Final ND alcohol regulations prohibit student tailgaters

By DAN MCCULLOUGH

Father David Tyson, formerly executive assistant to the president of the University, has been named vice president for student affairs to replace Father John Van Wolvlear, who resigned last spring.

Tyson’s appointment was approved at the Board of Trustees May 4 meeting. Tyson said he was surprised by the board’s decision. However, he added he has been involved in Student Affairs for a long time. In the past Tyson has served as a resident assistant in Hanner Hall and an assistant resident in Dillon Hall. Presently, he is living in Dillon.

After assuming the vice presidency in early June, Tyson restructured the office. He said he did this by asking himself, “If I came off the street and there was no structure, what kind of general areas do I see?” He determined there are two such areas — residential and student services.

With these ideas in mind Tyson created the offices of the associate vice president for residence life and the assistant vice president for student services. In doing so he did away with the position of director of housing and revised the responsibilities of the assistant vice president for student affairs and the Dean of Students.

Tyson offered this explanation for his restructuring. “Nothing is normative, if we see a better way we might change it.”

Once Tyson restructured the office he began looking for people to staff it. “I said, do I know any people that given these structures would be interested?”

Nearly four weeks after the execution-style slaying of Corby tavern owner Harold Rowley Jr., the murder remains unsolved, according to Capt. Charles Mahank of the South Bend Police Detective Bureau.

“We are interviewing a lot of people who are, in one way or another, involved in the incident,” Mahank told The Observer.

Meanwhile, the popular student bar, located at 1026 Corby Ave., remains closed. The bar was seized and closed last Thursday in a “collection enforcement procedure” by the Internal Revenue Service.

Back employment taxes totaling $12,928.15 are owed by C.T.I. Corp., which owns the bar, and must be paid before Corby’s can reopen, said Deborah Moore, public affairs officer for the IRS in Indianapolis. The property seized Aug. 1 was $13,000 in back employment taxes must be paid before the bar can reopen. DiNardo was no exception. More years with, and James Arthur Dame junior, was killed in an automobile accident on July 22. He was a resident of Grace Hall.

"The suddenness and unexpectedness really came as a shock to Jim's friends," said Father David Noone, Grace Hall rector. "He was well-liked by a lot of people."

Noone added he was very impressed with the faith and courage of DiNardo's parents. "They received a letter from his family," he said. "They've been very appreciative of the love and concern shown by his friends."

A pre-med major, DiNardo lived in Hodgy, Pennsylvania. "He was the kind of student who got very interested and excited in theology," said St. Edward's Hall Assistant Rec- tor Father Gerald Lardner, who taught DiNardo in an Introduction to Theology helped, gave him personal meaning. "Jim was real easy-going. He had a witty sense of humor. I saw him often because he was a Red Cross worker. He was very generous with his time."

A service is planned for DiNardo within the next few weeks.

Quality is top priority for Hickey

Special to The Observer

When Food Service Director William Hickey, Jr., told dining hall workers in 1982 that "you're here to serve the students as customers," they were at first "bewildered," according to the May 9 issue of Restaurants and Institutions magazine.

Now two years after Hickey came to campus, the Ivy Award — considered the most prestigious award given in the food service industry — has come to Notre Dame. The magazine article details the reasons Notre Dame was chosen as the best food service at an institution.

Much credit goes to Hickey, according to the magazine which also sponsors the award. "Hickey's style of speaking reflects his style of work: high energy, non-stop and hard-hitting," the article said. "It's a ton of stuff, a sea of spaghetti or a mountain of portocello! William Hickey, Jr., doesn't care as long as the food quality is tops (and) the presentation is creative."

The Ivy Award was presented to Notre Dame in January, but the feature story on ND's Food Services did not appear in the magazine until May.

"I am really proud of it and so is my staff," Hickey said. "The profession has recognized that good things are happening at Notre Dame."

The Food Services' most impressive project, according to the magazine, was the catered cocktail reception, a sit-down dinner and a brunch, served for 4,000 at the 1984 Junior Parents Weekend. One course featured flaming baked Alaska for dessert.

"When I came here two years ago, the students' perception of food service was absolutely horrid," the magazine quotes Hickey as saying. "So first of all, we had to develop credibility with our customers. Secondly, we had to improve the productiveness and the pride of the people who worked in food service. And third, we had to build up the quality of food." Last spring, Hickey suffered a heart attack, and stepped down as director of food service for a few weeks. He lost weight during recuperation and has returned this fall as director.

"I'm an Irish Catholic who was born in Youkers," Hickey told the magazine. "And my parents talked about Notre Dame when I was a kid. I always wanted to be here. It sounds corny — but it's very true."

Formerly, Hickey was director of food services at both the University of Illinois-Chicago and Princeton University. "We think our institution is just as good as the Ivy League," Hickey told The Observer last January. "We go through a lot of extra effort. That's the difference."

This Thursday for lunch, Notre Dame Food Services is sponsoring "A Taste of Notre Dame," where more than 80 food vendors will display food products on Stepan Center Field. A picnic dinner will be held Friday afternoon on Stepan Center Field.

Workers labor to finish construction of the Mestrovic-Shabeen Park in front of O'Shaughnessy Hall. Most of the work on this park was done this summer.

Lyons and Morrissey undergo renovations

By KEITH HARRISON, Jr.
Senior Staff Reporter

Approximately $1.25 million was spent renovating four Notre Dame residence halls during the summer, according to Don Dedrick, director of Physical Plant.

Most of the work was done in Lyons and Morrissey halls. "Every inch of plumbing" was replaced in both halls, said Dedrick. In addition, a new lavatory fixture was installed in every room, he said.

The hallways of Morrissey and Lyons were also renovated. Each hallway was repaired and painted, and new carpeting was installed, according to Dedrick.

Some of the renovations were safety-oriented. Partial sprinkler systems were installed in the storage rooms, and the exit stair towers were brought up to fire regulation standards," said Dedrick.

Minor renovations were done in two other Notre Dame dorms. In Farley Hall, the electrical system was rewired, and new electrical outlets were installed in all the rooms, according to Dedrick.

In Walsh Hall, the chapel was painted and new lights were installed. Other buildings on campus were renovated during the summer. The repairs of the Washington Hall theater continued, although some work remains to be done. "We're waiting for soundproof door frames to come in," said Dedrick. "Hopefully, we'll get them this week."

Construction continued on the animal research addition to the Galvin Life Science Center and the new swimming pool adjacent to the Athletic and Convocation Center.

The research center will probably be completed by April, 1985," said Dedrick. "We hope to have the swimming pool ready by August of 1985."

New roofs were constructed on O'Shaughnessy Hall and the Hammes Bookstore, and part of the roof of the University Club was replaced. The firehouse was painted, and its roof was also replaced, according to Dedrick.

The basement of the Memorial Library was also renovated," said Dedrick. "That will be the new location of the Placement Office."

Minor renovations were made at Saint Mary's College over the summer.

Lake Marian was temporarily drained in order to accommodate bridge repairs.

LeMans parking lot was resurfaced, and the railroad tracks were paved over.

Beer consumption may be linked to pitchers

The paper also bought a used Mergenthaler typesetter. Williams noted the Observer "gave an incredible trade-in" on its system and typesetter. The total package, purchased from Prentice, Inc., of Schaumburg, Ill., cost $93,000.

The Observer has upgraded three bars near campus.

The Observer has undergone a number of changes during the last three months, the biggest being the installation of a new computer system.

The new Alpha Micro system includes 16 new terminals, one of which will be located at the Saint Mary's Observer office. The system "has a better processor, and as a result it's about four times faster than the old one," said Kevin Williams, systems manager for The Observer. According to Williams, the system has a more reliable backup and better hardware compatibility.

Beer consumption may be linked to pitchers

Associated Press

Beer consumption may be linked to pitchers, a professor at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University at Blacksburg, studied drinking in Montreal. E. Scott Geller, a psychology professor at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blacksburg, studied drinking in bars last spring.

He said his study also found people drink more in groups, suggesting that groups of drinkers should pick one member to stay sober in the drunken driving problem. He said his study also found people drink more in groups, suggesting that groups of drinkers should pick one member to stay sober — perhaps with some economic incentives from the bar owner.

In an interview before his research results were presented at the annual convention of the American Psychological Association in Toronto, Geller said his recommendations were based on observation of more than 500 drinkers in three bars last spring.

Observers found that on average, bar patrons drank 35 ounces of beer per person when it came in a pitcher, but only 15 ounces from a bottle and 12 ounces from a glass. The 120 men observed drinking from a pitcher drank an average of about 40 ounces apiece, while 45 women drank about 28 ounces. Both sexes drank about the same amount from a glass or bottle.

"People don't waste as much beer as they get in that pitcher," Geller said. But they figure it's cheaper and feel compelled to "clean the plate," he said.

Rules

think the number would be changed although there was always the "possibility for exceptions."

The first draft of the alcohol directives also stated, "Liquor will not be allowed anywhere on campus except in licensed bars and wine only are permitted in the residence halls...."

But the new regulations do ban liquor. Said Goldrick, "Alcohol is alcohol. The distinction has not been made in these regulations...."

Tyson explained, "I think it was the previous Student Affairs people who made it beer and wine only."

The primary reason for the change in policy is that the University says that consumption in moderation is allowed then we allow the consumption of alcohol. I don't want to have policies that are meaningless, or not enforced."

Bertino noted this was an issue that was decided in accordance with the views of the Campus Life Council. "Many of the rules were altered because the CLC gave their input. The CLC was very effective in many areas," he said.

But the CLC couldn't save the bars. Bars in student's rooms have been eliminated with the implementation of the new policy. "Any structure which has by its appearance the function of serving alcohol is prohibited. Examples of such are structures with chairs, stools, or other alcoholic advertisements. Common sense must prevail in that a bar is readily identifiable in our culture," said Tyson.

Goldrick commented, "I trust our hall staff enough to sit down with students and discuss whether a structure is a bar or not. He added, "The decision of the rector will be final in all cases."

Also gone the way of the dininage drinking games. "Any type of drinking games, e.g. 'quarters' or the use of any instrument of alcohol abuse, e.g. 'beer bongs' is a violation of the principle of responsible drinking and is strictly prohibited," Goldrick assured that Student Affairs had no intention of raiding dorm rooms at the sound of tinkling quarters, but noted that drinking games "can be very dangerous biologically."

Alcohol transported on campus must now be in closed containers and in suitable packaging, e.g. a bag or box. But Tyson explained, "The intention of this policy is that it is inappropriate and against the policy to transport open liquor on the campus but the container it comes in is alright."

The penalty for having a keg of beer in a dorm room has been raised from $100 to $150 by the new policy.

Tyson said this is more to deter keg parties than anything else. "It's the sort of thing that a $10 parking ticket is more of a deterrent than a $5 parking ticket," he elaborated.

"The alcohol policy is a reality in all of our lives. We can fight about it for six months or we can go forward and look at ways of socializing without alcohol," said Tyson.

He added he sees the Student Affairs office as playing the role of "facilitators and encouragers" who will work with the student body in finding alternatives to an alcohol-centered social life for the campus. Will the protests of last spring again shake the golden dome? "You can't tell what students are going to do," said Bertino. But he added, "In my opinion now, we really haven't got a fight."

"I think we would be more or less wasting our time," he said.

But Bertino is optimistic about how students will adjust to the new regulations. "There's a lot of new administrators. We're going to see how everything goes. The upperclassmen may have to do more adjusting than others, and it might take a few years for the issue to be fully settled, but you've got to be optimistic."

The protests last spring were not for nothing, according to Bertino. "If that wouldn't have happened, our voice wouldn't have been as strong as it was, he said."

"I would say we got a lot taken out of the policy — there was a lot of compromising on both sides — and we both had to bend a lot. Right now we've got to make the best of what we've got."

In Pasquerilla West, Resident Assistant Kathy Kern echoed Bertino's optimism. "It's up to us to take a positive attitude towards the new regulations. Perhaps we'll take more advantage of what South Bend has to offer," she said.

Julianne Jones, another RA in PW, agreed with her. "The feeling I got from the administration was that they were very enthusiastic about planning a lot and offering students alternatives," she said.

Kemp said she wasn't expecting to see a repeat of the last spring's protests against the new policy. "I think there will be testing but as far as protesting I think it will cool down a little bit."

On the other side of campus, the feeling among RA's was similar. Mark Storun, a RA in Dillon hall, said, "Attached to the alcohol policy was a list of alternatives. Of course, people are going to have to be creative. I think Notre Dame students are very creative. I don't foresee a lot of problems."

Storun said he agreed with the essence of the policy and the resulting regulations. "I think the policies were good — especially about public drunkenness because that's how it is in the real world," he said. "The directives I think are good. They had to eliminate tailgaters to be consistent," he added.
In June, Tyson announced three appointments to the office of student affairs. John Goldrick, formerly the University admissions director, was named associate vice president for residence life. Sister Jean Lenz, formerly Farley Hall’s rectress, was named for residence life. Tyson maintained he “did the structure first,” and then looked to fill the offices.

Cafarel thought he was van Wolvlear’s resignation that spurred the changes. “The situation presented itself to carry out a new vision.”

Tyson’s appointment and restructuring of the office caused varied responses from faculty and administration. Although some faculty members refused to comment because of a lack of information about the situation, others expressed strong approval.

“Sensible,” is how Peri Arnold, professor of government and international studies, described the changes. “The dean of student centers said, ‘I think I’m going to be a good job.’ This university is not a place that is very open. It is a place of some secrecy and hierarchy. (The restructuring) is a mystery to me.”

Professor Dennis Swartz of the economics department said, “I don’t think I could possibly find a person more appropriate for the job than Jim Roemer.”

When Tyson announced his appointments in June the South Bend Tribune hinted in a news article that the shake up was triggered by the new alcohol policy and the student response to the policy. “The changes also follow a tumultuous few months on campus as the university administration unveiled a new alcohol policy…” The release of the new rules and proposed directives from Tyson prompted a “student protest,” the article stated.

Joni Neal, director of student activities, said in July that she had heard that Roemer’s dismissal was linked to his proposed alcohol directives but that she had not heard it from Tyson. Several weeks later Neal said that the alcohol directives were acceptable and that he was doing to do any of the diminishals.

Tyson maintains “he did the structure first,” and then looked to fill the offices.

Ferraro wealth defended in South

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Geraldine Ferraro and her husband may be wealthier than Archie Bunker would have guessed but one Democratic official says that's no cause for comment from Vice President George Bush, who was "born with a silver spoon so far back in his mouth you couldn't get it out with a crowbar."

While Alabama Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley was reaching for new rhetorical heights in introducing the New York congresswoman, Ms. Ferraro received an enthusiastic reception in Alabama, even when she ran right into the dangers of "running mate."

In Montgomery, Ala., Democratic vice presidential nominee Ferraro pressed Walter F. Mondale's case and her own. But amid the glare of the television lights, her note cards were a little hard to read.

"When Fritz and I were moving along and he had chosen me as his mate, some people... running mate..."

She stopped as the crowd checked.

Then the New York congresswoman picked up where she left off, talking about Democratic chances in the South.

"Some of the so-called experts said, 'Will she campaign in the South?' Well, yes, I can..."

Back came a loud squawk from one of the exotic caged birds in the hotel lobby.

Anderson will endorse Mondale

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — John B. Anderson, who ran for president as an independent in 1980, has decided to publicly endorse Democratic presidential nominee Walter F. Mondale, according to sources.

The sources said negotiations are under way with Anderson, under which a third political party he organized would formally nominate Mondale and provide him with about $7.8 million in public funds.

Anderson attracted more than 7 percent of the vote in the general election four years ago as an independent running against Ronald Reagan and former President Jimmy Carter.

His performance qualified him for public financing of a 1988 race if he met the qualifications for organizing a third political party.

Earlier this year, Anderson announced he would not run again for president this year, but would go ahead with pulling together the National Unity Party, composed largely of supporters from the 1980 race.

The sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said Anderson has been negotiating directly with Mondale on the endorsement.

In addition, they said there have been discussions between Mondale's staff and former Wiscon­sin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, who ran as Anderson's vice presidential nominee in 1980.

Lucey was described by sources with knowledge of discussions between the two as a principal figure in the efforts to encourage Anderson to formally endorse Mondale.

Ms. Ferraro quipped "one of the non-believers."

During the Alabama rally, Ms. Fer­raro's congressional district in Queens — which includes the mythi­cal home of Archie and Edith Bunker from the television series "All in the Family" — was mentioned.

Bush, son of a prominent and wealthy Connecticut clan, referred to that series about a working-class family after Ms. Ferraro revealed she and her husband have a net worth of several million dollars.

"That was too much for Baxley," who is obviously aiming to succeed George Wallace in colorful rhetoric — not to mention in the Alabama governor's mansion in 1986.

"The nominee of the other party said, 'Well, that shows that they are not really an Edith and Archie household,'" Baxley said in intro­ducing Ms. Ferraro in Montgomery.
Welcome to Notre Dame. See the beautiful, distinguished buildings. These are old buildings. They were designed and built by people who didn't have the skills allowed by today's modern technology. See the other, generic buildings. These are new buildings. Aren't they pretty?

See the building with the big gold helmet. This is the Dome. You never know what's going to happen at this Dome. You never know what's going to happen here in the next few years.

This is the Dormitory. See the funny story building in the middle of the campus. This is the LaFayette Student Center. Not funny, you say? For many years there has been talk of renovating LaFayette and adding conveniences such as a bar, a patio, an outdoor dining area, and so on. But it is all in fun. They will paint it. Nothing is too funny.

See the tall building with the picture on it. This is the University-owned, state-of-the-art equipment. These are your resident assistants. They can call you RAs to be charming. They will be your friends throughout the year, and help you with your homework and so on. Sometimes they will even do favors for you. But don't let your hopes up too high.

Indiana is a "21" state. See your room in one of the many dormitories. You will live here for a whole year. Not as big as your room back home, is it? No longer can you look out into the back yard and see little Spotty frolicking about. Chase, chase, chase. Don't just want you to pick them up and cuddle them! No, you want them to pick you up and strangle them. Why? Because they get to play on the grass and you don't want them to play on the grass. Squirrels will only leave their droppings on it. See the parents, sitting in the parking lot. This is where the Notre Dame football team plays. Famous men like Knute Rockne and George Gipp once played here. See the parking lot, where student tailgaters used to take place once upon a time. But not anymore. This is one of those Big Bad Rules that came out from under the Dome. So only those older and more mature can drink and act like children while students must act all grown up and not drink. Are you confused yet?

See the foreign men out working on the lawn. Work, work, work. Aren't they friendly? In the winter they will try to kill you. They will jump into funny trucks with big food trays on the front and then drive down the sidewalks without a care in the world. Then it will be okay to walk on the grass, because it will be all covered with snow. During the year these men will keep you on your toes by cutting the grass outside your window at eight in the morning. But it is all in fun. Remember, they work for the University.

See the upperclassmen waiting in line at registration. Wait, wait, wait. They have been waiting a long time. See all the upperclassmen in line at certain departments on campus. They will have to wait even longer. You will have to do this too next year. You will not enjoy it. Especially when you have been waiting in line for longer than it takes to watch "The A-Team" and just then realize you have to walk to the door to leave the office because it is time for lunch.

See Father Theodore Hesburgh walking around campus. You see Father Hesburgh? That is because Father Hesburgh is never here. Father Hesburgh is the president of the University, which means he is a very busy human being. Unlike other human beings, Father Hesburgh does not work at his place of employment. You should count the number of times you see Father Hesburgh in person in the next four years, and compare that to the number of times you change your major. You will be surprised.

See the sun shining over the campus all day long. Shine, shine, shine. Don't become too charming with Mr. Sun, though, because he is going to go away soon and he will not come back for a long time. Mr. Sun is not stupid. He goes far away when rain and snow come to town. When will he be back? Can you say "April"?

See the other freshmen at the freshman mixer. They are too lost. Like you, they would be helpless in the dark. See the freshman girl. She sees you too. Talk to her. See, she is not as airheaded as you first thought. They are the same thing about you. Maybe there is hope.

South Bend surprises

by Cat Francis

A s another summertime at Notre Dame replete with conventions and commuters comes to an end, students may soon begin to get bored with the hollowed halls of learning. Welcome to South Bend, home land of the brave and home of the Fighting Irish. It may surprise some of you to find out that South Bend has more to offer than McAlister. But despite all the Back, only taken advantage of this city turns out to be a thriving and culturally rich metropolis. South Bend has three malls (Scotsdale, University Park, and North Village), two zoos, a conservatory, a number of movie theaters, a cabin built by the explorer Lafayette, its own newspaper, a busline which runs from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. and a whole lot of other fun things, including Simon McDonald's.

Despite all these wonders, there remain scores of students who have not set foot off campus from August to May. In order to remedy this sad state of affairs, this column will, in the coming school year, take a eye-opening meander through South Bend, stopping to point out spots of interest such as Stoner's Costume Shop, the Griffon Bookstore, 100 West Market Plaza and the Studebaker Museum. Hopefully, in the process a few of the more adventurous students will be enticed wandering off campus. Remember, there is a non-academic world out there.

Here you will also find tidbits that might help some of you to survive.

Things like:
- If you hear someone talking about Bruno's Pizza, they mean what is now called This Old House.
- If you are in the market for a cheap thing, go to the warehouse sale with everything 50 percent off. The sign in front reads "Time for lunch." You are in the market for a cheap thing, right? They have transfers, a busline which runs from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. and a whole lot of other fun things, including Simon McDonald's.

WARM (5955) has 400 lads of late-night fun.
- The pet store at North Village Mall has ferrets for sale at $40. People say they make wonderful, affectionate pets. To me, they look like animals that would use its teeth firmly into your ankle and never let go.

Salvation Army is now having a warehouse sale with everything 50 percent off. The sign in front reads "Welcome, Notre Dame students."
- If you are interested in job, desk or lamp or whatever, you might try there. Or else get a local tourist and grab a copy of the Penny Saver for you and check the ads in the back of the guide.

For those considering painting their dorm rooms, warm colors make the room look more cozy while cooler colors will make it seem more spacious. Scattered pop (or soda, if you don't yet speak Midwest jargon) can will, of course, tend to detract from the spacious look.
Ray Meyer, retiring DePaul basketball coach and captain of the 1937 and ’38 Notre Dame basketball teams, will come to Notre Dame to receive the 1984 Harvey G. Foster Award of the University’s Alumni Association. The award, which will be given to Meyer as half-time of the Notre Dame–Colorado football game on Saturday, September 22, honors a former student involved in athletic activities during his or her academic career who has since distinguished himself or herself through civic activities or University achievements. The Foster Award is named for a 1939 Notre Dame graduate and former sports leader who had a distinguished career in the P.I. Building, before becoming vice president of American Airlines. Foster served as president of the Alumni Association, and was president of the Monogram Club and a member of the University’s Athletic Endowment Fund committee at the time of his death in 1981. — The Observer

Gators’ Pell resigns under pressure

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE, Fla. — The University of Florida accepted the resignation of head football coach Charlie Pell yesterday, clearing up the possibility of a coaching change at the Southeastern Conference institution tentatively plans to honor Pell’s request to complete the 1984 season.

Pell’s resignation was announced yesterday by NCAA and the loss of his players’ decision to quit after night. Criser told a news conference yesterday that the 43-year-old coach would retain his job at least until the final NCAA reaches the results of the probe.

The exact effective date will be determined by the committee, Criser said.

He said the NCAA is still conduct ing the investigation and declined to speculate on when it might reach a conclusion.

In an announcement yesterday, university officials will keep abreast of developments and take action they deem “necessary at the appropriate time.”

To mitigate damage to the stu dents athletes in the program, the university and Coach Pell have agreed that he will use his best ef forts to continue for the remainder of the regular season,” Criser said.

“However, it was deemed appropri ate that this measure be taken and the announcement made before the first football game of the season is played,” he said.

The Gators, 32-25-2 under Pell in 13 years, have won more than 500 games over the years, 1984 season against defending national champion Oklahoma Miami Saturday night in Tampa. Pell, who didn’t attend the news conference, told Criser his decision was “irrevocable.”

Date set for Holmes-Coetzee fight

Associated Press

ATLANTA — The long-awaited heavyweight fight between International Boxing Federation champion Larry Holmes and World Boxing Association champion Gerrie Coetzee will be Nov. 6 at the Mack Athletic Center in Las Vegas, a television network official said yesterday.

Although no firm dollar figure was released, the bout, to be promoted by Don King and Steve Wynn, will reportedly be worth $5 million to $10 million to Coetzee.

The meeting of Holmes and Coez tee has been scheduled before but problems always arose to stall the confrontation.

The original date of the fight was June 8 in Las Vegas, but that fell through. On June 18, Holmes announced that his fighting style would not be able to handle Coetzee’s punching power.

Coetzee, a South African who lives in Huntington Beach, Calif., has not fought since he won the WBA title on a 10-round knockout of Michael Dokes last Sept. 25.

“Even the Olympics had a bit of a Notre Dame flavor this summer as two former Notre Dame athletes won medals and another Notre Dame personality was visible during the television coverage.

Basketball coach Digger Phelps was the most obvious of the three, offering color commentary for ABC during the men’s basketball games in which the United States won the gold medal.

Less obvious were gold medal winner Joe Kleine and silver medal winner Larry Holmes, neither of whom graduated from Notre Dame.

tions dies and the captains and kings depart the true compaign battle lines emerge.

Some questions are in order. How much of a Great Divide is it in actuality, not just among the delegates but the people? What is the true nature of the differences, in the personalities and character of the party leaders, in priorities, symbols, ideas, philosophies, psychologies, theolgies, world views?

My own answer is that the Divide is greater than most observers thought a year ago. It has been in the making since 1964 when Barry Goldwater, resurrected at Dallas, "extremists" and all, made his clumsy and premature sortie into deep conservatism; the year also when Ronald Reagan made "the Speech" which catapulted him into his career as "citizen politician."

I add a second proposition, that the changes have not necessarily been contained within the two Parties, which have become frail vessels at best under the impact of the information revolutions. There are far more conservatives and independents among Democrats than San Francisco showed.

Let's call this the "conservative ingredient" of the long trend range. That was exactly why most of Reagan's carefully planned acceptance speech at Dallas was deliberately low key until the last 15 minutes or so, with all the faithful waiting patiently for their prophets to burst into flame, like the Burning Bush. He did of course finally, to the delight of the responsive delegates.

But while the bulk of his speech was conservative it was aimed at the conservative in greatest outside the Wall. The growth of that element, often mixed with moderate and liberal elements, is what has been happening in the last 20 years. Along with technological change it accounts for Richard Nixon's "silent majority" and Jerry Falwell's "national majority," and for the transformation of the Democratic South and Southwest into a functionally voting Republican Sunbelt.

All the Republican factions want to lure the potential non-Republican Reagan supporters into the Party. But they split roughly along two major strategies.

One is to "broaden the base" and get the more moderate independents into the Party.

Given his anti-abortion and anti-Era and school prayer stands, these voters are likely to find Reagan too conservative and too much the prisoner of the New Right.

The other strategy is to deepen the conservatism of the Party by giving it a God-family-country dimension that will attract the voters who respond to such symbols: the fundamentalist, the nationalist, those seeking a strong and confident "leader," those oriented toward business and technology, and especially the young, just out of school, starting their lives, looking for careers in an upward-mobile, expanding, "opportunity economy."

Reagan could of course be spoiled by success, take too high risks of arousing the fears always there just below the surface, fears of being a party of intolerance, and the breaking of the wall of separation between church and state. He could lose.

Right now the odds are against his losing. Not because of the polls, which are always volatile, but because he is long and slow underway toward the Right. In Samuel Issel's phrase, cropping up again, the voters may be bringing in "a new sun and new moon" into inter-party politics.

Who's who in the athletic departments

Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, C.S.C., — 1937–1968. A former Notre Dame basketball coach, Joyce was named executive vice president of the University in 1952, three years after his appointment as chairman of the faculty board in control of athletics. Joyce, who always maintained, "First things come first, and the first thing for us are academics. I tell every squad of athletes that when the students return to campus each fall," "It's starting over at Notre Dame, Joyce has watched as Notre Dame has had one of the nation's most successful records in intercollegiate athletics, while at the same time maintaining one of the highest graduation rates among its athletes.

Gene Corrigan — Since succeeding the legendary Mooney Krans as athletic director in 1981, Corrigan has made his presence felt, both at Notre Dame and on the national level. In addition to being a member of the NCAA Division I basketball committee, Corrigan has more recently been instrumental in the dealings of the College Football Association (CFA) with both the NCAA and the television networks. Corrigan was a driving force in the organization and planning of Notre Dame’s first-ever athletic endowment fund, designed to increase opportunities for Notre Dame students at all levels of competition. He is also credited with the introduction of two new varsity sports — lacrosse and women’s swimming — in his first full year as athletic director. Before coming to Notre Dame, Corrigan served for nine years as director of athletic programs at the University of Virginia.

Brian Boulac — A former Notre Dame right end, this 1965 graduate was named assistant athletic director last year following 13 seasons on the Irish football coaching staff. During that time, Boulac was recruiting coordinator for seven years as well as an administrative assistant to Dan Devine for two years, in addition to coaching the offensive line and defensive players, and overseeing various student-athlete training programs. Currently, Boulac’s job is to offer assistance to athletic director Gene Corrigan in a wide variety of areas.

Col. John Stephens — This is Jack Stephens’ 17th year as athletic director special projects for Coughlin. Col. John Stephens — This is Jack Stephens’ 17th year as athletic director special projects for Coughlin. He assumed the role after spending seven years as associate athletic director and another eight as an assistant director. Despite this short time, though, he has already made an impact, playing a major role in the formation of the Star Conference — a conference in which several women’s sports now compete.

Roger Valdiserri — Valdiserri is entering his second year as associate athletic director, having served seven years as an assistant. However, he is best known for his work as director of the sports information department. A 1954 Notre Dame graduate, he served briefly as an administrative assistant to former football coach Terry Brennan. In 1966, after public relations stints with Mercedes-Benz and the Kansas City Chiefs, he returned to his alma mater to become sports information director and, ten years later, added assistant athletic director to his duties. Regarded as one of the best in his field, Valdiserri has earned 43 awards since 1976 from the College Sports Information Directors of America for his sports publications, many honored as the best in the nation.

Joseph O’Brien — A 1949 graduate of Notre Dame, O’Brien is in his second year as associate business manager after serving seven years as an assistant director. He also continues to manage the department’s finances as athletic business manager. In 1955, O’Brien was named personal assistant for professional functions at South Bend’s second-largest employer — Notre Dame. He has been here ever since, joining the athletic staff in 1976. He served as president of the College Athletic Business Managers Association in 1985 and was named business manager of the year in 1985 by CABMA.

Mike Bobinski — Bobinski is the newcomer to the athletic department, having been named ticket manager and assistant business manager this past spring. He succeeds Steve Cusini who moved to the Dallas Cowboys organization. The 30-year-old Bobinski is a 1979 Notre Dame graduate and a former Irish baseball pitcher who returned to South Bend after two years in management and public relations. He spent two years in Orlando, Fla. He earned two letters as a right-handed pitcher and was a four-year member of the Irish starting rotation.

Dr. Tom Kelly — As director of non-varsity athletics, Kelly oversees an office that provides Intramural and club sports, in addition to 30 recreational programs for both staff and students. Kelly, who also was named an assistant athletic director in 1983, received his master’s degree in physical education from Penn State and his master’s and Ph.D. in Educational Administration from Notre Dame. He has previously been NFA’s assistant director for 11 years (until 1979), and was varsity baseball coach from 1979 through the 1980 season.

John Heisler — Now in his third year as associate director of sports information, Heisler has five years as assistant director, the 29-year-old Heisler has had a hand in the editing of a number of award-winning publications. Ten have been judged “Best in the Nation” by College Sports Information Directors of America panels, including two of the last three football guides. Previously to coming to Notre Dame, the South Bend native had been an assistant director at Missouri for one year, after serving as a student assistant at that school for four years and then graduating from Missouri’s School of Journalism in late 1976.

Tim Dillon — With degrees from Slippery Rock State College and Eastern Kentucky University, Dillon is entering his fourth season as assistant director of athletics at St. Mary’s. Dillon, who was assistant to Erin Lorenzo last year, will assist Dr. Jo-Ann Neuster who was named to succeed Lorenzo this year. Dillon was a gymnastics coach at Eastern Kentucky before moving to St. Mary’s.

Mike DeCicco — Better known as the lively and highly successful Notre Dame football team, DeCicco doubles as an academic advisor for all Notre Dame athletes. Responsibility for the University’s high graduation rate among its athletes lies highly with DeCicco, whose task is to advise the more than 500 athletes at Notre Dame. A 1949 graduate of Notre Dame, DeCicco taught for a number of years in the University’s mechanical engineering department before giving it up to concentrate full time on his job as academic advisor. His fencing teams have brought home an overall record of 453–40 since 1962 and were winners of the national championship in both 1977 and ’78.

Miami shocks top-ranked Auburn

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Bernie Kosar kicked a field goal as time expired, giving No. 1-ranked Nebraska a 31-30 victory over No. 3 Florida State in the Orange Bowl on Monday night. Kosar's second field goal of the game was the winner. The victory was the third straight for Nebraska, which felt it should have won the national championship.

Auburn's defense held Nebraska to 17 points, but the Tigers were outscored 23-10 in the second half. Auburn's offense was led by quarterback Pat Sullivan, who completed 21 of 36 passes for 163 yards and a touchdown.

The Tigers were led by running back Kenny Hill, who rushed for 92 yards and a touchdown. He also caught a touchdown pass from Sullivan.

The game was played in front of a capacity crowd of 83,749 at Giants Stadium.

Faust's freshmen progressing well in learning experience

By THERON ROBERTS
Sport Writer

For 17 Notre Dame freshmen, the summer vacation ended more than two weeks ago when they checked into the dormitories and later the residence halls in Flanner Hall. Since then, the freshmen football players have been preparing for practice ways of Coach Gerry Faust and his assistants.

The practice fields behind the ACC are now all too familiar to them. From the day of their arrival, there have been three methods—twice-a-day practices to keep the newest members of the Irish football team busy. For the freshmen who have been working out in the Golden Dome, the learning process they will occur on the football field, as well as in the classroom.

Faust and the other coaches are pleased with what they see in their fourth consecutive "harvest" of high school football talent for Notre Dame. Although much of the work at first was purely instructional, the Irish mentor noted the progress of the freshmen.

"We're really not disappointed with any of the freshmen," Faust says. "In fact, some of them have shown they will be able to contribute to our program — both now and in the future.

One of the most impressive freshmen on the practice field thus far has been Frank Stams. A running back from Carthage Falls, Ohio, Stams seems quiet at home in the fullback position and has been running some plays with the second offensive unit. Faust says Stams is "looking pretty good," which is what many people anticipated after Stams was named to two All-American lists and senior years in high school, in addition to being a standout at the fullback position.

The last two weeks have been pretty intense," says Faust. "We have been doing a lot of hitting, but I'm making it one step at a time."

Terry Andrysiak, a 6-foot, 215-pound quarterback from Allen Park, Mich., also has been "progressing well," according to Faust, and he has seen additional action at the flanker position. Andrysiak is one of four freshman quarterbacks on the Irish roster and he also was named to the Sporting News list of the top 100 freshman prospects.

Andrysiak completed 95 of 153 passes for 1,859 yards as a senior (an average of just under 20 yards per completion) and had only three interceptions while throwing for 21 touchdows — all of which was enough for him to be rated the top freshman quarterback by both Football News and The Sporting News.

Stams, at 6-4, 225 pounds, totaled nearly 2,400 yards running and scored 39 touchdowns in his junior and senior years in high school, in addition to a standout at the fullback position.

"The last two weeks have been pretty intense," Faust says. "We have been doing a lot of hitting, but I'm making it one step at a time."

Terry Andrysiak, a 6-foot, 175-pound quarterback from Allen Park, Mich., also has been "progressing well," according to Faust, and he has seen additional action at the flanker position. Andrysiak is one of four freshman quarterbacks on the Irish roster and he also was named to the Sporting News list of the top 100 freshman prospects.

The Irish will be looking for a balanced offense to go with a balanced defense.

"The upperclassmen have been pretty good to us freshmen. We are doing a lot of learning, but I'm taking it one step at a time."

Two campuses provide many athletic facilities

Whether you enjoy playing football, basketball, tennis, golf or racquetball, or just like going for an occasional dip in the swimming pool, there is an athletic facility for you. The quads are available in the spring and fall for various activities (although the University tends to brown upon too much use of the lawn), while, during the cold winter months, you can retreat indoors. Here is a list of the facilities available to students on both campuses:

Auburn ranked No. 1 in AP pre season poll

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press

The Auburn Tigers, who felt they should have won the 1983 national championship but had to settle for third place, have been picked to dethrone the Miami Hurricanes as the kings of college football in 1984.

In the preseason Associated Press poll, Auburn received 30 of 60 first-place votes and 1,075 of a possible 2,000 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters, easily outdistancing runner-up Nebraska.

The Cornhuskers, who also finished second in the final 1983 polls, dropped to 20 first-place votes and 890 points. Clem son, 11th a year ago, was second to Auburn in first-place votes with 11, but the Tigers' total of 817 points was only 117 better for fourth place.

UCLA, riding the crest of a 14-1-0 record in the Rose Bowl, is fifth with five first-place ballots and 816 points after finishing 17th last season.

The Hurricanes, who opened the 1984 season last night against Auburn in the second annual Kickoff Classic, are bidding to become the first team to win consecutive national championships. The last was Alabama in 1978-79.

The No. 1 ranking was a bit sweet after the 1983 season for Auburn Coach Pat Dye. "I'd be lying if I said I didn't feel good because that's where you want to be," Dye said in East Rutherford, N.J., where his team was preparing for the game with Miami. "But why did they pick us No. 1 this year and not last year? We haven't played a game yet. It (No. 1) puts you in a difficult situation against everybody you play."

"Miami will be coming in here and we'll be the second straight No. 1 team they'll play (Miami won the 1983 national championship by nipping then No. 1 Nebraska 31-30 in the Orange Bowl) and then we have to go down and play Texas. Everyone will be licking their chops to get at us," Dye said.

"Being No. 1 doesn't change anything. We'll just try and get ready to play one game at a time. If we're good enough, we'll be there. If we're not, we'll try to work a little harder."

"I'll tell you flat out I'd rather be No. 1 in January than in August without any reservations. But I'd rather be No. 1 now than not be. That's what you work for," Dye said.

Texas, which finished eighth last year, is sixth starting out this time with 734 points. Ohio State, No. 9 in 1983, is seventh with 661 points. Neither Texas nor Ohio State received a No. 1 vote, but Notre Dame, Alabama and Miami each got one.

Notre Dame, which didn't make the Top Twenty last year, is eighth with 632 points. Alabama, No. 15 last season, is ninth with 632 points and Miami rounds out the Top Ten with 602 points.

The preseason Second Ten consists of Penn State, Iowa, Arizona State, Michigan, Southern Methodist, Oklahoma, Florida State, Boston College and Florida State, with Arizona State receiving two first-place votes and Iowa and Michigan one each. The final 1983 Second Ten was Clemson, SMU, Air Force, Iowa, Alabama, West Virginia, UCLA, Pitt, Boston College and East Carolina.

The AP poll originated in 1936 but there was no preseason poll until 1950. Only six teams have finished No. 1 after being ranked there in the preseason poll — Tennessee in 1951, Michigan State in 1952, Oklahoma in 1956, 1974 and 1977 and Alabama in 1978 — but no one has maintained the No. 1 ranking every week from a preseason through a post-bowl poll.

Auburn's Bo Jackson dives over a pile of bodies in a game against Kentucky last season. Auburn, ranked No. 1 nationally in the AP preseason poll, lost to defending champion and 10th-ranked Miami of Florida last night, 20-18, in the Annual Kickoff Classic. Also ranked in the poll were Nebraska's Cornhuskers at No. 2, Pittsburgh third, Clemson third, and UCLA fourth. Notre Dame received one first-place vote and came in at the eighth spot. While U.S. athletes may have left the Olympics earlier this month with many of the medals given out, Notre Dame basketball coach Digger Phelps went away from Los Angeles without the one prize he was looking to bring back to South Bend.

Yugoslavian star Drazen Petrovic announced during the Games that he does not plan to honor the letter-of-intent signed last November to play basketball for the Irish—at least not this year. Instead the 6-4 Petrovic, who led his Yugoslavian squad to a bronze medal, will suit up for Cibona, division champions in his native land and a team which will be playing in the European club championships from November to April.

In addition, Phelps also discovered over the summer that guard Joe Buchanan would be transferring to another school.

The Irish coach, in Los Angeles to do analysis for ABC-TV’s coverage of men’s basketball, did not have much to say on the Petrovic situation.

"The kid was under a lot of pressure to stay home," commented Phelps. "He may be here next year, but we just don’t know."

Petrovic, some Irish basketball fans may recall, committed to Notre Dame last November following his Yugoslavian National team’s 75-73 loss at the hands of the Irish in the ACC. In that game, the curly-haired Petrovic led all scorers with 24 points on 10-19 shooting.

Nineteen years old at that time, Petrovic had first caught the eye of Phelps one year earlier when his same Yugoslavian National team visited the ACC and he registered an impressive shooting performance en route to 13 points. Since that game almost two years ago, Phelps had openly coveted the Yugoslavian star.

And in Yugoslavia, that is exactly what Petrovic is—a star. He is presently regarded as one of the best young players in all of Europe. In fact, one European writer even went so far as to describe Petrovic as a better version of former NBA and LSU star Pete Maravich.

Last year upon signing Petrovic, Phelps was excited at the prospect of having his first foreign-born player, yet remained cautious about Petrovic’s chances of ever making it to South Bend.

"Between now and (the time after the Olympics), hopefully he shows up," said the Irish coach at the time. "His plans now are to be here next year as a freshman. We come to the United States to play college basketball, he’s coming to play at Notre Dame."

Since November, Phelps had gone to considerable length to assure the safe arrival of Petrovic here last weekend, including a two-week visit last April to Petrovic’s home in Yugoslavia—all of which may be for naught. Whether he will ever don a Notre Dame basketball uniform is up in the air for now.

What it comes down to is that Petrovic has signed a letter of intent, his father would like him to get the education which Notre Dame could provide; he himself would like to one day play in the NBA and he has also signed to play for Cibona this year. It’s anyone’s guess as to where he will be playing next year—at Notre Dame, in Europe, or somewhere else.

One player Phelps won’t have on his team either this year or next, though, is the 6-2 Buchanan, who has decided to transfer to another school after two injury-filled seasons under the Golden Dome.

A Seattle, Wash., native, Buchanan went through a switch from shooting guard to point guard during his sophomore campaign. He also was confined to the bench off-and-on during the second half of last season with recurring tendinitis in his knees.

Of Buchanan’s decision, Phelps would only say, "Jo Jo’s a player who’s been injured a lot the last couple of years and who is frustrated."

Buchanan, who averaged 5.1 points a game on 19.7 minutes played last season, reportedly is considering attending UCLA, Cal-Irvine, and Nevada-Las Vegas. But he is said to be leaning toward the Bruins.

Steve Beuerlein was one of the few stars in Saturday's lacrosse scrimmage, capping a six-play, 93-yard drive with a 21-yard scoring strike to tight end Ricki Grey.

The defensive secondary suffered through a couple of lapses, as Beuerlein often delivered the ball to open receivers. On the first play of the third series, Beuerlein hit Matt Jackson, who got behind freshman corner Jon Autry when what appeared to be a good grassroots action as three points, topped off with a nine-yard touchdown pass to Milt Jackson. The mistakes began to become a concern as the game went on, with the offensive unit suffering the wrath of offensive coordinator Bill Vitale's-whistle when making free-grass drills as punishment for procedure penalties and fumbles.

Running back Byron Abraham gained 61 yards on 18 carries, but fumbled the ball twice, exemplifying some of the troubles the offense unit experienced. Three times, punted by offensive players, were interceded, and no fewer than 15 penalties were committed during the two-and-a-half hour scrimmage. "The scrimmages are a time to look at what we need to improve," Faust said. "We've got to improve our aggressiveness against the defense and cut down on the number of mistakes on offense."

There were some eye-raising statistics, though, as freshman quarterback Tony Tolotti (for 53 yards) led for the most receptions with Alvin Miller (four catches for 57 yards). Also, freshman quarterback Robby Renner provided a good look to the coaches, finding the day with 14 pars for 78 yards and caught two passes for 46 yards, but had to leave practice after knocking himself out on a block for black chic leg. Beuerlein also engineered a second drive of 65 yards, topping it off with a pass to Jefferson for a 41-yard gain and topping it off with a nine-yard touchdown pass to Milt Jackson.

The mistakes began to become a concern as the game went on, with the offensive unit suffering the wrath of offensive coordinator Bill Vitale's whistle when what appeared to be a good grassroots action as three points, topped off with a nine-yard touchdown pass to Milt Jackson.
