Reagan comments on future U.S. - U.S.S.R. relations, and on page 3, Brezhnev funeral plans and Carol Camp's exclusive interview on Brezhnev reappearations are featured (AP Photo)

Search for peace still Reagan's goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan assured the Soviet Union yesterday that he favors a better superpower relationship "in a peaceful, non-threatening way." Brezhnev's death was announced yesterday, and on page 3, Brezhnev funeral plans and Carol Camp's exclusive interview on Brezhnev reappearations are featured (AP Photo)

Nuclear arms race

Mendelsohn shifts blame to U.S.

By JOHN BRESLIN

Blaming the U.S. for the continuing nuclear arms race, Everett Mendelsohn concluded the Convocation on Solutions to the Nuclear Arms Race with his lecture last night in the Memorial Library Auditorium.

A professor at the history of science at Harvard University, Mendelsohn has international credentials as a science historian. He has been active in several peace making enterprises, and in 1979, led a delegation of persons interested in disarmament and arms control to the Soviet Union for intensive discussions with government leaders.

Mendelsohn cited evidence proving American motives for dropping the first bomb on Hiroshima. He said the American government dropped the bomb more to gain prestige and unparalleled world power than to save American lives that would be lost in an invasion of Japan. "The bomb became a political entity, as well as a political one," he added.

Mendelsohn says fear was at the root of the policy that created the atomic bomb in 1945. Specifically, Albert Einstein and others shared the potential Nazi scientists had in 1943, prior to World War II. Fear had been at the base of nuclear strategy to this day, according to Mendelsohn.

This fear policy, also known as deterrence, provides mutual assured destruction (M.A.D.) between the rival superpowers. Mendelsohn hopes that the limits of this fear will never be realized, for the result would be catastrophic.

When President Kennedy threatened nuclear war during the Cuban Missile Crisis in 1962, the Russians learned the value of using the bomb for politically persuasive purposes. From this point on, the Russians would not sign a nuclear limitation treaty until they felt parity existed between the two superpowers. The science historian has advised coding to the Soviet Union for peace and peacful moves. Reagan said with a smile, "It takes two to tangle." Reagan acknowledged there is "under discussion a Cabinet proposal to boost gasoline taxes by five cents per gallon in order to rebuild the nation's bridges and highways and create jobs in the face of 10.4 per cent unemployment. But no decision has been made, he said.

"We think we are on the right course," the president said of his economic program.

In an offer of reference to Democratic calls for a multibillion dollar public works program, Reagan said, "Just because we are concerned about those things that we think are important. We are not going to go down the dead-end street that just leaves us for another recession."

Everett Mendelsohn, whose death was announced yesterday, and on page 3, Brezhnev funeral plans and Carol Camp's exclusive interview on Brezhnev reappearations are featured (AP Photo)

Board of Trustees assesses student life

By RYAN VER BERKMOES

Managing Editor

A governor, 12 chief executive officers of corporations, and one famous priest are among the 44 University trustees meeting today at Notre Dame.

While here, the trustees will discuss student life, academic quality, and finances. They will attend a dinner on the library's fourteenth floor, meet with local priests, and be the guests of Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, University president and trustee, at tomorrow's football game. Discussing the future course of the University is also on the agenda.

Yesterday the trustees met with various committees in an effort to ascertain what issues need to be covered during today's full meetings. Among those making proposals was Student Body President Lloyd Burke. Representing the Student Affairs Committee, Burke presented "The Monday Report," an assessment of student life at Notre Dame that was prepared by the University of South Carolina Psychology Department.

The LaFortune Student Center did not fare well in the report. A poll was cited showing that 97 percent of Notre Dame students surveyed did not feel that LaFortune is an adequate facility. "As far as a student center is concerned, they (the trustees) don't know which way to go," Burke said.

"We've had plans sitting on the shelf for 18 months to renovate LaFortune. The trustees need to have an overall plan for this building. A piecemeal approach of doing..."

Student Affiars Committee, Burke

By KATLEEN DOYLE

Senior Staff Reporter

Students seeking assistance with personal or career choice problems or wanting to enhance their personal growth can now turn to a new place on campus designed to help — the Counseling and Psychological Services Center (C&PSC).

This comprehensive mental health agency, which offers professional services to all Notre Dame students and their families, is the result of a merger between the University's Counseling Center and the Student Psychological Services Center.

The merger, planned during the 1981 spring semester, was implemented this summer and made effective with the start of the 1982-83 academic year.

"We decided it made sense to combine the two agencies," said Michael Mond, acting director of C&PSC. "The merger has resulted in improved facilities, an enlarged staff, and expanded services. By combining both efforts we have gathered and centered more resources."

The Counseling and Psychological Services Center is located on the third floor of the Student Health Center. Its staff includes six full-time professionals, a consulting psychologist, and eleven advanced doctoral students in the counseling psychology program.

"The Center's goal is to continue to provide quality service to the University community," Mond said.

One of the primary services of the C&PSC is its work with students in confidential individual therapy. About five percent of the student population uses this service. Common problems of these students include feeling anxious or overwhelmed, not meeting high standards for oneself and choosing a major or career interests.

Group, family, and group counseling is also available. In all cases confidentiality is required by law and the ethics of the counseling profession.

"Often students feel they have to be very sick to come here," Mond said. "We hope to ease their pressure. Those who are experiencing stress or want to explore their lives further should consider coming to the Center.

The C&PSC also offers counseling to groups in a number of subject areas. These include anxiety disorders, test anxiety, personality management, and eating disorders. There is also a group of students trying to deal with their alcohol problems, while another group is made up of students who want to learn to deal with their problems with other friends or family members who are addicted to drugs or alcohol.

A women's support group has also been formed. This discussion group deals with specific problems of female students. A crisis assistance service is also offered by the C&PSC. This is a 24-hour emergency response system designed to deal with mental health crises. The counselor can talk to a member of the staff who will make suggestions and comments.

Films, tapes, and texts dealing with a wide variety of psychological problems are available through the Center. As a result of the merger, its library of approximately 300 psychological books and resource materials have been obtained.

Currently, vocational interests and alcohol assessments are also available to interested students.

The staff emphasizes that all contacts in the Center are strictly confidential.

See C&PSC, page 7

Everett Mendelsohn, whose death was announced yesterday, and on page 3, Brezhnev funeral plans and Carol Camp's exclusive interview on Brezhnev reappearations are featured (AP Photo)
The delayed kickoff for the Notre Dame-Penn state football game today resulted in a time delay for a number of traditional campus events. Television coverage of the game is responsible for a 3:45 p.m. start. A hospitality center for Notre Dame alumni in the north dome of the Athletic Convocation Center will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and following the game to 8:30 p.m. A news coverage covering the history of football at Notre Dame, "Touchdown! The Echols," will be shown on satellite from 1 1 a.m., noon, 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Notre Dame's Glee Club, which recently returned from a concert tour of Eastern cities and an NBC performance, will present the traditional football season concert at 1:30 p.m. in the north dome of the Convocation Center. Marching band concert on the way. Main Building has been moved from noon to 2 p.m. A drum concert inspection of the Irish Guard in the area of the Band Building will precede the concert at the stadium. Finally, officials at Sacred Heart Church on the campus have moved the usual 5 p.m. Mass on football Saturdays back by 20 minutes to 2:30 p.m. to allow the students to make it back to the stadium for the game. The game is expected to be completed about 7 p.m. and dining hall hours have been changed to 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. for Saturday night. — The Observer

The National Commission on Social Security Reform and Robert A. Caro of the New York Times are in agreement in Alexandria, Va., yesterday that the system faces a shortage of $150 billion to $200 billion. The national in-due date is March 9. The reference in the Observer, Bob Yonchak, student body vice president, was not reassured with the positive reception the job bank has received. "So far, the job bank has been very successful," he said. "There are at least two or three job positions filled each week." — The Observer

The Job Bank of Student Government is off to a great start this year, according to Student Body President Lloyd Burke. The job bank was initiated early this fall and was part of Burke's campaign platform last year. Burke said Student Government recognized the obvious need for student employment off campus. Under the job bank, South Bend merchants can call or write the Student Government office when they have jobs available, and the jobs are advertised in The Observer. Bob Yonchak, student body vice president, was not reassured with the positive reception the job bank has received. "So far, the job bank has been very successful," he said. "There are at least two or three job positions filled each week." — The Observer

An 18-year-old man freed the last of his nine hostages and dropped his high-powered rifle in a high school hall yesterday afternoon, ending an 11-hour standoff. A police official said it was triggered by a spurned marriage proposal. James Q. Stempel, 18, who held nine high school students at gunpoint in a sleeping dayroom, was arrested peacefully to police in this affluent suburban school. He was taken to jail, charged with nine counts of abduction and one count of using a firearm to commit a felony and held for arraignment today. No injuries were reported, although two hostages were taken to a hospital for checkups. Lows of police cruisers and emergency vehicles and several helicopters disrupted the quiet neighborhood surrounding the sprawling Lake Braddock Secondary School complex as police and reporters waded out the drama. — AP

The Tyrone policemen in Chicago have prompted a rash of contamination hoaxes, with more than half a dozen reported "victims" of tampered products turning out to be culprits. Authorities generally say they don't know why people — adults and youngsters — acted the way they did. One youth said he put a nail in a frankfurter to scare his girlfriend and another said he used illegal methods to recruit players. But is this the real reason? — AP

Winslow todav — and turning much colder with a 90 percent chance of showers and a few thunderstorms. Temperatures dropping into the upper 30s by evening. Winslow tonight and cold with a 70 percent chance for snow showers. Low in low 30s. Cloudy Saturday and cold with a chance for snow flurries. High in the low and mid 30s. — AP

David Surphie
Assistant News Editor
Inside Friday

The death of football

Notre Dame has tried to maintain an athletic - academic balance and has been about as successful as any school can be in doing this. However, it is impossible for a great academic institution to be a great ath­letic institution, because that is in its very nature in terms." — Howard Cosell in a Gannett interview released earlier this year.

Some may be surprised with these comments from one of the sport's greatest sports analysts, but no one has been more successful at keeping football and basketball on the cutting edge as Cosell. He has turned the Notre Dame football program into a national powerhouse, and he has been a vocal critic of the sport's commercialization. — AP

This is the first time college athletics have come under fire for alleged malfeasance. Notre Dame's great football coach of the 1920s, Knute Rockne, went before a board of leading educators late in his career to plead the case for college football. These educators accused Rockne and other college coaches of luring players away from their studies and emphasizing violence in the sport.

Rockne asked critics to look not at the superficial violence that characterizes the game but at the mean­sure the sport but rather at the basic results of competition. He noted that he and the other coaches "believe the finest work of man is building the charac­ter of man." He continued, "Wouldn't it be better to have not to grade anyone's con­tribution to the advancement of the human race to infallible intelligence until all the results were in? Say, five or ten years later, when he and the other coaches have graduated when his record and character were not being hung on the wall, like a diploma, but are hung inside the man is building the character of man." — AP

Of course, some may contend that television and its great power to sell can cloud the image of college game since Rockne addressed the issue over 50 years ago. Today's critics might point to the many colleges now engaging in recruiting violations, questioning the values the game seems to extol.

But football is a reflection of college life, and college football may be a direct to a degree — certainly, some colleges have used illegal methods to recruit players. But this is the extent of the problem! I don't think the problem lies strictly with college sports but goes much deeper into the psyche of human nature, deeper than most critics could choose to look.

Briefly, the need for security causes humans to align themselves with the most powerful of the winner. This is true in war, this need manifests itself through patriotism; in college football, it manifests itself through student support and alumni loyalty. When this support and loyalty reaches fanaticism, confused morals cause some col­lege officials to cheat.

Only a drastic change in human nature, however, could alleviate the problem. Elimination of college football would affect not the problem but only one of many results.

Cosell and other critics also argue that football draws players away from their studies. One need look only at the record to prove them wrong. Over 80 percent of the 1977 Notre Dame football team graduated within five years — highest among all schools in the College Foot­ball Association.

If Cosell can criticize college football for taking players away from their academic endeavors, one might be justified in questioning whether Cosell favors the elimination of the Olympic Games as well. Olympic ath­letics must devest most of their energies to training for the games and, therefore, cannot spend time in other activities to benefit other aspects of their lives. Is this what Cosell desires?

In truth, big-time college athletics, and especially football, does not take away from college life, but adds to it, enhances it. Football provides an opportunity for the outlet of physical aggres­sion on the part of both players and fans and the en­hancement of the human character that Rockne felt was so important.

In addition, if winning is kept in the proper perspective — desired with vigour, etc. — it can help create a positive at­itude to be carried by students throughout life.

Former Notre Dame President Father John Cavanaugh once noted, "We demand too much of college athletes for "multi-million dollar profits" and the "coaches who are cheating because they will be fired if they don't win."

This is the first time college athletics have come under fire for alleged malfeasance. Notre Dame's great football coach of the 1920s, Knute Rockne, went before a board of leading educators late in his career to plead the case for college football. These educators accused Rockne and other college coaches of luring players away from their studies and emphasizing violence in the sport.

Rockne asked critics to look not at the superficial violence that characterizes the game but at the mean­measure the sport but rather at the basic results of competition. He noted that he and the other coaches "believe the finest work of man is building the charac­ter of man." He continued, "Wouldn't it be better to have not to grade anyone's con­tribution to the advancement of the human race to infallible intelligence until all the results were in? Say, five or ten years later, when he and the other coaches have graduated when his record and character were not being hung on the wall, like a diploma, but are hung inside the

Note: The views expressed in the Inside column are the views of the author, and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Observer or its editorial board.
Russians prepare for Brezhnev's funeral

MOSCOW (AP) — The new Soviet leaders, faced with a transfer of Kremlin power following the death of President Leonid I. Brezhnev, yesterday named former KGB chief Yuri Andropov to head a committee planning a state funeral for the man who ruled the Soviet Union for 18 years.

They announced that Brezhnev would be buried Monday beside the Kremlin wall on Red Square and that a four-day period of national mourning would begin today.

The Communist Party and government, indicating Brezhnev's foreign policy would be continued, reiterated his policy to "ensure detente and disarmament with the West," but warned it would deal a "crushing retaliatory strike" if threatened by attack.

Brezhnev, 75, died Wednesday of an apparent heart attack. The announcement was withheld for 26.5 hours but when it was made, black-trimmed flags quickly were raised around Moscow. Public reaction to Brezhnev's death was surprisingly subdued.

President Reagan, in a congratulatory letter, called Brezhnev "one of the world's most important figures for nearly two decades," and said he looked forward to working with the new Kremlin leadership "toward an improved relationship with the Soviet Union."

White House officials said it was highly unlikely Reagan would be at the funeral Monday, but that a high-level U.S. delegation would attend.

No one was immediately named to succeed Brezhnev as president or to take over the more important post as chief of the Communist Party. But Western experts tend to believe the power vacuum will be filled in the short run by a collective leadership including Andropov, 68, and long-time Brezhnev aide Konstantin Chernenko, 71.

By naming Andropov to head the committee planning an elaborate funeral ceremony, the leadership immediately put Andropov forward as a leading candidate.

Some sources said Chernenko ultimately might take over, but that Moscow Communist Party boss Viktor V. Gorbatenko could emerge as a compromise. Another man once considered in line for a leading post, Andrei Kurilenko, is said to be in poor health and to have retired from the Kremlin leadership.

The Soviet Central Committee, with more than 500 members, formally votes on a new party chief and the parliamentary leadership chooses the president.

But until the succession question is settled, Western analysts believe a "crushing retaliatory strike" if threatened by attack.

Brezhnev, yesterday named former KGB chief Yuri Andropov to head the committee planning an elaborate funeral ceremony, the leadership immediately put Andropov forward as a leading candidate.

After Brezhnev's death

Gov't prof predicts little change

By CAROL CAMP
Senior Staff Reporter

There will be little change in Soviet domestic and foreign policy as a result of the death of Soviet premier Leonid Brezhnev, according to Professor of Government George Brinkley in an exclusive interview yesterday.

Brinkley dismissed the idea that there will be a significant power struggle between opposing political forces within the Soviet Union.

"Why should anyone try to change policy?" Brinkley asked. "After all, it is their policy as well as Brezhnev's. I don't see any basis for that kind of analysis."

Brinkley qualified his observations by relating some background information about the nature of the Soviet political system. Power within the Soviet Union is concentrated within the Politburo, which usually consists of 12 members. Because of Brezhnev's death and the debate as to whether one of the Politburo members absent in a recent group photograph is alive or dead, the body is presently comprised of 11 members.

According to Brinkley, none of the

See BRINKLEY, page 8

the HAMMES NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

is more than just textbooks!

Books are a great gift idea Some examples include:

- The Church of the Poor Decil
- Reflections on a Rich Footprint & Spiritual Journey
- 1983 Calendar
- The End of Autumn

Countless others include:

1983 Gift Calendars, best sellers, art, religious, children's books, travel books
First of two

Space Shuttle launches satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — From a space shuttle launch pad 184 miles above Earth, the experimental crew of Columbia sent the first of two communications satellites spinning into orbit yesterday. With that, the era of commercial space flight launched.

It happened only eight hours after the shuttle cut through thick skies over the Atlantic and settled for its fifth flight.

Mission specialist Joseph Lenox started the satellite spinning, triggering a 90-minute countdown for SBS-C, the spacecraft belonging to Satellite Business Systems of McLean, Va.

"You got a lot of happy people down here, you guys did good work," radioed Mission Control.

The satellite, a 5.5-ton cylinder that will be used for video, data and voice communications, was spinning at 52 revolutions per minute when it was released into an orbit of its own.

A few minutes later, his colleague, Joseph Allen, radioed, "We still have that beautiful satellite orbiting up there. It's just traveling just below us."

NASA paid for the shuttle's task, not the much cheaper Titan rocket.

The Veterans' Day launch was the first ever of foreign satellites in one spacecraft. With NASA's customers paying attention, Columbia left Earth with the only active Titan rocket able to launch under the 1969 SALT treaty.

"It was as near perfect as we could probably expect," said launch director Al Harta. "It couldn't get any better."

High director Tommy Holloway said the flight was going exceptionally well and that the crewmen were "in good spirits, enjoying themselves and doing a very excellent job."

"It was a fine ride, a fine one, I can tell you," commander Vance Brand said of the ship's fifth flight in 19 months.

With him are pilot Robert Overmyer, 46, and astronaut-scientists Lenox, 38, and Allen Allen, 45. These jobs were en route to the 52nd revolution, you got a lot of happy people down here, you guys did good work," radioed Mission Control. A second motor firing will circularize the orbit, allowing the satellite to reach a "perigee rocket motor" on the SBS-C, to boost the satellite into an "eggs-shaped" orbit. To keep two second motor firing will circularize the orbit of its own.

The news came eight hours after the failure of a general strike called by underground leaders of the outlawed independent labor union, "Solidarity."

"It is true, I will be happy," Walesa's wife, Anna, told The Associated Press by telephone from the couple's home in the northern port city of Gdansk. "I am full of joy and tears, because I cannot imagine the crowds of people who will want to see him."

Government spokesman Jerry Urban told foreign reporters at a hurriedly called news conference yesterday that Walesa's release would be delayed until sometime in the next few days because of technical reasons such as differentformulations, his luggage and so forth.

"No conditions were put to Walesa concerning his release," he three are cookies, but Brand, 51, had been in space before. He returned to Earth with the 1979 Apollo-Soyuz flight when fuel lines leaked into the capsule after it splashed into the Pacific Ocean.

In the shuttle's 60-foot-long cargo bay, the launch were two nearly identical satellites. One belonged to an independent firm of Aero-Astronautics, a division of Arthur, 23, and Alan, 46, who have worked as test pilots.

"The Best Chinese Food You've Ever Had"

RESTAURANT & COCKTAIL LOUNGE
Szechuan - Cantonese - American

CHUCK WHITE
At The Piano Bar
No Cover Every Tom., Thu., Sat.
10 p.m. - 1:00 a.m. - 5 p.m. Lunch
• Dancing • Drinks • Dinner
• Hostess • Reasonable Prices

Launch Special: $3.99 to $6.99
Dinner Special: Seafood Platter: $8.99
Fork Fried Rice: $5.00
Chicken Chowmein: $5.50

"The Best Chinese Food You've Ever Had!"

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK
130 NEW HAMPTON RD. SOUTH GATE (East of Hwy 7)
udu • CHINESE • DINER

"If you are planning for your future, plan to meet with a special Army officer recruiting team which will be on campus Monday afternoon, November 15."

The team, which includes two instructors from the Army Officer Candidate School, will make a presentation on the requirements, benefits, training, and duties of an Army officer.

The presentation will begin at 1:00 p.m., at the Army ROTC Lounge, 2nd Floor, Building 5.

For more information on how you can become an Army officer, call Capt. John Cooney at 232-6250.

Army-Be All You Can Be.
Arms control conference

Salt I rep favors arms control

By CATHY PAX
Staff Reporter

Arms limitations can exist in a country and not endanger its national security, said William McLean, a speaker in yesterday's Convocation on Solutions to the Nuclear Arms Race.

"We're one step beyond negotiating a verifiable freeze," said McLean, assistant dean of the Notre Dame Law School and a naval representative of the original delegation to the SALT talks. "Arms control is a viable alternative; in my opinion it is the most viable."

He spoke to an audience of approximately 60 about his role in the alternative; in my opinion it is the

A specific date for the opening of the college center, which will operate on its own budget, has not yet been determined. "This is one of the two powers; an updating

"There have been some problems with SALT I, but these agreements still live and both sides abide by them because both sides can say, 'This is in my national interest.'" In McLean's opinion, this is the reason the SALT treaty has worked. "In 1972 I embodied four major points; stress upon communication between the two powers; an updating

"The Russians do respect strength and they state at weaknesses," McLean said as he praised Reagan's desire for military strength. He saw the failure of the Iranian hostage escape mission as an impetus for the defense building movement of the present government.

McLean was optimistic about the Reagan administration's relations with the Soviets. "There is a good chance in the next two years of ratifying a SALT II that failed before." He also spoke of recent leader Leonid Brezhnev's death as a possible stumbling block in negotiations. "Brezhnev's death may not hurt arms talks but it certainly won't speed them up."

Former SMC library becomes college center

By MIKE LEPRE
Senior Staff Reporter

Blueprints have been completed for the renovation of Saint Mary's old library into a college center for both faculty and students.

Mary Ann O'Donnell, director of student activities at Saint Mary's College, anticipates, "The center may open as early as next fall."

The plan for the center was developed as a result of a fact-finding study conducted on the campuses of both Saint Mary's and Notre Dame. In response to these surveys, the center will include a game room, a snack bar, lounge areas, office space, a bookstore, and a center for general information.

"The goal of our program is to encourage informal association between students and faculty members," said O'Donnell, adding, "With this new facility we will be able to centralize student activities."

In explaining the use of the various space allotments, O'Donnell quickly pointed out, "The plans were designed with the objective of creating many multi-purpose rooms."

Along this line, O'Donnell noted that certain lounge areas could be used by different campus groups for workshops, parties, or other social gatherings.

While changes to the current floor plan will take place, O'Donnell believes that the plans do not call for any major structural changes to the building itself.

"We are trying as best as we can to retain the building while at the same time preserving its old beauty as much as possible," she said.

O'Donnell feels that Saint Mary's students will respond favorably to the college center. "This center will become the focal point of student life on our campus," stated O'Donnell, "and in this respect will be a super addition to Saint Mary's."

Snite Museum

The Snite Museum present:

The Maids
by Jean Genet
November 20-28
BVM Hall, Note Dame campus
$3.00 General Admission $2.00 Students-Senior Citizens-Career Study Faculty Staff
(Ticket Night $2 for the price of I) For information call 284-6006

The Madison

by Robert Hughes

November 20-28
BVM Hall, Note Dame campus
$3.00 General Admission $2.00 Students-Senior Citizens-Career Study Faculty Staff
(Ticket Night $2 for the price of I) For information call 284-6006

The Snite Museum

Old Fashioned Home Cooking At Its Best!

- If You Are Looking For Something Unique and Different
- Homemade Pies, Breads, Salads, & Rolls
- All Foot Salad Bar
- Nights: "All You Care To Eat Specials" Choose from Roast Beef, Turkey, Chicken, BBQ Ribs, Frog Legs & Lake perch, Swiss Steak,
- Open Menu Always Available
- Ham
- Elegant, Good Prices — 450 Seats
- Souvenirs, Gifts & Homemade Goodies
- T, morning brunch-75 items under $5.00- 8 am - 2 pm
- We will accept your reservations to guarantee immediate seating

Student Union, Educational Media, and The Snite Museum present:

Robert Hughes

- Art Editor of Time Magazine
- Author - The Shock of the New
- "Art, Politics, Propaganda"

Tuesday, November 16
7:30pm Annenberg Auditorium
Snite Museum

SUNNYSIDE BEVERAGES

Beer and Soft Drinks

1340 South Bend Ave. across street from campus
FREE POSTERS

234-1114

20 DIFFERENT BRANDS OF KEG BEER AVAILABLE INCLUDING IMPOR TS

OPEN TILL 1:00 Saturday
Explosion destroys Israeli headquarters

TYRE, Lebanon (AP) — A fiery explosion destroyed Israel's military headquarters in Tyre yesterday, killing at least 28 people and wounding dozens more.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said in a communiqué that 15 Israelis were killed in the explosion and 25 were wounded. An Israeli army medic at the scene, Dr. Arieh Roth, said he knew of 15 Arabs killed, and there were reports from Beirut of 60 dead in the rubble of the eight-story building.

Some reports said the explosion was caused by a attacker who drove a car packed with explosives into the building. Other reports said the blast may have been caused by exploding ammunition or gas cylinders.

There was no official word from the Israelis on the cause.

Defense Minister Ariel Sharon called it "a disaster whose cause and circumstances we don't know yet, and in which many people were hurt.

Israeli soldiers were still searching the rubble for other victims and survivors, the military command said.

It said the dead Israelis were five soldiers, six Israeli Druse border police and two members of Israel's Shin Bet security service.

Israeli authorities had held up release of an official casualty toll until relatives were notified.

Lebanese rescue workers, interviewed in Sidon after leaving Tyre, said they counted 60 bodies.

The memory of soldiers who gave their lives for their country."

The Union of Concerned Scientists, at a Harvard seminar in Cambridge, Mass.

"The Union of Concerned Scientists wants to prove to the people that I Vietnam veterans fought was an honorable one."
The Observer

Center of Pastoral Liturgy
Conference features Vatican II

By WARREN BERRY
News Staff

The Center of Pastoral Liturgy will host an international liturgical conference in the University's Center for Continuing Education beginning June 13.

The topic of the conference is "Renaissance Perspectives on Twenty Years of Liturgical Change" and will feature speakers who attended the Second Vatican Council.

"We seek to take stock of the last 20 years of change," said Brother James A. Field, program coordinator for the Center. "We plan to evaluate how the vision of the Council's continuation on the Sacred Liturgy has been fulfilled, and in what respects the reform has failed to live up to the hopes expressed by the Second Vatican Council."

Dr. Mark Searle, from the Center of Pastoral Liturgy, explained the goals of the Council, saying that it is to set forth the whole history of salvation. It is then the church and its spiritual activities into this context, thereby laying down the principles to govern the reform of the Church's liturgy.

Searle went on to state that many of the changes were forced because they involved easily transformed changes in policies. Other reforms, however, were not as readily accepted because they involved changes in individual attitudes as well.

...continued from page 1

"We believe that for a student to have real confidence, to be comfortable coming here, it is necessary for him to know that whatever they say here is confidential," Mond said. "We only disclose information if the student gives his written consent, or if there is a real emergency situation, such as a suicide attempt, a severe emotional breakdown, or if the student becomes a threat to others."

"Often students are concerned about whether their coming to the Center will appear on their transcript," he added. "Nothing appears on a student's record. We try to do what is in the best interest of the student. The student is the focus. That's our philosophy."

"We have developed comprehensive mental health services for a college campus," said Willis E. Bartlett, coordinator of professional training. "And we provide services for a minimal fee. There is no charge for the student's first session."

"We take the student's financial situation into consideration and work it out with him," Mond added. "We have never turned a student away because he couldn't afford to pay."

Another result of the merger is improved facilities. A new wing of offices and therapy rooms has been added, as well as a library, enlarged waiting room, and audio-visual room.

"We have tried to make the Center more private and more pleasing to the students and staff," Mond said.

In addition, the old infirmary chapel is presently undergoing renovation to be used by C&psc. The new chapel is presently undergoing a renovation, and it will be open for the Center in December. Reception problems, however, began to occur making viewing difficult. Bob Ludtke, food service manager, requested that the rental agency replace or repair the faulty antenna. However, Video Movie Center, according to Ludtke, will only make the necessary repairs if the television is purchased. No settlement has yet been reached.

The television was originally rented to telecast the Notre Dame football game. Approximately 45 people showed up, whereas usually no one would have been present, said Ludtke. More football games will probably be shown and some movies may also be shown. If it works out well, soap operas will be shown during lunch hours.

Ludtke would not disclose the rental amount or the purchase price of the set, but described it as a "considerable amount." He said that the television will be purchased if the benefits are worth the cost. The frequent experiments will help to determine whether the television increases student activities and business at the snack bar.

The television has a five foot screen, remote control, and color. Although it does not carry cable now, a cable hookup can be installed, according to the manager of the snack bar.

This was the official portrait of Brezhnev to be posted Thursday after the announcement of his death at age 75. The portrait was put up at the official Tass news agency. (AP Photo)

Clip this coupon for savings on fun at

Putt-Putt Golf & Games

7 GAMEROOM TOKENS $1.00
40 GAMEROOM TOKENS $5.00

Try:

GAMEROOM TOKENS $5

Cost only $10.00 per couple

Girls ask your favorite Guy!
Guys ask your favorite Girl!

Food/Drinks/Fun

JUNIOR CLASS DATE NIGHT!

Dinner at the Ice House followed by a choice of two movies.

Wednesday & Thursday Night Nov. 17 & 18
Cost only $10.00 per couple

Caravan will meet at Main Circle at 6:45
Tickets will be sold in LaFortune
Friday Nov. 12 3:30-4:30
For more information call 6874

Go Irish
Tame the Llamas!

The Colonial Pancake House invites you to enjoy one of our many breakfast specialties:
OVEN BAKED APPLE PANCAKES AND OMELETTES!

U.S. 31 (Dixeway) North in Roseland
open at 6am 7 days a week
All First Degree Knights are invited to Ram mes Netre Dame Beehstere.

Yes, send me information about the Capuchin way of life.

Veterans Day was observed around the country yesterday. This New Orleans battlefield cemetery shown here is the resting place for over 15,000 American veterans of all services. (AP Photo)

...Brinkley

Brinkley will be viewed as a leader who kept the Soviets "on an even keel" because the rebels were in peril of losing control of the situation. Moscow came to their aid. Brinkley expressed the view that the Soviets "would be happy to get out if they could, and they are, in fact, looking for a way to save face in a no-win situation."

In the area of nuclear disarmament negotiations, Brinkley observed that the United States hurt itself by rejecting the SALT II treaty because the Soviets viewed the treaty as "a reasonable approach to the issue." Although SALT II did not magically solve the problem of the threat of nuclear weapons, it nevertheless was, in Brinkley's opinion, "a negotiated statement based upon knowledge of ultimate destruction."

Furthermore, Brinkley bases his prediction of internal Soviet stability upon the view that the Soviet political system in his view, the Soviet system is a constitutional system in which the party controls the state. Accordingly, the government takes its orders from the party, which is controlled by the General Secretary. Although this system has been in use for several decades, it is interesting to note that the position of General Secretary was not officially created until 1966.

On issues pertaining to the vehicles of governmental power, the Soviet constitution lacks specific definition. Hence, the importance of the power of individual politicians becomes a significant aspect of government. When asked to comment upon the impact of Brezhnev's death on domestic politics, Brinkley stated that the transition to a new regime will probably occur without incident. Brinkley feels that Andropov, former head of the KGB, will assume Brezhnev's position, if he has not already done so.

An interesting sidelight is that Andropov is credited with coordinating Brezhnev's funeral arrangements. According to Brinkley, there are two possible reasons for this: either Andropov is Brezhnev's actual successor and as such, has already assumed his position, or else he is being momentarily appeased until a successor is named.

Celebrate ND's last home football weekend at:

The NAZZ

Friday, Nov 12

SHENANIGANS 9-11

Saturday, Nov. 13

written & presented by David Pierson Garnide

9:30 The Belltones 10:30? Open Stage

AUTHENTIC MEXICAN FOOD

EL MATADOR

MEXICAN RESTAURANT
IN SOUTH BEND 2120 W. WESTERN AVE.

FREE FANTASTIC VALUE FREE

EL MATADOR 2120 W. WESTERN VEHICLES OUT OF SOUTH BEND

FREE

EXPIRES 11-25-82 DINE-IN OR CARRY-OUT NO LIMIT

COUPON

FREE

LAST CHANCE FOR BEAUX ARTS BALL tickets and case of even cheaper beer have not yet been found. This is your last chance. We would say the costume theme is "Bad Taste." The affair will be held tonight from 9 to 2 in the Architecture Building. The best trustee costume will win a seat on the Board of Trustees. Any other trustee members will be awarded a four-year scholarship. Tickets are $4 and will be sold tonight during the dinning halls and at the door. The bands The Keeners (formerly The Verbs) and The Rooms will play until Thanksgiving break. "Thanksgiving break" I already referring to have taste I forbed myself to have it. I know that the invita- tion of it would have not resulted but softened me. (Jean Genet)

Our case of beer has yet to be found

But it rests gently above ground

Now among the rocks

You won't all flock

And Bad Taste want to those fraying around

Live for God and His People as a ... Capuchin a what?

Capuchin Franciscans are a religious fraternity of men trying to live the Gospel in the spirit of Francis of Assisi in today's world.

Join us in promoting peace, education, and justice— in ghettos... in jails... in soup kitchens... in parishes... in halfway houses... on radio and TV.

Join us in working with and for the advancement of blacks, whites, Hispanics, native Americans and people of the Third World in Central America.

Check out whether being a Capuchin, committed to living for God and his people, in the spirit of Francis, is for you. No obligation. Write today for more information.

Clip and Mail Today!
Father John Holly, OFM Capuchin, 1820 Mt. Elliott Avenue, Detroit, MI 48207

Yes, send me information about the Capuchin way of life.

Name Age

College Address

City State Zip

Friday, November 12, 1982 — page 8
Suspected IRA terrorists killed

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Police said they shot and killed three men suspected of being Irish Republican Army terrorists when the men tried to ram their car through a roadblock near Lurgan last night.

They said one officer was injured when he was struck by the car and the other policeman then opened fire.

A press spokesman at the Belfast headquarters of the Royal Ulster Constabulary said one of the men killed was a high ranking member of the outlawed IRA and all three were sought for questioning, but no names were released.

The shooting occurred in the same area, about 20 miles southwest of Belfast, where three police officers were killed Oct. 27 when a bomb planted by IRA guerrillas blasted their patrol car.

The deaths brought to 12 the number of people slain during the past three weeks in Northern Ireland's sectarian violence.

There have been 2,240 known deaths in conflict since the 1969 riots, in which the British tried to drive the British from the mainly Catholic IRA is fighting the British from the predominantly Protestant Northern Ireland. It wants to unite the British province with the overwhelmingly Catholic Irish Republic.

James Stevens, 17, a former student at Lake Braddock High School in Burke, Va., has been identified as holding seven hostages Wednesday at a 4,500-student school in Fairfax County. This picture is from the school's yearbook (AP Photos)
Somehow the spirit of this document presents only a case against the use of nuclear weapons. The statement clearly distinguishes between the irreconcilable ecological and genetic effects of nuclear war and the seemingly reconcilable effects of conventional war.

What about the horrors of World War II? Do those horrors make science or scientists choose their lives to the 50 million who died between 1939 and 1945? It seems that conventional war has been with the world so long that we have grown accustomed to it. Perhaps the action of "Mother" from a 17-year-old boy caught in barbed wire or the death gowns of a legsless mine victim grow faint in the mass of high school history textbooks. Do we forget those who were killed or maimed in the trenches, foxholes, and jungles of France, Korea, and Vietnam?

Americans have been very lucky. Since January 8, 1815, when the British attacked Jackson's force at New Orleans, no foreign power has invaded the continental United States. Even when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and invaded the Aleutians in World War II, most Americans were insulated from the threat.

The only Americans who braved the fear of immediate annihilation were shipped "over there," far from the ticker tape of Wall Street and the cornfields of the Midwest. These young men and women alone faced the streaming bullets, falling bombs, and sighing gases.

For more than 30 years, war has no longer been thought of as "over there." Nuclear war has brought death and agony to welcome mass throughout America. War confronts each of us squarely in the face. We have no one to send in our stead; we have only ourselves to sacrifice. Old and young alike face the agony previously reserved for those Americans of draftable age.

Do we hope to replace our nuclear arms build-up with a conventional arms build-up? Do we really hope to construct an articulated "Just War Theory" based on gospornelp and bayonets?

The nuclear arms race is not the intrinsic war. War is and until we can rid the world of the fear and lust for power which brings about war, we cannot hope to save ourselves. Nuclear weapons are just that, weapons. And though they are the most destructive weapons ever produced, they can be replaced by other more effective weapons, such as chemical wars, or by greater quantities of conventional weapons, such as incendiary bombs.

When we seek to preserve human lives, we cannot forget the lives of the young for the sake of those not of draftable age. Death is still death whether it be at the point of a gun or from the long-term effects of a nuclear explosion. For too long, the young have borne the consequences of our imprecise approval of conventional warfare.

If we are to sincerely decry nuclear warfare, we must just as vehemently criticize conventional warfare. We cannot base our Christian ethics solely on numbers and atomic lives. One human life is too precious to so callously fulfill on any war.

How does one write the lead to an article about a man who teaches writers how to construct leads? Roy Peter Clark would suggest that since the first word, choice is carefully, and move on to the second.

Clark, in the assistant director of the Modern...
Irish meet Nittany Lions in key rematch

By MIKE RICCARDI
Sports Writer

One time, on an episode of the the old television program "Mission Impossible," the self-destructing tape carried a message for Mr. Phelps, the character played by Peter Graves. "Your mission — should you choose to accept it — would be to retrieve some confidential Pentagon dispatch from the clutches of a dangerous group of Central American revolutionaries." After Phelps had completed his task, however, he found that he had to return the dispatch over a mine field.

This is the Nittany Lions’ first trip to northern Indiana in over five decades — PSU was shut out by Knute Rockne’s 1925 squad, 28-0, on Cartier Field — and their first-ever appearance in Notre Dame Stadium.

"(Playing in ND Stadium) will be a good experience for us," says Penn State Head Coach Joe Paterno, now in his 17th year at the helm. "I’m sure the Notre Dame kids will be very enthusiastic, but it doesn’t make a difference where we play. The crowd can’t tackle you, unless they have rules right there."

"We’ve played before big, vocal crowds away from home before, our guys get more fired up when there’s that kind of electricity in the air."

While upsetting Pittsburgh was a tall order, Notre Dame Head Coach Gerry Faust feels that Penn State poses an even more difficult foe — a red-hot, fifth-ranked Penn State (8-1) team rolls in to town to play 6-1 Notre Dame late Saturday afternoon (3:50 p.m.) at the Stadium in the second game this season under Musco’s portable lights.

Quarterback Todd Blackledge, who wasn’t given the pre-season hype of the sort accorded to Pitt’s Dan Marino, has had an even better campaign than the "other quarterback" in Pennsylvania. Blackledge, who like Notre Dame’s Blue Kiel had been much maligned in his first two seasons, is well on his way to breaking many of Maxwell Award winner Chuck Fusina’s PSU records.

The 6-4, 220-pound junior’s sure-handed targets include flanker Kenny Jackson, split end Greg Garrity, tailback Curt Warner, fullback Jonathan Williams and tight end Mike McClone.

"Kenny is by far the most explosive receiver I’ve ever had," says Paterno of Jackson, who is coming off back-to-back 100-yard receiving days. "He’s very dangerous." Blackledge’s surprising success — he now has 1,880 passing yards after PSU’s 54-0 sacrificial North Carolina State — has enabled the Lions to compile awesome offensive figures. Penn State has scored 36.1 points per game while chewing up 434.6 yards of total offense, numbers good for rankings of third and seventh, respectively, in the nation.

"The biggest difference I can see in Penn State offensively is the mileage they are getting out of todd Blackledge," says Faust. "He’s a big difference."

"Small Wonderful" — Howard attributes accomplishments of recent years to parents, coaches

By DAPHNE BAILLE
Sports Writer

Joe Howard caught only one pass last week’s 31-16 upset of Pittsburgh, but that one was spectacular. The now famous "29 Special" flea-flicker resulted in six points and an Irish lead that held for the rest of the game.

"I was nervous," says the sophomore flanker with a smile, remembering Kiel’s pass sailing through the air. "I just wanted to catch the ball and then run with it. I thought, ‘If I drop it, I might as well just keep on running right through the tunnel and out of the stadium.’"

Fortunately for the Irish, Howard hung on to the ball and galloped on to a 54-yard touchdown, his first of the season. The catch ranks right up there in the receiver’s memory with last year’s record 96-yard touchdown grab against Georgia Tech.

"I didn’t catch a long pass all year," says Howard, nicknamed "Small Wonder" because of his diminutive size. "It felt good to catch that one."

Running longer routes as a freshman last season, the 5-9, 167-pounder averaged 27.2 yards per reception on 17 catches in his first game. He played only half the season. This year, Howard is second only to Tony Hunter in the receiving department, boasting 23 catches for 347 yards. In addition, he has returned five kicks for 111 yards, a 22.2 yard average.

Still, Howard hopes to improve.

"I definitely feel more confident than I did last year," says the Clinton, Md., native. "I’d like to get better every year."

The Irish hierarchy would like that too.

"The coaches have helped a lot," says Howard. "Last year we didn’t have one coach especially for the receivers. This year Coach (Ron) Hudson works with the quarterbacks and receivers, and Coach (Brian) Boulac helps the receivers too. There’s a big difference having a coach with you for the whole practice to tell you what you’re doing wrong."

"Both coaches stress blocking and running good routes," continues Howard, "so I’m impressed in those areas. They also tell us how important it is to catch every pass that comes to us."

"I get bruised up a lot," admits Howard. "I’ve had my shoulder knocked out, I damaged a nerve in my leg... or sometimes I just get knocked dizzy."

There was a time when Howard was the one doing the hitting.

"I played free safety all four years in high school," explains Howard, who nabbed 12 interceptions his senior year while leading his Carroll High team in tackles. He was also a standout at a variety of positions on offense, including wide receiver, winger and running back.

"When I came here, Coach (Greg) Blache asked if I wanted to play offense or defense," recalls Howard. "I like having the ball more than trying to get the ball from the other team. I like to score, so I try to catch the ball wherever it is and then make the big play."

"If Howard’s efforts prove ineffective, there are other receivers ready to fill his shoes."
Zavagnin enters last home game but he's not done playing yet

By STEVEN LABATE
Sports Writer

This Saturday, senior co-captain Mark Zavagnin will be playing in his last home football game for Notre Dame. Of those four seasons, Zavagnin has been perhaps the most steady and consistent player on the Irish defensive unit.

Three of those years, Zavagnin started at inside linebacker. But this season, in the wake of Bob Crable's departure, the alignments were such that Crable was free most of the time to make the tackles. "But this year we've been playing with a team aspect," Zavagnin says. "In previous gameplans, I was the defensive unit this season has resembled the four-quarter player. Now everybody gets to the ball and what it can do," he says. "The younger guys never expected that until this year." Zavagnin feels that there is room for improvement in his game. That may be true, but last week in the upset of Pitt, No. 46 was nothing less than awesome.

"There really isn't that much of a difference between middle linebacker and weakside linebacker," says Zavagnin. "I don't think the transition was that hard. I'm not trying to make people forget about Bob Crable, but I hope people realize I'm doing the best I can to fill Bob Crable's shoes."

"I definitely think it was one of my best," he says. "Last week the intensity was so high." "I would say that (the loss to Arizona and the tie with Oregon) was due to a lack of intensity and an inability to play four quarters of football. We lost the Arizona game in the fourth quarter. We tied the Oregon game because we didn't play a third quarter. We just weren't there." In spite of the earlier back to back disappointments, the defensive unit this season has resembled the familiar sting defenses of the past. Zavagnin credits the unit's success to the new philosophy advocated by the coaches, and practiced by the players.

You see, the past few seasons, the defense was centered around the talents of All-American Bob Crable. The alignments were such that Crable was free most of the time to make the tackles. "But this year we've been playing with a team aspect," Zavagnin says. "In previous years it seems like we counted on one or two people to make the big play. Now everybody gets to the ball and helps each other make the tackles.

Zavagnin's presence in the middle looms large in the mind of opposing coaches when devising their gameplans.

"A good coaching move is always to pick on the least experienced person," says the 6-foot-3, 228-pound senior. "I don't think that people are intimidated by me or are afraid to run at me, but it definitely has contributed to (Defensive Linebacker) Mike Larkin's success. Teams have tested him and he has passed those tests.

For the seniors the last four years have been a series of ups and downs. They have reached the emotional highs associated with last second victories, and the discouraging lows that result from clutch game losses.

"Losing to USC, my sophomore year after we had gotten the bid to go to the Sugar Bowl to play for the National Championship was a low point for me," says the Evergreens Park, IL, native. "It was something that didn't happen to me. I really felt bad about it. I was fund of Coach (Dan) Devine and I felt he deserved better.

"Last season as a whole was disappointing as well. To pick out a game, it would have to be Michigan. I've never felt so helpless on a football field. We went into the game No. 1 and we were embarrassed."

Like the other seniors, Mark has split his collegiate football experience under the reigns of two different coaches: one a seasoned veteran, the other a charismatic newcomer. Zavagnin, unlike some other players, has nothing but praise for Dan Devine.

"Dan Devine taught me so much about college life," Zavagnin says. "When I was recruited by him, he told me exactly what was going to happen. He was totally honest with me. I respected him while he was here and I respect him now."

Zavagnin is also quick to tell of his respect for Gerry Faust. "Last week the intensity was so high. I really believe that last week this team has learned what it can do," he says. "The younger guys never experienced something like riding home on the bus, coming down Notre Dame Avenue with 4,000 people there. It really showed them what the Notre Dame winning tradition is about."

Saturday's Penn State game will be the last home appearance for Mark Zavagnin and 19 other seniors. He'll be playing in his last home football game for Notre Dame. Of those four seasons, Zavagnin has been perhaps the most steady and consistent player on the Irish defensive unit.

"This will always be remembered as a happy part of my life," Zavagnin concludes. "It definitely is going to be a sad moment. Playing here in the stadium and looking up and seeing all the fans waving their hands."

"I'll miss that."

Mark Zavagnin

Save the gridiron on Saturday night with a lifetime full of memories.

"This will always be remembered as a happy part of my life," Zavagnin concludes. "It definitely is going to be a sad moment. Playing here in the stadium and looking up and seeing all the fans waving their hands."

Joy Paterno

Tim Scannell's dilemma

Scannell hails from State College, PA, and has spent his entire life growing up in the heartland of Joe Paterno and his Penn State University Nittany Lions. Scannell's father is the Vice-President and Dean of the Commonwealth Educational System at Penn State and his oldest brother attended Penn State. Scannell knows all of the Penn State coaches. He also knows most of the football players from workouts.

"You couldn't ask for better incentive. W in or lose, however, Saturday afternoon will be a memorable one for Scannell, if 'Scanny' - Tim Scannell as he is affectionately known - has his way with it.

"I've had more emotional and exciting experience than usual for Scannell, as the Nittany Lions come to ND Stadium. Obviously this is more than just a gridiron battle between two top twenty teams for him."

"This game will be extra-special to me, since I know so many people who go to Penn State," says Scannell. "If we lose, I'll hear about it all summer long.

"You couldn't ask for better incentive. Win or lose, however, Saturday afternoon will be a memorable one for Scannell, if 'Scanny' - Tim Scannell as he is affectionately known - has his way with it.

"I've had more emotional and exciting experience than usual for Scannell, as the Nittany Lions come to ND Stadium. Obviously this is more than just a gridiron battle between two top twenty teams for him."

"This game will be extra-special to me, since I know so many people who go to Penn State," says Scannell. "If we lose, I'll hear about it all summer long.

"You couldn't ask for better incentive. Win or lose, however, Saturday afternoon will be a memorable one for Scannell, if 'Scanny' - Tim Scannell as he is affectionately known - has his way with it.

"I've had more emotional and exciting experience than usual for Scannell, as the Nittany Lions come to ND Stadium. Obviously this is more than just a gridiron battle between two top twenty teams for him."

"This game will be extra-special to me, since I know so many people who go to Penn State," says Scannell. "If we lose, I'll hear about it all summer long.

"You couldn't ask for better incentive. Win or lose, however, Saturday afternoon will be a memorable one for Scannell, if 'Scanny' - Tim Scannell as he is affectionately known - has his way with it.

"I've had more emotional and exciting experience than usual for Scannell, as the Nittany Lions come to ND Stadium. Obviously this is more than just a gridiron battle between two top twenty teams for him."

"This game will be extra-special to me, since I know so many people who go to Penn State," says Scannell. "If we lose, I'll hear about it all summer long.

"You couldn't ask for better incentive. Win or lose, however, Saturday afternoon will be a memorable one for Scannell, if 'Scanny' - Tim Scannell as he is affectionately known - has his way with it.

"I've had more emotional and exciting experience than usual for Scannell, as the Nittany Lions come to ND Stadium. Obviously this is more than just a gridiron battle between two top twenty teams for him."

"This game will be extra-special to me, since I know so many people who go to Penn State," says Scannell. "If we lose, I'll hear about it all summer long.

"You couldn't ask for better incentive. Win or lose, however, Saturday afternoon will be a memorable one for Scannell, if 'Scanny' - Tim Scannell as he is affectionately known - has his way with it.
Blackledge breaks loose
Junior QB helps Penn State shun conservative image with aerial attack

By MIKE POORMAN

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — In Joe Paterno's 17 years as head coach of Penn State, the never-completed road to No. 1 has been strictly an overload route. In fact, only one Nittany Lion quarterback — Heisman Trophy runner-up Chuck Fusina — ever averaged more than 20 passes per game.

And never, ever has a Penn State team coached by Paterno had a season where it gained more yardage passing than rushing. Until now.

With games against Notre Dame and Pitt remaining, the 8-1 Nittany Lions have averaged 226 yards per game passing and 209 yards per game rushing. The reason? Todd Blackledge.

It's mainly because of Blackledge that Penn State abandoned what had been the most conservative attack this side of William F. Buckley Jr.'s tongue. The 6-4, 212-pound junior from North Canton, Ohio, practically carried the Nittany Lion offense thus their first four games and has had the opposing teams off balance all season.

He threw four TD passes each in wins over Temple, Maryland and Rutgers, and passed for these against both Boston College and Nebraska, including a two-yarder against the Cornhuskers with two seconds remaining.

Currently, Blackledge is ranked sixth in the nation, and has thrown 20 touchdown passes this season and 39 in his career, to break a school record.

"There was no way of knowing that Blackledge would turn out to be as good as he's been," Paterno said. "He has just gotten better and better, and that is an indication he has been working at it."

But it has been a gradual, and sometimes painful development, for Blackledge. A senior who redshirted his first year at Penn State (1979) after breaking his right hand at the beginning of fall workouts.

Upon his return in 1980, Blackledge had two fight Jeff Hostetler for the starting quarterback position. It took four games for Blackledge to earn a start, but after he did, he played so effectively that Hostetler transferred to West Virginia at the end of the season.

In games Blackledge has started, the Nittany Lions are 26-4. But this season, he has been plagued by inconsistency. For instance, last year at Miami, Blackledge completed 26 of 44 passes for 356 yards. And Penn State lost. Last year against Notre Dame, he completed just 6 of 13 for 66 yards. And Penn State won.

You figure it out. Blackledge spent all of the past summer at University Park trying to do just that.

He listened at the local public television station and worked out daily with his roommate, Curt Warner, and flanker Kenny Jackson. In the process, Blackledge dropped ten pounds, worked on his quickness and concentration on some minor aspects of the game.

"This year, since I am so much more comfortable with the offense, with our plays and with myself physically," says Blackledge, "I've concentrated on the mental aspect and being a smarter quarterback."

Not that Blackledge didn't have the smarts all along. He is a Phi Beta Kappa with a 3.82 grade point average, in this, his senior year. Despite his red-shirt year, Blackledge will graduate on schedule this spring and then has one of three options.

He can go to graduate school at Penn State and play out his fourth year of eligibility, he can pursue his studies elsewhere if awarded the Rhodes scholarship he desires, or, he can turn pro and take his chances as the quarterback-laden NFL draft this spring.

Paterno said he talked to Blackledge prior to the season and the two agreed to try any future plans on the back burner for now.

But backup quarterback Doug Strong said he thinks that if Blackledge maintains his present pace, 1982 will be Blackledge's final season as a Nittany Lion.

"I'm prepared for the worst," jokes Strong. All Blackledge will say is, "There's no sense in my thinking about it now as far as the future goes."

And he is sincere when he says that. If anything, it is consistent with Blackledge, it is his rigid belief.

"Being a born-again Christian has given me new resolve as a football player," Blackledge said. "I know why I'm playing and who I'm playing for.

"As a reminder, in preseason Blackledge taped passages from the Bible to his locker. They have been a source of inspiration, both on and off the field. As a result, Blackledge is quite confident.

"When you're well prepared mentally, physically, and spiritually, you don't have to worry about being nervous in a game," Blackledge says. "Because when you're prepared, it's just a matter of going out and doing it."

Still, it did not prevent Blackledge, who is aiming for the national championship, from having to fight the lighting Irish in last week's game against Pitt.

"I was hoping Notre Dame would win," says Blackledge, who must face Pitt on Nov. 20. "Regardless, I was expecting a tough game with the Irish. It's hard to get them down on their own."

Jon Williams

... Outlook

continued from page 11
"I have a couple freshmen behind me who are pushing me at my position," says the sophomore. "During spring ball, didn't push myself as hard as I would have if someone had been behind me pushing me. Now Milt (Jackson), Mike (Haywood), and Van (Pearcy) have straightened me out. I know that any one of them could start head of me."

Teammates are not the only ones who have pushed Howard, he attributes much of his success to his parents.

"When I was a little," recounts the receiver, "I played on some teams that only won two or three games. I told my parents that I wasn't going to play any more."

"They told me that they'd never let me quit at anything. Even last year when I wasn't playing, there was a point when I wanted to go home — I wasn't used to sitting on the bench. My parents told me to hang in there, that things would go my way. I was kind of bad the way I got to play — the people in front of me got hurt."

Howard took advantage of the opportunity when it came.

"I was glad that the coaches trusted me enough to put me in there," he says. "It was just up to me to go out there and prove them right."

Thirty-eight catches and 810 yards later, Howard seems to have done just that.

"I just try to do the best that I can without giving up," says Howard. "Because my parents taught me that. I'm thankful that they were there then — they helped me get where I am now."
Notre Dame vs. Penn State

The Game

GAME: Fighting Irish vs. Penn State Nittany Lions
SITE: Notre Dame Stadium
TIME: 4:45 p.m. EST Saturday, Nov. 13, 1982
TV/RADIO: ABC, Sports regional telecast
Metro Sports Report Network
Harry Kalas and George Connor
10 a.m. Sunday WNDU-TV (Ch. 16)

Notre Dame-Mutual Radio Network
Tony Roberts and Al Wexler
WNDU-AM 1500 and nationwide

SERIES: Notre Dame 4, Penn State 1, Tie 1
RANKINGS: (AP) Penn State 5th, Notre Dame 15th

The Statistics

TEAM STATISTICS
NO OPP PASSING G NO CD PCT INT YDS TD
TOTAL OFFENSE YARDS 10948 9648 2048
Kiel 8 183 107 26 10 1 1072 5
Total Plays 15359 15359 15359 15359 15359 15359 15359
Yards per Play 6.8 6.8 6.8 6.8 6.8 6.8 6.8 6.8
Penalties yards 566 566 566 566 566 566 566 566
TOTAL FIRST DOWNS 131
By Rushing 8 8
By Penalties 8 8
TOTAL COMPLETIONS-CONV 1090-191
Total Reception 319 264
TOTAL TIMES MINUTES PER GAME 32:07 27:51
SCORING STD PA R-P-A FG TP
Notre Dame 15 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Penn State 14 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
KICKOFF RET
Notre Dame 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Penn State 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

Notre Dame 14 -1
Penn State 0-0

The Schedule

NOTRE DAME

SEPT. 18 beat MICHIGAN, 23-17
SEPT. 25 beat PURDUE, 28-14
OCT. 5 beat Michigan St., 11-5
OCT. 9 beat MEMPHIS, 16-14
OCT. 16 lost to ARIZONA, 16-15
OCT. 23 tied Oregon, 15-15
OCT. 30 beat Navy, 27-10
NOV. 6 lost Pittsburgh, 31-16
NOV. 13 PENN STATE
NOV. 20 at Air Force
NOV. 27 at Southern Cal

PENN STATE

SEPT. 4 beat TEMPLE, 51-11
SEPT. 11 beat MARYLAND, 39-31
SEPT. 18 RUGGERS, 49-14
SEPT. 25 beat NEBRASKA, 27-24
OCT. 9 at Arizona, 52-21
OCT. 16 beat SYRACUSE, 26-7
OCT. 23 beat West Virginia, 24-0
OCT. 30 beat Boston College, 53-7
NOV. 6 beat NORTH CAROLINA ST.
NOV. 13 at Notre Dame
NOV. 20 at Air Force
NOV. 27 at Southern Cal

The Sports Staff Picks the Winners

Each week, The Observer sports staff predict the outcome of the week's major college football games. Records are compiled as to how each writer does against the spread. HOME TEAM is in capital letters.

WILL HARE
Sports Writer
49-32-1 .611

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
W Agles
W Agles
Golden Eagles
Golden Eagles
Bulldogs
Bulldogs
Storied Frog
Storied Frog
Red Raiders
Red Raiders
Cardinal
Cardinal
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

SKIP DESJARDIN
Sports Editor Emeritus
43-38-1 .551

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
Dawgs
Dawgs
Tide
Tide
Tigers
Tigers
Mustangs
Mustangs
Braves
Braves
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

DAVE DZIEDZIC
Exec. News Editor
42-39-1.518

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
Dawgs
Dawgs
Tide
Tide
Tigers
Tigers
Mustangs
Mustangs
Braves
Braves
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

CHRISS NEEDLES
Sports Editor
38-43-1.70

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
Dawgs
Dawgs
Tide
Tide
Tigers
Tigers
Mustangs
Mustangs
Braves
Braves
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

RICH O'CONNOR
Sports Writer
38-43-1.70

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
Dawgs
Dawgs
Tide
Tide
Tigers
Tigers
Mustangs
Mustangs
Braves
Braves
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

MARYLAND over Clemson by 2
Illinois over indiana by 4
Georgia over aUBurn by 1
ALABAMA over Southern Miss by 11
Louisiana St. over mississippi St. by 9
Texas over Texas CHRISTIAN by 13
Southern Methodist over Texas Tech by 14
UCLA over Stanford by 8
ARKANSAS over Texas A & M by 16
ARIZONA ST. over Washington by 4
Southern Cal over ARIZONA by 3
Penn State over notre Dame by 5

The Extra — Penn State

The Sports Staff Picks the Winners

Each week, The Observer sports staff predict the outcome of the week's major college football games. Records are compiled as to how each writer does against the spread. HOME TEAM is in capital letters.

WILL HARE
Sports Writer
49-32-1 .611

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
W Agles
W Agles
Golden Eagles
Golden Eagles
Bulldogs
Bulldogs
Storied Frog
Storied Frog
Red Raiders
Red Raiders
Cardinal
Cardinal
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

SKIP DESJARDIN
Sports Editor Emeritus
43-38-1 .551

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
Dawgs
Dawgs
Tide
Tide
Tigers
Tigers
Mustangs
Mustangs
Braves
Braves
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

DAVE DZIEDZIC
Exec. News Editor
42-39-1.518

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
Dawgs
Dawgs
Tide
Tide
Tigers
Tigers
Mustangs
Mustangs
Braves
Braves
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

CHRISS NEEDLES
Sports Editor
38-43-1.70

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
Dawgs
Dawgs
Tide
Tide
Tigers
Tigers
Mustangs
Mustangs
Braves
Braves
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

RICH O'CONNOR
Sports Writer
38-43-1.70

Tigers
Terps
Illini
Illini
Dawgs
Dawgs
Tide
Tide
Tigers
Tigers
Mustangs
Mustangs
Braves
Braves
Hogs
Hogs
Huskies
Huskies
Trojans
Trojans
Irish
Irish

MARYLAND over Clemson by 2
Illinois over indiana by 4
Georgia over aUBurn by 1
ALABAMA over Southern Miss by 11
Louisiana St. over mississippi St. by 9
Texas over Texas CHRISTIAN by 13
Southern Methodist over Texas Tech by 14
UCLA over Stanford by 8
ARKANSAS over Texas A & M by 16
ARIZONA ST. over Washington by 4
Southern Cal over ARIZONA by 3
Penn State over notre Dame by 5

Notre Dame over Penn State by 14

That was that...
Friday, November 12, 1982 — page 15

MAIDS opens

D
de mirror does not create a perfect image. It distorts, obscures, and confuses. A mirror shows what we are "made" to be. At least that is what the ND/SMC Theater Department’s production of The Maids seems to be conveying. The production of Jean Genet’s concept act play is destined to become one of the most controversial shows of the 1982-83 season. The three-woman play tells the story of two sisters who serve as chambermaids to a wealthy egocentric woman.

Ray Wise

Theatre

Although the two sisters are chambermaids, the audience perceives them in a different light. The women do not talk like maids. Their vocabulary and expressiveness does not mesh with the notion that they are made to play. Likewise, Madame, their mistress, appears at times to be more like a maid than a wealthy aristocrat.

The relationship between the two maids is bizarro, to say the very least. The sisters are constant companions. They are confidantes, lovers, and participants in a peculiar ritual of revolt.

Rental overpowers the individual it has a group more treacherous than most other entities. Ritual has captivated the maids, thereby creating a fantasy world. However, the women have found that, as is often the case, their ritualistic fantasy world has merged with reality.

Lilly Tomlin has established herself as the premiere comedienne. Getting her first national break in the Laugh In pictures (her debut in Robert Altman’s Nashville can take my act on the road and get Dennis Chalifour with it. I also get letters from fans a good idea of where I’m going to go. I have developed a touring stage show.

This Saturday night, Tomlin will be in Saint Mary’s. Anticipating the event, we interviewed Tomlin earlier this week.

Dennis Chalifour

Tell us a little about your current tour.

I always like to return to the stage to get a feel for the people. This way, I can take my act on the road and get a good idea of where I’m going to go with it. I also get letters from fans around the country asking when I’ll be in their area or if I’ll ever play a certain city. Well, currently I’m doing a couple shows in Milwaukee. I’ve got some friends in the area who wanted me to come. I’ve also gotten a lot of letters from the South Bend area asking me to play there, so I’m always saying we’ll be ready in February and nothing ever happens.

Have you ever thought of writing your own script or directing your own film?

No. Something would have to be very dear to me to put all that work into it. Directing a project takes an awful lot of work. Right now, I really enjoy being a producer. I like to be on the creative part of a project at the very beginning. That’s very exciting to me.

How do you see the role of women in general in comedy today?

It’s very exciting. There has been an incredible increase in just the last few years. I guess women are starting to come into their own in all areas. For a long time, being funny was not considered a desirable trait in women. It was unattractive. And when the female comedians did arrive, they played off this unattractiveness. They made fun of their bad qualities, being overweight, ugly, can’t get a guy. Of course that’s not true in every case. On the other hand, male comedians were always aggressive. They still are today. Women can’t get away with that. They aren’t encouraged.

Did this situation ever hinder you in your own career?

No. I wasn’t just doing what I wanted to do. I was a performer, not a female performer. Being a woman wasn’t a part of it in my mind.

How is it that you ever got into show business?

I was always going to the activities that the Parks and Recreation department in Detroit was always planning to keep the kids off the street in the summer time. You now arts and crafts, shows, that kind of thing. That got me into the spirit. Then, when I was in college as a pre-med, I was iniology class and a girlfriend of mine asked me if I wanted to come along to try out for a bit part in The Maid Woman of Chatfield. That scared me. I ended up getting the part of this woman who improves her way down a staircase. I loved it. I did something different every night. The cast would come out at intermission and sit in the audience just to see what I’d do.

Your brand of comedy has a unique flair to it. Do you find that it easier to do the characters rather than a straight sort of stand-up routine?

A lot of the people doing stand-up comedy are just telling a string of jokes. One joke after another. That’s fine, but I can’t do it. They’re a character around their own selves. They’d discard things into something that just isn’t believable anymore. Joan Rivers did it before she was married, making jokes about how she couldn’t get a husband. Then after she was married, she told jokes about how tough it was. But I can believe Joan. She doesn’t go too far.

I do some straight talking in my show to set up a certain situation. For example, I’ve always loved the smell of xylene in Biochemistry class. It was like some people are about gasoline. Well, I’ll tell an audience about this as straight talking, but before I get too distorted I’ll step into a character which is a freak about chewing pencil erasers. It’s a total distortion, but I can set it aside from myself.

Tomlin on the line

The maids have ample opportunity to develop a fantasy life stage. Their lives frequently leave them alone in the house. They have evolved a complex role which has been completed, due to interruptions of one sort or another.

The two maids have also developed their relationship as sisters to quite an extent. It is apparent that they experience an extremely intense bond. They speak for each other, and one sister will often use the word to refer to herself. As constant companions, lovers, and sisters, the two women batter and insult, possibly only because they know each other well enough to inflict this type of verbal pain. Despite these arguments, it is obvious that the sisters share a unique and very strong bond.

This bond is conveyed to the audience through the use of mirrors in the set design and in the staging. It becomes apparent that, with much of the dialogue taking place around or in front of a mirror, much of the play is based upon the idea of a mirrored image. The mirrors mirror each other. Each sister sees herself in the other, as well as seeing the other in herself. The mirrors cast their images as maids, but the audience can sense, if only through their conversation, that they are more than mere maids. They are made to portray maids. The ND/SMC Theater department will present Jean Genet’s The Maids tonight, tomorrow night, November 18, 19 and 20 at 8 p.m. in Washburn Hall. Admission is $2.50 for students, faculty, and staff, and $5 for the general public.

SHOWCASE

Storytelling, On the stage, Writing

Comedy: Joan Rivers did it before she was married. Then, after she was married, making jokes about how tough it was. But I can believe Joan. She doesn’t go too far.

The Mad Woman of Chatfield opens

Partly, it’ll involve many characters I’ve wanted me to come. I’d also gotten a lot of letters from fans around the country asking when I’ll be in their area or if I’ll ever play a certain city.

Ray Wise

Tell us a little about your current tour.

I always like to return to the stage to get a feel for the people. This way, I can take my act on the road and get a good idea of where I’m going to go with it. I also get letters from fans around the country asking when I’ll be in their area or if I’ll ever play a certain city.

What do you do to entertain yourself after the show in a place like Milwaukee?

The last time I was there, I got all dressed up and worked behind the counter at this little diner named Dolly’s. It was so much fun. There are a lot of college kids that hang around the place but it got its share of the right stuff. The lady who was the dishwasher in the back was upstaging me. He was full of all kinds of jokes. I do love things like that.

Say, the breaks never come and sometimes you weren’t in show business. What do you suppose you’d be doing?

Probably working behind the counter at Dolly’s.

They pay good wages there?

I doubt it. But that’s not the reason we do what we do, is it? It’s our art.

What do you do to entertain yourself after the show in a place like Milwaukee?

The last time I was there, I got all dressed up and worked behind the counter at this little diner named Dolly’s. It was so much fun. There are a lot of college kids that hang around the place but it got its share of the right stuff. The lady who was the dishwasher in the back was upstaging me. He was full of all kinds of jokes. I do love things like that.

Say, the breaks never come and sometimes you weren’t in show business. What do you suppose you’d be doing?

Probably working behind the counter at Dolly’s.

They pay good wages there?

I doubt it. But that’s not the reason we do what we do, is it? It’s our art.

What do you do to entertain yourself after the show in a place like Milwaukee?

The last time I was there, I got all dressed up and worked behind the counter at this little diner named Dolly’s. It was so much fun. There are a lot of college kids that hang around the place but it got its share of the right stuff. The lady who was the dishwasher in the back was upstaging me. He was full of all kinds of jokes. I do love things like that.

Say, the breaks never come and sometimes you weren’t in show business. What do you suppose you’d be doing?

Probably working behind the counter at Dolly’s.

They pay good wages there?

I doubt it. But that’s not the reason we do what we do, is it? It’s our art.
Saturday, November 12, 1982 page 16

The Observer Features Section

Bush music strikes again

Jim & Tim Keyes

musical angles

The Observer Features Section

Film of bubbles film

Dennis Chalfour

movie review

We knew you would run into difficulties, but they would be so serious, we couldn't try to think the unthinkable, but our imaginations were not fertile enough. We have been asking on a break between two abysses, and we have still not fallen down, but its getting very, very nervous now. People have lost their lives. If I believed in the Devil, I would say that the Devil was right here, and is still right here. But I have no choice. I have to do this work, I live my life or I end my life with this project.

— Werner Herzog

In the Banner of Dreams, which also happens to be the title of the Les Blank documentary on the making of Werner Herzog's * Fitzcarraldo, from which this quote was culled. Neither of these films is playing in South Bend at the moment, but they are all too important to ignore for the sake of the idea.

The Observer Features Section

Film of bubbles film

Dennis Chalfour

movie review

We knew you would run into difficulties, but they would be so serious, we couldn't try to think the unthinkable, but our imaginations were not fertile enough. We have been asking on a break between two abysses, and we have still not fallen down, but its getting very, very nervous now. People have lost their lives. If I believed in the Devil, I would say that the Devil was right here, and is still right here. But I have no choice. I have to do this work, I live my life or I end my life with this project.

— Werner Herzog

Unforgettable experiences on the way to South America

Blank's film in fact succeeds where Herzog's does not. I can't agree. It's a love letter to beautiful sounds and good rhythm.

Werner Herzog

Film of bubbles film

Dennis Chalfour

movie review

We knew you would run into difficulties, but they would be so serious, we couldn't try to think the unthinkable, but our imaginations were not fertile enough. We have been asking on a break between two abysses, and we have still not fallen down, but its getting very, very nervous now. People have lost their lives. If I believed in the Devil, I would say that the Devil was right here, and is still right here. But I have no choice. I have to do this work, I live my life or I end my life with this project.

— Werner Herzog

Unforgettable experiences on the way to South America

Blank's film in fact succeeds where Herzog's does not. I can't agree. It's a love letter to beautiful sounds and good rhythm.

Werner Herzog

The Observer Features Section

Film of bubbles film

Dennis Chalfour

movie review

We knew you would run into difficulties, but they would be so serious, we couldn't try to think the unthinkable, but our imaginations were not fertile enough. We have been asking on a break between two abysses, and we have still not fallen down, but its getting very, very nervous now. People have lost their lives. If I believed in the Devil, I would say that the Devil was right here, and is still right here. But I have no choice. I have to do this work, I live my life or I end my life with this project.

— Werner Herzog

Unforgettable experiences on the way to South America

Blank's film in fact succeeds where Herzog's does not. I can't agree. It's a love letter to beautiful sounds and good rhythm.

Werner Herzog
David showed me the expensive imported watch he was wearing, one of those featured in a full-page ad in the "New Yorker"—"It’s from a limited edition of five hundred timepieces," he said. "It cost $3,000. I’m graduating in December. My father decided to give me my gift during October break."

"Your dad must like you a lot," I said. "He must feel good about your finishing Notre Dame."

"Depression at fifty-five isn’t a terminal illness. With good health, prosperity, and children understanding, happiness comes with being middle age. You don’t need medicine. My mother says it’s his way of coping with unnecessary money, trying to convince us that he’s not worrying about his drinking."

"Is his business okay?" I said. "Do you think he’s happy?"

"Booze is the way he has of lightening his mood. He wears off. At ten o’clock, he’s back to staring into space. He’s a wonderful parent," David said. "He thinks the things we thought we should know. I’d like to invite him to look at the watch on the table, so that we could tell him he’s nothing to apologize for."

"He’s a wonderful parent," David said. "He thinks the things we thought we should know. I’d like to invite him to look at the watch on the table, so that we could tell him he’s nothing to apologize for."

"Then stop trying to help him," I said. "Middle age is a time of a two-day polish wedding celebration among the haute hour of a two-day polish wedding celebration among the haute hour of the newest presentation in The Friday Night Film Series. Inspired by the piano department at Tennessee State University in Nashville, and the other vocal, will commence tonight and tomorrow evening. It is a classic story of a young dock worker caught between the famous scene where Brando says to Steiger, "I could have been a contender." Showtime is 7, 9 and 11 p.m. The interest in this group was evidenced earlier this semester by the weekend throughout the South Bend area. In the Little Theatre on Moore Hall at Saint Mary’s, the Saint Mary’s Wind Ensemble will play a concert under the direction of Dorothy Bryant. It will begin at 8 p.m."

At Indiana University at South Bend, two concerts, one instrumental and the other vocal, will commence tonight and tomorrow evening, respectively, at 8 p.m. At 8 p.m. The Southbend Symphonic Wind Band, conducted by Michael J. Esselstrom, will perform compositions by Ralph Vaughan Williams, Wagner, and Bach. The concert in Fillmore. The concert will take place in the Northside Auditorium. Admission is $5.

Soprano Bernadine O’SPRINGHILL, professor of music at HUSB, will sing selections from the works of G. F. Handel, Paul Nordor, Heriberto Huesco, and Hugo Wolf. Ms. O’SPRINGHILL will be accompanied by Carol Stone, head of the piano department at Tennessee State University."

"The Observer Features Section"

NOTICES

Surplus cars, trucks available, cash paid or trade payments made, sales tax paid. Write or call Baja, 312-687-1234.

LOST/FOUND

Seventeen items left in While Int. Each #17-03

FOR SALE

Wanted

FOR RENT

Classifieds

The Observer will accept classifieds Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. However, classifieds to appear in the next issue must be received by 5 p.m. three days prior to printing. All classifieds must be prepaid in person or through the mail.

Friday, November 12, 1982 — page 18

NOTICES

Surplus cars, trucks available, cash paid or trade payments made, sales tax paid. Write or call Baja, 312-687-1234.

LOST/FOUND

Seventeen items left in While Int. Each #17-03

FOR SALE

Wanted

FOR RENT

Classifieds

The Observer will accept classifieds Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. However, classifieds to appear in the next issue must be received by 5 p.m. three days prior to printing. All classifieds must be prepaid in person or through the mail.
Electronics Division & Pomona Division

Hockey

SPORTS BRIEFS

Friday, November 12, 1982 — page 19

Banners for display at halftime of Saturday's game must be approved. This will be done today from 1 to 5 p.m. in the student government offices. Banners must be checked with stadium personnel before the game, and may be picked up for display at halftime. — The Observer

Need a Christmas gift for the person who has everything? NFL Films has announced that “Wake Up the Echoes,” the 52-minute film chronicling the history of Notre Dame football, will be released on videocassette for the upcoming holiday season. It will be available in 12-inch VHS and Beta formats, and can be yours for home use for just $49.95. To order your copy, contact NFL Films at (609) 778-6000 or write them c/o 540 Fellowship Drive, Mount Laurel, NJ 08054. — The Observer

A Sports Law Forum will be held this afternoon at 3 in Room 101 at the Law School. Martin Blackman, Esq., Chairman of the Practicing Law Institute Committee on Sports Law, and Marian Billen, Esq., will address students and faculty. Topics to be discussed will include the status of the NFL players’ strike, endorsements and merchandising of athletes, and the effect of cable TV on sports. — The Observer

Sports Briefs

A turkey shoot sponsored by NVA and supervised by Army ROTC will be held on Nov. 15 and 16. Deadline for signup is today. All equipment provided. No experience necessary. For more information contact NVA at 239-6100. — The Observer

Paul Castrer, who was a back on Knute Rockne’s squads of the early 1920’s, will be the guest on “Straight Talk” to be broadcast on WNTV-Channel 54 at 7:30 tonight. — The Observer

Fellowship of Christian Athletes will sponsor a fund raising run on Carrier track from 9 to 12 tomorrow morning to benefit St. Marita Primary Day School and to provide for the ICA regional spring retreat. — The Observer

Tony Hunter, Head Coach Gerry Faust and assistant Coaches Jim Johnson and Ron Hudson will be tonight’s featured pep rally speakers. The traditional confab will go on tonight at 7 in the Stepan Center. — The Observer

Tony Hunter, Head Coach Gerry Faust and assistent Coaches Jim Johnson and Ron Hudson will be tonight’s featured pep rally speakers. The traditional confab will go on tonight at 7 in the Stepan Center. — The Observer

Tony Hunter, Head Coach Gerry Faust and assistant Coaches Jim Johnson and Ron Hudson will be tonight’s featured pep rally speakers. The traditional confab will go on tonight at 7 in the Stepan Center. — The Observer

State of the art at General Dynamics is a state of mind. More than technology or hardware, it is a way of viewing everything in terms of the future and finding the means to turn new ideas into reality.

This vision has helped General Dynamics become a world leader in aerospace, electronics, shipbuilding and other areas — and has opened up many diverse opportunities for college graduates with degrees in Electrical, Mechanical, Computer Engineering and Computer Science/Math.

General Dynamics will be interviewing on campus in the near future. See your placement office to arrange an appointment. Or send your resume to William Shine, College Relations Coordinator, General Dynamics, Electronics Division, P.O. Box 81127, San Diego, CA 92138. The divisions listed will be interviewing on:

INTERVIEW DATE:

NOVEMBER 19TH

GENERAL DYNAMICS

Electronics Division & Pomona Division

An Equal Opportunity Employer: U.S. Citizenship Required
Spurns Hagler bout

Leonard to stay retired

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard says his retirement from boxing as welterweight champion is permanent, but fellow fighters aren't so sure.

"Let's give him six months to a year and then we'll know," said middleweight champion Marvin Hagler, one of many boxing greats who attended Tuesday night's gala when Leonard said goodbye to the ring.

And former heavyweight champion Ken Norton said Wednesday he thought Leonard, like other champions from Joe Louis to Muhammad Ali, would fight again.

Leonard cooled speculation that he would use the extravaganza to announce a multimillion-dollar dollar match with Hagler by saying, "I will not come back. That's it. Boxing is history."

Leonard, who has not fought since undergoing surgery last spring to repair a detached retina — an injury from which his doctor said he had recovered enough to fight again — acknowledged that a fight with Hagler "would be Fort Knox," worth an estimated $20 million to Leonard and $32 million to Hagler.

"Unfortunately, it will never happen," he said, bringing groans from a crowd of about 9,000 who paid up to $100 for a seat to hear his announcement.

"The feeling is gone," Leonard confessed, saying he changed his mind about retiring many times and claiming he didn't make his final decision until Tuesday night.

But yesterday Leonard's picture appeared on the cover of Sports Illustrated, accompanied by a headline reading "Hanging 'Em Up" and a story in which he said:

"By the time you read this, I will have made my announcement official, and I hope it ends forever all speculation that I will come back to fight Marvin Hagler or anyone else."

With the welterweight title now vacant, top-ranked contenders Milton Curry of Fort Worth, Texas, is ranked second by both the WBC and WBA.

But Ed Hrica, a promoter of nine Leonard fights, said he thought the champion's retirement would be temporary unless "his movie and television career takes off like his boxing."

"I think he'll fight again, when he gets the itch again," speculated city official Lou Grammick, who said Leonard agreed that his next fight, if there is one, would be in Baltimore where he launched a pro career that earned him $40 million and two titles.

In 55 bouts, Leonard lost only once, to Roberto Duran.

Leonard's manager, Angelo Dundee claims, "I have no doubt he'll stick to his decision." And his lawyer, Mike Trainer, says, "Everything has to come to an end."

But a patient Hagler insisted, "My journey has ended. My mission is complete."

Leonard's manager, Angelo Dundee, claims, "I have no doubt he'll stick to his decision." And his lawyer, Mike Trainer, says, "Everything has to come to an end."

But a patient Hagler insisted, "My journey has ended. My mission is complete."

Follow the Fighting Irish on Mutual Radio

Join Tony Roberts at 13 as the "Fighting Irish" meet Penn State during the 15th consecutive season of national play-by-play broadcasts produced by Mutual Sports, radio's leader in sports broadcasting.

Tony Roberts
Play-by-play Announcer

A Wester
Color Commentator

Larry Michael, Producer of Mutual's weekly show entitled "Quarterback Sneak with Joe Theismann," interviewed QB Blair Kiel.

MUTUAL BROADCASTING SYSTEM

The Leader in Network Radio Sports
At District IV meet

Runners shoot for NCAA berth

By NAT RICH
Sports Writer

The moment of truth has arrived. Without a superb effort, there will be no tomorrow. So, this is not a description of the football team and its bowl chances, but instead portrays the plight of the Notre Dame cross country team. The NCAA District IV Championships will be held tomorrow morning in Lafayette.

District IV is, as Irish coach Joe Piane puts it, "If not the strongest district in the nation, then one of the top two." It includes all Division I teams from the states of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana. The competition promises to be fierce, but even so, the Irish have a better shot at making it to the National Championships than ever before. Says Piane, "If we can run up to our potential, our capacity, we can qualify, but it'll definitely take some great individual performances."

In order to qualify for next week's championships, the team must finish in the top four, or an individual can make it to the Championships by placing amongst the top five individuals who won't be already going as part of their team. This opens up the possibility of particular runners continuing the season even if the team doesn't.

The Notre Dame squad will consist of the same seven athletes who have led them all year: Marc Wozniak, Andy Dillon, Ralph Caron, Jim Tyler, Bill Courtney, Tim Bartrand, and Tom Cannon. The runners have all been consistent, with three different ones winning races this year. Piane commented, "There's no way you can say who will lead for us, because they're all so even. Caron won for us last time, but you just can't tell."

It's been two weeks since the team's last race, and this could work in Notre Dame's favor. The lengthy period of preparation and the rest were both well appreciated. "That long of a break has to work in a team's favor, we'll be ready," Piane said.

"It's going to be a great cross country race, there's no doubt about it," he continued. "We'll be seeing some great competition. We're looking forward to it, it's the highlight of the season. The kids have performed really well this year, and I believe they will again in Saturday." Piane has no complaints about his 1982 squad. "This team runs more aggressively than any team I've seen here at Notre Dame, especially this late in the season."

As Notre Dame fans prepare for Saturday's more publicized showdown, the cross country team's showdown should be kept in mind. A shot at the national championship is an object every team covets, and that shot will be passing within reach of the Irish harriers Saturday morning.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — A sports writer walked through the door just after Bear Bryant finished his weekly news conference and the Alabama football coach confronted him: "If I gave you a good kick, you would either be on time from now on or stop showing up?"

"That's about right," the writer said.

"Maybe that's what I need to do with my team," said Bryant, who has been blaming himself for several days because his Crimson Tide has lost two games this season.

In fact, Bryant strongly hinted after Louisiana State's 20-10 victory last Saturday that it might be time for a change.

But the 69-year-old coach said Wednesday: "I want to coach until I'm 80 or 90 if I can get good results. If I get to where I can't get them to play, that's another matter."

By most standards, Alabama's 7-2 mark would be satisfactory, but Bryant was asked why some Alabama fans are dissatisfied with anything less than a perfect season and a national title.

Collectible Records
Hard to find out of print records

Lincolnway East and Cedar in Mishawaka
(5 blocks east of downtown)

Tues. - Fri. 5-8 p.m.
Sat. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
BUY SELL TRADE
Friday, November 12, 1982

UCLA's Ramsey aims for Roses

Nobody in his school history ever threw more passes, completed more, gained more yards, or scored more touchdowns. And his team had such golden arms as Bob Waterfield, Kenny Washington, Gary Beban, Ronnie Knox, Paul Cameron.

Few college players have been able to strike through the air with more deadly accuracy. Not even the likes of Johnny Unitas, Joe Namath, Terry Bradshaw. But no one ever called him "The Rifle," or " dinners," or "Broadway." In fact, no one even calls him "Heisman Candidate."

He has thrown 45 touchdowns, 508 completions, 5,224 yards, and a .591 percentage in his career, but the Heisman committee would probably ask "Tom Who?" from "U.C.-where?"

"Tom Who?" is Tom Ramsey and he's from UCLA. There's the rub right there. When Heisman ballots think of a Trophy from the West Coast, they immediately conjure in their minds a 6'2, 210 pound sprinter in the blood-red and gold of the University of Southern California variety who operates behind a line that resembles the skyline of Detroit, a man who goes in at the end zone in back of what appears to be the entire Glee Club (not the whole student body).

Heisman voters are hung up on ballhacks. For them, Gus Daron and Knute Rockne invented the pass in vain. They are as uninterested in it as Woody Hayes. The few times they have gone against their instincts, they have been humbled. Which is to say, their selections have proved to have been suspect in the pro ranks.

The Heisman committee, against its better judgment, has picked quarterbacks who did nothing to enhance the prestige of the award. Terry Baker, in 1962, the first West Coast awardee (from Oregon State) comes to mind. The Rams strow for years trying to find out what to do with him. The mishandling of pickers like Spurrier, in 1966, beat out, of all people, Bob Gorcey, by one place. But he beat out Floyd Little by six places. That wasn't even a contest.

The Rams strow for years trying to find out what to do with him. The mishandling of pickers like Spurrier, in 1966, beat out, of all people, Bob Gorcey, by one place. But he beat out Floyd Little by six places. That wasn't even a contest. But there were times when the Heisman ballhacks couldn't help themselves. Pat Sullivan, in 1971, was such an pficious nomination, no quar­tacker has ever come close in the balloting since. John Huarte, in 1964, was the quarterback winner who beat out Joe Namath and Craig Morton. Roger Staubach and the Bluebonnet Bowl earlier in the year. Ramsey even saw that team jump out to a 21-0 lead, before he began to pick the Michigan defense apart like a burglar, a rainy lock. He completed 22 out of 36 throws for 311 yards, two touchdowns, and scored another, and UCLA woudn up the winners.

None of this puts Tom Ramsey in a frame of mind to begin rehearsing his acceptance speech for the Downtowm Athletic Club next winter. "I don't expect the unexpected," he laughs. "I came to UCLA to get an education, not a cup. I want to play in a Rose Bowl game. Pro football? I'm not depending on it. Oh, st I've had feelers from the pros, and I would expect to be drafted early. But the Heisman Trophy, frankly, I never even thought about it."

Which is probably just as well. Neither, probably, did Johnny Unitas, Sammy Baugh, Joe Namath and Terry Bradshaw. When they vote the Heisman to the West, they usually take the safe route and simply mark it. "Occupant U.S.C. Tailback Spot." No more quarterbacks need apply.

---

Second Annual Senior Block Party
3:30 Friday, Nov. 12
under the hockey dome ACC
Plenty of Food Refreshments and Music. All Seniors, Faculty, and N. EAST NEIGHBORS WELCOME

---

NOTRE DAME vs. PENN STATE

HAPPY HOUR M-F 3-7
ALL LIQUOR 2 for 1
DISCOUNTS ON BEER
FREE SNACKS
BEER
$2.00 SPECIAL
50c A DRINK
$1.00 BAR DRINKS

NOTRE DAME vs. PENN STATE
HOME GAME
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1982

Special Attractions  ***********************

SPECIAL HOURS. 11:30 am to 11:30 pm. Featuring our regular dinner menu including all your Bar-Que favorites. Famous low prices too!

SPECIAL CARRY OUT SERVICE
By popular demand: our Hickory smoked ribs and chicken offered too 'go', Call ahead for details and prompt service.

SPECIAL SANDWICH MENU. 11:30 to 4:00 pm. Not available any other time, but for this event, Extra generous B- Que Beef, French Dip, Reuben, each only $4.25 or Chicken Teriyaki $4.95.

Special Late Night
* EARTHSHAKERS $2.00 SPECIAL
  3 drinks in one
* BUCKETS OF BOOZE $4.00 SPECIAL
  5 drinks in one
* PITCHERS OF BREW SPECIAL $3.75
* LITRES OF MARGARITAS SPECIAL $4.95

11pm - 2:00 am in the lounge only

---

Mr. Schools, Of No. 98, Harmon of Michigan. The last 10 winners have all been 1,000-yard runners, the Billy Sims, the George Rogers, the Earl Campbell's, the Teri Dursets, the leg players. The Heisman takes the same route now. Quarterbacks are down with the linebackers and defensive tackles in the voting.

So Tom Ramsey may have to content himself with a Pac-10 championship and a Rose Bowl and probably being a first-round draft choice in the pros. The Heisman will go to Hershel Walker or Eric Dickerson or Ernest Anderson of Oklahoma State. who in the nation's leading rusher. The quarterback who will get the most votes will probably be Manziel's John Elway.

But, Tom Ramsey has to settle for being singled out merely as "most improved." In the nationally-released Michigan game this year, Ramsey led a team into the unfriendly confines of Michigan Stadium at Ann Arbor, playing a team that had beaten him 33-14 in the Bluebonnet Bowl earlier in the year. Ramsey even saw that team jump out to a 21-0 lead, before he began to pick the Michigan defense apart like a burglar, a rainy lock. He completed 22 out of 36 throws for 311 yards, two touchdowns, and scored another, and UCLA wound up the winners.

---

Happy Birthday, Claudia
Nov. 14. You’re 21
Where’s the Party?

---

Write the Sports Editor
The Observer, P. O. Box Q

---

CELEBRATE
BARCLAY'S
Meat and Produce

---

Notice from UCLA's Football Department.

---

MODERN, CLASSIC & ANTIQUE. BRING IN YOUR OLD CAMERAS & PHOTO EQUIPMENT FOR FREE APPRAISALS!

---

The Best of Jim Murray

---

The Observer
Weekend

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau
11/12/82
Jeb Cashin

Saturday, Nov. 13

The Observer

Student Union Record Store

ITALY
17 Puerto
16 West German
31 Long
24 Resident
26 Sausage
13 Ms. Taylor
39 Declaim
33 West German
25 Tobacco
34 Convince

Photos

Great Idea! Cut Off the Students' Arms and They Won't Be Able to Pick Up a Drink!

Friday, November 12, 1982 — page 23

WHAT DOES THE STUDENT UNION RECORD STORE

HAVE FOR ME?

ACROSS

1 Towel word
2 Destroyer
3 River in Italy
4 Healing
5 Common Latin phrase
6 Anne (generally)
7 Puerto
8 Parish
9 Yamish
10 Ingredient
11 Condescends
12 Secret
13 Signals
14 Resident suff.
28 Crosses

Down

1 Florida
2 Raina's mate
3 Burd forth
4 Author's works
5 Circular design
6 Hole in one
7 West German
8 Certain
9 Cars
10 Meat
11 Trade
12 Violently
13 Blackbird
14 Close
15 "No—no as I do"
16 Be moody
17 Sounding metallic
18 Part of O.E.D.
19 "Norma —"
20 Rumples
21 Silent
22 Sound of water
23 Football
24 Mountains
25 Chicago
26 "Blow — my horn"
27 "I'm going by"
28 "Yes — not as I do"
29 Football player
30 "Hurry —"
31 Hairball
32 "Yes — not as I do"
33 "Norma —"
34 Football player
35 "Yes — not as I do"
36 "Norma —"
37 Football player
38 "Yes — not as I do"
39 Football player
40 Football player
41 Football player
42 Football player
43 Football player
44 Football player
45 Football player

Tuesday's Solution

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS

1 Towel word
2 Destroyer
3 River in Italy
4 Healing
5 Common Latin phrase
6 Anne (generally)
7 Puerto
8 Parish
9 Yamish
10 Ingredient
11 Condescends
12 Secret
13 Signals
14 Resident suff.
28 Crosses

Down

1 Florida
2 Raina's mate
3 Burd forth
4 Author's works
5 Circular design
6 Hole in one
7 West German
8 Certain
9 Cars
10 Meat
11 Trade
12 Violently
13 Blackbird
14 Close
15 "No—no as I do"
16 Be moody
17 Sounding metallic
18 Part of O.E.D.
19 "Norma —"
20 Rumples
21 Silent
22 Sound of water
23 Football
24 Mountains
25 Chicago
26 "Blow — my horn"
27 "I'm going by"
28 "Yes — not as I do"
29 Football player
30 "Yes — not as I do"
31 Football player
32 "Yes — not as I do"
33 "Yes — not as I do"
34 Football player
35 "Yes — not as I do"
36 "Yes — not as I do"
37 Football player
38 "Yes — not as I do"
39 Football player
40 Football player
41 Football player
42 Football player
43 Football player
44 Football player
45 Football player

Student Union Record Store

Cheaper Prices. No expiration price.

Great Selection—Vinyl, Pop, R&B, Soul, Latin, Country, Rock, New Wave, Pop, Ballet.

Also—taped and double-sided available.

Convenience—In Main Building. Mon.-Fri. 9:30-5.

Monday, November 14

Senior Bar

Seniors come celebrate our last home victory this weekend at Senior Bar

Live Music Friday
Icers in Chicago

Deasey star on diamond or ice

By JUDY McNAMARA
Sport Writer

I encourage my hockey players not to play hockey," says head coach Jerry Donlan. "This is perfectly fine with left wing John Deasey. He is a rare athlete who is good enough to play in two college sports. When he is off the ice, he is the star quarterback of the Irish football team."

Deasey began his senior season in the fall by leading the Irish to the NCAA national championship. In March, he was selected as the Most Outstanding Player at the national tournament. He signed a contract with the Chicago Blackhawks in May, making him a star on the diamond as well as the rink.

"I think it will be very difficult to separate my time between the two," Deasey said. "I want to do both as well as I can, but it will be a challenge."