Four hundred fifty-three students will end their college careers tomorrow as Saint Mary's celebrates its 138th Commencement Exercises in the court of Stepan. Top Ten—pages 10 and 11

By KAREN R. MC CLOSKEY

Staff Reporter

Demosntrations planned in protest of Duarte policies.

By KAREN R. MC CLOSKEY

Staff Reporter

Demonstrations protesting the presence of Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte at University commencement exercises will occur Sunday afternoon on Orange Field by SMC's chapter of the ACC. Organizers of the protest contend that Duarte is involved with repression and violence in El Salvador.

Local and national organizations concerned with human rights and Latin America have organized the rally to coincide with the commencement exercises.

Demonstrations have been the source of heated controversy since the February 2 announcement that the Notre Dame alumni would deliver the 1985 commencement address.

Father Charles Dahn, a member of the Chicago Religious Task Force on Central America and an organizer of the Chicago May 19 Coalition, said, "We are protesting against President Duarte because his government, backed by the U.S. government, is engaging in deliberate policies of indiscriminate bombing of innocent civilians, even using napalm."

Dahn, who attended Notre Dame for two years before entering the Dominican order, continued, "The forces of repression continue on regardless of Duarte. For him to pretend he is going to continue on regardless of Duarte."

Dahn said that Duarte "should resign to save the face of his own country, to the people who have suffered his deliberate policies of indiscriminate bombing of innocent civilians, even using napalm."

"There they have a constitutional right to demonstrate," said Conklin. "On the other hand, graduates and parents have a right to a ceremony not disrupted."

University President Father Theodore Hesburgh said, "The only way not to have protests is to invite nobody. If we invited the good Lord, we'd have somebody protesting."

Hesburgh continued, "Duarte is a decent, good, dedicated human being. They've got the wrong target, the wrong man. My hope for El Salvador rests in Duarte at the moment."

The Chicago May 19 Coalition is made up of five Chicago-based groups: Chicago Religious Task Force on Central America, Clergy and Laity Concerned, Chicago CRPES, Casa El Salvador, and Casa El Salvador Farabundo Marti. The Chicago group is joined by the South Bend May 19 Coalition, the South Bend May 19 Coalition is endorsed by several local groups including, Peace and Freedom, South Bend and national chapters; Prince of Peace Church of Brethren Church Board; Saint Mary's Peacemakers; and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, South Bend chapter.

Demonstrators representing organizations from Detroit, Indianapolis, Bloomington, Wisconsin and New York also expect to take part in the protest.

The program for Sunday's demonstration begins at 10 a.m. on campus by 11:30 a.m. when protestors will distribute leaflets to those entering the ACC. The procession should arrive on campus by 11:30 a.m. when protestors will distribute leaflets to those entering the ACC.

At 1 p.m., speakers from seven organizations will address the rally. A member of the FDR, the opposition party to Duarte's party in El Salvador, will be one of the speakers. Several musical acts will perform after the speeches and are scheduled to end by 3:30 p.m., before commencement exercises are finished.

In a related activity, the Notre Dame chapter of Amnesty International will be handing out a table in front of the bookstore today and tomorrow. Letters requesting the release of Salvadorans prisoners will be available for those who wish to sign them. Letters will be presented to Duarte tomorrow evening.
A fire blazed in Grace Hall Monday, causing about $200 in damages. The fire was blamed on a faulty electrical outlet in the room of Robert Wlodarczak, a graduate student in English. The blaze began, helped maintain personnel extinguished the fire. The blaze damaged a mattress, couch, blanket and sheet. The Observer

Former Notre Dame cheerleader Laura Bach was selected as second runner-up in the Miss USA pageant Monday night in Lakeland, Fla. Now a computer salesman, Bach lives in Illinois and represented the state in the pageant. Bach expressed her strong beliefs in freedom and American ideals in the question and answer segment of the contest. The Observer

Father Andre Leveille, director of vocations for the Holy Cross Priests, has been appointed director of Notre Dame's Office of University Ministry by Father David Tyson, vice president for student affairs. Leveille has been at Notre Dame since 1974, and was ordained a priest four years later in Sacred Heart Church, Lakeville, Ind. Father Alanity is chairman of English and French-Canadian parish schools before coming to the United States. He succeeds Father Daniel Jinks, who left the position to become superior of the Holy Cross community at Notre Dame. The Observer

Saint Mary's has announced that Professor Dorothy Feigl, chairman of the chemistry and physics department at the College, will serve as acting vice president and dean of faculty. Current Vice President William Hickey will take over as acting president for the College, pending the selection of a new College president. President John Duggan resigned in February after 10 years at the helm. Current Vice President William Hickey will take over as acting president for the College, pending the selection of a new College president. The Observer

Motivational speaker and entertainer G. Herbert True, of South Bend, will speak at the annual membership dinner of the Friends of the Library at Notre Dame, Thursday, May 23, at 7:30 p.m. The program, "5,000 for Seniors," is for graduating seniors in the Glee Club, and will include a combination of sacred and secular pieces, spirituals and Notre Dame school songs. Admission is free. Because there will be no advance ticket distribution, early seating is strongly advised. The Observer

Weather

Promising. That's the way things look for this weekend's commencement excursions. A 30 percent chance of showers today will give way to upper 50s. Partial sunshine tomorrow with highs in the low 60s. Mostly clear and mild Sunday, with highs of 70 to 75.

The Observer

The Observer (ISSN 592-4000) is published Wednesdays through Saturday, except during exams and holiday periods. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and is supported by advertising. Subscriptions are $15 per year (three issues per month). Change of address: The Observer, Room 325, Norman Hall, Indiana 46556. The Observer is on file in the United States Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20544. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

The final written chapter

Bob Vonderheide

1984-85 Editor-in-Chief

Every editor, at least once, has a right to get sentimental. Today I am sentimental.

Four years ago, as a freshman, I began losing sleep to write for this publication. This year— from March 1984 to March 1985—I have served as editor-in-chief. In what truly has been a remarkable, challenging and often overwhelming experience, today my parents will arrive to say it's over. It will be Sarah Hamilton, not me, to whom Father Griffin will quote Shakespeare when he comes up on Thursday night to check his column.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown," Father told me one occasion when our computer broke. I agreed. Sarah will have many opportunities for triumph and defeat in the next 12 months; I wish her nothing but the best.

But I am not writing now to seek sympathy for the imperfections that now and then creep upon our pages. I want to share a story about another kind of challenge—about the challenge of words—a message related by the story of Trump (his nickname) Troxail.

Trump is a prisoner at the Indiana State Prison who has two years left in his sentence. He is poor. He spends his days writing letters to newspapers asking for help, but often he cannot mail the letters because he has no money for postage. In January of 1984, Trump wrote to The Observer: "I wanted to know if you would print in addition to your paper for me and I don't have any money at all to pay you with! What I wanted you to do is to put my name in your paper and see if someone would write to me?" We printed Trump's name and address in the classified ads section. I mailed him a copy and wished him good luck. Several days later, another letter from Trump arrived.

"Hi Bob," he wrote with his red pen on his yellow paper. "Thanks a lot for your help guy! I can't tell you just what it means to me... There is something that feels like to ask you. It's just that your the first person who's ever wrote me a letter. And I don't have any money at all to write you."

Trump then took two pages to ask me for a black-and-white Emerson TV. He said he saw one listed in a service Merchandise Catalog for $58. "I thought maybe you could run another add for me and see if any one would donate just a little bit to me in TV," he wrote. "I hope you don't think bad of me for asking that Bob, there just wasn't anything else I could ask." Trump's letter was touching, but I set it aside. Three days later, Trump's final letter to me arrived.

"It's me again," he wrote. "I'm writing this time to say that I'm sorry. I had no right what so ever to ask you to do what I did in my last letter, please forgive me OK! After I mailed the letter, I thought, ah just let it ride, but my insides just wouldn't leave me alone, so I had to write this letter to you and say that I'm sorry."

I never heard from Trump again, and never heard from me. From his prison cell, Trump calls out to words with words in words as a way just as graceful as Stinbeck or Hemingway. He is stripped of money, friends and hope. And yet it is his conscience that nags at him, and nags at him to write and say he doesn't need a TV after all.

Words have power. They allow our soul to spell over into ink. But we waste so many. Readers this year complained to me when we forgot to print the time of a dance or the score of a game. So sometimes I would think of Trump to keep things in perspective. Words paint hope and despire despair. They offer forth ideas. And it is the advancement of these ideas that have since inspired man to publish books and write letters. It is what has inspired me all along.

So now as I bid farewell to this chapter of my life, I know deep down that just like Trump I will never be very far from an af of writing words. This is the last issue of Volume XIX of The Observer. The Observer staff wishes the best for the graduates in their lives beyond Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.
Ted Turner to address MBA grads in other commencement speech

By STEVEN THOMAS
News Staff
Entrepreneurial broadcasting magnate Ted Turner and Giulio Andreotti, minister of foreign affairs of the Republic of Italy, will address graduates at the Masters of Business Administration and Law School diploma ceremonies, respectively, this Sunday.

Dean Frank Reilly of the College of Business Administration said he thinks that Turner is a good choice because he is an exciting, well-known individual. Reilly noted that he is particularly interested in hear what Atlanta's Superstation WTBS-TV's owner will discuss in his address at the diploma ceremony. Reilly said he invited Turner before Turner announced his plans to purchase the CBS network.

The MBA diploma ceremony will begin at 10 a.m. at Stepan Center. Approximately 151 students will be awarded masters of business administration degrees. Most graduates have specialized in finance.

An academic procession from the Law School to Sacred Heart Church will open the Law School ceremony. Formal ceremonies are scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m. Approximately 156 students will receive the degree of juris doctor from the Law School.

During his career, Andreotti held such ministerial posts as minister of the interior, minister of finance, minister of the treasury, and minister of culture. Andreotti was selected because he is an exciting, well-known individual. Reilly noted that he is particularly interested in hear
Student raped Sunday on walk back to SMC

By THERESA GUARINO
Saint Mary's Executive Editor

Notre Dame Security is investigating the rape of a Saint Mary's student that occurred Sunday night on the road between the two campuses.

The assault happened approximately 11 p.m., about 300 feet east of E.S. Route 31-33. The student was returning to the Saint Mary's campus alone at the time.

The suspect was described as a white male, approximately 6 feet tall, 190 lbs. and slightly overweight. The victim, who was wearing glasses and listening to music, said she did not hear him approach.

According to the student, the suspect forced her to a field north of the road where he covered her head with a black t-shirt and told her she had a knife and would use it if she resisted. After the incident, the student was picked up by two other students returning to Saint Mary's in a car. She immediately was taken to

SMC profs recognized with awards

By ELLYN MASTAKO
Staff Reporter

Anthony Black, associate professor of history at Saint Mary's, received the Spes Unica Award at the College's annual Honors Convocation May 6.

The Spes Unica Award honors excellence in teaching and service to the College.

"I've always concentrated on undergraduate teaching and found it very rewarding," said Black. "I'm honored to have received this prestigious award."

Black joined the Saint Mary's faculty in 1975. Last fall, he was the first exchange professor between Saint Mary's and Saint Patrick's College in Maynooth, Ireland. He received his B.A. from Duquesne University, and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Notre Dame. Black founded the London Summer Program in 1975 and has served as its director since that time.

Mary Connolly, assistant professor of mathematics, received the Maria Pieta Award in recognition of her skill, dedication and excellence in teaching lower division courses.

Connolly, who joined the College in 1981, graduated as the valedictorian of her class at Manhattanville College. She earned her M.A. from Brown University.

512K! Macintosh Upgrade

For those of you who have a 128K Macintosh and can't afford an upgrade (yet), MacMemory Electronics has developed the "Electronic Twin" of Apple's Fat 128K Mac. The upgrade is available in kit form or fully assembled. You're covered by MacMemory's 90-day warranty.

$295 Installed $195 Kit

MacMemory Electronics 306 W. Mainfield Rd. Suite 2B Mission Viejo, CA 92693 (714) 964-6176

NEW SCHEDULE
EFFECTIVE APRIL 28, 1985
Travel United Linno to & from Chicago's O'Hare

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Departa ment</th>
<th>Depart</th>
<th>Arrive</th>
<th>Depart</th>
<th>Arrive</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>LAX</td>
<td>4:55 a.m.</td>
<td>6:25 a.m.</td>
<td>7:30 a.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LAX</td>
<td>7:30 a.m.</td>
<td>9:00 a.m.</td>
<td>10:30 a.m.</td>
<td>12:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SFO</td>
<td>8:10 a.m.</td>
<td>9:40 a.m.</td>
<td>10:00 a.m.</td>
<td>11:30 a.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SFO</td>
<td>1:00 p.m.</td>
<td>3:30 p.m.</td>
<td>3:30 p.m.</td>
<td>5:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SFO</td>
<td>5:30 p.m.</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
<td>7:30 p.m.</td>
<td>9:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LAX</td>
<td>8:50 a.m.</td>
<td>10:20 a.m.</td>
<td>10:30 a.m.</td>
<td>12:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SFO</td>
<td>11:40 a.m.</td>
<td>1:10 p.m.</td>
<td>1:30 p.m.</td>
<td>3:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

All arrival and departure times are local times. Call 1-800-674-6993 or call your travel agent.
Alumni offer services to new grads

By M. E. HARRINGTON
Staff Reporter

The Notre Dame Alumni Association can be the graduating senior’s best friend, said James Pollicita, director of Alumni Continuing Education for the association.

Through the Notre Dame Alumni Association, graduates can keep in touch, make new acquaintances and participate in a variety of social and educational programs, Pollicita said.

But the bottom line is contact, he said. “People walk in the door expecting to meet friends.”

The association began in 1868 as a way to support and perpetuate good feelings about the University. It accomplishes this through its network of more than 175 regional clubs and many campus-centered activities.

According to Pollicity, Notre Dame’s Alumni Association differs from most others because its main objective is not to raise money for the University. The association itself does not collect a membership fee, although individual regional clubs sometimes collect fees to finance their own mailings and functions.

Pollicita encourages graduating seniors to join the clubs in their areas. This will enable them to better know their communities and provide input to older alumni about the state of the University, he said. Many clubs have activities designed to acquaint younger and older alumni, a move encouraged by the 19-member Alumni Board.

The Alumni Board is an elected body representing 15 geographic areas concerned with association policy. Recently, clubs have focused on interaction between older and younger alumni and continuing education. These clubs view recent has worked for the Society of Catholic Medical Missions, and at the Vatican. Hellwig has taught in the U.S. since 1965.

SWM continued from page 1

Kavanaugh, who also will celebrate the Baccalaureate Mass, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree at commencement. Kavanaugh is professor of philosophy at St. Louis University and has lectured on faith and justice worldwide.

ND
continued from page 1

professorial career began on radio in 1941. She was a soloist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

*Sister Marie Augusta Neal, professor of sociology at Emmanuel College, Boston, doctor of laws.
A troubled present and an uncertain future

Notre Dame stands mired in a period of transition—struggling with its Catholic character, searching for an academic identity and trying to rework a student social life without alcohol. The atmosphere is sluggish because the direction and leadership the University needs to get moving again have not been found. It seems no one has the power to define Notre Dame's future except Father Hesburgh, struggling with its Catholic character that wants a part in building a tradition of academic excellence. The students at Notre Dame are people of tremendous talent who want to be respected as intelligent, concerned individuals. The problem is that no one will light the fuse.

At Notre Dame it is the administration alone which passes the fate the University bears. It is the irreplaceable student and faculty behavior, and uses the threats of expulsion and financial pressure, respectively, to get it. The administration determines academic standards with little input from the faculty. As an employee the Notre Dame administration shows little respect for worker's rights, stifling efforts by its employees to unionize.

This is the administration students and faculty perceive— an administration that will not listen, that thinks it is always right, that does not need them, only tolerates them. This perception stagnates growth, stagnates creativity and destroys any sense of community on campus. It robs Notre Dame of realizing the tremendous potential in its students and faculty who desperately want a stake in building Notre Dame an excellent educational institution. If students and faculty are respected for their talents, if they are told to be creative, and given the opportunity to help shape both the social and academic atmosphere, Notre Dame will explode. It will explode socially and academically into one of the leading universities in the nation.

To realize this excellence demands strong, persuasive leadership and an open, inclusive direction. It also demands the courage to challenge prevailing leadership and grant both students and faculty a stake in the University's future. Unfortunately, the leadership and progressive tendencies that are needed are not at work on the Notre Dame campus.

Hesburgh deserves credit for almost single-handedly building the Notre Dame of today—perhaps two-thirds of the campus was built during the Hesburgh era—but the days are soon coming when Notre Dame will no longer be able to depend on Hesburgh for its leadership. Hesburgh's visible leadership has waned as his extended term as president has dragged on. He has accomplished much of his dream building of Notre Dame, but the University is looking for a leader who is new blood and not waiting for a champion. It is too bad more talented young graduates do not examine all the alternatives to this career path. In the field of public policy, for example, there are trade deficits and budget deficits to reduce, racism and sexism to eliminate, poverty and unemployment to combat and an environment that needs protection. For scientists, there are countless diseases to be cured, energy resources to be discovered, drugs to be tested and public education: drug abuse, street gangs, violence. But nothing has been prepared for Notre Dame. In fact the University president will have to work together with all the different factions. If Notre Dame is to progress academically, socially and physically, Notre Dame has to deal with the problem of selecting a new president.

The problem is that no one will light the fuse.
Grandfather represents a different success

My grandfather turns 72 today. He is a man with a deeply tanned face. Looking at his hands is easy to tell that he has not worked behind a desk for a living. His hands are massive. They are so huge that one finger will almost cover two piano keys. These hands have often crushed my fingers during many overzealous handshakes.

As a fisherman and then as a longshoreman, my grandfather worked long hours to support his family. He worked with dignity and a cheerfulness that has always amazed me. When I was small, I remember going over to his house for visits and waiting for him to come home. When he entered the house he would say my name for waiting and he would quickly smile and lift me up into the air. If he was tired he never showed it. He always had time to spend with me. When I broke something, whether it was a toy or a bicycle, he would fix it. Often he would give me, his young grandson, the privilege of working on my stuff.

Although he never went to college, my grandfather has always been enthusiastic con­cerning his grandchildren’s education. “How is your schoolwork going?” is a common question during phone conversations. And when finan­cial crises arise, as they often have in these times of spiraling costs for a college edu­cation, he has been more than generous.

Two years ago he saw my brother graduate from Stanford University and this weekend he is flying to New Orleans in a huge jumbo jet and traveling over 2000 miles to attend my graduation. He will endure a sea of barely distinguishable speakers and suffer through endless lines to catch a glimpse of me among the multitude of my classmates.

During the commencement ceremony, he will be one of the few of my classmates represent­ing my grandfather’s generation in the country. Additionally, up on center stage there will be a large group of important people, including a head of state, a governor and the president of a multi-billion dollar cor­poration. Many of my classmates will un­doubtedly be dreaming of the day when they will also be recognized in this manner. Notre Dame helps build these type of dreams.

Notre Dame, however, has helped me see a different type of dream. When I look at my grandfather and see what he has ac­complished, I know he is at least as successful as any of the people Notre Dame is honoring. When the moment comes for me to move on to the next stage of my life, I will not be thinking of fame and riches. Instead, I will be hoping that I will be half as successful as my grandfather.

Mark Boennighausen is a graduating government major at Notre Dame and has been a regular Viewpoint columnist.

Keeping the optimism

You remember your first date, your first drive and your first job. But a journalist adds a different type of dream. When I look at my grandfather and see what he has accomplished, I know he is at least as successful as any of the people Notre Dame is honoring. When the moment comes for me to move on to the next stage of my life, I will not be thinking of fame and riches. Instead, I will be hoping that I will be half as successful as my grandfather.

Mark Boennighausen is a graduating government major at Notre Dame and has been a regular Viewpoint columnist.

The Skeptic

Don't look; You might see. Don't think; You might learn. Don't walk; You might stumble. — anonymous

The Observer

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556
(219) 239-5303

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. Unsolicited editorials represent the opinion of that individual student. Letters, columns and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus. Through letters, is encouraged.
Duarte assaul ts a tradition of violence

Mary Healy

features editor

For some, he is the embodiment of the Christian social ideal espoused by the Church and Notre Dame. For others, he is a militant, hard-line radio commentator and prisoner of his own amoral army. Either way, it is almost impossible to have an indifferent opinion of the man Notre Dame has chosen as its first commencement speaker: Jose Napoleon Duarte.

Duarte became the second democratically chosen civilian president in the history of El Salvador (and the first Notre Dame graduate to become a head of state). He stepped into a position deeply scarred by five years of civil war, with an exhausted economy and an unemployment rate approaching 40 percent, and a climate of vicious political violence.

Numerous human rights violations, including arbitrary arrests, blindfoldings, beatings, and torture, have been committed by the government and military forces. The conflict has become an East-West conflict, with the United States supporting the rightist government and communist forces supported by Cuba and Nicaragua. The situation is a fragile one, attacked as communists by the Left and socialists by the Right.

Duarte, however, continues to lobby a reluctant military, appearing at its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to halt the civil war and the death squads. Duarte must continue to lobby a reluctant U.S. Congress to approve U.S. military and economic aid to the country. He must continue to impress on the press that he is in control and that democracy is really working.

On the right, Duarte has shunted the command of the security forces, believed to be the breeding ground for death squads. He has freed corrupt officers and replaced them with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.

But Salvadorans still are obviously unsatisfied with the status quo. Duarte's regime does not receive unqualified approval from the state's leadership either. The Communist Party boasts that it can deliver. In the legislature, the National Assembly, in which a coalition of two rightist parties (later joined and headed by Duarte) with younger men trained in the United States. He has tried to assert control over the still-resentful military, appearing in its headquarters last summer and successfully ordering it to recapitulate a damn taken by guerrillas.
Dean Christy was exhausted last March after a week's worth of campaigning that eventually made him senior class president. When the election was over, Dean's mother, Georgia, called to say congratulations. But where was Dad? Dick went to the phone, punched a few numbers, and gave the receiver to Dean. "It's Dad," Nick said.

What Nick didn't tell Dean was that his father was talking from a Chicago hospital. The heart that had been out of intensive care and in three weeks, he was out of the hospital. Dean was 59, the oldest person in the world to come back from a heart transplant successfully.

"I was in the throes of death. How could my father be out of the hospital, I wondered. There were too many things to do before I even had time to think," Dean said.

That the surgery ever happened was a miracle in itself. Other than his heart, Christy's vital organs were in good condition. He had the idea that there was going to be some sort of miracle. There were a few people who had laid claim to his heart. "But where was Dad?" Dean wondered.

I felt like I had a whole team on the sidelines playing. Whatever was happening, my father was going to make it.

The feeling only lasts until I fall asleep. In the morning, I get up with a feeling that the world will be good for his peace of mind.

"I can't get over the prayers people rendered," Christy said before he left the hospital. "I've got a date with Father Mario Pedi (rector of St. Ed's Hall), and we're going to go out and pray together." The "date," which eventually took place last August, was at the grotto. Christy's inspiration after the surgery. "Whatever was happening to me was happening to me," he said.

"I tell you," Christy adds. "I'm so happy to be here. It's the most beautiful trees in the world.

"I'm in awe of a mystique I don't understand, a stranger to the touch of the fires of the firmament. You are a different drummer. Gerald, the English major, will be the first to tell you how Bobby, the English major, never needed to fire a gun in Ann Marie's defense. She only wept on her shoulder once, when your father had his heart attack. Once she asked me for my help with a paper in theology. She got an 'A' on the paper, but she never brought my book back. She arrived at Notre Dame in the fall of the year that Gerry Faust began to coach. Gerry had it made, I figured, but Ann Marie might send a serenade to adjust. Then I moved to Queensville, west, and she helped me adjust to a woman's career. Do you realize that all the PW women have stuffed animals and keepsakes of sentiment.

My chief regret about Ann Marie's graduation is that you have no more siblings to send. Three of you came, out of the eight who should have come. Next year, I will be alone, waiting for the next generation when your children will start arriving. By then, I may be too old to eat a cookie. I may be too feeble to raise my arms to give a hug. But I'll always be stirred, even when I'm pushing up daisies, by the nearness of a campus sweetheart, who comes with brightness, and leaves brightness behind.

Why did we ever worry about Ann Marie Griffith? For women like her, they are rewriting the Notre Dame myth.
The Top Ten News Stories of 1984-85

Corby's owner murdered
Harold Rowley, owner of Corby Tavern, was shot to death in his home last August. Soon after the Internal Revenue Service shut down the popular student hang-out for "collection enforcement procedures," Rowley's former wife and his father disputed about the settlement of his estate, including the tavern. The tavern reopened briefly during the school year, but once again was closed by the IRS. The tavern remains closed.

SMC President resigns
After 10 years at Saint Mary's, College President John Duggan announced his resignation in February. The resignation will take effect June 30, 1985. Saint Mary's endowment was increased from $3 million to $16 million during Duggan's tenure. Two buildings were built: the Cushwa Leighton Library and the Angela Athletic Facility. A search committee has been formed to find a new president by January 1, 1986.

Cuomo speaks on abortion
New York Governor Mario Cuomo came to Notre Dame in September to defend his stance on abortion and to explain his views on the relationship between religion and politics. Cuomo said although he personally opposes abortion, Catholic public officials must preserve the Constitution because "in guaranteeing freedom for all, they guarantee our right to be Catholics." Cuomo and University President Father Theodore Hesburgh appeared on the television program "Nightline" after the speech.

ND takes MS competition
Notre Dame won the first annual Millions Against M.S. Fundraiser, raising more money per capita than 11 of her Midwesten universities. Notre Dame students contributed an average of $5,31 each, for a total of $22,367. Marquette, the runner-up in the competition, raised approximately $22,300. The prize for winning the competition, which benefited the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, was a free concert by Styx guitarist Tommy Shaw.

Student Saver opens its doors
A student-run general store at Notre Dame, the Student Saver, opened during second semester after months of bargaining between student government and the administration. The Campus Life Council passed the resolution for the store and Father David Tyson, vice president for student affairs, "reached a mutual agreement that it would be returning as rector of Carroll Hall next year."

Senate extensions ruled invalid
A five-member committee of the Judicial Council ruled that the Student Senate's vote to extend their terms was unconstitutional. As a result, a new constitution, which was passed by the senate during the extension, became void and the old constitution came back into effect. The committee decided the vote to extend the terms was invalid because two-thirds of the senate members present approved the motion, rather than two-thirds of the entire senate.

Election scandal
Ombudsman voided the campaign of Pat Browne, candidate for student body president, and his running mate, Joanie Cahill, because of seven violations of election rules, including a failure to report expenditures properly. The next day, however, the Student Senate reinstated their ticket by a vote of 8 to 7. Bill Healy and Duane Lawrence later defeated Browne and Cahill in an election with the lowest voter turnout in five years.

Carroll Hall rector resigns
Father Peter Gibson announced in April he will not be returning as rector of Carroll Hall next year. Gibson said he and Father David Tyson, vice president for student affairs, "reached a mutual agreement that it would be best if (he) did not return as rector next year." Gibson was elected Senior Fellow by the senior class several weeks ago. Elected Rector of the Year last year by the Wall Presidents' Council, Gibson was a runner-up for that award this year.

Rockne bust found
The much-traveled bust of Knute Rockne, stolen a year ago from the Rockne-Memorial, made a reappearance last fall during a pep rally when it was handed from the crowd to Coach Gerry Faust. The Observer learned the identity of a 1984 graduate and two sophomore who allegedly swept the bust. The newspaper also anonymously received several photographs of the bust sunning on a beach and in front of a West Lafayette, Ind., road sign. Soon after the bust reappeared, a smaller scale version of the bust was stolen.
Irish booted off home field
It was the low point of the football season as Irish fans voiced their displeasure after watching an inspired Air Force team take advantage of Notre Dame's inability to stop the wishbone to hand the Irish the second of three straight defeats in Notre Dame Stadium. 21-7. Backup quarterback Scott Grooms, starting for the injured Steve Beuerlein, had trouble with a wet field, and Notre Dame's inability to close the game late meant a 5-6-1 record in the afternoon. The Falcons rolled to their third straight victory over Notre Dame, leaving Gerry Faust's Irish 3-7 in their last 10 games at home.

Cross-country reaches NCAAs
The 13th-ranked Irish capped off one of their best seasons ever by earning a bid to the NCAA Cross-Country Championships held at Penn State. In the tournament, the Irish managed a 15th-place finish with a total of 169 points, winning only 204 points behind their pre-meet goal of a top-10 finish. Mike Collins, Tim Cannon, Dan Garrett, Bill Courtney and Ed Willemsenbrink turned in solid performances to lead Notre Dame. Notre Dame had reached the NCAA Championships by capturing the fourth and final qualifying spot at the NCAA District IV Qualifying Meet on Nov. 9 at the University of Illinois.

Irish lock up Aloha Bowl bid
Notre Dame journeyed to USC and won its fourth straight game, 19-7, over the Trojans in the rain-soaked Coliseum. Gerry Faust's prediction of a 7-4 Conference title with a 72-57 thrashing of Dayton. The Irish capped off a 20-8 regular season with final-week victories over Washington, Marquette and Dayton. With Notre Dame's added status as the nation's top independent, the Irish were placed at home for their opening game with Oregon State and North Carolina

UCLA winning streak stopped
Ding dong, the witch is dead. UCLA's string of seven straight wins over Notre Dame in basketball finally came to an end this season as the Irish handed the Bruins a 53-52 defeat in Pauley Pavilion. Freshman guard David Rivers led the Irish with his 18 points and eight assists in front of a national television audience on NBC. The players returned home to find approximately 1,000 students waiting to meet them at the main circle entrance as DiStanislao (Coach of the Year) and Keys (Player of the Year) earned conference awards and Mary Beth Schueth and Sandy Botham joined Keys on all-conference teams. Despite their success, however, Notre Dame was passed over by both the NCAA and the Irish women's National Invitation Tournament.

The Fun Bunch gets its revenge
The members of The Revenge of the Fun Bunch proved that they weren't kidding around when they named their entry for Bookstore XIV. The Fun Bunch averaged last year's semifinal loss to Macri's Deli by winning the tournament championship with a 21-16 victory over Rosemead's Noble Savages. Tournament MVP Steve Treacy led Fun Bunch to the title, but he got plenty of help from backcourt mates Pat Collins and a strong frontline that featured Tom Rehder, Greg Diegens and Matt Dingens.

Women win North Star title
It's been quite a while since anyone besides a member of the maintenance crew cut down a net in the ACC, but Mary Dingens and the Notre Dame women's basketball team had that pleasure on March 7 after clinching the North Star Conference title with a 72-57 thrashing of Dayton. The Irish finished the season at 20-8 (13-1 in conference), as DelSimias (Coach of the Year) and Keys (Player of the Year) earned conference awards and Mary Beth Schueth and Sandy Botham joined Keys on all-conference teams. Despite their success, however, Notre Dame was passed over by both the NCAA and the Women's NIIT for a post-season bid.

Men reach NCAA Tournament
It took four years, but the Notre Dame basketball team again reached the NCAA Tournament. The Irish capped off a 20-8 regular season with final-week victories over Washington, Marquette and Dayton. With Notre Dame's added status as the nation's top independent, the Irish were placed at home for their opening game with Oregon State and North Carolina

Women's tennis places second
It was the final time around the court bad that pleasure on March 7 after clinching the North Star Conference title with a 72-57 thrashing of Dayton. The Irish finished the season at 20-8 (13-1 in conference), as DelSimias (Coach of the Year) and Keys (Player of the Year) earned conference awards and Mary Beth Schueth and Sandy Botham joined Keys on all-conference teams. Despite their success, however, Notre Dame was passed over by both the NCAA and the Women's NIIT for a post-season bid.

SMC plagued by resignations
On May 1, swim coach Dan Flynn became the fourth Saint Mary's coach to resign in the 1984-85 academic year. His announcement came within a week of Assistant Director of Athletics Tim Dillon's resignation, and followed basketball coach Mike Rouse's departure and tennis coach John Killen's exit the previous semester. Like the others, Flynn cited disappointment with the current administration as one of the reasons for his decision.

Fencers edged in NCAAs
The Wayne State Tartars successfully defended their national championship, edging out Notre Dame by a single point, 141-140, in the NCAA Championship Tournament hosted by the Irish in the Angela Athletic Facility at Saint Mary's. As Coach Mike DeCicco put it, it was the 10-9 boats that did Notre Dame in - the Irish dropped three critical matches by that one-point margin as their bid for a national title fell just short.

The Top Ten Sports Stories of 1984-85
1. After seven consecutive losses to the Bruins, I
2. Notre Dame wins at Pauley Pavilion, 53-52 | Riven leads Irish to first victory over UCLA In five years
3. NCAA tennis title awarded to Notre Dame by one point I
4. Local fans also got a look at other ACC visitors Kansas, Utah, Auburn, Purdue and Middle Tennessee State as Notre Dame hosted first- and second-round games of the Southeast Regional.
5. Defending champion Wayne State Tartars successfully defended their national championship, edging out Notre Dame by a single point, 141-140, in the NCAA Championship Tournament hosted by the Irish in the Angela Athletic Facility at Saint Mary's. As Coach Mike DeCicco put it, it was the 10-9 boats that did Notre Dame in - the Irish dropped three critical matches by that one-point margin as their bid for a national title fell just short.
6. The Wayne State Tartars successfully defended their national championship, edging out Notre Dame by a single point, 141-140, in the NCAA Championship Tournament hosted by the Irish in the Angela Athletic Facility at Saint Mary's. As Coach Mike DeCicco put it, it was the 10-9 boats that did Notre Dame in - the Irish dropped three critical matches by that one-point margin as their bid for a national title fell just short.
7. The 13th-ranked Irish capped off one of their best seasons ever by earning a bid to the NCAA Cross-Country Championships held at Penn State. In the tournament, the Irish managed a 15th-place finish with a total of 169 points, winning only 204 points behind their pre-meet goal of a top-10 finish. Mike Collins, Tim Cannon, Dan Garrett, Bill Courtney and Ed Willemsenbrink turned in solid performances to lead Notre Dame. Notre Dame had reached the NCAA Championships by capturing the fourth and final qualifying spot at the NCAA District IV Qualifying Meet on Nov. 9 at the University of Illinois.
8. Ding dong, the witch is dead. UCLA's string of seven straight wins over Notre Dame in basketball finally came to an end this season as the Irish handed the Bruins a 53-52 defeat in Pauley Pavilion. Freshman guard David Rivers led the Irish with his 18 points and eight assists in front of a national television audience on NBC. The players returned home to find approximately 1,000 students waiting to meet them at the main circle entrance as DiStanislao (Coach of the Year) and Keys (Player of the Year) earned conference awards and Mary Beth Schueth and Sandy Botham joined Keys on all-conference teams. Despite their success, however, Notre Dame was passed over by both the NCAA and the Irish women's National Invitation Tournament.
9. It's been quite a while since anyone besides a member of the maintenance crew cut down a net in the ACC, but Mary Dingens and the Notre Dame women's basketball team had that pleasure on March 7 after clinching the North Star Conference title with a 72-57 thrashing of Dayton. The Irish finished the season at 20-8 (13-1 in conference), as DelSimias (Coach of the Year) and Keys (Player of the Year) earned conference awards and Mary Beth Schueth and Sandy Botham joined Keys on all-conference teams. Despite their success, however, Notre Dame was passed over by both the NCAA and the Women's NIIT for a post-season bid.
10. It was the low point of the football season as Irish fans voiced their displeasure after watching an inspired Air Force team take advantage of Notre Dame's inability to stop the wishbone to hand the Irish the second of three straight defeats in Notre Dame Stadium. 21-7. Backup quarterback Scott Grooms, starting for the injured Steve Beuerlein, had trouble with a wet field, and Notre Dame's inability to close the game late meant a 5-6-1 record in the afternoon. The Falcons rolled to their third straight victory over Notre Dame, leaving Gerry Faust's Irish 3-7 in their last 10 games at home.
Sports Briefs

Tom Stuby, Irish baseball star of one year ago, recently was traded to the Orioles. His superior play in his first season led Dallas Mavericks to the NBA championship.

Chris Smith and Mark Brooks, last season's Most Valuable Players, have been moved from their respective teams to the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Notre Dame-Navy football game in 1986 will be played at Memorial Stadium in Baltimore. The Irish will play host to the Midshipmen in the first of their ten-game series.

The game has alternated between Notre Dame and Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J., in recent years.

The Observer

Jim 'Spook' Davis, Notre Dame sports information intern, will leave his position this summer to accept the job of Director of Media Relations for the Midwestern Conference.

New friends and old acquaintances have been found by Dave Poulin at Notre Dame. He has had a successful first year at the university.

Edmontons' Jari Kurri scored four goals and won the Hart Memorial Trophy last night as the defending Stanley Cup champions capped another successful season with a 6-2 win.

Nort Dame graduate Dave Poulin scored with a few seconds left in the game.

Michael Jordan, whose flashy style and gaudy statistics earned him All-Star status, fan popularity and more than $2 million in endorsement contracts, was named the National Basketball Association Rookie of the Year yesterday. Jordan, the Chicago Bulls guard, was named the All-Rookie Team and received the Rookie of the Year award.

The Midwestern Conference, which was formed in 1983, will have its first championship game on June 1.

After CALL KIM AT 4205 N O Q U E S TIONS. -

MARKETING

Student Center, accepts classified advertising from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

体育 Briefs

Sports Briefs

The Irish baseball team staged a tremendous stretch run to win its regular season at the top of the standings (25-25-2) and land second place in the Midwestern City Conference. Northern Division with an 8-4 conference mark. The Irish fell just short of championship, which will be run tomorrow and Sunday at Villanova, is the final name for the Irish before next week's Central Conference Championships, slated for May 24 and 25 at Eastern Michigan.

The team will play in San Francisco as the Eastern Division representative.

The Irish Notre Dame track team is in Philadelphia this week to compete in the 1985 edition of the NCAA Championships. The meet will be run tomorrow.

For further information, contact Coach John McNichols at the telephone number given above.

Mary Clark, a graduate of Notre Dame, has been named the newest member of the school's coaching staff.

The Observer

The Observer

Spring sports wrap-up

Baseball team starts MCC playoffs

By LARRY BURKE

Assistant Sports Editor

The Irish baseball team staged a tremendous stretch run to win its regular season at the top of the standings (25-25-2) and land second place in the Midwestern City Conference. Northern Division with an 8-4 conference mark. The Irish fell just short of championship, which will be run tomorrow and Sunday at Villanova, is the final name for the Irish before next week's Central Conference Championships, slated for May 24 and 25 at Eastern Michigan.

The team will play in San Francisco as the Eastern Division representative.

The Irish Notre Dame track team is in Philadelphia this week to compete in the 1985 edition of the NCAA Championships. The meet will be run tomorrow.

For further information, contact Coach John McNichols at the telephone number given above.

Mary Clark, a graduate of Notre Dame, has been named the newest member of the school's coaching staff.
Sharon Petro named NCAA Division II coach of the year

By PHI L WOLF
Assistant Sports Editor

Notre Dame women's tennis coach Sharon Petro was named national Division II coach of the year recently by the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association.

"I'm highly honored (by the award)," Petro said. "It's obviously a tremendous honor." She is the first woman to win coach of the year in the women's tennis category.

Petro took over the program in 1978 as the director of tennis. Previously she had been a tennis coach at Abilene Christian. Petro's team compiled a school-record 32-9 record in three seasons. The program has gone 114-45 overall in her seven years as coach.

Petro's most recent success came with the NCAA Division II tournament. This spring was Petro's last season as head coach of the women's tennis team. This summer, she will assume the responsibilities of an assistant athletic director at Notre Dame.

"We've had success on each level, and I see that continuing in the future," Petro said.

This spring was Petro's last season as head coach of the women's tennis team. This summer, she will assume the responsibilities of an assistant athletic director at Notre Dame.

SUSAN PETRO has compiled a 114-45 record in seven years as the Irish women's tennis coach. She previously was Notre Dame's first women's basketball coach, and she compiled a 49-20 record in three seasons. The programs have four state AAU titles in tennis and one in basketball.

Last fall, the Irish captured their second-straight North Star Conference title, and Petro was honored as the NSC coach of the year.

Petro joined women's swimming coach Dennis Stark and women's basketball coach Mary Dittmar as the recipients of NSC coach of the year honors in 1984-85.

Tennis

continued from page 16

tournaments, Panther, who finished the year 14-6, went on to win the first round of singles play, losing to Judy Clardy of Abilene Christian, 6-2, 7-6. Ironically, Panther had beaten Clardy, 6-4, 7-6, during team competition.

Clardy, who finished as Notre Dame's top individual player with a 21-6 record, got to the second round before dropping out. She topped Rodgers of Cal Poly Pomona for the second time in three days, 6-2, 6-0, before falling to Northeastern's Colorado's Sandra Elliot, 6-3, 6-4.

Panther, Lee, 20-6 on the season, advanced to the second round in doubles but then lost to the team of Sosc Campbell-Laurie Woodhouse from Cal State-Northridge, 7-6, 6-4. The two had beaten the Southern Illinois-Edwardsville's doubles tandem of Elizabeth Calendar Jan Petro, 7-6, 6-2, to earn the right to face Campbell Woodhouse.

As a result, Notre Dame closed the season at 25-5.

Notre Dame graduates only Lee, LaRizza and Schnell from their present team.

ORDER NOW TOLL FREE 800-521-7225 in CA. 800-321-7645 Ext.50

Receive FREE VUARNET™sunglasses with sunglass order!

Magenet offers the complete line of VUARNET™ sunglasses. Send $1.00 for Catalog. Hurry, FREE offer ends soon.

The last 59 reviews maintained:

"70% or over pass/condition rate
"over 85 medals and awards (statewide and nationwide)

"over 85 medals and awards (statewide and nationwide)

"over 85 medals and awards (statewide and nationwide)

"over 85 medals and awards (statewide and nationwide)

"over 85 medals and awards (statewide and nationwide)

"over 85 medals and awards (statewide and nationwide)
Rivers named Athlete of the Year;
Trena Keys takes women's honor

By PHIL WOLF
Assistant Sports Editor

Men's and women's basketball players David Rivers and Trena Keys were named Notre Dame's Athletes of the Year by the Observer sports department last week.

Rivers, a 6-0 freshman guard from Jersey City, N.J., led the Irish men's squad to a 20-8 regular season record and its first NCAA bid in three years.

Keys, a 6-1 junior from Marion, Ind., paced the women's team to its first-ever NSC championship and its first-ever NCAA tournament bid.

Both athletes gave credit to their teammates for the success of the teams' efforts.

"I think the impact I made on the team came from the guys, the fellows on the team," Rivers said. "They kind of guided me along the way, so I think a lot of the credit goes to them."

"They kind of guided me along the way, so I think a lot of the credit should point in their direction," Keys echoed. "Without my teammates, I had nothing."

Rivers led all scorers for Notre Dame with a 15.8 points per game average, and his excellent ball-handling skills enabled the Irish to adapt a fast-paced style of play that enabled the Irish to turn in individual performances that reflect their talents.

Rivers said he gained a lot of experience in his first NCAA season, "because I know there was a lot of doubt of us making it as far as we did."

"That kind of guided me along the way," Keys explained. "I had to do something more for the team this year," Keys explained. "I had to do something more for the team this year."

Rivers' goal for his freshman season was to lead the Irish to a spot in the NCAA tournament, a dream he said he was "just being able to sit down with him" when Rivers' father Edward "Moose" Krause, the father of Irish basketball player Tom Sluby and tennis player Pam Fitchette, the recipients of the 1984 Edward "Moose" Krause Athlete of the Year Awards.

Rivers also cited the 53-52 Irish victory over UCLA at Pauley Pavilion and the Notre Dame student body's reaction to that win as another high point in the season.

The lowest point in the young player's career came at the end of the season, he said. In the final seconds of Notre Dame's second-round tournament game with North Carolina, Rivers had the ball and the Irish had a chance to break a tie for the victory. When Rivers dribbled the ball off his foot, however, Notre Dame ended up on the short end of a 60-58 score.

Keys' greatest disappointment was not making it to post-season competition. A trip to the NCAA tournament was her goal for the 1985-86 season.

Rivers said he gained a lot of experience in his first NCAA season, "because I think I will be a much better player next year. I think it's not impossible for us to go all the way."}

Rivers and Keys follow in the footsteps of Irish basketball player Tom Sluby and tennis player Pam Fitchette, the recipients of the 1984 Edward "Moose" Krause Athlete of the Year Awards.
Dear Kevin, Leanne, Chuck, Kelly, Todd, Lynne, Vince, Bill, Angel, Tara, and Matt,

Thanks for all of the wonderful things you have done. We will miss you!

Love,
Your old SAB buddies
Sports

By JEFF BLUMB
Sports Editor

After placing third in Division II women's tennis each of the last two years, the Notre Dame women's tennis team set out to achieve something much different.

They set out to be not only one goal in mind prior to this season - winning the national championship.

The Irish claimed their first outright national title, defeating Furman 4-3 in the final.

The team consisted of seniors Sarah Lynn, Melanie Scherr, and Emily Hiltz, along with sophomores Jessica Smith and Samantha Galarneau.

The Irish started the season with a 7-0 win over St. Mary's College, followed by a 6-1 victory over Marquette. They then went on a 14-match winning streak before losing to Oklahoma State 3-4.

The team then went on to win the NCAA Championships, defeating Texas A&M 4-1 in the semifinals and Oklahoma State 4-3 in the finals.

The Irish finished the season ranked No. 1 in the country, cementing their status as the best team in the nation.

The Observer/Claire Gales