Any change in numbers or curriculum could have a negative effect on the program," Ludwig said.

The executive MBA program is a two-year, graduate-level business program for people who have already had managerial experience in the business world. Ludwig stated, "The program has two specific requirements: the students must have over 10 years experience in business as well as five full-time actual experience as a manager."

Ludwig has been president of both the Ludwig Candy Company and the Seaway Candy Company. He was also a co-founder and president of Electric Computer Literacy, Inc.

The University of Wisconsin awarded Ludwig undergraduate degrees in science and management and he received his executive MBA degree from the University of Illinois in 1981.

"We are very happy to get him, he will do a lot for the program," said Frank Reilly, dean of the Business College. Ludwig will be a "very positive influence" both in marketing the program and relating to the students," he said.

The director's primary responsibility is to recruit, interview and then submit candidates for the program to the admissions committee," Ludwig said. The director also handles administrative duties for the program. Ludwig took over these tasks Feb. 20.

Reilly stated that Ludwig's combination of business and academic backgrounds is what separated him from the 65 other applicants for the position.

Ludwig said he applied for the job because, "I decided I wanted to put my skills to work in helping other students with the same kind of program I had gone through at the University of Illinois." He said he "loves" his new job and plans to move from Manteno, Ill. to South Bend soon.

Guy Waddell, established the Notre Dame executive MBA program in 1982. It was the first program of its kind in the Midwest. Waddell said he retired from his position as director because he "felt like my work here was done with the program up and running."

Waddell suggested Reilly as his replacement, according to Reilly.

The executive MBA program has 40 students in each of its two classes.

"It is designed to update a manager's skills," said Ludwig. All of the students are managers who have full time job responsibilities while they are in the program. More than 130 students apply for entrance into the two-year program each year. The program will graduate its first class this year.

All of the students take four classes per semester. They are also required to participate in study groups which meet once a week.

A baker who grew up with a "severe inferiority complex with girls" confessed to slaughtering at least 15 women and raping 50 more in the worst mass murder in Alaska history, prosecutors said. Robert Hansen, 44, described by prosecutors as a "monster," was sentenced Monday in Anchorage, Alaska, to life in prison without parole. The bakery owner, with a wife and two children, confessed last week in a conference room packed with prosecutors, investigators and police. District Attorney Victor Knox said Hansen admitted the 10-year spree to avoid embarrassment of a long police probe and trial. "He got off on the killing, but he didn't like people talking about him," Knox said yesterday. "He's a cold-blooded, remorseless man." Officers said he calmly described killing 17 prostitutes, nude dancers and other women and raping 50 others, outlining experiments with handcuffs, classic hangings and chains as restraints. — AP

A Syrian-Lebanese summit will be held within 48 hours to find a way to end the violent conflict in Lebanon, the Syrian news agency in Beirut said yesterday. There were new reports that President Amin Gemayel had said that the summit might begin this weekend. But SANA, the official Syrian news agency, said Gemayel will visit Damascus "within the next 48 hours" for talks with President Hafez Assad. Assad has demanded that the US arranged May 17 agreement be abrogated before he will receive Gemayel, and one government spokesman said there was no time for declaring its abrogation has yet to be set. There have been numerous reports that Gemayel would respond to the accord the way Israel, but he has delayed action because of objections by some of his Christian allies. — AP

There are more than 9,000 students on this campus, and in our four years here, we are lucky to know 10 percent because of name recognition. The other day, for example, a guy named Steve was walking back from a government exam. Crossed the lawn past the football field and nearly ran into Steve. He was basking at his shoes as people often do when they meant to take exams for the last 10 minutes after the test.

And as Steve nervously hoped he was right in saying Roosevelt began the age of the imperial presidency, it happened to be an innocent remark, a casual comment. She had meant nothing by it. "Hey, Steve," she said. To this mind not ready for instant recall, it was a cruel trick. Steve Frankly looked up and caught a glimpse of her face. Oh, what was her name? Think. Think. No use. His mind was blank.

He answered, "What's up? Min. . . . girl." His reply was cut short by a cough — a simple cough. What a genius. Of course, he knew her name. She will think. It's just a bad cold that has kept him from saying it.

These and other names games are played constantly in the party rooms, on the sidewalks, and in the libraries throughout campus.

Perhaps nowhere is the issue of names more important than at Notre Dame. Freshmen quickly learn that the name Notre Dame now holds "a bad name." Most students here think Notre Dame's name is already better than it should be. The confusion continues. The premier radio and television news agency in Beirut said yesterday. There were new reports that Lebanese had said the summit might begin this weekend. But the Syrian news agency said Gemayel will visit Damascus "within the next 48 hours" for talks with President Hafez Assad. Potok said the job of the writer was "to create worlds out of words." But first, one must enter the apprenticeship of the writer which means "reading and writing and reading and writing and reading and writing more... you must make 100 people your teachers and live with their work." According to Potok, the writer must ask himself what he calls "the five o'clock in the morning questions:" "What kind of questions you can only answer at 5 o'clock in the morning." The questions include: "What am I doing here? Does my life have any real meaning? What am I willing to go to the barricades for?"

Jackson, though, made no mention of these denunciations. Instead, he accused Jewish leaders — and the media — of a conspiracy of silence, saying that the acts and the alleged silenced have produced a “climate.” So far, he said, he has turned the other checks, refused to condemn or strike back, but others are not yet as patient nor as forgiving. Looking for top-ten finish

SMC swimmers ready for NAIA

By KATHLEEN NICHOLSON
Sports Writer

After completing their first winning season in swimming history with a 4-3 record, ten members of the Saint Mary’s team will travel to Arkansas to compete in the 1984 NAIA Swimming and Diving Championships.

Last year the Belles managed to place an impressive thirteenth out of a field of approximately forty-nine teams, and the much improved team hopes to fare even better this year.

"We are considerably better than last year," said Coach Scott Trees. "Our goal is to finish in the top ten at nationals and, more importantly, to improve all of our times."

The individual team standouts are senior captain Gail Casey, senior Rosie Whalen, sophomore Amy Cushing and Joyce Murtagh. Freshman Kathleen Kennedy, having broken several varsity records this year, will test her talents in the 100- and 200-yard butterfly at nationals.

The relay rosters, as of now, are quite tentative. Coach Trees has been doing some last minute juggling to assure himself of five optimum teams that will yield a maximum number of team points. Since relay scoring is twice that of the individual events, Trees is being extremely careful when composing each relay team in hopes that his squad can boost themselves into the top ten team finishers.

With the season going as well as it has for the Belles, a top-ten placing would seem an appropriate finish for the 1984 squad. Trees and his up-and-comers have been working hard the past two years to build up the Saint Mary’s swim program and establish the school as a dominant force in the NAIA conference division, and, with any luck, 1984 will be the beginning of a long line of successful swim seasons for the Belles.

The DeCiccis believe that, after the Junior Olympics in Portland and with minimal practice, his "junior" fencers were not properly prepared to go into Illinois. Nevertheless, the fourth season at the time were able to rebound and go undefeated overall in the men's competition.

"I do know this," said DeCicco, "we're going to have to get serious this week if we're going to do anything (in the championship tournaments in March)."

Coach DeCicco's women's fencing team also enjoyed some success on Saturday, as they took two out of three matches in Elgin to go 1-3-5-5 for the year.

The Irish had no trouble downsing Washington, 16-0, and Purdue, 15-1, but came up short against highly-touted Wisconsin, losing 6-5.

Freshman foilist Pia Albertson (37-2 on the season) was a perfect 6-0 Saturday. Also unbeaten was sophomore Janet Sullivan, as she went 4-0, moving her record to 21-12. Senior co-captain Sharon DiNicola (25-16) and freshman Cindy Weeks (20-13) each went 4-2 for the day.

Both Irish teams will be in action Saturday afternoon at the Notre Dame ACC Fieldhouse, where they will host the 1984 Great Lakes Championships. Top competition from across the Midwest, including last year's defending Great Lakes champion and national champion, Wayne State, will be vying for an automatic berth into the men's NCAA tournament to be held on March 20-21 at Princeton.

The Notre Dame men's fencing teams ended its regular season at Illinois over the weekend as the Irish took four straight to end 19-1 on the season.

The Irish through three Big Ten opponents in Wisconsin, 23-5; Illinois, 20-7; and Purdue, 23-4; and took Washington St. Louis in a 27-1 whitewash.

"We started off the tournament by losing our very first two hours against Wisconsin, which put me in a little bit of a scare," commented Irish head coach Mike DeCicco. "But the team really sucked it up, and that's the best thing I knew, the score was 14-2."

"I was impressed with the way our saber team fenced," continued DeCicco. "We fenced without the services of John Edwards (27-1) on the season because of Mike Janis, Tony Consoli, and Don Johnson fenced well for us."

On Saturday, the sabre men were 14-1, making their squad's mark to 161-23 for the year. Junior captain Mike Janis (35-3) was perfect 10-0 against the worst competition, and sophomore Tony Consoli (34-1) was perfect 10-0 against the best.

"Don Johnson (35-6) was the only one to lose a bout (going 10-1) and that augurs well," said DeCicco. "In the epee, junior captain Andy Quainton led the way with a perfect 9-0 performance to move his record to 34-5 on the year."

"Andy Quainton really bounced back after two losses to Wayne State, and he faced three young men who are very good fencers in the epee," explained DeCicco. "He's on an undefeated tear. He had a nice afternoon.

Freshman John Hugh (29-8) and sophomore Brian St. Clair (31-9) also had good outings, going 9-1 and 12-2 respectively, in helping the epee squad move its record to 46-1 on the year.

The foil squad (19-18) enjoyed an early loss in the season opener against Illinois. That was the foil squad's only loss in its eight matches.

Senior captain Mike Janis (40-3) was a perfect 10-0 for the Irish in the MidWest Invitational.
