Hart opposes Reagan economics in South Bend campaign speech

By TOM MOYLE
Assistant News Editor

Democratic Presidential hopeful Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado said as much as he could at South Bend's Century Center Friday that President Ronald Reagan's policies are an "economic Yankee." Besides the dangers of deficits, Hart mentioned education, health care, defense and the nation's physical plant as areas of special concern.

The senator cited a group of past Secretaries of the Treasury who said "a weakening economy in 1989 threatens to send the deficits soaring...to $500 billion to $400 billion in the late 1980's."

The danger of such high deficits, he said, is that "wars up capital, compete with other borrowers for money, and confuse the relationship between the dollar and other currencies, to the point where it is virtually impossible for us to compete in world trade."

Hart said the deficits are "stealing from our future" and the recovery will be "paid for entirely out of the pockets of coming generations."

Continuing the theme of future generations, Hart added "if these deficits continue to grow as they have, by the time your three-year-old child is 18 she will have to earn $10,000 a year just to pay off her share of the interest on the national debt."

Hart blamed Reagan for these problems, saying "the first thing we have to do is send Ronald Reagan back to the ranch for a well-deserved retirement. I don't know if he deserves it, but certainly we do!"

He outlined his solutions to the deficit as requiring "salvage of all American except those least able to do the most." He favors reversing some of the Reagan tax cut and postponing tax indexing.

In defense, the senator would cancel the MX missile and the B-1 bomber, and stress "larger numbers of less costly weapons and readiness for the kind of wars and missions that are eagerly desired by this government." He criticized Reagan's proposed defense cuts because they are "a cut in pay and readiness and more into nuclear weapons this country simply doesn't need."

Hart supports a freeze on deployment and testing of nuclear weapons, "a ban on weapons in space, whether nuclear or non-nuclear, and an end to the proliferation of nuclear technologies in the third world." He does not support Selective Service in its current form, but would prefer some form of universal service with no exemptions. This service would have a non-military option such as the Peace Corps.

He promoted more spending in education because "human minds and human skills are our most important and most precious asset." He warned Reagan, "if you think education is too expensive, wait till you see how much ignorance costs."

Hart said he would go beyond the education programs of the 60's and 70's and increase teacher salaries and training and "elevate the overall quality of education." He said a reduction to 70 percent from the current 100 percent tax deduction on business lunches would "fully finance the hot-lunch program and add more than $3 million to the program."

More jobs would be created by investments in the physical structure of the nation - bridges, roads, and dams - Hart said. More industrial growth would be promoted, he said, with tax reform that would "take the premium off mergers, buyouts and runaways plants, and place it on productivity and growth."

After his speech, Hart specified some proposals in this area, such as requiring three to six month notification before a plant closing and establishing an individual training account for each worker which could be used to pay for retraining or relocation of the worker.

He cited $1 billion could be saved by "reengineering our health system, with a new concentration on preventive medicine and competitiveness."

Hart said he would be able to provide the "new leadership" the country needs. "The old approach of my own party," he added, was to "promise everything to various constituency groups in hope of putting together a winning coalition. But it is not fair, nor is it wise government, to mortgage the future to pay for political generosity now."

Hart concluded his 19-minute address by saying he offered the kind of leadership that "would call forth the best in the American people."

Questions on alcohol answered by Hesburgh

By KEITH HARRISON, Jr.
Senior Staff Reporter

"I think it's a very moderate policy," said Father Theodore Hesburgh, University president, referring to the new campus alcohol policy.

"Many people have misunderstood the policy because they have not read it," said Hesburgh, who spoke at Cavanagh Hall last night.

"When I first came here, we were at A's which was totally dry," said Hesburgh. "Then later we went to B 2, which was pretty wet. Now we're going to M, which is somewhere in between the two extremes."

The new alcohol policy will not deny students the opportunity to make responsible decisions, said Hesburgh. "People say that we're taking away student responsibility," said Hesburgh. "That's not true. The new policy gives people a chance to exercise some responsibility. They don't exercise responsibility, then we may have to take further action."

"What we're not doing is telling people to go break the law," said Hesburgh.

Hesburgh also commented on the student rallies and protests that have recently taken place on campus. Although he was not on campus at the time of the rallies, he saw the television coverage of them. "I can say that we have a great student body, they are intelligent, bright and dedicated. The way they were portrayed is not the way they are," he said.

Releasing the University directives the day after the announcement of the alcohol policy "confused the issue," said Hesburgh.

"You're talking about two things," he said. First there is the policy itself, which has been approved and is not negotiable. The other are the directives, which are the regulations which will be used to carry out the new policy. Hesburgh said the directives are being negotiated, and a final draft should be ready by summer, according to Hesburgh.

Hesburgh discussed his role in the see HESBURGH, page 4

Notice

Today's issue is the last Observer for this semester. Good luck on Finals and have an enjoyable summer.
Dr. Robert A. Howland, professor of mechanical engineering, was named outstanding teacher of the year Friday night at the 19th Annual Awards Banquet of the College of Engineering. Howland, whose classes include mechanics for sophomores, was recognized for his ability to teach beyond the equations and relate the systematic approach of solving engineering problems. Dean Roger Schmitz, who read a citation announcing the award, said Howland has earned the respect of his students by his open-ended office hours, wit and involvement in extra-curriculars. Also at the banquet honors, four senior engineering students — Anna Riley, Mark Todd, Stephen Dahlke and Mary Sokolowski — were given the Rev. Thomas A. Steiner Prize, which annually honors the college's top graduates. Dr. Lionel Baldwin, dean of Colorado State University's College of Engineering, was awarded the 1984 Engineering Honor Award. — The Observer

Mishawaka police arrested a Notre Dame junior Friday afternoon at the University Park Mall when the student goaded an off-duty South Bend police officer. Detective Sgt. Jerry Schroeder said the student was arrested at 5:15 and was transferred to St. Joseph County Jail Friday night. Schroeder would not elaborate on details of the incident. He said the off-duty policeman was working as a security officer for Hudson's Department Store. Formal charges are expected to be filed today. — The Observer

Did you fail to report some income, to claim tax credits or deductions, or erroneously claim deductions or credits to which you were not entitled on a previously filed federal income tax return? You can correct these errors by filing an amended return, the Internal Revenue Service said. The amended return is filed on Form 1040X, "Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return," and can be used to correct only a previously filed Form 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ. Form 1040X must be filed within three years from the date of the original return but within two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later. It is not necessary to file an amended return to correct addition and subtraction errors, or if you failed to submit a required schedule. Form 1040X and instructions may be obtained by calling the IRS toll-free at 1-800-829-4440. — The Observer

The University Club at Notre Dame closed this weekend while tests attempted to discover whether an employee had traces of bacteria during food handling or preparation. The investigation began after 55 of 56 members of the University's development department staff became ill after a lunch served at the club on April 27 with symptoms of nausea, vomiting and cramps. Members of another lunch party on Monday also became ill. No one was hospitalized. John Detchley, food supervisor for the St. Joseph County Health Department, said test results of employee stool cultures probably would not be completed until late this week. The club manager said allegations of food poisoning repeated in The South Bend Tribune have not been proven. — The Observer

Of Interest

Guest tickets for Commencement will be available at the Registrar's office Wednesday through Friday. Each student must present his or her student (or other photo) I.D. card and a receipt showing he or she has rented a cap and gown. — The Observer

HOURS: 410pm Mon-Thurs.

Are you having trouble communicating with your parents or dealing with stress? Call the Counseling & Psychological Services Center for information on scheduling an appointment or for free consultation. The center offers individual, couples, family and group counseling services, stress management, career counseling and personal/developmental counseling.

Tuition: $20

COUNSELING

Don't take chances with your mental health and well-being.

The Real World

The very idea is enough to send shivers down the spine of any red-blooded Domer. Yet in a few weeks all of us will pack off into that world of unwholesome dishes and unpaid bills — some of us for good.

For the very idea of Notre Dame is representative of the so-called 'real world.' In the real world there are no panathena and no exams. And, everyone isn't Catholic.

Roman Catholicism always has been an integral part of this University, and indeed this Catholic character, together with Knute Rockne and his football legacy, comprise Notre Dame in a nutshell. Without its outstanding tradition, Notre Dame just wouldn't be Notre Dame.

This unique environment attracts many students to the University. Most appreciate the opportunity to grow in faith with others of their own religious tradition. Upon leaving the sanctity of Notre Dame, we will have to deal with people who attend services, rather than Mass, on Sunday. This will be a new experience for many students who grew up in Catholic faith circles in their home towns.

Most students come to Notre Dame seeking to further their "Catholic" education. And there exist ample opportunities to grow in faith with others of like faith and religious traditions. Apparently some students of the Theology Department think so.

In case you haven't heard, the Department has revised its requirements. All students are now required to complete a two-course sequence in Catholic theology.

Thus, students interested in studying other religious traditions have to find an elective to do so. For engineers and others who have virtually no elective locales, the opportunity to study Islam or Judaism has not always been an easy one.

Since many students opt to take their second course in Catholic theology anyway, this requirement may seem rather insignificant. Consider, however, that this new restriction, along with the guarantees the vast majority of students graduating from Notre Dame will have little or no contact with other religious traditions.

Some will argue this is a Catholic university and as such has a responsibility to educate its students in this religion. If one is unwilling to study Catholicism one should, perhaps, choose another University.

As a Catholic university Notre Dame certainly wants to promote Catholicism. Does it, however, want to promote narrowedness as well? Yes, Yes! By restricting our opportunity to study other theologies, these new requirements narrow the scope of our education.

To be Catholic is not to be exclusively Catholic. Is a university which claims to provide its students with a liberal education. Notre Dame is obligated to allow and even encourage us to explore a cross-section of opinions and beliefs.

Another probable result of this new policy is a decrease in the quality of instruction in one-semester theology courses. The new theology sequence, for example, will force some professors to teach out of their area of expertise. For example, a professor whose field is Asian religions might be forced to teach a lower-level Catholic theology or teach one of upper-level courses. Thus many non-theology majors will be instructed by faculty members teaching outside their own areas of concentration.

An educated person should at least be familiar with religious traditions outside his or her own, and a member of society who seeks to understand and deal with others cannot be insensitive to their religious traditions.

Students should be encouraged to explore and understand other religions if they so desire. The Catholic tradition of Notre Dame cannot be forced, nor Notre Dame's image of a fine university may actually be harmed by this limit on our opportunity to study other theologies.

These requirements will only further the unrealistic image of an all-Catholic world. Protestants and Jews (yes, there are some) complain other students automatically assume they are Catholic. Some claim Catholic students demonstrate almost no knowledge of non-Catholic denominations. In a school where non-Catholics are a minority, this is understandable. In the "real world," where Catholics are the minority, ignorance of other religious traditions will appear as just that — ignorance.

Theology requirements misguided

Amy Stephan
Assistant News Editor

Outside Monday

May 7, 1984 — page 2
Police ticket students in tavern raids Friday

Special to the Observer

Thirty-seven tickets were issued, some to Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, and a tavern owner was arrested late Friday when Indiana State police officers and South Bend police raided Corby's Tavern and Bridget McGuire's Fillin' Station.

Sgt. Greg Detichley, an excise officer, said he did not have figures to break down the citations between students and local residents.

Detichley said the 37 tickets included citations for underage drinking, possession of false identification, and consumption of alcoholic beverages by a minor. He said 29 students were given citations for violations of state liquor laws. Some received more than one citation.

Harold Rowley, the owner of Corby's Tavern, was arrested and charged with interfering with a police officer. He was released Saturday morning from the St. Joseph County Jail.

Detichley said Rowley "became belligerent" while police were trying to conduct their investigation at Corby's Tavern. He said when Rowley "got to the way" of the investigation, he was arrested.

Detichley said the youths were taken to the main South Bend police station to be given citations, but were not arrested. He said the local residents were released to their parents.

Those given citations will have to appear within five days in traffic and misdemeanor court, where they could be fined. Detichley said they might have to appear in Indiana before the local Alcoholic Beverage Commission (ABC).

Detichley said the tickets were part of Project SUDS (Stop Underage Drinking Sales), which is a program of the governor's task force on drunk driving.

Detichley said one of the goals of Project SUDS is to combine the efforts of local and state law enforcement agencies.

Senator expects FCE minimum to be passed

By JOHN MENNELL
Senior Staff Reporter

Enough Faculty/Course Evaluation forms should be returned to satisfy student government officials and legitimize a report to be published this year.

In an Observer article Friday, Bob Riley, former District Two senator who moderated the survey, said at least 40 percent needed to be returned last night he told the Observer. "I'm not worried that we can get the 40 percent."

Although he cannot determine the full effect of the Observer article and a letter sent to all students over the weekend asking for support, Riley expects them to help.

If less than 40 percent of the surveys are returned, an attempt will be made to publish the report for certain classes where there was enough response.

Riley emphasized the problem with mail clerks not putting the forms in the boxes. "We took the time to put the labels on the envelopes so they would get delivered," he said. "We wanted to make sure everyone got one."

Some clerks delayed a few days but got them delivered. The only fail with a major delivery problem was Alumni.

Riley had hard words for the Alumni mail clerk, Mike James, who was the head of the Senior Fellow committee. In Alumni, the forms were thrown in a pile and discarded a few days later when they were not picked up by students. "We worked long and hard to get these out," Riley said. He was dis-appointed the process was inter rupted by someone not doing a job he was paid to do.

Alumni residents who wish to fill out a form but did not receive one should contact student government offices, Riley said. The cost of the survey was approximately $1,000, according to Riley. "Older students may spend 30 times as much and have paid half," he said. "The form was scrambled and incomplete and it was the best we could do with our budget."

The report based on the survey will be published sometime next year but details are not yet finalized.

Du Lac report released

By DAN McCULLOUGH
Editor

The purpose of the Judicial Committee's report on Du Lac was to student life, is "basically to give the administration an idea of how the students felt about their school so we felt it could be improved," explained Bill Bergamo, a member of the council's Du Lac Review Committee.

The report was released yesterday.

Bergamo explained the Judicial Committee views the Notre Dame handbook of rules and regulations every few years to give it student input and make it more applicable to current situations. In reviewing the current handbook, Bergamo said the committee "realized some of the rules" and made some recommendations on changes of current rules.

One of the immediate concerns of the committee was to match the punishment to the offense, said outgoing Judicial Council Director Bob Gronoski. "Du Lac for most never tied the punishment to the rule," he said. To correct this, Gronoski said the committee has recommended the punishment be placed in bold print directly beneath the rule. "Whether you agree or disagree with a penalty, the student should know what the penalty is for breaking a regulation."

From the committee, the report is given to members of the administration, including Dean of Students James Beemer and Vice President for Student Affairs Father John VanWolfe.

Among the recommendations of the committee, the sentence, the "University rules set few limits on student behavior precisely because there are more positive reasons for the students to do the things themselves," is recommended to be removed from Du Lac's preamble to "better preserve the credibility of the entire section."

Commented Bergamo, "Incoming freshmen read that and then continue to read the rest of the pages of rules and they're going to think, 'Who are they kidding?'"

The report also comments on student conduct away from campus.
Pope threatened with toy pistol

Associated Press

SEOUL, South Korea — As 800,000 people watched yesterday, Pope John Paul II canonized 103 martyrs, including Korea’s first saints, in a tribute to the country’s growing Roman Catholic Church. Before the ceremony, police seized a student who brandished a toy pistol near the pope’s motorcade.

The pontiff, on an 11-day pilgrimage to Asia, heads to New Guinea today after his five-day stay in South Korea.

Applause from the throng in Yondu Plaza, and shouts of “Mansei!” or “Live 10,000 years!” greeted the smiling pope as he arrived for the canonization ceremony. He began the Mass by delivering brief readings in the Korean language:

“How long have we waited for this day. How fervently we have prayed for this moment to arrive,” said Cardinal Stephen Kim, the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Seoul, in an emotional welcome.

The canonization of 93 Korean and 10 French martyrs slain in Korea, the first such ceremony outside the Vatican since the 13th century, was hailed by the Vatican as the pontiff’s “personal tribute” to the world’s fastest growing Roman Catholic Church.

The church, which has been gaining members at an annual rate of nearly 10 percent for three decades, has 1.2 million adherents among South Korea’s 40 million people.

In his homily, John Paul said the “splendid flowering of the church in Korea today is indeed the fruit of the heroic witness of the martyrs,” and the Korean church “deserves full admission to the entire church.”

Wearing red and gold silk vestments patterned after “koryo” used by Korean kings for special ceremonies, the pope stood on a platform built in the shape of an alpha and omega, first and last letters of the Greek alphabet, representing the beginning and the end. A giant white cross towered overhead.

Earlier, the pope was on his way to a prayer service at Myongdong Cathedral in Seoul when a man leaped from the crowd lining the curb, brandishing a toy pistol.

Witnesses said he fired the toy once or twice.

By KEITH HARRISON, Jr.

Local veteran supporting increased help for disabled veterans in House

By JAMES SIEI

President Reagan “wants to send you young people all over Central America, but he sure as hell doesn’t give a damn about taking care of veterans,” said Steve Marozsan, chairman of Veterans For Constitutional Rights, Inc.

Marozsan, a veteran from South Bend, was referring to Reagan’s lack of support for a legislative bill that “would give veterans the quota system. Each year, only 12 rights. . .that every American citizen of support for a legislative bill that would give veterans the quota system.”

The bill has been passed unconsulted by the Board of Veterans Appeals, the most the attorney is permitted to charge is $10.

Few lawyers will work for this fee, maintains Marozsan. Hart’s bill will allow the law for many compensation for his injuries.

“Under the present law, a veteran may only appeal to the Board of Veterans Appeals, which is part of the VA. The problem with the VA, said Marozsan, is they work under a quota system. Each year, only 12 to the cent of the award the veteran is seeking.

The bill has been passed unanimously by the Senate, but has not yet been voted on by the House of Representatives.

The reason for this, said Marozsan, is that the bill must first go to the House Veteran Affairs Committee.

“This committee is staffed by ex

percent of all claimants are granted compensation,” said Marozsan. “They follow that quota religiously.”

Second, Hart’s bill would increase veterans’ chances of winning an appeal within the VA, said Marozsan.

Under a present law, written in 1913, if a veteran wishes to hire a lawyer for his hearing, he must first get permission from the Board of Veterans Appeals, the most the attorney is permitted to charge is $10.

Few lawyers will work for this fee, maintains Marozsan. Hart’s bill will allow the law for many compensation for his injuries.

“Under the present law, a veteran may only appeal to the Board of Veterans Appeals, which is part of the VA. The problem with the VA, said Marozsan, is they work under a quota system. Each year, only 12 to the cent of the award the veteran is seeking.

The bill has been passed unanimously by the Senate, but has not yet been voted on by the House of Representatives.

The reason for this, said Marozsan, is that the bill must first go to the House Veteran Affairs Committee.

“This committee is staffed by ex

percent of all claimants are granted compensation,” said Marozsan. “They follow that quota religiously.”

Second, Hart’s bill would increase veterans’ chances of winning an appeal within the VA, said Marozsan.

Under a present law, written in 1913, if a veteran wishes to hire a lawyer for his hearing, he must first get permission from the Board of Veterans Appeals, the most the attorney is permitted to charge is $10.

Few lawyers will work for this fee, maintains Marozsan. Hart’s bill will allow the law for many compensation for his injuries.

“Under the present law, a veteran may only appeal to the Board of Veterans Appeals, which is part of the VA. The problem with the VA, said Marozsan, is they work under a quota system. Each year, only 12 to the cent of the award the veteran is seeking.

The bill has been passed unanimously by the Senate, but has not yet been voted on by the House of Representatives.

The reason for this, said Marozsan, is that the bill must first go to the House Veteran Affairs Committee.

“This committee is staffed by ex

percent of all claimants are granted compensation,” said Marozsan. “They follow that quota religiously.”

Second, Hart’s bill would increase veterans’ chances of winning an appeal within the VA, said Marozsan.

Under a present law, written in 1913, if a veteran wishes to hire a lawyer for his hearing, he must first get permission from the Board of Veterans Appeals, the most the attorney is permitted to charge is $10.

Few lawyers will work for this fee, maintains Marozsan. Hart’s bill will allow the law for many compensation for his injuries.

“Under the present law, a veteran may only appeal to the Board of Veterans Appeals, which is part of the VA. The problem with the VA, said Marozsan, is they work under a quota system. Each year, only 12
University to pass Observer budget

By JEFF HARRINGTON
Senior Staff Reporter

The University will approve The Observer's first full-year budget plan since the newspaper joined Notre Dame's accounting system this semester, Father David Tyson, executive assistant to the president, said yesterday.

"I hope to have it finally approved (today) or Tuesday. I think our accounting people were very pleased with it," said Tyson, who acts as The Observer's budget director.

Observer finances were officially placed under the Budget Unit Control System Feb. 1, nearly five months after the University ordered the paper to join its internal budget system or face the cutoff of approximately $70,000 in student fees. The request came in the wake of a University-conducted audit of the paper last summer which revealed several cases of financial mismanagement in the '82-'83 Observer operation.

The paper's operation under the new system has been "working very effectively," Tyson said. "I have heard of no complaints. We tried to talk out the snags ... in earlier meetings."

Observer officials, however, are still wary of University financial control. "I'm not happy to be on the Budget Unit system, but at this point in time it's a necessary evil," Observer Editor-in-Chief Bob Vanderheide said.

Noting the paper had "no choice" but to join the University system, Vanderheide said the question of financial control dictating editorial content still remains. "A newspaper whose finances are controlled by an organization it normally scrutinizes is not an independent newspaper. It's conceivable that the University will interfere with the editorial side of The Observer. We look in our files and find that in 1979 when they confiscated Observers for running an abortion ad ... 'How can we trust them?'

Vanderheide added, "As of now, we've been pleased with the University's conscious desire to stay out of the editorial (side of the paper). It's been working up to now, but we're still kind of cautious."

Marian Hone, Observer controller, agreed. "We haven't had any problems yet with (the University) questioning how the money is being spent. I feel that if they wanted to, they could easily dictate editorial control, but I don't foresee such a problem."

Tyson said they "would be surprised if (The Observer) said there would be any interference because of financial control." The impasse earlier in the semester was clearly the University saying financial accountability and coming under the system were separate from editorial control.

Both parties rank the role of financial aid for Observer employees as the key problem yet to be solved. The federal government requires students to report all income earned to determine their aid packages. Under the Budget Unit Control System, some students have had their loans reduced since the University now has access to Observer employees' earnings.

"The (financial aid) problem still exists ... There is nothing I know the University can do to be of assistance because of federal laws," said Tyson. "The problem is that when University checks are issued, we're accountable with respect to financial aid."

Vanderheide agreed the "biggest problem" inherent in the budget unit system is the financial aid. "I can't foresee it being a major problem but it will cause some headaches ... For the vast majority of people up here it will never cause a problem."

Vanderheide was optimistic The Observer would eventually gain financial independence from the University. Calculating the newspaper would make $25,000 this school year, he said The Observer "is too going to be on the University budget system forever. If we continue to make $25,000 eventually we'll be at a point of being independent."

"That's the bottom line to eventually handle everything on our own."

Concerning the right of The Observer to one day take itself off of the budget unit system, Tyson said, "That's one of those 'what if kind of things. What if The Observer becomes financially independent? It would have to be examined at the time."

"I hope The Observer will (see the University budget system) as more of a benefit than a detriment."

Policy continued from page 1

two pieces of identification from every customer.

"We are going to be tough," Bowie said.

But Senior Bar will not be insensitive to students' needs, Bowie said. Every Saturday night will be a non-alcoholic night at the bar, and students of all ages will be welcome to dance, use the game room, and order food and soft drinks.

"They will be fun," said Bowie, "but the students will have to decide for themselves what their idea of fun is."

Mayor Roger Parent agreed. He traced a metamorphosis within the community of South Bend, and, in his eyes, the University is just beginning to follow suit.

He stated there has been an insensitivity toward alcohol usage and alcohol abuse in the past, but it is changing.

"Society is trying to turn itself around," said Parent. "There is a deepening concensus to help those who abuse." A be able to Notre Dame for three years. Parent holds strong convictions concerning the duty of the University.

"The university is an institution to train the mind," Parent said. "I cannot think of anything more destructive to that process than alcohol abuse."

Although he was not consulted in the formation of the policy, Parent feels a personal responsibility toward the Notre Dame community.

"I would like to meet with student leaders and participate in encouraging students not to abuse alcohol," he says. "We want to be good neighbors, and we want reciprocal action."

and order a DOMINO'S Pizza. We are open for lunch during Finals. Call 277-2154 to order.
30 minute service guaranteed
Hesburgh favors LaFortune work

By MARK POTTER

University President Father Theodore Hesburgh had some good news last night about the proposed renovation of LaFortune Student Center. Hesburgh said, "We'll see what happens. Right now, and I'll have to go out and raise the money."

Last week in an interview, Executive Associate to the President, Father David Tyson, had called money a "major obstacle" for the proposed renovation to the student center. Hesburgh, speaking in an interview after the Student Government meeting, said that he had spoken to the president and found that the plan to renovate LaFortune was still on track. "I asked Father Tyson to put plans together to do what they can to the building from the inside. I told him to see what you can do with it in the most creative and imaginative way possible," Hesburgh said. Last week a committee of five students and six faculty members, including James McDonnell, gathered Tyson for a set of ideas for the renovation of LaFortune.

Murray report studies quality of student life

By ROBERT SIENKIEWICZ

"Administrators are singled out by faculty members in routine faculty evaluations. But students believe it is not a real democracy but students need to have a say that their opinions are respected," states the Notre Dame Student Life Needs Assessment Report. A study of student life was made during the Spring of 1982 with the cooperation of the University administration. The research was conducted through the University of South Carolina's Psychology Department to ensure objectivity and confidentiality.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the University President in order to improve the student life at Notre Dame.

In agreement with the Philosophy Department, the university administration advocated the University requirements in philosophy become a two-semester introductory course. The two semesters would, in effect, be one course, the committee recommended that two semesters be taken within the first two years of study in consecutive semesters.

Presently, most students fulfill their natural science requirement in their freshman year. In order to improve the University requirements, the committee recommended that students in science be completed by the end of sophomore year. There was some discussion of making all freshman requirements core courses, but there was enough support to make such a change.

The present curriculum demands students take two semesters of mathematics in their freshman year. The committee's report proposes this to one semester be taken in the first year, but both must be satisfied by the end of the sophomore year.

The committee proposed that the first year core required course cover the critical study of scripture and the student's development in the first five centuries of the Christian era. The second core course should focus on a single doctrinal theme or group of themes which deal with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.

The report, written by David Murray, was requested by Notre Dame Student Government in agreement with the administration's eyes, however, this objectivity and confidentiality was not ensured. According to Director of Student Activities Jim McDonnell, "I felt that the report was basically a conflict of interest." McDonnell went on to cite the relationship between the '81-'82 student body president, Don Murray, and the writer of the report, Dave Murray. "When you get the student body president trying to bring about some change, you can't go away and do a study." According to Murray, it took five months to complete. The research, which took place between January and May, included structured interviews, a survey of selected students, faculty, and administrators, and a later survey of a random sample of students, faculty, and administrators.
The Observer

Professor's Apple program bought

By NANCY HUET
News Staff

While most students bring apples to teachers, this time the teacher brings an “Apple” to the students. J. Philip Bays, professor of Chemistry at Saint Mary's, has created a computer program for use on Apple computers. Bays has created a way to improve understanding and to practice applying the technique of molecular stereochemistry. Bays wrote a computer program which deals specifically with these concepts of organic chemistry. Compress, a chemistry computer programming company in New Hampshire bought it and is now marketing it as an instructional package.

The program, entitled "Organic Stereochemistry," illustrates three-dimensional features of organic molecules. The package includes a tutorial which defines terms and gives examples. It also features some practice problems which correspond to these concepts. Bays said this program is advantageous to "both students and professors." It allows students to receive a complete set of instructions and to see 3-D displays that are not possible to illustrate in the classroom. He said. It also provides access to an infinite number of randomly generated drill problems.

This technique is an effective way to provide organic students with drills on 3-D molecular chemistry that are not available in textbooks.

Bays was introduced to the tutorial chemistry method about ten years ago when he began experimenting on the computer. He used the Interactor Computer System at Saint Mary's College to teach himself the BASIC language and became familiar with graphics and character manipulation.

Bays used his command of the BASIC language, his ability to use graphics and his understanding of instructional needs to develop the program which illustrates the stereochemistry of organic molecules.

"I was learning new techniques as I was writing the program," Bays said. He experimented in his chemistry courses while he made revisions, "My students served as guinea pigs," he said. In two years he created this "thought provoking" tutorial.

Bays had not planned on selling the program at first. The more he developed it, the more it seemed unlike any other instructional program, he said. He informed Compress Computer Company about his program. After making a few minor changes, he was able to market the program with Compress. The company sells it as a floppy diskette made only for the Apple II. It is sold in individual packages for $65 or with a back-up copy for $75. It is available in hard disk for network systems.

While it is sold directly to institutions or through publishers which market it as a supplement to a textbook, students may purchase it for their own use.

Although he was unaware of the demand or response of customers through Compress, Bays referred to his "optimistic" reaction from those who had used it before it was marketed.

Bays did not plan on selling his program, "I was writing the program," Bays said. He experimented in his chemistry courses while he made revisions, "My students served as guinea pigs," he said. In two years he created this "thought provoking" tutorial.

Bays had not planned on selling the program at first. The more he developed it, the more it seemed unlike any other instructional program, he said. He informed Compress Computer Company about his program. After making a few minor changes, he was able to market the program with Compress. The company sells it as a floppy diskette made only for the Apple II. It is sold in individual packages for $65 or with a back-up copy for $75. It is available in hard disk for network systems.

While it is sold directly to institutions or through publishers which market it as a supplement to a textbook, students may purchase it for their own use.

Although he was unaware of the demand or response of customers through Compress, Bays referred to his "optimistic" reaction from those who had used it before it was marketed.
Make a good buy
before you say goodbye.

This year, don't leave for home without your phone. Buy it before summer and save yourself some time and money. Buying your AT&T leased phone now means you'll have your phone with you the very first day back to class.

To buy the phone you're leasing,
just call AT&T Consumer Sales &
Service's toll-free number. Or visit any of our AT&T owned and operated
Phone Centers. It's that easy. So call us before you say goodbye. Then unplug your phone and take it with you. And have a nice summer.

1-800-555-8111
Call this toll-free number 24 hours a day.

Offer for off-campus students only
Sir Obnoxious
mission accomplished
by Marc Ramirez features columnist

O nly there is nothing more for Sir Obnoxious to do here. The Evanstonian who came to Notre Dame last year, obnoxiousness has begun to climb at a steady rate, and now it rears its ugly skull without any shame at all. As it should, of course.

But the problems that brought Sir Obnoxious to Notre Dame are largely behind him. Obnoxiousness is no longer necessary. When Sir Obnoxious first arrived there was a mixture of elements — output from other elements, and, two, to get rid of Miss Manners. But the mission has been accomplished, and things seem to be running quite smoothly.

Sir Obnoxious was pleased to see such events as Viking Night at South Dining Hall, where people heroically ate without bending their chins. "But was indicating no eating habits, and Sir Obnoxious even learned a few new tricks from the grossly infidel.

For Obnoxious was mildly surprised — no, quite surprised — at what transpired next. Sir Obnoxious talked and talked and talked the wonders of red tape and the harrangues to ward the masses. In Notre Dame's case, that was the stuff.

Viking Dinner by holding a drunken bash in the South Dining Hall. It was announced, almost 2,000 screaming, raving students stormed Alumni Hall, and they were very rowdy.

The day after, several students admirably attempted to undo the Viking Dinner by holding a drunk bash in the South Dining Hall. The point of all this, of course, is that Sir Obnoxious no longer needs to be here. It seems that obnoxiousness has finally triumphed over the willingness of politeness. And Sir Obnoxious' better rival, Miss Manners — she sent flowers last week just to make Sir Obnoxious angry — has been run out of town.

The hooligans prepared to leave the scene, proud of all that has been accomplished. But of course a few last pointers on the art of being obnoxious must be left behind:

Always strive to be creative at the breakfast, lunch and dinner tables. Invent new colors through mixing drinks such as grape juice and chocolate milk, or create new recipes to take home to mom by combining foods such as raw carrots and Lucky Charms.

See how far you can throw a biscuit, or if you can land a cookie in the middle of the room. Drive your peers crazy by dropping a glass on the floor and catching it before that fatal second bounce. See how far you can roll an apple down the aisle before it hits someone's foot.

As people are studying, ask them trivia questions which you know will stump them, but don't ask them why they are studying, and tell them everything that's going to happen throughout the entire movie. An interesting twist is to try this only from the audience.

Sir Obnoxious would love to say goodbye, but since farewell will always seem to end up being extremely sappy and melodramatic, Sir Obnoxious' final advice to the seniors is to remember to never open doors for anyone unless they are the shed's first ever;

The new alcohol policy made any provisions for burning books. The Complete Book of Beer Drinking Games would probably be the first on the pile.

Simply put, this book is a collection of imaginative ways to consume large quantities of beer. Fifty games — including such favorites as Quartet, Acey Deucey, and Mexican — provide for hours of entertainment for everyone from the lightest to the most hard-core partier.

Beyond the game descriptions, the book contains essays lists, and trivia in much the same style as any of the popular Official Bar Game Handbooks.

The games are organized into five sections corresponding to each game's rate of alcohol consumption, or "beer factor." Games with a beer factor of one are designed to

Kevin Williams
features staff writer

The new alcohol policy made any provisions for burning books. The Complete Book of Beer Drinking Games would probably be the first on the pile.

Simply put, this book is a collection of imaginative ways to consume large quantities of beer. Fifty games — including such favorites as Quartet, Acey Deucey, and Mexican — provide for hours of entertainment for everyone from the lightest to the most hard-core partier.

Beyond the game descriptions, the book contains essays lists, and trivia in much the same style as any of the popular Official Bar Game Handbooks.

The games are organized into five sections corresponding to each game's rate of alcohol consumption, or "beer factor." Games with a beer factor of one are designed to

It has all the ingredients, but doesn't quite swing it

by Cat Francis features copy editor

It's Swing Shift" is a nostalgic look at the World War II years and the women who went to work at the jobs vacated by men gone to war. It is also a curiously disappointing movie.

I wasn't sure what to expect from "Swing Shift." And I don't think the makers of the movie were sure either. It seemed random, a collection of scenes and an occasional humorous line.

The movie's plot is relatively simple. Goldie Hawn plays Kay Walsh, the devoted and conscientious wife of Jack (Ed Harris). Her devotion to her husband at the movie's beginning will set on edge the teeth of every feminist in the audience. Jack goes off to war and Kay decides to take a job at MacBride Aircraft Company.

The movie focuses on the transformation of Kay, from demure and naive to self-assured and willing to explore her own feelings. In this, she is aided by two friends: her next-door neighbor, Hazel Zanussi (played by Christine Lahti) and her co-worker, Luckily Lockhardt (Kurt Russell).

As the days go by, Kay begins to realize she can see something other than a complement to her husband. But she does not do enough. The only major change we see in the character by the end of the film is that she is no longer fetching her husband's beer.

"Swing Shift" has a promising and amusing plot, nice camera work, and some top rate actors. But somehow the mixture goes wrong, and the resultant mishmash is not worth the price of admission.

"A book ND would like to censor

SWING SHIFT" is a nostalgic look at the World War II years and the women who went to work at the jobs vacated by men gone to war. It is also a curiously disappointing movie.

I wasn't sure what to expect from "Swing Shift." And I don't think the makers of the movie were sure either. It seemed random, a collection of scenes and an occasional humorous line.

The movie's plot is relatively simple. Goldie Hawn plays Kay Walsh, the devoted and conscientious wife of Jack (Ed Harris). Her devotion to her husband at the movie's beginning will set on edge the teeth of every feminist in the audience. Jack goes off to war and Kay decides to take a job at MacBride Aircraft Company.

The movie focuses on the transformation of Kay, from demure and naive to self-assured and willing to explore her own feelings. In this, she is aided by two friends: her next-door neighbor, Hazel Zanussi (played by Christine Lahti) and her co-worker, Luckily Lockhardt (Kurt Russell).

"Swing Shift" has a promising and amusing plot, nice camera work, and some top rate actors. But somehow the mixture goes wrong, and the resultant mishmash is not worth the price of admission.
One more Loret Ruppe controversy

Friday, Gary Hart delivered a "major policy speech" here in South Bend, at least so say his campaign advertisements. Does anyone remember Gary Hart's last visit to South Bend? It occurred in February of last year when Senator Hart spoke to a small, if not attentive, group in the library auditorium. Hart was impressively: he cataloged this nation's military, economic and social problems, giving a detailed explanation of those causes and im-lications.

He spoke with no reserve, without a prepared text. Hart was thinking aloud, one moment pondering the need for a bold new course of industrial policy, only to immediately follow this assertion with a critique of the thought of others, all articulated by thinkers such as Robert Reich.

The overriding feeling which Hart left his audience was that he had a firm grip on the problems facing our country. He understood well our altering industrial economy and the rapidly changing demographic and social nature of our society.

He was amazed at the breadth of his thought: He not only did he find the problems created by the changes occurring in our society, he also recognized that his solutions are intended to solve these problems are interrelated. Policy designed to effect one would bring change to the others.

To listen to Hart was to be in the presence of a man, a thinker, philosophizing. Hart did n't nock down the old ideas of campaign, Hart became concerned with that very idea of politics which had claimed to have "gotten old-style, empty politicking of Walter Mondale."

What, then, has happened to Gary Hart since his stunning successes? Succumbing to the pressure of running a modern media campaign, Hart became concerned with that very idea of politics which had claimed to have "gotten old-style, empty politicking of Walter Mondale."

Soon he hired Patrick Caddell, the slickest of political image makers. Hoping to get back the political hardball with the huge Mondale organization, Hart has put more faith in marketing techniques than he has in the simple, intense style by which he had spread his convictions.

Much has been made of how Hart has recently attempted to capture the mystique of the Kennedy era. It has even been said that the way he wears his clothes, the way he talks and acts, is in direct imitation of Kennedy. It is easy to ignore such accusations for so long. I now cringe each time Hart refers to Kennedy in a campaign speech.

What Gary Hart has failed to realize is that he already was the conveyor of a mystique, his own. It is a personal mystique, one which, on his own strengths, he is looking to create an image which he simply does not match. Instead of giving substance to the "new ideas" he has been expounding, he has slipped into the backtracking style of campaigning.

Which is the real Gary Hart — the troubled political campaigner with an eye to the future of 1983, or the smooth, predictable politician of 1984? Senator Hart has in turn impressed me, and disappointed me. I hope Gary Hart reappears on the national political scene in 1989 or 1992, more mature, more ready to realize the potential he showed during his visit to Notre Dame last year.

John Madigan is a senior in the College of Arts & Letters, majoring in economics.

The changed face of Gary Hart

Monday, May 7, 1984
Investigating one's employment opportunities

It is an unfortunate indication of our times that even career-minded students at Notre Dame, many students worry a great deal about their employment prospects. While some of these concerns are justified, there are fewer jobs generally defined as appropriate for college graduates relative to the secular Notre Dame of the 1980's. It is little wonder than that students here and elsewhere are apprehensive about their future employment prospects.

As placement director, I can attest to the difficulties some students face in entering a tight job market. Nonetheless, a diploma from Notre Dame is a respected commodity in the job market. I hear comments again and again about the fine academic reputation that our institution enjoys from organizations of all types. That reputation does not, however, guarantee each senior a job offer. The Notre Dame administration, faculty and students are representatives of an elite, but they are not the only ones with a stake in employment opportunities. The secular Notre Dame of the 1980's that I attended was quite different than the Notre Dame of today. Just being associated with Notre Dame is no longer sufficient to achieve them, that relationship will remain.

The controversy over the alcohol policy is yet another case in point which illustrates the strained relations between students and administration. The current administration has brought more irritation to the Notre Dame campus than a U.S. peac time war. Why? Because of the rhetoric. Hysteria and irresponsibility are traits that our students are guilty of throwing a religious institution into the unbecoming thrill-seeking reasonable regardless of the level of sensitivity and insight shown by the administration. However, recent events have shocked and disheartened even the most sensitive students.

Not all seniors are interested in what goes on at Notre Dame after May 20. After listening to the arguments for and against the new alcohol policy, I heard students use reasons for disliking this place as for liking it. If I should shed a tear on graduation day, it is likely to be for the people I do not know or understand. Yet, however fairly, I can still remember the sense of excitement and pride I had as a freshman. Just being associated with Notre Dame meant something special, something I could never quite grasp until I lost most of those feelings.

In the days prior to my decision to attend Notre Dame, my visions of the Golden Dome was quite different from my present one. I thought the administrators of the nation's leading Catholic institution would be willing to work together with students to create an atmosphere of mutual respect and administration. Today I am not so sure.

The new alcohol policy should not be too clear a perspective, who has been around the present administration at Notre Dame go from bad to worse from the beginning of the semester to an elimination of non-alcoholic get-togethers. What has happened to the sense of cooperation and mutual respect between the Notre Dame administration, faculty and students against to what many believe, nothing has happened — it never existed. At least students have been clearer on what they stand now, even if it is under the feet of the administration. There has always been a parent-child relationship, and unless both students and faculty members step back and redefine their goals and determine mutual benefit, the students may achieve them, that relationship will remain.

The controversy over the alcohol policy is yet another case in point which illustrates the strained relations between students and administration. The current administration has brought more irritation to the Notre Dame campus than a U.S. peacetime war. Why? Because of the rhetoric. Hysteria and irresponsibility are traits that our students are guilty of throwing a religious institution into the unbecoming thrill-seeking secular world of the 1980's. Life at Notre Dame is so boring that we are seeking to spice it up in any way we can. Frankly, "doesn't amount to a hill of beans."

Everyone wants to live a thrilling fun-filled life. That's what this whole thing was about. We have all exaggerated the amount of fun we had on spring breaks or how much more "fun" our boys are for college than Notre Dame. We have all had as much fun as we have described. Some of us tell stories which makes it hard to understand our concept of college fun. We must realize that some less-than-meaningful, even ridiculous, facts that are unimportant. In a religious atmosphere, it is never possible to be wonderful. We must analyze what has transpired.

For the administration, saying "we finally took a tough stance against alcohol" makes them seem more important than saying, "we have taken a stand against alcohol." In a religious atmosphere, it is never possible to be wonderfulthing that may happen to some day all man can come together for a long boring handske.

We have already embraced ourselves on the moral decision of whether students have the right to violate our moral laws with ridiculous barons. Notre Dame must put to an end to this thrill-seeking adventure and analyze what has transpired.

The administration has shown poor leadership by being unsympathetic and mean spirited.

By attaching too much importance to its job, the administration could be guilty of thrill-seeking. It's a sin to have an overt parent role with words like "exploitation" and "non-negotiable." The administration has overestimated the alcohol problem and taken on an almost crusade-like stance.

In the future, university officials should never discount the possibility that students are being influenced by the local Catholic Church. The presence of Notre Dame students who will solve most of our problem solvent is the most disturbing part of the alcohol policy. This was not for the administration's total disregard for student input. These students are more concerned with the student-administration relationship, and relate that social life, not alcohol, is the major issue. In the future, the administration will have to modify its position. Limiting the students will throw non-alcoholic parties, however, is a bit extreme.

Another group of students has a more legitimate gripe. These students are not totally surprised by the new policy and would have taken the more sensible part of the directive in stride were it not for the administration's total disregard for student input. These students are more concerned with the student-administration relationship, and relate that social life, not alcohol, is the major issue. In the future, the administration will have to modify its position. Limiting the students will throw non-alcoholic parties, however, is a bit extreme.

The most disappointing part of the administration's proposal is the failure to provide meaningful direct consequences. The new law against drinking with ridiculous barons. Notre Dame must put to an end to this thrill-seeking adventure and analyze what has transpired.

The administration has shown poor leadership by being unsympathetic and mean spirited. By attaching too much importance to its job, the administration could be guilty of thrill-seeking. It's a sin to have an overt parent role with words like "exploitation" and "non-negotiable." The administration has overestimated the alcohol problem and taken on an almost crusade-like stance. The decision was made on its own.

In the future, university officials should never discount the possibility that students are being influenced by the local Catholic Church. The presence of Notre Dame students who will solve most of our problem solvent is the most disturbing part of the alcohol policy. This was not for the administration's total disregard for student input. These students are more concerned with the student-administration relationship, and relate that social life, not alcohol, is the major issue. In the future, the administration will have to modify its position. Limiting the students will throw non-alcoholic parties, however, is a bit extreme.

Another group of students has a more legitimate gripe. These students are not totally surprised by the new policy and would have taken the more sensible part of the directive in stride were it not for the administration's total disregard for student input. These students are more concerned with the student-administration relationship, and relate that social life, not alcohol, is the major issue. In the future, the administration will have to modify its position. Limiting the students will throw non-alcoholic parties, however, is a bit extreme.

The most disappointing part of the administration's proposal is the failure to provide meaningful direct consequences. The new law against drinking with ridiculous barons. Notre Dame must put to an end to this thrill-seeking adventure and analyze what has transpired.
NOTICES

COMPUTERIZED TYPEWRING SERVICE - 277-3000. WE TYPE YOUR ADVERTISEMENTS, BROCURE, WRITTE TO: CAMPUS TRAVEL, 118 M., at SP. MO. 5919.

WE HAVE THE LOWEST RATES TO EUROPE, ASIA, AUSTRALIA, SOUTH AMERICA, THIRD WORLD. WRITE OR CALL

WALTER CONVERSE AND WAMAN
TOLL FREE ADirimfas to 320 275-3000

TWO BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE APARTMENT FOR RENT OVER THE SUMMER, 10658 NE. 40TH AVE. 15th floor, 1/2 block from campus. perfect for grad students, not too high, not too low. call 296-1971.

WANT AD FOR NEW SUMMER HOMES AVAILABLE FOR NEXT SEMESTER. 10747 N.E. 40TH AVE. TOLL FREE CALL 283-1204.

ST. LOUIS CLUB MADISON, WISCONSIN - will pick up or send you TUESDAY, MAY 12 or THURSDAY, MAY 14.

BUFFALO CLUB BUFFALO, N.Y. - 105 S. Main St. May 9 and Presidents day weekend. call 234-7688. Second, Sunday, June 2. NUS. Call 234-7688.

BUFFALO CLUB BUFFALO, N.Y. - 105 S. Main St. May 9 and Presidents day weekend. call 234-7688. Second, Sunday, June 2. NUS. Call 234-7688.

LOST/FOUND

LOST-GREEN "CHOCK-FIELD" KAZMIERZCZAK has misplaced his wallet, on campus between 1800 and 1900, Monday through Saturday, between 3 and 5 p.m.

LATE: Ladies Gold Time Quartz watch with brown band on Architectural or math building. Please call Marsha or Kathy (Kerry's roommate), 283-1204.

FOUND: A BLUE AND GOLD NOTEBOOK, ORANGE LEAVES, with the word "MARK" on it at 3:45.

CHUNK AND ROUND METAL CAMBRIDGE BUILDING had a STAINLESS STEEL BOTTLE CALLED BEFORE EASTER SEMESTER, 2344-7688.

FOUND: 24926/CR2952 (772-3074).

FOUND: squirrelly umbrella, the color is brown, turn in to the campus store. 283-1204.

LOST DURING HOLY WEEK & SMALL LIGHT BROWN WALLET, CAB 283-1079.

LOST SET OF KEYS TO KEEN RING - PRIVATE TO NEXT 4 STUDENTS. THURSDAY PICNIC AT SAINT BARTY, TWO OF THE KEEN ARE MARRIED, CALL 283-1162 AT 10:00.

WENT TO WATCH WITH ALL OF MY IDENTIFICATIONS, FLOWERS AND A ROSE.

REWARD OFFERED FOR RETURN OF RETURN OF WATCH. A ROYAL BLUE CASE, Aloe. 4201840, on campus. I hope to find the camera. PLEASE DO NOT GET IT IF FOUND, FOUND IN THE AM, BETWEEN 10 AND 11, IN THE READER WITH THE RATER OF BALDWIN HALL.

LOST: BLUE NO RACK JACKET. #1 V NECK UNDER 3 AT 12:30 AM, PLEASE COLLECT AT 10:45.

LOST STOOGES PICK? TEN SPEED. RED/BLACK. LAW SCHOOL? EXTRA TANK FROM R.O.S.A. WITH BAY WATCH. CALL 223-8708.FOR RENT

FOR RENT - TWO BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE APARTMENT FOR RENT OVER THE SUMMER, 10658 NE. 40TH AVE., 15TH FLOOR, 1/2 BLOCK FROM CAMPUS. PERFECT FOR GRAD STUDENTS, NOT TOO HIGH, NOT TOO LOW. CALL 296-1971.

TWO HOMES AVAILABLE FOR NEXT SCHOOL YEAR WILL ACCOMMODATE 4. CALL AFTER 9PM. 283-1079.

FOR SALE

FOR SALE - BUICK STATION WAGON, 2,150 MILES, $890. CALL 296-1971.

FOR SALE - BUICK STATION WAGON, 2,150 MILES, $890. CALL 296-1971.

Lacrosse

continued from page 16

In control, but Berrman again brought MSU closer by scoring at the end of the half.

The Spartans continued to roll in the second half. Berrman trimmed the lead to 6-5 in the opening seconds of the half, and almost ten minutes later, the score had not changed. However, Dan Christ tied the score at six with 5.01 left in the quarter. Seven seconds later, Christ fed Pat Cherry on a breakaway to put MSU in front for the first and last time, 7:40.

MSU continued to dominate play until the final minute of the quarter when Grosbi took a pass from Grieco to score the tying goal. The goal seemed to spur the Irish as they quickly jumped out into the lead on a goal by John Wilson. Peasall then scored 20 seconds into the fourth quarter to increase the lead to 10-8.

Once again, though, MSU fought back. The teams traded goals, but with less than three minutes remaining, Irish goalie Bob Simpson, who would stop 21 MSU shots in the game, dropped the ball while trying to clear it. Roller picked up the loose ball and scored easily to cut the lead to 10-9.

The goal seemed to stun the Irish and the Spartans capitalized by scoring 21 seconds later to tie the game. MSU then controlled the ensuing face-off and Notre Dame hopes were dashed.

However, MSU threw the ball back into the middle of Trocheck’s big goal.

Despite the MIA title, however, Notre Dame’s season is over. Because most of the Irish opponents are Division III, while the Irish have to be Division I, Notre Dame does not qualify for the Division I post-season tournament.

---

Classifieds

continued from page 12

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Classifieds</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td> Classifieds </td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td> Classifieds </td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td> Classifieds </td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td> Classifieds </td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td> Classifieds </td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td> Classifieds </td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Fast, Free Delivery

Throbbing head? Quaking body? Has Monday dealt another crushing blow? Revive yourself with a well-rounded meal from Domino's Pizza. We'll help smooth the wrinkles out of your day.

Call us.

- 277-2151
- 1835 South Bend Ave.
- Plaza 23 Center
- 233-3133
- 1426 Calvert St.
- 289-7100
- 4333 W. Western
- 277-8700
- 51400 U.S. 31 North

---

IRISH GARDENS

Open 12:30-5:30 in the Basement of La Fortune

---

United Limo

CALL 674-6993

To O'Hare

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>LEAVE</th>
<th>LAFAYETTE</th>
<th>CINCINNATI</th>
<th>ELYRIA</th>
<th>KEARNS</th>
<th>STOW</th>
<th>CLEVELAND</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MIDWAY</td>
<td>MOTOR LODGE</td>
<td>REGULAR OFFICE</td>
<td>ELK RAPIDS</td>
<td>MEDINA</td>
<td>RESIDENTIAL</td>
<td>RESIDENTIAL</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LEAVE</td>
<td>LAFAYETTE</td>
<td>CINCINNATI</td>
<td>ELYRIA</td>
<td>KEARNS</td>
<td>STOW</td>
<td>CLEVELAND</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O'HARE</td>
<td>MIDWAY</td>
<td>MOTOR LODGE</td>
<td>REGULAR OFFICE</td>
<td>ELK RAPIDS</td>
<td>MEDINA</td>
<td>RESIDENTIAL</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CALL 674-6993

To O'Hare

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>LEAVE</th>
<th>LAFAYETTE</th>
<th>CINCINNATI</th>
<th>ELYRIA</th>
<th>KEARNS</th>
<th>STOW</th>
<th>CLEVELAND</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MIDWAY</td>
<td>MOTOR LODGE</td>
<td>REGULAR OFFICE</td>
<td>ELK RAPIDS</td>
<td>MEDINA</td>
<td>RESIDENTIAL</td>
<td>RESIDENTIAL</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LEAVE</td>
<td>LAFAYETTE</td>
<td>CINCINNATI</td>
<td>ELYRIA</td>
<td>KEARNS</td>
<td>STOW</td>
<td>CLEVELAND</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>O'HARE</td>
<td>MIDWAY</td>
<td>MOTOR LODGE</td>
<td>REGULAR OFFICE</td>
<td>ELK RAPIDS</td>
<td>MEDINA</td>
<td>RESIDENTIAL</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

IRISH GARDENS

---

Monday Madness

Only $7.50 for a one-item, "16" pizza with up to three toppings! One coupon per pizza. Expires in two weeks. Fast, Free Delivery

Good at listed locations.

---

Monday, May 7, 1984 — page 13
Saint Mary’s soccer club defeats ND

By JEAN CRUTCHER
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary’s soccer club ended its spring season over the weekend by capturing first place in the Notre Dame tournament. The Belles defeated Notre Dame 3-1 in the final to win the same tournament that they could only finish fourth in last year.

Saint Mary’s beat Kalamaooz 1-0 and Northwestern 3-0 to reach the finals.

Coach John Akers attributes the success of the club to the "dedication of the players and the coach. There is also a lot of competition within the team which helps to drive the players to do their best." Akers also mentioned that the support and help of the athletic department, college, and grounds crew "is appreciated and has helped the club. Instead of being shoved off behind Angela, the club has been allowed to use the Madelleva field.

This location has caused more campus interest in the sport." This past winter, Saint Mary’s hosted its first annual indoor tournament. The Belles won the consolation bracket by beating Notre Dame. Looking to next fall, Saint Mary’s will be following an intercollegiate schedule and will play such schools as Michigan, Michigan State, Northwestern, and Marquette.

Because so much interest has been shown in the sport, "there probably will be tryouts," said Akers. "We are looking forward to the return of people from foreign studies programs who we are sure will blend in well with the returning members of the team as well as new freshmen."

"We are fortunate that this year a great many freshmen joined the club and that we are only losing four seniors. We anticipate that the quality of play will improve next year and that the club will be very competitive.

Sports Briefs

All returning students should have received a "1984 football course card". Those who have not should come to the ACC ticket office by the end of the semester. — The Observer

The interhall lacrosse champion for this year is Grace, who defeated Kearnan 1-3. There were 10 teams involved this year, the first for interhall lacrosse action. — The Observer

Sports transactions this weekend included the reassigning of pitcher Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd by the Boston Red Sox to Pawtucket of the International League after his loss to the Chicago White Sox Saturday. Steve Crawford, pitcher, was recalled by the Red Sox. — AP

The ND women’s golf team defeated Evansville 720-741. Medalist for the match was Nancy Fosler of Evansville with 84-70-164. For the Irish, Angell Lloyd was 83-84-147 and Cathy Pena was 86-84-170. — The Observer

The Saint Mary’s softball team participated in the NCAA District 21 Tournament. The Belles lost their first game in the double elimination contest to Taylor, 17-8. In their second game, Saint Mary’s defeated Manchester, 7-5. Ann Day was the winning pitcher and Jenne Adams hit a three-run triple. In their final game of the season, Huntington scored all three runs in the first two innings to beat the Belles 3-2. Their record for the season is 25-5. — The Observer

The Saint Mary’s tennis team played Northeastern Illinois University, winning 7-0. Mark Seale led the way with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Kathy Cooper. — The Observer

Holy Cross crushed Dillon in the 12" softball final, 11-0. — The Observer

THIS OLD HOUSE
PIZZERIA & PUB
"BRUNO’s"

THIS MONDAY ONLY
BRUNO will deliver a 16" pizza
with 3 toppings
for only $6.95
Each additional topping
$1.00 extra
Order 2-51 off total price
Order 3-52 off total price 4 or more--$3 off total price

Mon -Thurs
4-10PM
Sat
12-4PM
Fri - Sat
4-10PM
Until 12 am
277-4519
Open Sunday
4-10 pm
277-4519

Good Things Grow in Summer

Your mind. Your credentials. Your value to yourself and the world around you.

Summer Sessions at Kent State University offer the chance for growth at one of Ohio’s most pleasant campuses with easy access to cultural, entertainment, sports, and recreation facilities among the best and most exciting available to any university in America.

Begin your college career in the nicest weather with the least distractions. Get a jump on fall.

Attend another university? Take courses at Kent State and transfer the credit.

Transfer to Kent State University and build on what you have. Earn undergraduate credit. Take graduate courses and work toward undergraduate or graduate degree while employed.

Gain graduate credits for tenure or promotion in education or business.

Grow. Enjoy again the thrill of learning, of making progress, of building a fuller life.

Send to: Director of Summer Session, Kent State University, 327 Rockwell Hall, Kent, OH 44242
YES. I want good things to grow for me this summer at Kent State University.
Name ____________________________ Home Phone ____________________________
Address ____________________________
City ____________________________ State Zip ____________________________
I am: A graduating high school senior who wants to start my college career early. A student attending another college or university who wants to take credit courses for transfer to my home school. A transfer student coming from another college to Kent State. A teacher interested in graduate credit. In sophomore or junior year.
In full-time or part-time status. In undergraduate or graduate status. A working person interested in evening and weekend classes. An adult interested in furthering education. (please)

Please send information about the following majors or degree programs:

Please send Schedule of Classes Bulletin.
Please send Undergraduate Bulletin.
Please send Graduate Bulletin.

Please send Undergraduate Catalog.
Please send Graduate Catalog.
I would commute.
I would need campus housing.
I would like to participate in summer sessions at one of the Kent State Regional Campuses.

Admissions: East (Akron) Geauga: Salem (Burton, Twinsburg, Stark (Canton)
Trumbull (Warren) Tuscarawas (New Philadelphia)

Please send information about the following majors or degree programs.

KENT STATE UNIVERSITY
Kent, Ohio 44222

SUMMER I: Five-week term, June 11-July 14
SUMMER II: Eight-week term, June 11-August 4
SUMMER III: Five-week term, July 16-August 18

Opportunity in Education and Employment.
1-216-672-3100
The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1. Thin wedge for leveling 12. Sulfur compound
2. Rescued 13. Daily
4. Shade of green 15. Artist
16. Pearl Buck heroine 17. Fertilized
18. Beam used in medicine 19. Poet
20. Tassale 21. Protection
22. Below 23. More

DOWN
1. Native: suff. 2. Withdraw
3. Meager 4. Muslim prince
5. Protection used in the tropics 6. Sea bird
7. Men’s. 8. Life-saving
9. Cognizant 10. Cover
11. Content 12. Oval
15. Far. 16. Commission
17. Transparency 18. Hospital
23. Above 24. Boat
25. House 26. At the
27. Spirit 28. Cite
29. Cognizant 30. Washing
31. Ranch cattle 32. What a
33. What a banal might hold 34. Allure
35. Cease 36. Umbrella
37. Withered 38. Cask
39. One of the terrors: abbrev.
40. Hall
41. Vonz 42. South
43. Disease of eye 44. Withdraw
45. Disease of eye 46. Withdraw
47. Cite incorrectly 48. Have a
49. Loser knot 50. Lamplight
51. Ora... 52. Standard
53. Thru... for a 54. Allow
55. Thru... for a 56. Thy... for a
57. Small children

Friday’s Solution

- DARBY’S PLACE
- FOR LATE NIGHT
- SNACKS
- Open 12-3 a.m.
- Sunday through Thursday
- at the Nazz in the
- Basement of LaFortune

Earn Money
Campus Mailman
needed for 1984-85 school year
- you must be approved by financial aid
- apply at Student Activities Board
- offices, 2nd floor, LaFortune
By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

The Notre Dame lacrosse team’s leading scorer, attackman Bob Trocchi, finished the 1984 season on Saturday with 56 goals, but none was more valuable than the 56th goal. It was his final goal with 3:38 remaining in the fourth quarter of Saturday’s contest with Michigan State that gave the Irish a hard-fought 11-10 victory over the Spartans.

The Notre Dame win, coupled with Denison’s victory over Ohio Wesleyan, earned Rich O’Leary’s squad the Midwest Lacrosse Association championship, and gave the Irish, who have no scholarships, a reasonable claim to the title of the best lacrosse team in the Midwest.

Denison ended its season with a 9-3 record, its best in its four years as a varsity sport. Its 6-1 MLA record tied it with Denison for first place in the conference; however, the Irish were awarded the championship by virtue of their 12-11 win over Denison on April 25.

Entering Saturday’s game, O’Leary and his players knew that they had to win in order to have a chance at the MLA title. They also knew that Denison had to beat Ohio Wesleyan.

About fifteen minutes after hitting the end of their season, they heard that Denison had done the same.

However, Michigan State—the team that had made the whole scenario possible in the first place by upsetting Ohio Wesleyan last week—almost ruined the Irish hopes on Carter Field. The Spartans brought their tough, physical style of play with them and made Notre Dame earn every goal it scored.

That is, except for the last one. With the score tied 10 at the end of the third quarter, Michigan State had regained the momentum of a two-goal lead. Notre Dame worked for a shot. Senior Dave Pearsell, who had scored a goal earlier in the game, took a shot, and the MSU goalie stopped easily. The ball, however, rolled out from under the netting of his stick and Trocchi, in the right place at the right time, tucked the loose ball into the net.

By ERIC SCHEUERMANN
Sports Writer

Baseball team wins three of four

Entering Saturday’s doubleheader against Huntington with a 20-21 record, Notre Dame baseball team played so well that both games were cut short before they had run their scheduled lengths.

The Irish swept the shortened twinbill at Jake Kline Field by scores of 14-4 and 14-0. Since Huntington was 1-28 last season, which is usually used only in NCAA competition, both games were brought to an abbreviated end in the fifth inning.

But while the Irish split with Lewis College, losing the first game 4-0, with Joe Dobash (2-7) taking the loss. In the nightcap, Mark Clemens (5-5) pitched Notre Dame to a 6-5 win. Their record stands at 25-22.

Against Huntington, sophomore Irish hurler Mark Warkes continued his outstanding season by pitching a six-hitter in the opener. The Irish sluggers backed him up with a run-hit, fourteen-run performance of their own.

Notre Dame put Huntington far behind from the start, as they scored four runs in the second inning and sent three more across the plate in the third. Another run in the fourth sent the Irish out to a seemingly comfortable lead.

Coach Scheurmann experienced a scare in the fifth, as Huntington cut the Irish lead in half with four runs. The Irish were able to end the game early, however, with a six-run rally in their half of the inning.

Third baseman Jim Dee ended the contest with his fourth home-run of the season, which made the score 14-0. Warkes took the win, and his record now stands at an impressive 4-0.

Ohio State tied the game three hours later, including his home-run and a double, and drove in four runs. Mike Mertzer continued to follow up against pitching, as he went 2-2 with two doubles and a 4 RBI. Outfielder Mike Trude contributed a double and two singles.

The Irish won the second game even more handily than the first. While they slugged fourteen and scored another fourteen runs, hurler Paul Johnson pitched out Huntington on five hits.

Two runs crossed the plate for the Irish in the first inning, but that was nothing compared to what would happen in their half of the third. A power display by the Irish in this inning led to a nine-run outburst.

Both Vogus and Metzler hit homers to highlight the inning. With this show of offensive firepower, the Irish increased their lead to 11-0. Another three runs in the fourth seemed to ice the game for the Irish at 14-0. While the Irish batters tore the cover off the ball, pitcher Schomer allowed Huntington nothing. He benefited from outstanding defensive plays in the first inning, and by Steve Passement in the second.

Huntington’s only threat came in the third, when they loaded the bases with one out. After Huntington could not score in the fifth, the game was called a 14-0 victory for the Irish.

When the Irish returned from the brink of the ball, pitcher Schomer allowed Huntington nothing. He benefited from outstanding defensive plays in the first inning, and by Steve Passement in the second.

Huntington’s only threat came in the third, when they loaded the bases with one out. After Huntington could not score in the fifth, the game was called a 14-0 victory for the Irish.

When the Irish returned from the brink of the ball, pitcher Schomer allowed Huntington nothing. He benefited from outstanding defensive plays in the first inning, and by Steve Passement in the second.

Huntington’s only threat came in the third, when they loaded the bases with one out. After Huntington could not score in the fifth, the game was called a 14-0 victory for the Irish.

When the Irish returned from the brink of the ball, pitcher Schomer allowed Huntington nothing. He benefited from outstanding defensive plays in the first inning, and by Steve Passement in the second.

Huntington’s only threat came in the third, when they loaded the bases with one out. After Huntington could not score in the fifth, the game was called a 14-0 victory for the Irish.
Box : 18
Volume : 18
Issue : 142
Day : Fri
Date : 5/18/1984 12:00:00 AM
Notes :
Issue # Missing (may not exist) :
Issue # Missing (probably not published) :
2,870 to receive degrees at commencements

Sun. at Notre Dame
By MARC RAMIREZ
Assistant News Editor

Loret Miller Ruppe, director of the Peace Corps, will deliver the commencement address to a record 2,415 graduating students Sunday afternoon at Notre Dame's 139th commencement exercises. Graduation ceremonies will begin at 2 in the arena of the Athletic and Convocation Center.

Graduates include 1,858 candidates for the bachelor's degree in the Colleges of Arts and Letters, Science, Business Administration and Engineering; 73 students for Ph.D. degrees and 191 for master's degrees in the Graduate School; 162 students for J.D. degrees in the Law School; and 131 for the MBA degree.

Thirty-eight MBA degree recipients are members of the University's first graduating class in the College of Business Administration's executive MBA program. The class, which enrolled in August 1982, is composed of business and professional persons from the Michiana area who continued their careers while pursuing studies.

In addition to Ruppe, seven others will receive honorary doctor of laws degrees: Monsignor John Egan, director of human relations and ecumenism for the Archdiocese of Chicago; Dr. Jorge Prieto, general secretary of the National Council of Churches of Christ; and Frank C. O'Brien, president of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company; Sullivan, a Notre Dame alumnus and trustee who is president of the Minnesota Mutual Insurance Company; Sister Olivia Marie Barchesio, Superior General of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, and Edward W. Wilmot, vice president and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Company; Sister Orlivia Marie Barchesio, Superior General of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, and Edward W. Wilmot, vice president and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Company.

Other honorary degree recipients include Robert Beck, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Company; Sister Olivia Marie Barchesio, Superior General of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, and Edward W. Wilmot, vice president and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Company; Sister Orlivia Marie Barchesio, Superior General of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, and Edward W. Wilmot, vice president and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Company.

A graduate of the College of Saint Catherine, McCarthy received her master's degree from the University of Minnesota and has done graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley.

The missing Knute Rockne statue from the lobby of the Rockne Memorial is resting comfortably on a Florida beach, according to a ransom note that accompanied this photograph.

Sat. at Saint Mary's
By ANNE MONASTYRSKI
Saint Mary's Editor

Nurses Pinning Ceremony, Baccalaureate Mass, a perform­ance of 'Godspell' by the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Theatre group and a cocktail party are among the commencement activities which will take place today at Saint Mary's.

During Saint Mary's 137th commencement ex­ercises, 495 members of the class of 1984 will receive their bachelor's degrees. Commencement begins at 10:30 a.m. May 19 in the Court of Leman Hall. In case of rain, graduation will take place in Angela Athletic Facility.

Nurses Pinning Ceremony begins this afternoon at 1 in the Church of Loreto. The procession for the Bac­calaureate Mass begins at 5:30 on the upper level of Angela. The Mass begins at 6.

Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Theatre will present 'Godspell' tonight at 8 in O'Laughlin Auditorium preceded by a cocktail party from 7 p.m. to 8 a.m. at the Century Center. The soft rock band from Chicago, "Transition," will perform at the reception.

Abigail McCarthy — winner, ex-counselor and women's rights advocate — will deliver the commencement address during commencement exercises on May 19. She will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Other honorary degree recipients include Robert Be­ck, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Company; Sister Olivia Marie Barchesio, Superior General of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, and Edward W. Wilmot, vice president and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Company; Sister Orlivia Marie Barchesio, Superior General of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, and Edward W. Wilmot, vice president and chief executive officer of the Prudential Insurance Company.

A graduate of the College of Saint Catherine, McCarthy received her master's degree from the University of Minnesota and has done graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley.

Ransom message demands beer in return for stolen Rockne bust

By MARGARET FOSMOE and JEFF HARRINGTON
News Editors

Knute Rockne is alive and well and basking in the Florida sun­shine, according to a ransom note delivered yesterday to the Observer office.

The message was the first received since the bronze bust of the famous Notre Dame football coach disappeared from its pedes­tal in the Rockne Memorial two weeks ago.

The note, which indicated the bust would not be returned "till the students have their beer," was addressed to "Father Ted" and signed "Bock." A photograph accompanying the note showed the bust sunning on a beach, sur­rounded by a keg of beer, a portable stereo and a frisbee.

Administrators say the note is the first bit of information received concerning the whereabouts of the stolen statue. "You can turn (the note) over to Security for material evidence," chuckled Director of Information Services Richard Conklin.

A major investigation has not been launched into the case of the kidnapped coach, although Security is looking for leads, according to Glenn Terry, director of security. "I think we'd like to get it back since it's part of the Univer­sity," he noted.

Dr. Schringer, the security investigator assigned to the case, echoed the University's wish to recover the bust soon. "I'm hoping it will turn up when graduation runs up. It's got a lot of sentimental value to the University... It's not so much the monetary value.

The statue, approximately two feet tall and two feet broad at the base, was mysteriously hoisted from its perch in the foyer of the building on the night of May 3. The only clue left at the scene of the crime was a note: "I'll be back when there's a real administra­tion." Conklin said.

Another clue to the bust may be the miniature statue of Father Mar­ian Sorin located in Sorin Hall, which is not taking either.

The Sorin statue has been the victim of several abductions during the last 30 years. The Rockne statue-snatchers may have been inspired by recent articles in Notre Dame Magazine, The Oth­erwise and the South Bend Tribune concerning the colorful history of the Sorin statue, say ad­ministrators.

Several undergraduates abscended with the Sorin statute in 1952. The students asked friends who were traveling overseas to send postcards signed "Father Sorin" to administrators from such places as Rome, London and Tokyo.

The Sorin statue was restored at the end of that year, but remained the victim of frequent unau­thorized markups for another decade. The statue was stolen again in the early 1960s and not returned until 1972, when Father James Burchell learned of the statue's location and demanded its return.

see ROCKNE, page 4
The Notre Dame endowment is the largest* of any American Catholic institution of higher learning and the 19th largest among all the nation’s colleges and universities. Notre Dame’s endowment was listed at $279,112,000 as of June 30, 1983, the date of the survey by the National Association of College and University Business Officers. This was up 8.5% from June 30, 1982. The closest Catholic institution to Notre Dame was Loyola University Chicago, with $70.9 million. Harvard University was first with $2.4 billion, with the University of Texas close behind at $2.1 billion. — The Observer

Thirty-four Notre Dame alumni are presidents of American colleges, universities and research institutes, according to the Alumni Office. Ten of these men, including six priests and one brother, hold such positions, as do twelve women, including ten sisters. About five percent of Notre Dame’s alumni body, or 3,500 persons, are involved in higher education. Seventy-five are deans and 151 are heads of academic departments. The vast majority of the survey held faculty or administrative positions. — The Observer

A $100,000 gift to establish a special University Library collection of books on international marketing and finance has been recently received at Notre Dame. The collection was made possible by Peter Pillau, president of the Pillau Cabinet Company in Swanston, Ohio. Pillau is a member of Notre Dame’s advisory council for University Libraries. According to Father Theodore Hedburgh, university president, “The Pillau family’s generosity will enhance the quality of our library’s and of business education at Notre Dame. The benefits derived from this collection by Notre Dame students will affect the future career of the international commerce in multinational and here-by extending the reach of the name of the Pillau family will all always be associated.” The Pillau Family Endowed Collection in International Marketing and Finance is the seventh endowed library collection at Notre Dame. — The Observer

Dr. Elmil Hofmann, professor of chemistry and dean of the Freshman Year of Studies at Notre Dame, has been named one of the nation’s top 25 professors in a competition sponsored by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. Hofmann, who received his Ph.D. from Notre Dame in 1962, has taught at the University since 1968. He was estimated to have 26,000 students as his alumni of his freshman general chemistry course. Since his appointment in 1971 as dean of the Freshman Year, Hofmann has supervised a first-year orientation and counseling program that has kept freshmen at retention to less than 2 percent. — The Observer

Engineering Dean Emeritus Dr. Joseph Hogan of Notre Dame has been elected a fellow of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) for his contributions to engineering education. Hogan was one of 134 members chosen as fellows from the total membership of 250,000. He spoke on behalf of the new fellows during the IEEE EOS ’84 meeting in Boston. — The Observer

Sister Marietta Starick, rector of Lyons Hall at Notre Dame, has been appointed assistant director for student life at the Center for Social Concerns. According to Convent Director Father Don McNeil, S.J., Starick will begin work at the Center in August, has been rector of Lyons Hall since 1979. She received a Master of Ministry degree from Notre Dame in 1980, and for the past three years has coordinated the Department of Theology’s Theology and Life Center, and served on the teaching team of two theology department courses, “Theology and Community Service” and “The Church and Social Concerns.” She will replace Sister Judith Anne Beavert, who is planning to travel to the Holy Cross Sisters’ mission in Bangladesh and become involved in the Order’s formation work. — The Observer

Weather
Partly cloudy and warm today in the area. Partly cloudy and mild tonight with a 50 percent chance for thunderstorms. Low in the mid and upper 70’s. Partly cloudy tomorrow with a 30 percent chance for thunderstorms. High in the upper 70’s. — The Observer

Thank you, Mom and Dad

Dear Mom and Dad,

Four years ago, with teary eyes and heavy hearts, you put me on an airplane bound for Chicago. None of us realized it at the time, but you were sending me on a fantastic journey, one packed with learning, growth and happiness. Now that the journey is almost over, it’s time for me to thank you for the wonderful gift you have given me. I explain to you why I will always love Notre Dame and tell you why I am better off now than I was then.

As we walk around campus this weekend, the school’s aesthetic qualities will strike you. The Dome stands as an enduring symbol of Notre Dame and its students. The Quads, with their blooming flowers (even though they were just planted last week), green grass and freshly painted silver sidewalk posts. Believe me, the campus isn’t always this beautiful. Midwest winters certainly take their toll. In fact, the campus looks better right now than it does all year.

Yes, the beauty of our campus is quite apparent. But many colleges have beautiful campuses. So, what makes Notre Dame special? first of all, Notre Dame graduates. They are special, I think. But I don’t think anyone can spend four years at Notre Dame without thanking the loving, caring friends I’ve made here. They’ve helped me through difficult times, and let me help them through theirs. I can’t wait for you to meet them this weekend.

And that’s why I can’t wait to graduate without thanking you. You were the best the graduates in their lives beyond Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s.

I hope you enjoy my graduation and realize I am proud to be your son.

Love,

Sincerely

David Dziedzic
1983-84 Editor-in-Chief
Inside Friday

This is the last issue of Volume XVIII of The Observer. We wish the best of the graduates in their lives beyond Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s.

United Limo

CALL 674-6993 To O’Hare

CALL 674-6993 From O’Hare

For More Information

* Limited availability. All reservations are required.

Dr. Joseph Hogan

The Observer (ISSN 0148-3534) is published biweekly through fall and spring, and monthly during summer sessions by the Observer, student publication of the University of Notre Dame, South Bend, Indiana 46656. All rights reserved. No reproduction is permitted without written permission from the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s. The Observer is published annually, August 1 to July 31, by the Observer, student publication of the University of Notre Dame, South Bend, Indiana 46656. All rights reserved. No reproduction is permitted without written permission from the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s.
We are pleased to announce the following 1984 graduates of Saint Mary's College have recently become associated with our firm:

Computer Systems

- Arthur Andersen & Co.
- 33 W. Monroe Street, Chicago Ill. 60603
- (312) 580-0033

Starting salary $17,500 plus medical benefits, travel, and rapid advancement.

For further information call: 277-7161 or 259-2166

You Can be a Navy Pilot

The Navy will train you!

Must be a qualified college graduate or be within 18 months of graduation, under age 29 (30 for veterans)

There are other Navy career opportunities available in:

- Systems Inventory Management
- Acquisition Contracting
- Computer Systems
- Financial Management
- Nuclear Engineering
- Flight Surgeon

Starting salary $17,500 plus medical benefits, travel, and rapid advancement.

For More Information or Appointment Call:

Navy Officer Programs at

1-800-382-9782

Valedictorians say they never liked they were missing anything

By THERESA GUARDINO
Assistant News Editor

The 1983-84 valedictorians at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's may have achieved near or perfect 4.0s, but neither thinks that he or she has missed out on anything as a result.

"I didn't give up anything on the weekends," said Nicholas Giampietro, Notre Dame's valedictorian. "During the week, there wasn't much to do anyway."

Saint Mary's Gretchen Meyer feels the same way. "I didn't set out to be valedictorian, so I never felt like I was missing anything."

Meyer, from St. Louis, Mo., will graduate from Saint Mary's with two degrees: a bachelor of science in chemistry, and a bachelor of arts in Humanistic Studies.

Giampietro, from Glenview, Ill., is enrolled in the College of Business Administration, and will receive his B.B.A. with a concentration in accounting. His grade point average after seven semesters was 4.0.

Both students were active in other areas besides academics during the past four years. Meyer played varsity basketball freshman and sophomore year, and has been an R.A. in Holy Cross for the past two years. She was also active in Campus Ministry and the Alcohol Education Council.

Giampietro was president of the Notre Dame chapter of Beta Alpha Si, an accounting honors society, and a member of the sophomore advisory council. He also participated in Dillon Hall government.

Neither valedictorian has a secret for success to offer. "Being organized was the only thing that helped me," said Giampietro. "I just kept to my schedule and never blew anything off before a test."

Meyer saw earning two degrees as a natural accomplishment. "I came to Saint Mary's as a chemistry major, but didn't want to take only science classes," she said. "I was taking other courses and decided I might as well take the Humanistic Studies major."

Gretchen Meyer
Nicholas Giampietro

Egan suggests they will meet soon, however, and planning will take great strides over the summer.

The new Center for Spirituality is a response to "the searching of people for the inner life," says Egan.

Egan sees the new project as an aid for both the Saint Mary's and Notre Dame communities, helping individuals form active lives built upon the foundation of this "inner life."

The center also has another task in mind, says Egan, the development of the women's movement in the Church.

"We want to prepare women for future roles of leadership in the Church," he says.

The South Bend-Mishawaka Valleyaires
Barbershop Chorus

Rehearsals every Monday at 8:00 PM
Cathedral of St. James
117 N. Lafayette
South Bend

For further information call: 277-7161 or 259-2166

WANTED!!

Men Who Like to Sing!
Prize pupils honored at SMC convocation

By ANNE MONASTYRSKI
Saint Mary’s Editor

Several Saint Mary's students and two faculty members were honored during the annual Honors Convocation May 7 on O’Hagan Auditorium. Awards were presented to some seniors and students from all classes with consistent averages of 3.8 or better.

Dr. William Hawk, assistant professor of philosophy, received the Maria Pieta Award in recognition of his skill, dedication and excellence in teaching in lower division courses. Dr. Donald Hornung, professor of sociology, was given the Spes Unica Award for excellence in research and service to the College.

Hawk, who joined the Saint Mary’s faculty in 1976, received his bachelor’s degree at Bluffton College in 1972 and earned a master’s degree from Eastern Mennonite College in 1974. He received another master’s degree, and his Ph.D. from Vanderbilt University in 1978.

Hornung, who has been a Saint Mary’s faculty member since 1970, graduated from Kalamazoo in 1952. He received his master’s degree from Indiana University in 1957 and completed his Ph.D. there in 1963.

Saturday continued from page 1
University of Chicago. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, McCarthy has received six honorary doctorates.

Beck, who served in the first Executive in Residence at Saint Mary’s in 1982, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from the College.

Hutchison received her bachelor’s degree in nursing from Saint Mary’s College, a master’s degree at Lake City and her master’s degree in hospital administration from Saint Louis University.

Hutchison, who has served two six-year terms as General Counselor, will receive an honorary doctorate of humanities.

Wooden will receive an honorary doctorate of fine arts degree. A member of the American Institute of Architects (AIA) College of Fellows, Wooden designed the award-winning Cushwa-Leighton Library.

Wooden received both his bachelor’s and master’s degrees from Yale University.

McLaughlin, a resident of Santa Barbara, Calif, has been involved in several professional and service organizations since her graduation from Saint Mary’s in 1932. She served as project director for the promotion of education for parenthood in the California secondary schools, a program aimed at reducing emotional disability child abuse and teen pregnancy by requiring both men and women high school students to take a class in effective parenting.

Rockne continued from page 1 return.

The Rockne bust was created by Nixon Tregor in 1940, three years after the Memorial was completed.

The weight of the statue is unknown, but Schellinger estimates it required at least two people to remove the sculpture from its bollard pedestal and carry it away.

Decrying the “just the normal student prank,” Schellinger said she had a feeling the statue would turn up. “Notre Dame is known Rockne and everyone loves him. It’s a shame,” she said, shaking her head.

Commencement Weekend Activities

Saint Mary’s Friday
Nursing Pinning Ceremony, 1 p.m., Church of Loretto
Proclamation of the Baccalaureate Mass, 3:30 p.m., upper level of Angela Athletic Facility
Baccalaureate Mass, 4 p.m., Angela Athletic Facility
Cocktail Party, 10 a.m.-2 p.m., Carver Center
Commencement Exercises, 10 a.m., Courtyard of Loretto Hall
(Angela Athletic Facility)

Saint Mary’s Sunday
Nursing Pinning Ceremony, 1 p.m., Church of Loretto
Proclamation of the Baccalaureate Mass, 9 a.m., ACC Baccalaureate Mass, 9:30 a.m., ACC, South Dome
Cocktail Party and Buffet Supper, 10:30 a.m., ACC
Commencement Exercises, 2 p.m., ACC, South Dome
Law School Diploma Ceremony, 5 p.m., Sacred Heart Church

Prize pupils honored at SMC convocation

continued from page 1

Junior Kathleen Curran, was awarded the Saint Catherine’s Medal. The medal is presented annually by the Kappa Gamma Pi chapter to a junior or sophomore who has shown service and leadership while maintaining a high academic average.

A government and history major, Curran served as the Saint Mary’s editor of the monthly magazine, Scholastic. She is a member of the Hall Council, Phi Alpha Theta and the Notre Dame Pre-Law Society and serves as a resident advisor in Holy Cross Hall.

Curran also works as a volunteer at Logan Center and the Neighborhood Study Help Program.

Other awards and their recipients included: Mother Rose Award in Biology, Amy Tarter; George and Juanda Buck Niece Award, Sheila Logan; Outstanding Achievement in Accounting, Janet Alberti; Economics, Elaine Hockett; Finance, Denise Ellington; Management, Elizabeth Jones; Marketing, Cecile Curry; International Business, Ann Huber; Department of Business Administration and Economics Achievement Award, Janet Alberti; Department of Business Administration and Economics Faculty Award, Cecile Curry; Wall Street Journal Award, Elaine Hockett; American Institute of Chemists Award, Gretchen Anne Meyer.

Also the Mother Rose Elizabeth Award in Chemistry went to Carrie M. Skwowski, F. Theresa Chisholm; Outstanding Achievement in Performing Arts, Elizabeth Quinn; McDonald Award for Excellence in Elementary Education, Susan Amni; English Prize, Sarah Wilmott; Humanitarian Award, Evelyn McGruen; Award for Achievement in Mathematics, Anne Mikos; Award for Musical Excellence, June Zwer¬neman, Evelyn McGruen; Award for Excellence in Nursing, Elizabeth Kloska; Humanitarian Award; Kris Higg; Senior Scholarship Award in Sociology, Theresa Gove; Senior Achievement Award in Sociology, Kathy Domencient.
The Top Ten News Stories of 1983-84

Irish Fightin' Mad About Policy

The golden Dome was stormed by outraged students after the release of the Committee for the Responsible Use of Alcohol's report. More than 2,500 students charged the building after a student government-organized protest rally. Other forms of student protest included a sit-in and a spontaneous nocturnal gathering outside Corby Hall, the home of University President Father Theodore Hesburgh. The policy restricted the use of alcohol by the students.

Hall Foodsales Shut Down

Mary hungry students didn't know where their next pita was coming from when the Office of Student Affairs shut down the residence hall foodsales after several were found to be unsanitary by the Campus Environmental Health and Safety Department. The student-run foodsales were later allowed to reopen after the administration produced sanitation guidelines for the foodsales to maintain.

Saint Mary's Housing Reversal

The women of Saint Mary's proved that you really can fight city hall when the school's administration announced that approximately 100 rooms would be blocked off for incoming freshmen. College President John Duggan held an open meeting with more than 500 angry students and in an eleventh-hour decision reversed the policy.

An Tostal Investigation

The topic of spring was on everybody's mind in the middle of winter this year but not necessarily the topic of spring break. An Tostal, the annual spring student celebration, ran into a snag after it was discovered that last year's managing committee could not account for almost $4,000. Some of the committee members attributed the overpending to the lack of control, waste and poor planning. One member questioned whether all of the money was spent directly for An Tostal.

New Final Exam Policy Set

Final exams became even more of a headache for students when the Academic Council changed the final exams policy prohibiting exemptions for graduating seniors. Exams must be weighted between one-fifth and one-half of the semester grade according to the new policy. Another amendment passed by the council states that two-hour final exams are mandatory unless an exception is approved by the chairman of the department and reviewed by the dean.

Alumnus Ineligible For Award

Harold Augustine, an alumnus who became a campus celebrity by being quoted in The Observer as saying: "A west campus is a happy campus," was declared ineligible for the Senior Fellow Award by the four-member student award committee. The senior class failed to cast enough votes for any of the other candidates and consequently did not elect a Fellow this year. Augustine was elected Senior Buddy, an award quickly organized after he was not allowed to receive the Fellow award.

Yale Recipes Questioned

A recipe file bought from Yale University for $20,000 was criticized by some dining hall cooks because they claimed some recipes didn't work and were a waste of the University's money. Food Services Director Bill Hickey defended the purchase saying it was the best recipe system in the country. Other schools who purchased the same file claimed they also had problems with it.
Campus gay community seeks acceptance

Michael Brennan

And so it went

United States’ “first use” strategy, opposes the deployment of “first strike” weapons (MAD, Pershing II) and calls for nuclear disarmament or a second horizontal proliferation.

Recognizing man’s unprecedented capability for nuclear self-amplification, the bishops stress that the entire human race is “in a moment of supreme crisis,” and that a “moral option” is urgently needed:

“...policies about nuclear war...” is urgently needed:

- Decision about nuclear war must involve fundamental moral criteria (defending life, protecting freedom, etc.) cannot justify immoral means (the use of weapons with genocidal effect). Despite these criteria threaten whole society:

- Peacemaking is not an optional commitment. It is a requirement of our faith.

As a prominent Catholic university, Notre Dame has a special responsibility to take clear, strong leadership in confronting the many moral questions presented by nuclear war..."...In essence, the danger of nuclear war..." Education is essential. In this area, Notre Dame has established the “Nuclear Dilemma” course and has created peace studies as a second major.

Beyond education, the bishops letter is a call to Action for Catholics. It is not enough to publicly denounce nuclear war with words.

We are called to integrate our rejection of nuclear confrict into our personal lives in the church community.

We must take concrete actions that express our belief—acts of Christian witness and witness in our personal lives to the church community.

It is within this context that the current question of Notre Dame’s endowment holdings in nuclear defense contractors must be viewed. How and whether Notre Dame, with its $250 million endowment, can claim to be truly Catholic is a question that will continue. Notre Dame recognizes this, as evidenced by the investment guidelines established in 1979 to limit holdings in U.S. firms doing business in the Union of South Africa. Five years ago trustees agreed to abide by the Sullivan Principles, which disbarred investment in that racist nation. The trustees decision was a clear rejection of apartheid held on moral grounds.

The question of University investments in nuclear defense industries also allows us to assume our responsibilities as Catholics, to re-examine our priorities. The effect of adopting guidelines limiting such investments would not stop the arms race or improve United States-Russia relations.

Such an adoption would..."...may be symbolic expression and..."...is our collective moral commitment to creating a safer world for our grandchildren...

We would be recognizing the simple fact that the nuclear threat to our nation and the threat of communism to the sovereignty of the United States, and that in this nuclear overall, more missiles no longer buy..."...our joint efforts to meet nuclear war..."...is not enough to publicly confront nuclear war with words. It is important to continue to work to ensure that our church..."...is our collective moral commitment to..."...involves the feasibility of..."...divestment in industries which..."...in our nuclear arms race. Early definitional problems (that..."...or nuclear war..."...or nuclear weapons systems..."...not, we agree with the..."...University Investments..."...in nuclear war..."...and some support systems..."...This proposal, approved by the Student Senate in February, covers only six corporations: Boeing, Lockheed, General Dynamics, Rockwell International, F.G. G. and Martin Marietta.

It appears that of those six, the University only has holdings in Boeing (which is developing the MX and cruise missiles). Divestment in these firms would be of symbolic significance, but such a move would fall far short of the purpose of Notre Dame’s commitment to world peace.
Viewpoint

Letting go most difficult

It worked. God knew how, but it worked. A career at Notre Dame commencement four years ago as a soon-to-be freshman, will graduate Sunday, carrying with him the best and the worst of Notre Dame.

The four years were a comedy of errors, filled with what he thought wrong turns, in-decision and unrealized dreams.

His freshman and sophomore years found him in Old College and Moreau Seminary first with a roommate. But then, as a junior he searched a vast desert to find himself — from the harsh reality of off-campus life, to living with the best 48-hour friends he’s ever known, to campus life with two roommates he despised before learning to overlook his own pettiness, to live with his roommate from freshman year who also left the seminary.

He chose to major in philosophy and computer applications early that year. After failing in his try to become a resident assistant, he reluctantly took a job with the campus newspaper — a job he really did not want at the time. On his first day of work, he came within inches of telling his boss he didn’t want the job.

As luck would have it, he now finds himself looking for work in journalism with an education major. As a soon-to-be freshman, he will graduate Sunday, first with a room mate, then alone. As a junior, the important years of his life, filled with what he thought wrong turns, in-decision and unrealized dreams.

As he was about to graduate, he got a letter from Father Ted, one of the president who had hailed to every senior on campus to defend himself. He spoke of “Surge,” not Sergeant Pepper’s Lonely Hearts Band. He went out of his way to say that Lorent Ruppe, a woman who deserves an honorary degree or the National Book Award, is only one of many students that have come to appreciate the feelings his parents must have had four years ago when they kissed him goodbye.

Keith Picher

Death of profundity

Notre Dame this weekend is sending out the movers and shakers of tomorrow’s world. We have many roads to travel, the ones we choose are not as important as the way in which we choose to travel them.

Randy Fahn

Final Analysis

We can take things for ourselves to enrich our own lives — we will have the power, influence and money to do so — but will we demonstrate respect for others? Will we prove that we are truly thankful for all the good things which have come to us?

Keith Picher

One more chance

We have been touched in a great way by our friends at Notre Dame, maybe even more than we think, and it doesn’t seem fair that we have, to go our separate ways.

That’s the real world, though. If one person is offered a job in California and his friend gets accepted to law school in Boston, they have to assume that they will not be seeing each other for awhile.

But because we graduate and go our separate ways, though, there is no excuse for our losing touch with college friends. Unforeseen circumstances may prevent us from being able to find each other, but we should make an effort to stay in contact. We should make an effort to keep in touch with our friends until one day even our best friends might call us and say that we should just be a name on a Christmas card list.

Right now it is easy to say that we’ll keep in touch with our friends. After four years, we probably won’t have too many friends nearby when we graduate. But saying this now doesn’t mean that we will do new friends. Do we just let our old friends slide gracefully out of our mind?

Examine your parents. In most cases, they no longer communicate with old friends. They might talk about them every once in a while, but their friends have become just characters from your past.

The movie, The Big Chill, is a good example of what has become standard post-graduate life. In the movie, a group of close college friends lose touch with each other until they come together by the death of a member of the group. The years in-between had brought many changes to the group. The movie ends as group members still wonder why their friend took his own life.

We should also be able to think that it would take something like a death to reunite our friends and me. I would also have to think that the group would have a chance to come together one last time and have a huge ball game, the traditional Notre Dame reunion. Who wants to talk about football with someone you haven’t seen for a year or more?

What’s there to do, then? Well, about “dropping a line” every now and then? Writing letters, no matter the length, has close to a lot. I could take just a few on the company of your personal satisfaction gained from such interactions.

Love and life are the two greatest gifts which we are endowed with by the Creator. We have but one world in which to live. Let us share it so that one day everyone might enjoy all the good things we ourselves enjoy.

Letters can keep together friends far apart

Michael Sullivan

Education calls us to share with others our talents

After all the fun, disappointment, studies and maturation, this year’s seniors must leave the place that has been home for four very important years of their lives. Unfortunately, they must also leave the friends they have made during their stay under the Golden Dome.

The Observer

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief

Robert Schenkel

Managing Editor

Bob Vonderheide

Executive Editor

Margaret Foosmo

News Editor

Sarah Hamilton

Sports Editor

Dan McCullough

Viewpoint Editor

Anne Monastyri

Features Editor

Dan Droste

Photo Editor

Mary Healy

Pete Lachan

Department Managers

Business Manager

Dave Tackett

Comptroller

Carol Horne

Advertising Manager

Jeanie Poole

Circulation Manager

Jeff Ohnell

Systems Manager

Kevin Williams

Founded November 3, 1966

Bob Kennedy always believed that although people might not be able to change the world, one person could make a difference.

When you give of yourself you always get more in return, maybe not in dollars and cents, but in the knowledge that you have made a contribution. I hope you will bring to New Orleans not only because of those I hold dear, but because of the very persons I claim I detest. Truly, New Orleans makes for odd bedfellows, and you have taught me to revel in the absurdity of it all.

As I leave Notre Dame, I hope to leave with those who remained here some semblance of the Notre Dame family. I hope to correct for individuals you instilled within me.

Love,

[Signature]

Dan McCullough

Roper Review

pender lives — you without a spouse, me without siblings.

Because of our lifestyle, I doubt it ever there were a time you did not understand me. As a child, I climbed for my identity. And yes, you, my parents, were always able to turn my head away from success, which I know you wanted. As a young adult I now hope to fulfill.

And self-reliance, I was what my parents termed "rebels," but I was no rebel. I was simply a ridiculously selfish teenager in love with myself. You, even the more self-confident strategists, brought my parents and me together by turning me from within myself.

As an older teenager, I began to lose self-confidence. You, along with my parents, taught me to trust my abilities. I was discussing personal experiences with you, and just mousing your lawn, you gave me the chance to recognize my worth as an individual.

Bobby Kennedy always believed that although people might not be able to change the world, one person could make a difference.

When you give of yourself you always get more in return, maybe not in dollars and cents, but in the knowledge that you have made a contribution. I hope you will bring to New Orleans not only because of those I hold dear, but because of the very persons I claim I detest. Truly, New Orleans makes for odd bedfellows, and you have taught me to revel in the absurdity of it all.

As I leave Notre Dame, I hope to leave with those who remained here some semblance of the Notre Dame family. I hope to correct for individuals you instilled within me.

Love,

[Signature]
A "stress fracture is an awful experience for someone," says Del rifano, "for a competitive kid like Jenny, it's probably one of the worst things that could happen. There's no sign of injury before this, no definite convoluted period. She probably would've played one game real hard and for the next four days she'd be dying. In a lot of respects, it has been a real difficult four years for Jen- ney. She's a good, dedicated athlete, but there are some things just didn't work out the way she wanted — the way a lot of us wanted." I never knew what the injuries would start up again," explains Klauke. "They acted up a lot and I don't think I handled them as well as I could have. I'd get too emotional and let things get out of hand. But, when I look back, I think there was nothing compared to what happened to Monica (Rotter). You have to ask yourself, why did that happen to her and not to me? At least for me." It is precisely this thinking that made Klauke's Notre Dame career a success. These have been four really im- portant years for me in my life," she says. "I've made some really good friends, and I still love basketball. But, after all, I never would have come here if it wasn't for basketball." Ironically, Klauke's basketball career is not over. She is moving to Ireland after graduation to play and coach amateur basketball in Ireland. It will give her the chance to show the ability she never had, and it gave her a chance to show at Notre Dame.

Thanks to you... it works... for ALL OF US

United Way

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of Labreche Student Center, accepts classified ads Monday thru Friday. The Observer Notre Dame's office, located on the third floor of Biever Hall Student Center, accepts classified ads Monday thru Friday. The Observer Notre Dame is published daily except Sunday. All classifieds must be prepaid, either in person or by mail. Charge is 10 cents per character.

Commemoration Issue, 1984 — page 8

The Observer
Hurricanes Blow Away Irish
The low point of the Gerry Faust era came on a hot Miami night in late September when the eventual national champion Miami Hurricanes embarrassed the Irish, 20-0, on national television. The Hurricanes physically and verbally abused the Notre Dame players, who were trying to rebound from a loss to Michigan State the week before. The Irish proceeded to win five in a row after the Miami debacle, but never beat a team with a winning record until the Liberty Bowl.

Irish Proceeded to Win Five in a Row

Volleyball Program Upgraded
When it was reported that the athletic department was upgrading the volleyball program by hiring former Stanford coach Art Lamberti and increasing the number of scholarships to the NCAA maximum of 12, there was probably little reaction from those outside the department. However, the announcement was very important for the fate of Notre Dame's minor sports, and especially the women's sports. If any minor sport is going to make waves, volleyball is going to have to be it. If it fails, the other minor sports may also suffer.

Sports

Fencers Upset National Champs
What's Notre Dame's most successful sports program? Mike DeCicco's fencing program wins by a mile. Once again, the fencers made their annual run at the national championship. They fell just short again this year, finishing third in the NCAA Tournament, but made a big mark during the season by defeating eventual national champion Wayne State in the Great Lakes Championship. The win could be an omen for the next few years, as nearly every fencer will return next year.

Sports

Macri's Wins Bookstore Again
Bookstore Basketball has become the third major sport at Notre Dame. For the second straight year, 512 teams competed (22 more were on a waiting list). Also for the second straight year, Macri's Deli emerged as the winner. Macri's, comprised of Joe Sweeney, Larry Cuculic, Steve Toshall, Bubba Cunningham, and Barry Foy, used superior teamwork and a pressure defense to beat Tequila White Lightning, 21-12, in the finals.

Sports

Lacrosse Team Wins MLA
In its fourth year as a varsity sport, the Irish lacrosse team emerged as champion of the Midwest Lacrosse Association. Rich O'Leary's squad ended the season with a 8-1 league record (9-5 overall), finishing in a tie with Denison. Notre Dame was awarded the championship because it defeated Denison, 11-9, during the season. The Irish, led by Bob Trocchi's 56 goals, won their last six games to take the title.

Sports
Irish tennis team placed third in NCA A tournament by LARKYBURKE Sports Writer

Continued improvement has been the trade mark of the Notre Dame women's tennis team in the course of its seven-year history, and the 1984-85 season was certainly no exception to that trend.

For the second year in a row, the women's team placed third in the NCAA Division II national championship tournament. But even though they failed to achieve their goal of a national championship, the Irish continued to build confidence as they posted their best record ever, finishing 23-4 overall (852). They posted a 13-4 mark in the home court.

"This is the best team I've ever coached," said Irish coach Sharon Petros. "The players displayed a superior attitude, one of hard work and determination. We made a marked improvement from our last season, and we had a lot of fun doing it."

"As far as the tournament goes, I have no regrets. That was the highest peak for my players. A lot of things were going to be used in the program (we played it all), we played well. It just wasn't enough."

One factor that worked against Notre Dame was the weather. Rain caused several matches to be delayed or moved indoors. When it wasn't raining, the weather was extremely hot and humid, something that the Irish are obviously not accustomed to.

The quality of competition also conflicted the pressure on Notre Dame. Because they were seeded high in the tournament, they had a difficult road to the championship, facing top-seeded Tennessee-Chattanooga in the second round. The fact that the tournament finishes were held in Chattanooga didn't make things any easier.

The Irish defeated Denver 8-1 in the first round of the tournament on Monday, May 7, but then fell to eventual national champion Tennessee-Chattanooga 6-3. Fatigue was undoubtedly a contributing factor in Notre Dame's defeat, because the two matches were played back-to-back. The Irish opened play with Denver at 9 a.m. and didn't finish the Tennessee-Chattanooga match until 10 p.m.

The pressure of final exams was another problem for Petros' squad. This was most evident in Tuesday's third round, where Notre Dame defeated California Davis 5-4 to capture third place. After taking a 5-1 lead, the Irish opted to forfeit the last three games in order to catch the last plane out of Tennessee and get back to school for Wednesday's exams.

Next year figures to be another strong season for the Irish, as most of this year's players will be returning.

There are other intangibles that seem to make Sluby attractive to the pro people.

"We think he's a guy who wants to take the money shots," says Hal. "He's been in plenty of high pressure situations at Notre Dame, has a very good knowledge of the game, and is really a competitor. All in all, he's a winner."

After Sunday's graduation ceremonies, the next stop for Sluby is a pre-draft camp to be held May 50, June 1-3 in Chicago. According to Blake, only the top 50 or so college players have been invited to this camp and it will be an excellent chance for Sluby to show his stuff to the plethora of NBA brass who will be present.

As far as what's store for Sluby next year in the NBA, Gilleen offers this assessment.

"The key for him is getting with a team that needs a second guard," he says. "With the right team, I think he could do real well. He deserves it, too, because he's worked hard and is really a good kid."

Sluby's hard work is not over, though. After four tough years at Notre Dame, he now faces the challenge of surviving in the NBA — perhaps the biggest challenge of all.

BE IN THE FOREFRONT OF TODAY'S TECHNOLOGY AS A SCIENTIFIC-ENGINEERING OFFICER

Our scientific-engineering officers are planning and designing tomorrow's weapon systems today. Many are seeing their ideas become reality, and the finest, state-of-the-art equipment to test their theories. The working environment is conducive to research. And Air Force experience is second to none. You can be part of this dynamic team if you have a scientific engineering degree. Your first step will be Officer Training School. Help us shape our future as we help you start yours. Be a scientific-engineering officer in the Air Force. Contact your Air Force recruiting office.

Sgt. Marty Lazar

219-236-8207 collect

ARTHRUR ANDERSON & CO.
33 WEST STREET NORTHWEST, CHICAGO, IL 60603 (312) 580-0033

KANSAS CITY OFFICE
Jean A. Yankee, BBA
Audit

LOS ANGELES OFFICE
Paul K. Windnals, BBA
Consulting

MINNEAPOLIS OFFICE
Peter J. Kerwin, BBA
Audit

NEW JERSEY OFFICE
Timothy J. Willis, BBA
Audit

PHILADELPHIA OFFICE
Mary Jane Costello, BBA
Audit

PHOENIX OFFICE
Glen G. Gwarda, BBA
Audit

PITTSBURGH OFFICE
Keith P. Cressen, BBA
Consulting

ST. LOUIS OFFICE
Mary C. McCown, BBA
Audit

ROCHESTER OFFICE
Mary E. Stevens, BBA
Audit

TAMPA OFFICE
Laura M. Cuffe, BBA
Consulting

WASHINGTON, D.C. OFFICE
Kevin G. McCarthy, BBA
Audit

ORDER FROM E. A. Bg
P.O. Box 1953
South Bend, In. 46634

$1 each postpaid
Today

Commemoration Issue, 1984 — page 11

Bloom County

TODAY WILL BE MARKED BY ALL NEW TO PROCESSIONS, GROUNDS, FAVORITE SPOT WHERE SOUVENIR PERSON PATRIOT.

AND DOWNSWING WITH WOGGY PEAIVS ARMS...

DON'T WOZT... "WANNY WAY"!... DON'T NOOK.

SHOW ING fill HOW to WOGWEE E ERMERS sommess... "ROAST PBNWIN RUMPZ... "5 E R W U/ITH peucious jen ie p P5N6UIN m o v e ...

SHOW ING fill HOW to WOGWEE E E RMERS sommess... "ROAST PBNWIN RUMPZ... "5 E R W U/ITH peucious jen ie p P5N6UIN m o v e ...

I'm not your waitress. Your waitress is an overweight bimbo with large pores.

Far Side

"Quit complaining and eat it! - Number one, chicken soup is good for the flu — and number two, it's nobody we know."

The Daily Crossword

The Center for Social Concerns thanks the graduating seniors who have helped through their special interest and dedication to make the Center possible. Without your participation in its programs and community services, the Center could not exist.

God bless each of you as you go forth.

The Staff

16 Indian or Arctic
27 — Haute
29 Repulsive old women
30 Shellfish

The Far Side

Gary Larson

TV Tonight

7 p.m. 16 The Master
22 Dukes of Hazzard
28 Benson

7:30 p.m. 16 Movie of the Week
28 Dallas

8 p.m. 16 Movie of the Week
22 Dallas

9 p.m. 22 Falcon Crest
28 Matt Houston

10 p.m. 16 NewsCenter 16
22 22 Eyewitness News
28 Newswatch 28

10:30 p.m. 16 Tonight Show
22 CBS Late Movie
28 ABC News Nightline
11 p.m. 28 Eye on Hollywood
11:30 p.m. 16 Friday Night Videos

TRUCK LEASING, INC.
710 N. Niles Ave.
South Bend, IN 46617
(219) 232-5871

HERTZ
PENSKE
ONE WAY
TRUCKS

Special Discounts for N.D. and SMC Students
Must book 7-10 days in advance
$100 DEPOSIT REQUIRED

CONGRATULATIONS CLASS OF '84
Two seniors bring up-and-down careers to close

Tom Sluby: 1984 Athlete of the Year

By JEFF BLUMB
Assistant Sports Editor

He probably will not be remembered much, at all, for his first three years at Notre Dame. But Tom Sluby and his senior season will certainly stick out in the minds of many for years to come.

The senior captain took charge of a struggling young team and not only turned its season around, but led it to 21-12 record and second place finish in the National Invitation Tournament. In the process, the winner of the fourth Edward "Moone" Krause Award, selected annually by the sports staff of The Observer to recognize the Notre Dame Male Athlete of the Year, averaged 18.7 points per game, the best by an Irish player since Adrian Dantley's 28.6 in '75-'76.

After struggling through a semester of academic ineligibility and assorted other setbacks, Sluby started to come on near the end of his junior year. Then, following a successful trip to Yugoslavia between his junior and senior years, Sluby received the honor of being named captain.

Now Sluby, one year ago a long shot to ever play in the National Basketball Association, has a fairly good chance of achieving that goal. Those who know in the NBA, in fact, are predicting Sluby to go anywhere from the second round to the middle of the third in next month's draft.

"He's definitely among the top 40 or 50 players in the country," says top NBA scout Marty Blake of Sluby. "He has a very good chance to play in the NBA.

"I would say that he'll go from anywhere in the second round to perhaps somewhere in the middle of the third round," estimates Al Menendez, director of player personnel for the New Jersey Nets. "I'll take a shot to show what he can do.".

"While I don't think that he's a first round selection," comments Brendan Satul, an assistant coach with the Atlanta Hawks, "everyone knows he's. He has his best years ahead of him. He was a loyal Notre Dame and has as good a chance as anyone of making it once he gets to camp.".

Much of Sluby's exposure came in Notre Dame's mid-season upset of then fifth-ranked Maryland where he drove down the sideline for a 18 seconds left to register a decisive three-point play, and in the win of the Irish to New York's Madison Square Garden in the NIT, where the Washington, D.C., native averaged 20.4 points in four games.

Post-season accolades included honorable mentions on all the American teams of The Associated Press, Basketball Weekly and The Sporting News. In addition, Sluby received the Dyer Award, which is annually given to the Notre Dame player, a single season record 33 games.

In achieving those distinctions last season, Sluby scored 616 points to rank him 11th on the all-time single season list. Beyond that, his 252 field goals are the 10th best ever in one season for a Notre Dame player. Also during his career high 30 points against both Marquette at home and led the Irish in scoring in 25 of 33 games.

"He exceeded our expectations," says Irish assistant coach Pete Gillen of the turn around.

After struggling with injuries between Sluby's junior and senior years, the "adjustment for him wasn't so much a physical one as a mental one.

"It was all in believing that he could do it. And confidence builds on confidence," says Menendez.

Although Sluby is certainly a good shooter (he shot slightly over 50 percent last season), it seems that he is liked by the more physical people for something else.

"Besides shooting the basketball real well, he's a strong kid," answers Blake. "And he's quicker than most people think.

"There's three things you need to play in our league," says Menendez, "and those are: you must have strength, you must be physical and you must be able to take the pounding.

"It seems that he is liked more by the pro people than anything else."

Klauke has finished her four year stint and will graduate on Sunday.

Early last fall, Fischette broke the Notre Dame's women's tennis history. As the health of her feet and legs, injuries. Despite the fact that DiStanislao had a stress fracture of her leg in the preseason training, she could only do less than she was capable.

A stress fracture of her leg in the preseason training, she could only do less than she was capable. After seeing KLAUKE, page 8

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

Like nearly all the athletes who entered Notre Dame with high expectations, Jenny Klauke has finished her four-year stint and will graduate on Sunday.

Unlike the other athletes, though, Jenny Klauke has earned a place in Notre Dame athletic history. She not only handled the pressure of being recruited, but she did not earn the spot because of some fantastic athletic achievement, though. Her career at Notre Dame was marred by injuries that kept her from making a major mark on the court.

Jenny Klauke will go down in history as the first woman to receive an athletic grant-in-aid to attend Notre Dame. When she signed a letter of intent to join Mary DiStanislao's new women's basketball program, Klauke not only joined the ground floor of a building program that had just the ground floor but also represented the beginning of Notre Dame's attempt to build a strong women's tennis program.

The jury is still out on whether the athletic department's attempt has brought the results that were expected, but after four years, it is obvious that Jenny Klauke's career was not quite in productive as she had hoped.

"These last four years have been kind of frustrating years for me," says the Glossery, Wash., native. "With injuries and everything, I never really felt I showed what I could do."

"I know that we probably be bringing in a lot of recruits after me. I also knew most people expected me to get pushed into the background. But I was the third player of four for four years and go out with a bang."

Things did not work out as planned for Klauke, but her Notre Dame career was still not. In essence, she was the spitter who took the first leg of a baton to faster teammates.

What a difference a few years makes. When Klauke appeared on the scene as a freshman, the Notre Dame women's basketball program was beginning its first year in Division I after jumping from Division III. DiStanislao had signed two recruits to begin its program climb up the Division I ladder, but nobody knew what to expect from the team.

The outlook was to win a lot for four years and go out with a bang."

Fischette broke the career singles victory record, which she added to by posting, an impressive 14-5 singles record this spring.

"It has been a very consistent performer for this year," said Irish coach Sharon Petro.

"We didn't even name an MVP last year. But this year, the team really wanted to recognize the contributions that Pam has made."

— Sharon Petro

Coach Sharon Petro. "Tennis is a very individualized sport, so it's tough to single out one person who was the most, or the most valuable, and we didn't even name an MVP last year. But this year, the team really wanted to recognize the contributions that Pam has made.

"Pam has always been a very coachable player," added Petro. "She's really improved her game since her freshmen year, going from a baseline game to a full-court game."

I've gained a lot of experience this year and throughout my career," said Fischette. "My game here have been well worthwhile, as I've enjoyed a lot of great times with our team.

During my four years here, the team has improved tremendously, to a point where we're right up there with the top ten (Division II) teams in the country."

"I didn't know what to expect from Jenny in that first year," says DiStanislao. "In fact, I didn't know what to expect from the team going from Division III to Division I. Obviously we had one eye on the future, but we didn't know how many people from that team would be part of the future.

As far as I know, she never played in the Dunlop Tennis Classic, the Notre Dame Sports Classic, the Irish Tennis Classic, the Notre Dame Sports Classic, and the Irish Tennis Classic. She was named the recipient of the Krause Female Athlete of the Year award for the second year in a row.