Healy and Lawrence ticket victorious in election

44 percent of students cast ballots yesterday; voter turnout lowest in five years

Bill Healy and Duane Lawrence carried all but three dorms in yesterday's race for student body president and vice president, handily defeating the controversial ticket of Pat Browne and Joanie Cahill. Healy and Lawrence received 1,796 votes, 55 percent of the votes cast. Browne and Cahill tallied 1,015 votes or 31 percent. The other 14 percent of the vote included write-ins and abstentions.

Voter turnout was the lowest in at least five years, totaling 44 percent, compared to a turnout of 55.1 percent last year. Browne and Cahill received a total of 51 percent of the vote, carrying their home dorms of Studebaker and Lyons in addition to Keenan Hall.

Healy and Lawrence generated overwhelming support from their own dorms, Dillon (194.5) and St. Edward's (190.8), respectively. They were also well represented in Hesburgh, Grace, and Pasquerilla East. Healy was extremely happy with the results, saying he wasn't quite sure which way the vote would go. Lawrence said he was "relieved" after hearing they had won. Healy said he was "thrilled to death about the senators who won" as well, and is confident that they will add much credibility to student government as well as being great for their districts. In light of the recent controversy concerning OBEU's withdrawal and Student Senate's subsequent reinstatement of the Browne-Cahill candidacy, Healy said he would like to "leave it all behind now. The senators are decided to throw it to the students and the students made their decision." Healy also said this will be the "last word I will say about anything that happened."

Healy and Lawrence agreed it will take some time to regain the students' confidence in the credibility of student government. They said this will require the help of all involved, including Browne and Cahill. "We want and need their help," Healy said.

Browne phoned Healy at the student government office and "made a very polite concession speech," said Healy. Both tickets met late last night.

Healy and Lawrence said, as they stated in their platform, they plan to place "much more stress on the platform on which he ran. Regarding the recent problems in the Student Senate, Colum said, "Student government is going to come under a lot of scrutiny from the administration, but I think it's important we bury the wounds and go on."

In District Three (Badin, Dillon, Fisher, Howard, Lyons, Morrey, Pangborn), John Ginty won the race against Tom Browne. Ginty said the new senators must "assess and decide what to do about the image of the Student Senate."

District Four (Planner, Grace, Pasquerilla East, Pasquerilla West) was the only race with more than two candidates, and Planner resident Steve Taeyerts defeated both Peter Blood and Michael Jaeger. "I'm really glad we were able to avoid a run-off. I'm grateful to everyone that helped me. I couldn't have done it without them."

Jim Hagan won the off-campus race against Race Thomas by garnering a 61.6 percent share of the vote. "I'm grateful that the students had confidence in my ability," Hagan said. In response to questions about the recent problems in the Student Senate, Hagan said, "It's unfortunate that we have to inherit the legacy of their mistakes. I plan to work within the Senate as well as outside of it as an advocate for off campus students."

Landslide wins dominate in races for five positions in Student Senate

Landslide victories occurred in all five of yesterday's Student Senate races.

In District One (Alumni, Carroll, Holy Cross, Lewis, St. Ed's, Sorin, Walsh) Chris Abood easily defeated opponent K.M. Burke with a 70.6 percent share of the vote. "I'm happy about the victory. I'm looking forward to working with Bill (Healy) and Duane (Lawrence)," K.C. Colum emerged victor in District Two (Cavanaugh, Breen-Phillips, Keanan, Stanford, Zahm, Farley) where he ran unopposed. Colum said he hopes to "promote unity on North Quad," which is a platform on which he ran. Regarding the recent problems in the Student Senate, Colum said, "Student government is going to come under a lot of scrutiny from the administration, but I think it's important we bury the wounds and go on."

El Salvador's Duarte chosen as Commencement speaker

By KAREN MC CLOSKY

Jose Napoleon Duarte, president of the Republic of El Salvador, has been chosen to address the graduates of Notre Dame this year's commencement exercises. Duarte will receive an honorary degree and be presented to the graduates at the beginning of the exercises in the Athletic and Convocation Center May 19.

A 1948 graduate of the university with a bachelor's degree in civil engineering, Duarte is the first civilian to be popularly elected to the presidency of El Salvador in more than fifty years. He is the first Notre Dame alumnus to become a head of state.

Duarte was invited to address the graduates by University President Father Theodore Hesburgh. After Duarte confirmed the invitation, the selection was presented to the Board of Trustees at its meeting this past weekend.

According to Hesburgh, "The board was very happy about it." Asked why Duarte was chosen, Hesburgh remarked, "He was recommended by a wide variety of people at the University. He is the first Notre Dame man to be named head of state."

Officials at the University have planned to present Duarte with an honorary degree since his election in 1984. Although the topic of Duarte's address has not been announced, Hesburgh commented, "Being a graduate, he knows what he will say to the graduates."

Hesburgh added he may offer a few suggestions for the theme of the address.
In Brief

Conferences

The NBC television network will carry the Palm Sunday liturgy live from Notre Dame's Sacred Heart Church on March 31. The hour-long program, presented in association with the U.S. Catholic Conference, will begin at 11 a.m. Father Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame, will be the celebrant of Mass, the first ever to be televised nationally from Sacred Heart. Father Daniel Jenks, retainer of Sacred Heart Church, said it will be necessary to have reserved seating in the congregation for students and other members of the Notre Dame community. Locally, Channel 16 WNDU-TV will carry the program live. The Observer

A benefit lunch at the Center for Social Concerns will be hosted tomorrow from 11:30 until 1:30. The menu will include Brazilian soup, salad, hot bread, coffee and desert. All proceeds will benefit the work of a South Bend native working in a school for the poor in Lima, Peru. The Observer

The fast starts today. Students who pledged to take part in the Wednesday lunch fast are reminded that the fast begins today and continues throughout the semester. Also during this time, from 12:15 until 1 every Wednesday, a prayer/reflection group will meet in the Notre Dame Center for Social Concerns, sponsored by the World Hunger Coalition. The Observer

Father Robert Taft, professor of literature at the Orien­tal Institute in Rome and consultant to the Vatican's Congregation for Oriental Churches, will give a lecture entitled "The Divine Office: Reflections on the Recent Reform of the Roman Breviary" tonight at Notre Dame's Memorial Library auditorium. The lecture is sponsored by the University's Department of Theology. The Observer

A senior ski trip meeting will be tonight from 6 until 9 in the library auditorium. Room assignments will be selected and the remainder of the balance is due. Stots are still open, call Gary at 283-1701. The Observer

Student Senate's elimination could be a service to ND

Congratulations to Chris Tarbyack, chairman of the Hall Presidents' Council, as well as to Junior Class Presid­ent Rick Burcham.

Both of these have this writing resigned from the Student Senate, it is believed that more will follow. These two became aware that the Student Senate is a pretentious force; a force which should be eliminated now, while its true character has been freely revealed to the student body.

The fasts of the past few days have not cost Notre Dame student government any credibility. It had none before they happened; at most, the latest "scandal," if they deserve such a word, only proved to the remaining doubters that student government is, as it currently stands, a force.

Some good may yet come of this; however, perhaps the inane events of the last few days will provide the spark needed to begin a long overdue restructuring of student government.

One of the main problems with student government is that it is too balkanized to be effective. There are five or­ganizations which profess to represent students: the Sen­ate, Hall Presidents' Council, Campus Life Council, Student Union Activities Board, and class officers. Of these, only the CUC can pretend to have any power; since members of the ad­ministration are counted in its number. The HPC coordi­nates hall activities, the SUAB, campus-wide events, and elections for hall leadership. The CLC has no activities for each graduating class.

The Student Senate overl­laps these functions; it serves no useful purpose. It should be abolished. Sure, the senate sets budgets for the Student Union, the Judicial Council, Ombudsmen, and other organiza­tions. Another body could do this just as well, or the administration could set the budgets. After all, no budget of which the administration disapproves will ever be allowed to pass that barrier.

The senate also sometimes plan morale-raising functions, such as picnics, in their districts. Additional student union commissioners responsible for each quad would carry out this function quite capably.

The only other purpose for the Student Senate is to perpetuate the myth that students have a voice in Uni­versity policy. It looks good for the University to have student government; it's a farce which should be eliminated.

If a figurehead student body president is wanted as a co­ordinator between the different halls, he or she could still be of some minor use. Perhaps he or she could serve to communica­tion between student government and the administration. In any case, the elimination of the Student Senate would be a great service to the students of Notre Dame.

ate" because "the way (the Student Senate) is set up, it doesn't represent the students themselves as much as it does organizations such as the Student Activities Board."

Healy said they will study Chris Tayback's plan to restructure the Senate. "The restructuring committee will be extremely important," Lawrence said.

Tayback said, "We think we'd make our point better if we restructure from the inside rather than the outside. The recent elections incident is the prod which will bring about this much-needed restructuring of the Student Senate."

He also added his seat as Hall Presidents' Council Chairman will be filled by Dillon Hall President Bernie Pellegrino. Tayback resigned from his position on Monday.

Concerning OBUD, Healy said "as we made very clear in our platform, we plan to work very closely with OBUD to ensure their continued success as an organization. To avoid the problems which the Student Senate and OBUD encountered in this year's elections, Healy said, "it will be necessary to start from scratch in establishing election rules." Student Body Vice President and Co-Chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee Cathy David said the elections ran smoothly despite OBUD's refusal to run the elections.

The three representatives to the Student Senate from the Hall Presidents' Council are staying. HPC Chairman Chris Tayback's proposal to remove the HPC representatives and to "take steps to encourage (the senate's) immediate disbandment and reorganization," was rejected by the council by a 6 to 15 vote, with one abstention and three absences.

The proposal would have removed the three remaining HPC representatives Kevin Howard (Kieran), Diane Lawrence (St. Edward's), and Josie Cahill (Lyon's) from the senate at least until the senate can be restructured.

Tayback resigned his position from the senate Monday. The HPC decided instead to ask the senate for an explanation of its actions, and to attempt to work with the senate in reorganizing the senate's structure.

Tayback's proposal called the Student Senate's weekend decision to restructure the student body presidency in light of Pat Browne and Cahill, "irresponsible and unrepresentative of student sentiment." It continued that the HPC representatives in the senate "legitimize that body as representative."

The proposal said, "The recent actions of the senate have shown us, beyond doubt, that this senate is not an effective student voice, and lead us to question whether a senate so comprised can ever be effective or representative."

In the discussion preceding the vote, Tayback said, "in interhall government we do a lot, we have a lot of power, but I think we ought to take a stand on this right now."

But Scott Harder, Flanner Hall president, disagreed. "I didn't become a hall president to get involved with campus politics anymore. It's a real lack of faith in Bob (Kieran, student body president) and Cathy (David, student body vice president) who have done a pretty good job. I don't think it's our place to decide the structure."

Hesburgh helps with ND response

University President Father Theodore Hesburgh will join several noted professors from the University for a discussion of the bishops' letter "Catholic Social Teaching and the U.S. Economy" tonight at 7:30 in the auditorium of the Center for Continuing Education.

Tonight's discussion will be part of an effort to develop an "official Notre Dame response" to the letter's first draft, said Bill Rakowski, president of Omicron Delta Epsilon. The economics honor society is sponsoring the event.

"Bishop McManus told us he values Notre Dame's opinion because of its academic standing and its broad experience in each of the areas of the letter," said Wackowski.

Snow emergency declared

Special to The Observer

Director of Notre Dame Security Glenn Terry yesterday announced a snow removal emergency.

Parking of registered student vehicles in Faculty/Staff lots shall be restricted during the emergency. Student vehicles parked between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m. will be towed away at the owner's expense.

The security department personnel will attempt to contact registered student owners between the hours of 11 p.m. and midnight to avoid towing. Parking lots for Faculty/Staff must be cleared so the workers can begin plowing.

Students may park in the lot south of the stadium to allow the plows more access to the other student lots. The emergency will be in effect until the lots are returned to their normal access.
He's an ND guy who made good. There were only girl scouts and boy guerrillas with no bodyguards, remarked. "He went to talk to the main speaker. and is doing a good job."

"He's a gutsy guy," Hesburgh said, "Church, state, everything."

The interventions of international officials and the government of Venezuela saved Duarte's life. Even though he was tortured before being delivered over the Venezuelan border and killed, "Look at his face," Hesburgh said. "You'll see where he was pistol whipped."

"He's a ND guy who made good and is doing a good job."

Chernenko illness real,
Soviet officials admit

Associated Press

MOSCOW - Soviet officials confirmed yesterday that President Konstantin Chernenko is ill and said he canceled a scheduled meeting with Greek Premier Andreas Papandreou, a Greek government spokesman said. Chernenko has not made a public appearance in nearly seven weeks.

A Soviet Foreign Ministry official said Chernenko, who came to power a year ago today after the death of Yuri Andropov, was out of town "on vacation" and that there would be no meeting.

Greek government spokesman Dimitrios Maroudas later told a news conference that a planned meeting yesterday between Papandreou and the 75-year-old Soviet leader had been canceled by Soviet officials who said Chernenko was sick.

"The planned meeting of the prime minister of Greece with the general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party could not take place due to the illness of Mr. Chernenko," Maroudas said.

He declined to say how much advance notice was given. Asked if the delegation was given any details about Chernenko, Maroudas said: "we have no such curiosity."

Earlier, the Foreign Ministry official told The Associated Press: "Mr. Chernenko is not in Moscow. He is in the country. He is on vacation."

Maroudas said, "These two things do not necessarily contradict each other. He could be ill and out of town at the same time."

Chernenko's health has been the subject of persistent speculation since he took office on Feb. 13, 1984, including reports that he has emphysema. He has displayed obvious breathing difficulties when speaking in public.

The official Soviet news media were silent yesterday about Chernenko's condition.

The lead item on the national evening news program "Vremya" (Time) was an announcement that a new book by Chernenko has been published in the Soviet Union.

The book "On the Way to Completing Developed Socialism," is a compilation of speeches and writings by the Soviet leader in 1984. A still picture of Chernenko sitting behind a desk was shown during the announcement.

Chernenko kept a busy public schedule until his last appearance during a televised awards ceremony Dec. 27.

One can usually count on the first month of a semester to be relatively laid back.-lengthy papers haven't been handed out and most students haven't had to face a major exam. This leaves time for both sleuthing and watching television. The following is a hypothetical conversation between two roommates with nothing better to do on the first Monday evening of February except watch the tube.

Dormer 1: What do you want to watch?
Dormer 2: Don't know. Turn it on,随便ly.
It's about 9 p.m. and on the screen appears the following warning:

Channel, the film could have been a healthy subject matter. It is the story of a young man, and the following warning:

Parental discretion is advised.

Dormer 1: That's pretty good for a laugh or two.

Dormer 2: Nah. There's bound to be something better on. I got tired of hearing about these gays. Nobody I know is gay anyhow.

The Gay Society of Notre Dame & Saint Mary's guest column

It would be interesting to know how many viewers at Notre Dame and across the United States were participants in a similar conversation when ABC aired "Consenting Adult" on Monday, Feb. 4. Those who switched chan-els missed an eloquent, sensitive, moving, and masterfully written program. It might be good for a laugh or two.

Some in government will still do their work

Dear Editor:

In their real to ‘do the right thing’ several student government members have resigned in what they see as an effort to redress the wrongs. Further consideration should show the importance of attention to the physical needs of the faithful as well. Material conditions will often have a great impact on people’s spiritual lives. On this point, I would like to quote a saying: “who had spent over twenty years working with the homeless in the United States, simply to recognize the presence of great numbers of homeless and hungry people in our cities and rural areas carries a high political charge. This difficulty in classifying issues raises serious questions. For example, what are the implications of recognizing it in the context of voting in political elections?” The events in organizing student government of which I speak, made a grave error when they voted to cease the further hanging of posters. I would like to commend the students for their agreement with such statements. They are not to be faulted if they are fumbling with these positions which are not dogmatic. It is my contention that most people in the same positions as the others regarding religious issues that have political implications.

With the realization that they do make political choices concerning the suggestion of their leaders, people should not try to restrict these leaders from promulgating their views of their faith. For their part, the clergy must not hesitate to preach the dictates of their conscience. It is a political choice. In this way, religious leaders can, in the words of the apostle, “be conformed to whatsoever state or manner of life soever.”

Robert’s rule of thumb was wrong

Dear Editor:

I disagree with Theron Robert’s description of Loret Ruppe as an unbeatable selection. Loret Ruppe satisfied Father Heisburgh’s criteria for selecting a great person to speak at my undergraduate commencement. I hope he continues someone as suitable as Loret Ruppe for the commencement of 1985.

The real message was ‘go Notre Dame’

Dear Editor:

Do you know what I hate? I hate it when people get mad at students for being obnoxious. Just when you think you are helping your own team, someone has to go and tell you that you are “reprehensible.” I hate it when that happens.

Sister Maureen, who found the behavior of the students nothing short of praiseworthy. I believe that the upsurge which came from the pressure-warm-up to the final buzzer not only helped to raise the level of excitement in the ACC, but also the level of play.

In response to the charge that the students’ behavior was reprehensible, I agree that it was a good deed. I bood, I say, lift up Sister. I am positive that none of the Notre Dame fans had any personal against any of the DePaul players. It simply comes down to the fact that, as fans, we have to do something, within limits, that might cause an opposing player to be nervous, to miss a shot or blow an errant pass. In other words, I agree that other teams that it will be no easy task to win a basketball game in the ACC.

Once again, I think the student body should be congratulated for a job well done at the DePaul game. They were loud, they were rowdy and they were within the limits of acceptable fan behavior. Keep it up, everybody! And GO IRISH!

People should give even without a return

Dear Editor:

In “Letters to a Lonely God” (2/8/85), Father Griffin has missed one of the fundamental meanings of Christianity. One is not to be tolerant, considerate, kind, and loving to everyone because it is the Christian’s mission. As a Christian, one is called to translate these virtues into practice. This means that Father Griffin has offered to stop clouding the world with smoke and pitching his butt into grassy present. I hope he stops burning rubber and makes an effort to flush after using public restrooms. Doing a good deed in return for a good deed is not what makes this world a better place in which to live. Certainly the world is entitled to tolerance and love, as Father Griffin suggests, but it should be an unconditional tolerance and love.

I know that I will continue to try (and no doubt frustrate your conscience) of loving towards others and to flush public toilets, even if he and other smokers continue to cloud the world with smoke. I will make my clothes smell like asphalt and damage my lungs.

Armed security are not needed at dinner

Dear Editor:

I was greatly impressed by something that I saw during last week’s basketball game. A typist at the entrance was an armed security guard. A backdrop behind the typist were a canteen, a toilet, and a conveyor belt. The guard near the door had a revolver and ten extra rounds of ammunition strapped to a holster. I understood that the heavy security was for, and the guard said that conditions could get so out of hand due to the basketball game that day.

All I could think was “Damm, it’s about time.” The fact that there were no bottles, smashing glasses, and cutting in line at the event was a relief. I was glad that there was no line and law.

If someone throws food, the guards should give the food back to the vendor and during half time even pour the leftover food, smashing glasses, and cutting in line at the event was a relief. I was glad that there was no line and law.

Children have responsibility to speak on issues

The question of the political role of the clergy is a prominent one, receiving much media coverage and attention in public debate. By way of an open response to Bishop McManus’ request for input on this question, I would like to add to the confusion my opinion that religious leaders not only have the opportunity, but the responsibility to speak out on certain issues that some may consider beyond their faithful as well. Material conditions will often have a great impact on people’s spiritual lives.

In m any areas, the faithfu l lack the awareness to see that many material conditions are within the range of human’s control. Looking at these problems, the faithfu l lack the awareness to see that many material conditions are within the range of human’s control. They lack awareness of what is possible, of what is available to them through the power of their beliefs.

In this light, neglect in considering to preach only eternal salvation does not appear so admirable as it may in the biographies of the saints. Looking beyond the heroic acts of a tacit endorsement of the status quo, regardless of whether the beneficence or harm to the poor, many faithfu l lack awareness of the spiritual good or hindrance to the physical needs of the faithful as well. Material conditions will often have a great impact on people’s spiritual lives.

This difficulty in classifying issues raises serious questions. For example, what are the implications of recognizing it in the context of voting in political elections?” The events in organizing student government of which I speak, made a grave error when they voted to cease the further hanging of posters. I would like to commend the students for their agreement with such statements. They are not to be faulted if they are fumbling with these positions which are not dogmatic. It is my contention that most people in the same positions as the others regarding religious issues that have political implications.

Wales Conference beats Campbell Conference in NHL All-Star Game

Associated Press

CALGARY, Alberta - Pittsburgh's Mario Lemieux, the National Hockey League's top draft pick last summer and leading rookie scorer, collected two goals and an assist Tuesday night to lead the Prince of Wales Conference to a 6-4 victory over the Clarence Campbell Conference in the 57th All-Star Game.

Lemieux, the most toasted rookie to enter the league in more than a decade, was named the game's most valuable player.

He had given the Wales a 4-2 lead at 1:37 of the second period after taking a pretty pass from fellow rookie Kirk Muller of the New Jersey Devils and slipping in a wrist shot past goalie Grant Fuhr.

Just four minutes before Lemieux's first goal, Anders Hedberg of the New York Rangers had broken a 2-2 tie. Hedberg, at 53 the oldest player in the game and in his final NHL season, took a pass from Lemieux and sent in the only rebounder within 4-5 feet with his seventh All-Star goal at 10:09 of the third period. Edmonton's Mike Krushelnyski stole the puck from defensemen Scott Stevens and fed Hedberg in the slot, where the Oilers' star center put a wrist shot past goalie Grant Fuhr.

But hurray! You can fall in love for a limited time only.

Men's interhall basketball season ends; Sorin finishes up undefeated

By JERRY MELIA
Sports Writer

The men's interhall basketball 'A' league wrapped up its regular season Monday night when Flanner beat Zahm 48-40 in the ACC division. This game was of great consequence to the final divisional standings. Flanner won the division with a 6-1 record while Zahm's defeat knocked it out of playoff participation. Dillon was the other team in this division to advance with a record of 5-2.

In the Big Ten division, Morrissey and Grace both will see post-season action after compiling 6-1 records. However, Morrissey finished as the divisional winner, since it defeated Grace during the regular season. Both teams are strong and will definitely make some noise in the playoffs.

British will implement drug testing

Associated Press

LONDON - The British Amateur Athletic Board will implement one of the world's strictest anti-drug policies - random tests for track and field athletes that could disqualify anyone refusing to take them. This is to represent Britain in international competition.

"We would like to think Britain is taking a fresh lead in the field of drug abuse and that other nations will follow suit," board Secretary Neil Cooper said Tuesday. "If they do not, our athletes could be at a disadvantage." British athletes hoping to compete internationally, including at Olympic Games and world championships, will be asked to sign a special register pledging their willingness to be tested for drugs at any time of the year.

"If they do not sign, then they will not be invited to represent Britain in our sport," said Cooper.

Although more than 20 sports in Britain are subject to round-the-year testing, checks in track and field have been confined to competitive events, meaning that athletes who use drugs out of season or in training theoretically can manipulate their urine to avoid detection.

The U.S. Olympic Committee requires that anyone representing the United States in the Olympics, the Pan American Games or the World University Games has to pass a mandatory drug test. Some U.S. federations require drug testing of athletes at national championships. But the U.S. athletes know when the blood samples will be taken and by whom.

The team that emerges from the lower bracket into the final is at a disadvantage because it must defeat the winner from the winners' bracket twice in order to gain the championship title. The system for seeding the teams has not yet been determined.

The system for seeding the teams has not yet been determined. Sorin almost has a lock at the top seed because of its undefeated regular season record. However, difficulty will come in seeding the remaining teams, because of the fact that four teams have only one loss.

This year's tournament should prove to be rather exciting with the caliber of teams that are competing. All of the "easy" games are over and it is time to see what team is best prepared to handle the best competition in the league. The team that is best able to meet this challenge will be the 1985 champion of the men's interhall basketball league.

Irish hope for strong performance tonight against visiting Privateers

By ERIC SUEMANN
Sports Writer

There has been a great deal of talk this week about the upcoming Notre Dame men's basketball game against Duke University at the Meadowlands.

Since New Orleans owns a record of just 9-16 after Monday's 95-76 victory over Pan American, there is a great tendency to take tonight's game for granted and simply add another victory to the year's total.

But this Privateer squad has talent which the Irish cannot afford to overlook.

Heading the list is 6-8 center-forward John Harris. The 250-pound senior, currently averaging 20.1 points and 9.9 rebounds per game, leads the team in both categories. Harris possesses a strong inside game and a soft shooting touch out to 15 feet.

Six senior forward Robert Johnson helps Harris out at forward; contribut­ing 12 points and 4.7 rebounds per game. Together, this pair ac­counts for half of the points scored by the Privateers.

New Orleans also has the talent on the court in tonight's game. Seven-foot freightliner center Hames had pulled down 5.1 rebounds per game, while evening out at 5.4 points per game.

Hails, a native of Innabrock, Austria, gives the Privateers the height they need, although averaging only 24.5 minutes per game.

The Irish front line, however, should be able to use both its bulk and height for an advantage. Ken Barlow (15.7 points, 7.2 rebounds per game), Tim Kempton (7.3, 5.0) and Jim Dolan (12.3, 4.5) and ever-improving Donald Royal (7.7, 4.8) should be able to dominate the boards.

At the guard position, inexpri­enced younger players for New Orleans Freeman swingman Sam Jones heads the backcourt with 7.2 points and 4.8 rebounds per game. The 6-6, Jones, who hails from Montelcillo, owns an excellent outside shooting touch and has enough strength to also score inside.

Senior guard Rocky Adronson, who also contribute in the backcourt for the Privateers. Couche scores 6.0 points per game, while Adronson helps out with 5.4.

The Irish backcourt, led by fresh­man David Rivers, is starting to get it together this season, and will get a chance to tune up in preparation for Duke. Rivers, averaging 14.4 points and 4.5 assists per game, has cut down on his turnovers in recent games.

The off-guard slot, Scott Hicks, was able to fire away from the outside.

Hicks, a 6-7 freshman and 4.9 points per game, will look for an opportunity to get to the free throw line Saturday.
