Class of 1990: the beginning at last

450 to enter Saint Mary's

By MARGIE KERSTEN
Saint Mary's Editor

More than 450 freshmen have arrived on campus to begin their four years of college at Saint Mary's.

The incoming freshman class will gain a lot from the Saint Mary's experience as well as enhance the College community," said Mary Ann Rowan, director of admission for Saint Mary's.

Fifty percent of this year's freshmen are women, and 30 percent were in the top 10 percent, Rowan said.

From an applicant pool of 1025 women, 820 were accepted to attend Saint Mary's, according to Rowan.

The class of 1990 represents 34 states and seven foreign countries. Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Illinois are the largest states that are represented, said Rowan. Rowan noted that an increased number of students came from Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, New York, Pennsylvania and California.

The size of the freshman class is down from last year, said Rowan, explaining that it was "smaller by design. The decrease in students is because of the size of the graduating class of 1986, as well as the "phase-out" requirement of the number of students who remain at Saint Mary's rather than transfer to another college. Although housing is filled to capacity, Rowan said no student will have to live in temporary housing.

Rowan attributes "the effective enrollment plan to a total College commitment." This includes personal contact to prospective students by faculty and administration as well as more than 700 personal interviews by the six-member admissions committee.

Destination Dome

As future alumni and their parents arrive yesterday afternoon, they are greeted by the Alumni Association and 92 percent were in the top one-fifth of their graduating class, and 30 percent were in the top 10 percent, Rowan said.

Despite the low number of cancellations, this year's freshman class probably will be slightly smaller, said Assistant Director of Admissions Pat Leonardo. "That's one of the lowest numbers of cancellations ever," he said. "It's 50 percent lower than two year's ago." Leonardo said that freshmen who wish to come to Saint Mary's are still welcome to go to Notre Dame.

Study lounges to be temporary home for 84 ND freshmen

By MARK PANKOWSKI
News Editor

While some students like to get a head start on their schoolwork, that's not the reason why more than 80 Notre Dame freshmen are expected to be in study lounges this week. They'll lie living in them — but only for awhile.

Because of overfilled dorms, about 80 freshmen will be squeezed into dorm rooms that will be converted into study lounges. For example, a room designed for three students may temporarily have four. Reinebold, who has been at the University for 15 years, said that this is the largest number of freshmen in makeshift quarters that she can remember. She added that Assistant Director of Admissions Pat Leonardo has been forced to put freshmen in temporary quarters for a number of years.

"We've always had an overflow," she said.

As other students move off campus or leave the University, freshmen will be relocated into other dorms, she said. Reinebold said that she didn't know how long it would take to find permanent rooms for all the freshmen. "I wish I had a crystal ball," she said.

Last year, study lounges were home to 41 freshmen. Reinebold said she believed all had permanent rooms by the beginning of October, possibly earlier.

Freshmen will be moved out according to when they sent in their enrollment confirmations, she said. The earlier a student sent in his confirmation, the quicker he'll be moved out.

Currently, freshmen who sent in their confirmations after May 1 are in study lounges or squeezed into dorm rooms, Reinebold said. Although in the past both male and female freshmen were placed in temporary quarters, this year all are male students, she said.

Reinebold said freshmen must be told to bring, he said.

With that in mind, Leonardo said he could only explain why about 20 students are without permanent rooms. According to Leonardo, on Wednesday Student Residences was given a list of approximately 1,840 freshmen that would need rooms. About 20 freshmen do not show up each year, he said.

Because Student Residences doesn't know which freshmen won't show up, some must be placed in temporary rooms, Leonardo said. Later, as the names of freshmen that didn't enroll became available, Student Residences can assign those students in temporary quarters to the rooms of the "no-shows." Because this only accounts for about 20 students living in temporary quarters this year, rather than 90, Leonardo suggested that Student Residences might be partially responsible for the overflow. "It's fast 90 people are in study lounges...why is there not 20 or 30?"

After Leonardo asked this question, an attempt was made call back Reinebold. However, her assistant said Reinebold had become ill and had left the office for the day. An early deadline for Once hoped to be finished by now, the renovation of the LaFortune Student Center is currently slated for completion by the third week of October, said Don Dedrick, director of the physical plant.

However, Dedrick said, parts of the building are essentially complete, and some businesses and organizations have already moved in.

Dedrick attributed the late completion date to delays in the delivery of materials and bad weather in November and December. The delivery of materials really held us up," Dedrick said. "When one material is not here, it really holds everything up.

"Construction delays were also caused by the weather," he said. "We had quite a bit of rain last November. We were doing outdoor work and we just couldn't get the work done.

Once completed, the student center will feature an elevator and a ramp, making it accessible to the handicapped, he said.

Dedrick described the renovation, begun last year, as being done from the top on down. "As parts are completed, they'll be turned over to the students," he said.

Currently, workers are putting the finishing touches on the third floor, which will house Student Activities, The Observer, the Dome, Scholastic’s Adworks, a lounge area and conference rooms.

Other businesses to be housed in LaFortune’s basement include the Ticket Stub, The Cellar (a record store) and a 24-hour laundromat. A television lounge will also be located there.

"The other businesses, it’s a little premature for me to know when they’ll be open," Dedrick said. "The sweet shop, University Hair Stylist and game room will be awhile."

University Hair Stylist will remain in Badin Hall until it moves to the basement.

The offices of Student Activities, the student center will feature an elevator and a ramp, making it accessible to the handicapped, he said.

Dedrick said he expects the 24-hour laundromat to be the last part of the building completed, probably by the third week of October.

"I think when we finish everybody will be pleased," Dedrick said. "It’s worth the wait."

Hawaiian Luau one of many events set for SMC freshmen

By MARGIE KERSTEN
Saint Mary's Editor

Saint Mary’s freshmen may not have time to become homesick as the Orientation committee has planned several events to keep them busy.

Beginning this afternoon, freshmen and their parents will have the opportunity to learn about the different study-abroad programs affiliated with Saint Mary’s. These include Rome, Spain, Semester around the World and the various summer-abroad programs offered by the College.

This evening, the traditional Hawaiian Luau will take place on the Dining Hall Green. According to Orientation Chairperson Maura Barille, Hawaiian dancers, food and much socializing will be part of the festivities.

Guests of Saint Mary’s freshmen will be able to purchase tickets for $5. Admission is free for those 12 and under.

For the second year in a row, the survival-leader program will play a significant role in introducing freshmen to college life, according to Barille. “I think it (the program) is fantastic for the freshmen and is an instant way for the girls to make friends.”

The survival-leader program consists of approximately 85 upperclassmen volunteering their time to the freshmen. Each upperclassman has five or six freshmen in her group, said Kathy Bryant, assistant chairperson.

All members of the group live in the same dorm, which allows the women easy accessibility to their leader, Bryant said.

Survival-group meetings will continue throughout the orientation period and possibly throughout the entire semester, said Barille.

Socializing will continue tomorrow night at the Pre-Dance party on the Haggar College Center Terrace for both Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s freshmen. During the party, Saint Mary’s freshmen will be able to obtain tickets for the Stepan Center dance, which will follow at 9 p.m.

In addition to the socializing, educational meetings will be scheduled for incoming students today and tomorrow. Meetings for parents and discussions about college majors are among the events planned.

After the initial transition to college life, Saint Mary’s will be sponsoring a freshman trip to the Warren Dunes in Michigan. Buses are scheduled to depart from the McCandless Hall parking lot at 9 a.m. on Saturday, Aug. 30.

Barille said she is “pleased with the attitude and enthusiasm” of about 200 volunteers who have made the orientation possible. “We are really anticipating the arrival of the freshmen and feel we are organized and confident that it will go well.”

Before it’s all work and no play for Notre Dame freshmen, they will be treated to Playfair, a set program of comedy skits and audience participation to be held tomorrow at 8:45 p.m. on the Stepan Courts.

Described as “the ultimate icebreaker” by Martine Beamon, chairman of the Freshmen Orientation Committee, Playfair will feature group dynamic exercises. Students may be asked to form groups according to the month of their birth or their home state.

Beamon suggests students dress casually for the event because it’s non-competitive. Following Playfair will be Dancefair, based on Reces, an event of Notre Dame’s spring festival, An Tostal. “Dancefair is more than a dance, it’s a party,” said Beamon.

Freshmen will be officially welcomed aboard tonight at 7:30 in the Athletic Convocation Center.

Lou Holtz, Notre Dame football coach, will be the event’s guest speaker. According to Beamon, Holtz is the appropriate speaker because “he will tell why he’s very proud to be at Notre Dame.”

Although several attempts were made last year to reorganize Notre Dame's student government, they all failed, and thus the structure remains the same.

Student Government

Campus-wide student government is established by a written constitution. The constitution establishes the positions of student-body president, vice president and treasurer, and allows a cabinet to be chosen by the student body president.

Student Activities Board

The use of subcommittees, the SAB runs the annual Stepan Mall where students are able to rent refrigerators and buy furniture for their rooms. The SAB also coordinates other events throughout the year.

Student Senate

The Student Senate also is established by the constitution. It is composed of representatives from other branches of government, an elected off-campus senator, and four elected on-campus senators.

Judicial Council

The Judicial Council, also established by the constitution, is composed of the judicial board of student senators.

Freshmen can get involved in SMC student government

By MARGIE KERSTEN
Saint Mary's Editor

Freshmen at Saint Mary's will have plenty of opportunities to become involved in student government, according to Student Body President Jeanne Heller.

Freshmen will have the opportunity to apply for several different commissioner positions in their respective dorms, Heller said. They can also run for one of the four class offices in September.

Student government at Saint Mary's takes the form of three main branches of government: the Student Senate, the Student Academic Council and the Programming Board.

The Board of Governance, chaired by the Student Body President, has jurisdiction over proposed changes in policy. Residence hall council presidents and dormitory representatives are members of the Board of Governance. The SAB also is composed of members elected from each of the other branches of government.

The Student Senate, according to Student Senate President, has jurisdiction over proposals initiated by the Student Senate. It includes people from every aspect of the University.

Approximately 1310 of this year’s freshman class are men and about 515 are women, a ratio nearly the same as last year, Leonardo said. In descending order, the remaining top 12 home states of freshmen are Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, New York and Illinois.

this issue prevented additional calls the next day.

Earlier, Reniebold said that 40 freshmen would live in study lounges in each of Grace and Planter halls, with four men to a lounge. Four freshmen will also live in Sorin Hall’s study lounge.

Although Housing Services tried to make the lounges comparable to a student room, placing furniture and phones in the lounges, Reniebold said it’s still difficult for freshmen to live in the temporary quarters.

“The problem is they (students) move in and get acquainted with each other. They make friends,” Reniebold said. “But then we move them out according to confirmation dates.”

“We really want to stay in Planter or Grace, but we can’t do that,” she said.

acquaintances and trying to campus. It is really im-important that I become best friends with my roommate. I found that traumatic rooming situations result from roommates who "shroud their horizons and develop new interests," according to Christine Conway, a senior in the University Counseling Center. Conway said stress often results when roommates "have the ex-pec-tation they're going to be best friends." It may seem like heresy to suggest that successful roommates can be none other than best friends. That notion can become even more perplexing for freshmen when they look all around them and see their new classmates in the dorms going to parties with their roommates already, talking and laughing together as if their relationships date back to long-forgotten times.

Don't let it fool you. Most every other freshman out there is experiencing the same tight knot in the stomach when it comes to smiling at all those new acquaintances and trying to make interesting conversation without asking too many times where someone is from or what his major is.

And the person who deludes herself that she would very well be the freshman across the hall who spends every moment of her time with her roommate, going from one orientation session to another, then laughing, talking, calling his roommate his best friend after only a week on campus.

There are some of the people you might hear the horror stories about later. Campus lore passes down the hall — including her bed — her roommate's belongings into the room. And no fear of a break-in. And no doubt and insecurity really paid off.

MARY JACOBY

The question right now might be: How do I become best friends with my roommate? Three months from now that question will probably be: Is it really important that I become best friends with my roommate? The adjustment from the former roommate to a new roommate can be one of the few who ended up roommates again. We shared the same living space for three years. During freshman orientation it would have been hard to believe that we could walk three years together out of that unsure beginning. After all, we didn't seem to take to one another right away as others around us did. But that's just the point: we gave each other time to become adjusted to our new situations and recognize that we were not old friends, that we were not ready to share our old moments and activities together.

But now after having shared many memorable times, I'd say we would qualify as old friends. Living successfully with another person for four years is like fostering a special kind of bond inwhich no one else can ever quite enter. That first week of doubt and insecurity really paid off.

ROOMMATES: horror stories, happy endings

exploring strange frontiers

ERIC M. BERGAMO assistant features editor

Being a freshman at Notre Dame is like being a stranger in a strange land. Gone are all the familiar places of your hometown, replaced by the new surroundings of South Bend. Here are some hints to help make the transition to this new home easier.

Places to shop

Three major shopping malls in the South Bend area offer a variety of stores.

University Park Mall is two miles north of the campus on State Route 23. The mall features more than 90 stores and restaurants along with two movie theaters that show the latest releases. A shuttle bus runs from the campus to the mall every Friday and Saturday evening at a cost of 50 cents. During the week Transpo, the South Bend area public transportation service, runs buses to the mall. Scottsdale Mall is on the south side of the city on Ireland Road. Scottsdale offers many of the same stores and restaurants as University Park and has two movie theaters. Transpo also provides bus service to this mall as well.

The 100 Center in nearby Mishawaka is a haven for students from University Park and Scottsdale in that it is located in a renovated brewery. A number of unique specialty shops and restaurants can be found at the 100 Center.

Cliches tend to be so troublesome. They rear their predictable heads at weddings, graduations, and commencements. Everyone has heard of the sea of faces that follows in the citizens, and the “if you can’t beat them, join them” is offered. It is true that you can make a simple promise to yourself because you are here and they are not. Promise yourself that you will leave Notre Dame a better person and that Notre Dame will be a better place for your having been here.

For the Class of 1990, the question of acceptance has been answered. I am sure that you make a simple promise to yourself that it is OK to cry when you say goodbye.

Following are some of the highlights:

Hear ye, hear ye, Class of 1990! Orientation takes place August 22 through August 24. There will be a movie Friday evening, "Flam ingo Kid" at 8:00 p.m. in Washington Hall. Following the movie, parents are invited to a reception in the South Dining Hall at 10:00 p.m. while students may attend a gathering on South Quad at 10:00 p.m. Social festivities will end Sunday with "Playfair" from 8:45-9:45 and a "Dancefair" immediately following which you won’t want to miss. Last year there were approximately 3,000 students who attended this event. This dance is a great way to start off the social side of your college career.

Whether you are jubilant or hesitant (or maybe a combination of the two) about your return, you will find fun geared to your individual pleasures during our week of welcome. Individual class picnics, ice cream socials and trips to the Dunes are just a few of the events enticing you to participate. There will also be an opportunity to do some shopping at Stepan Mall to make your dorm less dreary. Come spend your moovals! A few other highlights of this week are 1) "The Panic" will be playing on the North Quad in front of Haggar Hall from 8:00-11:00 p.m. Everyone is invited. 2) There will be a first ever outdoor movie on campus. No cars invited!!! 3) Yes, the "Music King" returns to play again at the annual (campus-wide) “Dance Under the Stars” Beach Party, August 29 from 9:00-11:00 p.m. Just imagine 22 tons of sand on Stepan basketball courts. Add to that the sound and light extravaganza, refreshments, a WALLAH! Instant Beach party, all you need is a pair of sunglasses, a towel and a kiss.

Dances Under the Stars are a great way to start off the social side of your college career. Which you won’t want to miss. Last year there were approximately 3,000 students who attended this event. This dance is a great way to start off the social side of your college career.

"The World’s Greatest Mimes." This is how Don McLeod is billed. McLeod was the famed American Tourister gorilla and is presently filming an episode of TV’s "Amazing Stories" which will be aired in September. Don performs a closing piece entitled "The Creation," which portrays God's creation and man's uncreation. In addition, he has agreed to create three of four topical pieces regarding social concerns. He will also do a piece called "S throwable" about a young college student who "Knows it all." He will appear in Washington Hall, 8:00 p.m., September 18. Don’t miss this unique performance.

staff. Nester also credited with upgrading the College's soccer program to the varsity level, in addition to arranging for the Saint Mary's swim team's use of Rockne Memorial pool. With 11 years of high school and college coaching and teaching behind him, Nester headed the Saint Mary's tennis team, which finished 10th in the nation in NCAA competition last spring. Nester holds bachelor and master's degrees from West Chester State in Pennsylvania, and she received her doctor of education degree with a minor in sports administration from Temple University.

Cal, John Stephens - This Jack Stephens 1968 year in the Irish administration and his fourth year as director of the athletic business office has brought him to Ann Arbor. He assumed the role after having spent seven years as associate athletic director and another eight as an assistant director. Despite holding his present job for only a short time, though, he already has made an impact on playing a major role in the formation of the North Star Conference -- a conference in which several women's sports competed until last spring.

Roger Valdesi - Valdesi is entering his fourth year as associate athletic director after having served seven years as an assistant. However, he is best known for his work as director of the sports information department. A 1954 Notre Dame graduate, he served briefly as an administrative assistant to former football coach Terry Brennan. In 1966, after public relations stints with Mercedes-Benz and the Kansas City Chiefs, he returned to his alma mater to become sports information director and, 10 years later, added assistant athletic director to his duties. Regarded as one of the best in the field, Valdesi has earned 43 awards since 1976 from the College Sports Information Directors of America for his sports publications, many honored as the best in the nation. Valdesi is also the current president of CoSIDA.

Joe O'Brien - A 1949 graduate of Notre Dame, O'Brien is in his fourth year as associate athletic director after a seven-year stint as an assistant director. He also continues to manage the department's finances as athletic business manager. In 1955, O'Brien was named director of personnel functions at South Bend's second-largest employer - Notre Dame. He has been here ever since, joining the athletic staff in 1976. He served as president of the College Athletic Business Managers Association in 1985 and was named business manager of the year in 1985 by CABMA.

Dr. Tom Kelly - As director of non-varsity athletics, Kelly oversees 12 club sports and 63 different intramural events. Kelly, who was named as associate athletic director in 1981, received his masters degree in physical education from Penn State and his masters and Ph.D in Educational Administration from Notre Dame. He previously was NVA's assistant director for 11 years (until 1979) and varsity baseball coach from 1979 through the 1980 season.

Brian Boulac - A former Notre Dame tight end, this 1963 University of Notre Dame graduate was named assistant athletic director in 1983 following 13 seasons on the Irish football coaching staff. During that time, Boulac was recruiting coordinator for seven years, an administrative assistant to Dan Devine for two years, and a coach of the offensive and defensive lines, receivers and specialty teams over that span. Currently Boulac's job is to offer direct assistance to athletic director Gene Corrigan in a wide variety of areas.

Mike Bobinski - Bobinski is something of a newcomer to the athletic department's administrative ranks, although certainly no stranger to Notre Dame sports. He was named ticket manager and assistant business manager in the spring of 1984. The 28-year-old Bobinski is a 1979 Notre Dame graduate and a former Irish baseball pitcher who returned to South Bend after two years in management audit and participant accounting with Disney World in Orlando, Fla. He earned two letters as a right-handed pitcher and was a four-year member of the Irish starting rotation.

Mike DeCicco - Better known as coach of the highly-successful Notre Dame fencing program, DeCicco doubles as academic advisor for all Notre Dame athletes. Responsibility for the University's high school graduation rate among its athletes lies mostly with DeCicco, whose task is to advise more than 500 athletes at Notre Dame. A 1949 graduate of Notre Dame, DeCicco taught for a number of years in the University's mechanical engineering department before giving up teaching to concentrate full-time on his job as academic advisor. His fencing teams have brought home an overall record of 480-40 and won the national championship last spring as well as back-to-back titles in 1977 and 1978.

John Heisler - Now in his fifth year as associate director of sports information at Notre Dame after four years as assistant director, the 32-year-old Heisler has had a large hand in the editing of a number of award-winning publications. Ten have been judged "Best in the Nation" by College Sports Information Directors of America panels, including two of the last four football guides. Before coming to Notre Dame, the South Bend native had been an assistant director at Michigan State for one year, after serving as a student assistant at that school for four years and then graduating from Missouri's School of Journalism in 1976.

Jim Davies returns to Notre Dame to begin his first year as assistant director of sports information director. Davies, who was a graduate assistant in the Sports Information Department two years ago, will edit both football and basketball game programs as well as supervise press relations and publications for Notre Dame's non-revenue sports. The 25-year-old native of Greensboro, N.C., graduated from North Carolina-Charlotte in 1984 and spent last year as the director of communications for the Midwest College Conference.

Larry Gallo - Gallo, in his fourth year as associate athletic director and manager of the year in 1983 by CABMA.

gear practices was highlighted by a freshman scrimmage which gave the coaching staff their first real look at the newcomers. Banks and Johnson teared up in the backfield and each broke off some good gains. McShane ended the scrimmage by breaking up a sweep and causing a fumble. After Thursday's practice Head Coach Lou Holtz was optimistic about his new players.

"As far as athletes, we can’t evaluate them yet," he said.

"They're a really nice group. They work well together, and they're fun to work with."

In the weeks to come the Sports facilities offer diversion from classes

Athletic & Convocation Center - The double-domed ACC, located east of the Stadium, contains more area than the Houston Astrodome. The South Dome houses the basketball arena used by both men's and women's varsity teams. The North Dome is used by the hockey, tennis and track teams, among others. Within the structure are handball, racquetball, squash, basketball, courts and volleyball courts that usually are open to the public. Reservations are required for most of the courts. One may also take advantage of the ice rink, boxing room and running track.

The Rolfs Natatorium - Completed last year, this Olympic-sized pool is located at the east end of the Athletic & Convocation Center. The pool has the capability of being divided into three sections. This allows diving in one end, recreational swimming in the middle and water polo in the other end. The pool, which measures 90 meters in length and 25 yards wide, also includes a diving area with three one-meter boards and two three-meter boards.

Angela Athletic Facility - Located north of the Cushwa-Leighton Library on the Saint Mary's campus, Angela includes a track, basketball, volleyball, racquetball and indoor tennis courts. Weight machines, fitness and gymnastic equipment also are housed in the facility. In addition, there are tennis and basketball courts outside the building. The facility is open to all Saint Mary's and Notre Dame students upon the presentation of a student ID. Reservations are needed for the racquetball courts.

Burke Memorial Golf Course - On the west end of campus is the 18-hole, 6,500-yard University golf course. The course is open until late fall and reopens in early spring. Green fees are $13 for students, faculty and staff.

Rockne Memorial Building - Located at the west end of South Quad, "The Rock" is the center for the physical education program. The brick structure contains basketball courts, handball racquetball courts, a weight room, a light apparatus room, a swimming pool and the golf pro shop. Use of the Rockne Memorial is free to all students and faculty members upon presentation of a University identification card. Closing time is 11 p.m. daily.

Stepan Center - Stepan Center and its adjoining fields and outdoor basketball courts are located in the northeast corner of the campus. Outside of the domed Center, one can play basketball, football, soccer, rugby and softball. The basketball courts, which can be turned into an ice rink in the winter, are outfitted with lights that allow students to play basketball late into the night. Within Stepan Center are basketball and volleyball courts, open for recreational and league play.

Frosh football players prepare for college ball during fall practices

By DENNIS CORRIGAN

Life at Notre Dame began early for a select group of the class of 1990, the freshman football players. For this group, they faced more of an adjustment than just being away from home. On August 10, the newest members of the Irish squad reported to Notre Dame and when they did, they were no longer the high schools stars that they had once been.

Instead of being the biggest, fastest or strongest players on their respective teams, now they were just one of many players of equal ability. They now had to arrive and prove themselves to their coaches and teammates.

"On your high school team, you're the man. Here, everybody's an all-American," said Kevin McShane, a 6-3, 218 lb. outside linebacker from Juli. "Now you have to rely on techniques and what the coaches are telling you rather than God-given talent."

After the first met on the 10th, the players underwent physicals and then began a series of daily practices that left them little time to themselves.

"The schedule was kind of hectic but we've just got more to work on. We're getting there," McShane commented after Thursday's practice. "There's a big question mark in every freshman's mind," said Anthony Johnson, a 6-1, 220 lb. running back from South Bend. "After a while I really wanted to hit. Once we started banging, it was kind of a relief."

The night before pads, everybody was a little uptight," echoed McShane. "The next morning, no one was talking. They were all thinking about what it was going to be like. The coaches do a really good job. They start out easy and let everybody progress through.
