Hesburgh compliments fast, but University unconvincéd

By TRIPP BALTZ Staff Reporter

University President Father Theodore Hesburgh joined Saint Mary's Faculty Advisor for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Amnesty International, the group responsible for the project. In addition to the passbooks, the campus group simulated unfair arrests of blacks in South Africa, staging arrests of students at South Dining Hall Monday to "demonstrate the violation against and the treatment of prisoners in South Africa and to raise awareness of the problems in South Africa," according to Falls. The main purpose of the group, according to Falls, is to work for the release and better treatment of "prisoners of conscience" all over the world through letter-writing campaigns to the governments imprisoning them. "Prisoners of conscience are those people imprisoned for their color, race, and ethnic origin, or religious or political beliefs who have neither used nor advocated violence," according to Falls.

Hickey, Hesburgh join in protest

By MARY BERGER Staff Reporter

University President Father Theodore Hesburgh joined Saint Mary's President William Hickey, South Bend Mayor Roger Parent and approximately 40 students this week in signing mock-passbooks which will be sent to South African President P. W. Botha. "The passbooks are copies of the ones which the blacks in South Africa must carry at all times," said Margaret Falls, the Saint Mary's faculty advisor for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Amnesty International, the group responsible for the project. In addition to the passbooks, the campus group simulated unfair arrests of blacks in South Africa, staging arrests of students at South Dining Hall Monday to "demonstrate the violation against and the treatment of prisoners in South Africa and to raise awareness of the problems in South Africa," according to Falls. The main purpose of the group, according to Falls, is to work for the release and better treatment of "prisoners of conscience" all over the world through letter-writing campaigns to the governments imprisoning them. "Prisoners of conscience are those people imprisoned for their color, race, and ethnic origin, or religious or political beliefs who have neither used nor advocated violence," according to Falls.

Khadafy not afraid of 'old man'

Associated Press

TRIPOLI, Libya - Col. Moammar Khadafy was asked what he would tell Reagan if they met in person. "I think we would understand each other if we were together," said Khadafy. "I can convince him, because I'm right and he's wrong." According to Khadafy, the issue is not "our or his determination to do everything possible and feasible to eliminate apartheid in South Africa," but rather to decide how to eliminate apartheid most effectively. Khadafy said the stance of the Board of Trustees on the issue of divestment is clear. "We have divested our holdings in 11 companies that did not comply with the Sullivan Principles in both their original and enlarged version. We are monitoring continually the performance of the other companies." He said the University is in collaboration with those groups: "businesses, the churches, and the universities," who he said he believes are the "most important influences for the elimination of apartheid in South Africa."

Advice, support given by Rigby on disorders

By KIM YURATOVAC News Staff

"There is so much in life that it's a shame to let an eating disorder ruin your life," Cathy Rigby McCoy explained at last evening's eating disorders lecture at Saint Mary's. Rigby, a former Olympic gymnast, suffered from both anorexia nervosa and bulimia. She said that she developed the diseases because of a constant need to prove herself and to achieve. "I felt my life sliding under the public microscope," Rigby said. She added that a lack of responsibility and assertion allowed her to give in to the eating disorder and let it run her life. Rigby credited her husband, Tom McCoy, with giving her the courage to fight back against the disease which was destroying her life. "He saw right through my little disguise," she said.

Khadafy not afraid of 'old man'

 Associated Press

TRIPOLI, Libya - Col. Muammar Khadafy said this morning that Ronald Reagan had insulted him, insisting Libya is not afraid of the United States, and called the U.S. president an "old man."

"He insulted me," Khadafy said in English. "I don't worry about his views, but merely to clarify the issue that confronts us," Hesburgh added. Van Rensburg began fasting Tuesday to protest the divestment movement which will be sent to South African South Bend Mayor Roger Parent and Khadafy. "I am not afraid of the old man," said Hesburgh. "The passbooks are copies of the ones which the blacks in South Africa must carry at all times," said Margaret Falls, the Saint Mary's faculty advisor for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Amnesty International, the group responsible for the project. In addition to the passbooks, the campus group simulated unfair arrests of blacks in South Africa, staging arrests of students at South Dining Hall Monday to "demonstrate the violation against and the treatment of prisoners in South Africa and to raise awareness of the problems in South Africa," according to Falls. The main purpose of the group, according to Falls, is to work for the release and better treatment of "prisoners of conscience" all over the world through letter-writing campaigns to the governments imprisoning them. "Prisoners of conscience are those people imprisoned for their color, race, and ethnic origin, or religious or political beliefs who have neither used nor advocated violence," according to Falls.

Khadafy not afraid of 'old man'

Associated Press

TRIPOLI, Libya - Col. Muammar Khadafy said this morning that Ronald Reagan had insulted him, insisting Libya is not afraid of the United States, and called the U.S. president an "old man."

"He insulted me," Khadafy said in English. "I don't worry about his views, but merely to clarify the issue that confronts us," Hesburgh added. Van Rensburg began fasting Tuesday to protest the divestment movement which will be sent to South African South Bend Mayor Roger Parent and Khadafy. "I am not afraid of the old man," said Hesburgh. "The passbooks are copies of the ones which the blacks in South Africa must carry at all times," said Margaret Falls, the Saint Mary's faculty advisor for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Amnesty International, the group responsible for the project. In addition to the passbooks, the campus group simulated unfair arrests of blacks in South Africa, staging arrests of students at South Dining Hall Monday to "demonstrate the violation against and the treatment of prisoners in South Africa and to raise awareness of the problems in South Africa," according to Falls. The main purpose of the group, according to Falls, is to work for the release and better treatment of "prisoners of conscience" all over the world through letter-writing campaigns to the governments imprisoning them. "Prisoners of conscience are those people imprisoned for their color, race, and ethnic origin, or religious or political beliefs who have neither used nor advocated violence," according to Falls.

Advice, support given by Rigby on disorders

By KIM YURATOVAC News Staff

"There is so much in life that it's a shame to let an eating disorder ruin your life," Cathy Rigby McCoy explained at last evening's eating disorders lecture at Saint Mary's. Rigby, a former Olympic gymnast, suffered from both anorexia nervosa and bulimia. She said that she developed the diseases because of a constant need to prove herself and to achieve. "I felt my life sliding under the public microscope," Rigby said. She added that a lack of responsibility and assertion allowed her to give in to the eating disorder and let it run her life. Rigby credited her husband, Tom McCoy, with giving her the courage to fight back against the disease which was destroying her life. "He saw right through my little disguise," she said.

Advice, support given by Rigby on disorders

By KIM YURATOVAC News Staff

"There is so much in life that it's a shame to let an eating disorder ruin your life," Cathy Rigby McCoy explained at last evening's eating disorders lecture at Saint Mary's. Rigby, a former Olympic gymnast, suffered from both anorexia nervosa and bulimia. She said that she developed the diseases because of a constant need to prove herself and to achieve. "I felt my life sliding under the public microscope," Rigby said. She added that a lack of responsibility and assertion allowed her to give in to the eating disorder and let it run her life. Rigby credited her husband, Tom McCoy, with giving her the courage to fight back against the disease which was destroying her life. "He saw right through my little disguise," she said.

Advice, support given by Rigby on disorders

By KIM YURATOVAC News Staff

"There is so much in life that it's a shame to let an eating disorder ruin your life," Cathy Rigby McCoy explained at last evening's eating disorders lecture at Saint Mary's. Rigby, a former Olympic gymnast, suffered from both anorexia nervosa and bulimia. She said that she developed the diseases because of a constant need to prove herself and to achieve. "I felt my life sliding under the public microscope," Rigby said. She added that a lack of responsibility and assertion allowed her to give in to the eating disorder and let it run her life. Rigby credited her husband, Tom McCoy, with giving her the courage to fight back against the disease which was destroying her life. "He saw right through my little disguise," she said.

Advice, support given by Rigby on disorders

By KIM YURATOVAC News Staff

"There is so much in life that it's a shame to let an eating disorder ruin your life," Cathy Rigby McCoy explained at last evening's eating disorders lecture at Saint Mary's. Rigby, a former Olympic gymnast, suffered from both anorexia nervosa and bulimia. She said that she developed the diseases because of a constant need to prove herself and to achieve. "I felt my life sliding under the public microscope," Rigby said. She added that a lack of responsibility and assertion allowed her to give in to the eating disorder and let it run her life. Rigby credited her husband, Tom McCoy, with giving her the courage to fight back against the disease which was destroying her life. "He saw right through my little disguise," she said.

Advice, support given by Rigby on disorders

By KIM YURATOVAC News Staff

"There is so much in life that it's a shame to let an eating disorder ruin your life," Cathy Rigby McCoy explained at last evening's eating disorders lecture at Saint Mary's. Rigby, a former Olympic gymnast, suffered from both anorexia nervosa and bulimia. She said that she developed the diseases because of a constant need to prove herself and to achieve. "I felt my life sliding under the public microscope," Rigby said. She added that a lack of responsibility and assertion allowed her to give in to the eating disorder and let it run her life. Rigby credited her husband, Tom McCoy, with giving her the courage to fight back against the disease which was destroying her life. "He saw right through my little disguise," she said.

Advice, support given by Rigby on disorders

By KIM YURATOVAC News Staff

"There is so much in life that it's a shame to let an eating disorder ruin your life," Cathy Rigby McCoy explained at last evening's eating disorders lecture at Saint Mary's. Rigby, a former Olympic gymnast, suffered from both anorexia nervosa and bulimia. She said that she developed the diseases because of a constant need to prove herself and to achieve. "I felt my life sliding under the public microscope," Rigby said. She added that a lack of responsibility and assertion allowed her to give in to the eating disorder and let it run her life. Rigby credited her husband, Tom McCoy, with giving her the courage to fight back against the disease which was destroying her life. "He saw right through my little disguise," she said.
The Observer

Friday, April 11, 1986 - page 2

In Brief

A partial blackout hit the LaFortune Student Center early yesterday morning, dimming lights and shutting down the Observer's computer system. As a result, a story about the Notre Dame War Memorial could not be printed. "The Far Side" was run on page 5 in its place. Full power was restored to LaFortune later that morning. - The Observer

Thomas Nessinger, a 1954 Notre Dame alumnus, has received the 1986 Outstanding Alumnus Award from Beta Sigma, the Notre Dame chapter of Beta Alpha Psi, the national honorary society of the accounting profession. Nessinger is currently in the United States, working three years in Nicaragua, and Tom Lent, professor of philosophy with a conference on "The Shaping of Scientific Reality," will be at the Center for Continuing Education. As part of the conference, McMullin will address "Construction and Constraint: The Shaping of Scientific Rationality" at 8 tonight. - The Observer

Italian Culture Week kicks off its third annual celebration tomorrow at 2 p.m. with an Italian cafe on Hagar College Center's terrace at Saint Mary's. The week runs until next Friday and includes movies, lectures, dinners and an Italian Mass. - The Observer

The ISO Festival videotape will be shown tonight at 7 in the Breen Phillips 24-hour lounge, where a small gathering will follow. All interested are welcome to attend. - The Observer

Father Ernan McMullin will be honored by Notre Dame's College of Arts and Letters as the John Cardinal O'Hara professor of philosophy with a conference on "The Shaping of Scientific Reality" today and tomorrow at the Center for Continuing Education. As part of the conference, McMullin will address "Construction and Constraint: The Shaping of Scientific Rationality" at 8 tonight. - The Observer

"Central America in Turmoil" will be the topic of discussion and a dinner tomorrow at 5 p.m. at the Boulevard Christian Church, 1412 S. Carroll St. Speaking will be Father Robert Felius, who recently returned from Central America, Professor Michael Zalkin, who worked three years in Nicaragua, and Tom Lent, who worked eight years in Guatemala. - The Observer

A total staff members must attend a mandatory meeting Sunday at 7 p.m. in the library auditorium. - The Observer

Weather

Sunglasses and sweaters will be called for today, as bright sunlight and cool temperatures continue. The highs will be in the 50s to mid 60s. Tonight will be clear with lows in the mid 30s to low 40s. Tomorrow will be mostly sunny and pleasant with highs in the mid 50s to mid 60s. The extended forecast calls for partly cloudy skies Sunday and Monday. Highs will be in the mid 50s to 60s and lows will be in the mid 30s to mid 40s.

The Observer

The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Study in Europe

The Observer apologizes for any delays in the paper's delivery, any production errors and the brevity of the publication incurred because of these circumstances.

The Observer apologizes for the omission of the parents' council announcement. - The Observer

The Observer is continuing to experience typesetting difficulties in the daily production of the newspaper. However, the staff is working to produce the best product possible under these circumstances.

The Observer apologizes for the omission of the parents' council announcement. - The Observer

Questions? Complaints? Call 239-OBUD

Estate Planning

Operation Brainstorm

The Challenge: Brainstorm innovative ideas on improving any aspect of campus life.

To Enter: Deposit entries into ballot boxes in the dining halls or ath the OBU desk in LaFortune.

Prizes: $50, $30, $15 in campus gift certificates

Deadline: Monday, April 14

Questions? Complaints? Call 239-OBUD

We're Working for YOU

Ombudsman Presents

Elegant Dining at its Best

Featuring: Fresh seafood, veal and lamb, prepared in a distinctive manner.

233-8711

Reservations Recommended

112 W. COLFAX - SOUTH BEND

Dinner MON-SAT OPEN 5pm

So you thought Spring Break was over! Well not at Tippecanoe Place. We are extending Spring Break with a special offer for students. Bring this ad in for a special price 'Break'.

$1.00 OFF our fabulous Sunday Brunch

Good on the following Sundays:

April 13, 20, 27, & May 4.

620 W. Washington St. - Reservations Required -- 234-9077

Applicants for Student Government

ASSISTANT T'EAUSER

available in Treasurer's Office

2nd Floor LaFortune

Must presently be a Sophomore Accounting Major

Applications due

Friday, April 11, 4:00 PM

if you have any questions call Becca at 239-7417

For the University of Louvain (est. 1425), Leuven, Belgium

STUDY IN EUROPE

COMPLETE PROGRAMMES IN PHILOSOPHY FOR THE DEGREES OF B.A., M.A., AND Ph.D. PLUS A JUNIOR YEAR ABROAD PROGRAMME

All courses are in English

Tuition is 11,000 Belgian Francs (c $250)

Deadline: Friday, January 15

 call

234 9077

KULeuven
Activist fears 'nuclear humanism'

By PEGGY PROSSER
Associated Press Staff Reporter

"The new and savage nuclear humanism" should concern us all, according to Father Daniel Berrigan, author and antiwar activist, who, according to Father Daniel Berrigan, humanism" should concern us all, September 1980. "We had dared look Medusa in the face, and behold, we were not turned to stone," he said.

Berrigan and his companions walked unnoticed into a high-security "re-entry division plant," owned by General Electric, armed with hammers and vials of their own blood.

The plant workers were transfixed and aghast at what the group was doing, but made no attempt to stop them. The group was tried in late 1981 and the members of the group were offered freedom if they would plead guilty.

"We agreed, thank you and no thank you," said Berrigan.

Berrigan described the brand of justice they found at the trial as being like that found in rural Mississippi in the early 1960s. The judge trying the case expressed regret at not being able to send the group to either a Siberian camp or leper colony.

Reading his statement from the 1980 trial, Berrigan cited the familiar General Electric slogan "We Bring Good Things to Life," and said that "General Electric brings all things to death."

Berrigan said he was encouraged by the impact of the Catholic peace movement, but expressed his strong dislike for the "main-line media," who, according to Berrigan, do not tell the people what is going on in their own communities.

HELP WANTED—
DISMAS House is seeking a man and wife to be the live-in managers/directors of the DISMAS House near downtown South Bend. A graduate student and interested spouse or a mature couple are possibilities.

Room, board, and stipend to be negotiated. Occasional use of a car also included.

The home will house 9 or 10 college students and 9 or 10 former prisoners.

Need strong couple, able to create community, who have management and motivational skills.

Need experience in personnel management and ability to handle all the tasks associated with a large household. A newly decorated self-contained apartment is provided in the home for the couple.

Contact Jim Roemer of the DISMAS Board at 239-6614 for interview.
Dead fish no threat, says director

By MARY BERGER

The Observer

physical plant.

washed up to shore, according to away from St. Mary's Lake by the Donald Dedrick, director of the dead fish which recently have whiich are gold carp, pose no threat to the health of humans or the other animals around the lake. According to Dedrick, the occurrence is natural and is not the result of any type of dumping or sickness of washes.

Associate Professor of Biological Sciences Frederick Goetz agreed with Dedrick. "I doubt there is anything in the water. I am sure it is related to some type of die-off," he said.

.Speculating on the possible
causes of the deaths, Goetz said,

"The gold carp are going through reproduction and there is always some stress associated with that process.

"As the temperature gets warmer, the oxygen level in the water goes down. That's why these deaths actually occur later in the summer time when the temperatures get really warm," Goetz added.

There are more deaths in St. Mary's Lake than St. Joseph's Lake because there is more ice there, Goetz said. "We keep the ice level down in St. Joe's because we use it during the winter," he said.

Divest

continued from page 1

For many years the University has refused to invest in any banks that make loans to the South African government, according to Hesburgh. We are also engaged in a wide range of educational efforts, in past financed by these companies," Hesburgh said.

The policy of the board, said Hesburgh, is such that the University could divest immediately if we judged that action more effective than what we are doing.

"Father van Rensburg is praying for our enlightenment and we are grateful for that, since we also pray daily for the same intention, Hesburgh said.

Protest

continued from page 1

violence," said Falls.

David Baltierra, a student member of the group, said the purposes of the letter writing are "to try and get the prisoners released, get information on their conditions, let the prisoners know someone cares, and let the government know that people are aware of the way they are treating the prisoners so that they will treat them better.

"We are not a political group. We take no political stands. Protesting action is what we do, not protesting governments," said Baltierra. "I like the direct methods we take, writing directly to one government about one specific person. We are not trying to free a million people."

The campus group, which is one of many all over the world, writes to two prisoners regularly. According to Falls, "One is a Turkish person in Bulgaria and the other is a prisoner in South Africa who Amnesty believes was arrested for his political beliefs. We heard that this prisoner may have been released but we are not sure."

Although Amnesty International does not get much reaction to its work and "rarely hears from officials," Falls said she believes Amnesty's effectiveness comes from the fact that oppressive governments receive letters from all over the world. "Many prisoners of conscience credit Amnesty International for their release or the stop of their torture," she added.

Rigby

continued from page 1

The gymnast denounced the media's emphasis on weight. She said that advertising encourages people women in particular - to think that a thin person is more successful than an overweight person.

Nancy Schoenman, counselor with the Saint Mary's Career and Development Center, agreed. "We pay attention to what we read, what we hear and what we say to one another. We start with ourselves and our environment here at Saint Mary's," she said.

Notre Dame Avenue

Apartments

NOW RENTING FOR FALL

Completely furnished, balconies, laundry, and off-street parking. On site management & maintenance, all deluxe features

ASK ABOUT OUR SPECIAL SUMMER RATES (good deals for Summer Session)

Office at 820 ND Ave

Call Anytime

DeADL INE TODAY!

Saturday, April 19

K of C

Blues Brothers

Change Shakedown

APRIL 13

Proceeds to

PSB - Logan Center

Protective Services Board

of St. Joseph County

EMC CORPORATION

EMC Corporation will be on campus interviewing Monday, April 14, at Memorial Library.

EMC Corporation is a high technology manufacturer and marketer of high performance computer peripherals serving the super-mini computer market.

We are looking for additional sales people for our domestic sales force.

We are currently seeking young, aggressive individuals pursuing a career in high technology sales.

Everyone Welcome!
Crime continued from page 1

two purse thefts were reported to Security in the past two days. The thefts from rooms occurred in Carroll, Pasquerilla West, Grace, Fisher, Morrissey and Howard halls, Rakow said. Each involved a room with its door apparently unlocked, he said. Except for a jean jacket and jewelry stolen from Pasquerilla West, all thefts were of money or wallets.

Three of the bikes reported stolen were taken from University Village apartments. Rakow said. Two were stolen from Brownson Hall and one from Sandford Hall.

Both purse thefts involved unattended purses stolen from the Memorial Library, he said. Security has made no arrests or apprehensions, nor does it have any suspects, Rakow said. The investigation into the thefts is continuing.

In the case of the 1983 red BMW which had its windshield shattered late Saturday night, Rakow said Security had determined a suspect and referred his name to Student Affairs.

In the case of the fishhead vandalism Friday night, Rakow said Security has made no apprehensions and has no suspects.

To cut down on campus crime, Rakow asked that any student who witnesses a crime or notices any suspicious activity report it to Security. He added that Security would not release the names of witnesses.

The only crime reported to Saint Mary's Security since Monday was the theft of a stop sign and a three-way sign from the corner of Main Avenue and Madeleva Drive, according to Safety and Security Director Richard Chlebek. Saint Mary's Security has made no arrests and has no suspects in the crime, which occurred late Monday night or early Tuesday morning, he said.

Correction

Because of an editing error, two photo credits in Wednesday's Observer were incorrect. The photograph on page 1 was taken by Scott Moorman and the photograph on page 5 was taken by Bob Jones.
Dear Editor:

I respect his commitment to the Christian idea, but Christianity is just that, an idea. In reality, there are unwanted pregnancies and abortions; both these seem more ethical and also with regard to possible fertilization, expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Love in premari tal sex is just as proper and true as love in marital sex. Keuber has the right to freedom of expression, yet his art is so insulting and judgmental that it lost any real worth.

I practice my respect for human being and their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Julie Mater
Paquerville West Hall

P.O. Box Q

Sexual love possible outside of marriage

Promotions

Junior Maura Mandycz and fellow freshman Gregory Stohr have been selected to serve as 1986-87 assistant editors for the Viewpoint department. Mandycz, from Atlanta, had served the department as a regular Viewpoint columnist and copy editor. From St. Louis, Stohr had been involved with the Viewpoint, news and sports department before being named assistant.

Garry Trudeau

The Observer

Lost in all the excitement of spring break was the men's fencing team's victory since their 1978 title.

The world was created for all people. Every generation must make a judgement as to how it is being shared. Though we in the United States are enjoying an age of unparalleled prosperity and luxury, we must work to develop an awareness of the problems of poorer nations. We must criticize the institutions and systems which maintain inequality and injustice on this earth.

The Overseas Development Network has organized Third World Awareness Week with the help of Students Organization for Latin America, Rally Against Starvation in Africa and the World Hunger Coalition to bring Notre Dame students to a greater respect for the Third World, its culture, its successes, its problems and its aspirations.

Speaking to ODN on what we can learn from the Third World, Keuber says, "Experiencing a Third World culture gets you down to the very basic realities in life, from which we often shelter ourselves. It allows you to observe the process of social change and analyze what seems to be natural in your own experience."

The world was created for all people. Every generation must make a judgement as to how it is being shared. Though we in the United States are enjoying an age of unparalleled prosperity and luxury, we must work to develop an awareness of the problems of poorer nations. We must criticize the institutions and systems which maintain inequality and injustice on this earth.

The world was created for all people. Every generation must make a judgement as to how it is being shared. Though we in the United States are enjoying an age of unparalleled prosperity and luxury, we must work to develop an awareness of the problems of poorer nations. We must criticize the institutions and systems which maintain inequality and injustice on this earth.

The Overseas Development Network has organized Third World Awareness Week with the help of Students Organization for Latin America, Rally Against Starvation in Africa and the World Hunger Coalition to bring Notre Dame students to a greater respect for the Third World, its culture, its successes, its problems and its aspirations.

Speaking to ODN on what we can learn from the Third World, Keuber says, "Experiencing a Third World culture gets you down to the very basic realities in life, from which we often shelter ourselves. It allows you to observe the process of social change and analyze what seems to be natural in your own experience."

The world was created for all people. Every generation must make a judgement as to how it is being shared. Though we in the United States are enjoying an age of unparalleled prosperity and luxury, we must work to develop an awareness of the problems of poorer nations. We must criticize the institutions and systems which maintain inequality and injustice on this earth.

LOST 100 MILES
IT'S NORMAL FOR A MAN, THEY'RE PRETTY MEAN ALL THE SAME
HIS MOLARS, PARTS OF OLD MICRO-FLAM FROM HIS SMUGGLING DAYS.

ECONOMISTS: A NEWBORN'S WEIGHT IS HE WHO RISES FROM FRANCE.

AND THERE ARE DENTAL NEED COR- EAT THE POOR, THEY'RE GOOD ON CONSUMED.

THEIR SENSE.

Blood pressure is 120 OVER 80 TO 30.

Hearts are 155 RPM.

"Experiencing a Third World culture gets you down to the very basic realities in life, from which we often shelter ourselves. It allows you to observe the process of social change and analyze what seems to be natural in your own experience."

The world was created for all people. Every generation must make a judgement as to how it is being shared. Though we in the United States are enjoying an age of unparalleled prosperity and luxury, we must work to develop an awareness of the problems of poorer nations. We must criticize the institutions and systems which maintain inequality and injustice on this earth.

The world was created for all people. Every generation must make a judgement as to how it is being shared. Though we in the United States are enjoying an age of unparalleled prosperity and luxury, we must work to develop an awareness of the problems of poorer nations. We must criticize the institutions and systems which maintain inequality and injustice on this earth.

The world was created for all people. Every generation must make a judgement as to how it is being shared. Though we in the United States are enjoying an age of unparalleled prosperity and luxury, we must work to develop an awareness of the problems of poorer nations. We must criticize the institutions and systems which maintain inequality and injustice on this earth.

The world was created for all people. Every generation must make a judgement as to how it is being shared. Though we in the United States are enjoying an age of unparalleled prosperity and luxury, we must work to develop an awareness of the problems of poorer nations. We must criticize the institutions and systems which maintain inequality and injustice on this earth.
Refugees find life in South Bend, world

by KATHY ROE features writer

Recently, the term "homeless" has been applied to American and African-American journalists. While this term is currently used to refer to a growing class of impoverished Americans, there exists another class of homeless individuals - refugees.

There are, in a sense, not only home but without countries. Since the mid-70s with the rise of political turmoil in Southeast Asia, there has been a continuing exodus of refugees from countries such as Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos.

Many of the refugees escape simply to save their lives while others are driven out of their countries. Yet what happens to them once they reach the temporary shelter of refugee camps?

In South Bend, the United Religious Community Task Force on Refugees is responsible for finding and assisting refugee sponsors for this area. As a communications network, this volunteer group represents all local churches and synagogues. According to Task Force Coordinator Carol McDonnell, over 800 refugees have been resettled in the South Bend region since the program's start in 1979.

One beneficiary of this local program has been the Cambodian family of By and Ang Fieus. They arrived in South Bend in 1980 with their two children, a nephew and Ang's sister after having fled the repressive regime of Pol Pot.

The Fieus's escape from Cambodia began with a terrifying six-day journey across the border to a refugee camp in Thailand. To avoid the Vietnam army of Vietnamese and Pol Pot soldiers, the Fieus family was only able to travel at night.

As with most refugee families, as soon as they leave their camps their fates are largely out of their control. Most Cambodians are relocated worldwide, after approval for their immigration has been granted by willing recipient agencies.

In regard to the United States, the relocation of arriving refugees is governed by a group of national voluntary agencies. The majority of these agencies such as the Catholic Relief Services and the Church World Service are connected with various religious denominations.

After reaching Thailand, the Fieus were approved for immigration to the United States, residing in their family members. Critic Gene Siskel said of the film, "SHOAH" is a film about the Holocaust that allows no archival footage, but rather features death camp survivors, Nazi perpetrators, and bystanders.

Notre Dame and the Jewish Federation of Saint Joseph Valley will present the victims, perpetrators and bystanders to tell their stories. "SHOAH" is Claude Lanzmann's "SHOAH" - a film about the Holocaust that allows no archival footage, but rather features death camp survivors, Nazi perpetrators, and bystanders. "SHOAH" is Claude Lanzmann's "SHOAH" - a film about the Holocaust that allows no archival footage, but rather features death camp survivors, Nazi perpetrators, and bystanders.

The film will be shown Sunday in two series, from 12 to 3 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Moreau Seminary Auditorium. Tickets are $3.

Two Cambodian families helped by South Bend refugee relief - From right to left by family, Father Dy Sue, his wife Ang, and their children Patih, Satuya and Vivoch. Also pictured are Anne Chinn, sister of Ang Sue, and her son, Fred.)

In the Moreau Seminary Auditorium, Friday, April 11, 1986 - page 7

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.

While helping them to learn the English language, the tutors also help the refugees learn about American culture. One way in which this is accomplished is by taking the refugees on what might be called field trips. Rahula Rizal states that on a past Saturday the tutors went with the refugees to the delt in Lafayette and answered their questions, such as "What's a pop tart?"

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.

While helping them to learn the English language, the tutors also help the refugees learn about American culture. One way in which this is accomplished is by taking the refugees on what might be called field trips. Rahula Rizal states that on a past Saturday the tutors went with the refugees to the delt in Lafayette and answered their questions, such as "What's a pop tart?"

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.

While helping them to learn the English language, the tutors also help the refugees learn about American culture. One way in which this is accomplished is by taking the refugees on what might be called field trips. Rahula Rizal states that on a past Saturday the tutors went with the refugees to the delt in Lafayette and answered their questions, such as "What's a pop tart?"

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.

While helping them to learn the English language, the tutors also help the refugees learn about American culture. One way in which this is accomplished is by taking the refugees on what might be called field trips. Rahula Rizal states that on a past Saturday the tutors went with the refugees to the delt in Lafayette and answered their questions, such as "What's a pop tart?"

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.

While helping them to learn the English language, the tutors also help the refugees learn about American culture. One way in which this is accomplished is by taking the refugees on what might be called field trips. Rahula Rizal states that on a past Saturday the tutors went with the refugees to the delt in Lafayette and answered their questions, such as "What's a pop tart?"

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.

While helping them to learn the English language, the tutors also help the refugees learn about American culture. One way in which this is accomplished is by taking the refugees on what might be called field trips. Rahula Rizal states that on a past Saturday the tutors went with the refugees to the delt in Lafayette and answered their questions, such as "What's a pop tart?"

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.

While helping them to learn the English language, the tutors also help the refugees learn about American culture. One way in which this is accomplished is by taking the refugees on what might be called field trips. Rahula Rizal states that on a past Saturday the tutors went with the refugees to the delt in Lafayette and answered their questions, such as "What's a pop tart?"

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.

While helping them to learn the English language, the tutors also help the refugees learn about American culture. One way in which this is accomplished is by taking the refugees on what might be called field trips. Rahula Rizal states that on a past Saturday the tutors went with the refugees to the delt in Lafayette and answered their questions, such as "What's a pop tart?"

The tutors work with a group of eight to ten refugees every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Badin Hall conference room of University Ministry. Emphasis is given to encouraging the refugees to speak English among themselves.
Sports Briefs

A Dancin’ Irish organizational meeting for those interested in trying out will be held today at 3 p.m. in the Lafayette Little Theater. For more information call Paty Perez at 283-1511 - The Observer

The ND/SMC gymnastics club will hold a mandatory practice today at 4 p.m. to elect new officers. - The Observer

NFAA fencing and team tennis触动 are due today. The fencing tournament will be held April 14 and 15 from 6 to 8 p.m. in the ACC fencing gym and is for novice fencers. The team tennis tournament is a single-elimination event to be held April 19. Both tournaments will include men's and women's divisions. For more information call NFAA at 259-6100. - The Observer

Secondary

continued from page 12

Three veteran walk-ons who are also working hard for a position in the secondary are juniors Chris Kvochak, Miki Visovatti and Mark Oleksak. All three have worked out with the team prior to this spring and have seen action alongside the regulars.

And although there is still work to be done in the Irish secondary, Forbes realizes that there is plenty of time for his squad to reach its goals for the fall.

"Let's put it this way," he says. "I'm certainly not disappointed with the way this season has gone. I don't think we can expect anyone to reach September form in April."
Cahill, continued from page 12
reason for his winning ways. "Tony is such an enthusiast player and his attitude is so good that you really enjoy watching him play," Fallon says. "He plays his heart out on every point and, especially in singles, he's a real closener. He can have a tough first set, but he'll come strong on and put his opponent away. That's a sign of a winner!"

To keep his success going, Cahill says he must improve his serves and volleys. He credits senior Joe Nelligan and junior Tom Greier with sharing some of their experience to help him.

Nelligan, in particular, has a chance to help Cahill on a first hand basis since the two form Notre Dame's number-three doubles team. That doubles team has an impressive 12-1 record and Cahill says he enjoys the doubles competition a bit more than singles, as he enjoys the team aspect of college tennis more than the individual competition that his high school participated in.

"I think doubles is a little more fun than singles, but I have a little more success in singles," he says. "I also like the team concept in college. You have to root for your teammates, which brings you closer as a team."

"With every match counting as only one point for the team, every match is equally important and that makes it much more interesting." The Irish have received their share of points from Cahill this season. Cahill's only singles losses have come in his first match, and against tough opponents from Rice and Baylor during the spring break trip. Fallon has high praise for his number-four singles player. "He's been a real find for us," Fallon says. "All of our freshmen have done the job this year, but he's probably been our most consistent out of the bunch."

Cahill, who plans to study dentistry, says he has his eyes on the Irish team and thinks the team should fare well the remainder of the season.

"We've been doing pretty well all year and even though I really don't know how good our remaining opponents are, I think we should do pretty well," he predicts. "Hopefully we can win our conference, which is definitely one of our main goals."

Cahill and the Irish face Indiana State Saturday and Ohio State Sunday, both of which should give the Irish "good tests," according to Fallon. "I'm off all of their impressive wins over Ball State Saturday.

Both matches begin at 10 a.m. at the Courtsire Courts.

The Observer
Friday, April 11, 1986 - page 9
Holtz proving he means business in tough spring workouts

continued from page 12

Q: What other things did the players do in terms of off-season conditioning?

A: Other than the morning workouts, they spent time in the weight room, which was bigger and stronger, and yet we've got to become thinner and faster. You get the impression that if you're carrying a 20-pound All-American on your back, you do a lot worse than we refer to as an extra. The weights will help us to become these things. To say that our players still have a lot of weight to lose and we're still going to have a lot of room. I think we have to get the overall picture of what we're doing. That's why I'm a little bit more trim than I have been in the past. Not because anybody has told me to but just because of the awesome responsibility. I can't believe Notre Dame brought me here to change me, nor do I believe the 11:15 in the weight room. I love the Notre Dame ways and for what it's worth, I'm going to be myself and if I have something that I think is funny I'm going to laugh. I pray that it's in the right vein and it's in good taste. I've never tried to make any humor at the expense of somebody other than myself, though.

Q: In the past, you've been known to be very animated and take the headship role on the sideline. How do you see your relationship with the players?

A: I think that many things can be handled administratively in context of what you do, but that's a little bit more trite than I have been in the past. Not because anybody has told me to but just because of the awesome responsibility. I can't believe Notre Dame brought me here to change me, nor do I believe the 11:15 in the weight room. I love the Notre Dame ways and for what it's worth, I'm going to be myself and if I have something that I think is funny I'm going to laugh. I pray that it's in the right vein and it's in good taste. I've never tried to make any humor at the expense of somebody other than myself, though.

Q: What can changes we expect to see in the offense as opposed to what we've seen in recent years?

A: I really don't know. It's hard to say. You will see some type of option in our game plan, but I don't know how much offensive, but you will see some type of option. I think the option presents itself in a very modest type of defense. Sorry, to what people who ask me what is the most important thing? The most important thing is that they do get along and I know, I have great respect for them.

Q: What role do you want your assistants to play? What are their most important responsibilities?

A: Their most important responsibility is the athlete. When dealing with an athlete, you can have such a sensitive time when you lose your priorities, when football becomes more important than our religious life, when football becomes more important than our studies or our family. I think we also get to a point where we've got to increase the overall speed of this team.

Q: You were a player yourself in college. Did you draw anything from that experience that carries over into your coaching philosophy?

A: I definitely did. I have great compassion for the poor, slow athlete that's always looking for a big, stronger and better athlete. I have great compassion for the young man on the football team that works exceptionally hard and does not play. I have great compassion for the young man that has a burning desire to be competitive and yet sits on the sideline watching players have the opportunity just going through the motions. I think all these things have been reflected in the way that I play. I think it's in the way that I train. I believe that if a young man works hard and continues to improve and is patient, we should be able to find a way that he can make a contribution to Notre Dame football. I think all these things have come about because of the fact that I wasn't a good athlete and experienced many of those things that we just talked about.

Q: How do your early-morning workouts, etc., relate to the philosophy you've established about team discipline and commitment?

A: We talk about a 6 1/2 workout as being the priority. Oh, that's all. In London I think everything is related. The 6 1/2 workouts, 60 minutes to an hour and 60 seconds to a minute, and it's how we spend that time. In London I've never had a problem with an individual. He was at the University for the same purpose we are. We want to see that he gets an education. He's a person and becomes part of a fine football team. I don't think discipline is forcing something to somebody. It's something that is there. Hopefully they can take advantage of the help they have in the long run. You don't go about to establish discipline. You set it, then you just do it. You just tell the athlete that you expect him to do what's right, do the best you can, and if you're going to be a leader, you'd like to be treated, and that's how he gets treated in the program. Everybody says I'm a disciplinarian, and I'm not. A person who just wants to be liked, that's a little bit better than one who can't. There are a lot of things that you look for. I think that I'm well aware of what's going on. The players usually are going to reflect the atmosphere that is generated on the sideline by the leadership of your assistant coaches, your senior players and yourself. On the sideline, if the coach doesn't have much faith, the coach thinks bad things are going to happen, the coach thinks you're going to lose, if the coach appears to be discouraged and disinterested, your football team usually will reflect that. There are times where you've got to take strong leadership actions to change some situations that are going on. I think that there have been times when I've gotten upset on the sideline, but that's much more of a rarity than when I've got excited about what's just happened.

Q: Coach Faust always used to be up in the tower for much of practice. Will you use the tower?

A: We'll use the tower every day to film, but I will not be a tower coach. The thing that I enjoy doing is teaching, coaching, working, and I will be very active. I know that a lot of people say that you don't have time to teach, but I don't think that the demands on your time won't allow you to do it. If I have to stay up until three in the morning and get up at 5:15 to do it, I will be active in teaching.

Q: You're also well-known for your one-liners. How much does this carry over into your dealings with the team?

A: If you have a good relationship, you can make them laugh. If you have a good relationship, you can have a good time. You can have fun with the team. It keeps everybody involved. When you have a problem is usually some when you're on the same page. I did have some concern about a sense of humor when I came here because many people on the outside gave me the advice that Notre Dame wants a football coach who is very serious and always very serious. I've come to the conclusion after being here that I probably am a little bit more trim than I have been in the past, not because anybody has told me to but just because of the awesome responsibility. I can't believe Notre Dame brought me here to change me, nor do I believe they believe me here. I change Notre Dame. I love the Notre Dame ways and for what it's worth, I'm going to be myself and if I have something that I think is funny I'm going to laugh. I pray that it's in the right vein and it's in good taste. I've never tried to make any humor at the expense of somebody other than myself, though.

Q: When you put your coaching staff together, what kinds of things were you looking for?

A: I think chemistry is so important. We'll use the tower every day to film, but I will not be a tower coach. The thing that I enjoy doing is teaching, coaching, working, and I will be very active. I know that a lot of people say that you don't have time to teach, but I don't think that the demands on your time won't allow you to do it. If I have to stay up until three in the morning and get up at 5:15 to do it, I will be active in teaching.

Q: You've made it clear that you're not going to do any miracles for next year, but what is a realistic prediction?

A: I have been impressed with our talent and our quickness in the defensive secondary. I think we have another defensive back and he's going to be a little bit more aggressive than I've ever seen in the history of this country. We plan on attacking them.

Q: You've made it clear that you're not going to do any miracles for next year, but what is a realistic prediction?

A: I have been impressed with our talent and our quickness in the defensive secondary. I think we have another defensive back and he's going to be a little bit more aggressive than I've ever seen in the history of this country. We plan on attacking them.

Q: You've made it clear that you're not going to do any miracles for next year, but what is a realistic prediction?

A: I have been impressed with our talent and our quickness in the defensive secondary. I think we have another defensive back and he's going to be a little bit more aggressive than I've ever seen in the history of this country. We plan on attacking them.
Bloom County

The Far Side

Animal House

Today

Friday, April 11, 1986 - page 11

SPONSORED BY: THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES BOARD

Bruce Springsteen’s Drummer

MAX is coming April 12.

Tickets on sale at Ticket Stub for $3.00
Will take place April 12 at 8:00pm at Stepan Center

Sponsored by the Student Activities Board
I think we’re as good if not better than last year,” said Drees. “We’re a little bigger and our shooting is just a little bit better. But it’s a much tougher year this year, and there are a lot more tough teams.

“I think it was more of a kind of romance than great shooting,” commented Smith. “Also, I had a slight hamstring with the guy who guarded me.”

Matt Corroney, another Guy with Good Moves, seemed to have the best explanation for the comeback.

“We were pretty relaxed because...”

see BOOKSTORE, page 9