War against drug abuse: say Reagans

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, joined by his wife, Nancy, in declaring "another war for our freedom" - pledged aggresive government action against drug abuse yesterday but said the key to its success will be the courage of individual Americans.

"I will announce tomorrow a series of new proposals for a drug-free America," the president said in a joint address with the first lady as they sat together on a love seat in their upstairs living room in the White House. Reagan didn't disclose details of the proposals but said they would hire federal agents on combating illegal drugs to $3 billion.

"Your government will continue to act aggressively, but noth­ing would be more effective than for Americans simply to quit using illegal drugs," the president said.

"I am mindful that drugs are a constant temptation for millions," Reagan said. "Please remember it is up to each of you to decide whether you are Americans. No one—ever—has the right to destroy your dreams and shatter your life."

"Mrs. Reagan spoke especially of the effect of drugs on young people, saying, 'For the sake of our children, I implore you to be unyielding and inflexible in your opposition to drugs. We won't join us in this great effort.

Explosion rips South Korea airport, blame placed on North Koreans

Associated Press

SEOUL, South Korea - A powerful explosive device blasted the crowded terminal building at Seoul's Kimpo International Airport yesterday, killing five Koreans and injuring 19, police said.

Police said 13 victims were seriously hurt. Local news media accounts said as many as 35 people were injured in the air terminal, the main arrival point for the Asian Games set to open next week.

A statement issued by Kang Min-Chang, director of South Korea's national police, pointed an accusing finger at communist North Korea. "There is no other conclusion but that the North Koreans committed the crime," Kang said.

Police said 13 victims were seriously hurt. Local news media accounts said as many as 35 people were injured in the air terminal, the main arrival point of the Asian Games set to open next week.

The explosions occurred in or near a steel trash can outside the terminal's ground-floor waiting area. Witnesses said they felt a loud knocking about 50 people off their feet, and sent scores screaming and running away in panic.

Broken glass and debris covered the sidewalk outside and the information counters and furniture inside the terminal. Shoes, scraps of clothing, bloodstains and bits of flesh spotted the area.

Security measures, always intense in South Korea, have been increased in recent weeks with the approach of the games. About 100,000 people in the national police, plus other paramilitary forces and special units have been put on alert.

A heavy concentration of security forces was stationed at the airport.

South Korea has feared that North Korea or others might try to ruin the games and this nation's image as a host. North Korea refused to take part in the games, saying they were one move along the path of perpetuating the division of the Korean peninsula.

The peninsula has been divided into communist North and anti-communist South since the end of World War II. The 1950-53 Korean War deepened the division, and a deaerialized zone separates the two sides.

The police director said the explosions were similar to two other explosions this year at Taegu, South Korea, and in Rangoon, Burma.

One blast damaged the American Cultural Center in the central city of Taegu, killing one person and injuring four people. The blast in the Burmese capital in October 1983 killed 17 visiting South Korean officials.

Police raided two student parties and a local tavern early Sat­urday morning, issuing 34 citations as part of the "Operation 80 State Party Enforcement." Five law-enforcement agencies teamed up to raid parties on Madison Street and Warrant Street in New York City.

"Twenty-eight citations were issued for consumption of alcohol by a minor, said Teghtmeyer. The other six were issued for sale of alcoholic beverages to a minor, altering a driver's license and the presence of minors in a tavern, she said.

"The raids were part of "Operation Stop Under-age Drinking—nd-Sales," said Teghtmeyer. The 32 officers of the Indiana State Police, Indiana State Excise Police, South Bend Police Department, Roselawn Police Department and St. Joseph County Sheriff's Depart­ment.

"Suspects' names and a break­down of the number of citations at each location were not avail­able yesterday."

"Rumors of raids on Saturday night could not be confirmed by state police."

"The raids came one week after state excise police issued 107 citations at parties on Marx Street and Douglass Street."

In response to the number of citations issued to students in the last two weeks, Student Senator John Gardiner said he has arranged for a legal forum on Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Library Auditorium.

"All students must be accountable to their peers when confronted by law­ enforcement officers," said Gardiner. "This range from how the offi­cer should treat them to whether or not one has to take a breath­alyzer test."

Legal Services directors Mario Zapponi and Glen Guanosky will study the situation and present their findings at the forum, he said. A question-and-answer segment will follow.

"Gardiner said he initiated the forum because of the numerous questions coronary he received as the raids of the last two weeks.

"Some students have said that the police did not read them their rights, while others have ques­tioned whether officers acted legally when they entered a house without a warrant, he said.

"Gardiner and other students received several inquiries last week from students who had received citations.

17 killed: 300 injured in Greece earthquake

Associated Press

KALAMATA, Greece - Rescuers pulled seven bodies yesterday from the rubble of an apartment building toppled by a powerful earthquake in this southern port city, raising the toll to at least 17 people killed and more than 300 injured.

A Greek Interior Ministry spokes­man said more than 100 people were hospitalized after Saturday's quake and 200 more were treated for cuts and fractures wounds. Rescue crews pulled out 131 alive from damaged build­ings, but more bodies were believed buried under rubble, said the spokesman, who demanded anonymity.

The quake, measuring 6.2 on the Richter scale, rolled through the mountainous Messenia region, 180 miles southwest of Athens, at 8:24 p.m. Saturday.

The tremor destroyed all but three of 120 homes in the village of Elateiochori, 12 miles east of Kalamata. The bodies of three villagers were found beneath the rubble, the mini­stry said.

Seven bodies were found elsewhere, including two men crushed in a car when a build­ ing toppled over. Neither police nor hospitals have issued official list of those killed.

Maria Papadopoulou, wife of a Greek air force offi­cer, survived 17 hours buried in a 25-foot heap of concrete rubble from the collapsed five-story apartment building near the waterfront. She was flown to Athens with leg injur­es.

"The cement is pressing on my head," I can't feel my legs," she shouted repeatedly to rescue workers drilling down to reach her.

"When I got back, the town looked like it had been bombed," she said.

Military workers d rillin g  down to reach her. The bodies of her husband George and her four children and her two young children were found hours later.

"When I got back, the town looked like it had been bombed," she said.
There is something about the first home football game of your senior year that brings with it a particular sense of nostalgia.  Of course, as a member of the Class of 97' I have experienced ambivalent feelings toward my new status as a senior from the moment I checked off the "Exceeds Graduate" box at registration and picked up my Career and Placement brochures. Graduation is no longer a comfortable long-term goal but a reality that is both exciting and frightening, and up to now I wasn't sure how I really felt about it.

But it was this first home football game of my last season of truly "home" games that gave me the vague impressions of Senior Year some sort of order. Perhaps it was my first sight of the visitors converging on the campus Friday - alumni, fans and prospective students - that started my sentimentalizing.

In the past, giving directions to lost strangers and being pointed at as a sort of "student" exhibit evoked only a sort of smugness. I could experience every day what wishful alumni struggle to recapture in one frenzied weekend. Last Friday, however, my reaction to the annual pilgrimage of ND faithful to South Bend was that of an inescapable realization that next year, I too would be a visitor to a place which for over four years has been home.

Or perhaps it was finding my seat in the senior section for the first time which seemed symbolic. English majors are always finding symbolism in the most mundane things. Although the 40-yard line offers a much better view than my freshman-year endzone vantage point did, there was no longer the knowledge that students are on my right. The alumni who flanked me and other seniors emphasized the realization that our years as ND students are ending and we will soon be thrust into "the real world."

This realization in turn produces the sense of urgency which characterizes senior year. One look at a packed parking lot on a Saturday night or a taste of the intensity with which seniors tailgated and cheered on Saturday demonstrates that most seniors have at least an idea that time is inexorable and for us it is running out. We feel old at the ripe age of 21.

I remember another phrase which seniors use with alarming frequency last year when the then-seniors warned me that life this year would degenerate into a maulin series of "lasts." I was secure enough then as a junior to ridicule such an idea, but already I've found myself thinking ahead to the "lasts" which are approaching all too quickly.

The last home football game. The last SYR. The last final. It is a measure of how acute this sense of "last" is that even the last dining hall meal assumes a ritualistic importance. A friend who graduated last year once told me it was ironic that Notre Dame places so much importance on orienting freshmen to college - with its fatherly Dean Robinson and pamphlets which explain everything from "Which Dorm is Home" to how many hours you should spend studying per day - yet offers no concrete directions for our transition to the working world. There are no meal packages left up in our dorms which will tell us what to expect after graduation. But that in itself is a measure of how far we have come in five short years here. We no longer need to have our lives mapped out by others; we're grown enough to handle that task - erroneous as it is - ourselves. The future, although uncertain, is exciting and promising. For now, however, I want to savor the present and enjoy every moment of my senior year. After all, it's the last senior year I'll have.

TEL AVIV, Israel - Prime Minister Shimon Peres flew to Wash­ington yesterday to meet Presi­dent Reagan and to try to gain U.S. backing for the accord be­tween Israel and Egypt calling for an international conference on the Middle East.

A primary purpose in my trip will be to work out with the United States a peace policy for the fu­ture," Peres told reporters at Ben-Gurion International Air­port. "The time has come to spell out what are the needed peace initiatives.

Peres, scheduled to meet Reagan today, also has arranged meetings with Vice President George Bush and Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

The Israeli Embassy in Wash­ington in addition is trying to ar­range a meeting between Peres and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, government officials said.

Shevardnadze will be in the United States attending the United Nations General Assem­bly. Asked about any meeting, Peres told reporters he did not know if Shevardnadze had agreed.

Peres' weeklong trip will in­clude stops in New York and Ob­lin.

The prime minister's visit comes a month before he is due to swap jobs with Foreign Mini­ster Vitthin Shamir of the con­servative Likud bloc under a power-sharing pact between Likud and the left-of-center Labor Party.

Last week, Peres and Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak held a two-day summit in Alexandria, Egypt. They agreed Friday to form a preparatory committee for convening an international peace conference.

A U.S. government official who demanded anonymity, said in Washington after the summit that the United States was cool to any plan that would include the Soviet Union in an interna­tional forum. Likud members of Peres' government also voiced opposition to an international meeting during yesterday's reg­ular Cabinet meeting.

But Peres said at the airport: "I don't see any argument be­tween us and America on this topic."

Peres is seeking an interna­tional forum in an effort to recruit Jordan into the peace process. Jordan has made it clear it will not join peace talks without the support of the superpowers and all the parties involved in the Arab-Israeli conflict, including the Palestinians.

Mrs. Aquino, 53, will also seek more economic aid, liberal credit terms and private American in­vestment to revive an economy burdened by $26 billion in debts. A 15-member delegation will ac­company her, including minis­ters of finance, industry, trade, agriculture and planning.

The visit is also aimed at capitalizing on the prestige gained by her People Power Revolution, which ended 20 years of Marcos rule, and at showing her supporters she is able to have a personal friendship so that relations be­tween the two countries will not only proceed well but proceed very well and at a much faster rate.

She is also expected to tell the administration that her policy of seeking reconciliation with com­munist and Moslem rebels offers the best hope for restoring stability, despite criticism from fac­tions in her own government.

Federal judge faces impeachment

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Federal Judge Harry E. Claiborne, who as a private lawyer represented Frank Sinatra, Judy Garland and Howard Hughes, faces an impeachment trial this week in the first impeachment case since 1936.

A nine-member prosecution team from the House will try to persuade senators that the Nevada judge, a federal prisoner, should be removed from office because of his 1984 conviction for tax evasion.

An unprecedented committee of 12 senators is to hear evidence today in the historic impeachment case since 1799 the entire Senate, with the late Sen. Sam Ervin helped ur- ral courts, has never heard itself.

The trial will highlight a con- deration in which Philip- pine President Corazon Aquino was to return to testify against Claiborne. In exchange, the governor himself signed an agreement to return to the Senate to testify against Claiborne, in exchange, the government sought-and obtained-a reduction of his 20-year sentence.

The defense lawyer also has petitioned to present testimony on "the most shocking allegation in the vendetta"-an accusation that the government burglarized the judge's home to illegally obtain trial evidence.

The House has asked that the full Senate hold a full-blown trial, but simply rule Claiborne guilty based on evidence of his conviction.

The judge, 69, who is collecting his $78,700 annual salary while on "detail" in prison, has informed me. I would have made an announce- ment. Maybe that would have shook some people up.

BRAZIL - U.S. S.R. - Top U.S. delegates to a conference on superspower relations have dropped out to protest the spying charges against American reporter Nicholas Daniloff, organizers said yesterday.

They said discussions at the conference, which began today at the Atlantic Sea resort town of Jurmala, likely would focus on overseeing U.S. participation in New York on espionage charges.

Both men were released from jail Friday in the custody of their respective embassies but remain charged. The United States has called for Daniloff to be allowed to return home and has ruled out a swap for Zakharov.

John Wallach, conference director and international editor for Hearst newspapers organization, quoted Perle as saying he wasn't attending because he had to stay in Washington to prepare for Friday's meeting between Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

"But what was said to me and what the real reason might be might be quite different," Wallach said.

ACCUSED U.S. REPORTER DANILOFF SUFFERED "MENTAL TORTURE" IN PRISON

Associated Press

MOSCOW - In his first news conference since he was freed from a Soviet prison, Nicholas Daniloff spoke yesterday of suffering "mental torture" during 13 days of interrogation and warned reporter colleagues also were potential KGB targets.

He spoke in a room in the U.S. Commercial Office packed with reporter colleagues, whom he often called by their first names during an informal, 40-minute question-and-answer session.

The mood alternated from serious to light as Daniloff described his fears as he lay in his cell, the informal courtesy code among prisoners, and the give-and-take with his KGB interrogator over the wording of questions.

Daniloff, flanked by his wife, Ruth, and by Henry Dworshak, deputy managing editor of U.S. News & World Report magazine, emphasized he was never physically abused during his stay at Kolyma camp.

But Daniloff said the loneliness and the 30 hours of interrogation took their toll.

"The end result is that when you go back to your cell, you can't get your mind off of the problem, the madness which has occurred to you," he said.

"And family. I have to tell you, it's mental torture, mental torture."

The 51-year-old reporter, who was named by the KGB in revenge for the FBI arrest of Daniloff in New York, also had a sober warning for fellow journalists:

"All of you are potential targets for this sort of action, and it's deplorable. One has to ask: is this an acceptable way of behaving, of lapping up people of the street in order to gain political leverage in some other case?"

Daniloff appeared at the conference wearing light brown corduroy pants, a maroon velvet duroy pants, a maroon velvet jacket, a light colored shirt and a white and red paisley tie that he said his wife had made for his birthday.

"His voice was strained at times, but he mostly was articulate and matter-of-fact, and even joked a little about his experiences. He was released Friday in the custody of the U.S. embassy."

Daniloff described in detail his arrest by eight KGB agents on Aug. 30 after a meeting with a Soviet acquaintance called Mishka, a nickname for Mikhail A. Luzin. He said he was not permitted to say goodbye because Daniloff was being transferred by the U.S. State Department's youth, according to a survey of the nation's top students for their attitudes on education, politics and sex.

The 1986 survey questionnaire was mailed to 5,000 students, Those surveyed were juniors or seniors in the 1985-86 school year with no less than a B average. Academic.

In response to questions about teenage suicide, the students were asked to list the three major causes. 86 percent said a feeling of personal worthlessness; 81 percent said a feeling of loneliness and 72 percent said pressure to achieve. Thirty-five percent said a certain group of students regularly use drugs before school, and 53 percent said drugs are a regular part of many students' weekend socializing.

But 81 percent said they had never tried drugs such as marijuana or cocaine, and 32 percent said they had never tried alcohol. Other major findings include: 62 percent said students should be required to maintain a C average or better in all classes to be eligible to participate in extracurricular activities.

23 percent said they had sexual intercourse, but 63 percent said sex is not expected in a steady romance.

Twenty percent said they felt pressured to have sex. But males and females gave different reasons: 88 percent of the females said the pressure came from their boyfriend; 72 percent of the males said the pressure came from peers.

73 percent believe prayer should not be required in public schools but should be allowed. If the 1986 legislation were to be held again, 40 percent said they would vote Republican, 25 percent Democratic and 16 percent independent.

Three percent would not vote, and the rest did not answer.

Suicide remains a problem among youth

Associated Press

CHICAGO - Teen-age suicide, alcohol and drug abuse remain major problems for nation's youth, according to a survey of U.S. high school students that was released yesterday.

In the survey of nearly 2,000 high school students, 46 percent said they knew a young person who had committed suicide or tried to commit suicide and 31 percent said they've contemplated doing it.

The survey also found that 77 percent of the students said alcohol use is a regular part of many high school students' weekend activities. The survey also found that 46 percent said drug use is common among some students before beginning of the school day.

The students were surveyed from the 450,000 high achievers featured in the current edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students," a book that annually recognizes top juniors and seniors.

The Who's Who organization, based in the Chicago suburb of Lake Forest, conducts a yearly survey, asking the nation's top students for their attitudes on education, politics and sex.

The 1986 survey questionnaire was mailed to 5,000 students in the spring and returned by 1,943 students. Those surveyed were juniors or seniors in the 1985-86 school year with no less than a B average.
5,000 Poles welcome freed activists

WARSAW, Poland - Lech Walesa joined thousands of Solidarity supporters yesterday at a Roman Catholic Mass in Gdansk in an emotional welcome for more than a dozen freed union activists.

More than 5,000 worshipers filled St. Bridgida's Church in the Baltic port, applauding loudly and waving their fingers in V-for-victory signs as the former political prisoners were introduced, witnesses said.

The government says 225 political prisoners will be free by today, when the amnesty expires. The amnesty does not cover those accused of terrorism, espionage or betraying state secrets.

All of the dozen or more prominent opposition activists, including Solidarity underground leader Bogdan Bogdanowicz, are now free.

Walesa, former chairman of the outlawed Solidarity free trade union movement, urged supporters to be patient until he could meet with recently freed senior union activists to discuss how to respond to the government's gesture.

The Education Department sent sisters Janet and Latoya and dissident historian Bogdan Lis, and disdained historian Adam Michnik, a senior union adviser.

Bogdanowicz, in his first public appearance since he went into hiding immediately after the December 1981 military crackdown that suppressed Solidarity, declared the union was still alive.

The ex-prisoners were given flowers as the crowd serenaded them with the song "Sto Lat" (May He Live a Hundred Years).

Nation's schools to receive drug handbook

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Education joined in President Reagan's war on drugs yesterday by mailing a handbook on how to drive the drug problem out of the nation's schools.

It has printed 1 million copies of "Schools Without Drugs," and the handbook already is in the mail to every public and private school and every school superintendent in the country. The department is also setting up 20 toll-free phone lines that people can call starting today for free copies of the guide.

"We have to get tough, and we have to do it now," said Education Secretary William J. Bennett. "We called use of drugs, including alcohol, 'the most serious threat to the health and well-being of our children.'"

The problem cuts across class lines and geographic boundaries, Bennett said in his introduction. "In some schools, drug deals at lunch are common. In others, intruders regularly enter the building to sell drugs to students. In some schools with drug policies on paper do not always enforce them effectively." he said.

The handbook "tells how drug use starts, how it progresses, and how it can be identified. Most important, it tells how it can be stopped," he said.

"Student councils and other school organizations with drug policies on paper do not always enforce them effectively," he said.

The handbook "tells how drug use starts, how it progresses, and how it can be identified. Most important, it tells how it can be stopped," he said.

The Education Department sent $440,000 to print the handbook. 44 cents per copy and it will spend up to 30 cents more to mail each copy to people who request one.

"A comprehensive drug prevention curriculum that starts in kindergarten and runs through grade 12," Clear rules and strong enforcement of them. Involvement of local police in all aspects of drug prevention, including education and enforcement.

The number to call for copies of the handbook is 1-800-624-0100. The local Washington, D.C., number is 659-4854. People can also write for copies to: Schools Without Drugs, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Wine coolers are becoming increasingly popular these days around the country. The consumer is suddenly being bombarded with a wide variety of these "beer substitutes," but how popular are they on the Notre Dame campus?

Are students downsizing these concoctions of fruit juices and white wine or are they shying away from them? What brands of wine coolers are they drinking? Are men drinking them as well, or do they consider wine coolers to be a drink for women? In other words: Do real men drink coolers?

A survey was recently conducted at random to answer these mind-boggling questions concerning the alcohol preferences of Notre Dame students.

Female students were asked, "If you were given the choice between a beer and a wine cooler, which one would you choose?" In response, only 28 percent of the girls surveyed chose wine, whereas an overwhelming 72 percent chose wine coolers.

Percentage of those who prefer wine coolers, Bartles & James is by far the favorite. This is an interesting fact considering that Bartles & James is manufactured by Ernest and Julio Gallo. Ironically, Ernest's two sons graduated from Notre Dame (David Gallo '61 and Joseph Gallo '62). So it looks as if the "king of wine coolers" can be traced back to this very campus, where its success flourishes among males and females alike.

In an attempt to broaden the survey, a question was then posed to the male students, "If you were given the choice between a beer and a wine cooler, which one would you choose?" in response, only 40 percent of the boys surveyed chose wine, whereas an overwhelming 59 percent chose wine coolers.

Question of the week: voluntary drug testing

Part of President Ronald Reagan's "war on drugs" includes voluntary testing by his cabinet members. This trend has filtered down to employers who are demanding their employees undergo similar testing. Do you feel employers have the right to ask for their workers to submit to the tests? Why or why not?

Students respond on campus activities

The problem has not been lack of events, but no one will support them. Dorms have so much to do with social life, people are not used to student government playing an active role. Maybe more dorm-sponsored events with other halls might draw more support. Rather than emphasize large campus events, try smaller activities.

We have all heard someone complain about the lack of a "real" social life at Notre Dame. Since South Bend is South Bend, it is often necessary for ND students to look to the campus for something to do. There are a lot of activities going on, but weak promotion and motivation sometimes causes a lot to turn-out. I would like to see more campus-wide activities, particularly on weekends. AnToList and football games, two activities that involved the entire campus, are some of the best times here at Notre Dame.Quad "parties" with bands would turn out a good crowd; hopefully the expansion of LaFortune will open up a place for dances and other campus functions when it opens. We should work together to get more campus activity, but at the same time support those functions by showing up at them.

I think better communication betweenthe student body and administration would help us more campu activity. The "th em" and "us" attitudes will change toward the University and they may get more involved. This would not just be the case for activities at football and basketball games, but always. A lot of people love being here, but many do not like it. By working together, there will be a better feeling toward Notre Dame and there will be more student activity.

To increase student interest in activities there should be more direct lines of com munication between students and planners of campus activities. They, in the past, have held traditional events, dances, etc.; in the future socials, etc. More communication with students might bring new ideas and different events. One way to do this is through a survey, voting for the activities which students would most interested in attend ing and in planning.

There should be more activities scheduled in Winter when there is not a lot to do. One idea would be to close off the first and second floors of the library and have a campus party.

The economy is not as rosy as it now seems

Just before the last presidential elec tion, someone told me why he was voting for Reagan. He loved his film "going for broke". He described him as a last-minute support for his favorite movie star. The result was a great job for the economy. A few white urban professional in an interview in Newsweek reasoned along similar lines, claiming that although her conscience told her to vote for Mondale because of his pro-abortion stance, her pocketbook told her to vote for Reagan (who overruled her conscience "by the way.")

in plain english

These views reflect the enormous con fidence that the majority of Americans have had in the unlimited destiny of our economy for at least the past three years. Our economic growth seems to have become a religion. The most popular sitcom in America today features a highly successful black gynecologist who, instead of being the graceful bill-paying family doctor he would have been in the 60's, luxuriates in a disguised symptom - it is essential that everybody's parade, if we do not pay at least some attention to the growing trade deficit which now exceeds two trillion dollars.

I would like to crush this party with the following question: is the eco nomy really as rosy as it looks? Were Reagan's economic policies a good reason to vote for him?

In 1932, Reagan would have been our salvation. Far from instituting a conserv ative belt-tightening crusade, his plan, to rush the country into a "Dynasty," or "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous," appears.

Today the economy seems to be humming along so smoothly that everywhere people are beaming with optimism and getting subscriptions to the Wall Street Journal. Only 10 years ago economists were so pessimistic they could have been fire-and-brimstone preachers. Just 15 years ago it seemed as though all of the lights of the country would go out the very next day and capitalism was supposed to have been exposed as an outdated system, soon to be replaced by something more "progressive." Today, now that the Soviet Union's economy staggered beneath the weight of its military expenditures and its nuclear reactors are blowing up, Communism no longer happens to be in fashion, however. Instead we have a grass-roots movement to make the chairman of Chrysler the next president of the United States.

we will have another record trade deficit this year. And we have not even begun to pay the bill on our trillion dollar credit card, whose interest along amounts to the third largest expense met by the U.S. taxpayer.

It is not that we are in this alone. If a crash on Wall Street sent the entire Western World into the Depression in 1929, the U.S. economy is an even more indispensable foundation to the global economy in 1986. Furthermore, for all its rhetoric, the Soviet bloc has indulged in basically the same policies as the Western nations of spend, spend and spend. Although I do not wish to rain on anybody's parade, if we do not pay at least some attention to the growing evidence that the brute-expansion solutions of the 30's are not working for the 80's, there may be no parade left to rain on. With studies showing that the scarcity of crucial resources is about to reach critical proportions - of which such things as the national debt may just be a disguised symptom - it is essential that our conception of progress starts to go beyond simply that of expanding the cruse bulk of our economy. If it does not, then this so-called age of Neo-Conservatism could, for all its high ambition, usher in an age of neo-feudalism.

Quote of the day

"Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God."

Matthew 5:8
Severe sanctions only solution to apartheid

Dear Editor:

In his Viewpoint article of September 10, Adam Millard argued against the use of economic sanctions by the United States as a method to bring the South African government to negotiate with that country's African majority. He argued that such measures would produce no effect on the deeply entrenched white government and would also hurt the population these measures would be intended to help.

I would like to suggest a contrary point of view, that such measures would produce an effect, but an effect that would be beneficial to both the African people and their government. The African people are suffering terribly under the apartheid system. Their government is also suffering from an inability to continue the apartheid system.

In fact, I believe that the South African government would be forced to negotiate with the African majority if economic sanctions were imposed. The sanctions would force the South African government to make concessions to the African majority, or they would lose economic support from the United States and other nations that oppose apartheid.

I therefore believe that economic sanctions are the only solution to the apartheid system.

Sincerely,

Eric Scheuermann

- Pittsburgh: it would have been a mistake to feel overconfident playing the Pittsburgh Steelers, especially in Three Rivers Stadium, but the Denver Broncos may have to guard against that tonight.

- The Broncos, 1-0, are six-point favorites. It is likely the point spread would have been higher if the Steelers weren't... well, the Steelers.

- But if one needs any statistics to argue that the present-day Steelers, 0-1, bear little resemblance to their four-time Super Bowl champion predecessors, consider these: the Steelers won their fourth Super Bowl in the 1979 season, the Steelers have won only one playoff game, against Denver in 1984. They were 7-9 last year, their first losing season in 14 years.

- The Steeleoorces offense ranks 28th in the National Football League after a 30-13 loss to the Seattle Seahawks, who allowed Pittsburgh inside their 35-yard line only once. It was the first opening to stop the Steelers' 54-year history.

- The Steelers offense hasn't generated a touchdown since the next-to-last game of the 1985 season.

- They have won only twice in their last 10 games, including preseason games. Their regular-season record is in last six regular-season games.

- Quarterback Mark Malone couldn't complete any of the seven passes he threw to star wide receiver Louis Lipps against Seattle. Malone was intercepted three times in completing only 9 of 27 passes, and his quarterback rating is 2.9, or 138 points lower than that of league-leading Ken O'Brien of the New York Jets.

- But if the Broncos believe they can easily repeat the Steelers at Pittsburgh for the third time in four seasons, nine of whom is in the air, it's not hurting them out in the air.

- "There is tradition in this game," defensive end Ruble Jones said. "If there's a rivalry for us outside of division, you have to point toward Pittsburgh. It's a long-standing and bitter rivalry.

- The Broncos scored 50 points against the Los Angeles Rams last Sunday but almost didn't win, escaping with a 30-26 victory.

- Quarterback John Elway threw two touchdown passes and caught another on a flicka flicker, and reserve linebacker Ken Woodard had seven tackles and a 16-yard fumble recovery touch- down.

- Steelers' linebacker Bryan Hinkle said the key to containing the Broncos' high-powered offense is stopping Elway.

- Denver's top passer, Johnson Foxton, is out for six weeks with a knee injury, forcing running back Steve Scuels to work at wide receiver.

- The Weekes were down to one healthy running back, recently signed free agent David Hughes, the fourth quartet against Seattle. But the Chargers (Stanley, Dr. Erikson, Eric Johnson and Frank Pollard) are in for their third in the last four.

- The Broncos won 51-25 at Pitt- burgh last season, scoring 21 fourth-quarter points. Denver is the only NFL team that owns an 11-0 record over the Steelers, but the Broncos are 26-0-1 in season openers.

- Denver's quarterback John Elway will take his 1-0 team into Pittsburgh tonight for an AFC battle against the winless Steelers.

Associated Press

To the players on the Chicago Bears defense, it was the return of a hero. Those same defenders made sure that Buddy Ryan did not come back to Chicago as a conquering hero.

It wasn't easy. The Bears were forced to overtime before recording a 13-10 NFL victory over the Philadelphia Eagles yesterday. Ryan, who devised the 46 Defense that the Bears mastered in winning the Super Bowl last year, left in January to become head coach of the Eagles.

Before the game, several Bears stopped to chat with Ryan. Afterward, middle linebacker Mike Singletary and Ryan embraced in the locker room.

"I wish you'd let that Buddy thing rest," linebacker Ollie Wilson said. "I'm glad it's over with. We beat him. He's 0-2 and we're 2-0."

Bears kicker Kevin Butler, who missed four of five field goal tries in regulation time, kicked a 25-yard, 5:56 into the extra period after Chicago's Crawford fumbled the kickoff to begin the overtime.

Walter Payton rushed 34 times for 172 yards and scored the Bears' only touchdown on a 1-yard dive. It was his 100th-career touchdown, putting him behind only John Riggins with 106 and Jim Brown with 104 among NFL rushers. He now has his 75-100-yard games in his career and 15-150 yards overall.

The Eagles forced overtime with a scoring pass from Ron Jaworski to Mike Quick.

Elsewhere yesterday, it was Cincinnati 36, Buffalo 33 in overtime; Cleveland 23, Houston 20; Dallas 31, Detroit 7; New Orleans 24, Green Bay 10; Washington 18, Los Angeles Raiders 6; Atlanta 33, St. Louis 13; and the New York Giants 20, San Diego 7.

In late games, it was the Los Angeles Rams 16, San Francisco 13-10; Minnesota 23, Tampa Bay 10; Miami 30, Indianapolis 10; and Seattle 23, Kansas City 17.

On Thursday, it was New England 20, the New York Jets 6. Monday night's game is Denver at Pittsburgh.

Chicago Bears' running back Walter Payton picked up his 15,000th-career rushing yard and his 100th-career touchdown yesterday as he led his Bears team to a 13-10 overtime win over the Philadelphia Eagles. A recap of all the day's NFL action appears on left.

Olympic heroes Breland, Biggs punch their way to easy victories

Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. - Former Olympic gold medalist Mark Breland, shown here celebrating after knocking out an opponent in a previous bout, did it again last night to challenger Reggie Miller. Breland's record improved to 14-0. Details of last night's fights appear below.

Breland, from New York City, the welterweight gold medalist in 1984, became 14-0 with nine knockouts as a pro.

Breland floored Miller of Lake Charles, La., with a right-hand barrage at 1:41 of the second round in a scheduled 10-round welterweight bout.

Biggs is 11-0 with seven knockouts, unloaded a torrent of body shots and left hooks to the head against Davis, who weighed 253 pounds.

"I felt no fear in the right hand," said Biggs, who suffered a broken collarbone in a March fight, so I've been able to knock them out."

Breland's record is now 18-6, including 11 knockouts.

BIGGS' RECORDS

Breland and Tyrell Briggs scored by first round.

Breland and Marcus Smith are both now 16-0.

DAVIS' RECORDS

Breland's record is now 14-0, with ten knockouts and four losses.

Reggie Miller is 13-5 with nine knockouts, one loss, and one draw.

Soccer team drops weekend opener to nationally-ranked Indiana, 2-0

By PETE GEGEN

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. - The Notre Dame soccer team played a good game, but it was not good enough as the 18th ranked Hoosiers defeated the Irish 2-0.

The game was never really dominated by one team. Indiana did have the better scoring chances, but they were foiled by the Notre Dame defense.

"They're a good team," Irish captain Steve Lowney said. "We made a couple of mistakes and they capitalized. But I thought we didn't back down."

The Irish was constantly put under pressure. They were outshot, 12-0, by the Hoosiers.

"We didn't feel bad about our performance," Dennis Grace. "We weren't intimidated by them. We should have felt better about our performance."

The Irish easily could have won the game. Midfielder Joe Sterngerb lost the ball in the penalty area, and Indiana's Chris Florian put it into the net at the 6:46 mark.

"They're a good team," Irish coach Steve Lowney said. "We made a couple of mistakes and they capitalized. But I thought we didn't back down."

In fact, the play on the field got more physical. The Irish out-possessed the Hoosiers, 20-12. The referee also issued three yellow cards, to Notre Dame's Tommy Gerbracht and to Indiana's Tim Hylla and Kevin Godat.

"The Irish apparently were not comfortable with the rough play," Stoyanovich remarked that his 24:52 time was "good enough for today," but even he realized the team must improve for future meets, especially the National Catholic Invitational, which will be run in two weeks.

Co-Captain Nick Mulvey, who finished seventh overall in the meet with a time of 25:44, was pleased with the team's showing, since he, Dan Garrett, and several others were injured to start the season.

While the loss does not help the team's chances of gaining an NCAA bid, it does show that Notre Dame, which lost to Indiana 4-0 last year, is approaching that level of play.

Junior defender Steve Lowney of the Notre Dame soccer team helped his squad improve its record to 4-1 on the season as it split a pair of weekend contests. Details appear on page 16 and page 15.

Soccer team drops weekend opener to nationally-ranked Indiana, 2-0

By DENNIS O'BRIEN

For Notre Dame men's cross country coach Joe Plane, the first meet of the season was more important than the second, which resulted in some mixed emotions.

While especially pleased with the times of three freshmen runners, Plane was less than impressed with the performance of senior John Guinigro, usually a force on offense, stayed pretty much on the defensive side of play. And the team slipped to the ground several times, as much as a result of stutter-stepping as it was the dam p field.

"We could have, and maybe even should have won the meet," said Plane, who is entering his 26th season as the Irish coach. "Some of our guys are capable of much more than they showed." It was, however, a close race, as the 38 points by the Irish was enough to fend off the Buckeyes 32-36 and wide ahead of the Spartans 59-36. Both Ohio State and Michigan State are strong contenders for the Big 10 title. "Both Ohio State and Michigan State," said Plane, "should finish in the top half of the Big Ten.""We're not a team that can win 4-0 every week."

If there was a bright spot for the Irish, it was in the perfor­mance of freshmen Mike Ragan, Tom O'Rourke and the overall winner in the meet, Mike O'Connor.

"I really was happy with the bench," Plane said. "All three freshmen today, " Plane remarked that this 24:52 time was "good enough for today," but even he realized the team must improve for future meets, especially the National Catholic Invita­tional, which will be run in two weeks.

Co-Captain Nick Mulvey, who finished seventh overall in the meet with a time of 25:44, was pleased with the team's showing, since he, Dan Garrett, and several others were injured to start the season.

"We should have won the meet, but the injuries are no excuse," said the junior Co­

"We need to be mentally prepared for Wednesday's game," said Grace. "We're down right now, but we came back today after Friday's loss. We will be ready for the game."...
Michigan, the Irish gave up after muffling the opening kickoff. Satturday, after muffing a kickoff and giving Michigan a 10-point lead, the Irish fought back.
The defense, which had allowed scoring drives of 80, 74, 78 and 27 yards, stiffened and held the Wolverines the rest of the way. And it forced the fumble which set up the last effort.
We didn't make any adjustments, said defensive tackle
Robert Farans, who was playing his first game at that position.
He added, "We just looked each other in the eye and said (that) we're not going to lay down and get rolled over.
And the offense, which had muffed the ball only to turn it over when it got close, kept coming back.
You know, we're going to bounce back," said Steve Beuer­ lein. "It's a loss, and it hurts right now. But come Monday, we're gonna be ready for Michigan State, and they better be ready to bounce back, " said Steve Beuer­ lein. "We didn't make any mistakes.
When Michigan fullback Bob
Perryman did make a costly error, though, fumbling away the ball with 1:33 left on the two-minute warning, John Kolesar caused by non tackle Mike Hoff's hit and recovered by defensive tackle Greg Mitchell, and final Notre Dame com­

McCourt's two goals key 3-2 Irish victory

Coming off a 2-0 loss to Indiana Friday (see related story on page 13), Notre Dame head soccer coach Dennis Grace was looking for his team to come back with a strong performance yesterday against Michigan.

While Grace did not get his wish, his team did get its fourth victory of the young season, a 3-2 win over the Wolverines. Irish striker Bruce "Tiger" McCourt's two goals, including the game-winner in the second half, propelled Notre Dame to the win.

"Although we won I was not happy with the play," said Grace. "The guys didn't play with their hearts in the game. They seemed caught up in other things.

Grace probably would exempt Randy Morris, who continued his ex- cellent play this season by registering 11 saves, or help from wingback Steve Lowery and midfielder John Guignon. Guignon also contributed offensively, scoring the first Irish goal of the game on a penalty kick in the first half.

McCourt's first goal came soon after the penalty kick. On a last three started deep in Irish territory, Randy Morris saw McCourt in the clear and sent the ball down. McCourt took control and fired it into the Michigan goal.

McCourt's second goal came shortly into the second half. This time
