Financial troubles close campus computer store

By ALEX PELTZER
Staff Reporter

University officials are currently looking to restore the campus computer shop, which was left vacant by the financially crippled General Microcomputer company last week.

General Micro filed for bankruptcy under chapter 11 last week, said Thomas Mason, vice president for business affairs. As a result, computer equipment and service shop in the basement of LaFortune has remained closed since Dec. 2.

General Micro officials were not available to explain their financial difficulties. Numerous phone calls to the corporate headquarters in South Bend went unanswered.

But the bankruptcy of General Micro means more to the University than the loss of an on-campus store, Mason said. He said the campus based resulted from an agreement known as the Apple Consortium. University officials are currently considering what to do about student services in the interim, Mason said. The meeting took place yesterday, but no word was available as to its outcome. Mason said he thought there would be no loss to students but perhaps an inconvenience until the store reopens.

The Computing Center is continuing to provide technical support as usual and is standing by to see what role it may play in resolving the current Consortium situation, according to Kelly Havens, Asst. Director for User Services at the Computing Center.

Students still can purchase computer disks at the Notre Dame Bookstore.

Renovations continue on research facilities

By PEGGY PROSSER
Staff Reporter

One of the more exciting events taking place at the University is the construction of a 86 million addition to the science building, according to Richard Pilger, chairman of the chemistry and physics building committee.

The enlarged facility will contain more chemistry and physics laboratories, a chemistry laboratory, increased computer facilities, and more than doubling in size the research facilities to faculty and students, Pilger said.

"The need for space has been here a long, long while," he said.

The enlarged facility is slated to be opened August 1, 1986, Pilger said.

The first biology and chemistry facilities at the College, used between 1904 and 1955, were located in Holy Cross Hall, Pilger said. Since then, enrollment at Saint Mary's has more than doubled, necessitating a move to the present science facility, he said.

"The old facilities weren't poor, they just weren't big enough," said Pilger.

Several changes had been made in the past which demonstrated too that more space was needed, he said.

An apartment became a physics laboratory, a junior's closet was changed into a faculty office and in 1973 a physics chemistry laboratory was changed into workroom computer and room, Pilger said.

An organic materials laboratory will be a featured addition, according to Pilger. In the past, hazardous materials were used or stored by students or faculty without their knowledge, he said. This expanded facility will consist of 20 work stations surrounding a glassed-in instrument room which will reduce

See FACILITIES, page 4

Merry marionettes

Shenanigans, Notre Dame's singing and dancing ensemble, got into the holiday spirit in performing its Christmas concert last night in Washington Hall.

Congress: Balanced budget or bust

WASHINGTON - Congressional negotiators ratified landmark legislation designed to force a balanced budget by 1991, and the Senate cleared a 440 billion omnibus spending bill, as a rambunctious Congress struggled yesterday to break a legislative logjam and go home for the holidays.

A key measure President Reagan's cherished proposal for tax overhaul - hung in the balance in the House, with a showdown set for later in the week.

Reagan swiftly hailed the blueprint for a balanced budget, appended to a measure that would raise the national debt limit above $2 trillion. "I strongly support this measure and urge Congress to act quickly and make this the law of the land," he said in a statement issued at the White House.

The legislation, the product of weeks of negotiations between House and Senate leaders, was expected to win final congressional approval swiftly, once the increase in the debt limit is needed by tomorrow to permit continued government borrowing.

Senate leaders made good on their bid to complete work on the omnibus spending bill by early evening after conservatives failed in a bid to include $50 million in aid for rebels fighting the Marxist government of Angola.

The measure is needed to replace an interim stopgap spending bill by midnight tomorrow and negotiations were set for the morning to reconcile the Senate bill with a House-passed measure.

Lawmakers rushed through the last few amendments to permit them to attend a formal Christmas party at the White House.

As for the Democratic-drafted tax bill - reluctantly endorsed by Reagan as a "last step" toward genuine overall tax overhaul - Democrats and even some Republican critics said the measure would likely survive a showdown vote in the House later in the week.

With Congress nursing faint hopes of wrapping up its 1985 business by the end of the week, the day began with a White House meeting in which Reagan urged legislative leaders to complete work on the five-year deficit reduction plan and the spending bill and advance the tax measure to the Senate.

"He told us to finish our work," Dole said. "Everybody was friendly. Somebody wished him a Merry Christmas. And he sort of hinted he'd be glad when we were gone."

Despite the evident good cheer around the polished mahogany table in the White House Cabinet Room, Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said "nothing" was agreed upon. And House Republican leaders continued to rebel against Reagan's call to vote for the Democratic tax over haul bill later this week as a "first step" that can be substantially revised next year in the GOP controlled Senate.

"While this proposal is welcome, I am concerned that in the extreme it could have adverse effects on maintaining adequate levels of defense spending," he said.

"We have no higher priority than maintaining a strong national defense. To that end, I am committed to and will propose budgets that meet this requirement. I look forward to working with Congress to implement our previous agreements on defense spending levels."

The blueprint for a balanced budget is attached to the bill that would raise the debt limit

Physician receive Peace Prize amid human rights protests

Associated Press

OSLO, Norway - Two physicians - one American, the other Soviet - who helped found a doctors' antiwar group received this year's Nobel Peace Prize, chosen by award human rights demonstrators proclaimed their own "Vaclav Havel Prize" outside.

American cardiologist Bernard Lown and Yevgeny Chazov, a Soviet deputy health minister, accepted the award as co-founders of International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War.

Dr. James Muller, a 695 Notre Dame graduate and one of the founders of the IPPNW, also was to attend the ceremony, he said in an interview Dec. 4 before a lecture at the University.

The group claims more than 135,000 members in 41 countries.

American demonstrators were protesting against Chazov's presence because he participated in a 1973 political attack on Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, who in 1980 won the Nobel Peace Prize himself.

Chazov became the second Soviet citizen, after Sakharov, to receive the award.

"We are not indifferent to other human rights and hard-won civil liberties," Lown told an audience of more than 600 dignitaries, including Norwegian King Olav V, inside Oslo University Hall.

But first we must be able to be with our children to the most fundamental of all rights, which are preconditions for all others, the right to survive," the Harvard University professor said.

Lown and Chazov were called together to the golden rostrum to receive the gold medal and diploma, which carries a $25,000 award which will go to their organization.

"Our aspirations are pure," said Chazov, the target of many protests, after that the five years of the organization's group's existence were "not all roses."

Reading his speech in English, Chazov did not touch on the issue of human rights.

Outside the hall, one of the protest banners said: "Chazov, use your power - free Sakharov." "Find better friends, Dr. Lown," read another demonstrators sign.

The Oslo ceremony was the first event in Scandinavia's annual Dec. 10 round of Nobel Prize presentations.

In a gala white-tie ceremony in Stockholm in neighboring Sweden later yesterday five Americans, a West German and a Frenchman received Nobel Prizes in medicine, chemistry, economics, physics and literature.

Nobel winners are usually chosen in October and the awards are presented on Dec. 10.
Hall Presidents' Council presented Fisher Hall with a President's Award for the month of Nov. (Dec.) at last night's meeting according to Kevin Howard, HPC chairman. The honor is given for hall spirit and best social, liturgical and athletic activities for the month. President Howard and Bruce Ogan, who was not present at the meeting, sent a note Saturday informing the HPC that an "incredible response" had been received from students regarding the parensal survey, he said. As of yet, however, no assistant deans or university presidents have responded although all have received surveys, Howard said. In other business, Vince Willis discussed the "Battle of the Bands," a Feb. 14 event planned to kick off of the M.S. campaign, he said. Students will be able to vote on which of three or four will be the student bands they feel is best, according to Howard. -The Observer

Renovation of dorm chapels will be coordinated by a new committee, consisting of students, faculty and staff at Saint Mary's. The committee, selected by Dean of Women Mary Feeley, had an organizational meeting last week to discuss the renovation of the dorm chapels. The committee will consult architects, artists and liturgists on input. Construction will begin with the Regina chapel, which is owned by the Sisters of the Holy Cross. Renovations of other chapels in Holy Cross and LeMans halls will begin with the completion of Regina. -The Observer

A conservative student newspaper, the Washington Spectator, at the University of Washington, is under attack from right-wing groups. The Spectator's editors have announced that they plan to join the efforts in Academia in "exposing" professors with "leftist bias." A student government member, who is also a member of the College Republicans, said the newspaper's "morally ranclous" McCarthyish witch-hunt threatens academic freedom and said that the student government deny deny deny the paper office space in the student union building. -The Observer

China's traditional sexual morals are too strict and suppress human nature, according to three-quarters of unmarried students questioned in a weekly journal survey Monday. The official English-language Peking Review said that only 25 percent of students surveyed felt it was immoral for engaged couples to live together. Twenty percent said it was understandable for some married people to have lovers, although 50 percent agreed that adultery was immoral. About 70 percent of students felt a woman's virginity was sacred and should be retained until marriage. The survey was taken to find out if students were being influenced by Western sexual liberation," the weekly said. Details of the number of students surveyed and the margin of error were not provided. - AP

National Zoo officials are heartened by a new sign of hope for the 15-year-old panda Ling-Ling. She's beginning to build a nest -- "but she's also running out of time," zoo spokespeople said. The panda was taken to find out if students were being influenced by Western sexual liberation," the weekly said. Details of the number of students surveyed and the margin of error were not provided. - AP

Charles Dickens as portrayed by Dr. Bert Hornback, will read from "A Christmas Carol" and other selected readings in the Library auditorium tonight at 8. The event is sponsored by the Student Activities Board. Admission is free. - The Observer

Right to Life of Notre Dame/Saint Mary's will meet tonight at 9 in the multi-purpose room of the Center for Social Concerns to discuss plans for their spring semester. Following the meeting, the PBS documentary "Abortion Crisis" will be viewed. -The Observer

Weather

Let it snow. Precipitation today with a 60 percent chance of light rain or snow. High around 35. An 80 percent chance of rain or snow tomorrow with a 40 percent chance of light snow tomorrow. High in the low 30's. - The Observer

Finding of Christmas reins even though I'm a grown-up

When I was a little kid, my whole family would go to midnight Mass on Christmas Eve. When we returned, we always discovered that Santa Claus had come while we were out. I remember one time when we went back from Mass and there were thousands and thousands of boxes (it seemed) in the living room. There were boxes that were bigger than I was at the time (I was six, I discovered by having Mom check her records), and they were all for me. We're taking major-league excitement here, I stayed up almost forever - at least until 2 a.m.

I slept off my hangover, if you want to call it that. Most of that first day, my parents allowed me to stay up way past my bedtime to play with my toys, the most notable of which was a parking garage by Fisher Price for the little character I referred to throughout my childhood as "my people." Even at that tender age, I sensed that I was participating in some sort of romantic scene; sitting on the carpet in my pajamas in front of the fire playing with Dad and Mom. "What a rocking chair I don't remember having at all. "We're talking major-league excitement here," I stayed up almost forever - at least until 2 a.m.

I slept off my hangover, if you want to call it that. Most of that first day, my parents allowed me to stay up way past my bedtime to play with my toys, the most notable of which was a parking garage by Fisher Price for the little character I referred to throughout my childhood as "my people." Even at that tender age, I sensed that I was participating in some sort of romantic scene; sitting on the carpet in my pajamas in front of the fire playing with Dad and Mom. "What a rocking chair I don't remember having at all. "We're talking major-league excitement here," I stayed up almost forever - at least until 2 a.m.

I slept off my hangover, if you want to call it that. Most of that first day, my parents allowed me to stay up way past my bedtime to play with my toys, the most notable of which was a parking garage by Fisher Price for the little character I referred to throughout my childhood as "my people." Even at that tender age, I sensed that I was participating in some sort of romantic scene; sitting on the carpet in my pajamas in front of the fire playing with Dad and Mom. "What a rocking chair I don't remember having at all. "We're talking major-league excitement here," I stayed up almost forever - at least until 2 a.m.

I slept off my hangover, if you want to call it that. Most of that first day, my parents allowed me to stay up way past my bedtime to play with my toys, the most notable of which was a parking garage by Fisher Price for the little character I referred to throughout my childhood as "my people." Even at that tender age, I sensed that I was participating in some sort of romantic scene; sitting on the carpet in my pajamas in front of the fire playing with Dad and Mom. "What a rocking chair I don't remember having at all. "We're talking major-league excitement here," I stayed up almost forever - at least until 2 a.m.

I slept off my hangover, if you want to call it that. Most of that first day, my parents allowed me to stay up way past my bedtime to play with my toys, the most notable of which was a parking garage by Fisher Price for the little character I referred to throughout my childhood as "my people." Even at that tender age, I sensed that I was participating in some sort of romantic scene; sitting on the carpet in my pajamas in front of the fire playing with Dad and Mom. "What a rocking chair I don't remember having at all. "We're talking major-league excitement here," I stayed up almost forever - at least until 2 a.m.

I slept off my hangover, if you want to call it that. Most of that first day, my parents allowed me to stay up way past my bedtime to play with my toys, the most notable of which was a parking garage by Fisher Price for the little character I referred to throughout my childhood as "my people." Even at that tender age, I sensed that I was participating in some sort of romantic scene; sitting on the carpet in my pajamas in front of the fire playing with Dad and Mom. "What a rocking chair I don't remember having at all. "We're talking major-league excitement here," I stayed up almost forever - at least until 2 a.m.

I slept off my hangover, if you want to call it that. Most of that first day, my parents allowed me to stay up way past my bedtime to play with my toys, the most notable of which was a parking garage by Fisher Price for the little character I referred to throughout my childhood as "my people." Even at that tender age, I sensed that I was participating in some sort of romantic scene; sitting on the carpet in my pajamas in front of the fire playing with Dad and Mom. "What a rocking chair I don't remember having at all. "We're talking major-league excitement here," I stayed up almost forever - at least until 2 a.m.
Doctors call for ban on all tobacco advertising

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Setting a goal of a tobacco-free United States by the year 2000, the 275,000-member American Medical Association called yesterday for laws to ban all advertising and promotion of cigarettes and smokeless tobacco. After passing the anti-advertising resolution, the association's policymaking House of Delegates also voted to press for a 21-year minimum age for buying tobacco products, for a tax on vending machine cigarette sales, and for required health warning labels on smokeless tobacco such as chewing tobacco and snuff.

Association officials acknowledged it would be difficult to get such proposals through Congress, especially in light of objections already raised concerning possible violation of free-speech rights. But doctors contended in debate that tobacco and lung cancer are clearly linked, that tobacco advertising encourages Americans to use tobacco products and that the medical profession has a duty to try to do something about it.

"We expect a challenge, we're willing to fight it," said AMA general counsel Kirk Johnson at a post-vote news conference.

Burton Davis of Atlanta, a member of the association's board of trustees, said introduction of legislation—perhaps by next spring—would have to be followed by efforts to build support "in the years to come."

Asked for comment one day earlier, Anne Browder, of the Tobacco Institute, which represents the industry, said that a ban on print advertising would violate the industry's right of free speech and that such bans in other nations haven't worked anyway.

Only one doctor, D.E. Ward of Winston in tobacco-rich North Carolina, spoke in opposition to the proposal.

He said the state's delegation considered the action "impractical for the House of Delegates which in the past has championed constitutional freedoms." And he argued that manufacturers should be allowed to advertise legally produced tobacco products.

"We believe strongly in the First Amendment," the constitution, lawyer Johnson said later. However, he added, "there is nothing to the section" that advertising must be allowed for legally produced products.

As for production legality, Dr. Robert McAllister, the South Portland, Maine, physician who presented the anti-advertising proposal, said that was a "very good question" that might be addressed "in the very near future."

Other doctors, however, said they did not foresee the association recommending an outright ban on smoking.

Attempts to persuade publicists to voluntarily stop advertising have had only modest success, the proposal said, estimating that U.S. cigarette advertisers spend $2 billion a year on ads.

Debt drives farmer to killing spree

LOWELL, Ind. - State police have begun investigating the case of a Hobart man whose death from 32 hammer blows to the head has stirred a controversy among local law enforcement officials, authorities said yesterday.

James Cooley, 52, was found dead in his basement darkroom after receiving 32 hammer blows to the head in April. Hobart police and Lake County Coroner Daniel Johnson have been at odds ever since about the cause of death.

Hobart Police Chief Lawrence Jurwicz has said Cooley committed suicide, and Hobart police have closed their investigation. Thomas has insisted the death was a homicide.

State Police Det. Arland Boyd has been assigned to the case, and Thomas said he has turned over all photos to the state police. Thomas, who asked the state police to enter the case, has also asked Lake County Coroner Daniel Crawford to investigate the case.

"I don't expect to hear anything from the state police before the beginning of the year," Thomas said yesterday.

Jurwicz has cited the opinion of a blood splatter expert who reviewed the photos of the darkroom and said Cooley must have committed suicide because there was no interruption of the splatters where a killer could have been standing.

He said the case remained classified as a suicide, and is "suspected," meaning Hobart police are doing no further investigation.

"Suicide" by blows to head investigated

Associated Press

LOWELL, Ind. - State police have begun investigating the case of a Hobart man whose death from 32 hammer blows to the head has stirred a controversy among local law enforcement officials, authorities said yesterday.

James Cooley, 52, was found dead in his basement darkroom after receiving 32 hammer blows to the head in April. Hobart police and Lake County Coroner Daniel Johnson have been at odds ever since about the cause of death.

Hobart Police Chief Lawrence Jurwicz has said Cooley committed suicide, and Hobart police have closed their investigation. Thomas has insisted the death was a homicide.

State Police Det. Arland Boyd has been assigned to the case, and Thomas said he has turned over all photos to the state police. Thomas, who asked the state police to enter the case, has also asked Lake County Coroner Daniel Crawford to investigate the case.

"I don't expect to hear anything from the state police before the beginning of the year," Thomas said yesterday.

Jurwicz has cited the opinion of a blood splatter expert who reviewed the photos of the darkroom and said Cooley must have committed suicide because there was no interruption of the splatters where a killer could have been standing.

He said the case remained classified as a suicide, and is "suspected," meaning Hobart police are doing no further investigation.

All in the cards

Mercedes Raines-en Kếtik, looks, for looks a sale as Jane Clark left, browses through cards being sold at the United Christmas Card Sale yesterday.

Cards will remain on sale through Friday on the Memorial Library concourse.
Three blacks killed in South Africa; deal to release Mandela rumored

Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Police reported three more black deaths in what the government calls a wave of violence against white-minority rule that has raged through this segregated nation for nearly 16 months.

One of the victims was a black policeman whose body was mutilated and burned, apparently by other blacks who saw him as a scollout to the white authorities.

Winnie Mandela paid an unannounced visit to her husband Nelson.

The impromptu black leader has become a symbol to many blacks fighting apartheid, the official race policy that preserves privilege for South Africa's 5 million whites and denies rights to the 24 million blacks.

Runners abroad that the government is trying to strike a deal with Mandela, 67, under which he will renounce violence in return for freedom. He rejected such an offer when President P.W. Botha made it last January.

The government announced that payments to the principal of foreign loans will be postponed again, until March 1. The country is in the grip of recession, inflation and high unemployment that have exacerbated the racial conflict.

A police spokesman said the black constable who was killed was visiting his fiancee Monday night in a township near Pretoria when he answered a knock at the door and stepped outside into a group of blacks. His mutilated and burned body was found in the morning in a field nearby.

Approximately 900 people have been killed in the months of violence, approximately one-third of them blacks who died at the hands of fellow blacks. The rest died in confrontations with police.

Mandela was sentenced to life in prison in 1964 after being convicted of planning sabotage. Several countries, including the United States, have said he should be freed as the first step toward reconciliation.

After the visit, Mrs. Mandela, 50, would say only that he was in good health. She returned to Johannesburg in the evening.

Botha's government froze repayment of principal on the $24-billion foreign debt Sept. 1 and said payments would be resumed Jan. 1.

The result was worth approximately $1.25 billion a year, but he has a vote of $4.8 billion just before the government acceded Sept. 1.

Filipinos protest Marcos' rule, U.S.

Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - Thousands of students and workers shouting "Revolution" marched to the President Ferdinand Marcos' palace where he was meeting party leaders yesterday, in what was potential running mate for the February special election.

The 4,000 marchers waved red flags and chanted slogans praising the People's Army as part of their protest against alleged human rights abuses and U.S. support of Marcos' government.

Nearly 30,000 people, mostly farmers and students, held similar protests in the central Philippine city of Legazpi, Bacolod and Iloilo.

No violence was reported in any of the rallies. The Philippine News Agency said three demonstrators in Iloilo were arrested for distributing allegedly subversive leaflets but were later released.

In Manila, security guards placed barbed wire across a bridge less than 500 yards from Marcos' palace, preventing marchers from reaching it.

The marchers held a rally at the foot of the bridge and burned effigies of Marcos and President Reagan.

The rallies were organized by Bayan, a militant nationwide group of workers, students and peasants which has organized many previous demonstrations. In the Tagalog language, Bayan means country.

The official Philippine News Agency said Prime Minister Cesar Virata and Assemblyman Arturo Pablo were the "front-runners" among Marcos' possible choices for running mate in the Feb. 7 special election for the presidency and vice presidency.

A presidential news release said Marcos would name his running mate today, immediately after a convention of his governing New Society Movement party formally proclaims Marcos its official candidate.
Afghans fight to make war Russian 'Vietnam'

Associated Press

BARI, Afghanistan - Sitting in a cramped bunker as Soviet and Afghan aircraft roared nearby, the guerrilla chieftain vowed that Afghanistian would never be free until it became another Vietnam.

"We must make it bad for the Russians, like it was for the Americans in Vietnam," Jalaluddin Haqqani said as he studied a large map spread out on the earthen floor.

About a mile away were the outer defenses of the encircled town of Khost, defended by some 4,000 Afghan government and Soviet troops. The roar of helicopter blades could be heard in the surrounding hills along with the roar of transport planes landing at Khost's air strip.

Unprompted, the guerrilla commander had turned to the Vietnam war to explain what Islamic guerrilla face if they are to drive Soviet troops and topple Afghanistan's Communist government.

"We have seen how the Vietnamese kept on fighting and how the Americans' power did not help them because the Vietnamese did not stop fighting," he said.

Afghanistan faces years of death and suffering and much of the country will be shattered, Haqqani said calmly. That was the price of freedom, he added.

"We face a long fight. It will not be easy and it will take a long time," he said.

Outside, dozens of mujahedeen, or holy warriors, were cleaning their weapons, preparing food or resting in the afternoon sun. Intermittent gunfire could be heard in the distance along with the throbbing of artillery as returning patrols ambled up the hill to the steep gully sheltering the guerrilla positions.

A wary man with a gray beard reaching halfway down his chest, the 57-year-old Haqqani is one of the guerrillas' best-known field commanders, with a reputation for leadership and courage. An old blue and brown woolen ski hat was perched on the former religious teacher's head, a bulletproof vest nestled under his robes and his rifle was always within easy reach.

Guerrilla forces have surrounded Khost for five years, bottling up the garrison and forcing the govern­ment to keep it supplied by air. The guerrillas frequently attack Khost and its defenses from the surrounding hills, hitting the town with rockets, shells and machine-gun fire.

Thousands of reinforcements, in­cluding elite Soviet airborne assault troops, were flown into Khost in August as part of a major offensive. The Soviet and Afghan government forces drove the guerrillas back for a while in heavy fighting before the offensive petered out in mid­September as guerrilla resistance hardened.

The bunkers at Bari had been overrun and destroyed. The shelters had since been rebuilt with charred wood left from the wrecked camp, and the bloody, rotting uniforms of Afghan soldiers killed in the fighting still lay on the ground.

The Observer needs copy editors for next semester. Interested? Stop by the Observer office, third floor, LaFortune, for an application.

Santa on wheels

Bob Black of Pittsburgh prepares to lead a group of motorcyclists on parade Saturday following the collection of donated toys for the Salvation Army. Approximately 55 riders turned out collecting over 200 toys for the Army's Christmas distribution program. The informal group held a similar ride last month, collecting food for Thanksgiving distribution by the Salvation Army.

EVEN BEFORE YOUR NAME IS ON THE DIPLOMA, YOUR NAME COULD BE ON THE AMERICAN EXPRESS CARD.

It's not too long until you'll be walking up to get your degree. But there's something you could get right now that will help you in any walk of life. The American Express Card.

Because if you're a senior and you've accepted a $10,000 career-oriented job, you could get the American Express Card. That's it. No strings. No gimmicks. (And even if you don't have a job right now, don't worry. This is a special offer from American Express because, as graduating seniors, we think you're kind of special. In fact, we believe in your future. And this is the best way we know to prove it.

Of course, the American Express Card will prove to be a great help to you in your career—for travel and for entertaining. And, to entertain your self, you can use it to buy some new clothes for work or some new things for home. In addition, the Card is also a great way to help you begin to establish your credit history.

So call 1-800-THE-CARD and ask to have a Special Student Application sent to you. Or look for one on campus.

The American Express Card. Don'tleave school without it.
Student Government wishes all of you a very Merry Christmas!

And good luck on final exams!

Car Owners:

Please park your cars in the D-2 lot over Christmas break. (This is the most secure lot.) We thank N.D. Security for joining us in this effort to protect your cars in the best way possible over break!

(D-2 Lot is across from Grace Hall.)

Need to get the word out?
Leave it to us!

Adworks
The Notre Dame Advertising Network

Professional quality that is surprisingly inexpensive.

239-7668
Advertising — It Works!

We The People

All interested students who want to help out with next semester’s student government newsletter “We the People” please call Duane Lawrence at 239-7668 or stop by 2nd floor LaFortune!

The numbers are impressive. Each marcher will take 10,098,000 steps. Through 15 states and 37 cities. There’ll be six mobile cafeterias to serve 3,825,000 meals. Daily showers and laundry for 5,000. Plus 75 vehicles to carry it all.

Times that try one’s soles. You’ll cross the vast Mojave Desert to Las Vegas, Utah and Colorado. You’ll crest the 12,000-ft. Loveland Pass. Then across Nebraska plains and Iowa cornfields to Chicago. Through our industrial heartland, across New Jersey to Manhattan. Then Philadelphia And finally, Washington—where hundreds of thousands will join you.

The Great Peace March will be the beginning of the end for nuclear weapons.

To be precise, a 3,235-mile hike.

You won’t be alone. On March 1, 1986, five thousand people will leave homes, schools, jobs, and families to walk from Los Angeles to Washington, D.C. The Great Peace March will be the beginning of the end for nuclear weapons.

To be precise, a 3,235-mile hike.

You won’t be alone. On March 1, 1986, five thousand people will leave homes, schools, jobs, and families to walk from Los Angeles to Washington, D.C. The Great Peace March will be the beginning of the end for nuclear weapons.

You won’t be alone. On March 1, 1986, five thousand people will leave homes, schools, jobs, and families to walk from Los Angeles to Washington, D.C. The Great Peace March will be the beginning of the end for nuclear weapons.

IF YOU DON’T LIKE THE NUCLEAR ARMS RACE, TAKE A HIKE.

IF YOU DON’T LIKE THE NUCLEAR ARMS RACE, TAKE A HIKE.

To be precise, a 3,235-mile hike.

You won’t be alone. On March 1, 1986, five thousand people will leave homes, schools, jobs, and families to walk from Los Angeles to Washington, D.C. The Great Peace March will be the beginning of the end for nuclear weapons.

Times that try one’s soles. You’ll cross the vast Mojave Desert to Las Vegas, Utah and Colorado. You’ll crest the 12,000-ft. Loveland Pass. Then across Nebraska plains and Iowa cornfields to Chicago. Through our industrial heartland, across New Jersey to Manhattan. Then Philadelphia And finally, Washington—where hundreds of thousands will join you.

The numbers are impressive. Each marcher will take 10,098,000 steps. Through 15 states and 37 cities. There’ll be six mobile cafeterias to serve 3,825,000 meals. Daily showers and laundry for 5,000. Plus 75 vehicles to carry it all.

Now preparing for takeoff. It’s already being organized by PRO-Peace, a highly-skilled citizens movement dedicated to abolishing nuclear weapons. Its large staff of professionals in media, business, organizing and finance are making it happen now.

Can you go the distance? If you’re over eighteen or accompanied by a parent, in good physical condition and ready to give up nearly a year of your life, join the Great Peace March. You’ll be making a statement three thousand miles long.

THE GREAT PEACE MARCH.

PRO-Peace Yes! Card

□ Yes! I want to march. Send me an application.
□ Yes! I Enclosed is my contribution of:

□ $500; □ $100; □ $50; □ $25; □ $__________

□ Yes! I want to help. Please make checks payable to PRO-Peace.

Mail to PRO-Peace, 8150 Beverly Blvd., Suite 301, Los Angeles, CA 90048. (213) 653-6245

Your contributions are tax deductible.

Name______________________________ _______________________________________

Address ___________ ____________________________________

Daytime phone ( ) ___________________ Other phone ( ) ___________________

City_________________State_ ___________________

Signature______________________________ Date_ ___________________
A day under the Dome... in 1885

The Campus

The University was established in 1842, but had to be rebuilt after a fire destroyed the main buildings in 1879. The only structures to be seen in 1885 are the Administration Building with its dome intact, the Science Hall, to be known later as LaFortune; the Music Hall, later to be called Washington Hall; a gymnasium east of the Music Hall; St. Edward's Hall just east of the main building, an infirmary west of St. Ed's, a steam printing office and boiler house behind the main building, and Sacred Heart which was not destroyed by the great fire and on which construction and expansion commenced in 1885.

Before you head north towards the Main Building, you glance behind to see two small buildings on either side of the main entrance. The one on the east side is the post office, and on the west side is the porter's lodge at which horses and buggies and carriages stop before coming or going - sort of the 1885 version of Security.

This is all so overwhelming that you're hungry and decide to head to the Huddle for a burger. As you walk north, notice the people on the quad... there are no women. Of course you should expect this in 1885 but it still looks strange. At a second glance, you notice that a few of the people out and about look a little too young to be college students. What you may not realize is that in 1885 Notre Dame offered more than collegiate and graduate programs. The University, with an enrollment of approximately 481, offers an elementary program for boys 13 and younger known as the Minin Department. For those between the ages of 13 and 17, there is a collegiate preparatory school. Stop in now as you try to comprehend the possibility of spending a lifetime at Notre Dame. In 1885 this rather ersatz university was called "lifers."

You finally reach LaFortune and enter only to realize that you are in Science Hall, a recently completed building, and you will find not a Huddle or a student center within. Instead, where you expect to see a lobby there appears to be a museum. And so it is, the pride and joy of Father John Zahm, a key instigator of the pursuit of science at Notre Dame in the 1880s. The museum contains displays of geological, biological, and chemical collections. The building also contains some classrooms and labs where various experiments and research are conducted. Three Zahm's younger brother, Albert, will soon design the first successful helicopter and wind tunnel, and will launch the first man-carrying slider from the building's roof.

As you leave the building you turn to the right to see Washington Hall, or Music Hall at the time. A brief peek inside shows the auditorium to be very much the same as it will be in 1985, except it's far more ornate with murals covering the walls and ceilings. The building, just three years old, also contains rooms used by upperclassmen for reading.

Stepping outside again, you scan the quad in front of the Main Building where you notice some water...
continued from page 7

Music Hall where you see an unfamiliar two-story, red-brick building standing where the band building will stand in 1885. Hey, they have a "Rock" in 1885 too! What you're looking at is the gymnasium ... Rockefeller Hall.

You're curiosity is sparked so you enter to find it equipped with swings, turning poles, horizontal bars and other gym equipment. Also in the building is the closest thing to the Student you'll find in 1885. It's a candy and softdrink shop run by Brother Leopold Kaut, a typewriter, professor, violin teacher and manager of the shop since 1864. Better known to the students of 1885 as "Brother Leep," he keeps his shop stocked with pretzels, candy and cakes. A barbershop may also be found in the building. After trying out some of these 1885 munchies, walk out the door and head back behind Washington Hall. Glancing quickly to the east, you'll see baseball fields where some day there will be a north quad. Straight ahead is a treat for the eyes, a beautiful Victorian garden with an ornate fountain in the center around which mounds of flowers will bloom in the spring. Beyond the garden is St. Edward's Hall.

Upon entering the Hall, you'll realize quickly that you're out of place. Everyone is under five feet tall. St. Ed's was built in 1882 to house the popular Minim Department, established by Father Sorin in 1879.

The first floor contains the lobbies, toilets and storage rooms. As you wander the second floor amidst the Minims, you'll find the chapel, a parlor, study halls and classrooms. The third and fourth floors contain the sleeping quarters for the little guys with a few more classrooms and a music room on the third floor as well.

There is an extension to the east of St. Ed's that serves as a recreation hall for the Minims. Another extension, to the west of St. Ed's, is the infirmary.

The Dorms

As you glance up at the Dome, you'll see it's not as shiny as it will be in 1885, but striking and inspiring nonetheless. It's time to venture into the main building. WAIT! Don't walk up the main steps. According to long-standing tradition, the poor soul who does the main building are off limits to undergraduates in the fall of each semester when they will walk down the steps for the first time. You'd better enter on the first floor.

If you expect the familiar offices of 1885, you'll be surprised to find lobbies and washrooms, trunk storage rooms, and dining halls in their place. Where the admissions office will be someday is the dining area for the Minims and prep students. The collegiates eat in the west area, where the business office will be in a century.

On the second floor are the presidential offices and living quarters for University officials, as well as study halls for students.

As you move throughout the building you may find a pattern in the division of the facilities. The Administration Building in 1885 is, in a sense, divided into two halls. The west hall is called Browne Hall, and its facilities, (the dining area, study hall, and dorms on the west side of building) are for college students. The east hall is called Carroll Hall and it is for the prep students.

Before venturing to the third floor, you decide to check out one of the study halls. Upon entering, you'll find a room filled with books. Each desk belongs to a student and all of his books and school supplies are stored inside of it. There's a raised platform in the room where a perfect monolith communal study session from 7 to 10 p.m. each night. At the beginning of each semester, the University President will stand on the platform to read to the study halls the University Regulations.

The Dorms

On the third floor, you'll find St. Edward's dorm for the prep students and St. Joseph's dorm for the high school students. Venture over to peak inside one of the dorms and you'll see one large room with rows of beds on metal frames on which there are white curtains for a little privacy anyway. Next to each bed is a chair for the student but his clothes must be stored in lockers in the basement. As you scan the room you may see two doors on one of the walls. These are the perfect rooms. They are two brothers who are in charge of waking everyone up at 6 a.m. and extinguishing the lights at 10 p.m. They also have to stop the students from short sheeting their friends' beds or pulling other practical jokes.

There are a few classrooms on the third floor as well. All together, 22 classrooms are scattered throughout the building. When you poke your head inside to take a peak at one of them, you find you've interrupted a meeting of the St. Cecilia Photo-Society. They're practicing for the Annual Christmas Exercises - a special celebration, complimentary to University President Thomas E. Walsh, and it's planned for Dec. 19. The classrooms obviously double as assembly rooms for the groups on campus. After politely excusing yourself, you head for the staircase and up to the fourth floor.

There you find, at the front of the building, the Lemonnier library. It's a large room with shelves of volumes lining its four walls. Several tall windows lend sufficient light and the decor includes murals on the walls, a few scattered ornamental carpets, scattered display cases containing memorabilia, and statues or busts that seem to be watching your every move.

By 1889, the library's director, Professor Edwards, will have the ever-increasing collection of volumes up to 50,000. He's been aggressively rebuilding the collection ever since the great fire in April of 1879. Also on the fourth floor are two other student dorms, St. Patrick's dorm for the Browneonites and St. Aloysius for the Carrollites.

Run upstairs to the fifth floor, it's kind of exciting because the fifth floor will be closed off in 1885. But now, it contains the fine arts department with studios for mechanical drawing, photography, painting, sculpture, and architecture. Also on the floor is a studio for Luigi Gregori, the artist responsible for the mural on the inside of the dome and for some of the murals you saw earlier in Music Hall.

As you descend the stairs, you realize you've been walking all day and it would feel great to sit down for a while ... so you head for the University Park on the second floor, a large room used for visitors and special occasions.

As you cautiously open the door, you're delighted to find the room unoccupied. It is a large room with patterned rugs, pillars, chandeliers, tall sash windows, and scattered Victorian furniture. After sitting yourself in a corner, you pick up a book on a table next to you.

University of Notre Dame
Catalogue 1885-86. This should prove interesting!

As you skim the pages some of the more interesting parts seem to jump out at you - like the page that lists expenses. $150 for a semester! That includes "board, bed and unoccupied." It is a large room with patterned rugs, pillars, chandeliers, tall sash windows, and scattered Victorian furniture. After sitting yourself in a corner, you pick up a book on a table next to you.

University of Notre Dame
Catalogue 1885-86. This should prove interesting!

As you skim the pages some of the more interesting parts seem to jump out at you - like the page that lists expenses. $150 for a semester! That includes "board, bed and unoccupied." It is a large room with patterned rugs, pillars, chandeliers, tall sash windows, and scattered Victorian furniture. After sitting yourself in a corner, you pick up a book on a table next to you.

University of Notre Dame
Catalogue 1885-86. This should prove interesting!

As you skim the pages some of the more interesting parts seem to jump out at you - like the page that lists expenses. $150 for a semester! That includes "board, bed and unoccupied." It is a large room with patterned rugs, pillars, chandeliers, tall sash windows, and scattered Victorian furniture. After sitting yourself in a corner, you pick up a book on a table next to you.

University of Notre Dame
Catalogue 1885-86. This should prove interesting!

As you skim the pages some of the more interesting parts seem to jump out at you - like the page that lists expenses. $150 for a semester! That includes "board, bed and unoccupied." It is a large room with patterned rugs, pillars, chandeliers, tall sash windows, and scattered Victorian furniture. After sitting yourself in a corner, you pick up a book on a table next to you.

University of Notre Dame
Catalogue 1885-86. This should prove interesting!
bedding, and tuition.” After heaving a depressed sigh, you flip backwards to a section entitled “Discipline.” There you’ll find that Notre Dame in 1885 is a very strict campus as you note regulation number four: “The use of intoxicating liquors is absolutely prohibited under all circumstances.”

Some dos and don’ts are also noteworthy. Although admission is granted to members of any religious denomination, Notre Dame is strictly a Catholic university and attendance at Mass on Sundays and Holy Days is mandatory. No one can even leave the campus without permission of the President, Vice-President or one of the representatives. Also, “to guard against clandestine and improper correspondence,” the President reserves the right to supervise letters to or from students. Use of tobacco is “strictly forbidden,” unless you are a college student and have written permission from mom and dad.

Academics

Flipping ahead a few pages, you’ll see the courses of study for the college students of Notre Dame in 1885. The two major schools are the Classical, in which you would take mostly Greek, Latin, English and Math with a few electives available in language or the arts; and Scientific, in which you would take a great deal of Chemistry, Math and Botany. There are special schools of study in Law, Civil Engineering, a Commercial Course or Business, and Modern Languages.

Social Life

What about fun? By this time you’re beginning to wonder what these people do for fun around here. You flip forward to find the activities for the Browncoats. But they’re all religious or literary societies. There’s the Archconfraternity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, which “has for its object the propagation of the Faith, the practice of devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary; and the cultivation of a religious spirit among its members.” Hmmmm... don’t suppose they’ve got any happy hours or anything.

The St. Aloysius Philodemic Society is really out for a good time. Their goal is “the cultivation of eloquence and the acquisition of an accurate knowledge of History.” Another rowdy crowd is the Thomas Aquinas Society. It’s in pursuit of cultivation of Oratory, Instruction, and the Dramatic Art. The Columbian Literary and Dramatic Society might be the 1885 version of the Marketing or Management Clubs, as it is for the benefit of the Commercial students and it hopes to cultivate Eloquence and Oratory. There’s also the Sorin Literary and Dramatic Association and of course the University Marching Band.

If you were to hang around for a while you’d find that most special events or performances on campus are by these groups. Shakespeare plays were without a doubt a favorite among the dramatic societies.

Sports

As you continue scanning the pages you notice a listing of the Athletic Association officers. That’s right: proud alumni in 1885. Who else would throw the tailgaters for football weekends away, no football weekends in 1885 simply because football is not yet an official sport at Notre Dame — but it will be within two years. As the 1885-86 Catalogue tells you, the only sports offered are baseball and boating. There is a group listed under Athletics as the Hoyes Light Guards. No, not a fencing team, but groups of students who have organized military companies. The State of Indiana supplied the University with the necessary arms and equipment and the uniformed companies drill in the use of them.

Suddenly, you hear voices approaching the parlor. You quickly duck behind the chair but make sure you have a good view of the door. In walks a man with a long white beard, looking very regal. He looks familiar. It’s Father Sorin, whose statue you walked past a million times in 1985. You just never considered the fact that the founder of Notre Dame is still alive and well in 1885. He’s president of the Board of Trustees and he’s very influential in making decisions. To the students he is a demi-god and referred to by all as the Very Reverend Father Sorin.

This evening he is entertaining the Studebakers of South Bend, as you do the door to see where they’re heading. They’re on their way to the senior dining area where there will be a table well endowed with dishes waiting for them.

Just then, the door across the hall opens and out walks a youngish looking man who also heads down the hall to descend to the dining area. That’s the president of Notre Dame, Father Thomas E. Walsh. He’s only 52 years old but he’s been president for the last four years. Sorin appointed his young protege in hopes that the young man would be successful in expanding the faculty, improving the University’s academic departments and building more physical facilities.

Saint Mary’s

Well, December 11, 1885 is a Friday so you decide to hang around and see what the social life is like on weekends. It’ll be neat to meet Saint Mary’s women of the 1880s. Chances are, however, that you won’t see any. There isn’t much of a relationship between the men of Notre Dame and the women of Saint Mary’s Academy in 1885. There is a road leading to the Academy and often guys will walk the end of it where they can watch women walk by. They might call, wave, or whistle, but this type of relationship doesn’t encourage the development of much romance. Men who have relatives at Saint Mary’s may visit them on certain days. But it’ll be a generation or so before there’s much more social activity than this between the schools.

It’s been a full day in 1885 and you’re ready to head back to the present. You head down to the first floor and out the front door unobtrusively. It’s six o’clock and the bells of Sacred Heart are ringing. From now on, in 1885, that sound will be especially endearing to you. It’s a reminder of the tradition and history you’ve always heard about, but never experienced until now. The tradition and history you’ve experienced. You knew the Notre Dame family extends throughout the world. It can’t be isolated geographically. Now you also know that the family extends through time as well. As you fasten the seat belt in your time machine and set the dial for December 11, 1885, you think about that curious person in 2085 who will crawl in a time machine and come to experience your college life. Who knows what the Notre Dame Community will be like in a century? As H.G. Wells so astutely put it in his 1901 book “The Discovery of the Future.”

"The past is but the beginning of a beginning, and all that is and has been is but the twilight of the dawn."

Portions of the information in this story were gathered from the book “The University of Notre Dame. A Portrait of Its History and Campaign” by Notre Dame President Thomas Schieler, and from Notre Dame Archives.

The Carroll Hall Cyclists show off their odd-looking vehicles in front of the Dome.

University President Father Thomas Walsh.

Photos courtesy of Notre Dame Magazine
The season to be jolly. In addition, here at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, this is also the season to be especially vigilant during the last few weeks of school there are simply not enough hours in the day to accomplish all that needs to be done. And so not can be compiled that includes everything that one needs to remember. In fact, something quite frequently forgotten, especially during the Christmas rush, is that not everyone has the opportunity to live free, unimpeded, and unpursued lives. The week of Dec. 3 to Dec. 10 is Peace and Justice Week and it is a week which we all should be careful not to forget. It is a week that the people in the world who do not enjoy the basic freedoms which we so thoughtlessly take for granted. One example of a person denied his basic freedoms is Ibrahim Orizov.

Angie Lloyd
guest column

Although the fate of Orizov, a Bulgarian from the village of Orozovo, sounds absurd to American ears, it is nevertheless an actual occurrence. He was arrested only because he is an ethnic Turk and his Islamic name. Very little information is known about his actual plight, other than that he was arrested between Dec. 1984 and Mar. 1985 and is currently imprisoned in a labor camp on the southern borders of the country has not released any information about whether

Hugh McManus
guest column

The accord establishes an intergovernmental conference responsible for all areas of life in Northern Ireland. The British government continues to administer the province, the Irish government's representatives will have a role somewhat greater than advisory and somewhat less than executive. The exact function that will be played by the Irish government will probably be determined by the extent of the Loyalist backlash. Both governments will have a status below that of the Irish Republic, which has enjoyed a de facto status since 1916.

The recent history of Northern Ireland, with its culmination in 16 years of violence, is rather complicated and begs close attention. The Loyalist rejection of the involvement of a "foreign power" in the "internal affairs of the United Kingdom" stems from its fear of being forced into a united state. The Loyalists fear that as a minority in a united state they would be treated in the same way as the Catholics they treated in the past. For fifty years from 1921 to 1972, Northern Ireland had a devolved government similar to the status of one of the fifty states in the Union. For those fifty years an al-Qaeda state was perfect for the forms of a parliamentary democracy. This state provided a selective preference for Catholics to emigrate. Despite their considerably higher birthrate, the overall proportion of the population remained static at around 35 percent.

When peaceful civil rights agitations were started in the late sixties on nonsectarian and moderate and basically reasonable terms by the Loyalist government. They had the same success in its suppression which the government in South Africa is currently enjoying. The resurgence of the IRA was a direct reaction to this and many later government disasters. In an ambience of violence and recrimination, moderate and basically reasonable people can be given to unreasonable and unreasoned action. The alienation and mistrust between the two communities continue with both governments reject any attempts at political settlements through violence and guns, with the auspices of a secretariat to be established in Belfast, to make a concerted effort to combat terrorism.

The political vacuum in Northern Ireland is the breeding ground for terrorism. The polarization of the communities resulting from this is the reason why political extremists on both sides have considerable popular support. It is in the best interests of the Loyalist community to let this agreement work.

Viewpoint

Wednesday, December 11, 1985 — page 10

Bulgarian government denies individuals' rights

The accord establishes an intergovernmental conference responsible for all areas of life in Northern Ireland. The British government continues to administer the province, the Irish government's representatives will have a role somewhat greater than advisory and somewhat less than executive. The exact function that will be played by the Irish government will probably be determined by the extent of the Loyalist backlash. Both governments will have a status below that of the Irish Republic, which has enjoyed a de facto status since 1916.

The recent history of Northern Ireland, with its culmination in 16 years of violence, is rather complicated and begs close attention. The Loyalist rejection of the involvement of a "foreign power" in the "internal affairs of the United Kingdom" stems from its fear of being forced into a united state. The Loyalists fear that as a minority in a united state they would be treated in the same way as the Catholics they treated in the past. For fifty years from 1921 to 1972, Northern Ireland had a devolved government similar to the status of one of the fifty states in the Union. For those fifty years an al-Qaeda state was perfect for the forms of a parliamentary democracy. This state provided a selective preference for Catholics to emigrate. Despite their considerably higher birthrate, the overall proportion of the population remained static at around 35 percent.

When peaceful civil rights agitations were started in the late sixties on nonsectarian and moderate and basically reasonable terms by the Loyalist government. They had the same success in its suppression which the government in South Africa is currently enjoying. The resurgence of the IRA was a direct reaction to this and many later government disasters. In an ambience of violence and recrimination, moderate and basically reasonable people can be given to unreasonable and unreasoned action. The alienation and mistrust between the two communities continue with both governments reject any attempts at political settlements through violence and guns, with the auspices of a secretariat to be established in Belfast, to make a concerted effort to combat terrorism.

The political vacuum in Northern Ireland is the breeding ground for terrorism. The polarization of the communities resulting from this is the reason why political extremists on both sides have considerable popular support. It is in the best interests of the Loyalist community to let this agreement work.

If peace with justice were established in Northern Ireland, I feel sure Nationalists would be quite happy to remain in the United Kingdom and enjoy the annual six billion dollar subvention from the London government. If the agreement is made to fail and the polarization continues, Nationalists will probably favor renunciation of Ireland a few years down the road.

At any rate, the most interesting chapter in Northern Ireland's history has yet to be opened. It will start when one day Loyalists realize they are no longer in the majority. To be quite honest, when that happens, Great Britain will be more than glad to see the end of their involvement in Ireland.

Hugh McManus is a chemistry graduate student at Notre Dame and a Nationalist from Northern Ireland.

The Viewpoint Department
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46565

Quote of the day

“A good conscience is a continual Christmas.”

Benjamin Franklin
(1706-1790)
“Poor Richard’s Almanac”
Dear Editor:

It is Freshmen Orientation Week, the last week of my life. I am old. I felt delirium, emotion, and fatigue. After that first invigorating week, I was undoubtedly shaken, shocked to hear such a cynical and seemingly unrealistic foreboding. As far as I was concerned, four years was not nearly enough time to spend in college. I proclaimed to my friends, "I want to be at Notre Dame for at least ten years." How else could I do all that I want to do? I wanted to turn back 170 degrees from my original position. It was as if I was run over by the entire Notre Dame offensive line. My mom sadly mentioned, "Well, there are only two home games left in your college career." My heart was pumping as I had just run a 10K... "No, no, please, don't tell me that." Then, she added, "only six months to graduation." I was feeling faint, I almost passed out right on the sidewalk. "Please, I don't want it to end." "I don't want it to be my last football game, or my last philosophy class, or my last Walsh Hall party." I want to live far beyond my time with my friends just for a couple more years. I can't picture myself away from this University. I can't admit that it is so much a part of me. I am so much a part of Notre Dame. The two just cannot be separated. I have grown, lived and loved here at Notre Dame. There is no other place that can capture all that is Notre Dame.

As I was walking to the Grotto this afternoon, I asked myself, "What are you truly feeling about graduating?" Three weeks ago, May 18, 1986, was not arriving soon enough. Now, I feel it is coming at me at 100 miles per hour.

I have to chuckle at myself. I guess I really don't want it to be my last football game. My mind tells me to think of the future four years. My heart tells me to remember the past four years. How can he make such an inductive generalization? Anyone could derive from the Holy Spirit's inspiration. Certainly, there are definite Truths which transcended time and culture, such as the Resurrection and the mysteries of the Eucharist; however, an all-male priesthood is not one of them. The all-male priesthood is a tradition which grew out of a historical context and has perpetuated by this institutional church - the Church of the 17th Century. A "wining" does have a palpable structure. Certainly, the Church is a "unique entity," but it is able to change. A "universal" institution - a male institution which yields painfully to change, and which has chosen to exclude females from the full participation in our most fundamental tradition - the Mass.

The notion of full participation in the Mass, far from being a redundant trend at D'Andrea suggests, embraces the self-evident reality that it is inadequate to grant a sense of belonging to each and every call of us, not as a male or female, but rather as people to strive to know love, serve, and sacrifice, regardless of our gender. It is my immediate role to question the question will be how we have responded to this call. Sales roles and habits are just the ultimate core of D'Andrea's argument, will be left behind as we account for our responses to the will of God in our own lives.

Stephen P. Hogan Notre Dame Law student Paula Jean Wagner Pasquale West

Coaches trapped by the crazy system of football

Dear Editor:

I'm from Iowa. It was a good year. Near-Helman-winner Long, Hawkes winning games, even a good corn crop. I certainly enjoy games, roses, and popcorn. Yet the excitement was amazing, throaty. Is "pick-o'-mania" can do. Lived in it for four years. It can dominate. It can subvert. The International Writer's Workshop at Iowa (Bobbi Vecse, Updeke, and others graced it once) could be disbanded. The VanArdes could "radiate" to other institutions for lack of support. The 1000 bed med school hospital could close. Things will work out for him in the future, university, religion, family, and community, he is the epitome of security, grace, and integrity.

For those of you who find it so easy to criticize his game plans and play selections, I would like nothing more than to watch you go out on the football field and come away with one victory in five years, let alone 30 victories. Maybe the Irish didn't detract anyone on the road this year, maybe they had not played in a major college bowl game in five years - maybe things didn't work out as expected for Faust. But it is an incredible achievement. It is to be congratulated. It is to Notre Dame's standing as a serious school that they gave him five years to develop a winner. Iowa and most others would have dumped Fry or anyone else, after the first two or three years. That's not what we want.

Brian Miclot Notre Dame graduate student

Gerry Faust's smile will not be forgotten by ND

Dear Editor:

It was never lost his smile. Just two hours after he announced his resignation as head football coach at Notre Dame, Gerry Faust was walking through the corridors of the Athletic and Convocation Center the same center he stood in before his big contract celebration of the year because they had broken training rules. A lot of coaches would not have done that. The famous envelope rules. The entrapment of coaches indicates how great universities come to serve as mere stages set for football and basketball teams, who in turn serve as holder for the television entertainment industry.

I don't think people should dump garbage onto a coach that isn't as good as they expect, though they don't think they should carry him around on their shoulders and treat him like a god when he leaves. They should be open to criticism. They should be educated and amused. They should learn from losing, enjoy popcorn, and, perhaps, smell a rose when it comes their way.

Mary J. O'Malley

Coaches trapped by the crazy system of football

Dear Editor:

We are writing in response to the Dec. 6 letter by Thomas D. D'Andrea in which he expresses the view that a male-only priesthood is designated by the Holy Spirit through religious tradition. We respectfully disagree, not on any scriptural grounds, but rather, we believe the reasoning through which he reaches his conclusions is flawed.

There would be an assertion a male-only priesthood is and has been a tradition since the time of the Church's origins. From this, he extends all such other traditions are thereby dainied by the Holy Spirit to which all should be submitted.

The flaw of D'Andrea's argument lies in this conviction that the Holy Spirit dictates this or that tradition. He fails to distinguish between observed and unobserved traditions and immutable pillars of Faith from a condition of sickness derived from the Holy Spirit's inspiration. Certainly, there are definite Truths which transcended time and culture, such as the Resurrection and the mysteries of the Eucharist; however, an all-male priesthood is not one of them.

The all-male priesthood is a tradition which grew out of a historical context and has perpetuated by this institutional church - the Church of the 17th Century. A "wining" does have a palpable structure. Certainly, the Church is a "unique entity," but it is able to change. It is so evident to me that Notre Dame's standing as a serious school that they gave him five years to develop a winner. Iowa and most others would have dumped Fry or anyone else, after the first two or three years. That's not what we want.

Cora C. Peng Lewis Hall

Historical influences on Church gave males edge

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the Dec. 6 letter by Thomas D. D'Andrea in which he expresses the view that a male-only priesthood is designated by the Holy Spirit through religious tradition. We respectfully disagree, not on any scriptural grounds, but rather, we believe the reasoning through which he reaches his conclusions is flawed.

There would be an assertion a male-only priesthood is and has been a tradition since the time of the Church's origins. From this, he extends all such other traditions are thereby dainied by the Holy Spirit to which all should be submitted.

The flaw of D'Andrea's argument lies in this conviction that the Holy Spirit dictates this or that tradition. He fails to distinguish between observed and unobserved traditions and immutable pillars of Faith from a condition of sickness derived from the Holy Spirit's inspiration. Certainly, there are definite Truths which transcended time and culture, such as the Resurrection and the mysteries of the Eucharist; however, an all-male priesthood is not one of them.

The all-male priesthood is a tradition which grew out of a historical context and has perpetuated by this institutional church - the Church of the 17th Century. A "wining" does have a palpable structure. Certainly, the Church is a "unique entity," but it is able to change. It is so evident to me that Notre Dame's standing as a serious school that they gave him five years to develop a winner. Iowa and most others would have dumped Fry or anyone else, after the first two or three years. That's not what we want.

Cora C. Peng Lewis Hall

The Observer

P. O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the university, the Board of Trustees, or any other organization. Unedited advertisements are optional. The opinion of the Editorial Board, Comment-tories, letters and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Editor-in-Chief - Daniel C. Cullinane Managing Editor - John E. O'Connor News Editor - Mark A. Murphy Sports Editor - Jeff Bumb Assistant News Editor - Joan H. McCaffrey Viewpoint Editor - Mary J. O'Malley Photography Editor - Peter C. Laches Copy Chief - Phil H. Wolf

Viewpoint

Graduation is approaching much too fast now

It is my senior year here at Notre Dame and those few emphatic words of experience come to scurry through my mind, "Just wait, by the time senior year arrives, you'll be ready to leave." When a senior dorm mate spoke those words four years ago, I remember that such a horrendous feeling could occur in Gretchen Froehlke mixed emotions

me. It was Freshmen Orientation Week, the last week of my life. I am old. I felt delirium, emotion, and fatigue. After that first invigorating week, I was undoubtedly shaken, shocked to hear such a cynical and seemingly unrealistic foreboding. As far as I was concerned, four years was not nearly enough time to spend in college. I proclaimed to my friends, "I want to be at Notre Dame for at least ten years." How else could I do all that I want to do? I wanted to turn back 170 degrees from my original position. It was as if I was run over by the entire Notre Dame offensive line. My mom sadly mentioned, "Well, there are only two home games left in your college career." My heart was pumping as I had just run a 10K... "No, no, please, don't tell me that." Then, she added, "only six months to graduation." I was feeling faint, I almost passed out right on the sidewalk. "Please, I don't want it to end." "I don't want it to be my last football game, or my last philosophy class, or my last Walsh Hall party." I want to live far beyond my time with my friends just for a couple more years. I can't picture myself away from this University. I can't admit that it is so much a part of me. I am so much a part of Notre Dame. The two just cannot be separated. I have grown, lived and loved here at Notre Dame. There is no other place that can capture all that is Notre Dame.

As I was walking to the Grotto this afternoon, I asked myself, "What are you truly feeling about graduating?" Three weeks ago, May 18, 1986, was not arriving soon enough. Now, I feel it is coming at me at 100 miles per hour.

I have to chuckle at myself. I guess I really don't want it to be my last football game. My mind tells me to think of the future four years. My heart tells me to remember the past four years. How can he make such an inductive generalization? Anyone could derive from the Holy Spirit's inspiration. Certainly, there are definite Truths which transcended time and culture, such as the Resurrection and the mysteries of the Eucharist; however, an all-male priesthood is not one of them. The notion of full participation in the Mass,
Lost: Notre Dame Class Ring on your way, as well. Stevenson was given All-America mention by Parade McDonald's, Basketball Weekly and USA Today. Additionally, he was a first team choice on the Philadel- phia Catholic League's All-Area team. Based on his performance so far and not surprisingly, Stevenson is gaining confidence in his abilities with each passing game, and on the whole, he is pleased with the way things have gone for him at Notre Dame.

I'm making the transition to college now. There's a lot more to that. A lot more to football. A lot more to many things. There are three times more plays than we've ever had in high school and the defense is more complicated, too.

While the defense may be more complicated, it is not hard to figure out that Stevenson has nothing but a bright future staring for him.

Andujar goes to Oakland in big trade

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - The St. Louis Car-dinals traded troubled, two-time 20-game winner Joaquin Andujar to the Oakland A's today after a heated discussion with Mike Heath and pitcher Tim Conway, the team officials.

Andujar, who will turn 33 next month, was 21-12 with a 5.90 earned run average over the past three seasons for the Cardinals. But the right-hander dropped off dramatically in the second half of the year and was then hit in taking losses in both the National League playoffs and the World Series.

Andujar received a 10-day suspension after the start of the 1986 season. That suspension was lifted following his conduct during the team's 1-0 loss in Game 7 of the World Series.

He argued two consecutive close calls with home plate umpire Don Denkinger and was bumped before being ejected.

OBSERVER SPORTS BRIEFS

Thursday, December 18, 1985 — page 13

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of Lafortune Hall, requests that all members turn in their ergotion pledge money tomorrow from 6:30-8 p.m. at Lafortune Student Center. For more information call Mike Songer at 283-4108. The Observer

Tenth-ranked Illinois lost to Tennessee last night by a 54-51 margin in Knoxville, Tenn. The Illini (6-2) led by as many as 10 points throughout the game until the Volunteers (5-1) grabbed the lead for good with 5:21 remaining - AP

Irish

continued from page 16

With the return of Ethier and Pescarilllo, and the loss of Fasanella, DeLucia was not surprised.

"The adjustment has been more of a friend to a friend. The friendship has been made. What we needed was the team. The team needed us. The team needed the guidance to bring us together. If Stevenson has nothing but a bright future staring for him.

Andujar goes to Oakland in big trade

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - The St. Louis Car-dinals traded troubled, two-time 20-game winner Joaquin Andujar to the Oakland A's today after a heated discussion with Mike Heath and pitcher Tim Conway, the team officials.

Andujar, who will turn 33 next month, was 21-12 with a 5.90 earned run average over the past three seasons for the Cardinals. But the right-hander dropped off dramatically in the second half of the year and was then hit in taking losses in both the National League playoffs and the World Series.

Andujar received a 10-day suspension after the start of the 1986 season. That suspension was lifted following his conduct during the team's 1-0 loss in Game 7 of the World Series.

He argued two consecutive close calls with home plate umpire Don Denkinger and was bumped before being ejected.

OBSERVER SPORTS BRIEFS

Thursday, December 18, 1985 — page 13

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of Lafortune Hall, requests that all members turn in their ergotion pledge money tomorrow from 6:30-8 p.m. at Lafortune Student Center. For more information call Mike Songer at 283-4108. The Observer

Tenth-ranked Illinois lost to Tennessee last night by a 54-51 margin in Knoxville, Tenn. The Illini (6-2) led by as many as 10 points throughout the game until the Volunteers (5-1) grabbed the lead for good with 5:21 remaining - AP

Irish

continued from page 16

With the return of Ethier and Pescarilllo, and the loss of Fasanella, DeLucia was not surprised.

"The adjustment has been more of a friend to a friend. The friendship has been made. What we needed was the team. The team needed us. The team needed the guidance to bring us together. If Stevenson has nothing but a bright future staring for him.

Andujar goes to Oakland in big trade

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - The St. Louis Car-dinals traded troubled, two-time 20-game winner Joaquin Andujar to the Oakland A's today after a heated discussion with Mike Heath and pitcher Tim Conway, the team officials.

Andujar, who will turn 33 next month, was 21-12 with a 5.90 earned run average over the past three seasons for the Cardinals. But the right-hander dropped off dramatically in the second half of the year and was then hit in taking losses in both the National League playoffs and the World Series.

Andujar received a 10-day suspension after the start of the 1986 season. That suspension was lifted following his conduct during the team's 1-0 loss in Game 7 of the World Series.

He argued two consecutive close calls with home plate umpire Don Denkinger and was bumped before being ejected.

OBSERVER SPORTS BRIEFS

Thursday, December 18, 1985 — page 13

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of Lafortune Hall, requests that all members turn in their ergotion pledge money tomorrow from 6:30-8 p.m. at Lafortune Student Center. For more information call Mike Songer at 283-4108. The Observer

Tenth-ranked Illinois lost to Tennessee last night by a 54-51 margin in Knoxville, Tenn. The Illini (6-2) led by as many as 10 points throughout the game until the Volunteers (5-1) grabbed the lead for good with 5:21 remaining - AP

Irish

continued from page 16

With the return of Ethier and Pescarilllo, and the loss of Fasanella, DeLucia was not surprised.

"The adjustment has been more of a friend to a friend. The friendship has been made. What we needed was the team. The team needed us. The team needed the guidance to bring us together. If Stevenson has nothing but a bright future staring for him.

Andujar goes to Oakland in big trade

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - The St. Louis Car-dinals traded troubled, two-time 20-game winner Joaquin Andujar to the Oakland A's today after a heated discussion with Mike Heath and pitcher Tim Conway, the team officials.

Andujar, who will turn 33 next month, was 21-12 with a 5.90 earned run average over the past three seasons for the Cardinals. But the right-hander dropped off dramatically in the second half of the year and was then hit in taking losses in both the National League playoffs and the World Series.

Andujar received a 10-day suspension after the start of the 1986 season. That suspension was lifted following his conduct during the team's 1-0 loss in Game 7 of the World Series.

He argued two consecutive close calls with home plate umpire Don Denkinger and was bumped before being ejected.

OBSERVER SPORTS BRIEFS

Thursday, December 18, 1985 — page 13

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of Lafortune Hall, requests that all members turn in their ergotion pledge money tomorrow from 6:30-8 p.m. at Lafortune Student Center. For more information call Mike Songer at 283-4108. The Observer

Tenth-ranked Illinois lost to Tennessee last night by a 54-51 margin in Knoxville, Tenn. The Illini (6-2) led by as many as 10 points throughout the game until the Volunteers (5-1) grabbed the lead for good with 5:21 remaining - AP

Irish

continued from page 16

With the return of Ethier and Pescarilllo, and the loss of Fasanella, DeLucia was not surprised.

"The adjustment has been more of a friend to a friend. The friendship has been made. What we needed was the team. The team needed us. The team needed the guidance to bring us together. If Stevenson has nothing but a bright future staring for him.

Andujar goes to Oakland in big trade

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - The St. Louis Car-dinals traded troubled, two-time 20-game winner Joaquin Andujar to the Oakland A's today after a heated discussion with Mike Heath and pitcher Tim Conway, the team officials.

Andujar, who will turn 33 next month, was 21-12 with a 5.90 earned run average over the past three seasons for the Cardinals. But the right-hander dropped off dramatically in the second half of the year and was then hit in taking losses in both the National League playoffs and the World Series.

Andujar received a 10-day suspension after the start of the 1986 season. That suspension was lifted following his conduct during the team's 1-0 loss in Game 7 of the World Series.

He argued two consecutive close calls with home plate umpire Don Denkinger and was bumped before being ejected.

OBSERVER SPORTS BRIEFS

Thursday, December 18, 1985 — page 13

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of Lafortune Hall, requests that all members turn in their ergotion pledge money tomorrow from 6:30-8 p.m. at Lafortune Student Center. For more information call Mike Songer at 283-4108. The Observer

Tenth-ranked Illinois lost to Tennessee last night by a 54-51 margin in Knoxville, Tenn. The Illini (6-2) led by as many as 10 points throughout the game until the Volunteers (5-1) grabbed the lead for good with 5:21 remaining - AP

Irish

continued from page 16

With the return of Ethier and Pescarilllo, and the loss of Fasanella, DeLucia was not surprised.

"The adjustment has been more of a friend to a friend. The friendship has been made. What we needed was the team. The team needed us. The team needed the guidance to bring us together. If Stevenson has nothing but a bright future staring for him.
The Observer
Wednesday, December 11, 1985 — page 13

SPORTS WEDNESDAY

Notre Dame Men's Basketball Statistics through 12/11/85
Won 4, Lost 1

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player</th>
<th>G/GS</th>
<th>MIN/AVG</th>
<th>FG/FGA</th>
<th>PCT</th>
<th>FT/FTA</th>
<th>PCT</th>
<th>REB/AVG</th>
<th>PF/FO</th>
<th>AST</th>
<th>BK</th>
<th>ST</th>
<th>PTS</th>
<th>AVG</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rivers</td>
<td>5/5</td>
<td>15/8 36.1</td>
<td>21/36</td>
<td>5  4</td>
<td>27/30</td>
<td>5.0</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>87</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>17</td>
<td>47.4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Marbo</td>
<td>4/4</td>
<td>11/8 28.6</td>
<td>21/46</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>16/18</td>
<td>88.9</td>
<td>535</td>
<td>88</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>14.5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Price</td>
<td>5/10</td>
<td>2/20 25.0</td>
<td>2/25</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Royal</td>
<td>0/5</td>
<td>1/2 5.0</td>
<td>2/25</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stearman</td>
<td>5/2</td>
<td>1/20 5.0</td>
<td>1/18</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Himes</td>
<td>0/4</td>
<td>1/20 5.0</td>
<td>1/25</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Voice</td>
<td>5/0</td>
<td>11/8 57.1</td>
<td>21/43</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kemptston</td>
<td>4/4</td>
<td>11/8 57.1</td>
<td>21/43</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Connor</td>
<td>3/0</td>
<td>1/20 5.0</td>
<td>1/25</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Smith</td>
<td>4/0</td>
<td>1/20 5.0</td>
<td>1/25</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dobok</td>
<td>5/1</td>
<td>1/20 5.0</td>
<td>1/25</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nogorski</td>
<td>2/0</td>
<td>1/20 5.0</td>
<td>1/25</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Blankenship</td>
<td>0/0</td>
<td>1/20 5.0</td>
<td>1/25</td>
<td>4  5</td>
<td>1/13</td>
<td>53.8</td>
<td>16/32</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>9.8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peters</td>
<td>3/0</td>
<td>7/2 3.5</td>
<td>2/0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0/0</td>
<td>0.0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Team Rebounds:

Notre Dame      1000/200.0  127/279  .455  54/81  .667  145/29.0  109/55  19  49  308  61.6
Opponents       800/160.0  102/203  .500  66/101  .658  120/24.0  85/17  12  46  280  54.0

* Deadball rebounds are not included in totals: Notre Dame 11, Opponents 7

BASKETBALL TOP 20

The Top Twenty college basketball teams in The Associated Press poll, with first-place vote in parentheses, and total points. Points based on 20, 15, 10, 7, 5. Notre Dame opponents are italicized.

1. Penn State (8) 11-0-0 1091
2. Indiana (13) 10-1-0 1031
3. Duke 9-2-0 1002
4. St. John's 8-3-0 973
5. Michigan (11) 8-3-0 953
6. Minnesota 8-3-0 933
7. Michigan State 7-4-1 913
8. Pittsburgh 7-4-1 893
9. Notre Dame 7-4-1 873
10. Kansas 7-4-1 853
11. Arizona State 5-6-2 833
12. Michigan 7-4-1 813
13. North Carolina State 7-4-1 793
14. Ohio State 7-4-1 773
15. Oklahoma 6-5-2 753
16. California 7-4-1 733
17. Rutgers 7-4-1 713
18. Maryland 7-4-1 693
19. Texas 7-4-1 673
20. LSU 7-4-1 653

BASKETBALL TOP 20

The Top Twenty college basketball teams in The Associated Press poll, with first-place vote in parentheses, and total points. Points based on 20, 15, 10, 7, 5. Notre Dame opponents are italicized.

1. Kansas (13) 20-0-0 2411
2. UNC (13) 20-0-0 2381
3. UCLA 18-2-0 2281
4. Arizona 17-3-0 2251
5. Duke 17-3-0 2221
6. North Carolina 17-3-0 2191
7. Nevada Las Vegas 17-3-0 2161
8. Maryland 17-3-0 2131
9. Michigan State 17-3-0 2101
10. Illinois 17-3-0 2071
11. Texas 17-3-0 2041
12. Providence 17-3-0 2011
13. Maryland 17-3-0 1981
14. Arizona State 17-3-0 1951
15. UCLA 17-3-0 1921
16. Stanford 17-3-0 1891
17. Southern California 17-3-0 1861
18. Minnesota 17-3-0 1831
19. California 17-3-0 1801
20. North Carolina State 17-3-0 1771

Basketball Top 20

The Top Twenty college basketball teams in The Associated Press poll, with first-place vote in parentheses, and total points. Points based on 20, 15, 10, 7, 5. Notre Dame opponents are italicized.

1. Duke 11-0-0 1151
2. North Carolina 11-0-0 1121
3. Michigan State 11-0-0 1091
4. Michigan 11-0-0 1061
5. Duke 11-0-0 1031
6. North Carolina 11-0-0 1001
7. Duke 11-0-0 971
8. Michigan State 11-0-0 941
9. Michigan 11-0-0 911
10. Duke 11-0-0 881

The Student Activities Board Presents

CHARLES DICKENS:

"Marley was dead: to begin with. The register of his burial was signed by the clergyman, the clerk, the undertaker, and the chief mourner. Scrooge signed it: and Scrooge's name was good upon 'Change for anything he chose to put his hand to. Old Marley was dead as a door-nail..."

TONIGHT! Library Auditorium 8:PM

Happy 21st Scott

From your friends at ND and SMC

Having fun at 21!
Judge rules Baltimore has no right to Colts

Associated Press

BALTIMORE — A federal judge yesterday rejected a claim by the city of Baltimore that it has the right to keep the Colts in Indianapolis.

A 19-page decision by District Judge Walter E. Black, Jr., upheld the city's claim that the team in the public interest should be kept in Baltimore. The ruling was based on the city's legal argument that it had been in the public interest to keep the Colts in Baltimore since 1954.

The city had been in a legal bind since 1954 when the Colts signed a lease to play in Baltimore. The city had a long history of support for the team, but the franchise was sold to the city of Indianapolis in 1954.

The judge ruled that the city had the right to keep the team in Baltimore, but that the NFL could move the team to another city if it so desired.

The judge also ruled that the city had the right to keep the team in Baltimore, but that the NFL could move the team to another city if it so desired.

Two years in the Army could get your career rolling.

Today's job market is a real jungle. Everyone wants experience, but no one's willing to give it. The Army's different.

Consider this: if you invest just two years in the Army, you could come out with valuable experience in a skill of your choice.

The Army has a wealth of two-year skills to choose from: Skills in Art, Engineering, Communications, and more. Many of these skills have civilian job applications. So you won't have to go into the interview empty-handed.

Don't take off in a new direction with a two-year Army enlistment. Call your local Army Recruiter for details.

Two years in the Army could get your career rolling.

Army, be all you can be.

NEW YORK - New York Yankee's first baseman Don Mattingly became the third Yankee in the last 25 years to be named as the Major League Player of the Year by The Sporting News.

Mattingly, a native of Evansville, Ind., is only the third Yankee in the last 25 years to receive the award, which is given by a panel of editors from The Sporting News. Roger Maris won the award in 1961, and Don Gabley won it in 1978.

Mattingly batted .324 and hit 55 home runs this year. His 145 RBIs were the most in the American League since Cleveland's Al Rosen had 145 in 1953 and the most by a Yankee since Joe DiMaggio's 155 in 1948. He also led AL first basemen with a .995 fielding percentage, earning his first Gold Glove.

Schuerholz, the executive vice president and general manager of the Royals, edged Toronto Blue Jays' GM Pat Gillick in voting for Executive of the Year.

The Sporting News noted that Schuerholz had engineered personnel changes that brought the World Series championship to Kansas City this year.
Today

Bloom County

What's that PROP? AN ENVELOPE in the CAT's ROOM

Zeto

WHAT'S THAT WAKING US UP CALL?

Last night while all of you were crashed in the Land of Nod, we say a little frozen precipitation snow that is white gold, Indiana tea.

But heck, it ain't much just remember to leave for work, anew minutes early.

Sorry kids, there's not enough on the ground to close any schools.

Wake up everyone! This is Zeto bringing you your Zeto up call.

Berke Breathed

Kevin Walsh

The Far Side

Gary Larson

WAKE UP EVERYONE! THIS IS ZETO BRINGING YOU YOUR ZETO UP CALL!

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS

1. H. wone city
2. 5 Glacial
3. Pineate
4. Open slightly
5. Short trip
6. Wake
7. Ashen
8. Alexan catch
9. Chilled
10. Woe
11. Stormed
12. Lea variety
13. Stains tales
14. Blackbird
15. Complain
16. Fasted mother
17. Antenna
18. Anatomical tissue
19. Tears violently
20. Leathery
21. Egret
22. Poise
23. — by the papers
24. Pinstripers
25. Recording
26. Baseball family name
27. Steaks
28. Classics
29. Tribes
30. -ily resort
31. Sack
32. Picky pair
33. Euro-bean
34. Frencho
35. "The greatest man may —" Spanish question
36. 2. Racing stick
37. 3. Dye
38. 4. Naive ones

TUESDAY'S SOLUTION

1. The greatest man may —
2. Spanish question
3. Racing stick
4. Dye
5. Naive ones

5. Black card
6. Conger
7. Minidisc
8. Thanks —
9. Room type
10. Near the tip
11. Road builder's tool
12. Shelter
13. Comic Fox
14. Slurker —
15. Basilica part
16. Abandon
17. Old Car. coin
18. Pointed arch
19. Chess piece
20. Groove
21. Deal ferry
22. Sack
23. Sack —

24. Francoise
25. Catalan
26. Ayr uncle
27. -ly Avon
28. Spire
29. -ly dog
30. Dees tatude
31. Listening to
32. Kind of strike
33. Cheerleeds town
34. Prediotic

TD/VIGNETTE MEDIA SERVICES, INC.© ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

12/11/85

9:30 A.M. - 4:30 P.M. - Sale, Annual Unicef Sale, Library Concours, Sponsered by Ladies of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.

11:30 A.M. - 3:00 P.M. - Blood Drive, Student Health Center.

11:30 A.M. - 6:00 P.M. - Colloquium, "Latin America's Fragile Democracies Equador.", Albert Berry, University of Toronto. Catherine Conagahn, Ohio State University. Room 122 Hayes-Haley. Sponsered by Kassing Institute.

11:45 A.M. - Meeting, Center for Social Concerns, Sponsered by Circle K.

7:00 P.M. - Madrigal Dinner, Regina Hall North. Reservations only: $12.00, Seating begins at 6:30 p.m.

Campus

Notre Dame

Shrimp Cocktail
Pecan Stuffed Glazed Ham
Florentine Sole

Dinner Menu

Saint Mary's

Roast Turkey with Dressing
Baster Fried Fish
Cheese Enchiladas
Beef and Bean Chimichanga

TV Tonight

6:00 P.M.
22 22 Eyewitness News
6:30 P.M.
22 CBN Evening News
7:00 P.M.
22 Three's Company
7:30 P.M.
22 WKRP in Cincinnati
8:00 P.M.
22 Highway to Heaven
8:30 P.M.
22 Foxley Square
9:00 P.M.
22 Halloween
9:30 P.M.
22 George Burns' Comedy Room
10:00 P.M.
22 The Equalizer

ALLIED SHIPPING

Air & UPS
219-277-7616
We pack and Ship
HOURS: 1-7 Mon.- Fri.
10 a.m.-4 Sat
UNIVERSITY COMMONS
SR 23

Hay Fever

A Delightfully Frivolous Comedy

by Noel Coward

O'Laughlin Auditorium
December 5,6,7,12,13,14
At 8:10 P.M.

ND/SMC Theatre Presents

Student Tickets $4.00
May be purchased at Door
Or Reserved by calling the Box Office at 284-4626

Sobering Advice can Save a Life
Freshman guard Stevenson earns starting role for Irish

By JEFF BLUMB

Sports Editor

It's not an uncommon sight in Philadelphia to see Stevenson, who was barred around a playground basketball, shooting a basketball with no real organization to his play. After moving from Los Angeles to Philadelphia in the seventh grade, about all Notre Dame guard Mark Stevenson ever did was "shoot around with a few friends." Stevenson never really took basketball seriously until the eighth grade, when he remembered, despite the fact that his father, Jack, played briefly with the world-famous Harlem Globetrotters in the late 1960s. "I don't even remember how I started playing basketball," Stevenson says. "I used to run a lot of blocks when I was younger. But people all around me used to tell me, 'You're going to be tall, you should play basketball.'"

That advice was finally heeded by his father, who was 5-11 by the time he was in eighth grade. By the next year, he was 6-1, and basketball had become more than just a passing interest for him. Stevenson never really took his basketball seriously until the eighth grade, when he remembered, despite the fact that his father, Jack, played briefly with the world-famous Harlem Globetrotters in the late 1960s. "I don't even remember how I started playing basketball," Stevenson says. "I used to run a lot of blocks when I was younger. But people all around me told me, 'You're going to be tall, you should play basketball.'"

"That advice was finally heeded by his father, who was 5-11 by the time he was in eighth grade. By the next year, he was 6-1, and basketball had become more than just a passing interest for him. Stevenson never really took his basketball seriously until the eighth grade, when he remembered, despite the fact that his father, Jack, played briefly with the world-famous Harlem Globetrotters in the late 1960s. "I don't even remember how I started playing basketball," Stevenson says. "I used to run a lot of blocks when I was younger. But people all around me told me, 'You're going to be tall, you should play basketball.'"

"That advice was finally heeded by his father, who was 5-11 by the time he was in eighth grade. By the next year, he was 6-1, and basketball had become more than just a passing interest for him. Stevenson never really took his basketball seriously until the eighth grade, when he remembered, despite the fact that his father, Jack, played briefly with the world-famous Harlem Globetrotters in the late 1960s. "I don't even remember how I started playing basketball," Stevenson says. "I used to run a lot of blocks when I was younger. But people all around me told me, 'You're going to be tall, you should play basketball.'"

"That advice was finally heeded by his father, who was 5-11 by the time he was in eighth grade. By the next year, he was 6-1, and basketball had become more than just a passing interest for him. Stevenson never really took his basketball seriously until the eighth grade, when he remembered, despite the fact that his father, Jack, played briefly with the world-famous Harlem Globetrotters in the late 1960s. "I don't even remember how I started playing basketball," Stevenson says. "I used to run a lot of blocks when I was younger. But people all around me told me, 'You're going to be tall, you should play basketball.'"

"That advice was finally heeded by his father, who was 5-11 by the time he was in eighth grade. By the next year, he was 6-1, and basketball had become more than just a passing interest for him. Stevenson never really took his basketball seriously until the eighth grade, when he remembered, despite the fact that his father, Jack, played briefly with the world-famous Harlem Globetrotters in the late 1960s. "I don't even remember how I started playing basketball," Stevenson says. "I used to run a lot of blocks when I was younger. But people all around me told me, 'You're going to be tall, you should play basketball.'"