In a special effort to communicate with younger voters, the Republican campaign for Indiana's gubernatorial seat has produced America's first political "music video." Republican Robert Orr's video, which first aired Oct. 5, is aimed at 18-24 year olds.

The two-minute video is receiving air time on MTV as well as on commercial television programs where viewer demographics show a concentration of younger voters.

The video features Gov. Orr with recording artist Henry Lee Summer. The 1st song from Summer's new album, "Stay with Me," is the music soundtrack for the video.

Commenting on the video, Orr said, "This video is a unique effort to reach young voters with our central message that the real issue of this campaign is Indiana's future, and that the Orr-Mazu icam is the most qualified, most experienced, and best prepared to lead Indiana into that future.

The governor went on to say although the polls show that young voters are

Pre-meds serve as patient/family liasons in area hospital

By MARK DILLON

Pre-med students at Notre Dame are involved in a program in which they become part of the emergency staff at Elkhart General Hospital by serving as patient/family liasons in the emergency room setting.

The program involves students who volunteer four hours a week at the university's department of epidemiology Dr. Lewin Press initiated the program last September in response to a suggestion of Diane Smith, head nurse of the Elkhart General Hospital Emergency Department. She thought a link was needed between patients, staff and families.

Many times in the emergency room setting both patients and their families are hysterical. They cannot understand the waiting, the lack of news, or the treatment they or their loved ones are experiencing. It is these problems which the student as a patient/family liaison attempts to solve.

The liaison have four basic responsibilities according to Press:

"First they keep a patient company who would otherwise be left unattended. Second, they keep relatives informed of where the patient is, his/her status, etc. Third, they act as a communication link between the patient in the treatment room and the family in the waiting room. Finally, the pre-med student keeps an eye on the patient to make sure there is no unattended crisis," he said.

Press said, "The liaisons are not glorified candy strippers. They are integral members of the emergency department. They gain hands-on experience right in the thick of the emergency process."

The students have become such integral members of the staff, said Press, that when the students left for the summer, the emergency room became less efficient and therefore hired two students as full-time liaisons for the summer.

The program, which last year was strictly volunteer, has become a credited course involving 16 students and meeting every other week. Students are assigned read

Hesburgh answers students' questions

By ANDRE THEISEN

Head Football Coach Jerry Faust can relax. If the alcohol policy doesn't work, it will get tougher.

All three statements are according to Father Theodore Hesburgh, University president, who spoke at a question-and-answer session at the Library Auditorium last night.

When asked whether the football team's performance called for action on his part, Hesburgh stated that ND was a place of integrity and that he would not dishonor Faust's contract.

"Five-year contracts are standard for new coaches," Hesburgh said, "and coaches deserve that period to establish themselves.

Hesburgh is more concerned about the student body's reaction to the team's performance: "I think it's bush when ND students boo their own team," he said. In response to the students' negative reaction after last Saturday's loss to Air Force, "That's not what ND is about. They're our team and they deserve our support," he said, adding, "I've seen much worse teams that weren't booed."

Hesburgh said he completely supported the alcohol policy. When asked if he foresaw further restrictions, he said the policy would get tougher only if the current policy didn't work. Hesburgh reminded the audience it was he who had first allowed alcohol on campus and said ND is a place where students can learn responsible drinking.

Hesburgh admitted liability was part of the reason for the formation of the alcohol policy, but declared the unacceptableness of public drunkenness was the primary reason for the formation of the policy.

Hesburgh declared there will never be coed dorms at ND as long as he is president. In defense of this he cited the need for privacy for both men and women, the ample opportunities for interaction already available and the fact other universities are returning to unisex dorms.

Other topics discussed included the male/female ratio at Notre Dame, the renovation of Louacone Student Center and the student body's ability to be involved in world issues.

Hesburgh, when asked whether ND would ever reach an equal male/female ratio, emphasized the Saint Mary's position.

Tutu greeted by joyous crowds of countrymen

Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Bishop Desmond Tutu, telling a crowd of jubilant supporters "we have done well, all of us," returned to his troubled homeland yesterday as winner of the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize.

"God is saying to us, He is on our side," the black Anglican clergyman declared to more than 200 people who greeted him as he emerged from customs at Jan Smuts airport. He was accompanied by his wife, Leah, and daughters Naomi and Mpho.

The crowd sang "Nkosi Sikelel Africa," (God Bless South Africa), the unofficial black national anthem.

Tutu, 53, a leader in the struggle for equal rights for South Africa's 22 million blacks, joined in the singing and danced a little as he worked his way through the crowd.

Boesak said Tutu's Nobel prize is "a tremendous boom for us at a time when the South African gov

The Palestine Liberation Organization's arms industry with factories in operation throughout the Moslem world—recently developed the PLO's own fighter plane, Vasser Aruf, it was quoted yesterday as saying. The Independent Twentieth weekly, Er Ra'qi quoted the FPO chairman as saying, Palestinian scientists and engineers were in charge of the factories which "have just put the final touches to a combat plane." He gave no details of the aircraft and did not say when it would enter into production, the paper said.

A man shot and killed six children, then killed himself yesterday. The children ranged in age from 3 to 15 years old. Police Chief Ray Hamner identified the man as Robert Day, 30, who said Day's wife, Candace, returned home from her overnight shift at the Evansville Post Office this morning and found her husband dead in a chair with a gun in his hand. She then discovered the children in their beds. Hamner said there was no immediate indication of motive in the killings on the city's far southeast side — AP.

The Air Force sent investigators Wednesday to the remote Monument Valley where an unarmed B-52 bomber crashed during a low level training flight, killing one crewman, injuring five and leaving one missing. The bomber, flying from Fairchild Air Force Base at Kirtland, Wash., crashed about 9 p.m. Tuesday on the sprawling Navajo Indian reservation in northeastern Arizona near the Utah border, about 13 miles northeast of Kayenta. The cause of the crash was not immediately known. Seventy B-52s have crashed on non-combat missions — AP.

Beatrice executive Handley tells of advertising campaign

By RAY MULERA
News Staff

Beatrice’s recent multi-million dollar ad campaign is the beginning of an “overall metamorphosis” which will give the company a status similar to Proctor and Gamble, said Harold J. Handley, senior vice president and director of marketing for Beatrice Companies. Handley made his remarks yesterday in a lecture at Saint Mary’s Haggar College Center.

Beatrice is the nation’s largest food company and the second largest in the world with annual sales of over $13 billion. The new campaign is aimed at increasing the consumer’s awareness of the Beatrice Companies.

The advertisements feature Beatrice’s better-known subsidiary products while stating “You’ve Known Us All Along.” Handley describes this as an attempt to “borrow equity” from the already established products.

The advertisements have allowed Beatrice to “leapfrog over” the other companies in terms of recognition according to Handley. He believes the success of the campaign from their ability to appeal to a wide range of people. Each commercial features several products, each appealing to a different group of people. This, according to Handley, gives the advertisements “rifle shot accuracy” at the targeted group.

Handley said this campaign is a “unique, specific conclusion to Beatrice’s communication needs” and would not work as well for other better known companies. The advertisements are specialized to identify Beatrice with the better known products instead of the usual attempt to identify the product with the better known company.

The lecture was sponsored by the Saint Mary’s Chapter of the American Marketing Association.

Bauer supports state lottery to help fund Indiana educational system

By CHRIS BEDNARSKI
News Staff

Democratic candidate for the Indiana House, Burnett “Burnie” Bauer said yesterday that if elected, he will support legislation for an Indiana state lottery providing the proceeds go to education.

Bauer, a candidate for the 8th Indiana House District, spoke at a news conference from Democratic Headquarters in South Bend. He said he is “dedicated to education that is sorely in need of funds.”

Bauer also said, “Indiana ranks 47th among the states in SAT scores, 41st in expenditure for education per capita income, and 39th in expenditures per pupil.” The state universities are losing some of their best professors to other states because Indiana can’t afford to pay them enough, he said. He added the state needs a well-educated workforce to attract industry.

Bauer has found many people are now traveling to Michigan and Illinois to buy lottery tickets on a regular basis. He said, “The money is going to the states around us and not Indiana.” He also said he has found those people traveling to other states for lottery tickets would prefer to spend their money in Indiana.

Bauer pointed to a study done by Larry DeBaer, economics professor at Ball State University, that estimates a lottery would generate 108.2 million dollars, netting 42.4 million dollars. Bauer money and promotion would take 4% per cent of the revenue and the rest left would help Indiana education.

Bauer said his race is important to getting a lottery because his district is considered important by the Democratic party if they are to gain control of the Indiana House. In the House the Republican speaker, Bob Daily, has killed every effort so far to bring a lottery bill to a vote, although he now says he will allow such a bill to come to the floor. Bauer said, “The best bet is to put in candidates in favor of it (the lottery) and who have supported it in the past.”

Associated Press

NEW YORK - A majority of likely voters questioned in an NBC News poll administered yesterday said Walter Mondale won his first debate with President Reagan, but the debate and the later vice presidential debate seemed to have little effect on Reagan's commanding lead in the presidential race.

The poll, conducted between Oct. 14 and Oct. 16 among 1,556 likely voters nationwide, showed Reagan and Vice President George Bush ahead of Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro by a margin of 60 percent to 35 percent, a slight change from a similar 58-38 margin in a recent early September survey.

Mondale was declared the winner by a 3 to 1 margin by those who watched or listened. Almost one-third of the likely voters questioned said they did not watch or hear the debate between Bush and Ferraro, but those who did thought Bush did a better job by a margin of 35 percent to 20 percent. Both candidates emerged with more favorable ratings.

Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq - Iran said yesterday it had launched a major offensive at the center of the Iran-Iraq war front and killed hundreds of Iraqi troops. But Iraq said it had crushed the new assault, which a military spokesman as saying the new fighting signalled the start of Iran's long-promised "final offensive," which was widely expected at the southern end of the front during the summer.

Both sides said the battles started yesterday morning in the central Sadad area.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, reported Iranian success both in the advance across the mountains of the central sector and in repulsing the Iraqi attack in the south.

It said Iranian forces "advanced and liberated dozens of square kilometers" of Iranian territory in the center of the front that had been under Iraqi occupation since the war started in 1980. Twenty Iraqi tanks were destroyed and hundreds of dead Iraqi troops had been left on the battlefield.

Iraqi forces that attacked in the south were "repelled by the heavy artillery fire of the Iranian forces, and the enemy was forced to retreat," the news agency said.

Iran's latest offensive is beginning to think it could get away with bogus reforms. We have been given a kind of recognition that we needed most at this time.

Chernenko's interview politically motivated, say Western diplomats

Associated Press

MOSCOW - President Konstantin Chernenko's interview with the Washington Post was his first meeting with a Western journalist, and Western diplomats said Wednesday it appeared timed to influence the U.S. presidential election.

Diplomats, who spoke on condition they not be identified, were unanimous in saying the interview seemed designed to influence Sunday's debate on foreign policy issues between President Reagan and Democratic challenger Walter Mondale.

Some also said they believe Chernenko hinted at positive changes in superpower relations.

"You can be certain that they (the Soviets) thought exactly about when they would give the interview. You don't get such a thing by chance," one West European diplomat commented.

The interview, which Washington Post correspondent Donko Dodor conducted on Tuesday, focused on disarmament and superpower relations. Chernenko singled out four major arms control issues and asked the United States to try to reach agreement on at least one.

The West European diplomat said the substance of the interview, asking the United States to make a policy shift in order to get a response from the Soviets, differed little from Soviet statements of the past months.

Yet, he said, the interview contained "a recognition of the need for dialogue" and was "more positive" than negative in tone.

"I think it's quite important," the diplomat said. "Overall, I think it's the beginning point of a process which, as before, will be long and difficult. We just have to wait for the Soviets to shift their position a little."

Other Western diplomats concurred.

"The latest bunch of transients were among more than 1,000 who have decided to leave the city. They were not registered to vote and were being 'dumped' because they were not registered to vote and were no longer of any use in the upcoming election."

"That's absolutely silly - completely ridiculous," she said.

I was once proud to be a Dodger

Dear Editor:

I was once proud to be a Dodger.

Now I'm not so sure, thanks to the total lack of class shown by the entire team of the student body at the Air Force football team. As a former sports editor, our team and its coaches have tried their hardest to win every foot ball game. However, the last game of the season, because they haven't brought home a national championship in seven years. Apparently, some students think so. They booed for much of the second half and all of the third. This is a "spoiled brat" attitude. Many people are involved in sports, especially with the tough schedule played by Notre Dame. The players are not trying to please anyone. They are proud to be here, no matter what the record. They have gone all out, every game. It is sad to see that some of our students do not have as much class.
Reeling Irish take on undefeated Gamecocks

ND must stop veer in order to break two-game losing streak

BY THERON ROBERTS

Sports Writer

The Gamecocks of South Carolina are the next team to invade Notre Dame Stadium, and they will be trying to extend their five-game winning streak over a team that has seen brighter moments reduced to only a dim glimmer of hope that the tide will turn around. Notre Dame is in the midst of a two-game slide at home. The last time the Irish lost three games in a row in Notre Dame Stadium was in 1960 under Joe Kuharich, when the Irish lost four in a row and finished 2-8 for the season.

South Carolina is in its second year of rebuilding under head coach Jim Morrison. The team did not play for a lot of experience last season, as the Gamecock roster was packed with underclassmen. Last year the Irish travelled down to Columbia, S.C., and handed the Gamecocks a 30-6 defeat. But this year, the South Carolina players have come back and appear to be using last season as a building block towards their 5-0 record.

"I think last year's outcome will help us in this game. We got so far behind in the first half that we were playing catch up after Notre Dame's first five possessions," says Morrison. "The second half was an improvement, however. I think last year's outcome will help us in this game."

So far this season, the Gamecocks have beaten Georgia and Pittsburgh, and are well deserving of their 11th-place national ranking. Even though it is already halfway through the season, however, South Carolina will be playing its first game away from home.

"I'm not concerned about playing away from Columbia," offers Morrison. "I think sometimes you play a little better on the road than you do at home."

If you happen to be on the other side of the fence, though, it is hard not to notice that the two consecutive losses have�erated the morale of the fans and caused the Notre Dame players to lose at least a little confidence in their own talents and in the abilities of the coaches.

"We are playing a team with a lot of momentum and we don't have that," says Irish head coach Gerry Faust. "But that doesn't mean that things won't change."

Another thing that remains the same for Notre Dame this week is that it must overcome some key injuries in order to perform well on Saturday.

South Carolina's offense against Notre Dame's defense:

The Irish will have another chance this Saturday to prove themselves against an option offense after the Air Force destroyed that it must overcome some key injuries in order to perform well on Saturday.

South Carolina's offense against Notre Dame's defense:

The Irish will have another chance this Saturday to prove themselves against an option offense after the Air Force destroyed the 6-0, 175 pounder has completed 37 of 65 passes for 559 yards and five touchdowns, while giving up only four interceptions. He poses a threat to run with the football also. He has accumulated 209 rushing yards, but his actual figure is less because of yardage lost in quarterback sacks.

Hold has performed well in a backup role. Although he throws less frequently, he is still a threat running with the ball. Hold has connected on 14 of 20 passes for just under 300 yards, well over 20 yards per completion. At 5-11, 195 pounds, Hold is well-suited to run the football and has gained six yards a carry, again neglecting yardage lost via sacks.

South Carolina has a quartet of running backs to choose from when running the veer option, and has balanced the number of times each one carries the ball very well.

The top two rushers from '83 return, juniors Thomey and Kent Haggard, but are only in second and fourth positions in rushing yardage this season although they have over 1,760 and 1,200 career rushing yards, respectively. Haggard has 236 yards, 4.5 yards per carry average) and Haggard has rushed for 186 yards (6.2 average). Both are compact, but possess strength as well as speed.

Even though injuries in the beginning of the season got both Thomey and Haggard off to a slow start, the Carolina running offense did not suffer. Quanton Lewis and Raymond Branch have filled the voids, and now are the number one and three ground gainers for the team. Lewis, at 6-0, 198 pounds, is not an overpowering runner, but has picked up 316 yards and has an impressive 7.5 average. Brown has contributed 199 yards (5.1 average). Obviously, this American Studies major hold fond memories of his high school years. "At Moeller we never worried about winning or losing," says Larkin, "it was taken for granted."

Larkin came to Notre Dame the same year as Faust with similar ideas of success. However, these hopes have not materialized as yet.

In his freshman season, Larkin played in all twelve games while seeing a great deal of time in the latter part of the year. He played mostly behind Mark Zavaglia at weakside linebacker during the 1981 campaign.

In 1982, the Howard Hall resident had a great season with 30 receptions in 1983 and has 12 catches so far this year.

Injury-plagued Mike Larkin finally will get his chance to take field once again

Many things haven't gone right for the Notre Dame football team last two weeks. Not only did lose important games on both Miami and Air Force, but the team also has lost many key players in starting positions because of injuries.

South Carolina has many starters and other important players on the injury list, there is one player returning from the disabled list who could turn this team around both in the physical and in the psychological sense. This athlete is Mike Larkin.

Larkin is a 6-1, 221-pound senior, will return to the team. Lewis, at 6-0, 198 pounds, is not an overpowering runner, but has picked up 316 yards and has an impressive 7.5 average. Brown has contributed 199 yards (5.1 average). Obviously, this American Studies major hold fond memories of his high school years. season. He finished second among all Irish players with a total of 110 tackles, only three behind leader Zavagin, while starting in every game. He also led the team in tackles for losses with 13. This ability to stop the opposition behind the line of scrimmage is attributed to his quickness and capability of reading an offense.

The entire 1985 season and the first half of this one have been very frustrating for Larkin. It has been a time during fall practice exactly one year and a day after his lifetime

"We're doing essentially the same kind of things as coaches," Morrison says. "We try to follow the guidelines that have been successful in the past. In no way do we ever envision being 5-0 at this point, but we, as coaches, don't look at those things before the season. We're very happy to be where we are."

Morrison has successes have come about because he has used an offense that he knows very well and has the right coaches and players to do the job.

We're running the veer offense for nine years now," Morrison explains. "It's a very tough offense. It's very defensive and gives you a better passing dimension than the wishbone, but is similar in concept."

Morrison is slow to accept some of the credit he deserves for his accomplishments, but Sadler, a close associate of Morrison's, knows the man's value to a program. "There are three things about Coach Morrison that I have noticed since I've known him best that make him successful," says Sadler. "First, he knows how to interview assistant coaches and who you have to bring in to coach the team. Second, he is intelligent himself, so he knows what kinds of things in the game of football are successful. Third, he's a great administrator. He lets good coaches do the coaching and he handles the team at the season.

"He is very thorough in his preparation, knows what he wants to do, and goes out and does it. He rarely makes mistakes. But if he does, he'll take it and learn from it. He doesn't make the same mistakes twice."

A mistake Morrison will never make is to under estimate the team he is coaching. "Most of the men are now used to doing things the way we do them after being here for more than a year," Morrison says. "We try to do it in our system and for them to recognize the importance of each other and each player."

"Being a professional player gives you insights to attitude and how players react to certain things you might try," the coach explains. "You have to use that knowledge to get to our players."

"I wish I knew what the ans was had I had in high school," Morrison says. "I have always dreamed that it would turn out this well?"

Larkin admits that his knee has not yet fully recovered. "I don't have full movement yet," he says. "My north to south motion is good, but when I move laterally, it bothers me."

"To protect the injury from re-occuring, Larkin has been wearing a double brace." It's snug and doesn't allow much movement."

The coaches are going to work hard hitting linebacker back into the system gradually. Larkin himself, doesn't feel that he deserves to come right in and start because John McCabe has been doing a good job. "Although he (Larkin) has been a great player for us in the past," says Faust, "he must prove himself and earn his spot back." Whether he starts or not, Larkin can hardly wait to get back out on the field again. "I am ready to give it my all," says Larkin, "I have been cheerleading for too long."

This potentially dominant player on the defense isn't the only one pleased with his return. "Just having him back is the difference between us being a good team and being a great team." Morrison says.

The in jury list for the Irish or South Carolina is as important as the depth chart, because of the depth problem with free safety Steve Lawrence, who suffered a broken ankle in the Air Force game. Add to that the loss of free safety Mike Howard for the rest of the season, and the Irish defense is keeping the sports world guessing. According to Morrison is having an all-senior offensive line. The Irish running game, averaging 246 yards per game, has been a result of the blocking and execution of the offensive line.

"Ofensively, they present a lot of problems to us," Faust says of the multi-threat attack of South Carolina. "They're also playing with a lot of enthusiasm, a lot of intensity, and they've got a lot of momentum going for them."

As if Notre Dame did not have enough problems already, a significant portion of the Irish defense is keeping the sports medicine staff very busy. Strong safety Joe Johnson is listed as doubtful with an ankle strain sustained in the Air Force game. Add to that the loss of free safety Mike Howard, who suffered a bruised shoulder against Miami, and the Irish secondary will be a little thin. Hiawatha Francisco will probably play, but is not expected to be full speed. "Anytime you're up against a big, strong football team, you're going to get hurt a little," Morrison says. "But if we don't get hurt on special teams, we'll be all right." Morrison is expected to come out of today's game in the Irish secondary. Also expected to be out are cornerback Mike Howard and tackle Eric Dorsey. Tony Furjanic's knee may not be healed before the season ends, but Mike Larkin will have the chance to play for the first time this season after straining ligaments before the season.

Notre Dame's offense against South Carolina's defense: In the past three years, the Irish offensive line has moved no faster than molasses, and has scored in a latching one touchdown per game.

At least part of the problem will be addressed this week, as quarterback Steve Beuerlein will return to the lineup after sitting out last week's game with a shoulder problem.

Senior fullback takes events in stride

It is said that adversity builds character. If this is true, then any athlete that plays for Notre Dame should expect to build some character after four years. Simply by donning a Notre Dame uniform, an athlete is taking on the challenge of representing the university for football, and with this task comes an awful lot of pressure. But one competitor who has taken this challenge and done well is senior fullback Chris Smith.

"There is a lot of pressure at this place," says Smith. "My opponents see those gold helmets, they get just as charged up as we are wearing them. They want to upset Notre Dame.

Smith, a 6-2, 231-pound Cincinnati, Ohio, native, is one of two fullbacks who did not attend Irish Football school. Rather, he played out his high school career at a rival institution, LaSalle High School. "It wasn't an intense rivalry, but we were over-shadowed by Moeller," recalls Smith. "My freshman, sophomore and junior years, we never beat them on the field. Smith was an intense rivalry, but we were over-shadowed by Moeller," recalls Smith. "My freshman, sophomore and junior years, we never beat them on the field.

Senior fullbacks are a different breed of players than their counterparts in other sports. They are the heart and strength of the team, the workhorses that keep the offense running smoothly. They must be able to handle the physical toll of the game and the psychological pressure that comes with it.

"I wish I knew what the answer is as far as why our running game has had such difficulty," says Faust. "We're just not controlling the line of scrimmage all the time. The defense is playing well, and the backs are running with some consistency.

The inactivity for the Irish on offense is less extreme than it has been recently, with Larry Williams finally back to full strength after suffering various knee and ankle ailments. Alonzo Jefferson is also back, though he still has some way to go.

"South Carolina is no slouch as anyone we've seen on defense," says Faust. "They're a lot like Miami in their team speed and athleticism. It's hard to prepare for people around the time. They work well and make it tough to move the football.

The Gamecocks secondary is a veteran group, with three players returning with considerable experience, and two sophomores who have been impressive so far this season. Bryan Gilliard, a senior free safety, led the secondary with 42 tackles and two interceptions.

The Gamecocks linebacking corps is also a strength of the defense, with seniors Paul Vogel and James Seaytop (leading the team in tackles) and sophomore Sancho. But the secondary is not a strong safety.

The Irish have a lot of depth at the fullback position, with sophomores Richard Foster and Chris Smith (a 6-2, 231-pound native of Cincinnati, Ohio) providing solid backups.

"I feel I have in my four years," says Chris Smith. "Our maturity and understanding of things and integration of the position into the offense. You don't have any control over that.

And if Smith continues to produce, you certainly won't hear any complaints from Irish fans either. When the negative comments start, Smith can understand why. "When we lose, we get credit for the loss. And I think the team has matured because of it. We feel I have in four years.

In the 1981 season opener against Louisiana State, Smith came out strong, gaining 61 yards on eight carries. He continued to produce, playing in eight games as a freshman and finishing fourth in rushing with 161 yards and one touchdown. Smith didn't letter at the fullback position, though. Instead, he made his contribution at the fullback slot. After the successful rookie campaign, a new kid arrived on the block by the name of Allen Pinkett, and some position juggling was required. The coaches knew the athletic ability and potential of Smith, and felt a talent like his couldn't be kept on the bench.

Smith was tried with the backfield corps at the beginning of the 1982 season. But despite his hard work and dedication, it was decided that linebacker was the position where Smith's talent would be best utilized. So midway through the season, Smith found himself back at the more comfortable position of fullback. Because of all the movement, his sophomore year was not the most productive statistically. But he kept plugging away.

By 1983, it seemed as if Smith was settled in at fullback, as he split playing time with Brooks. But the ‘83 offense wasn't geared at all that much toward Smith.

"I think I've used that point in the season, and a loss to South Carolina would seemingly doom the Irish to feelings of despair. We have one senior, they need one badly. A victory over the Gamecocks would be as good as gold for Notre Dame fortunes."

McNamara named Bosox new skipper

Associated Press

BOSTON - John McNamara, who rejected an offer to continue as manager of the California Angels, was named manager of the Boston Red Sox yesterday.

The Red Sox made the hiring official at a news conference 10 days after McNamara met with Haywood Sullivan, Boston's co-owner and chief operating officer, and General Manager Lou Gorman.

McNamara reportedly will be paid $150,000 a year, the same salary he received a leading candidate for the Bosox job before he decided to retire last season after being fired by the Los Angeles Angels.

When Don Zimmer was fired in 1980 season, McNamara was considered a leading candidate for manager in Boston. However, Houk, bored by two years in retirement, wanted to return to baseball and signed with the Red Sox.

McNamara, a journeyman catcher in the minor leagues, became a manager at the age of 26 in 1959. He has managed in the major leagues for 10 full seasons and parts of three others. He also has coached for the Oakland A's, the San Francisco Giants and the Angels.

Edges Howser by one point

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Sparky Anderson, who guided the Detroit Tigers to the best record in their history and a World Series championship, has been voted the American League's Manager of the Year by one point over Dick Howser of Kansas City.

The voting was done by two writers each of the AL city and scored on a 5-3-1 basis. The voting was conducted prior to the playoffs and World Series.

Anderson received 15 of 28 first-place votes and a total of 96 points. Howser, who led the Royals to the AL west title, got 11 first-place votes and finished with 95 points.

The battle was won by two writers from each AL city and scored on a 5-3-1 basis. The voting was conducted prior to the playoffs and World Series.

NEW YORK - Sparky Anderson, who guided the Detroit Tigers to the best record in their history and a World Series championship, has been voted the American League's Manager of the Year by one point over Dick Howser of Kansas City.

The voting was done by two writers each of the AL city and scored on a 5-3-1 basis. The voting was conducted prior to the playoffs and World Series.

Anderson received 15 of 28 first-place votes and a total of 96 points. Howser, who led the Royals to the AL west title, got 11 first-place votes and finished with 95 points.

The battle was won by two writers from each AL city and scored on a 5-3-1 basis. The voting was conducted prior to the playoffs and World Series.

Anderson became the first manager to win World Championships in both leagues when his Tigers swept the Royals in the AL playoffs, then beat the San Diego Padres in five games in the World Series.

Anderson guided the Cincinnati Reds of the National League to World Championships in 1975 and 1976.

Hagler set to fight Hamsho tonight in NY

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Marvelous Marvin Hagler will fight for the first time in Madison Square Garden, where most of the great middleweight champions have displayed their skills, when he defends against Mussa Hamsho tonight.

The bout is scheduled for 15 rounds, but most boxing observers feel Hagler will win inside the distance, as he did when he stopped Hamsho in the 11th round of a title defense Oct. 1, 1981, at Rosemont, Ill.

If it should go the limit, at least one of the three judges making the decision will be a woman.

John Branca, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, which is running the fight with the World Boxing Association, said it was possible Eva Sham and Carol Castellanos of New York and Carol Polis of Philadelphia would judge the fight.

It is expected that one of the women will judge the middleweight fight and the other two will work the Calumet-Manhattan bout.

"He's a great coach to play for," adds Boutton, and he has taught me a lot about the game.

Goralski is pleased with Boutton's accomplishments also.

"In the last few years she has improved a lot," says the Saint Mary's coach. "She is a really aggressive player, who always tries extra hard."

Being named one of this year's co-captains along with senior Molly Bakers has brought on additional responsibility for the Brecksville, Ohio native.

"As captain I try to bring the players to work as a team," says Goralski. "The girls looked up to her through the year and she has done a great job in motivation."

When things get down on the court she keeps pushing herself and her teammates to play harder.

Freshman Anne Williard agrees with Goralski's observation.

Along with Willard, freshmen Erin Smith credits Boutton for being very supportive of the whole team and for giving Smith the encouragement and confidence she needed as an incoming freshman.

Boutton, a graduate of Holy Name High School in Ohio, where she earned the Athlete of the Year and Most Valuable Player awards along with being named MVP of the Cleveland Catholic Conference, remembers what it was like to make the transition from high school to college ball and has been trying to make it easier for the freshman.

She noted that in high school, volleyball is more a central part of the player's life. At Saint Mary's, studies are more demanding, there is less fan support, there is traveling, and there are always other extracurriculars one might be involved in.

Boutton seems to have handled the student-athlete role rather well.

The twenty-one year old accounting major carries a 3.4 grade point average in order to receive a quality education and has the opportunity to play," reflects Boutton.

Saint Mary's does not give athletic scholarships, and Boutton sees the positive side of that situation.

"You are playing out of your own choice," says Boutton, "and all the other girls are too, or they wouldn't be out there.

Although she only stands 5-6, Boutton has the middle blocker position, despite the fact that it inevitably puts her up against taller players on the other side of the net.

"The middle blocker position is what I really am most about the game," says Boutton. "It's a challenge."

Her coach also has confidence in her at this position.

"She is not intimidated at all," says Goralski.

Even though she is a versatile player in every aspect of the sport, namely, serving, setting, blocking and passing, Boutton feels hitting is the strongest point of her game. And she won't find too many people to disagree with, especially her opponents.

Though she has rightly earned all of her achievements, Boutton is quick to point to all those who have been behind her.

"Without the support of my family and friends I might not have had the opportunity to attend Saint Mary's and play volleyball," Boutton notes.

"Their understanding of the time and commitment it takes to be a student athlete has been great.

"Boutton is now looking forward to a good finish to the 1984 campaign. The Belles are gearing up for a key match against Marion after fall break and then are hoping for a successful showing in the District tournament.

"I'm hoping the team really comes together in District," comments the 1983 all-district nominee and Saint Mary's MVP award winner.

Although it's been a career of adjustments, Boutton says she would do it all again because she has enjoyed it so much.

"I'm glad I had the opportunity to play for four years," says Boutton. "It has taught me a lot about myself and has helped me to realize my fullest potential.

Boutton sees that she won't have another chance to prove herself athletically, and is grateful for all Saint Mary's has done for her.

"It's an experience that I would have never given up," says Boutton. "I love the game, the competition and knowing that I'm improving.

The team has enjoyed her play just as much.
Plays four conference matches

Volleyball team plans busy break

Everyone is looking forward to next week as a time to sit back, relax and forget the pressures of Notre Dame life, everyone except the Notre Dame volleyball team.

Starting tomorrow night, the Irish travel to Butler University for the final game of their 15-match season. A win against the Bulldogs would give the Irish an outright conference championship, a pleasant surprise after last year's 9-7 season. The team will face the University of Dayton and Xavier University in the main arena of the ACC over the weekend.

"It's going to be a long weekend for us, and we'll have to play one match at a time," says Assistant Coach Renee DeGraff. "We can't expect to walk over any of these teams because they're all good."

Notre Dame's 1-1-1 conference record gives the team a strong seed in the conference, but the Irish must win all of next week's matches if they want to keep their chances for top seed in November's Conference Championship Tournament alive.

"The girls are ready for next week," says DeGraff. "They feel they've got to get the conference title and they know what to do to get it."

DeGraff believes the Irish will play to their potential and combine the finesse displayed in previous matches.

"We've plateaued since Saint Francis (of Illinois) and we've been unable to improve," DeGraff noted. "We're up for the conference matches but not others. We need to strike a balance."

On Wednesday, the Irish saw their season record slip to 7-9 after dropping their second match of the season to the Purdue Boilermakers, 15-3, 15-7, and 15-6. The team was hoping to avenge an embarrassing 15-12, 15-6, 15-8 loss to the Boilermakers in the season opener.

"It's disappointing because we could have taken them in five games if we'd put it all together," says DeGraff. "We scored more against them in the season opener."

Mental errors marred Notre Dame's performance on Wednesday, preventing the team from playing to its ability. Although the Boilermakers are a tall squad, they lack speed and Notre Dame's aggressiveness at the net kept the Boilermakers on the offensive.

Notre Dame's defense did not react effectively to Purdue's offensive push.

The Irish jumped out to a 3-0 lead against the Boilermakers in the first game, but Notre Dame's concentration was broken when an Irish player was caught off the court during a crucial play. The Irish failed to recapture its early momentum and fell to Purdue, 15-3.

Notre Dame was down 13-4 during the third game when the team started to rebound. Two official time-outs helped the Irish regain their concentration and the team capitalized on the delays to win two more points.

"They were good delays," said DeGraff. "But you can't start rallying that late. It should have come a lot sooner."

Midterms and other campus distractions removed next week, the Irish should be able to devote all of their energy to the week's conference matches.

USFL finds evidence of NFL scandal

Associated Press

NEW YORK - The lawyer for the United States Football League, which has filed a $1.32 billion antitrust suit against the rival National Football League, said yesterday it has evidence of a secret NFL committee set up to put the USFL out of business.

The charge, contained in section 40 of the USFL's 39-page complaint against the NFL, was expanded upon during a news conference by Roy Cohn, who filed the suit on behalf of the league Wednesday in federal court in New York City.

It alleges that the NFL formed a committee of club owners and other officers "to recommend means of inhibiting competition by the USFL as a competitive league in major league professional football."

Cohn didn't specify who was on the NFL committee or what exactly it had done to inhibit competition by the USFL, but he did intimate his knowledge came from inside information.

"Previously, the information was supplied to us and obviously, when they created this USFL committee, they did not create it for the purpose of going over the airwaves or into newspapers," he said.

"They didn't expect anybody to know about it. We allege it was done in a clandestine manner."

NFL spokesman Joe Browne denied that any such committee exists. He said that after the league meetings in Hawaii last March, a long range planning committee was formed to "deal with the many issues that confront us down the road."

The members of that committee include the presidents of the two conferences - Wellington Mara, owner of the New York Giants and Lamar Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs. The other members are Mike McCaskey, president of the Chicago Bears and three general managers - Ross Thomas of the Detroit Lions, Bobby Brackard of the Washington Redskins and Mike Lynn of the Minnesota Vikings.

NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, named as a defendant, called the suit "baseless" and "transparent."
Irish cross-country team competes in Indiana Intercollegiate today

By NICK SCHRANTZ

The undefeated Notre Dame cross-country team faces its toughest competition of the year when it hosts the Indiana Intercollegiate Meet this Saturday at the Burke Memorial Golf Course. The five-mile race begins at 4:00 P.M.

Notre Dame is ranked 16th in the country by the national poll of cross-country coaches. The Irish gained this national recognition on the basis of their convincing wins this year: a season-opening five-team meet, whose field included 17th-ranked Northwestern, the National Catholic Meet, and the prestigious Notre Dame Invitational, over 19th-ranked Michigan.

By PHIL WOLF

Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame soccer team, hoping to rebound from a disappointing loss Wednesday to Akron, will play four games over the break.

The Irish will take their 10-4-2 record on the road for three games before returning home for one game.

The competition next week is not expected to be nearly as tough as that which the Irish have faced in the last couple of weeks, according to Notre Dame Head Coach Dennis Grace. The Irish are coming off a tough game against nationally ranked teams, and none of the teams they will face next week is ranked.

Notre Dame will begin its play during break this Sunday at Kentuck. Fans in the area may come out to watch the game at 2 p.m. on the campus grounds.

The Irish are looking for their third consecutive win over Kentuck, which has a 5-3-1 record. After returning home for two days, the Irish will be back on the higher Saturday, heading for Madison, Wisc., to play the Wisconsin Badgers. The game is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

The only meeting between the two teams was in 1981, when they tied, 2-2. This year, the Badgers could again keep the game close.

The Badgers are 6-6-1 this season, and they recently beat Evansville, which was ranked second in the Midwest at the time. In its most recent action, Wisconsin lost to Marquette, number five in the region, Wednesday night, 3-5.

The Badgers rely on the scoring of Todd Zoschke to lead the offense. Zoschke has 12 goals and four assists, followed by John Magill with five goals and two assists.

The Badgers' defense is anchored by goalkeeper Gerald Averill, who has allowed 19 goals in his 11 games for a goals-against average of 1.73.

On Friday night, the Irish will play for the first time ever at Wisconsin-Platteville. Kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. for контест. Platteville has a 4-3 record this season.

Boutton stays constant as SMC team changes

The Saint Mary's volleyball team has undergone quite a few changes in the past four years. There is only one member of this year's team who has been there through all 108 games — senior co-captain Ann Boutton.

"Each year I played with an entirely different group of girls," says the four year veteran. She points out that due to student teaching, nursing, and foreign studies programs, some student athletes found it impossible to make the commitment necessary to remain on the team. Boutton therefore has had to control her playing time and make adjustments from one level of play to another. She has nothing but praise for this year's squad, however.

"This year's team is by far the best as far as talent and attitude is concerned," says Boutton. "I have a great deal of respect for all the players."

Not only does Boutton have respect for her teammates but she also has a great deal of confidence in them, and is secure in the knowledge that any player will come through when called upon to do the job in any situation.

Boutton's teammates have the same respect for her.

"She has been a positive leader both this year and last year, in getting everybody motivated in all ways," says sophomore Ann Brown.

Another major change which the volleyball program has encountered in the past two years is a turnover in head coaches which has brought about the introduction of a new brand of volleyball. Boutton feels with current coach Brian Goralski at the helm the overall program has benefited greatly.

"We are a lot harder and have a better work ethic doing it," says the senior.

She adds that Goralski has given the team some valuable technical knowledge of the game. The team has also instituted the multiple of...

they are expected to have a strong team.

"Indiana has a dynamic squad," Piane says. "Terry Brahn has run a 5:45 mile, a Big Ten record. Also, they have good runners in James Murphy and Charles Marsala. Overall they have a fine team."

While Notre Dame is running against some very good teams, they have plenty of talent of their own.

The seven runners who will compete today are Joe Wild, Jim Tyler, Tim Cannon, and Ed Wiltenbrink, junior John Nagli, sophomore Collin Collins, and freshman Dan Garrett. All seven runners have run consistently fine races, which is the key to a nationally-competitive team.

"Everyone is running extremely well," says Piane. "They run as competitively as any group has run at Notre Dame since I've been here (eight years). They're doing a good job and running with a lot of pride right now."

Today's meet is important to the Irish for several reasons. To date, they have convincingly defeated two nationally-ranked teams, Michigan and Northwestern. A win, especially over a tough Purdue team, would be an excellent start to the Irish field hockey team plays host to Western Michigan after 1-0 win

The Irish dominated the first half, keeping play on the Wolverine side of the field for all but a few minutes of the thirty-five minute period. The Irish were unable to score, however.

"I did not know what to tell my team at halftime," said ND coach Jill Lindelfeld. "We did everything right except score."

Less than ten minutes into the second half the Irish finally put the ball in the net, as sophomore Caitlin Devier scored an unassisted goal to put Notre Dame ahead 1-0. The Wolverines proceeded to dominate the rest of the game, but thanks to the superb defense of goalie Patti Galagher and junior defender Christina Weinman, Michigan was unable to score despite its numerous opportunities.

Lindelfeld attributed the Irish victory to superior defense.

"Our defense played an outstanding game," said the Irish coach. "We desired them the ball and executed our passes perfectly."

Notre Dame will take a 7-4-1 record onto Carter field this afternoon against Western Michi­gan, with game time set for 4:00. The last time the two teams met the Irish were victorious in Michigan by the score of 1-0.

Lindelfeld would like to play as many players as possible, because today is Parents' Day. She is confident about the game at Carter, noting that the Irish are 2-0-1 on artificial turf. Lindelfeld attributes this success to the opportunities afforded them by the football coaching staff to practice on the artificial surface.
