Board of Governance explores possibilities of course evaluations

By ANNE GALLAGHER
Staff Reporter

The same Mary's Board of Gover­nance last night discussed the possi­bility of providing students with course evaluation booklets similar to those sponsored by Notre Dame's student government. Julie Strazzabosco, vice president for academic affairs, said the board's interest in such a plan stems from a survey by the Student Academic Council to question the present means of course evaluation at the College.

"I hope our report will result in a chance for results by spring, 1985," said Strazzabosco.

Currently, Notre Dame students receive course description books which describe the course and the teacher based on student input. If the survey indicates students feel a change is needed in present evaluation methods, Strazzabosco foresees the possibility of such course evaluation booklets being compiled at Saint Mary's.

"It is a big project though, and it probably wouldn't come out until a year or so from now," she said.

Besides the course evaluation sur­veys, the board considered the campus ministry questionnaire, which will be distributed on No­vember 18, following the 10 p.m. Mass in LeMans.

Due to an expressed "lack of com­munity feeling" in the chapel, the Campus Ministry is working student input on the Mass, and may decide to switch the Mass to Stapleton Lounge.

The board also followed up with last week's meeting with the Observer. It was suggested the tradi­tional endorsement of student body officers by the Observer take place the same evening as "meet-the­candidates' night.

"If it puts more pressure on the people running," said Lee Ann Frank, student body president. "But I think it could be good pressure. I think it is a good idea."

Ann Marie Kollman, vice presi­dent for student affairs agreed, add­ing, "I think it also gives people a chance to hear the Observer's ques­tion for themselves, and decide for themselves whether the Observer is right in its opinion or not."

Also discussed was the possibility of an on-campus hair salon. As the College has the space to house such a facility, there are already two busi­nesses for the position. University Hair Stylists and Hair Crashers.

"They would be placing a branch here," said Mary Anne O'Donnell, director of student activities. "It would be purely on an experimental basis for a year."

Reagan and Mondale end campaign, await result

Ronald Reagan and Walter Mondale played out the final scenes yesterday of a year-long campaign during which the president said his work in Washington has "only just begun," and the Democratic challenger charging that if victorious, Republicans would claim a "historic mandate" to raise taxes and send countless young men to war.

The president, ending his final campaign with a nostalgic tour of California, said the conservative "prairie fire" he promised to ignite two decades ago had now swept the nation.

"It was the second American Revolution, and it's only just begun," he said.Listing goals for a second term, he said, "No. 1 of all is peace, disarmament and the reduction of world nuclear weapon."

His underdog challenger im­plied the nation's new leader was to provide the votes for "the biggest upset ever... We can prove that a president who insults our intelligence every day will pay the price on Election Day," he said.

The polls showed Mondale gaining in the campaign's final hours, but despite that, and for all the crowds he drew along his way, he trailed Reagan by runaway mar­gins in nearly every reckoning save his own.

"We're gonna win," he claimed, with vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro virtually the only voice seconding him.

A political pioneer, Ferraro was in the final hours of her campaign, as well, touting Ohio to Pennsylvania to New Jersey to New York with her message: "stand up and fight for Fritz Mondale."

Reagan radiated confidence as his top campaign aide said the president would "try to win everything" and roll up a historic 50-state sweep.

The president offered no predic­tion about the verdict of the voters as he ripped into the Democrats as the party of "torpor, timidity and taxes."

"I'm proud to say that in the past four years, not one square-inch of soil has been lost to community ag­gression," he added, touching on a theme he used often during the cam­paign.

Vice President George Bush wrapped up his 37,000-mile camp­aign for a second term with a flying tour of Texas, where he sought to help GOP congressional candidates.

Student Senate encourages taverns to support new drunk driving plan

By MIKE MILLEN

A resolution encouraging bars and taverns to participate in the "I'm Driving Club" unanimously passed at last night's Student Senate meeting.

Designed to combat stark statis­tics presented by drunk driving, the plan involves local liquor establish­ments providing free soft-drinks for anyone driving two or more drink­ing friends home.

According to Student Body Vice President Cathy David, the idea has met with great success in Wisconsin. She sees the plan as being beneficial to participating establishments be­cause "it can create good will within the community, help combat the drunk driving problem, and will show that they care about more than just money," Brian Deodrick has been placed in charge of the project, and expressed optimism concerning its success. He said South Bend Mayor Roger Parent has expressed interest in the program.

Student Body Treasurer Al Novas presented the student government financial statement for the 1983/1984 school year. The com­prehensive report gave the budget and statement of operations for the past three years. According to Novas, the report was prepared in lieu of an auditing by the Notre Dame Auditors. He said the report showed student government making a profit even after paying ex­penses of more than $620,000.

A Judge reinstated yesterday all charges against the five defendants in the "Twilight Zone" movie helicopter accident, including two counts of involuntary manslaughter based on child endangering against award-winning director John Landis. The charges stemmed from the July 1982 death of actor Vic Morrow and two children during the shooting of a helicopter crash scene in the film, "Twilight Zone: The Movie." Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer also reinstated two counts of involuntary manslaughter based on child endangering against associate producer George Folsey and unit production manager Dan Allingham. Essays on media ethics published by ND Press

Special to The Observer

"The Responsibilities of Journalism," edited by Robert Schmuhl, assistant professor of American Studies at Notre Dame, has recently been published by the University of Notre Dame Press.

The book is a collection of essays arising from a conference convened at Notre Dame under Schmuhl's direction to study the ethical problems of contemporary journalism. Contributors include Edwin Newman, veteran broadcast journalist and author of "Strictly Speaking," syndicated columnist George Anne Geyer, Father Edward Malloy, associate professor of theology and Father Oliver Williams, adjunct associate professor of management at Notre Dame; Jeff Greenfield, syndicated columnist and commentator for ABC News; Max Lerner, syndicated columnist and John E. Swarzengrind, Standard Oil executive.

According to Phil Record, president of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi. "This book is too pertinent to our times, and if we are to become responsible journalists, we should heed the lessons and admonitions it contains." Schmuhl graduated from Notre Dame in 1970 and received his master's and doctoral degrees from Indiana University in 1979. He joined the Notre Dame faculty in 1980. In 1983, he received the Clarion Award for his direction of the "Responsibilities of Journalism" conference the year before.

Bulletin to be revived by University Ministry

By MATTHEW DOLAN

Notre Dame

Notre Dame's Religious Bulletin, a campus newsletter once described as "the most palatable one-a-day spiritual vitamin ever compounded for college students," has been revived by the Office of University Ministry.

The bulletin originally appeared in 1921 and was a prominent feature of student life. It was organized by Father John O'Hara, who was Notre Dame's dean of religious affairs before becoming University president and later Cardinal Archbishop of Philadelphia.

"Informally it was referred to as 'letter from God'" said Father Frank Gartland, a former editor of the bulletin in the late thirties.

Popularity of the bulletin grew, and in Sep. 1938, there was a circulation of 18,000, according to Gartland. Other colleges and nearly every Catholic high school in the country wanted a copy.

The revised bulletin will be a weekly distribution to Notre Dame students at Sunday masses in Sacred Heart Church and copies will be put under student's doors.

"Originally we gave the rectors about ten copies to post around the halls but response has been so positive, we now distribute the bulletin to all the student's rooms," said Father Daniel Jenky, director of Campus Ministry.

The bulletin members said they decided to revive the bulletin because they saw the need to communicate the message of the church.

"We saw the bulletin as a way communicating to the students the way a parish bulletin communicates to its parish," said Jenky.

The bulletin is organized by Father Steve Gibson, Prescilla Wong, and Margaret Garvey. It is designed to communicate church announcements, mass schedules, and religious readings.

"We want the bulletin to be a simple read that students can read quickly," said Jenky.

Jenky said although the demand for copies has been very high, the bulletin will remain a weekly for the time being because there is not enough information for it to be printed daily.
Experts explore ethics of baboon transplant

By PAT CONLIN

The life of a human must always take precedence over an animal, even if it means the death of the animal, said Father Edward Malloy, University associate provost. Malloy was referring to the recent transplant of a baboon's heart to an infant.

The child, nicknamed "Baby Fae," has reached the tenth day could entirely fail if given baboon organ transplants. The landmark operation and its medical and ethical ramifications are now being examined by experts across the country.

"I have no problem with the priority of saving a human life over an animal life," said Father Edward Malloy, University associate provost, and noted expert on medical ethics. "I have a question about whether we should finance advanced technologic surgery like that, or put funds toward things that would benefit the majority," said Professor David Sever, chairman of the biology department at Saint Mary's.

"There is a pressure on scientists to increase their reputation, to gain recognition. The context in which this surgery is used must be examined," said Arechiga.

"It definitely bothers Campbell that Notre Dame, a well-known institution, has speculated a human heart could have been found in time to save Baby Fae. Malloy further said, "I can't imagine a baboon heart functioning in a human, once it has grown beyond the size of a baboon."" The life of a human must always take precedence over an animal, even if it means the death of the animal," said Arechiga. "But if it means the death of the baby, it should be done."

"Mainly we just want to get to the bargaining table," said Arechiga.

FLOC supporters aim for better working conditions

By JOHN HINES
News Staff

Extremely low wages for farm laborers is one reason the Campbell Company is being criticized by agricultural workers, according to Notre Dame student Dennis Arechiga.

Arechiga is co-president of the Notre Dame chapter of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee, a group of farm workers who have been conducting a national boycott of Campbell and Libby products since January. The boycott is aimed at the bargaining table with Campbell.

"The goal of FLOC is to obtain three-way bargaining between farm owners, the Campbell Company and the farm workers. The national transplant recipients -- four farmers -- charged in the case. Some have speculated a human heart could have been found in time to save Baby Fae. Malloy further said, "I can't imagine a baboon heart functioning in a human, once it has grown beyond the size of a baboon.""

"There is a pressure on scientists to increase their reputation, to gain recognition. The context in which this surgery is used must be examined," said Arechiga.

FLOC's major goals are better housing conditions, a $3.50 hourly minimum wage, a 28 hour minimum work week, medical coverage for four months of the year, enforcement of current pesticide regulations, partial reimbursement of travel expenses and retraining programs for workers displaced from the job market as a result of mechanical injuries.

"Mainly we just want to get to the bargaining table," said Arechiga.

Pall-kill government official tied to the kidnap and murder of priest

Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland -- Authorities charged an Interior Ministry colonel yesterday with training in the kidnaping and murder of a pro-Solidarity priest. A dissident said church officials were keeping a "sterilizing" autopsy report secret to maintain calm.

The official news agency PAP carried an Interior Ministry communiqué saying Col. Adam Pobiednik had been arrested and charged with "aiding and abetting" in the kidnaping and killing of the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko.

Dissident historian Jan Jozef Lipski, a member of the non-unionized workers rights group KOR, told journalists he had learned from church sources that "the doctor's description of the body and what most probably happened is terrifying and could heat up the present tense emotions."

Pobiednik, described by PAP as deputy director of an unspecified Interior Ministry department, was the fourth ministry official charged in connection with the case.

A captain and two lieutenants in the secret police face kidnaping charges, and a government spokesman said the three either had already been charged with the killing or will be charged soon.

Government spokesman Jerzy Urb said The Associated Press in a telephone interview that he did not know whether murder charges had been filed against the three, "but if this has not been done, as far as I know, the procurator's office will charge them with the killing."

PAP said the procurator general did not find grounds to charge an other colonel arrested Friday. It said he faced possible "disciplinary procedures" within the ministry.

An official who took part in the autopsy refused to comment on reports that Popieluszko had been beaten, but confirmed earlier that the priest had been thrown into the water with his hands and ankles bound, and a rope tied around his neck so he would choke if he struggled.

U.S. hopes for Soviet approval of new anti-chemical weapons treaty

Associated Press
WASHINGTON - U.S. arms control officials are hoping for Soviet approval of a new anti-chemical weapons treaty which would give each of the superpowers the right to make inspections and check on past treaties.

The unprecedented inspection proposal in the draft chemical weapons treaty is one possible way to keep the Soviets from cheating, say administration officials.

But the Soviets have publicly criticized the U.S. proposal and it is unclear whether they will ever allow it. The U.S. proposal would create a "fact-finding" panel of five nations, including the United States, the Soviet Union and three other countries.

There are now two anti-CW treaties, a 1925 Geneva pact and a 1972 agreement, but both lack enforcement and verification provisions.

President Reagan is expected to win re-election, the Associated Press reported on Tuesday.

Investigation begins in Gandhi assassination

Associated Press
NEW DELHI, India - The ashes of Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi were sent out to six small corners of India yesterday as her son and successor struggled to keep new violence from flaring across this bloodied, embittered land.

The worst of the deadly anti-Sikh reprisals for Prime Minister Gandhi's assassination subsided over the weekend, but at least three people were reported killed yesterday - two in New Delhi, one killed on the outskirts of the capital.

In the chill gray dawn yesterday, about 36 hours after Mrs. Gandhi's killing, some persons said dead by snipers were identified as Sikhs.

The unprecedented inspection talks, is now the subject of intense discussion among U.S. allies, including sources who spoke only on condition they not be identified.

Douglas Feith, deputy assistant secretary of defense for negotiations policy, said in a recent interview that the U.S. treaty "is totally unprecedented. We've never made an offer like this before."

But the heart of the U.S. proposal is an offer to permit "special inspections" of all government facilities, including any military installations, along with all "government-controlled facilities," which would include private companies doing contract work.

That would permit the Soviets to inspect a wide range of U.S. facilities, but even the Pentagon would have to look at Soviet facilities, something the Russians have never granted, he noted.

With polls showing President Reagan likely to win re-election, the administration was hoping which would be pursued in a second Reagan administration are now under review by advisers who are divided on how to verify any pact, particularly amid U.S. charges the Soviets may have cheated on past treaties.

Realizing the kind of civilization we are

At the end of the campaign, with little doubt about victor and vanquished, the historian will observe that everyone was trying to figure out what it all proved if anything.

Did it prove that "issues" don't count for much in a media-oriented culture, that chari-dom does count, that debates are tricky and dangerous, that a campaign can get pretty nasty with steamy epithets and wild disortations or that voters don't behave as pundits want them to?

All this, yes, and much more. For me the campaign has shown the kind of civilization we are, warts and all.

...to the effort to explore for fears, hoping that one of them would break out of the Pandora's box and convert him to an unimaginable victory.

It hasn't, not even the one that trembled for a precarious shining moment on the edge of Europe chest the question of whether Reagan's age. So Mondale is back now with a list of the fears, realizing that no one of them alone could achieve a breakthrough and after a Reagan might join them, all of them together might.

President Reagan, by his nature and position, has had to move away from some of the fears and divisions. Since he is likely to win, he would have been an idiot to want an election campaign that would further tear up a civilization over which he will be presiding until 1989 - and his party probably even longer.

Moreover, a sunny, affirmative mood goes with his image and his public outlook on the future. His campaign is built upon the politics of hope and national pride and to appeal especially to young and even to Gary Hart's "yuppies."

Despite all the fears and divisions, I suspect that American civilization has moved a bit closer to a state of equilibrium than it did in the 1960's, when it was the working class edging toward some sort of balance - in jobs and production, in arms, to prestige - is what America's allies and even its enemies respond to. It is the stuff of a period of realignment.

Mckay resigns as Buccaneer coach

Tampa, Fla. - John McKay, the only coach in the nine-year history of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, announced yesterday he will resign at the end of the season.

His resignation leaves only Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys, Dan Shaft of the Miami Dolphins and Chuck Noll of the Pittsburgh Steelers coaches with longer careers with the same National Football League team.

McKay, who amassed a 127-40-8 record during 16 years with South­ president at the end of the season.

At Southern Cal, McKay led the Trojans to nine Pac-8 championship trips and to eight Rose Bowls. But with the Bucs, McKay's record is only 41-26-1, including a 5-7 mark this season.

His Bucs have made the playoffs two of the past five years, but have won only five of their last 26 games.

Mckay cited the team's perfo r­ mance and his health in his resignation to owner Hugh Culverhouse.

"Recent weeks have shown that while I believe we are fairly close to where we want to be, we are not there yet," said McKay. "In light of my continuing problems with my vision, I told Mr. Culverhouse today that I believe we need someone else to coach the team next season."

for "unsportsmanlike" conduct in a turbulent semifinal against Swedish Anders Jarryd to exceed the $7,500 limit, behaved better yesterday.

But the American's behavior was not perfect. He was warned once by the umpire in the second set for verbal abuse.

McEnroe, the world's top-ranked player, improved his 1984 won-lost record to 75-2 after yesterday's victory before another sellout crowd at the Royal Tennis Hall and millions watching on TV in several countries.

The Wim bledon and U.S. open champion's only setback this year came in the French Open final last June, when Ivan Lendl rallied to win in five sets, and in the first round of the ATP championships at Kings Island, Ohio, last August, when Vijay Amritraj of India stunned the New Yorker.

The victory also earned McEnroe's head-to-head record against Wilander. The defending champion and No. 5 seed here, Wilander held a 5-2 edge over the American going into the final after beating the left-hander on three different surfaces - clay, hardcourt and grass last year.

In the semifinals Sunday, McEnroe knocked out fourth-seeded Jarryd of Sweden 6-7, 6-5, 6-2 while Wilander ousted No. 2 seed Jimmy Connors 6-7, 6-3, 6-3.

Allen, Brown score boxing upsets

Associated Press

The five-day competition continues today with quarterfinal action at the Indiana Convention Center.

Allen, who won the Eastern Olympic Trials earlier this year, matched Watkins blow for blow and was able to capitalize on several of Watkins' rule infractions.

Watkins was penalized a point for ducking his head, which greatly aided Allen in notching the decision.

Watkins was considered one of the early favorites in his division after moving up from the welterweight class where he lost to gold medalist Mark Breland in the Olympic Trials.

Beard, the younger brother of professional boxer Jackie Beard, defeated 1984 National Golden Gloves champ Marvin Chambers of St. Louis on a disqualification.

ND soccer season a success, Irish stand up to tougher competition

By WILL WOLF
Assistant Sports Editor

Last Thursday afternoon, the Notre Dame soccer team ended its season with a 6-0 overtime victory at Valparaiso. Now, first-year head coach Dennis Grace has a chance to look back over the season and assess his team's performance.

The Irish completed their eighth season, with a record of 1-2-2, which is not as good as the team's previous record of 2-1-1 in 1983. However, the team has shown steady improvement throughout the year. The record still is impressive, though, in light of the fact that the Irish played what Grace called "the toughest schedule in Notre Dame history.

The Irish opened the season with three consecutive victories at home, downsing Indiana-Purdue/Turf Wayne, Purdue and Louisville. The team could not sustain the momentum and was swept by the West Virginia Mountaineers the following day.

Despite the inspired play displayed in the first half against the Mountaineers, the Irish stumbled in their next outing at Loyola, escaping with a scoreless tie. Although Loyola was ranked under 500 at the time, the team finished the season with an impressive record, according to Grace.

Grace's team improved from 0-1-3 to 9-1-2 with three victories in the last five games, including a 5-1 victory against Marquette for another big game.

"With the Irish record now standing at 10-4-2 and losses to Central Michigan, the Irish had an excellent opportunity to prove themselves able of competing with the top teams in the region. With games against Marquette and Akron scheduled within three days of each other, Notre Dame had a chance to defeat the third and fourth ranked teams in the Midswest."

Victories over the Warriors and the Zips probably would have guaranteed a spot for the Irish in the NCAA post-season tournament. Evansville, then ranked second in the region, fell in two games the same week.

Marquette rejected Notre Dame, 4-1, in Milwaukee, and the Irish were a number of reasons why the team is a number too cohesive to rally around, we didn't have Grace explained. "There were things we could have done to have that cohesioneness."

The Irish coach has always been quick to blame himself for the team's problems this season. He claimed the main reason his team did not achieve the potential he wished it could be his handling of the team. "I think these girls are making some mistakes, and we are quick to blame ourselves, but our mistakes are coming with experience," Grace said.

The team is one of the top teams in the region, Notre Dame veterans will begin forming up to its potential in the 1985 season. The Irish veterans will begin training for an upcoming regular season. The Irish veterans will begin training for an upcoming regular season.
