffe.

Several friends seem to think there are some exceptional nutrimental benefits if food is green. "Green vegetables contain protein," they argue, "essential for building up communities." But I am not sold.

One friend has a cold. And another, a cough. Now, why, I ask, were their immunities when they needed them? Me, I'm in the best of health, and I never eat green stuff. Green food is often shockingly noisy. Have you ever noticed that? You're sitting in the dining hall, quietly munching your usual dinner of pudding, cake, and ice cream, and some food sitting next to you will blatantly "crunch" and "crackle" and "crisp" his celery, cucumbers, lettuce, and green peppers, dis gust ing to make matters worse, upon finishing his share, he will box out to the salad bar for seconds! By this time, the rude food will have so effectively destructed any appetite you may have once possessed.

A solution to this dilemma, if ever experienced this type of loss of appetite, would be to blandly substitute the original foodstuff, the green pepper, with some sweet pepper. This will effectively destroy any appetite you may have once possessed. I'll bet there are some more table is not currently possible. Your pepper is an important one for the Hah Rie, but it does not serve any substantial dish. It is as important as apple sauce.

If one does order something at the Hah (other than perhaps mashed potatoes or ice cream and the re was a green potato once, I should not, I repeat, not eat it.

As to the process of being green, green food tends to be downright American and an Donor! As an American and that's a plain white, blue, and gold food. Especially gold. Beer is golden and "Wrigley's are gold. What beer could any real American/Tommy with beer?

On the other hand, if one does desire variety, red, yellow, and blue foods are certainly acceptable. Cher ry, strawberry, or banana flavored cakes and desserts with perhaps a creamy white icing are definitely acceptable.

At this point I believe I should mention the inevitable exceptions to the rule of avoiding green food. Some are mentioned, most notably ice cream is allowed. Green cakes. Most made from any form of "sour" food, are also allowed. These are strictly two.

Joanie Schlesheber
features

After frequently frustrating days consisting of classes, deadlines, meetings, and similar activities, this calm moment becomes a focal point. Indeed, it is not as unlike the passage of a hurricane. Just as the hurricane’s eye bridges the gap between the storm’s onslaught and its moment of greatest intensity, my daily rush to the gristle enables me to forget about multiple choice tests with fourteen possible options, while providing me with the motivation needed to fulfill my responsibilities.

Dave Dvorak

Neither contrary to popular opinion, the University’s oldest residence hall was actually a small brick building by the name of Old College. Never heard of it? You’re not alone.

Situated on Saint Mary’s Lake between the structure building, Old College has the appearance not of a dormitory, but of a lodge. Its track has always kept in line with the idea that it is surrounded by trees and is not the smallest residence hall.

Considered to be the University’s first building, Old College was founded in 1842. The building is just one block north of the lake. The bricks of its walls are bricks made of clay taken from Saint Mary’s Lake. Originally, the entire college was contained within this building. All activities, including classes, meals, and residence living were held within the building. Old College serves as a unique function for its students.

Old College is a combination of dormitory and residence hall. This is not just the combination of a dormitory and residence hall, but also the smallest residence hall.

Times change, and what was considered as a valuable resource in the past may not be the same in the present.

Dave Dvorak

features

As a resident of St. Ed’s, one has often been asked on numerous occasions to name the college’s vocation director. Anyone who knows Father James Greene, a sophomore resident from New Hampshire, lived in Fisher dormitory for those young men who can help us make our decision.

Our students here are not just a group of students, but also the smallest residence hall.

I want to find out if I have a vacation for the priesthood without cutting myself off from campus life and from other possible career choices,” Greene said. “It’s a very loosely structured setup that keeps all opportunities open.

He added that there are disadvantages to living in Notre Dame’s smallest dorm.

It takes a greater effort to get involved in activities and to meet people. Most students don’t even know what or where Old College is. I’ve talked to people who actually thought that the building was a ham sandwich.

The daily routine of an Old College resident is the same as any other Notre Dame student, with a few exceptions. The day begins with a morning prayer service at 7 a.m. with Mass at 7 a.m. Each of the residents is required to take part in an active apostolate, which is one of the most distinctive parts of the college. The residents make this choice, this certainty does not mean the time spent at Old College was wasted time.

“We’ve helped produce a lot of very fine husbands here,” said Br. Paul. “The idea of living together in a close-knit community is a good adjustment that makes us all better people.”

Br. Paul further explained. “Old College residents are no different than any other Notre Dame students. They are involved in all kinds of campus clubs and activities, they are required to take the same classes, and they eat the same food (at South Dining Hall).”

Old College was once halfway house between dormitory and seminary life,” said John Shreve, a sophomore from California. “Morning prayer and daily Mass keep the guys here really close. We have our differences and our personality clashes, but, all in all, we’re a very close group.”

Shreve also spoke of the advantage of being exposed to members of the clergy in a unique way.

We get to know the priests as friends and address them on a first name basis,” he related. “It’s less about stories of how they went through and how they are and the exact same situations that we find ourselves in.”

Most of the students living in Old College have not yet determined their future plans.

“I think most of the people here are far too addicted to decision-making to consider the priesthood,” sustained Jim Greene, “but at least we’re getting the chance to explore the vocation. We’re meeting people who can help us make our decision. Right now, I’m taking things year by year, semester by semester.”

Meanwhile, the University’s oldest residence hall stands humbly on the shores of Saint Mary’s Lake, where it has stood for 140 years. Aging ever so slowly, it peacefully endures as time passes year by year, semester by semester.
Co-ed dorms: over whose dead body?

The prospect of co-ed dormitories at Notre Dame seems far from being down the road. Too many still believe that such dorms are merely a front for organic living. With an administration that discriminates the student body far more than most of our parents ever did, co-ed living seems even better suited to the year 2002 than 1982. Nonetheless, the University should consider the co-ed option in the future.

Keith Picher

Last week, Dr. Gerhard Niemeyer, under the auspices of the Thomas More Society, gave a fascinating lecture on socialism. His approach to this controversial subject was refreshing; rather than taking on a quasi-moral air, or pitting socialism against capitalism, Dr. Niemeyer examined the curious phenomenon from a historical point of view. It soon became apparent during the lecture that the central difficulty in discussing socialism lay in the fact the one does not agree on just what socialism is.

Brendan Brown

Socialism versus Christianity

Well, the renowned Russian mathematician, Igor Shafarevich, has done what is probably the most compelling study of the subject, entitled The Socialist Phenomenon, a condensed version of which appears in a collection of essays, From Under the Rubble. The book examines socialism from several aspects in an effort to account for the appeal and quality of socialism to withstand serious criticism. How is it that those who call themselves socialists disagree so vehemently on so many points? Some people call themselves Christian socialists, and yet Marx claimed that socialism was the positive denial of God. Stalin was a socialist. One thing is certain, that socialism is much more than just "state capitalism," and an economic plan to help the poor. Socialism is an ideology that can, like religion, mix with any political, cultural, or nationalistic movement.

But what exactly is socialism? According to Shafarevich, the varied and diverse movements all over the world today are seeking to account for the appeal and quality of socialism to withstand serious criticism. How is it that those who call themselves socialists disagree so vehemently on so many points? Some people call themselves Christian socialists, and yet Marx claimed that socialism was the positive denial of God. Stalin was a socialist. One thing is certain, that socialism is much more than just "state capitalism," and an economic plan to help the poor. Socialism is an ideology that can, like religion, mix with any political, cultural, or nationalistic movement.

But what exactly is socialism? According to Shafarevich, the varied and diverse movements all over the world today are seeking to account for the appeal and quality of socialism to withstand serious criticism. How is it that those who call themselves socialists disagree so vehemently on so many points? Some people call themselves Christian socialists, and yet Marx claimed that socialism was the positive denial of God. Stalin was a socialist. One thing is certain, that socialism is much more than just "state capitalism," and an economic plan to help the poor. Socialism is an ideology that can, like religion, mix with any political, cultural, or nationalistic movement.
American steel industries also feel the advent of major changes in steel production, because of steel production methods per

The saying

ical equipment sold in American

Berson said. He added that the Japanese, Soviet and American ninth-rank

Until now

Students, think back to your high school ex-

P.O. Box Q

Dear Editor,

library a joke?

Dear Editor,

Dear Editor:

Dear Editor:

Dear Editor

Quad eyesore

Library joke a joke?

We, the concerned students of the tower quad, and in general, the beauty of the university. But 18 hours of homework per

Dear Editor:

Steel exchange booths. Of O'Connell Hall, but this it too-oo-oo far.

The Observer — Editorials

D ear Editor:

For the pacifist, absolute or nuclear, the

Scenes depicting students in classes

What is it that our nuclear arsenal must higher education means higher achievement or high school

H. W. KEMP

Philosophy

You ask, then, did they ever been and way are they now community. Thank yourselves.

Editorial

I would like to express my disappoint-

THE SITUATION

Nuclear freeze proposal is moot. There is no point in

1. What is it that our national arsenal must

Dear Editor:

Raising the freeze movement, 1 would want to

As a ninth-grader, it takes a whopping six hours to finish

As they were to launch a sneak attack

Having the freeze movement, I would want to

As a ninth-grader, it takes a whopping six hours to finish

A nuclear freeze proposal is moot. There is no point in

We are gobbled up by offices and institutes over the

The Observer — Editorials

D ear Editor:

For the pacifist, absolute or nuclear, the

Scenes depicting students in classes

What is it that our national arsenal must

higher education means higher achievement or high school

H. W. KEMP

Philosophy

You ask, then, did they ever been and way are they now community. Thank yourselves.

Editorial

I would like to express my disappoint-

THE SITUATION

Nuclear freeze proposal is moot. There is no point in

Dear Editor:

Dear Editor:

Dear Editor:

Dear Editor:

Quad eyesore

Library joke a joke?

Dear Editor,

We, the concerned students of the tower quad, and in general, the beauty of the university. But 18 hours of homework per

Dear Editor:

For the pacifist, absolute or nuclear, the

Scenes depicting students in classes

What is it that our national arsenal must

higher education means higher achievement or high school

H. W. KEMP

Philosophy

You ask, then, did they ever been and way are they now community. Thank yourselves.

Editorial

I would like to express my disappoint-

THE SITUATION

Nuclear freeze proposal is moot. There is no point in

Dear Editor:

For the pacifist, absolute or nuclear, the

Scenes depicting students in classes

What is it that our national arsenal must

higher education means higher achievement or high school

H. W. KEMP

Philosophy

You ask, then, did they ever been and way are they now community. Thank yourselves.
three no-hitters to this day. Moreover, people forget I got the last regular-season hit that Koufax ever gave up," insists Kuenn.

Harvey Kuenn got 2,092 major league hits, and the prevailing notion is 2,000 of them were singles. Actually, 1,500 of them were doubles. Harvey Kuenn led the league three times in doubles. He had 62 doubles in a .353 batting average in 1959 when he led the league in both categories and was third in total bases. Harvey could bang a wall if he had to. "When I first came up to the major leagues, Fred Hutchinson was my manager and he told me, 'Kid, you've got a nice stroke. You wear out pitchers. They'll try to get you to go for fences, but you'll end up hitting 243 and spot-playing if you do that. Leave it alone and hit to all fields.' I left it alone and hit to all fields." Harvey Kuenn's stock in trade is leaving well enough alone. The '82 Milwaukee Brewers are a rollicking crew of homicidal hitters whose form er manager thought they should learn the burglar's arts instead. steal games on rubber soles, as it were. But they didn't want to pick pockets, they wanted to take prisoners.

Harvey let them wall-bang. Harvey knows better than anybody the 1927 Yankees theory — one home run equals four singles, sometimes five. So, Harvey just pencils in a lineup and sits around and listens to the sounds of boards rattling. He hopes to be still hearing it when World Series time rolls around. Harvey will be the one streaming tobacco juice and telling the assembled press series, "I don't need this job; I can always take up place-kicking."
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) - In less than two seasons Indiana quarterback Rabe Lautenberg has moved near to the top of the Hoosiers' all-time passing statistics and be figures to climb higher this week at the expense of the Fighting Irish.

Lautenberg, who joined Indiana last season as a junior, needs only 109 yards in today's game to move into the No. 3 position on the school's career-passing yardage list. He's currently fifth with 2,515 yards in just 15 games and needs just 36 yards to move ahead of fourth-place Ted McNally.

Lautenberg, who has completed 70 of 120 passes for 697 yards this season, has no favorite receiver. The 6-foot-2, 190-pound junior has hit on passes to eight different receivers each of Indiana's past two games.

Flanker Duane Gunn leads Indiana in receptions with 13 for 227 yards. Reserve fullback Johnnie Salters is next with 10 catches and five other players have five or more receptions.

Both teams bring 2-2 records to the game, which will be regionally televised by ABC. Iowa is 1-0 in league play after last week's victory over Northwestern. Indiana has divided its two conference losses between Northwestern 30-0 and losing to Michigan 24-10 last week.

The Hawkeyes had trouble against Lautenberg in winning 42-28 last year in Iowa City. Lautenberg had his most productive game last season against Iowa as he connected on 17 of 36 passes for 290 yards. This season he is 25 of 45 for 405 yards and two touchdowns.

"He handled pressure well yesterday," said John Gagliardi, Northwestern coach. "In the first half he showed great judgment and timing, plus quickness. He's extremely gifted. There may be a key to stopping him but I don't think we've got it."

Iowa, which has won 19 of the last 20 games, now faces the Buckeyes, 2-2 for all seasons and 1-0 in the league. "He's a fine looking runner," said Tom Watson,分管 tailbacks this season has been Nebraska head coach Bob Devaney. "They have come up with some talented players, a lot of them second string last year. The defense is strong against the run and it moves well against the pass."

Iowa is being directed by sopho­more quarterback Chuck Long, who has completed 52 of 92 passes for 608 yards and eight touchdowns this season. Nebraska is being directed by sophomore Mike Tomczak, who has hit just 20 of 56 passes and threw eight interceptions.

This week Bruce will open with Wake Forest head coach Benjamin Beecher.

"Our quarterbacking is a little shaky right now," admitted Bruce, "in terms of the interceptions and mistakes the last two weeks. That's got to be corrected for us to be a solid team."

AUBURN, Texas (AP) - Wayne Levi fought his way through blustery, gusty winds to one-under-par 71 that stretched his lead to two strokes yesterday in the second round of the $350,000 Lajet Classic.

"I'm just happy to get done some­where around par," said Levi, who had to birdie three of the last three holes to regain the top spot with a 36-hole total of 155, five shots un­der par. "I can tell I'm in Texas," Watson quipped, "because I chilidipped it.

"I think he can see how much a good passing game can open up the offense," said Tom McNeil, who thinks he knows the type of defense that is best against the Buckeyes.

Bruce still savors an overpower­ing running game, but knows his career must become more versatile if the Buckeyes, 2-2 for all games and 1-0 in the league, are to junk a two-game losing streak.

"That's quite obvious Iowa State has to mix it up into the play side and the pass inside," Bruce said. The [Buckeyes] won't be a one-dimensional passing that concerns Corso."

"It's a fine looking runner," Corso said. "His option-running is very dangerous.

Wisconsin, Ohio State ready for aerial attack

The Observer

The Deli is located, main floor, LaFortune Building, at the Huddle.

Your box includes choice of turkey or ham sandwhich on white sesame seed bun, sweet grapes, our favorite cheese, and two of Grama's Big Peanut Butter cookies. With choice of a 10 oz milk or 16 oz soft drink.

All For Only $2.69

Don't forget to stock up on ICE for this weekend's festivities. 8 lb. and 18 lbs. bags of ICE available at the Deli.

FOR BREAKFAST, THE HUDDLE'S EGG, BACON AND CHEESE SANDWICH Only 99 cents

LETUCE SERVE YOU

good Sat. 10/9/82 8:00am - 10:30am

LETUCE SERVE YOU

Tom Watson, reigning U.S. Open and British golf tournament champion, blasts out of a bunker on the ninth hole of the Fairways Oaks Golf and Racquet Club during the Lafet Classic PGA golf tournament. Watson shot a 69 yesterday, but remains several shots out of the lead (AP Photo)
The Observer

Weekend

Saturday, October 9, 1982 — page 15

Doonesbury

ok ay if / my
ASK YOU A M SN AND I W ILL FFW F A S T  DO OUR BU ST TO QUESTIONS FILL YOU IN , S /R .

Garry Trudeau

HOW DO YOU THINK IT S FL6LL ABOUT TR B R T B L S! W B ANTI-T R U ST OWNERS SHOULD NT IM T CALL TUB SH O TS!

Jeb Cashin

WE NTE THE IRISH M ) miWto NNV-m.HMV.

Simon

smerd

ok guys... when at the Dop e do go to the Doners do

The Ted Ozark

BREWS!!

The Daily Crossword

© 1982 Tribune Company Syndicate, Inc.
All Rights Reserved

EARN EXTRA $$$
N.D. Student Union is looking for an ADVERTISING SALESMAN for DOGBOOK
Inquire for application from from secretary in S.U. 2nd floor LaFortune
Deadline Wednesday, Oct. 13, 5 p.m.
By SAM ERIELL
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame soccer team went into last night's game against the Broncos of Western Michigan hoping to hand Coach Rich Hohn his 100th victory at Notre Dame. Instead, he ended up with his eighth tie, but it was not for lack of trying, as the Irish got practically every bad break possible.

Early on, there was little action as both teams were settling in. The Irish got the first of their opportunities in the 12th minute, as Joe Hult, playing better and better in midfield, ripped a shot that hit the crossbar.

But Western Michigan got their only shot of the first half at 21:46 and made it count. Greg Balchen, after apparently elbowing his defender, headed a pass toward the goal and over goalie Gerald McCarthy's head McCarthy had nothing for the ball, could only watch helplessly as the ball rolled in.

The Irish then assumed total control of the game. The Broncos hardly crossed the midfield stripe for the rest of the match. For the second week in a row, the Irish took a highly-regarded regional foe and dominated them. But as time wore on, it appeared the team would not get the equalizer it so deserved.

They finally hit paydirt with only 10:30 to go. Ken Harkenrider saved a pass from going out of bounds and then sent a beautiful cross into the box. Rich Helt, who had just picked up and booted it in under the keeper. Hohn was then buried by all ten of his teammates on the field, the Irish had the momentum.

Then followed an officiating completely of errors. After ejecting Mario Mata of the Irish and Matt Gribbins of the Broncos for fighting, the referees neglected to make sure that Gribbins left the field, which he did not.

Thus, as the game went into the second of ten-minute overtimes, the Irish apparently scored things when Joe Hult's indirect free kick was flicked into the net by Ken Harkenrider. But after an outraged long delay, the referee said that Keenen had touched it. Joe Hult's kicks must be touched by another player. When asked why the call took so long, the referee said, "Nobody asked me at first."

The Irish continued to dominate the bala area of the overtime, but un- fortunately could not manage to put in the game-winner.

Frustration, then, was the key word in the Irish's game, a contest which saw the Irish outshoot the Broncos 36-2. Despite the unsatisfactory result, the Irish continued to improve. Playing before an overflow crowd, certainly helped. Hunter's Irish will now go for number 100 Sunday afternoon at 2:00 on Alumni Field against the Cardinals of Louisville, hopefully improving to 19-2-2 before facing highly ranked Akron on Wednesday.

 Irish bucked by Broncos

By TROY BROWN

The National Football League players union said yesterday it would arrange for its members to borrow up to $20,000 a week to get through the strike, which was in its 19th day.

Meanwhile, the 'owners' Management Council, for the third time in three days, rejected a union invitation to begin bargaining again.

Union officials said the loans were to meet household and living expenses and were "not for investments."

Union chief Ed Garvey said he didn't expect the players to start feeling the pinch of a strike until the beginning of November, when monthly bills come due. "We don't want to lose a strike because some people can't borrow money," he said. "Our members, like everyone else in the country, must have access to their families during a work stoppage." But Garvey said the loan program does not anticipate what the networks are doing to finance the owners during the strike, it is an important step.

Network executives have ad-nounced plans to start increasing the $30 million per week they are spending on strike insurance the way baseball's owners did during that sport's strike last year, also arranged for $350 million in loan guarantees from several California banks.

The union does not have a strike strike insurance, while Garvey's owners did during that sport's strike last year, also arranged for $350 million in loan guarantees from several California banks.

The owners, unable to obtain strike insurance the way baseball's owners did during that sport's strike last year, also arranged for $350 million in loan guarantees from several California banks.

The union does not have a strike strike insurance, while Garvey's owners did during that sport's strike last year, also arranged for $350 million in loan guarantees from several California banks.

The owners, unable to obtain strike insurance the way baseball's owners did during that sport's strike last year, also arranged for $350 million in loan guarantees from several California banks.

The union does not have a strike strike insurance, while Garvey's owners did during that sport's strike last year, also arranged for $350 million in loan guarantees from several California banks.

The owners, unable to obtain strike insurance the way baseball's owners did during that sport's strike last year, also arranged for $350 million in loan guarantees from several California banks.

The union does not have a strike
Two top defensive teams square off, each with a score to settle

By CHRIS NEEDLES

The third week in a row, Notre Dame will be facing a pass-oriented offense, as it squares off against 14th-ranked Miami of Florida at Notre Dame Stadium.

There was a time when games against pass-oriented offenses were to be X-rated material and strong screams of horror from Irish fans. But not anymore.

The Hurricanes come into tomorrow's contest averaging nearly 200 yards a game through the air but the combination of a formidable pass rush and a vastly-improved secondary have made the Notre Dame pass defense air tight.

The secondary, which limited Michigan State to just 121 yards in the air last Saturday, has been a sub-par rushing attack led by junior halfback Keith Griffin (62 carries for 221 yards rushing in the first three games). The Irish will be able to do tomorrow. The Irish front four of Bob Kelly, who was a prime candidate for the Heisman Trophy, had burned the Irish in their last meeting, has now been coined "The Gold Rush." The Hurricanes are not far behind.

There have been changes in the offensive line this week. An injury to center Mark Fischer, though not as severe as once believed, will necessitate some position-shuffling.

Tom Thayer will move over to the center spot, leaving his own guard position to Neil Maune. Mike Shiner, who returned from pre-season arthroscopic surgery to his knee last week, will also be forced into duty.

A game on the line

Both teams must contend with All-American offensive line to move the ball

By SKIP DESJARDIN

It is a time-worn cliche, uttered ad nauseam by television announcers replicating in polyester sport coats.

"Football, they say, is a game won and lost in the trenches."

The exception.

Notre Dame's aptly — if not uniquely — named "Gold Rush" defensive line, and Miami's own talented front line will dictate the outcome of the game. The Irish are No. 3 against the run, and the third-ranked defense overall. The Hurricanes are not far behind them in the latest NCAA statistical release.

So, the real job will be for the offensive linemen, the anonymous men who work the hardest for the least amount of glory.

Notre Dame linemen will be contendning with All-American candidate Tony Chickillo.

"Defensively, we're not as strong as we were a year ago," says Chickillo of the defensive unit that held Notre Dame's offense scoreless last year. "But we are a lot quicker, and more explosive. We've got a big play defense. We cause a lot of big plays."

There have been changes in the offensive line this week. An injury to center Mark Fischer, though not as severe as once believed, will necessitate some position-shuffling.

Tom Thayer will move over to the center spot, leaving his own guard position to Neil Maune. Mike Shiner, who returned from pre-season arthroscopic surgery to his knee last week, will also be forced into duty.

"Thayer's a three-year starter, and at this point of the season we want experienced players in our lineup," says Coach Gerry Faust.

And Chickillo is not the only man with which the Irish linemen must contend.

"I've got a couple of young guys playing next to me," he says. "The 6-5, 250-pound Chickillo is a threeway starter, and at this point of the season we want experienced players in our lineup."

Miami will try to counter with what has been a sub-par rushing attack led by junior halfback Keith Griffin (6.2 carries for 221 yards) and junior fullback Speedy Neal (42 for 142 yards).
Kevin Griffith

continued from page 1A

Miami's front line must contend with Kevin Griffith, Jon Autry, Mike Gann, and Bob Clabby. But they have done so before, and well.

Mark Cooper was a part-time starter at tight end for two years, then was relegated to a third-string role behind Andy Baratta and Mike Gann, and Bob Clabby. But they have done so before, and well.

Kevin Griffith

He has a heart.
He's a senior.
He's from Kettering, Ohio.

Sounds familiar. Anyone, of course who has been to a Notre Dame home basketball game in the last year knows that the last three lines will be the dramatic introduction for John Paxson this season.

But what's with the "He's an end" business? If you don't know, then meet Kettering's "other" connection in athletic prowess for Notre Dame - defensive end, scholar-athlete and perhaps as good an embodiment of the Notre Dame spirit as you will ever find, Kevin Griffith.

Paxson - who attended the same high school as Griffith in Kettering, will probably still be the most talked-about athlete on campus by the end of the year, but for now quite a bit of talking is being done about Griffith.

Forget that he has made only 11 tackles (tying him for tenth on the squad) in three games. Griffith has become perhaps the major stat wart for the much-improved Notre Dame "Gold Rush." Already in the young season, opposing offensive units have been dropped 13 times behind the line of scrimmage for a total of 87 yards in losses, Griffith himself has accounted for six of those losses for 19 yards.

"Those 11 tackles don't tell the story about what Kevin has done for us this year," says his defensive line coach, Greg Blache. "He is very valuable for us with his experience and strength alone. He is so physically awesome for us at times that it has enabled him to make the gigantic plays when we needed them."

Such was the case last Saturday when Michigan State had a first down on its own 29-yard line in the first quarter. Two Griffith sacks later, the ball was on the State 10-yard line. Then Griffith helped out linemates Mike Gann and Jon Autry with yet another sack in the Spartan end zone (thus beating out his Kettering colleague in scoring the first "two points" of the season).

The Boogdoots opened after that, as the Irish defensive unit recorded seven more tackles for losses on the afternoon.

"He set the tempo for us right there," says Blache, "and he got the others fired up."

Kevin and Bob Clabby are two seniors that have really earned the respect of our younger members in the line. They look to them for their poise and maturity and that's exactly what they have been providing. It's just like having another pair of coaches on the field.

Griffith's play and leadership have been all the more pleasant since his shift, however, is one of the reasons why he feels that the defensive front has made such great strides this season.

"We have people in the positions this year where they are best suited," explains Griffith. "We are also a lot physically stronger and established this year. The system last year where players on the defensive line were rotated in and out was good in the sense that it would give a player a rest, but it was also bad in that when a guy finally figured out the opposing players style or tendencies, he would lose his continuity by having to sit back down on the bench."

"As for myself, I've just been fortunate on the sacks this year through hard work. I'm still kind of learning the new position and I still have some improving ahead of me."

"Learning and improving, though, are Griffith's true talents in life."

"We have people in the positions this year where they are best suited," explains Griffith. "We are also a lot physically stronger and established this year. The system last year where players on the defensive line were rotated in and out was good in the sense that it would give a player a rest, but it was also bad in that when a guy finally figured out the opposing players style or tendencies, he would lose his continuity by having to sit back down on the bench."

"As for myself, I've just been fortunate on the sacks this year through hard work. I'm still kind of learning the new position and I still have some improving ahead of me."

"Learning and improving, though, are Griffith's true talents in life."

One of the philosophies that has made Griffith the person he is today is the axiom that when life hands you a lemon - make lemonade. Two years ago when he was racked up for the year at the beginning of the season with a major knee injury, moaning about the unfairness that life brings wasn't his style.

"It was nothing more than a case of my becoming a student first, and an athlete second," he recalls. "I was able to work that year at a juvenile center in Michigan - which was just a tremendous experience in itself and I was also able they to attend seminars and lectures outside of class that I wouldn't have been able to attend if I had been playing football."

"I love the game, but there are so many other things to do in life. The injury just opened up new opportunities for me."

The new opportunities paid their dividends at season's end last year. Besides attaining second-team Academic All-America honors for his 5.5 grade point average in government, Griffith was awarded the coveted John W. McMullan award from Notre Dame, which is given to the Irish gridiron's best exemplifies spirit of the student-athlete while contributing his skills and ability in the classroom and on the field.

Finally, his greatest opportunity arrived this summer when he assisted in the office work of Ohio Congressman Clarence Brown in Washington, D.C.

All of which gives Griffith an inevitable "All-American Boy" tag - a label which he embarrassingly laughs off.

"I've had my nights at the C-Club (Cuddy's) before," he explains.

"There's a time for work and a time for play, though," he continues more seriously. "And when it's time to work I'll do everything I can to give my best effort. The one thing that Notre Dame really teaches you is your faults. Not just athletes - are talented in their own ways. Having had the opportunity to meet the different people here is something that will always stay with me."

In an era where many athletes are used by the schools for their own purposes, Griffith has used Notre Dame in a positive manner through his own scholarship. Griffith's senior class is the first in his high school to grow up together, and Griffith is a phenomenon to be associated with.

Chalk up another plus for Archbishop Alter High School in Kettering, Ohio.

... Lines

Phil Carter
... Outlook

Continued from page 1A

But it's obviously the passing game that funds the scholarships at Miami. Four Hurricane receivers are in double figures in receptions, with senior wide receiver Rocky Belk leading the way with 19 catches for 296 yards. Belk, you may or may not remember, caught a 65-yard touchdown last year against the Irish.

Senior halfback Mark Rush (18 catches for 221 yards), Neal (14 for 104) and junior tight end Glenn Denison (11 for 114) lend support to the receiving corps.

"They've got so many talented people to catch the football," says Faust, "that it's probably a quarterback's dream to play in that sort of offense. And now that Miami has won two games with Richt back there, they'll be that much more confident coming in here."

As for defense, Miami is strong up the middle with linebacker Greg Brown (57 tackles, including an incredible 21 against Florida on September 3), junior linebacker Jay Brophy (50 tackles) and senior tackle Tony Checkalski (50 tackles and three sacks). As a whole, the Hurricane defense surrendered just 450 yards a game, only 10 per game on the ground.

"I think Miami's defense has improved every week out," Faust says. "They've only given up 13 points a game. So we've got to be prepared to move the football more consistently than we did in East Lansing."

The Irish offense has been plagued with several problems, the biggest of which has been poor field position. Opponents are averaging nearly 60 yards a possession and the offense has had to start from inside its own 30-yard line on 27 of 60 possessions.

Filling some famous shoes

Mark Richt has stepped in with poise to lead the Hurricane pass attack

By JEAN CLAUDE DELA FRANCE
Sports Editor
The Miami Hurricane

MIAMI -- The Miami Hurricanes' 14-8 victory over Virginia Tech on September 18 brought about more changes than just another notch in the win column.

The careers of two UM players were vastly altered. Jim Kelly, undoubtedly the best quarterback in Miami history, suffered a separated shoulder and was lost for the season. Mark Richt, a former high school all-star quarterback from Florida who played in Kelly's shadow for three years, became Miami's No. 1 quarterback. Richt, who had yet to start a game until Kelly's injury, now leads the Hurricanes' offense as they continue to go for the national championship that Coach Howard Schnellenberger is aiming for.

Richt's major asset is his poise. He knows that every time he steps on the field, he will be compared to Kelly. Yet his calmness and outlook remain unchanged.

The one thing he has learned during his apprenticeship is to be ready. "The No. 1 priority is to win on Saturdays," says the native of Boca Raton, Fla. "I don't personally set any particular number of touchdowns to throw or how many completions I will get because it doesn't matter unless you win.

Richt is perhaps best remembered for the game last year when he came in to lead Miami to a 21-20 win over Florida. With Kelly injured, Richt came in before 72,000 screaming fans and engineered two drives that produced ten points -- giving Miami its fourth straight victory over the cross-state rival Gators.

"That game taught me just to stay ready to play at all times," Richt says. "When I went into the Florida game, I was not really as prepared as I would've like to have been. Since then I've promised myself that I'd be ready. I've never had to go in again."

He was ready against Virginia Tech, and showed signs that he could move the offense when he had to. In that game he completed two-of-three passes for 28 yards to march the team to the VPI one-yard line. It's this kind of play that has prompted the coaches to say that Richt would be a starter on 90 percent of the nation's top college teams.

"We are blessed that we have a great quarterback like Mark Richt," Schnellenberger said. "Mark has been preparing for this situation for several years.

"Had he been at another school with a similar offense Richt probably would have found himself in a successful situation as a starter, breaking records, All-American, and possibly a Heisman candidate.""

"I know they all have confidence in me," Richt says of his teammates. "I think I've been around here long enough so that everyone knows what I can do. I am prepared to do whatever it takes to win."

Schnellenberger puts the whole situation into perspective. "This is another obstacle that our football team will overcome," he says, "and one that will draw us closer together and demand a little more effort from each of our players."

Since replacing Jim Kelly at quarterback, Mark Richt has played impressively. Richt will be starting his third game for the Hurricanes this weekend against Notre Dame.

In his previous two outings, both Miami victories (25-22 over Michigan State and 28-6 over Louisville), Richt has completed 38 of 69 passes for 567 yards and two touchdowns.

"We feel (he) can throw just as well as Kelly," says Notre Dame head coach Gerry Faust. "He's done very well in the games he's played so far, and this is his fourth game's going into. I don't think that Kelly's injury has made any difference at all in their attack."

With Kelly gone for the rest of the season, it looks like the burden of winning a national championship falls on the shoulders of Mark Richt.

But if the first two games of his starting reign are any indication, Richt is more than ready to accept the challenge.
The Game

Notre Dame Stadium (59,075)

Saturday, October 9, 1982 — page 4A

Lions
Middies
Irish
Wolverines
Horns
Sun Devils
Huskies
Irish
Falcons

14
67
13.4

33
21
8.7

Sports Writer

#6

OPPONENTS

RICH O'CONNOR

NO YDS AVG TD LG

Kiel

Boilers

3 8 2.7 0 6

20

585 11.0 3 39

y.'Z'

-16 -1.6 0 9

530 5 585 3

325 1052 1 60

10

Illini

3 25 1139 45 6 53

12

Hawkeyes

Bell

3

378 6 0 0 17

17:42

0-0 1

0-0 0

97 16,2 0 22

3

0 16

43

Middies

Huskies

74:07

1

50 166

OPP

Mountaineers

2

NO YDS AVG TD LG

77

0-0

NO YDS AVG TD LG

367.3

0-0

The Schedule

NOTRE DAME

SEPT. 18 beat MICHIGAN, 23-17
SEPT. 25 beat PURDUE, 28-14
OCT. 3 beat Michigan St., 11-5
OCT. 9 MIAMI (FIA.)
OCT. 16 ARIZONA
OCT. 23 at Oregon
OCT. 30 Navy at Meadowlands
NOV. 6 at Pittsburgh
NOV. 13 PENN STATE
NOV. 20 at Air Force
NOV. 27 at Southern Cal

MIAMI

SEPT. 4 beat at Florida, 17-14
SEPT. 11 beat HOUSTON, 31-12
SEPT. 18 beat Virginia Tech, 14-8
SEPT. 25 beat MICHIGAN ST. 25-22
OCT. 2 beat Louisville, 28-6
OCT. 9 at Notre Dame
OCT. 16 MISSISSIPPI STATE
OCT. 23 FLORIDA STATE
NOV. at Maryland
NOV. 20 NORTH CAROLINA STATE
NOV. 27 CINCINNATI

The Sports Staff Picks the Winners

Each week, The Observer sports staff predict the outcome of the week's major college football games. Records are compiled to see how each writer does against the spread. HOME TEAM is in capital letters.

Skip DesJardins
Dave Dzierek
Chris Needles
Will Hare
Rich O'Connor

Sports Editor Emeritus
Assoc. Sports Editor
Sports Editor
Sports Writer
Sports Writer

Georgia over Mississippi by 13
Michigan over Michigan State by 11
Iowa over Indiana by 1
West Virginia over Boston College by 3
Texas over Oklahoma by 2
Alabama over Penn State by 3
Illinois over Purdue by 12
Washington over California by 13
Arizona State over Stanford by 6
Air Force over Navy by 1
Notre Dame over Miami (Fla.) by 6

Dawgs
Wolverines
Mountaineers
Horns
Lions
Huskies
Middies
Irish

Dawgs
Wolverines
Mountaineers
Horns
Lions
Huskies
Middies
Irish

Dawgs
Wolverines
Hornets
Bears
Middies
Irish

Rebels
Wolverines
Hornets
Bears
Middies
Irish

Canes
Irish
Horns
Lions
Bears
Cardinals
Irish

Hornets
Lions
Bears
Cardinals
Irish