Coffeehouse plans revealed by HPC

By SCOTT BEARBY
Staff Reporter

Details for the first Hall Presidents' Council sponsored coffeeshop were unveiled at last night's HPC meeting. This upcoming social undertaking by the council will lead to an ongoing program on the Notre Dame campus.

The new social club, entitled BOFA (Blow-Off For All), is designed to be a coffeeshop environment and "something to take advantage of hall social space," according to HPC President Chris Tayback.

The coffeeshop, which will rotate to each dorm, will have some form of entertainment, and free food and drink. The council wants to promote the BOFA club as a bar without alcohol within walking distance, Tayback said.

Fanner Hall will sponsor the first coffeeshop Wednesday, Jan. 30 from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m. The HPC said they want to encourage participation in this first event to get the BOFA program started well.

Aline Goffin, chairwoman of the Multiple Sclerosis fund drive, reported on the progress of their upcoming money-raising efforts. Notre Dame is one of fifteen universities in a money-raising competition for a free MTV concert this spring. Many campus events will be held in the next two months, including movies, raffles, and dances.

February 7 marks the kickoff to the campaign with a video/dance party. The fundraising will continue until March 29 when there will be an exciting rock-and-roll lookalike contest. Bill Healy, chairman for both events, said the winner of the March contest will appear onstage here during the actual concert if Notre Dame wins the contest. Otherwise the individual will be flown to the site of winning university. The winner is also eligible to compete for an internship with MTV. Goffin and Healy said they are optimistic about Notre Dame's chances to win the fund-raising drive and encourage students to support the effort.

"Senator Pat Browne also spoke to the hall presidents about the new student general store located in LaFortune. He said although sales have dropped since the post-break rash, the store is still running well and Browne and Tayback both said they encourage hall presidents to promote the store.

Tayback further said students should stand behind the store since it is a "very significant achievement for student government.""

In other HPC business, the council said Indiana Congressman John Hiller and University President Father Theodore Hesburgh have agreed to speak as part of a lecture series sponsored by the council. Hesburgh is tentatively scheduled to speak sometime later in the semester on the role of leadership in avoiding nuclear war.

There are many people in leadership positions whose...
In Brief

Forty parking spaces in the north stadium parking lot formerly used by faculty will be given to students. Director of Security Glenn Terry has agreed that student demand is higher than the faculty in that spot, and the parking spaces were not being heavily used. - The Observer

The first organizational meeting of the Judicial Council for the spring semester will be held tomorrow night at 7 in room 124, Hayes-Healy. Campus elections and other items on the agenda for this semester will be discussed. - The Observer

China's National People's Congress will meet in late March to approve the agreement that will bring Hong Kong under Chinese sovereignty in 1997, the official Xinhua News Agency reported Monday. The Hong Kong pact was signed by China's President Jiang Zemin and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher on July 1, 1997, when Britain's 99-year lease on the colony expires. China has pledged to preserve Hong Kong's capitalist way of life for 50 years. The agreement requires approval of the British Parliament and the Chinese National People's Congress, a largely ceremonial legislative body. - AP

A strong earthquake shook the Molucca islands near Indonesia early Monday, a spokesman for the Meteorological Office said. The quake, which measured 5.9 on the Richter scale, struck about 200 miles north of Ambon in the Moluccas, northeast of the Indonesian capital Jakarta, according to the spokesman. The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by the ground motion recorded on a seismograph. A magnitude of six can cause severe damage. - AP

The U.S. Postal Service, seeking to ensure adequate supplies of stamps when postage rates rise Feb. 17, said it plans to issue stamps bearing the letter "D" and carrying no denomination. The D stamps will be issued Feb. 1, as will embossed envelopes bearing the D postage designation. They will represent the new 22-cent high for First Class stamps. Postmaster General Paul Carlin said the stamps without denominations were already in stock and were being introduced because "we estimate that stamp inventories in post offices on Feb. 17 would fall short of public demand." The rate for First Class postal cards will rise to 14 cents. A card bearing a likeness of patriot Charles Carroll and the words "U.S. Domestic Rate" will also be issued Feb. 1. - AP

Michael Jackson's "negative influence on young people" is the reason public posters of the singer have been banned in Ras al Khaimah, a Persian Gulf emirate, an official said yesterday. The director of the Ras al Khamiah municipality, Mubarak Qahaiter, said his officers are making sure the posters are removed from public places, particularly stores selling audio and video tapes and records. "There could be violent incidents if [young people] imitate negative behavior," posters and tapes of Jackson and his songs, along with his dress and hair style, are popular in much of the Middle East. - AP

Weather

A chance of flurries today with highs in the upper 20s. A 20 percent chance of light snow tonight and tomorrow with lows near 20 and highs in the upper 20s. - AP

The Observer

The Observer (1989-50) 2,400 is published Monday through Friday and on some home football Saturdays, except during exams. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame. The Observer is paid for by the students of the University. No subscription is necessary to receive the Observer. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame. Any reproduction rights are reserved.

---

Notre Dame gets trivial

Dan McCullough

News Editor

What was the profit from ND's football program in 1959? To the nearest $100. Where would you go for a golf instruction book for the blind, or the program for the first ND football game?

Notre Dame produced one-half million of a certain item 1959. To the nearest $100. What item was these?

Some of them, however, are downright easy. What is the name of the daily newspaper at Notre Dame?

But Notre Dame isn't the only university with its own trivia game. Time Check also distributes "Basket Hysteria (University of Nebraska)" and "Hawksley Mania (University of Iowa)."

And not just university students and alumni have their own game. After plowing the back forty, farmers can set down to test their trivia knowledge in "Farming and Country," another Time Check game. The company also offers trivia games for Suburban and for Chicago sports fans. But the Time Check's biggest seller so far isn't any of these. Not even "Fightin' Irish Facts" could outsell "Nautical Nonsense," Time Check's trivia game for boating enthusiasts.

---

FAMOUS LAST WORDS FROM FRIENDS TO FRIENDS

1. Did you have the worst head cold this winter? "I've never felt better."
2. Did you have the worst backache this winter? "Yes, I had it, but I drove with my eyes closed."
3. Did you have the worst hangover this winter? "Lucky for me I didn't drink." "Did you have the worst hangover this winter?" "None of your business." "Your head has to work too." "Let's drink." "Notty drive me to the bar, let's drink." "Did you have the worst hangover this winter?" "None of your business."
4. Are you OK to drive? "Yes, of course."
5. Are you OK to drive? "Yes! of course!"

---

DRINKING AND DRIVING CAN KILL A FRIENDSHIP!
The Observer

Wednesday, January 23, 1985 — page 3

Civil rights groups clash with Dole

Associated Press

WASHINGTON: Major civil rights groups are moving toward a con­frontation with Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole over legislation to restore anti-discrimination safeguards. Civil rights groups clash with Dole over these days. Buried under the snow, like most cars on campus, they will no doubt also need some help starting come spring. Except for a few brave souls, no one is attempting to dig them out now.

The Observer/Paul Kramer

Dole will anger conservatives if he refrains from restoring the broad safeguards they say he promises. For now, Dole has sided with the conservatives, the Reagan administra­tion and parts of the business community in deciding just how much protection is needed to restore the status quo from before the ruling.

Asides to Dole, calling him a "master of compromise," say his plans to get some form of legislation through the Senate and not let the issue die there as it did in a conserva­tive filibuster in the waning days of the last session. The liberals' bill passed the House 375-32 last June and is expected to win there again by an overwhelm­ing margin.

The Supreme Court ignited the debate last Feb. 28, when it stripped away a federal law against sex discrimination in colleges that receive federal money while practicing sex discrim­ination.

ATTENTION JUNIORS

Today is the last day to get tickets for the Junior Class Road Trip to SECOND CITY on Feb 8

An evening of fun and debauchery in the Windy City.

Call Dan at 1787 for reservations

USA TODAY

$24.50 all semester

DORM DELIVERY

For more info call JIM 283-2299

 CALL BEFORE 11 p.m. FOR DELIVERY

Hibernation

Bikes around campus are definitely not suf­fering from overuse these days. Buried under the snow, like most cars on campus, they will no doubt also need some help starting come spring. Except for a few brave souls, no one is attempting to dig them out now.

OBUD

continued from page 1

bravy pit. "Right now the place looks like a cross between a truck stop and a Penn Station cafeteria," O'Byern said. "It's getting crowded." Honorable mention winners include Ed Abt, Frank Bolley, Mimi Frechfaer, Margaret Fosmoe, Bob Hart, Susan Hoechler, Mike Ialacci, Jane Paefiek, Bill Purcell and Ken Shea. Their ideas ranged from turn­ing St. Peter's Center into a regular weekend dance and snack spot to painting the water tower blue and gold.

Instead of practical suggestions, many entries merely offered insight into students' pet peeves. "Shoot anyone wearing an argyle sweater," volunteered one entry. Others were easier to please, Seneklew said. "Put 'Dudley' in the Observer," re­quested one.

Seneklew said the winning ideas will be reviewed by the appropriate campus department. For ex­ample, the idea about painting the water tower will be given to Maintenance for consideration. He said he encourages students who favor an idea to support it by writing to the appropriate department or the admin­istration. Seneklew added stu­dents to "speak out" at Ombudsman's monthly Gripes Night.

Crash

continued from page 1

her hometown of Gary, said, "I was fortunate that my injuries were not serious. There were four people on my car who were taken out on splinter stretchers."

"Everyone on the train pitched in, in fact, I went around to help people before I thought of myself," she said.

Fifty-five people were taken to Gary's Methodist Hospital, said spokesman Chuck Green, and six people remained hospitalized there yesterday. At St. Mary Medical Center in Gary, 28 people were treated, said spokesman Cynthia Ivey. Three people remained hospitalized there yesterday.

At St. Mary Medical Center in Gary, 28 people were treated, said spokeswoman Cynthia Ivey. Three people remained hospitalized there yesterday.

Three people were taken to St. Catherine Hospital in East Chicago, said spokeswoman Rebecca Blaska. Two people remained hospitalized there yesterday.

Officials at all three facilities said those hospitalized were in good condition.

A diesel was being used most of yesterday to pull trains over a five­mile stretch of the westbound tracks where the overhead lines were still down, said Shipley.

He said the lines were expected to be repaired by the end of the day, when the track would resume nor­mal operations.

Extreme cold blamed for frozen ceiling pipes in Badin laundry room

By MARK S. PANKOWSKI

News Staff

The recent cold temperatures have frozen pipes in the Badin laundry annex area, causing leaks and temporarily shutting down the laundry's washers.

Cold temperatures were also re­sponsible for a leak discovered in the first floor ceiling of Washington Hall.

The leaks caused no significant damage or other incidence.

According to John Moorman, director of maintenance, the laundry annex leak was a result of someone leaving the laundry's main doors open. "Apparently this was a very unusual case," said Moorman. "It appears someone left the main doors open which is the only way the pipes could have frozen. It had to be a tremendous rush of cold air (to freeze the pipes)."

The maintenance department turned off the water in the laundry room Monday evening after dis­scovering the leak. The pipe was fixed yesterday morning and the washers were back in service later that evening.

Maintenance found Washington Hall's leak in the fire protection sprinkler line early yesterday morn­ing. As of early afternoon, the maintenance department was repairing the pipe. The pipe network has been turned off but the building still has adequate fire protection, ac­cording to Moorman.

Moorman said that yesterday's leak was sanctioned to the building, which flooded Washington Hall earlier in the schoolyear.

After an investigation, it was dis­scovered that the sprinkler system's pipes froze because a student left a window open after Saturday night's Father Guido Sarducci show.

"The problem is like anywhere else on campus," said Moorman. "If you leave open windows when you have sub-zero temperatures, (the pipes) are bound to freeze."
Bombing leads to new strikes

Associated Press

NAQOURA, Lebanon - A deadly car bombing in southern Lebanon prompted widespread strikes and protests today, and Israeli and Lebanese negotiators adjourned without agreeing on security measures to prevent a civil war when Israel's soldiers pull out.

A statement issued by United Nations spokesman Timur Goksel at the end of today's session between military delegations from Lebanon and Israel said that although Lebanon "expressed its reservations" about Israel's three stage plan to withdraw its armed forces from Lebanon, negotiations would resume tomorrow.

As the delegates met in this town near the Israeli-Lebanese border, a general strike spread through Moslem areas of Lebanon to protest the bomb attack Monday night at the home of a prominent Sunni Moslem leader in Sidon, southern Lebanon's largest city.

Two people were killed in the blast and at least 30 others were injured, including Moslem leader Mustafa Saad, who heads a powerful militia in Sidon and is known for his anti-Israeli views.

Saad was airlifted to Paris in a charter jet with his wife and admitted to Bichat Hospital early today. The couple's 12 year old daughter was being treated in a Sidon hospital.

Lebanese government and religious leaders accused Israel's secret service of engineering the Sidon car bombing in an attempt to provoke Moslem-Christian violence at the start of Israel's withdrawal. An official of the Israeli Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem, who spoke on condition he not be identified, denied that Israel was responsible for the explosion.

Hundreds of Lebanese and Palestinian demonstrators paraded through Sidon's streets at midmorning, waving portraits of Saad.

An Israeli patrol of a tank, two armored personnel carriers and a jeep approached the marchers as they neared Saad's wrecked house, and witnesses said some demonstrators hurled stones at the patrol, prompting Israeli soldiers to shoot briefly into the air. No casualties were reported.

In mostly Moslem west Beirut, schools and businesses shut down and many streets were barricaded with burning tires in a show of anger over the car bombing.

Saad's bodyguard and a visitor were killed in the explosion, which collapsed the three-story building housing Saad's residence and office, police said. Officers said the car had been rigged with 220 pounds of TNT.

Moustafa Saad, a prominent anti-Israel leader in the south Lebanon port city of Sidon, is carried on stretcher into American University Hospital in Beirut early yesterday morning after a car bomb explosion collapsed his apartment, killing two civilians.

Attention all ND/SMC Students

SPRING BREAK
IN DAYTONA

• 8 days, 7 nights in a beachfront hotel
• FREE PARTIES EVERY NIGHT
• Coppertone offer when signing up
• Motor coach transportation

Prices per person:

$94 5 per room w/o transportation
$104 4 per room w/o transportation
$184 5 per room with transportation
$194 4 per room with transportation

Call 239-5136 or stop by the Senior Class office in LaFortune between 6 and 9 p.m. Monday - Friday

Sponsored by the Senior Class
Students use their training overseas with the AIESEC work experience

By ANN KALTENBACH
Staff Reporter

Gaining business experience, self-confidence and knowledge is the desired product of AIESEC, according to Mark Herkert, the Executive Vice President of the chapter at Notre Dame.

AIESEC is an international organization devoted to global management and leadership development. It is a student non-profit organization which seeks to identify and train a select group of students with outstanding leadership potential in business and related fields.

AIESEC is the French acronym for the Association Internationale des Etudiants en Sciences Economiques et Commerciales.

"The knowledge learned by working abroad is so practical because it involves basic marketing techniques which can be applied to almost any field," said Herkert. "The group is located worldwide and it can be found in 60 countries among 400 universities and on 60 college campuses."

Herkert said AIESEC came into existence after World War II. Its purpose was to patch relations between countries and to promote understanding through students.

Notre Dame's AIESEC chapter has existed since 1964. According to Herkert, its success has been cyclical.

Notre Dame's AIESEC group belongs to the central region in the United States. Its boundaries extend to Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and Gary, Ind. However, it is now known as the AIESEC of Indiana.

"Basically, we contact international corporations interested in the international realm of business and we do a marketing call. We inform them of the benefits of AIESEC. In effect, we are a place-agent agency," Herkert said.

He added, "We work to bring over highly motivated, cost efficient students with bachelor's or master's degrees to the United States to work."

Herkert said, foremost among AIESEC's international development programs is this traineeship exchange program. Each year AIESEC places over 300 foreign students in U.S. companies with an equal number of American students placed abroad. These trainees may hold jobs in accounting, finance, marketing, computer science and other business related fields.

"Students fill out an application in which they can specify which country, business and role they are seeking," said Herkert.

"Companies also file applications for the type of trainee they want. These applications are then matched with the International Congress and students are selected."

The reciprocal nature of this program allows an American student the opportunity to work abroad every time an American employer accepts a trainee from another country. In effect, American students can learn practical business skills through the contribution of corporate participants.

On the Notre Dame campus, AIESEC has 45 members who pay a $20 yearly membership fee. General member meetings are held once a week.

"AIESEC is open to anyone," said Herkert. "It is in no way restricted to business majors. It is helpful to have taken a few business courses and to know a foreign language, but it is certainly not required."

"It continued, "Americans are in high demand abroad. Likewise, the United States offers responsibility roles higher than any country, so in trainees are extremely qualified.""

"Presently, Notre Dame students are working through AIESEC in Amsterdam, Australia, West Germany, and one from Poland."

"This year, seven students have applied for internships abroad so seven jobs must also be found in the South Bend area," he said.

Foreign students coming to South Bend are placed at Miles Laboratory, Crownshiek (an accounting firm), First Source Bank and at the University itself.

"Member students of AIESEC, if they so wish it, can 'go corporate,'" Herkert added. "They can choose their country, company and role which they can specify in the application.""AIESEC does not offer a guarantee of a placement."

"Companies have a list of students who are highly motivated, cost efficient students. These students have already studied abroad and are interested in international business," he added. "Applicants should stress their capabilities to companies which they have already identified as being of interest."

Herkert said, "It is not a money-making venture. It's an experience you can't beat and looks great on a resume. Nonetheless AIESEC requires committed students."

One such student is Jan De Crane, a fifth year Notre Dame engineering student. De Crane participated in the AIESEC exchange in Lodz, Poland in August of 1984. In his opinion, "I went to Poland on the Iron Curtain program," said De Crane and became interested in going abroad. The AIESEC experience was different, however, from traveling because you get to see things as they really are."

De Crane was placed at a textile mill where he learned about machines and the assembly process. He also added, "People I knew thought the social situation was too good." He also added, "People I knew thought the social situation was too good."

Notre Dame students who are placed abroad are often afraid to offer foreign students work. The people also realized that the products they were producing were inferior quality. According to De Crane, the Polish economy lacked common sense. "Things like butter were rationed which were not in short supply."

De Crane had little difficulty recruiting students for the internships abroad as the students thought that such projects would improve the Polish situation. "People I knew said, 'I made a lot of friends.'"

AIESEC Reception Officer De Crane said, "The most important thing I learned was that we are lucky enough to be born in the United States. We should not feel that things here are too hard. We have so many opportunities to do whatever we want."

De Crane said that AIESEC members applying for internships should stress their capabilities to companies because opportunities to work abroad are often afraid to offer foreign students greater responsibilities.

Spending up in 1984's last quarter

Associated Press

WASHINGTON The nation's economy got a "real kick" from summer spending in the last quarter of 1984 to cause the sharpest annual growth rate in more than three decades and prompt Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige to proclaim "everything is on course."

President Reagan, told of the report in advance, had been unable to restrain himself Monday night during a tour of inauguration balls and said one of the Commerce Department figures released yesterday would be the best since 1951.

That turned out to be the 6.8 percent 1984 growth rate, which got a boost at the end from revision of the fourth quarter estimate from 2.8 percent to 3.5 percent. That fourth quarter figure is subject to yet another adjustment. However, the 1951 growth rate was 8.3 percent.
Girl with vertical hair may opt for Morning Do

by Joe Kapitan
features staff writer

I got a really deep and true appreciation for real girls, said John Fitzpatrick, Assistant Rector of Cavanaugh Hall. You recognize that they're more than just the people around you are suffering. Fitzpatrick had served a one year commitment in the Holy Cross community. "I noticed a strong bond between the freshmen and Fitzpatrick both taught during their commitments. Hennessy taught seventh and eighth graders, while Fitzpatrick in-

A strange thing happened in psychology class the other day. I couldn't fall asleep. Not knowing how I would survive the ordeal, I decided to try to concentrate on the lecture. Feeling restless, I began to glance around the auditorium. It seemed that I was the only student trying to concentrate. And then I saw her - the Girl with the vertical hair.

Not wanting to stare at her, I looked away. My curiosity got the best of me and I glanced her way again. Yep, it was still sticking up. It could not understand this. Had gravity reversed itself lately? Had the wind begun blowing upward from the ground? I suddenly felt an incredible urge to smug her hair down with my hand. But the worst of all, the worst of all, I was the only one, either. There were several other spikethells scattered among the class, as well as a few Bowlcuts and Rat tails. The Rat tails really both.

What had happened to these innocent students? An explanation by the generation performed by blind, folded barber

New Edition, new heroes

Associated Press

A bout four years ago, Ralph Tresvant recalls, he and four pals barely into their teens polished up their Jackson Five routine and entered a talent contest hoping to win some money to go to the movies or to get out and eat pizza.

The scheme worked - perhaps too well. Today, Tresvant and his band New Edition are off limits, because their rebellious acts have earned them the rap of being a bad influence. But mostly, they mean more.

"We just wanted to enter for the money part, to get the prizes. That's all we were heading for," Tresvant continued. "But the pizza parlors and movie palaces where they once planned to spend their windfall are off-limits, because their recent public appearances have drawn fans by the thousands and caused near-riot. In Los Angeles, 2,000 people spent the rainy Saturday after Thanksgiving waiting for New Edition outside a record store. In North Carolina, a shopping mall banned promotional events after some 5,000 teen agers showed up for a similar event in the band's absence.

New Edition mania has brought an exciting new creation. No one is enough. Let's stamp out technology and the heart of the problem.

"When you see life given and taken without you how you see fragile is - and that anything you have is a gift," like Tresvant, John Fitzpatrick considers it a gift to have participated in the Holy Cross Programs. Often ignored, the Holy Cross Associates Program is an alternative for Notre Dame and St. Mary's graduates who want to serve God and neighbor in a basic and substantial way.

The Program began in 1978 with the Portland, Oregon community. Since then, the Holy Cross community has expanded to a total of four in the United States and seven in foreign lands. According to the program's data, 109 people have completed their service in the United States and 66 are currently participating in one year Holy Cross programs in America. Currently, HCA also hosts an annual trip to San Francisco and Santiago, Chile for two and a half year commitments. Associate living conditions vary with each program, but generally conditions are built for ample and sufficient. "Our house in Santiago (the capital of Chile) was a very nice two-bedroom apartment," said Stacy Hennessy, a 1981 Notre Dame graduate and former Associate in Chile.

In the rural areas of Chile, condi tions were much tougher. It was kind of like living in the U.S. at the turn of the century," said Hennessy. There were several rooms where you could re terry for battery - powered radios. You were a long way from a time war.

Discomfort brought home on living by conditions broken through to see theories of the community. "Community life with five other people who are supportive makes it a lot easier to do service," said Minni McKe lley, a 1983 graduate of St. Mary's who served as a community leader in Avondale, Arizona.

While at Avondale, a poor mi grant community, McKe lley also saw a strong bond between the community at large and the As sociates. "There was a real experi ence of parish," she said. "When we moved in there was nothing in the parish, and then we just came in and gave us lamps and things. By the second day we had to go and teach.

Many of the jobs held by As sociates at Avondale are teaching in some capacity. Hennessy and Fitzpatrick both taught during the year Holy Cross Program

New Edition's 1983 hit, "Candy Girl," was No. 1 on music charts at a time when Jackson Michael's "Beat It" was No. 2.

With Tresvant's silky adoles cent tenor on lead. "Candy Girl," the new record, was released in 1984.

I'm sorry I don't do paint sharpening here.

New Edition has cracked the Top 1 on pop charts. So pocket money is no longer a problem for the quintet - gaining in age from 15 years old to 17 years old who grew up to gether in Boston's inner city Roxbury district.

But the pizza parlors and movie palaces where they once planned to spend their windfall are off-limits, because their recent public appearances have drawn fans by the thousands and caused near-riot. In Los Angeles, 2,000 people spent the rainy Saturday after Thanksgiving waiting for New Edition outside a record store. In North Carolina, a shopping mall banned promotional events after some 5,000 teen agers showed up for a similar event in the band's absence.

New Edition mania has brought an exciting new creation. No one is enough. Let's stamp out technology and the heart of the problem.

"When you see life given and taken without you how you see fragile is - and that anything you have is a gift," like Tresvant, John Fitzpatrick considers it a gift to have participated in the Holy Cross Programs. Often ignored, the Holy Cross Associates Program is an alternative for Notre Dame and St. Mary's graduates who want to serve God and neighbor in a basic and substantial way.

The Program began in 1978 with the Portland, Oregon community. Since then, the Holy Cross community has expanded to a total of four in the United States and seven in foreign lands. According to the program's data, 109 people have completed their service in the United States and 66 are currently participating in one year Holy Cross programs in America. Currently, HCA also hosts an annual trip to San Francisco and Santiago, Chile for two and a half year commitments. Associate living conditions vary with each program, but generally conditions are built for ample and sufficient. "Our house in Santiago
The holiday season now far behind, most of us are settled into our places, ready to enter into the routine of a new semester. In this atmosphere it is sometimes easy to forget the plight of those not as fortunate as we are. Nowhere is this more evident than in Africa. While Westerners have generously given from the heart to help those starving, I wonder how many still have food to eat.

In the face of such suffering, the reaction from the rich world has not always been positive. We tend to forget that African agriculture is not so much on the raw amount of food available in the world as it does on the practice and the publicity the food aid response to Ethiopia has received. The plain fact is that the effort came too late. It wasn't until the West invested food to live on to the food grains in Ethiopia that aid began to flow in large amounts. If warnings of the impending famine had been heeded earlier, a million Ethiopians who died might still be alive.

The problem in overcoming the "mego" factor is for the people of comparative wealth. These people are not so much concerned as they are simply unaware of the mounting crisis. Too often, they lose sight of the intense suffering and the human tragedy that lie behind the statistics. When they do contribute to a cause such as Ethiopia, they fail to realize that the problem has not gone away. Indeed, the crisis of the hunger dilemma in Ethiopia is in no way different from the long-term efforts to revitalize Africa itself.

While much attention recently has been focused on Ethiopia's plight, Kenya and Sudan are quickly approaching points of crisis. The FAO estimates that 21 African nations will require urgent food aid in the months ahead. Africa not only needs immediate amounts of food aid, but it needs long-term programs which will enable it to restructure its grain crops, control disease, and acquire the funds to support such programs.

Paul Kenny, a junior and a regular Viewpoint columnist, wants to hear from you. If you know of someone with a humorous or serious view pertaining to anything appearing in The Observer, just mail a letter to P.O. Box 8.

Paul Kenny is a junior and a regular Viewpoint columnist.
Big Ten basketball coaches predict nationalization of 45-second clock

Associated Press

CHICAGO - The basketball shot clock experiment in the Big Ten has failed so far that coaches are predicting it will not only become permanent but will be adopted nationally.

Big Ten coaches this season voted in the 45-second shot clock, where a team must take a shot 45 seconds after gaining possession or lose possession of the ball. And they are expected to adopt it permanently next season if it isn't approved before this year's college games by the NCAA.

"It's time has come," said Coach Rich Falk of Northwestern yesterday. "It has accomplished exactly what it was supposed to do ... it forces people to play the game. It cuts out the all-out wall and the scores haven't gone up that dramatically."

Coaches Gene Keady of Purdue, George Raveling of Iowa and Lou Henson of Minnesota, reached by telephone, also looked favorably on the shot clock.

"I think it will be nationalized," said Keady. "I like it except when you get a lead and you are on your home court. It hurts us in our loss to Michigan State where we had the lead but had to shoot the ball."

The home court could become a fixation with Keady, whose Boiler makers have lost their two games at home in the Big Ten while winning three of four on the road.

"I tempered my view on the clock," said Raveling. "It was not a strong advocate of the shot clock and still has some concerns, but I see it as an integral part of the game in coming years. Our game against Michigan would have been a lot different if the shot clock had not been available."

That was last Saturday's 69-67 triple overtime loss at Michigan. Without a clock, teams selecting the jump in overtime usually hold the ball for one shot instead of having to battle for basket for basket.

"I really like it, it's good for basketball," said Henson, despite the fact it apparently cost Illinois a victory at Minnesota. "We had a seven-point lead with 2:11 to play but we had to keep shooting. Without the clock we would have won that game. It becomes a factor in close games."

Henson's immediate concern, however, is Ohio State. The buckeye Buckeyes invade Illinois', Assembly Hall tonight, Illinois, which is tied for the Big Ten lead with Michigan at 4-2, has won 17 straight at home. Ohio State is only two-thirds of a game out of the lead with a 3-2 record.

Action picks up tomorrow night with Northwestern, 0-4 at Iowa, 3-2, Michigan State, 5-3, at Michigan, Indiana, 3-2 at Purdue, 3-3, and Wisconsin, 1-4, at Minnesota, 3-2.

Georgetown still No. 1

UNLV returns to Top Twenty

Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. - Not much had been heard from Nevada-Las Vegas basketball this year. But the Rams are up to 13-6 and have jumped back into the Top Twenty after falling from the rankings three weeks ago.

\[18. UNLV 13-2 98\]

\[17. Tulsa 14-2 96\]

\[16. Georgia Tech 13-3 316\]

\[15. Louisiana Tech 15-1 596\]

\[14. Oregon 13-3 441\]

\[13. Iowa 14-2 385\]

\[12. North Carolina 14-3 336\]

\[11. Syracuse 11-2 602\]

\[10. Georgia Tech 12-3 600\]

\[9. Villanova 13-3 490\]

\[8. North Carolina 14-4 392\]

\[7. Kansas 13-3 348\]

\[6. Georgia Tech 15-1 314\]

\[5. Michigan 13-3 276\]

\[4. Virginia Commonwealth 13-3 199\]

\[3. St. John's 13-1 1080\]

\[2. So. Methodist 15-1 1108\]

\[1. Georgetown (60) 17-0 1200\]

\[18. UNLV 13-2 98\]

\[17. Tulsa 14-2 96\]

\[16. Georgia Tech 13-3 316\]

\[15. Louisiana Tech 15-1 596\]

\[14. Oregon 13-3 441\]

\[13. Iowa 14-2 385\]

\[12. North Carolina 14-3 336\]

\[11. Syracuse 11-2 602\]

\[10. Georgia Tech 12-3 600\]

\[9. Villanova 13-3 490\]

\[8. North Carolina 14-4 392\]

\[7. Kansas 13-3 348\]

\[6. Georgia Tech 15-1 314\]

\[5. Michigan 13-3 276\]

\[4. Virginia Commonwealth 13-3 199\]

\[3. St. John's 13-1 1080\]

\[2. So. Methodist 15-1 1108\]

\[1. Georgetown (60) 17-0 1200\]

\[18. UNLV 13-2 98\]

\[17. Tulsa 14-2 96\]

\[16. Georgia Tech 13-3 316\]

\[15. Louisiana Tech 15-1 596\]

\[14. Oregon 13-3 441\]

\[13. Iowa 14-2 385\]

\[12. North Carolina 14-3 336\]

\[11. Syracuse 11-2 602\]

\[10. Georgia Tech 12-3 600\]

\[9. Villanova 13-3 490\]

\[8. North Carolina 14-4 392\]

\[7. Kansas 13-3 348\]

\[6. Georgia Tech 15-1 314\]

\[5. Michigan 13-3 276\]

\[4. Virginia Commonwealth 13-3 199\]

\[3. St. John's 13-1 1080\]

\[2. So. Methodist 15-1 1108\]

\[1. Georgetown (60) 17-0 1200\]

"It told the kids it was no time to talk, just keep quiet and play ball," Tarkanian said yesterday. "We've been very low key and we've been winning since then."

Winners of 12 straight since the Georgetown defeat, Nevada-Las Vegas returned to the AP Top Twenty again in the latest weekly poll released yesterday. The Rebels, on the strength of a nationally televised victory over Maryland last Saturday, squeezed into the No. 20 position.

"It's nice we're getting some recognition," said Tarkanian, whose team now is 13-2 on the season.

Georgetown, the nation's only major unbeaten team, remained No. 1 in the poll and, for the fourth time in six weeks, the Hoyas received all 60 first-place votes and 1,200 points from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Southern Methodist moved up a notch to second place, while Duke, ranked second for the past five weeks, dropped to fifth after suffering two two-point overtime losses last week.

St. John's, Georgetown's opponent Saturday, was in third place, followed by Memphis State.

Illinois, 15-3 and 13th last week, jumped to sixth, while DePaul moved three places to seventh with 682 points, two more than North Carolina, Villanova and Kansas. Georgia Tech, Tulsa, Michigan, Virginia Commonwealth and Nevada-Las Vegas.

Boston College, 11-5, which lost to three Big East Conference foes, two of whom were ranked, Villanova and St. John's, fell from the Top Twenty, as did Michigan State, 13-2, which lost two Big Ten Conference games to unranked teams, Iowa and Minnesota.

Michigan, 12-2, rejoined the Top Twenty after falling from the rankings three weeks ago.
Young who tore up his knee before the Notre Dame game, is now a senior. Rice, and a loss to the Flyers only o f the Los Angeles Rams. He is the competitor directly against them in the season," says Phelps, "and we had been cut to seven last week. This year's team is a good team," says DeCicco. "Overall, we're maybe a year away from a real good fencing team. And now we have talented women who want to come to Notre Dame."

Football Hall of Fame names 5 new members

Associated Press

CANTON, Ohio - National Foot­ ball League Commissioner Pete Rozelle, quarterbacks Joe Namath and Bart Starr, Staubach, running back O.J. Simpson and old-timer Frank Gifford were among the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Pete Eliot, the shrine's executive director, announced.

The five will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Aug. 3, prior to the NFL's first 1985 exhibition game be­ tween the Houston Oilers and New York Giants. Their selections in­ crease the shrine's membership to 128.

The endurines were chosen from an original list of 15 finalists which had been cut to seven last week. Failing to make it were running back Paul Hornung and quarterback Fran Tarkenton from the final seven.

Simpson and Staubach were elected in their first year of eligibility after five seasons after their retirements in 1979. Old-timer Starr may have left the sport prior to 1960.

Rozelle, 58, has served as NFL commissioner for the past 25 years after his tenure as general manager of the Los Angeles Rams. He is the third NFL commissioner to be named to the Hall of Fame, joining 1963 charter members Joe Carr and Bert Bell.

Bell, a native of South Gate, Calif, nominated the first league­ wide television contract in 1962, handled the 1965 gambling scandal, directed an interleague war with the old American Football League that led to the current merged alignment and developed the Super Bowl.

Namath, 31, the first New York Jets' player to be selected, is best remembered for his bold victory production and performance when the Jets beat the Baltimore Colts 16-7 in Super Bowl III in 1969. The Uni­ versity of Alabama product, signed to a $400,000 contract with the Jets in 1965, became the first quarterback to throw for 4,000 yards in one season in 1967.

Wednesday, January 23, 1985 — page 10

Dean Young team shows promise

Women fencers find early success

By MICHAEL J. CHMIEL

Sports Writer

While a national title is not imme­ diately on the mind of the Notre Dame fencing team, coach Mike DeCicco says the future looks promising for the Irish. With a 5-2 record in the early going, things should prove to be competi­ tive and fairly successful throughout the 1985 season, according to Head Coach Mike DeCicco.

While the loss of senior co­ captains Mary Shilts and Sharon Gatski have been named to the Pro Hall of Fame Aug. 3, prior to the NFL's first 1985 exhibition game between the Houston Oilers and New York Giants. They were chosen from an original list of 15 finalists which had been cut to seven last week. Failing to make it were running back Paul Hornung and quarterback Fran Tarkenton from the final seven.

Simpson and Staubach were elected in their first year of eligibility after five seasons after their retirements in 1979. Old-timer Starr may have left the sport prior to 1960.

Rozelle, 58, has served as NFL commissioner for the past 25 years after his tenure as general manager of the Los Angeles Rams. He is the third NFL commissioner to be named to the Hall of Fame, joining 1963 charter members Joe Carr and Bert Bell.

Bell, a native of South Gate, Calif, nominated the first league­ wide television contract in 1962, handled the 1965 gambling scandal, directed an interleague war with the old American Football League that led to the current merged alignment and developed the Super Bowl.

Namath, 31, the first New York Jets' player to be selected, is best remembered for his bold victory production and performance when the Jets beat the Baltimore Colts 16-7 in Super Bowl III in 1969. The Uni­ versity of Alabama product, signed to a $400,000 contract with the Jets in 1965, became the first quarterback to throw for 4,000 yards in one season in 1967.

CANTON, Ohio - National Foot­ ball League Commissioner Pete Rozelle, quarterbacks Joe Namath and Bart Starr, Staubach, running back O.J. Simpson and old-timer Frank Gifford were among the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Pete Eliot, the shrine's executive director, announced.

The five will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Aug. 3, prior to the NFL's first 1985 exhibition game be­ tween the Houston Oilers and New York Giants. Their selections in­ crease the shrine's membership to 128.

The endurines were chosen from an original list of 15 finalists which had been cut to seven last week. Failing to make it were running back Paul Hornung and quarterback Fran Tarkenton from the final seven.

Simpson and Staubach were elected in their first year of eligibility after five seasons after their retirements in 1979. Old-timer Starr may have left the sport prior to 1960.

Rozelle, 58, has served as NFL commissioner for the past 25 years after his tenure as general manager of the Los Angeles Rams. He is the third NFL commissioner to be named to the Hall of Fame, joining 1963 charter members Joe Carr and Bert Bell.

Bell, a native of South Gate, Calif, nominated the first league­ wide television contract in 1962, handled the 1965 gambling scandal, directed an interleague war with the old American Football League that led to the current merged alignment and developed the Super Bowl.

Namath, 31, the first New York Jets' player to be selected, is best remembered for his bold victory production and performance when the Jets beat the Baltimore Colts 16-7 in Super Bowl III in 1969. The Uni­ versity of Alabama product, signed to a $400,000 contract with the Jets in 1965, became the first quarterback to throw for 4,000 yards in one season in 1967.

Wednesday, January 23, 1985 — page 10

Dean Young team shows promise

Women fencers find early success

By MICHAEL J. CHMIEL

Sports Writer

While a national title is not imme­ diately on the mind of the Notre Dame fencing team, coach Mike DeCicco says the future looks promising for the Irish. With a 5-2 record in the early going, things should prove to be competi­ tive and fairly successful throughout the 1985 season, according to Head Coach Mike DeCicco.

While the loss of senior co­ captains Mary Shilts and Sharon Gatski have been named to the Pro Hall of Fame Aug. 3, prior to the NFL's first 1985 exhibition game between the Houston Oilers and New York Giants. They were chosen from an original list of 15 finalists which had been cut to seven last week. Failing to make it were running back Paul Hornung and quarterback Fran Tarkenton from the final seven.

Simpson and Staubach were elected in their first year of eligibility after five seasons after their retirements in 1979. Old-timer Starr may have left the sport prior to 1960.

Rozelle, 58, has served as NFL commissioner for the past 25 years after his tenure as general manager of the Los Angeles Rams. He is the third NFL commissioner to be named to the Hall of Fame, joining 1963 charter members Joe Carr and Bert Bell.

Bell, a native of South Gate, Calif, nominated the first league­ wide television contract in 1962, handled the 1965 gambling scandal, directed an interleague war with the old American Football League that led to the current merged alignment and developed the Super Bowl.

Namath, 31, the first New York Jets' player to be selected, is best remembered for his bold victory production and performance when the Jets beat the Baltimore Colts 16-7 in Super Bowl III in 1969. The Uni­ versity of Alabama product, signed to a $400,000 contract with the Jets in 1965, became the first quarterback to throw for 4,000 yards in one season in 1967.

CANTON, Ohio - National Foot­ ball League Commissioner Pete Rozelle, quarterbacks Joe Namath and Bart Starr, Staubach, running back O.J. Simpson and old-timer Frank Gifford were among the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Pete Eliot, the shrine's executive director, announced.

The five will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Aug. 3, prior to the NFL's first 1985 exhibition game be­ tween the Houston Oilers and New York Giants. Their selections in­ crease the shrine's membership to 128.

The endurines were chosen from an original list of 15 finalists which had been cut to seven last week. Failing to make it were running back Paul Hornung and quarterback Fran Tarkenton from the final seven.

Simpson and Staubach were elected in their first year of eligibility after five seasons after their retirements in 1979. Old-timer Starr may have left the sport prior to 1960.

Rozelle, 58, has served as NFL commissioner for the past 25 years after his tenure as general manager of the Los Angeles Rams. He is the third NFL commissioner to be named to the Hall of Fame, joining 1963 charter members Joe Carr and Bert Bell.

Bell, a native of South Gate, Calif, nominated the first league­ wide television contract in 1962, handled the 1965 gambling scandal, directed an interleague war with the old American Football League that led to the current merged alignment and developed the Super Bowl.

Namath, 31, the first New York Jets' player to be selected, is best remembered for his bold victory production and performance when the Jets beat the Baltimore Colts 16-7 in Super Bowl III in 1969. The Uni­ versity of Alabama product, signed to a $400,000 contract with the Jets in 1965, became the first quarterback to throw for 4,000 yards in one season in 1967.
Today

Wednesday, January 23, 1985 — page 11

---

Doonesbury

---

Tank McNamara

---

Bloom County

---

The Far Side

---

The Daily Crossword

---

Campus

---

TV Tonight

---

The Maltese Falcon

---

This week at the Engineering Aud.

---

IRISH GARDENS

---

---

---

---

---

---
Basketball team looks to rebound tonight as 12-3 Dayton visits ACC

By JOE BRUNETTI
Sports Writer

The University of Dayton is not a DePaul, North Carolina or St. John's, but the Flyers aren't a Holy Cross either. Actually, they are somewhere in between. When the Flyers enter the ACC tonight, they will be determined to defeat the Irish at home, something they have never accomplished.

"Dayton will come in here very, very fired up," says Notre Dame basketball coach Digger Phelps. "This is one of their bigger games of the year."

For Coach Don Donoher's 12-3 Flyers, this definitely will be an important contest. Visiting teams find it hard to win at the ACC, but a win over the Irish would impress the NCAA Tournament Selection Committee.

While the Irish finished second in the NIT last year, Dayton received an NCAA tournament bid and would win the third-place game over LSU, Oklahoma, and Washington during the first round in the West Regional.

This season, the Flyers are riding a streak of nine straight victories, which included a win over always-tough Maryland. The Flyers aren't perfect, a fact they proved last year with an 80-70 loss to Wisconsin River Falls in the first round.

Donoher lost star Roosevelt Chapman to graduation, and the loss of Chapman's 21.8 point scoring average definitely leaves a void. But the Dayton mentor returns three starters in Sedric Toney, Damon Goodwin, and Larry Schellenberg. Toney, a 6-2 senior guard, averaged almost 12 points a game last year and was the irish for Dayton in last year's Flyers-Irish mismatch.

"Toney can really shoot it from the outside," says Phelps. "He hurt us in our game last year, and we'll have to be tight on him to win." Toney will be joined in the backcourt by the 6-3 Schellenberg, who is a playmaker for Donoher's squad. Schellenberg led last year's squad in assists with 142.

Transfer Dave Colbert will start at center for Dayton, and he will be joined up front by Goodwin and forward-center Jeff Zern.

The 6-8 Colbert was forced to sit out last year after transferring from Cleveland State. Goodwin, a junior forward, has the hot hand for the Flyers, as he led Dayton in scoring accuracy last year both from the field and the charity stripe.

Zern received little playing time last year, but he showed that he can handle the pressure of big games when he played well against LSU and DePaul.

"We've got to do a lot of improving," says Phelps. "It's about time we got back on the winning track," said senior co-captain Brent Chapman. "We've lost the last two to these guys now, so I think everybody should be motivated to play hard.

"Playing without motivation has been a problem so far. It's seems that after losing like we have been that everybody would be motivated to play hard. But something has just been lacking."

"I think if we get mad, it will help. I think we play better when we have something to prove." The Foresters were riding an eight-game winning streak going into their Classic over the weekend, but dropped a 70-65 overtime decision to Wisconsin-River Falls in the first round.

Lake Forest, 10-4, and Notre Dame played scoreless hockey Saturday for a period-and-a-half before several Irish miscues allowed the Foresters to capitalize three times in the last half of the second period.

"We've got to do a lot of improving defensively," said Irish head coach Jeff Smith. "We need better forechecking and backchecking and we must tighten up our overall play in our own zone."

Notre Dame won three of four meetings between the teams last season, but this season's two Forester wins have come against the series at 3-5 over the last six outings.

The Irish will play without junior wing Dave Waldbillig, who separated his shoulder Saturday during the first period. Senior Rob Ricci also will sit out the second game of his suspension which came as a result of a fighting incident in Friday's third period. Ricci missed Saturday's game with Lake Forest, but must miss an additional game since he was also given a game disqualification penalty on Dec. 1 in a game earlier this season with Alabama-Huntsville.

In other lineup changes, freshman Mark Angiolillo will take over the center spot on the third line. One of two sophomores, John Nickeloson or Rich Sobilo, will move up to replace Waldbillig on the left side of the second line. See HOCKEY, page 8

Basketball team reaches crossroad

Hello again, everybody!

"We stink" (or some derivative of that) was the description one of my friends gave concerning Sunday's DePaul game. "We couldn't shoot, we couldn't rebound, we couldn't do anything. We stink." One could sympathize with my friend. After all, the loss was disappointing. Notre Dame offered no resistance in the game, again, and returned to was cold enough that you could hang meat there. His recollection of Notre Dame's effort.

Not much later, the dissenter opinion was voiced by his roommate: "Great game, Joe. Rivers was incredible and everybody was fired up. We were the NCAAs, no problem!"

His unbridled opinion made me wonder whether we saw the same game. DePaul did win, didn't it? Did his glasses fog up with a rose coloring? Yes. David Rivers had a good game, and the student body put in one of its finer performances. But, come on.

It seems the proper place to put this Notre Dame team right now lies somewhere between pessimism and Pollyannism. The Irish are at the crossroads of being good or merely being average. The Irish defeated Indiana and played DePaul tough for 35 minutes. At times, they have played brilliantly, and there's little doubt this Notre Dame team is capable of being quite good. They certainly do not "stink" or any derivative of that.

In fact, the Irish have been more than respectable to this point. They have played at a .500 clip on the road - something recent Notre Dame basketball teams have been unable to do - and their .500 mark has been to a Top Ten team. There is no reason to hang your head about this team's performance.

That doesn't mean, though, that everything gold on Sunday was glowing. Notre Dame has shown signs of brilliance, as well as bright ones. Flashes of brilliance have been dulled by inexplicable lapses of confidence. Notre Dame was close Sunday - the Irish led by three with 8:21 left - but they never seemed to take control of the game. One hesitates to use the word, but at times the Irish have appeared intimidated.

Secondly, anybody who thinks Rivers will be able to carry this team to the NCAA by himself doesn't have a firm grasp on reality. The Irish need to have a good team effort to beat a nationally-ranked team because no particular dimension of Notre Dame's game is good enough to beat a team by itself. The Irish need Rivers to complement, Scott Hicks and Ken Barlow to hit from the outside, and Tim Keating and Dolan to control the inside. That didn't happen Sunday, and it hasn't happened in any of Notre Dame's losses.

Finally, the Irish have yet to develop any kind of consistency. Notre Dame has improved its outside shooting, but if the guards aren't hitting from the floor, you could throw up a .5. Twilight or Tom Away zone and have a good chance of beating the Irish. Barlow, Hicks and Rivers have been fairly reliable, but nobody has really played well every time out on the court. Just like anything else, one tire of "pick me up" every night.

It would appear the Irish are definitely at a crossroad in this 1984-85 campaign. A 20-20 win season and the NCAA tournament is certainly a goal which is attainable, but the season also could turn out to be merely average. A critical step along either path could be taken tonight, as the Irish entertain the red-hot Dayton Flyers in the ACC.

It is definitely a big game for the 8-4 Irish, as Dayton stands at 12-3. The Flyers have won nine in a row, including triumphs over Maryland and South Florida. A win over Dayton would certainly be impressive not only to the fans, but also to the NCAA Tournament Selection Committee.

Meanwhile, Dayton comes to the ACC with a few things to prove, too. The Flyers have never won in South Bend, and they believe a win in the ACC would give them support to their claim as a Top Ten team.

This Phelps has once again asked the student for support in a big game, and he certainly has every reason to do so. After all, there is no doubt the Notre Dame student body can be one of the most influential in the nation. This game will help decide which the Irish take - a well-paved one to the NCAA tournament or a long and winding one to the crossroad of being good or merely being average.

Pick of the Week - It's off to the track - the indoor track of the ACC - for this week's Pick of the Week. Joe Fleissig, Irish track star, is scheduled to enter the ACC Indoor Championships tomorrow at 6:30 P.M. at Maryland's Field House.

The Irish will be looking to rebound from a tough loss to Iowa on Saturday, and would appreciate a big crowd to cheer them on. Get out of the cold and see some steepling track action. We'll A.C.C. you there!