Notre Dame AFROTC top unit in Ohio Valley

By MICHELLE BRADLEY

Notre Dame's Air Force ROTC detachment has been named the top Air Force ROTC unit in the Ohio Valley region.

In an awards ceremony last week, the award was presented to Monsignor Francis Simpson, assistant to the University president for ROTC affairs, by Brigadier General William J. Grove at Grove's request. Grove is the national commandant of Air Force ROTC.

Notre Dame Air Force ROTC unit is composed of 248 cadets, 206 of whom are on scholarship. The unit is commanded by Col. John D. Miles, professor of aerospace studies.

In order to make supervision and evaluation of Air Force ROTC units easier, the nation is divided into five regions. Notre Dame belongs to the Ohio Valley region, which is comprised of thirty schools. Of these thirty schools, Notre Dame was rated as having the best Air Force ROTC detachment.

Grove, who graduated from Colgate University as a distinguished Air Force ROTC cadet and has taught Air Force ROTC classes at Florida State University, said, "Notre Dame Air Force ROTC unit, "is obviously a good one."

Saint Mary's Mother/Daughter weekend planned for November 9

By MARY FRAN GISCH
News Staff

The junior class of Saint Mary's is hosting the annual Junior Mother/Daughter Weekend Nov. 9-11.

Invitations and a schedule of the weekend's events have been sent to the mothers, who are asked to respond by Oct. 19. Chairwoman Liz Zimmer said, "Already the response has been tremendous."

Besides traditional events such as tennis, aerobics and the Mother/Daughter Mass at the Church of Loreto, Zimmer has elaborated or changed events.

For the first time, mothers are invited to attend classes Friday with their daughters. "This will give the mothers a feel for the academic life their daughters lead at Saint Mary's," said Zimmer.

Chenaniagns will perform at the Friday night reception at Stapleton Lounge.

Changes have been made in the Saturday night schedule. It will start with a cocktail hour at the Century Center followed by dinner and a fashion show by Hudson's.

Previously, the fashion show was Saturday afternoon. It was not well attended at that time. Zimmer feels having it after dinner will finish off the evening nicely.

The package costs $80 and includes three meals for both mother and daughter and the weekend's other activities. Also, Americania hotel rooms are available for the mothers at a reduced price. The weekend cost for an extra person is $30. The package price is less than last year and even includes an extra meal.

Another first is the Saturday Buffet Luncheon to be held in the Haggar College Center Parlor. Seating times are 11 am, 11:45 am, 12:30 pm or 1 pm.

Students are asked to stop at Haggar College Center on Oct. 30 or Nov. 1 from 10 am to 11 am and receive the luncheon time and dinner seating arrangement.

A lecture series that will deal with topics pertinent to today's women will be held at various times Saturday afternoon. Zimmer promises it to be quite interesting and expects the sessions to be well attended.

Also scheduled is the National Shakespeare Company who will perform the comedy "The Two Gentlemen of Verona" in O'Laughlin Auditorium Friday night. Tickets for mothers are $5 and daughters will receive a free ticket.

Zimmer and committee members Linda Carcio, Lynda Dowling, Maureen McCordy, Therese Ryan and Diane Harvey are pleased about the enthusiastic response the weekend has received thus far.

Zimmer said, "We've tried to plan it so that both mothers and daughters will thoroughly enjoy the time they spend together. The committee and I have upscaled the events to cover the academic, social and spiritual lives of the juniors at Saint Mary's." She said it will be "the biggest Junior Mom's Weekend yet!"

Joe Zahn resignation sparks mixed reactions from campus leaders

By BOB MUSELMAN
News Staff

Joe Zahn's resignation last Thursday from the Judicial Council chair drew a mixed reaction. Pete Jarret, the council representative from Flanner Hall, said he "had no idea," that Zahn was going to resign until an hour before the meeting.

"Some of his ideas were good," said John Pietrowsicz, representative from Pangborn Hall, citing Zahn's attempts to increase the interaction of the rectors and the Judicial Council.

Bill Bergamo, elected to take Zahn's place, knew of Zahn's plans to resign. He said he "gave up on the wrong foot," and that his direction would complete the projects already in progress.

Zahn had been especially criticized for his attempts to transfer control of student elections from the Ombudsman's office to the Judicial Council. The Ombudsman's office is a non-political organization within student government which acts as a problem seeker.

Ombudsman Henry Sienkiewicz said his organization has no problem with Zahn or the Judicial Council. The disagreement about election procedure was just that - a disagreement not a personal matter.

Bob Vanderbeinde, editor-in-chief of The Observer, said Zahn's labeling of him as a "clown" for editorials criticizing Zahn and the Judicial Council "didn't bother" him. "I wish he would have addressed the criticisms his actions have received," said Vanderbeinde. He added Zahn's resignation provided the Judicial Council with a "brighter future."

35,000 attend Chicago protest rally against nuclear buildups in U.S.

By KIMBERLY TRENNER

Thirty-five thousand nuclear freeze supporters gathered Saturday in Chicago to march in the Midwest Freeze Rally. Among the 18 scheduled speakers were Chicago Mayor Harold Washington and the Reverend Jesse Jackson. Although the rally was billed as a non-political event many of the speakers attacked President Reagan's policy regarding nuclear arms.

According to the Chicago Sun-Times, rally coordinator Gene Podulka said he was delighted with the turnout for Saturday's mud-soaked demonstration. "If you want peace you have to work for the next three and a half weeks," Podulka said at the rally.

The daylong rally began at 11 a.m. with a parade down Michigan Avenue and ended with speeches in Grant Park.

The groups who marched represented freeze groups, Vietnam Veterans, women's groups, students and children.

Leonard Woodcock, former United Auto Workers president, also urged negotiations for an arms control treaty with the Soviets. Woodcock said that our country would be stronger and safer with a freeze than by continuing to escalate the arms race.

Thousands of drunk Kansas State students attack police after game

Associated Press

MANHATTAN, Kan. — Thousands of drunken Kansas State University football fans, celebrating a victory over their archrival, attacked police early Sunday in a "frightening" near-riot in which several officers were injured and 25 people were arrested, police said.

"We had several thousand drunk people on our hands... and they started attacking officers," said Manhattan police Sgt. Darrell Yarnall. The situation came close to erupting into a riot, he said.

As many as 8,000 people, most of them students, had packed into a two-square-block area of shops and bars known as Aggieville to celebrate Kansas State's 24-7 victory Saturday over the University of Kansas, Yarnall said. The victory gave Kansas State the Governor's Cup, awarded each year to the winner of the game between the two schools.

"They got to drinking, it kept getting more crowded and they started to take over the streets," said Yarnall, who was among officers from Manhattan, Junction City and the Kansas Highway Patrol who were called to the scene. "They can tell you it definitely was frightening," Yarnall said.

Police Sgt. Vernon Brown said the "mass disturbance" erupted about midnight.

The celebrants, chanting "We're number one," started to get unruly and chock off streets, he said. One officer was stabbed in the forearm with a knife and others were pelleted with bottles and debris, he said.

Reinforcements were called in, and it took about 75 officers, most of them wearing riot helmets and carrying wooden clubs, a couple of hours to clear the area and restore peace, Brown said.

Six officers were treated at a hospital and released, and several other officers sustained injuries that did not require hospital treatment, Brown said. Most of the injuries were cuts and bruises on the face and arms, he said.

Twenty-five people were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and battery of a police officer, Yarnall said. By mid-morning Sunday, most had been released after posting bail, he said.

There were no reports of serious property damage, but at one point a crowd rushed into a convenience store and began stealing beer from the cooler, Brown said.

Yarnall said police did not use tear gas, but that a "civilian type" set off a canister of tear gas in a bar.

Chei Peters, vice president for student affairs at Kansas State, said Sunday morning that he had not received an official report about what took place. He said the situation would be reviewed and appropriate disciplinary action taken against any students found to have broken the law.

Suddenly last summer the world came crashing down on Jim (a pseudonym). His story could easily get lost in the sea of stories that to this day fill the local and national media. But Jim's story is too important to allow it to go unnoticed.

You see, Jim is gay. And Jim used to attend Notre Dame and therein lies the crux of the conflict. Jim had just come out to his Notre Dame community and then returned to Jim's tale. It is a story that will continue to haunt the University community if they are, in any way, to be held accountable.

The ND-SMC Gay Society

Some members tend to be more prominent, more celebrated - loved, if you will - than others. Sometimes it's difficult to know why a parent seems to relish the achievements of one child more than another, but in the case of Notre Dame it is much easier - although realistically no less complex - to perceive why gay people are "invisible" to the campus population.

When this campus celebrates its stars, they are often shrouded as a world ofining on a field or a court, or scholars pioneering new paths in research, or believers embodying in their lives a commitment to social justice. These are individuals the University chooses as images of the University - the "heroes" of the campus. You are no longer eligible for the campus. You have been more helpful to him during his stay here.

Some might say that Notre Dame did help him by not presenting a false world to him, by presenting a world where his gayness did not matter. But perhaps Notre Dame could have taught him the best lesson: that to survive in the knowledge that the Notre Dame family had supported him as a student and would continue to support him as an alum.

The Gay Society of Notre Dame - Saint Mary's encourages members of the Notre Dame family to learn more about sexuality and creating positive role models. Those interested may call Counselling Monday through Friday between 4 and 12 and ask for tapes 20 and 21. The Counselling line is 239-7793. Information about the Society can be obtained by writing: GND-SMC (P.O. Box 194, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.)

Jim graduated from Notre Dame in May and returned to his home in Maryland. When he was a sophomore he had told his family of his sexual nature and his family had told him to get some help. He went into therapy for a while and the subject was never formally discussed or watered down so its effectiveness is lost. As a result of administration pressure, the senate will propose tonight to establish a store selling only generic items. There is no reason not to brand name items as well, as generic goods will not have the same selling potential among students.

Students, set up in the spirit of fair competition, would provide a needed alternative to the bookstore and would prove that student government actually can have an impact on the issues that matter.

Sir Obnoxious for president
by Marc Ramirez
features columnist

Believe me, annoying ones, it was never among Sir Obnoxious' intentions to run for president. But if he appears there, it is only because Sir Obnoxious must do to his power in this to aid this wretched country. Therefore, you little nongrats, be hereby declares, at this obnoxious declare, his candidacy for president of the United States.

It was Sir Obnoxious that he has a mere three weeks to campaign for this high and mighty position, and so he will have to move fast. Worry not, for every political move has been planned with careful forethought.

First, let Sir Obnoxious briefly present his platform. Ask him about any issue. Religion and politics? He's for them. The federal budget deficit? Make it bigger. Nuclear arms? The better to play practical jokes with them with.

What does Sir Obnoxious plan to accomplish in the next four years if elected? Legalize bigamy. Make Frisbee an Olympic sport. And believe me, any在中国的 companies whatsoever. He makes money the old-fashioned way: he buys it back. Employment in the past has included a cashiering position at K-Mart, photographer for Foods in a patchy record deal that for Monday. Sir Obnoxious estimates his wealth at approximately two thousand dollars, but if you include his secret estate in Beverly Hills, then he runs somewhere up in the millions.

Thirdly, since the two "major" candidates have quite a head start on these other futuristic actions, they will have to be taken in order to make up for lost ground.

Excerpts from the Mondale/Reagan/Sir Obnoxious debates:

Sir Obnoxious: You guys call yourselves a choice? I'd have an alcoholic candidate for president.

"I never thought I'd be writing to you, but something happened at work last week that changed all that. I was alone in my office when my boss' secretary, Lolita, walked in.

One a st, always a stud

A I think most people know, the word "stud" refers to a special breed of horse or mare that is kept for the special purpose of breeding. Over the years, the word has expanded its meaning to include those who pride themselves on their relations with females. Funny, some are only legends in their own minds.

Last year, Potzy (fictional name for pot, dope, drug, restaurant, Air Supply records and tapes, and Old Milwaukee beer.

What question would you most like to ask the other candidates? Reagan: Taxation? Uh, well, I uh, I'm a tax accountant. And if they think they, well, they're the only other thing coming.

Sir Obnoxious: Latin American countries can push us towards anything they want. They can insult the United States and my family heritage. They can send illegal aliens into the country by the shipload. They make up for lost ground.

1st. Second, Sir Obnoxious must make his financial disclosures. Sir Obnoxious does not wish to touch either of the candidates. If they have any. If they don't, they're mildly embarrassing. And if they can't say it, but it rhymes with "irr." And Sir Obnoxious would respect Miss Busch more even if, in Sir Obnoxious humble opinion, she weren't such as well, Sir Obnoxious can't say it, but it rhymes with "old bug."
That undying spirit...
It seems that nothing can keep us from enjoying our home football weekends. Not rain. Not the alcohol policy. Not even losing to Air Force. Absolutely nothing.

This collection of photos from the last three football weekends gives testament to the fact that the Fighting Irish spirit never fails. The encouragement from our cheerleaders has continually kept us cheering, and the songs from the band have even moved us enough to get us to stand up during halftime. And if you've ever caught a glimpse of our band majorette, Julie Schwebel, you know that she's never without a smile.

We owe a great deal of thanks to our parents and assorted alumni friends who sponsored all those tailgaters that gave us a chance to do some partying on an otherwise partyless campus. Especially grateful is this partier, Chris Almon, getting by with a little help from his friends.

And last, but not least, is that talented little guy who returns to campus for every home game to show off his football skills on the South Quad. Here we see him successfully recovering the fumble. Eat your heart out, Steve.

And remember – keep the wave rolling!

Notre Dame basketball coach Dig- ger Phelps had to be feeling some- what satisfied this weekend after Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic As- sociation, admitted Phelps was right two and one-half years ago when he made allegations of cash payments to ath- letes. Phelps, who alleged that a stand- ard rate of $10,000 a year was being paid to outstanding basketball players by a number of colleges, made his statements at the Final Four in March of 1982 in New Or- leans. At the time, Phelps was sharply criticized by his peers for making his comments when he did. However, Saturday, in an inter- view with The New York Times, Byers acknowledged the truth in Phelps’ remarks, saying additionally that Phelps had underestimated the amounts of the cash payments.

"I didn’t believe it in the time and believe it now,” Byers told Peter Al- fanso of The Times. “I won’t speak to a person to the value of the money. And we’ve had people tell us on a confidential basis that’s more than that.”

When I made those statements, Phelps said yesterday, “I was just talking about things that I had talked about for years. I knew that time was in my favor. Those (in the coaching ranks) knew what I was talking about. But we still haven’t com- pleted the mission.”

Byers made his statements in light of a growing awareness nationwide of the number of recruiting viola- tions presently taking place.

“We’re not keeping up with the chase,” Byers said. “I’ve talked with our representatives and I people it respect and the problem is much worse than I thought.”

Byers, who has been executive director of the NCAA since 1951, also addressed the issue of schools which break the rules and yet do not feel any remorse.

“I will say that it bothers a lot of our people who sense a lessening of resolve among coaches that the rules are enforced.” the 62-year-old Byers said. "Fewer coaches are willing to cooperate.”

The “younger generation” of coaches, is somewhat less cooperative, Byers added.

Phelps also feels that those in- volved with college athletics will do something soon to rectify the pre­ sent problem situation.

“I have the belief that an over­ whelming number of people — the presidents, athletic directors, fac­ ulty and coaches — want a better world in intercollegiate athletics,” said the administrator of 91 mem­ ber institutions. “I think they will embrace a new order.

“In a society, there will be chronic violators in any system. But I think this is worth the effort. With a con­ scious re-evaluation, it could very well work. If it doesn’t, then intercollegiate athletics could be seriously damaged or destroyed as we know it.”

“There’s one way to handle it,” Byers said in an interview with The Observer early last week. “If Byers would come out and just emphasize the problem with consist­ ency, and I mean the big powers — it would have a severe impact. Stiffer penalties are what we need.”

“Obviously, it’s not working now. What we’re doing now is noth­ ing,” continued the Irish coach.

Athlete says he was offered car

DALLAS — Keith Stanberry of Okla­ homa, a leading recruit in 1981, says he might be playing for Southern Methodist University if an SMU alumni had not offered him cash and a car to sign with the school.

“I feel like he was trying to buy me and I didn’t want to be in that position,” Stanberry said. “I’ve talked to cardinal symmetry with the national program and alumni recruiting for 20 months. Stanberry said the Dallas Times Herald the offer was made by William Means Jr. of Mount Pleasant, a 1971 SMU graduate who was a loan officer and executive vice president of a Mount Pleasant bank at the time.

“I said, ‘What kind of car do you like?’ I said, ‘280Z.’ He said, ‘You can have that if you sign with us, ’” Stan­ berry said.

Means denies making the offers and says he did not even try to recruit Stanberry for SMU.

Stanberry also says Means offered him a $10,000 signing bonus “to do nothing” except work out and lift weights.

comparison to last weekend when the Irish were overcome in their own backyard.

“I was not pleased with our per­ formance against Western Michigan at all,” said Petro. “I didn’t think we gave them a strong effort. It ap­ peared as if Western Michigan wanted it more than we did and we weren’t willing to give that extra bit of effort that it would take to beat them. If we would have given a stronger effort, we would have won this game.

Despite taking the North Star Con­ ference Championship and receiv­ ing early predictions of a Division II National Championship in women’s tennis, Petro is now hesitant to predict that the Irish will even make it to the final tournament unless they strengthen their play against a more aggressive court.

“I don’t think we’re in our regular invita­ tional with my players. I’m not longer taking national championship,” said Petro. “Not that it’s a matter of the question — I’m not saying that — but, they are not as well trained as our Irish invitational. I suggested that they’d be better working a little less unless they get their act together. I’m not even talking national tournament.

“I think we have the potential for it (the national title) and that’s what we’re going to do — maximize our poten­ tial because that’s always been my goal since I’ve been coaching.”
SMC volleyball wins two matches

At Bethel College, the Belles picked up two victories. In the first match Saint Mary's defeated a tough team from Trinity Christian College of Chicago, 15-12, 15-15, 15-13. The Belles then topped host Bethel, 15-4, 15-7.

Saint Mary's Coach Brian Goralski said Trinity is one of the tallest teams he has seen. The squad's height ranged between 6-0 and 6-3, which obviously helped against Saint Mary's at the net. The Belles, however, were not to be intimidated. "We adjusted pretty well," commented Goralski, and we kept the ball in play every time they hit over our block."

Although Trinity had the height advantage, the Saint Mary's coach said he feels the Belles had the upper edge in technique. The match was "good for our defense," Goralski said, referring to the team's excellent digging abilities which kept the match close. After splitting the first two games, the Belles found themselves down, 13-8, in the rubber game of the match. Senior Ann Boutton and freshman Ann Mary Carole Feldman rose to the occasion and responded with their powerful serves to lift the team to its twelfth victory of the season.

"(The Belles) proved they came out to play ball," Goralski said, citing sophomore Patty Williams for her nice outside shots when the pressure was on.

Coming off the grueling two-hour match with Trinity, the Belles continued to play well as they disposed of Bethel in straight games for the second time this season.

Goralski credited Bethel with improving since the two teams met earlier in the year, but he also said the Belles have been improving even more. He said he felt each individual player put forth a "good all-around effort." He particularly noted the consistent play of Boutton and freshman Mary Carole Feldman.

Saint Mary's season record now stands at 13-5. The Belles will attempt to improve this record against Ancilla College of Donaldson, Ind., tonight in the Angela Athletic Facility.

Although he said Ancilla does not have a very strong team, Goralski said the match will give his team a chance to work on some specifics as it prepares for another dual match on Thursday night with conference team Huntington College, and DePauw University.

In NAIA action, the Belles have only one loss in nine outings and a victory over Huntington could lock up a spot for them in the district tournament.
Detroit wins World Series on Gibson's homers

Associated Press

DETROIT - The Detroit Tigers capped a classic seven-game season and captured their first World Series, since 1908 by defeating the San Diego Padres 8-4 yesterday in the fifth game, as Kirk Gibson drove in runs in five runs with two home runs.

Gibson's second homer, in the eighth inning, came off relief ace Goose Gossage, who had not allowed a run in seven previous World Series appearances. Lance Parrish also homered off Gossage in the seventh inning.

The victory completed a three-game sweep of the Padres at Tiger Stadium after the two teams had split at San Diego.

The American League champions in the final game unveiled a potent offense that led the major leagues with 292 runs and 187 home runs during the season. They combined the timely hitting of Gibson in this game, Alan Trammell throughout the series and two complete-game victories by Jack Morris to dominate the Padres at Tiger Stadium.

Gibson, the AL playoff MVP, had not captured their first World Series title in the 1976.

The Tigers finally saw their starting pitching fail in this game - a problem that had plagued San Diego throughout the series. But Aurelio Rodriguez balked the Tigers out with only one out in the eighth inning.

Tony Gwynn moved into his out field position, and second baseman Alan Wiggins moved out. Wiggins called Gwynn off the ball and made the catch while still backpedaling.

Gibson made the catch above his head, stopped his momentum and threw, but it was too late to catch the running run. The victory capped a season that saw the Tigers become the third team, and the first since the 1927 Yankees, to go wire-to-wire in first place. The Tigers, who won 101 games, clinched the American League East on Sept. 18 and swept Kansas City in three games in the AL playoffs.

Lance Parrish, who had missed the last one third of an inning for shoddy Padre fielding and baserun-ning, said: "I was able to get it done."

Gibson changes jeers to cheers

DETROIT — Detroit slugger Kirk Gibson, bussed by Tiger fans just a year ago, turned the jeers to cheers yesterday.

Gibson homered twice for the Tigers in a 8-4 victory over the San Diego Padres and the 1984 World Series champions.

"I think I've just proved what a lot of people said about me," Gibson explained in the joyous and noisy Tiger dressing room. "We've always thought of myself as a clutch player, but when things were going bad last year, not many people believed that." The bottom line is that we played great defense, hit with power and got great pitching."

Craig Lefferts relieved Hawkins and walked Curt Lemon in lead bases. Pitcher-liner Rusty Kuntz then popped up shallow right field. Tony Gwynn moved into his outfield position, and second baseman Alan Wiggins moved out. Wiggins called Gwynn off the ball and made the catch while still backpedaling.

Falcons' wishbone prevails

Sloppy play costs Notre Dame

By MARK S. PANKOWSKI
Sports Writer

Before Saturday's football game someone was heard to ask, "How could it come thus far at Notre Dame when ESPN televises the football game?" A better question might be, "How come Notre Dame plays so poorly when its games are televised?" Of Notre Dame's last 13 network television appearances, the team has won just two. Contrast that record to the fact that Saturday's win marked the seventh televised game in a row that Air Force has lost.

This contrast between the two teams' television records is akin to the contrast between the way the two teams played on Saturday. While Notre Dame was struggling to find its lost offense, Air Force was marching up and down the field almost at will.

The game's statistics speak for themselves. Air Force's potent wishbone attack had 371 yards rushing, which is over four times as many as Notre Dame's 90. The Irish had 117 yards rushing in passing by a margin of 117 to 27, but that statistic is offset by the fact that Notre Dame passed 29 times to Air Force's 12.

In fact, Air Force halfback Jody Simmons had 27 rushing attempts, but he failed to complete any of them. He is one of the most outstanding option quarterbacks in the country, and had a hard time finding open people when his games are televised.

Speaking of Greg Pshsniak's fourth quarter stumble deep in Notre Dame territory, DeBerry said, "We could have put them away a lot earlier than we did if we didn't drop that ball."

Saturday's game probably was best summed up by junior halfback Allen Pinkett. Asked why Notre Dame couldn't move the football, Pinkett answered simply, "The defense just stopped us."

Adding to the Irish offense's misery Saturday was the problem of holding onto the wet football, as Notre Dame coughed it up six times. The quarterback's mishandling of a center snap, a much too common occurrence this year, accounted for four of the six. "We lost only one fumble all day, but each time the snap fell to the ground it cost the Irish a much-needed down."

"Those fumbles killed us," Grooms admitted.

The Falcons themselves turned the ball over three times, more time than Notre Dame did. However, their turnovers didn't hurt them as much since the Irish failed to capitalize on any of them. The turnovers served only to prolong the time in which Air Force finally put the game out of reach.

Unfortunately for Notre Dame, it doesn't get any easier from here on. With games left against such teams as South Carolina, LSU, Penn State and USC, the Irish have got their work cut out for them.

To make matters even worse, some of those games will be on network television.

New players, new season

Students' actions show lack of support for football team

Dame. Why is it so hard to resign ourselves to the notion that the Notre Dame football team is not nearly as good as people think? If we admit as much, we could maintain our image as a loyal student body that thinks being good sports is just as important as winning.

It used to be that teams would concede defeat when they played Notre Dame. Now our opponents know that Notre Dame is not invincible anymore. They know that if they have a good game, there is a good chance of winning. Many teams set the opportunity to win over the Irish and more than a few have been successful in the last three years.

It is very obvious that something needs to be changed. Our offensive scheme has been solved by the opposing teams and the players cannot do anything about it. The Irish can consider themselves lucky to have scored at all. But when you need scoring opportunities and the offense is only able to throw the ball 14 times in the game, it is not a good sign.

The Irish have not scored a touchdown in their last two games. They have scored only one field goal in their last two games. The offense is not doing anything to help the defense.

One of the things that is needed to be changed is the way the team is being coached. The players are not being taught the correct techniques to play football. The coaches are not giving the players the proper amount of time to practice.

The Irish need to start playing better if they want to win games. They need to start playing harder if they want to win games. They need to start playing smarter if they want to win games.
