A rash of colds and flu have hit Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students in recent weeks. According to Notre Dame Director of Health Services Carol Seager, "The last three weeks have seen an accelerated patient load, consisting primarily of students with cold or flu symptoms."

The Student Health Service is currently seeing up to 153 patients a day, but Monday more than 190 students waited from fifteen minutes to two and a half hours at the clinic, she said. Although the majority of students receiving treatment remain in their own dorms, the in-patient unit's 20 beds are full, Seager said.

Symptoms vary depending on the severity of their symptoms and their own tolerance levels, she said. The term 'flu does not necessarily include typical stomach flu with accompanying symptoms such as muscular pain, fever and diarrhea, said Seager.

Most students are being treated for viral and bacterial infections including sore throat, upper respiratory infections, candidiasis, bronchitis, and influenza, Seager said. Viral infections are being approached as a small-scale epidemic at Notre Dame, Saint Mary's students seem to be comparatively healthier, according to Gloria Chelminiak, director of Health Services at Saint Mary's.

Chelminiak said, "There is an increase in upper respiratory infections and flu-like symptoms, but no epidemic." However, Janowsky said the proximity of students living on campus increases the chances of spreading contagious diseases. She advised students to keep healthy by getting extra rest, eating a good diet, and engaging in at least some physical activity daily.

"While this won't prevent colds or flu, it will deter them," said Chelminiak. "Once afflicted, students can only be treated for symptoms," Chelminiak said.

According to both health centers, almost all the students seeking care are younger than 22 years of age. Students are also experiencing more prey to general pick pocketing and theft, said Seager. "Our students are not in any kind of danger," said O'Hearn, who deplores terrorism, really believes that couldn't happen in a freak accident.

Janowsky said he once walked out of the airport, "I asked someone what was going on," he said. "And they said there was a bomb scare." Janowsky said he once walked out of the Athens airport, "even though they couldn't fly there rather cheaply."

"We try and make the students feel as comfortable as possible while letting the virus pass," Chelminiak said. Meanwhile Notre Dame's Health Center is working at full capacity to see FLU, page 4

Aquino warns Reagan not to support Marcos

Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - Corazon Aquino warned President Reagan yesterday against supporting the National Assembly's expected proclamation of President Ferdinand Marcos as winner of Friday's presidential election. The assembly, dominated by Marcos' New Society Movement party, is to begin official tabulation of votes tomorrow, and what the opposition has said are fraudulent local vote tallies.

"I would wonder at the motives of a friend of democracy who chose to complicate Mr. Marcos' efforts to cheat the Philippines people," said Aquino, who claimed knew that she has already won the presidency.

"Marcos has declared himself the 'probable winner.'" Reagan assured a news conference Tuesday night that the election was clean and fair, but his remark was disputed by several U.S. election observers who said they had seen no evidence of fraud by Aquino's supporters.

The immediate reaction came from the presidential palace to Reagan's statement, with Marcos' decision to send diplomatic observers to Panama and Libya as his most personal emmissary. Aquino said only that Habib Daher, a native of Lebanon who has lived in the United States for 14 years, pointed to the Injustices committed.

"Aquino warned President Reagan not to support Marcos," said Janowsky. "They aren't in any kind of danger." Janowsky added, "Most people, though they deplore terrorism, really believe that couldn't happen in a freak accident."

"Most people, though they deplore terrorism, really believe such acts are isolated and there's no way they can protect themselves. Students can travel as safely in Europe as they do here in the United States," she said.

"They aren't in any kind of danger," said O'Hearn, who deplores terrorism, really believes that couldn't happen in a freak accident.

Janowsky noted, "Nothing happened in London except for the rioting in Brickstein and Hampton Court. It was the worst rioting ever." Janowsky added, "I simply turned and walked the other way." "One man's terrorist is another man's freedom fighter," said John Gilligan, director of the newly-created Institute for Peace Studies. "As terrorist acts and threats from Libya's Muammar Khadaffi have increased, so have the calls for an end to the violence. Yet before the world can eradicate terrorism we need the definition of terrorism imbedded in international law," said Gilligan.

"What is terrorism?" Gilligan asked. "Individuals attempting to strike a plane for some personal or political ends. There's also government-sponsored terrorism," he said, adding, "It's a desperate people, a movement of weak people."

"What is terrorism," said Daher. "We (the United States) apply terrorism only to those who oppose our policies." Gilligan said he agreed. "We accuse the Libyan government for bombing, financing, and supplying terrorism."

Is pay for plasma donations spending cash or blood money?

The other day, I was paging through The Observer when my eye spotted as advertisement a little different from the usual pizza coupons and student government announcements.

"Your plasma makes a difference," it read. The ad went on to explain how donated plasma is used to treat hemophilia, and how the red blood cells are returned to the donor's body. Surprised at all, the ad offered $17 "Cash For Your Donation," plus an extra $4 with the ad.

Not a bad deal, I quickly decided, and showing the ad to some friends, told them of my plans to donate that afternoon. To my surprise, they reacted with horror. "Blood money?" "You're selling your body for $17?" "You blood prostitute!" they yelled, only half-kidding.

I was so taken aback I decided to cancel my plans. It didn't do to explain how donated plasma is used to treat blood diseases caused by genetic deficiencies in the body, and how the red blood cells are returned through the same needle, which is sterilized plastic pouches which are only used once. Needles and tubes, too, are sterilized and thrown away after the first use.

At the South Bend plasma clinic, which is run for profit by American Plasma Systems, blood is withdrawn and centrifuged to separate the red blood cells from plasma, according to Greg Edwards of the clinic. The cells are returned through the same needle, which is sterilized plastic pouches which are only used once. Needles and tubes, too, are sterilized and thrown away after the first use.

Although AIDS-phobia has affected the blood supply, the fears are completely groundless. Even in cases where plasma is taken out and cells returned to the body, the red blood cells are kept always in sterilized plastic pouches which are only used once. Needles and tubes, too, are sterilized and thrown away after the first use.

By HELENE GOUDEAU
News Staff

A busy weekend of activities has been planned for this year’s Sophomore Parents’ Weekend at Saint Mary’s College, according to Shari Gillig and Patricia Murray, co-chairpersons of the event.

The price for the entire weekend has been set at $80, a $5 increase from the previous three years. The increase was called for in order to cover necessary expenses, Gillig said.

This has not affected the estimated attendance, however, which should be near 450 people, including parents and students, she said.

Gillig added that there could be as many as 800 people because many students are expected to bring dates. A fee of $20 will be charged for any additional guests at the dinner/dance, she said.

Because co-chairpersons have been appointed this year, there has yet to be any complaints or problems, said Gillig. She added everything has been running smoothly.

The weekend’s activities, slated for February 28 through March 2, will begin on Friday with registration at the Angela Athletic Facility from 2 to 6 p.m. Latecomers can register at Angela on Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

The highlight of Friday evening, however, may be the sophomore class talent show, which will be held at Angela.

Saturday’s activities start with an optional sports event to be held at Angela from 9 a.m. to noon.

For those who may be more culturally inclined, there will be a taste of the arts 10 a.m. to noon in the second floor parlor of the Haggar College Center. Sophomores will have their art work displayed throughout the area.

In the Welsh Parlor at Haggar, the Women’s Choir will provide performances at 10 and 11 a.m.

Sister Campion Kuhn will add a new touch to the weekend this year by presenting a slide show and history of Saint Mary’s in the Chameleon Room at Haggar at 10:30 a.m. and again at 11:30.

An Open House for all parents, faculty, and students will be held from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. at Angela.

From 4 to 5 p.m., the sophomores will hold a special mass at the Church of Loreto.

A major event of the weekend will be the dinner/dance at the Century Center from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. A cash bar will be available from 6 to 7:15 p.m.

Between 7:15 and 7:45 p.m., William Hickery, acting president of Saint Mary’s, will give the welcome, along with Gillig and Murray. This will be followed by dinner, followed by a dance until 1 a.m.

The weekend will come to a close Sunday with a brunch catered by SAGA, who is also catering the open house.

The Century Center will cater the dinner which will consist of chicken cordon bleu, mixed vegetables, salad and chocolate mousse.

Terrorism

Daher said, "One day in 1948 the Palestinians were declared non-people," said Daher, referring to the declaration of Israel as a state. "When they do seemingly crazy things, it is not difficult to explain."

Terrorism is not a hobby, he added. "There's some deeper cause of it... We must understand that."

"Who are terrorists?" Daher asked. "Teens, refugees, the underprivileged, the undernourished, the under everything... And some do it because they believe in the Palestinian cause, he added.

One of the problems of terrorism, Daher said, is that it is "...bred terrorism, and then multiplexes it..."

Referring to a past Israeli attack on a Palestinian refugee camp, Daher said, "When they see their parents and brothers killed on a wall without any reason, terrorism is the normal thing (for the young) to do," he said.

Latin America also has seen its share of terrorist acts.

Ricardo Araujo, a Notre Dame senior from Brazil, said he believed terrorism stems from political and religious reasons.

"There is an explanation behind terrorism," Araujo said. "It comes from anger. The terrorists don't think they can speak out," he said.

But terrorism cannot be stopped with violence, said Araujo. "You don't have to grab guns to fight terrorism," he said.

A better method, Daher said, would be for the United States to treat Middle-Eastern countries equally.

"There's no problem without a solution," said Daher. "There must be concessions. The Middle East doesn't need homogeneity, but equality."

Referring to the close relations between the United States and Is­rael, Daher said, "Balanced support (by the United States) would much diminish the terrorist acts. The United States government could stop being ignorant or acting igno­rantly."

Without the support of the United States, Gilligan said, "Israel couldn't last one week..."

Yet the United States must have the support of other countries to counter terrorism, Gilligan said.

"The United States could make it a lot more difficult for the terrorists with European help," he said. "But that won't happen at the present time."

"Europe thinks we're going after the wrong guy and in the wrong way," Gilligan said, adding that Israel held the same view as Europe.

"The United States says Khadafy is responsible for the terrorist acts in the Mediterranean in recent months. But Israel says the United States is wrong. It's Syria. Maybe Libya is easier to push around than Syria," he added.

In the run-off, said that she knew the race would be close. She added, "We were bargaining, but we weren't going to have a protracted discussion." Shanahan said.

Many in the crowd sang "We Shall Overcome" and chanted their support.

Police first arrested a group of students inside the shanty. A plainclothes police officer then told other students nearby that anyone wishing to be arrested should remain at the door. Police then arrested the remaining students.

Before the facelift on the green, grounds crews removed a second shanty from the lawn of the administration building, about 100 yards from the green.

"I think it's wonderful," said Roland Reynolds, a junior from San Juan Capistrano, Calif., and the editor of the conservative newspaper, the Dartmouth Review. "It's a step toward dishes in the blanketing of racism." One of the independent newspaper's staff members, not included in Reynolds, had possible disciplinary action as a result of a sledgehammer attack on the shanties in January.

The sledgehammer attack, which resulted in no injuries, sparked a brief takeover of the administration building and one-day suspension of classes. Last week, College President David McLoughlin urged that the shanties had served their purpose and that the students involved from the greens by Sunday, the end of the college's Winter Carnival.

It all began some 62 years ago when, "Outlined against a blue, gray October sky..." the lives of four young men would be altered forever. "The Four Horsemen" was the burgeoning quartet of the New York Herald-Tribune's Grantland Rice to the Notre Dame community. The phrase which became legendary in the annals of college football history.

To capture the spirit of that year of 1924, one must understand that the Cadets of Army were considered the "powerhouse" of national college football, aided by the effective media coverage. The first game of the season would be played against the Gallipolis Fighting Farmers. Army would be defeated, and the Cadets would look for revenge against Notre Dame. The game was expected to be nothing more than a walk in the park for the Cadets. However, the outcome would change the course of history.

Dear Editor:

During the early mornings of Saturday, Dec. 11, 1985, when my parents and I were awakened by a banging on the door and screams of “fire,” only God knew what actually was going through my mind as we found our way to safety. My main concern then and now remains the safety of my children, ages 10 and 13. It took me a few minutes before I really got a clear view of what had happened and how to act.

By the grace of God we were all alive and unim­jured, but we also had lost everything we owned.

Seemingly, only those of you who at one time or another have experienced a tragedy like ours would fully understand; however, the Notre Dame family—faculty, staff, students and friends—opened up their hearts as though each “thank you” from the bottom of our hearts for your unselfish willingness to help us in our time of need. I love all of you, and may God bless each one of you individually as well as collectively.

Unwarranted sewage deny rights as citizens

Dear Editor:

As a responsible student, I would like to make a request — the basement of LaFortune, the Nazz, should be kept open all night to provide an all-night study area for the students.

At Notre Dame, part of what we learn we learn from our teachers. The other and equally important part of learning is what we learn from each other. Communication is important. This is a function of a student body secure enough to provide the space for this communication.

The Nazz is that space and it belongs to us, the students. Like many transfers, the Nazz was one of the only ways I was able to make friends. And what about the hundreds who live off campus? They need a place to meet as do we.

Presently, the Nazz serves this function, but studying and the need for others does not end at 12:30. I do not feel this request is either “asking for too much” or difficult to accomplish. We had the Nazz before as an all-night study area, why not again? If you agree, please join my petition to keep it open and furnished all night.

Marcos cannot destroy Aquino’s united front

Dear Editor:

Hear! Hear! I applaud Margarita Villan’s letter about the “free” elections taking place in Philippines Islands.

The situation there is that of some violent, vote fraud, and murder. In the Philippines Islands, all of these actions show the people’s discontent with the present form of government. Those who still believe that Marcos or his military comrades should be in control because they are considered the real leaders believe Jim Lahren used the word “viable” in his column. Let me say that it is possible for an iron-girded government to rule the Philippines? Hope not! President Ferdinand Marcos, who has ruled the islands for 20 years (and he calls his government “New Society Movement”), has overpromised to its people and the United States.

There is an obvious inconsistency in the principles the Philippines claims to support and the ones it actually upholds. Think about it. Do you want us to act like the South Bend Police, University Security, or the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), bring an affair to your privacy without a warrant? I certainly don’t. Notre Dame is a private institution. And so should the rights we hold as citizens of the United States even if the University is a private institution.

Now I’m not denying that the principle behind the “housing clause” is a good one; obviously there is no noble cause than the preservation of “security, discipline and the orderly operation of an educational institution.” However good intentions are not always sufficient because, as we all know, road to hell is paved with them. And the fact remains that as long as we have to sign a contract forfeiting our right to privacy for the privilege of living here, those good intentions have gone waste.

Much gratitude is owed to Hickey and his staff

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter to express my gratitude to William Hickey, Director of University Food Services, and to his entire staff. As a member of Keenan Hall, I was very pleased to see the effort put forth in making a special dining hall event out of the opening night of the Notre Dame Revue. That effort demonstrated not only how much Hickey and his staff are tuned into the needs of this campus. It is very commendable that the food service takes such a genuine interest in the things that are important to us. I am not sure of a more general level, I think it is very fortunate to benefit from Hickey’s talent at managing the food service. Many other colleges and universities are served by the infamous SAGA in their dining halls. The benefits of a private service, especially the one we have now, are many. Hickey has made some enormous contributions to the quality of student life by promoting and making University Food Services part of many student events.

Hickey’s concept of service to students should be adopted as a model for all sectors of student service at this university. We owe much gratitude to Hickey and his hard-working staff.

Wiping out dissenters could have bad effect

Dear Editor:

Bich Coghlan’s article attacking the CBS leftist news bias is based on two fallacies that we can account for historical facts in an “objective” way, and that it is undesirable for society to have a so-called “leftist” network.

First of all, no institution (or person) can give us an objective account of history. We are intrinsically embedded in it through tradition, culture and language. To pretend we can ac­count for a sort of angst distancing from our very essence in order to report “honesty” is plain nonsense. Even Coghlan’s article is filled with the prejudices (in his case right wing and Bushet) that he desires in others. His rendering of the CBS/Fidel Castro love affair is a clear example. Contrarily to his belief, in 1957 Castro was a national hero. Even moderate political organizations throughout the world supported him at one time because of his efforts to overthrow the American-based dictatorship of Batista.

Second, the United States is a democracy. As such, it is enriched by the debate springing from the tension between different views regarding the political ideal. This country has recognized in the past that no group has the monopoly in insights regarding the solutions to its many problems. That is the reason why the dialogue — the arena from which sensible solutions emerge — is institutionalized and embodied in democracy. If a group in society were to believe that it had the privilege of overawing the judge and interpreter, then there would be no need for this dialogue since it would possess the only correct answers to political, social and economic problems.

As I was reading Coghlan’s article, I glimpsed at the column’s name, “the way we were.” Yes! Maybe he does possess the angelic privilege of having the only right answer. Maybe we should get rid of all the leftist germs that pollute the American Way by showing us injustices, poverty, death and guns in black and beards leading revolutions against U.S. puppet regimes in little countries. But remember the trade-off: he might have us living in a world where only Big Brother has the correct solu­tion. And those who dissent? Well, they’re just liesth. But perhaps we should wonder about “the way we will be” with such reason­ing. I’m sure we’ll have Mass in Latin. Right, Mr. Right?

The Grotto is the rock to which my little wounded dell" which was already at the turn of the century a "favorite walking, resting, and meditating place" for students and religious.

Construction was made possible in 1896 by the endowment of Father Thomas Carroll, a former theology student from Old City, Pennsylvania.

Boothers of uneven rock weighing as much as two or three tons were brought from nearby farms of the Holy Cross community.

When Father John DeGrove brought back from Lourdes the black stone which was set in the Grotto for pilgrims and visitors to kiss. The statue of Mary was dedicated on the Feast of Our Lady of Snow, almost exactly the same spot as the miracles of Bernadette sprang up at Lourdes and has never run dry. Supposedly, the flow was gradually lessened during construction, but the spot is marked now by an artificial water fountain.

the same spot as the one at Lourdes. But were people closed it up so as to prevent wild rumors regarding it. It did not gradually lessen."

"Father Daniel R. Jenky, Rector of Sacred Heart Church, described the Grotto today as a place where "even non-church-goers feel they can and to be quiet and pray." It said that the atmosphere is "wholly one of respect and concern, where normal, active people can share faith without it being a big deal."

"People don’t pray to Mary like they do to God. God is God., but with Mary, we ask her to pray with us to God," - Father Jenky

What does the Grotto mean to you?

Compiled by Doug Anderson

"I think the Grotto is a great place to go and be alone. It’s too bad it doesn't get used during the semester the way it does the week of finals." - Joseph Wood

"Even though I’m not Catholic, I find that it is a place where I find sanctity to prayer." - John Huelb

"I run just about every night, and the Grotto is a nice place to end up... thank God to be able to run and say a few prayers. It’s nice and quiet... some good line lines." - Mark Bridenstine

"I think the Grotto is special because it gives us a peaceful place to come after a hectic day of school." - John Sommenderko

"The Grotto is special because it gives us a peaceful place to come after a hectic day of school." - Rob Raphael

"I think the Grotto is different from a church in the most logical sense. "People don’t pray to Mary like they do to God," Father Jenky said. "God is God, but with Mary, we ask her to pray with us to God. She is a symbol of faith, the first disciple.""

"The Grotto is a place where you can think about the pressures of school and people around you and situations you feel complete. It’s not hokey-religious, just quiet and personal."

"The Grotto has long been the host place of many Notre Dame traditions. The Rosary is said there every day at 6:45 p.m., even in the winter at temperatures of twenty below zero, by the Holy Cross community. There are alumni reunions and countless retreats held there."

"Also, the Grotto hosts the last visit of the seniors after a prayer service at Sacred Heart. The Glee Club sings, and the seniors receive their final blessing before they leave the University. "When it is over, the seniors just stand there for a long time," Father Jenky said. "Nobody wants to move.""

"Due to the September 23 fire, caused by as many as 1500 burning candles, which substantially damaged the interior of the stone structure, rocks of the Grotto have been chipped and scaled to give it a slightly new face from the one it showed ninety years ago."

"The Grotto is different from a church in the most logical sense. "People don’t pray to Mary like they do to God," Father Jenky said. "God is God, but with Mary, we ask her to pray with us to God. She is a symbol of faith, the first disciple.""

"There is almost always someone, down there, rain, sleet, or snow."

"The Grotto adds a unique touch to the Notre Dame campus in comparison with other schools. Father Hesburgh said, "Every university has a place where students hang out for their social life, libraries where they study, and playing fields where they play sports, but how many have a praying place?" Although there are thirty chapels in the dorms and elsewhere on campus, the popular place to pray is the Grotto.

"I think the Grotto is a great place to get away from that and also because of Tom Dooley’s "Bear." It makes me feel complete. It’s not hokey-religious, just quiet and personal."

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. - Michael Ray Richardson rejoined the NBA's New Jersey Nets yesterday after a drug test imposed by the team proved negative. A related story appears below.

"The team gave a great effort though we missed a couple of our players," said Oteri. "Andy Pena, our goalkeeper, played a superb game despite having the flu, and Jim 'Scarface' Mejia was an emotional in­spiration." Keanen and Sorin, two teams playing out the season, met in a Cor­riigan League match as Keanen won easily 7-2. Sorin (0-5) scored the first goal but opted to play its own style of hockey the rest of the way. The game featured many penalties sooner after the score was out of reach. Keanen, which had only eight players, was able to contend with Sorin's rugged play to post its second victory in five games.

Jordan hopes to play, waits for final decision

Associated Press

CHICAGO - Michael Jordan is eager to return to the Chicago Bulls lineup this weekend after a 3 1/2-month layoff, but his agent says he thinks the athletic guard should sit out the rest of the season.

David Falk of Pro Serv, Jordan's agent, told the Washington Post that he would prefer that Jordan, who broke a bone in his left foot during a game in the race for the NBA east's final playoff berth, "go for the full month layoff, but his agent says he thinks he's with the Bulls' management too. But Krause said in Dallas last Sunday. "If one of those doctors says it's not ready, then he won't play," Krause said the doctors would have to return until next fall. But Bulls General Manager Jerry Krause told the Post. "We've gone back and forth with bull's management too. Falk was out of town Tuesday and was certain the Bulls would make a decision," said Falk. Jordan had said he was hoping he could play tomorrow against the Indiana Pacers or Sunday when the Dallas Mavericks play in Chicago.

"The linebackers have very good size and seem to run very well. It looks like the defensive linemen might have quick feet, and the offensive linemen can run,"

This is a group of recruits whose names might become familiar to Irish fans as early as next season.

"I will definitely play freshmen," said Holtz. "I think that's usually easier for a freshman to play at a skill position than anywhere else, but for now the important thing is who gets better next year.

N. Carolina tops Clemson

Associated Press

CLEMSON, S.C. - Center Brad Daugherty scored 15 points in the first 10 minutes of the second half as top-ranked North Carolina defeated Clemson 79-64 last night in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game. North Carolina is now 25-3 overall and 9-1 in the ACC, while Clemson is 14-10 and 2-8.

Daugherty finished with 23 points while point guard Kenny Smith, held scoreless in the first half, finished with 16. Freshmen forwards Michael Best, getting his first start for Clem­son, scored 19 points, and forward Horace Grant added 18 points and 12 rebounds for the Tigers.
Price plays key scoring role for Irish off bench

By NICK SCHRANTZ
Sports Writer

Over the past four years, Notre Dame senior Joseph Price has had a habit of breaking out of slumps in a big way. The 6-5 swingman had struggled since the DePaul and BYU games in January, not scoring much and seeing a drop in playing time during those eight contests. He ended that string with a 28-minute, 12-point performance that helped the Irish defeat highly ranked Syracuse last Saturday. He continued his fine play by making four three-pointers in only six attempts as Notre Dame routed Fordham on Tuesday.

Price's mid-season slump is reminiscent of last year, when the Marion, Ind., native averaged less than 10 minutes of play and one point over the last eight regular-season games.

Once again, Price rebounded with superb play in the team's final games. He replaced an ill Ken Barlow in the NCAA Tournament against Oregon State and helped the team with 15 points and 18 rebounds in seven of nine shooting from the floor. Two days later he poured in nine points in 25 minutes during Notre Dame's close loss to North Carolina.

Irish coach Digger Phelps knows he needs Price to remain hot but if his team wants to continue playing well the rest of the year.

"Joseph Price was overrated, and that's why I predicted I would have a good game against Syracuse," Phelps said. "That game really helped his confidence, and that is a key. He played very well last year in the NCAA Tournament, and we need him since that's only a month away now."

"The game really helped my confidence because I really haven't played too much lately," Price said. "Playing well in the NCAA last year really gave me a lot of confidence, and put a lot of confidence in Coach Phelps. I didn't play much at the end of last season, so it made me feel good to help the team like I know I can when they needed me. Those games really helped me mature as I helped into my senior year."

Despite his mid-season slump, Price still remains Notre Dame's fifth leading scorer with almost seven points per game. He has started two games, but most of his 18 minutes of playing time per game occur when he comes off the bench.

Price has had several outstanding games this year. He scored 13 points and grabbed seven rebounds as Notre Dame held off a furious loss.

Price is known as a streak shooter, but both he and Phelps know he can do more than just score points.

"He plays well defensively if he's against a big guard or a forward in which he can delay the ball," Phelps said. "Against Syracuse he was sometimes matched up against the Point (guard Dwayne Washington), and he did a very decent job on him."

"People seem to feel that Joseph Price has to score points in order to have a good game," Price explained. "I try to do other things like set up others for their shot, play good defense, or try to get a rebound. A great game isn't only scoring, so if I don't score I can still help the team."

"Looking at this year I want to try to finish strong and give it all I have," Price said.
Iowa goes across country in Big Ten recruiting

Associated Press

Iowa's Big Ten football champions went coast to coast for their top two recruits yesterday, while running back Michael and place kicker Illinois concentrated on homegrown talent.

Purdue's Boilermakers landed Jeff George, the nation's No. 1 quarterback, and the National High School Coaches Association Player of the Year.

George, a 6-3, 193-pounder from Indianapolis, led Warren Central to a second-place finish in the nation's prep gridiron by completing 252 of 424 passes for 3,904 yards and a national high school record 45 touchdowns.

Iowa signed quarterback Drew McGwire of Claremont, Calif., and running back Tony Stewart of Union, N.J. McGwire, a 6-4 giant who passed for 3,172 yards and 33 touchdowns last season, had 65 career touchdowns Stewart, one of the top three running backs in the country, rushed for 1,715 yards and 29 touchdowns.

With Schembechler gaining an edge as far as in-state talent this year, Michigan State Coach George Perles made Ohio his target. Perles landed tackle Chris Soehlens of Louisville and linebacker Percy Snow and defensive back Jerome Ferrin from Canton McKinley.

In Michigan, Perles got linebacker Curtis Young of Kalamazoo and defensive back Verson Donaldson of Detroit.

Illinois Coach Mike White signed 28 players including 17 from the state of Illinois. The other 11 were all from neighboring Missouri and Indiana. White's top prospects from Illinois were quarterback Chris Ondrula of Springfield and offensive linemen Brad James of Lockport and Ed Pedersen of DeKalb.

"We set out to put our major emphasis on the state," said White. "I feel the results justify the approach we've taken. We got the numbers we wanted and, if we evaluated properly, this will be an excellent class."

Ohio State signed quarterback Greg Frey of Cincinnati, but Coach Earle Bruce went heavy on linemen in the home state. The list included 270-pound John Peterson of Midtown and 265-pound Jeff Kaczel of Youngstown Boardman.

"I think we have done a pretty good job," said Bruce. "It was a good year for linemen and I think that's the emphasis we took."

Minnesota's program was jilted and joined when Lou Holtz opted to take his coaching philosophy and dry humor to Notre Dame. John Gauck, who replaced Holtz, has done an excellent job under the circumstances.

Gutekunst landed most of the players he wanted in Minnesota including running backs Darrell Thompson, Pat Tinglehoff and Ron Goetz, and defensive lineman Bob Coughlin.

Tinglehoff is the son of former Minnesota Vikings all-pro Dick Tinglehoff. Pat rushed for 1,662 yards and 23 touchdowns and could step in as Minnesota's kickoff return specialist.

Gutekunst also went to Florida for running back Marcus Evans and wide receiver Eddie Miles.

Notre Dame signs 21 H.S. players; Holtz pleased with his first recruits

By LARRY BURKE Assistant Sports Editor

Irish head football coach Lou Holtz called the signing of offensive all-American Rice Conklin the "best recruiting event in Notre Dame history." He referred to the entire process of a strong recruiting effort that extended base in Chicago as "an absolute necessity.

Holtz achieved both those goals yesterday, the official signing day for high school players.

The Irish received commitments from 21 recruits, five of them Parade Magazine All-Americans. But more importantly as far as Holtz is concerned, 12 of them are linemen, and nine of them are from the Chicago area.

"You don't talk to Notre Dame this far in the season," said Holtz yesterday. "If you did, the phone would have been ringing off the hook.

"The phone has been on the other end of the line this time.

"I think a number of them would have gone to a number of other schools, but they thought Notre Dame was the place to be.

Complete list — page 12

But there's something more to the story which has to be said, and it's this: Notre Dame has been recruiting for the right reasons. They have a realistic understanding of Notre Dame and what we expect from them. And we're going to go with what we know. And the young men chose Notre Dame for the right reasons. They have a realistic understanding of Notre Dame and what we expect from them. And we have to go with what we know.

Irish swim past Belles, earn 8th win of season

By ANDREA LaFRENiere Sports Writer

Notre Dame coach Tim Welsh was pleased not only with the victory, which improved the team's record to 8-2, but with the additional experience his swimmers received in preparation for upcom­ming championship meets.

"We had the chance to try some events we hadn't swum before at this meet," he said. "We used several opportunities to prepare for upcom­ing events by swimming either over or under our personal times.
