Student officials call new final exam policy an unnecessary burden

By TOM MOYLE
Assistant News Editor

Student government officials expressed disappointment over the elimination of senior exemptions and other amendments to the Academic Code passed at this week's meeting of the Academic Council.

"We didn't think our proposal on senior exemptions would go through," said Student Body President Bob Bertino. Student Government Information Director Tom Koez said, "Mike Hayes (acting academic commissioner for student government) raised some good points, but it seemed the members of the Academic Council were pretty narrow-minded about it."

According to John Hayes, who represented the Senate to the Academic Council, noted if senior exemptions policy had "no support whatsoever" among senators because they will no longer strive for a B, but will settle for a lower grade.

The past policy, which is still in effect for this semester, has been: "At the discretion of the instructor, graduating seniors who so request may be exempted from taking the final examination in an undergraduate course if their work in that course up to the time of the final examination has earned a grade of at least B."

Professor Kenneth Sayre, a member of the Committee on Final Examinations said the exemptions policy had "no support whatsoever" among committee members.

Dean Christy, senior clan president, said, "I don't agree with the exemption policy. It's not going to help the University, academically."

Second semester seniors don't pass a whole lot of attention to final exams -- they're more worried about jobs, graduating, saying goodbye to friends. All it's going to be is an added burden that they won't take seriously.

"We can make an appeal to the Academic Council," he added, "to find out why they made the change and work out a compromise. The intention is for a better Notre Dame academically, but the question is how this will add to that." Professor Mario Bertelli, chairman of the Faculty Senate, said no review of the policy should be so important as to result in failure itself. The general sentiment was that the value of the final depends on the weight given to it. Policy ought not to dictate one's grade weight.

The committee reaffirmed the University's policy that final examinations must be given as scheduled. The procedure for senior exemptions, however, was amended to require the approval of the department chairperson and review by the dean. Previously, the dean's approval was required.

Weights for final exams were changed from the old policy of zero to one-third of the grade to a range of one-fifth to one-half of the grade. Koez said the Senate had favored leaving the old policy in effect, but would have accepted an upper limit of 40 percent.

see EXAM, page 4

Institute debates democratic ideals

By MARY CAROL CREADON
News Staff

"Economic Development and Democracy" is the topic of the Helen Kellogg Institute's international conference April 15-17 at Notre Dame's Center for Continuing Education. The conference draws its inspiration from the work of, and is intended to be a tribute to, Albert O. Hirschman on the occasion of his retirement from the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University.

The 25 invited participants, among the most distinguished North American, European, and Latin American specialists on the subject, will present the 12 papers and discuss the discussions begun by Hirschman.

Funded by a gift to Notre Dame by the Helen Kellogg Foundation, the Institute is designed to advance understanding of Third World development, especially in Latin America, through research, education, and outreach activities. In its study of Latin America, the Institute is focusing on democracy, development, and the human values, personal, social and social, linking the two.

The conference will conduct four sessions. On Monday, April 16, Sessions 1 and 2, 9 a.m.-12:30 p.m., will be titled "Strategies for Economic Development." Session 3, 2:30-5:30 p.m., will be titled "Politics, Power, and Democracy." Tuesday, April 17 will open with "Values and Perceptions." The final session, 9 a.m.-12:30 p.m. The final session, 2:30-6 p.m. will look into Possibility of Democracy: East, West, and "Voice, and Loyalty." All sessions are open to Notre Dame faculty and students.
In Brief

An Indiana Army lieutenant who is attempting a solo ascent of Mount McKinley is at the 14,500-foot level and appears to be in good shape, a glider pilot said yesterday. Lt. Col. George A. Nance said he had contacted the radar tower in the snow indicating he was OK. Bad weather had obscured the 20,280-foot peak for nearly a week. The lieutenant arrived at base camp on March 24, and said he had enough supplies to last 30 days without getting into emergency rations. — AP

An Israeli bus carrying passengers was hijacked Thursday night by terrorists, sources said. The passengers were being held as hostages near the town of Rafah, 60 miles south of Tel Aviv near the Egyptian border, the sources said. — AP

Of Interest

A public auction will be held tomorrow afternoon by Notre Dame security. The auction will take place at Gate 11 of the stadium and will begin at 1:00. Bicycles, calculators and other miscellaneous items that have been lost or abandoned on campus will be sold to the highest bidder. — The Observer

The Saint Mary's music department will sponsor its annual spring Choral Concert at 8:00 p.m. Sunday in the Little Theater. The Collegiate Choir, a mixed group of 31 women and 21 men, will perform a program that includes church anthems, spirituals and a medley from "Godspell." The Women's Choir, which has 55 members, will offer music from the Renaissance and Romantic periods. The group will also perform "Three Folksongs for Voice and Guitar" by John Rutter. The work was recently covered and edited by Dr. Raymond Sprague, assistant professor of music at Saint Mary's who conducts both choirs. The concert is free and open to all. — The Observer

The Naval ROTC Unit of Notre Dame will have its second annual dining in at 6:30 in the ACC Monogram Room. A Dining In is a naval tradition that allows a military unit's officers and midshipmen to solidify their unity and enhance com- raderie. The evening consists of a formal dinner followed by a round of toasts and honors, where etiquette is strictly observed. This year's guest of honor will be Rear Admiral William A. Walsh, USA. Admiral Walsh is a 1955 Notre Dame graduate and was commissioned in 1955 through the NROTC Regular Program at Notre Dame. Currently, Admiral Walsh is the director of the Surface Warfare Division within the Office of Naval Operations. — The Observer

Richard J. Barnett, author of nine books including "Global Reach," "The Giants," "The Lean Years" and "The Alliance," will be speaking at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Library Auditorium. Barnett is a Senior Fellow at the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington D.C. He will lecture on "A Policy in search of a president: A new approach to U.S. foreign policy." The event is being jointly sponsored by Student Union, Ground Zero, and the Center for Social Concerns. — The Observer

Three two-week computer camps will be sponsored by Notre Dame's College of Arts and Letters this summer. The camps will offer an introduction to the Apple Macintosh computer and BASIC programming language. Beginning June 18, July 9 and July 30, the camps are designed for anyone age 12 or older having no previous experience in computing. The cost of each camp is $200. A $100 deposit is required by May 1. Interested persons may register in Room 135 of O'Shaughnessy Hall. — The Observer

Weather

Who'll stop the rain? Cloudy and cooler today with a 60 percent chance of showers. High in the mid 50s. A 60 percent chance of showers tonight. Cloudy with a low near 40. Cloudy and cool tomorrow with rain likely. High in the low 40s. — AP

Deficits won't give a victory to Democrats in November

Sky high budget deficits will be the rallying cry for Democrats if the party's platform committee listens to Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York. On Monday, the senator from New York called the federal deficit "the social issue of this coming election.

Social issue or not, the deficit will continue to be lambasted by more and more Democratic candidates as November nears. But the latest serving of party politics in rhetorical smells quite a bit like last month's fare: all fluff and no substance.

Charles Manatt, chairman of the Democratic Party, gave an indication of how little substance the issue will receive with his statement at the Mock Convention last week. Keeping the persis on the horizon, Manatt compared government deficits to those in personal finance, as if the U.S. had a checking account and a debt limit at the local bank.

Such comparisons are hatchdox and only serve to deceive voters. Even the connotation of the word "deficit" suggests imminent insolvency, bankruptcy, foreclosure or other fiscal disaster in truth, the government faces no danger of a cutoff of funds. The Treasury Department may sell as many bonds as it needs to finance expenditures, though each issue increases the obligation of the money needed to cover interest.

Deficits are not necessary and, indeed if the government does not balance the budget tomorrow (or increase in taxes) would be so disastrous as to cause a major depression. It should be remembered that the economy is just coming out of one, that tax receipts are down and government unemployment payments are still high. The impact of recession is great; it may have been responsible for one-half of the fiscal 1983 deficit.

In addition, state and local governments are running a combined surplus of approximately $50 billion. Therefore, the net deficit is substantially lower. And no matter what you read, the connection between interest rates and the budget deficit has not been empirically proven. Some economists even argue there is no connection at all. As a graduate student in economics at way told his class, "All we can say is that we can't really say."

But in politics, one never says, "We can't say." The Democrats have to do the talking, because all of their campaign issues are slipping away with the economic recovery. The Republicans are looking for an issue, and they will try to make as much hay as they can from it," says Robert Schmuhl, professor of American studies at Notre Dame. Schmuhl is doubtful the deficit issue will work. "I'm not sure it will have much of an impact on the votes. The president and his supporters will say they are not responsible for it, that's really an outgrowth of policies that the Democrats created."

Likewise, he believes Republican Party leaders are not worried by the prospect of a deficit issue. "Supporters of Ronald Reagan -- Senator Paul Laxalt is a prime example -- say the deficit is so large and the implications of the deficit are so complex that the deficit as an issue doesn't have much meaning."

Recent history seems to be on Laxalt's side. General themes, such as "honesty" in 1970 and "less government" in 1980, elected Presidents Carter and Reagan. Other than Gary Hart's "New Ideas," the Democrats are still searching for that theme that will give them the keys to the White House in November. Says Schmuhl, the key is substance. "It has to be a coherent and developed program that is an alternative to the Reagan administration."

The deficit issue will not provide the Democrats with the substance they need to win the presidency. Their rhetoric, aside from being misleading, will not move the masses to the polling booth. What should drop the idea of putting budget deficits at the fore of the fight is that the Democrats really want to defeat Reagan. The leaders should concentrate on the party's strengths and the Republican's weaknesses.

The views expressed in the "Inside" column are the views of the author, and do not necessarily reflect the views of the editorial board or staff.

The Observer

Deficit in Brief

The Observer (ISSN 0363-4938) is a weekly newspaper published Monday through Friday in South Bend, Indiana. The Observer is published during years and vacation periods. The Observer is a student publication of The University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. The Observer is published at Notre Dame (ISSN 0363-4938) and Saint Mary's (ISSN 0363-5223) each for a total of 46 issues per year (11 per issue). By using the Observer, you are supporting the student publications of The University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College.

Ad Design

Mark Worschel

Managing Editor

Inside Friday

Eddy and Howard Streets

Across from Nickle's

GREAT WALL

Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge

Authentic Szechuan and Hunan Fare

LUNCH SPECIAL

Any Combination Plate

for only

$2.99

includes rice, soup, egg roll, fried rice, antwer and hot tea

130 Dixie Way South, South Bend

272-7376

100 OFF ALL ITEMS IN THE STORE

Except New Goods: 10% Off These Items

Saturday, April 14

11:00-5:00 p.m. ONLY

GOODWILL

NOW OPEN SATURDAY 12-7

130 Dixie Way South, South Bend
Challenger astronauts successful in mission

Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The shuttle astronauts prepared yesterday to come home with an empty cargo bay — a symbol of their twin successes in delivering one satellite to space and repairing another.

Solar Max, the first satellite to undergo surgery in space, was speed- ing along at 17,400 mph in an orbit all six crewmen, apparently fully recovered. Challenger released it at 4:26 a.m. EST, then flew nearby for eight hours, ready to grab it back just in case.

"As things look now, the repairs were successful," said Jim Elliott, a spokesman at Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland, which is controlling the sun-study satellite and reading its data.

Landing at Kennedy Space Center was set for 7:09 a.m. EST today, on the shuttle's 106th revolution of Earth since launch a week ago yesterday. There was a second opportunity for landing in Florida after one more orbit, at 8:47 a.m., in case of morning ground fog. That possibility was a concern, but Maj. Donald Greene, an Air Force weather officer, said "It looks like it's going to be really nice." A shift in the wind canceled an earlier forecast of unacceptable clouds.

Before they went to bed, the astronauts were given a report that summed up conditions in one phrase: "significant problems, none."

"Satellite servicing is something that's here to stay," said Commander Robert L. Crippen, who will guide Challenger down to its second landing here. "We pick up, repair and deliver."

The delivery part came Saturday, when Terry Hart guided the shuttle arm to a bus-sized satellite in the cargo bay and put it overboard for retrieval in 10 months by another crew.

The 11-ton cylinder holds 57 experiments that will be exposed to atomic oxygen in studies vital to building space stations.

The first attempt at pickup was the shuttle's big disappointment. Space walker George Nelson was unable to attach a docking device to Solar Max to steady it for retrieval by the shuttle arm. Nelson's efforts started the satellite tumbling wildly, but the Goddard engineers were able to stabilize it.

On Tuesday, Crippen guided Challenger close to Solar Max and Hart, with one stab of the arm, locked on and took it into the cargo bay.

Repair day was Wednesday. Nelson and James van Hoften replaced the system that accurately points the satellite's instruments at the sun. They also swapped an electronics unit.

"After more than three years of circling the globe as a barely functioning satellite, Solar Max was then ready to provide valuable information on giant solar flares that pour torrents of radiation into inter-planetary space. What scientists learn from the satellite may help them better understand the sun and how it affects weather, radio communications and other conditions on Earth."

"We are confident we will have full use of six instruments on board and we're hopeful we'll have some science from the seventh instrument," said Elliott. That instrument was not working when the faces blew on the pointing unit in 1981.

Correction

Because of an editing error, the time of "Notre Dame: A Year in Review" was listed incorrectly in yesterday's Observer. The video presentation will be shown April 19 at 2, 3 and 4 p.m. in the Center for Continuing Education auditorium.
Observer announces promotions

The News Department of The Observer has made the following appointments and promotions. Tom Moyle has been appointed Day Editor, Chief and Librarian. Moyle is a sophomore in the Arts and Letters-Engineering five-year program from West Lafayette, Ind.

Greg Guarnizo, a Saint Mary's sophomore, is the new Assistant News Editor. Guarnizo has served as a member of the news staff, staff reporter, and most recently in a copy editor. Marc Ramirez is the new Assistant News Editor. A junior from Phoenix, Ariz., Ramirez is majoring in American Studies. He has written a breezily features column since his freshman year and has worked as a copy editor in both the news and sports departments.

The News Department has promoted four new copy editors. Jane Kravcik, a freshman from Western Springs, Ill., has been appointed one of two new Assistant News Editors. Guarnizo has served as a member of the news staff, staff reporter, and most recently in a copy editor. Marc Ramirez is the other new Assistant News Editor. An upper classman, Ramirez is majoring in American Studies. He has written a breezily features column since his freshman year and has worked as a copy editor in both the news and sports departments.

The News Department has promoted four new copy editors. Jane Kravcik, a freshman from Western Springs, Ill., has been appointed one of two new Assistant News Editors. Guarnizo has served as a member of the news staff, staff reporter, and most recently in a copy editor. Marc Ramirez is the other new Assistant News Editor. An upper classman, Ramirez is majoring in American Studies. He has written a breezily features column since his freshman year and has worked as a copy editor in both the news and sports departments.

The News Department has promoted four new copy editors. Jane Kravcik, a freshman from Western Springs, Ill., has been appointed one of two new Assistant News Editors. Guarnizo has served as a member of the news staff, staff reporter, and most recently in a copy editor. Marc Ramirez is the other new Assistant News Editor. An upper classman, Ramirez is majoring in American Studies. He has written a breezily features column since his freshman year and has worked as a copy editor in both the news and sports departments.

The News Department has promoted four new copy editors. Jane Kravcik, a freshman from Western Springs, Ill., has been appointed one of two new Assistant News Editors. Guarnizo has served as a member of the news staff, staff reporter, and most recently in a copy editor. Marc Ramirez is the other new Assistant News Editor. An upper classman, Ramirez is majoring in American Studies. He has written a breezily features column since his freshman year and has worked as a copy editor in both the news and sports departments.

Reagan speaks with autoworkers on the recovering U.S. economy

Associated Press

CLAYCOMO, Mo. — President Reagan told autoworkers at an assembly plant yesterday that the economy has recovered and people have gone back to work because "all of us ... have hung tough" and ignored those who said it couldn't be done.

In remarks after having lunch in the hourly workers' cafeteria and touring the assembly line of a modernized Ford plant in Clay County outside Kansas City, the president said his effort to "rebuild America from the bottom up" hasn't been easy.

"Times have been rough and yes, the recession was much deeper and longer than almost anyone predicted," Reagan said. "But these problems had been building up for 20 years, and we were determined to find a real economic cure, not just resort—all they had so often in the past to another political quick fix.

And in a jab at his political opponents who accuse him of a lack of compassion, he said, "There's no compassion in snake oil cures. "All of us, working together and ignoring the gloom and doomsayers who said it couldn't be done, have hung tough," Reagan added. "Today, as we see the auto industry and the economy humming with activity, aren't we glad we did?"

While Reagan visited the Claycomo plant, which the White House had selected as a model of resurgence in the auto industry, the leading Democratic contender for his job, Walter F. Mondale, toured a Chrysler plant across the state in Fenton. Reagan stopped at that plant a year ago to view the evidence of a recovery that was just then getting under way.

Many of the several hundred workers gathered at the end of the assembly line to hear Reagan's speech wore blue and white "Mondale" baseball caps that had been handed out earlier at the plant gate by the United Auto Workers.

Mondale's trip was strictly political—the Missouri Democratic caucuses are a week away—whereas the president's trip to Claycomo and Dallas, where he is to visit a housing site today, was billed by the White House as an official visit and therefore paid for by taxpayers and not the Reagan reelection committee.

But it would be difficult to distinguish Reagan's remarks to the autoworkers from those he delivers at political events such as campaign fund-raisers. The message almost always is: the economy is on the mend, and the Reagan program should get the credit for it.

The Ford plant is not only an example of increased production and rehiring of laid-off workers that Reagan came to celebrate. It also is representative of an industry whose profits have shot upward in part because it has used computerized robots and imported parts to permanently trim its workforce in the post-war years.

William Barker, president of the Kansas City local of the UAW and an endorsed Mondale supporter said about a third of the 2,000 persons who have gone back to work at Claycomo came from Saint Louis, or partly idled Ford factories around the country. And the Kansas City plant still has at least 1,500 workers on the street, he said.

Lofts

continued from page 1

I'm merely saying we're looking at the subject," Roemer said he was unaware of any loft-related suits involving Notre Dame.

Father Michael Heppen, director of Notre Dame student residences, said, "I'm certainly willing to discuss (lofts) with Dean Roemer. I think our regulations are rather strict. During the first week (of school), rooms are inspected by the fire marshal." Heppen has final authority in any decision concerning lofts.

Roemer questioned the safety of lofts if a fire should occur. Since smoke rises, students in lofts could suffer more than those in regular dorm rooms, Roemer said.

While the Notre Dame administration considered tightening its loft policy, officials at Saint Mary's are contemplating allowing lofts in dorm rooms. Currently, there are no lofts. One of the proposals being considered to have the administration allow students to build lofts only from kits brought through the administration. Thus, Saint Mary's can maintain a quality control over loft construction.

Jason D. Lindon, Jr., controller and business manager at Saint Mary's, said, "We're looking for a model which satisfies our concerns for safety and student's concerns for loft construction.
The true collegiate student athletes

Randy Fahs

Friday analysis

The football and basketball teams draw a great deal of publicity. Their members are recruited like celebrities by the media and offered lucrative scholarships to play under the Golden Dome. The exploits of these players are covered like a blanket by the media and then hyped about the land. These celebrities, as we called "student athletes" of Notre Dame. They are coddled and pampered so that they can perform at their peak, to bring glory and all-important dollars to N D.

But what of the "real student athlete"—the ones who lack notoriety, fame, and scholarship money, but do hear roaring crowds, in many instances, athletics has lost its purity and fun is lost. Many student athletes feel that their dream to play for Notre Dame has been squashed. The "real student athlete" is a different breed, deeply athletic skilled in certain events. Unfortunately, part of the purty and fun is lost when money, glory, and in the case of the Olympic games, international propaganda are added into the feedbait of the competition.

I agree with Professor DeSantis regarding Walter Mondale's experience problems. As a criterion in the selection of a candidate, a portrait candidate cannot be chosen on the basis of experience. I am not saying that major sports, and that they attract a majority of the current "high tech" industries. In the interest of student awareness, we foster many of the current "high tech" industries. In the interest of student awareness, we must demonstrate great skills in their events, but what I am looking at are the motives behind their participation in athletics. This society is in a great quest for modern day heroes and it is deep in sports, and their contribution to their com munities.

Mondale's assets

Dear Editor:

In response to the April 9 letter from Vincent DeSantis regarding Walter Mondale's experience, I would like to make several points. Mondale's "experience is best (Walter Mondale's biggest asset)." The April 2 letter article in which I am quoted features the headline, "Mondale's Experience Biggest Asset." This headline was chosen by The Observer staff. A headline closer to my feelings would have read, "Mondale's Experience at Ace in Race against Hart and Jackson."

Secondly, Professor DeSantis accuses me of assuming that "there is a necessary correlation between political experience in the national arena and presidential success." On the contrary, I do not believe that experience is essential for success, but I do contend that past political experience is one of many legitimate and important criteria in the selection of a presidential candidate. The Mondale campaign on the other hand, is no field to play on at Notre Dame. You don't have a field to play on at Notre Dame. You demonstrate what sport truly is every time you take the field. It is refreshing to see and I salute you.

P.O. Box Q

The Observer

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556

(219) 279-5303

Editorial Board

Director in Chief

Mark Worley

Managing Editor

Bobb Vondohle

Executive Editor

Sandra DeMay

News Editor

Margaret Fosmoe

Sports Editor

Dan McCullough

Viewpoint Editor

Michael Sullivan

Features Editor

Mary Healy

Photo Editor

Pete Laches

Department Managers

Business Manager

Dave Taichet

Advertising Manager

Jeanie Poole

Systems Manager

Kevin Williams

Founded November 3, 1966
they may have never won an NBA championship. The Globetrotters are synonymous with basketball in its purest form - in 60 years, the Trotters have combined display of basketball talent and comic relief brought back childhood memories for many of the adults in attendance, at the same time creating new memories for all the children present.

Before beginning their 10,000th game in their 58th year of existence, the Trotters warmed up the crowd of about 5,000 with their famed Magic Circle routine to the theme song, “Sweet Georgia Brown.” The routine, which has five Trotters in a circle exhibiting the famed passing and ball handling skills of the Globetrotters, got everyone more than primed for the game. All the usual characters were there: the Washington Generals - the Globetrotters’ long-standing patsy; Bruce Briggs - the ref who is the Trotters’ best friend; Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dribbling.

Playing the role of the “Good Humor Man,” Gorcey removed a tray of ice cream cones from the hands of a man heading back to his seat with the refreshments, promptly dropping the bucket supposedly full of water, but finds that when the contents are distributed to the rest of the audience, only confetti comes out. Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dribbling once done by Neal, as Curry is less involved in the actual show itself. Others, such as “Sweet Lou” Dunbar, are also stepping more and more into the Trotter limelight. Dunbar, in fact, had one of the most memorable dialogues with referee Briggs last night.

While singing Fats Domino’s “Blueberry Hill” into a microphone abruptly borrowed from the P.A. announcer, Dunbar was interrupted by Briggs’ charge that, “Hey, you’re not Dunbar.” Dunbar’s response to the grossly overweight official, “No, but you’re about two or three of him,” had the crowd rolling in its seats. Truly, the night was one of fine entertainment. The game itself? Oh, well. The Trotters beat their foes with “Outstanding Performances” certificates at their own discretion. O’Grady, Sandy Pancoe, John Neal and Ausby, better referred to just as Curry and Gorcey, of course are the stars of the show. Curry is the one who gets involved with the commodity, Curry the sentimental favorite.

Gorcey had everyone in stitches moments after the game had begun when, upon seeing a little boy running courtside toward the exit, the aging 44-year-old funnyman promptly yelled at the youngster to go back to his seat. The boy immediately about-faced and went running back to his parents. Some of what else but “Sweet Georgia Brown.” The routine, which has five Trotters in a circle exhibiting the famed passing and ball handling skills of the Globetrotters, got everyone more than primed for the game. All the usual characters were there: the Washington Generals - the Globetrotters’ long-standing patsy; Bruce Briggs - the ref who is the Trotters’ best friend; Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dribbling once done by Neal, as Curry is less involved in the actual show itself. Others, such as “Sweet Lou” Dunbar, are also stepping more and more into the Trotter limelight. Dunbar, in fact, had one of the most memorable dialogues with referee Briggs last night.

While singing Fats Domino’s “Blueberry Hill” into a microphone abruptly borrowed from the P.A. announcer, Dunbar was interrupted by Briggs’ charge that, “Hey, you’re not Dunbar.” Dunbar’s response to the grossly overweight official, “No, but you’re about two or three of him,” had the crowd rolling in its seats. Truly, the night was one of fine entertainment. The game itself? Oh, well. The Trotters beat their foes with “Outstanding Performances” certificates at their own discretion. O’Grady, Sandy Pancoe, John Neal and Ausby, better referred to just as Curry and Gorcey, of course are the stars of the show. Curry is the one who gets involved with the tone of — what else but “Sweet Georgia Brown.” The routine, which has five Trotters in a circle exhibiting the famed passing and ball handling skills of the Globetrotters, got everyone more than primed for the game. All the usual characters were there: the Washington Generals - the Globetrotters’ long-standing patsy; Bruce Briggs - the ref who is the Trotters’ best friend; Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dribbling once done by Neal, as Curry is less involved in the actual show itself. Others, such as “Sweet Lou” Dunbar, are also stepping more and more into the Trotter limelight. Dunbar, in fact, had one of the most memorable dialogues with referee Briggs last night.

While singing Fats Domino’s “Blueberry Hill” into a microphone abruptly borrowed from the P.A. announcer, Dunbar was interrupted by Briggs’ charge that, “Hey, you’re not Dunbar.” Dunbar’s response to the grossly overweight official, “No, but you’re about two or three of him,” had the crowd rolling in its seats. Truly, the night was one of fine entertainment. The game itself? Oh, well. The Trotters beat their foes with “Outstanding Performances” certificates at their own discretion. O’Grady, Sandy Pancoe, John Neal and Ausby, better referred to just as Curry and Gorcey, of course are the stars of the show. Curry is the one who gets involved with the tone of — what else but “Sweet Georgia Brown.” The routine, which has five Trotters in a circle exhibiting the famed passing and ball handling skills of the Globetrotters, got everyone more than primed for the game. All the usual characters were there: the Washington Generals - the Globetrotters’ long-standing patsy; Bruce Briggs - the ref who is the Trotters’ best friend; Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dribbling once done by Neal, as Curry is less involved in the actual show itself. Others, such as “Sweet Lou” Dunbar, are also stepping more and more into the Trotter limelight. Dunbar, in fact, had one of the most memorable dialogues with referee Briggs last night.

While singing Fats Domino’s “Blueberry Hill” into a microphone abruptly borrowed from the P.A. announcer, Dunbar was interrupted by Briggs’ charge that, “Hey, you’re not Dunbar.” Dunbar’s response to the grossly overweight official, “No, but you’re about two or three of him,” had the crowd rolling in its seats. Truly, the night was one of fine entertainment. The game itself? Oh, well. The Trotters beat their foes with “Outstanding Performances” certificates at their own discretion. O’Grady, Sandy Pancoe, John Neal and Ausby, better referred to just as Curry and Gorcey, of course are the stars of the show. Curry is the one who gets involved with the tone of — what else but “Sweet Georgia Brown.” The routine, which has five Trotters in a circle exhibiting the famed passing and ball handling skills of the Globetrotters, got everyone more than primed for the game. All the usual characters were there: the Washington Generals - the Globetrotters’ long-standing patsy; Bruce Briggs - the ref who is the Trotters’ best friend; Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dribbling once done by Neal, as Curry is less involved in the actual show itself. Others, such as “Sweet Lou” Dunbar, are also stepping more and more into the Trotter limelight. Dunbar, in fact, had one of the most memorable dialogues with referee Briggs last night.

While singing Fats Domino’s “Blueberry Hill” into a microphone abruptly borrowed from the P.A. announcer, Dunbar was interrupted by Briggs’ charge that, “Hey, you’re not Dunbar.” Dunbar’s response to the grossly overweight official, “No, but you’re about two or three of him,” had the crowd rolling in its seats. Truly, the night was one of fine entertainment. The game itself? Oh, well. The Trotters beat their foes with “Outstanding Performances” certificates at their own discretion. O’Grady, Sandy Pancoe, John Neal and Ausby, better referred to just as Curry and Gorcey, of course are the stars of the show. Curry is the one who gets involved with the tone of — what else but “Sweet Georgia Brown.” The routine, which has five Trotters in a circle exhibiting the famed passing and ball handling skills of the Globetrotters, got everyone more than primed for the game. All the usual characters were there: the Washington Generals - the Globetrotters’ long-standing patsy; Bruce Briggs - the ref who is the Trotters’ best friend; Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dribbling once done by Neal, as Curry is less involved in the actual show itself. Others, such as “Sweet Lou” Dunbar, are also stepping more and more into the Trotter limelight. Dunbar, in fact, had one of the most memorable dialogues with referee Briggs last night.

While singing Fats Domino’s “Blueberry Hill” into a microphone abruptly borrowed from the P.A. announcer, Dunbar was interrupted by Briggs’ charge that, “Hey, you’re not Dunbar.” Dunbar’s response to the grossly overweight official, “No, but you’re about two or three of him,” had the crowd rolling in its seats. Truly, the night was one of fine entertainment. The game itself? Oh, well. The Trotters beat their foes with “Outstanding Performances” certificates at their own discretion. O’Grady, Sandy Pancoe, John Neal and Ausby, better referred to just as Curry and Gorcey, of course are the stars of the show. Curry is the one who gets involved with the tone of — what else but “Sweet Georgia Brown.” The routine, which has five Trotters in a circle exhibiting the famed passing and ball handling skills of the Globetrotters, got everyone more than primed for the game. All the usual characters were there: the Washington Generals - the Globetrotters’ long-standing patsy; Bruce Briggs - the ref who is the Trotters’ best friend; Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dribbling once done by Neal, as Curry is less involved in the actual show itself. Others, such as “Sweet Lou” Dunbar, are also stepping more and more into the Trotter limelight. Dunbar, in fact, had one of the most memorable dialogues with referee Briggs last night.

While singing Fats Domino’s “Blueberry Hill” into a microphone abruptly borrowed from the P.A. announcer, Dunbar was interrupted by Briggs’ charge that, “Hey, you’re not Dunbar.” Dunbar’s response to the grossly overweight official, “No, but you’re about two or three of him,” had the crowd rolling in its seats. Truly, the night was one of fine entertainment. The game itself? Oh, well. The Trotters beat their foes with “Outstanding Performances” certificates at their own discretion. O’Grady, Sandy Pancoe, John Neal and Ausby, better referred to just as Curry and Gorcey, of course are the stars of the show. Curry is the one who gets involved with the tone of — what else but “Sweet Georgia Brown.” The routine, which has five Trotters in a circle exhibiting the famed passing and ball handling skills of the Globetrotters, got everyone more than primed for the game. All the usual characters were there: the Washington Generals - the Globetrotters’ long-standing patsy; Bruce Briggs - the ref who is the Trotters’ best friend; Larry “Gator” Rivers now does the slushy-shoppin dib
Friday, April 13, 1984 — page 8

Showcase

From Alumni to Zahm —

Ratimg the campus

---

You know the feeling — that late night craving that can only be satisfied by fitting into a thick golden crust, loaded down with plenty of hearty sausage and pepperoni, covered with a layer of thick tasty cheese and drowning in a sea of tangy tomato sauce.

Pizza. Immediately

Inevitably, it leads to a march down the stairs to the half-foodsales operation to sample the campus equivalent of the delicacy described above.

Foodsales pizza was in the headlines in December when the University closed down the incampus, student-run operations because of sanitation violations. Many of the violations were related to the pizza ovens used in most dorms. The violations were quickly corrected and foodsales reopened, subject to stricter health standards.

The following Showcase department decided to find out exactly how good campus pizza really is, since foodsales were forced to clean up their act.

Six eager pizza critics set out in search of the perfect pizza. The stuffed participants in this feat were Keith Pelcher, Margaret Posnow, Tom Mowle, Mary Healy, Mark Worschich and Sarah Hamilton.

Each pizza was judged on a 5-point scale in each of the following categories: crust, sauce, topping and cheese.

The results are listed below.

Due to financial constraints, only one trip to each hall was possible. Therefore, any given foodsales may produce a better or worse pizza on any given night. Comments about service, atmosphere or the size of the foodsales operation on any given night. Comments about service, atmosphere or the size of the foodsales operation are included but these factors did not affect the rating pizza. The prices quoted are for plain cheese pizza.

How十字交叉每个 Cross pizza lacks in quality is made up for in the dining arrangements, which includes booths and barstools. The sausage topping, unlike most, has a taste that stands out from the cheese and sauce, both of which are plentiful and tasty. The ovens are located in a back kitchen, which makes for a pleasant dining atmosphere. Hours Sun. - Thurs. 9-12, Fri-Sat. 11-1. Price: $4.25, medium: $2, small: $1.

Lewis

Lewis Hall pizza transcends the rating scale. The kitchen is very unique. So it is clear how the pizza gets its taste. On the way up in the elevator to the lounge (there is no place to eat near the foodsales), we thought the carpet smelled as if someone had recently been ill. It was with heavy stomachs that we realized the odor came from the pizza. The crust is not cooked well, the cheese is blochby and the toppings appear molly. The sauce seems all right, but considering everything else, it is hard to be sure. In short, it’s not just the University, in our opinion, but the foodsales operation on campus. In any case, if you are looking for the perfect pizza, Lewis Hall is not the place.

Holy Cross

What Holy Cross pizza lacks in quality is made up for in the dining arrangements, which includes booths and barstools. The sausage topping, unlike most, has a taste that stands out from the cheese and sauce, both of which are plentiful and tasty. The ovens are located in a back kitchen, which makes for a pleasant dining atmosphere. Hours Sun. - Thurs. 9-12, Fri-Sat. 11-1. Price: large: $4.25, medium: $2, small: $1.

Showcase

From Alumni to Zahm —

Ratimg the campus

---

Lewis

Lewis Hall pizza transcends the rating scale. The kitchen is very unique. So it is clear how the pizza gets its taste. On the way up in the elevator to the lounge (there is no place to eat near the foodsales), we thought the carpet smelled as if someone had recently been ill. It was with heavy stomachs that we realized the odor came from the pizza. The crust is not cooked well, the cheese is blochby and the toppings appear molly. The sauce seems all right, but considering everything else, it is hard to be sure. In short, it’s not just the University, in our opinion, but the foodsales operation on campus. In any case, if you are looking for the perfect pizza, Lewis Hall is not the place.

Holy Cross

What Holy Cross pizza lacks in quality is made up for in the dining arrangements, which includes booths and barstools. The sausage topping, unlike most, has a taste that stands out from the cheese and sauce, both of which are plentiful and tasty. The ovens are located in a back kitchen, which makes for a pleasant dining atmosphere. Hours Sun. - Thurs. 9-12, Fri-Sat. 11-1. Price: large: $4.25, medium: $2, small: $1.

Lewis

Lewis Hall pizza transcends the rating scale. The kitchen is very unique. So it is clear how the pizza gets its taste. On the way up in the elevator to the lounge (there is no place to eat near the foodsales), we thought the carpet smelled as if someone had recently been ill. It was with heavy stomachs that we realized the odor came from the pizza. The crust is not cooked well, the cheese is blochby and the toppings appear molly. The sauce seems all right, but considering everything else, it is hard to be sure. In short, it’s not just the University, in our opinion, but the foodsales operation on campus. In any case, if you are looking for the perfect pizza, Lewis Hall is not the place.

Holy Cross

What Holy Cross pizza lacks in quality is made up for in the dining arrangements, which includes booths and barstools. The sausage topping, unlike most, has a taste that stands out from the cheese and sauce, both of which are plentiful and tasty. The ovens are located in a back kitchen, which makes for a pleasant dining atmosphere. Hours Sun. - Thurs. 9-12, Fri-Sat. 11-1. Price: large: $4.25, medium: $2, small: $1.

Lewis

Lewis Hall pizza transcends the rating scale. The kitchen is very unique. So it is clear how the pizza gets its taste. On the way up in the elevator to the lounge (there is no place to eat near the foodsales), we thought the carpet smelled as if someone had recently been ill. It was with heavy stomachs that we realized the odor came from the pizza. The crust is not cooked well, the cheese is blochby and the toppings appear molly. The sauce seems all right, but considering everything else, it is hard to be sure. In short, it’s not just the University, in our opinion, but the foodsales operation on campus. In any case, if you are looking for the perfect pizza, Lewis Hall is not the place.

Holy Cross

What Holy Cross pizza lacks in quality is made up for in the dining arrangements, which includes booths and barstools. The sausage topping, unlike most, has a taste that stands out from the cheese and sauce, both of which are plentiful and tasty. The ovens are located in a back kitchen, which makes for a pleasant dining atmosphere. Hours Sun. - Thurs. 9-12, Fri-Sat. 11-1. Price: large: $4.25, medium: $2, small: $1.

Leprechaun

Oh, if we could only get pizza like this in the dining halls. ND Food Services’ creation puts much of the other campus fare to shame, but then again, it should, considering the extra cost — almost $3 more than Flanner. Well-browned cheese floating on a sea of tangy tomato sauce gives this Notre Dame second-highest rating. Drawbacks are the wafery-like crust and the sparse toppings. Leprechaun pizza is sold both at the Oak Room Catering and The Huddle. True pizza fans will opt for the Oak Room, since it’s the closest thing to a real restaurant on campus. The table clothes, table cloths and serene setting make for fine dining than your usual basement establishment. If this place had a beer license, it would be a campus smash. Oh, well. Hours: Oak Room, 239-7518 Sun.-Thurs., 9 p.m. to midnight; Fri.-Sat., 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. (The Huddle, 239-7517) Seven days, 4 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Price: (both locations) extra-large only, $6.80; slice, $3.90. Free delivery.

Flanne

The boisterous, energetic Alain doesn’t seem to video game fanatics already thin c, leaving a lump in your throat. The sauce was applied evenly to a slow baking an...
Pizza rating system

- Pizza: For the heady pizza experience. It's all about the sauce, the toppings, the crust, and the overall flavor. A great pizza shouldn't be just a sum of its parts; it should be a symphony of taste. This pizza hits all the right notes.
- Pizza: For the die-hard pizza lovers. This pizza is a classic, a comfort food, and it's beloved for a reason. It might not be the most innovative or unique, but it delivers on flavor and satisfaction.
- Pizza: For the experimental eaters. This pizza is a little bit of everything. It's a mix of flavors and textures, and it challenges your taste buds in a fun way.

---

Pasquerilla East

Pizza-bagel pizzas are not even recommended by the hall's own food salesman — he suggests going to Grace if you want pizza. The pizza-bagels are okay for what they are, but not as pizza. The sauce is soupy, and the cheese only hides the sauce. No toppings.

Grace

Not only is a Grace pizza a good sound choice, but Grace foodsales, otherwise known as Sarge's, is the nearest thing to your corner grocery store. The largest foodsales on campus. Sarge's is a good place to go when the late-night munchies cravings come on and The Huddle is closed. As for the pizza, its thick golden crust supports a very inviting eating experience. The sauce is flavorful and generously spread. The sauce is tasty, but in rather short supply. The cheese, rather bland, rates slightly lower than the other components of this pizza. The large, carpeted, nicely lit eating area, complete with booths, juke box and wide-screen TV, makes Grace perhaps the most pleasant dining experience to be found on campus.

Cavanaugh

If only the Naugh's pizza were as good as its crust. Cavanaugh seems to have raised baking pizza crust to an art. The edges are crunchy, the center is tender without being flabby or bread-like. This pizza is no more generous with its sauce or spices than most hall foodsales. The cheese was obviously cooked and not merely melted (a plus), but still it lacked that appetizing golden tone. The sausage was crumbled too small, but liberally distributed on the pie. Parked in a corner in the basement of the dorm, Cavanaugh foodsales does not exactly entice people with its aesthetic atmosphere, but pizza can be ordered ahead by calling 283-4729. Hours: Sun.-Thurs. 7-12; Fri. and Sat. 7-1. Price: small, $3.20; half, $1.75.

Farley

Farley pizza is a campus connoisseur's delight. A delicious fine dining product is created in the rather modest, foodsales tucked away in the basement of the hall. While a few dorms have better sausage, the pizza of Farley is blessed with delicious, abundant cheese and a (rarity) plenty of tomato sauce. And underneath it all is an thick tasty golden crust. True pizza enthusiasts will plan a visit to Farley soon. Hours: Mon.-Thurs., 9-12; Fri. and Sat. 7-9. Small, $2; Large, $3.

Zahn

Zahn pizza is like Russian Roulette: the more you have, the less you enjoy it, due, at least in part, to the sauce and filling crust. It is also difficult to get — on four trips, pizza was being sold only once, despite the posted hours. The cheese and topping are very plain and less than memorable. Sun. 10-12; Mon.-Thurs. 9-10-12; Fri.-Sat. 10-30-1. Price: whole, $2.50; half, $1.75.

---

Morrissey West

One of the spicier pizzas around may be had at PW's. It's called the hit of the hall because you couldn't quite make up for a doughy crust and less-than-average applications of cheese and sausage. PW's unique economical individual pizzas are recommended only if you can't find anything else to split a larger one with. The slimy, cloying like atmosphere suffers from a lack of music; although two tables and a microwave oven were amenities. Hours: Sun.-Thurs. 9-12; Fri.-Sat. 7-12. Price: large, $2.75; Individual-size, $0.75. Phone: 283-4720.

---

Lyons

This is one of the better pizzas on campus. The sausage is meaty and spread over the entire pie. Sauce is plentiful and delicious. The cheese is a bit failing — it has a gooey consistency and detracts from the overall flavor. The crust is thick and tasty, and clearly cooked to perfection. Sausage, pepperoni, extra cheese and mushrooms are available at this well-ordered and efficient foodsales. Pleasant social space is in which to enjoy one's pizza small is a must. Whether it is clever or debatable. Hours: 9-12 every day. Price: whole, $3.25; half, $1.75.

---

St. Edward's

The "bare essentials" attitude of Saint Ed's foodsales permeates the dorm's pizza too. The crust is thin, crispy, and tasteless, the sauce watery and unappealing. Fair-tasting cheese and sausage cannot entirely redeem the quality of this dining fare. Saint Ed's pizza is definitely not worth traveling great distances for. Hours: Sun.-Thurs. 11-12. Price: large, $2.75; small, $1.85.
A dream of Easter
by Rev. Robert Griffin
features columnist

Somedays dream of resurrection.
A fisherman dreams of hooking Moxy Dick, a football player dreams of winning the Heisman.
I pray I have a dream of the resurrection. The priest, his friends, say: "suffered from an over worked imagination. Maybe he's been snipping on the seeds of the Easter Lily. Only a nutty cleric, his dreams about the wakening up of the dead.

In my dream, I'm on a battlefield. It's the day after a war in which heavy fighting has left bodies--turns out I am one of the victors--who got hit, left as a stoic for the few days. Knowing we had passed over, hearing the click of the tommygun as it turns the corner on life. I'm thinking: "So this war is death." I was packed with a group of salts making their way to the O'Loughlin stage. The three in the chest left of the Ebenezer Baptist Church, and to tell the truth, it was a crossroad. I had hoped to be heaven to be more Jewish, and kept waiting for the singing. I'm thinking: "What is this life afterlife, however, because I've always loved the play" The Green Pastures.

Heaven turned out to be the arena within the dream. Later, I was on the battlefield as a casualty. I could hear the sounds of other victors. I stood up and expected to be getting up too. So I stood up: and exclaimed: "It is whole again. There were other soldiers all around me, examining themselves. I could tell that they looked whole. They were laughing and saying: "How good to be back in a place where God's not dead."

"I was packing with a group of salts making their way to the O'Loughlin stage. The three in the chest left of the Ebenezer Baptist Church, and to tell the truth, it was a crossroad. I had hoped to be heaven to be more Jewish, and kept waiting for the singing. I'm thinking: "What is this life afterlife, however, because I've always loved the play" The Green Pastures.

Heaven turned out to be the arena within the dream. Later, I was on the battlefield as a casualty. I could hear the sounds of other victors. I stood up and expected to be getting up too. So I stood up: and exclaimed: "It is whole again. There were other soldiers all around me, examining themselves. I could tell that they looked whole. They were laughing and saying: "How good to be back in a place where God's not dead."

"I was packing with a group of salts making their way to the O'Loughlin stage. The three in the chest left of the Ebenezer Baptist Church, and to tell the truth, it was a crossroad. I had hoped to be heaven to be more Jewish, and kept waiting for the singing. I'm thinking: "What is this life afterlife, however, because I've always loved the play" The Green Pastures.

Heaven turned out to be the arena within the dream. Later, I was on the battlefield as a casualty. I could hear the sounds of other victors. I stood up and expected to be getting up too. So I stood up: and exclaimed: "It is whole again. There were other soldiers all around me, examining themselves. I could tell that they looked whole. They were laughing and saying: "How good to be back in a place where God's not dead."
The Irish Spring Run is a six-mile race around campus, the lakes, and the golf course tomorrow at 9 a.m. Deadline for entries is today. Registration must be made in person at the Student Activities Board on the 1st floor of the Student Union Business office. Charge: $5. T-shirts will be awarded. — The Observer

The ND-SCM ski awards banquet will be held Monday, April 16. Watch for your invitation by mail. For more information, call Julie Currie at 285-4434. — The Observer

An NVA Golf Review, featuring golf pro Dick Walker, will be held April 28 at 9 p.m. at the Burling Memorial Golf Course. This will be a refreshier class on the fundamentals of the various golf strokes and is for golfers at all levels who are looking for a short review. The cost is one dollar and information can be obtained through the NVA office. The number there is 285-6100. — The Observer

The Indianapolis Colts will open their National Football League season at home against the New York Jets on Sept. 2, a team spokesman announced yesterday. Administrative assistant Peter Ward announced the Colts would be facing the St. Louis Cardinals, Buffalo Bills, Washington Redskins, Pittsburgh Steelers, San Diego Chargers, New England Patriots and Miami Dolphins at home. The Colts, who were moved from Baltimore last month, will be playing their home games in the new 61,000-seat 181 million Hoosier Dome scheduled to open next month. The Colts have also scheduled an Aug. 11 pre-season game with the New York Giants at the Hoosier Dome. The team will play in its old home, the Memorial Coliseum, on Aug. 4. Other pre-season games are scheduled at Dveere, Aug. 18 and at Green Bay on Aug. 25. After the home opener with the Jets, the Colts will travel to St. Louis for games with the Cardinals visits the Hoosier Dome on Sept. 16. Other home dates are Buffalo, Sept. 30; Washington, Oct. 7; Pittsburgh, Oct. 14; Dallas, Oct. 28; New York, Nov. 18; and Miami, Dec. 9. Other road games are Miami, Sept. 25; Philadelphia, Oct. 14; Dallas, Oct. 28; New York, Nov. 11; Philadelphia, Nov. 25; New England, Dec. 6. Ward said the club had no information on when tickets for their home schedule would be available. — AP

Sports Briefs

The Notre Dame women's tennis team improved its spring season record to 10-2 as the Irish easily defeated the University of Northern Illinois, 5-2, and Bradley, 8-1, this week before the team departs today for a three-match trip in Bowling Green, Ohio.

Last night's contest with Northern Illinois at the South Bend Raquet Club was a disappointment for the Irish since the team was unable to complete the competition. Due to a mix-up in schedules, the IrJh were forced to leave after the third game of their fifth match.

"We were unable to finish our number two and number three singles matches," said sophomore cop-captain Greta Gomez. "It would have been 3-2 if we'd been able to finish since both teams were winning."

There were other surprises in store for the Irish last night when the team was forced to make some last minute changes in its starting lineup. Freshman Joanne Biafore sub­ banded for sophomore Ludy给 for number single, freshman Tammy Schmidt subbed for number two, and sophomore Bev Reeder covered Biafore's regular starting position in double. Schmidt played well for the squad in her debut appearances for the Irish against Northern Illinois and in the number six single's match until Monday's loss against Bradley.

"I'm impressed — she kept her concentration and didn't mess around," said Irish co-captain Lisa LaRusso. "I feel there will be someone who can step in and win for us."

Reeder is also unaccustomed to playing singles and last night was her second appearance for the Irish in the competition for the Irish. Although

Football

continued from page 16

quarterback are junior Scott Ross and freshman Joe Felitsky.

"I'd have to give the edge to Scott Grooms right now for quarterback experience," says Hudson. "Joe hasn't played in about two years because of injuries, but he's improving with each game."

Grooms, at 6-2, 179-pounds, returned to Notre Dame from Miami of Ohio and sat out the 1982 campaign. After causing the backup to retire to Blue Kiel in 1983, his season ended abruptly when he suffered a broken collarbone in the second game opener against Purdue.

The 6-3, 225-pound Felitsky has summoned a high school swing in jury and summer intestinal surgery to move himself into contention for the quarterback spot.

"He does everything that you would expect of a quarterback. He has the tools and ability to be a good quarterback," Hudson says.

Grooms and Felitsky can never hurt and with plenty of time still ahead in spring practice, it appears that things can only get better.
Tennis
continued from page 12
Vanadine, 6-3, 6-1. Paul Najarian ended the match with a 5-6, 6-2, 6-1 victory over Pete Froschling at fifth singles.

Today's Big Ball Players Drink Lite Because It's Less Filling.

I KNOW I ASKED ONE!

Bob Uecker
Mr. Baseball

EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER. AND LESS.
Record 11-12
Baseball team swept by Wolverines

By ERIC SCHEUERMANN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame baseball team expected two tough games from the Spartans of Michigan State on Wednesday, and that is exactly what it got. The Spartans had no trouble sweeping the Irish by scores of 7-5 and 7-2, as the Irish could not seem to master any timely hitting.

In the first game, the Spartans jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning off Irish starter Buster Lopes. Although Notre Dame came back with a run in the second, MSU quickly ran away with the game by scoring five runs over the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings.

Spartan hurler Ralph Mojsiejenko hurt a Notre Dame team for the second time this year. After plunging MSU to victory over the Irish in football this fall, Mojsiejenko pitched a five-hitter for the victory Mike Metzler and Tom Shields each had two hits for the Irish. Lopes took the loss, lowering his record to 2-2.

In the second contest, Notre Dame jumped out to a 2-0 lead off Spartan starter Dave Mammel, but the team would score no more than that through four innings. MSU scored four runs in the second and three more in the fourth to take the 7-2 win.

Dave Clark had two hits, including a triple, for the Irish, while Shields doubled. Mark Clements took the loss and is now 0-3.

The Irish are now 11-12 for the season, and face a tough Xavier University ballclub in Cincinnati this weekend. A four-game series will open the Midwestern City Conference season for Notre Dame. The Irish's goal is to make the conference playoffs this season, and the Irish can do it. "It was not a bad loss. We went into this with a good performance this weekend," said Irish Head Coach Noel O'Sullivan.

Golf team travels to '84 Kepler Invitational

By MICHAEL J. CHMIEL
Sports Writer

After a strong outing last weekend in Purdue, the Notre Dame golf team will be traveling to Columbus, Ohio, this weekend where they will face outstanding competition in the 25th team Kepler Invitational hosted by Ohio State University.

Last weekend, in a tournament dominated by a tough opening round on Saturday and horrible weather conditions on Sunday, the Irish were able to come away with a 10th place finish and an average of 76.9, 4.5-stroke for the day, 5-hole Purdue Invitational.

According to Irish Head Coach Noel O'Sullivan, the key to the tournament were the extraordinarily tough first 18 holes which were dominated by teams with full scholarship players. Purdue, the host team and winner of the event, shot a 355 (71 average) Saturday. "The competition was extremely stiff (with eight Big Ten teams) on the first day with others teams shooting "71", "72", and "73"." said O'Sullivan.

"The Notre Dame showing was not at all humiliating or disappointing — it just wasn't up to that caliber that day." said O'Sullivan.

The second round action, which was plagued by high winds, brought the tournament back to reality according to O'Sullivan. The Irish, who were an average of 5 strokes off the pace on Saturday, finished 2 strokes off the pace on Sunday and 5 strokes off the winning team's pace which ended up 731 compared to 568 for the Irish.

"Although the placement seems weak," commented O'Sullivan, "the performance of the Notre Dame golfers was pridelful and strong. Irish scores from the Purdue Invitational were: Moorman 74-81-155, Leyes 74-80-156, Parazzato 78-75-153, O'Donnell 78-75, Buns 76-74, and Hufnagel 82-76-158.

In Columbus, the Irish will be competing against Ohio State, Indiana, and Ball State, all of whom are considered 'perennial powers.'

This 54-hole, three-day tournament will begin this afternoon and will continue until Sunday on Ohio State's Scarlet Golf Course.

Rowing team hosts first spring regatta

By KATHLEEN NICHOLSON
Sports Writer

This Sunday, the Notre Dame men's and women's rowing team will host their first spring regatta of the 1984 season. The one-day racing course located on the St. Joe's River.

The men's and women's teams compromised of both novice and varsity boats will test their prowess against Northwestern University and Grand Valley Rowing Club in a series of rowing events.

With the completion of the new boathouse and the addition of many new boats this year, the club hopes that new interest will be sparked for the sport of rowing here at Notre Dame. Students are encouraged to come to see the competition this Sunday.

The race begins at 11 a.m. at the boathouse on the St. Joe River about 1.5 miles of Notre Dame Avenue.
SPRING INTO SAVINGS
APRIL 13, 14, 15TH — 3 DAYS ONLY!

Some Quantities May Be Limited — Some Are Demo & Closeouts. But We Must Sell Them All In 3 Days!

Home Stereo

TELEVISIONS & VIDEO RECORDERS

TURNTABLES

- Save up to 60%
- Sony FS-115 — Direct Drive Table
- Kenwood KS-350 — Direct Drive Table
- Harman Kardon 301 — Direct Drive Table
- Thorens TD-145 — Belt Drive Table
- Harman Kardon T72 — Direct Drive Table

RECEIVERS

- Parasound 10 Band Equalizer
- Parasound LTT900 — Direct Drive Linear Tracking
- Sony PS-135 — Direct Drive Linear Tracking
- Thorens TD 145 — Belt Drive Table
- Harman Kardon 301 — Direct Drive Table

CASSETTE DECKS

- Onkyo TX-80 AM/FM — 10000 KHz
- Sony CFS-995 — Direct Drive Linear Tracking
- JVC 2600 — Portables Stereo
- Sharp GF-7200 — AM/FM Stereo
- Sony CFS-920 — AM/FM Stereo

SPEAKERS

- Improve the sound
- Harmon Kardon 401 — State of the Art at Budget Price
- Harmon Kardon 3801 — 30 watts per channel
- Magnapop MG 2A — Flat Panel Speakers
- Epi 100 — 2-way Speaker

PORTABLES

- Free Movie Club Lifetime Membership With Purchase
- Sony SL-2995 — Wire remote
- Stylistics 2200 — Wire remote
- Sony 1200 — Wire remote
- Sharp 481 — 3 Speed
- SHARP 481 — 3 Speed

VIDEO MOVIE CLUB

- Over 1200 Beta and VHS Titles
- Join Now
- For $4.95
- Lowest Rates

CAR STEREO

- Free Installation On Any Jensen Radio!
- Fulltron offers a lifetime parts & labor warranty.

ALL-TRONICS

University Center —
Grape Rd., Mishawaka
PHONE: 277-1801

OPEN Monday-Saturday 11 to 9 — Sunday 12 to 5

(Behind Jeremiah Sweeney's)
Today
Friday, April 13, 1984 — page 15

The Daily Crossword

The Daily Crossword

Friday Night Film Series

FRIDAY NIGHT FILM SERIES

The Daily Crossword

Friday Night Film Series

FRIDAY NIGHT FILM SERIES

The Daily Crossword

Friday Night Film Series

FRIDAY NIGHT FILM SERIES
A wet bookstore game is not a happy game

By PHIL WOLF

Sports Writer

It was bound to happen eventually. After several days of beautiful weather, the rain finally fell on bookstore basketball yesterday. The Bookstore rules clearly state (Playing Procedures, no. 13), "As in the past, games will be played regardless of weather conditions." Of course, weather conditions in years past have been much worse than yesterday's, and games have been played in freezing weather and snowstorms.

But yesterday rain did not really dampen the intensity of play in round 1 of the World's Largest Basketball Tournament, though, several individuals and teams put forth outstanding performances.

Bookstore XIII

The slick ball and court did not stop Snowbirds from turning in the second shutout victory of Bookstore XIII, as the team aced Five Marins, Who Do It With A Grant.

Kim Adams led Snowbirds to the victory, hitting seven shots in a row before missing her last shot of the game. Keely Vedder helped in the shutout by hitting five of his nine shots.

Obviously, what the Five Marins do with a grant is miss shots, and indeed, there was a lot of grunting forth outstanding performances.

Tennis team wins eighth straight

By ED KONRAD

Sports Writer

The men's tennis team overcame a tenacious Northern Illinois team to extend their winning streak to eight matches, and improving their record to 17-6.

"I was surprised," said Head Coach Tom Fallon. "Last year the record was 17-6. The Five Marins recruited very well, and match was cut short, and we won 5-2. The Five Marins will be better at defending our country than they were at defending against Snowbirds.

Meanwhile, on Bookstore 9, Jimmy and The Val Dudes narrowly escaped a shutout at the hands of Free Wheelin' by virtue of Joe Holt's two points. Holt shot 2-for-12, while his teammates choked on 25 shots.

Chris Richardson took the "honors" as high non-scoring with a basket. Richardson said "Besides, we had two guys who had never seen a basketball."

Joe Whelan led his team to the victory by hitting half of his 14 shots from the slippery court.

Another big winner in yesterday's games was Encore, which dismissed Sincerely Yours, L.G. Greenwood, 21-4. Joet Williams recorded 11 points.

see BOOKSTORE, page 12

Lacrosse College awaits home opener

By MIKE SULLIVAN

Sports Editor

The Irish will be playing at home for the first time in their history, and they are looking for a win to get off to a good start. The Irish have started off 0-4 this season, and they will be looking to change that against the Purple Knights.

Field hockey advantage is something that Rich O'Leary's squad has not had since the season began over spring break. Now seven games into the season, Notre Dame will get to play host to opponents for the first time.

This year's game is an important one for the 4-3 Irish. Notre Dame is one of the better teams in the Midwest Lacrosse Association, and Notre Dame can ill afford another conference loss after splitting a pair of MLA games this past week.

The Irish will also be looking to avenge last season's 22-16 loss at Wooster in their home opener. In that game, the Notre Dame offense exploded early, giving the Irish an early lead. However, the defense played its worst game of the season as the hosts closed in on the lead to score a relatively easy 24-14 win.

Obviously, O'Leary will be looking for his defense to protect the Irish early lead. However, if the first seven games are any indication, he should not be disappointed. The Notre Dame defense has allowed more than 10 goals in a game only three times this year and registered its first shutout ever in Tuesday's 15-0 drubbing of Mt. Union College.

"We've got a new defense this year which has really helped us out," explains Simpson. "We can't wait to see a man-to-man defense, but now we see a zone defense that is something like a 5-3 defense. It almost cuts off every shot from close in, so I can see the shots better and get better saves."

The slaughter at Mt Union was more of a practice session than a game. The Notre Dame regulars played for the first quarter, rolling the score to 9-0 and then letting the seldom-used players get in some playing time. Shutouts in lacrosse are even more infrequent than shutouts in bookstore, yet the Irish were able to keep their hardy- slighted and insinuating score to a single goal. In the two matches between the teams, Notre Dame has outscored the Purple Knights, 4-3.

It was a different story at Ohio Wesleyan last weekend, though, as the Irish fell behind 7-2 at halftime and could never get closer than four goals the rest of the way, eventually losing 12-5 to the defending MLA champs.

They were a better team than we were," admitted O'Leary. "I think the score should have been 8-5 or 9, but we had a good ride in the game. We would have a good defense by our offense but not score, and then they would come back and score easily."

Note: The NCAA's showing was not nearly as good as O'Leary had hoped, so the outcome could hurt the team's confidence level. However, O'Leary is confident that the loss will have a good effect on the team. "The loss makes us want to work harder," said the junior goalie. "We're still not out of (the conference race) at all."

Wooster should prove to be a good test for the Irish because it has probably the third-best team in the conference behind Ohio Wesleyan and Denison. If Notre Dame wants to have a chance for the MLA title, it must take advantage of their home field.

Starting quarterback role is Beuerlein's

By ED DOMANSKY

Sports Writer

Taking the helm as starting quarterback is certainly not an easy task. Most teams will look to a seasoned veteran to meet the challenge.

For the Notre Dame football team, however, this vital role will rest with Steve Beuerlein, the 6' 3, 200-pound sophomore from Fullerton, California.

Not too surprisingly, offensive coordinator and quarterback coach Ron Hudson expresses great confidence in Beuerlein's abilities.

"Any program at this level would be hard to handle," said Hudson. "We've been in the program for a couple years and had a little bit more understanding of the system," he says. "But Steve, as a sophomore and academically, is far more advanced than a normal sophomore. Because he started those eight games for us last year, it's not like we're talking to a rookie. It takes a little of the nervousness out, and that's a real positive thing for us."

Competing with Beuerlein for the starting role are John Bolich and Craig Scott, according to Hudson.